u The Land being forsaken by Men, shall be possessed by Wild Beasts, which love solitary places. x What the Hebrew Words used here, and in the next Verse, signifie, the Learned may see in my Latin Synopsis; and for others, it may suffice to know that in which all the Learned agree, that these are frightful and solitary Creatures: Of which if I should particularly discourse, I should rather perplex than edifie the Vulgar Reader.

† Heb. Ziim. ‖ Or, Ijim. 22 And † the wild beasts of the islands shall cry in their ‖ desolate houses, and dragons in their pleasant places: and her time is near to come y, and her days shall not be prolonged z.

y So it was, though not according to Man's rash Judgment, and impatient Expectation, yet according to God's Estimation, and to the Eye of Faith, whereby Abraham saw Christ's Day as present, many Ages before it came: Joh. 8. 56. and comparatively; for it hapned within Two hundred years: which is but a small proportion of Time, if it be compared either with the foregoing or following Ages of the World, or with the immense duration of Eternity, from whence it was decreed by God, and therefore might well be said now to be near the Accomplishment of it. In like manner the Apostles speak of the Day of Judgment as near in their time, though it was at many Ages distance. z Beyond the time prefixed and appointed by God. Compare Habak. 2. 3.

CHAP. XIV.

Israel should be delivered from the Babyloniſh Captivity: Their triumphant Insultation over Babel. 1 — 13. God's purpose against Assyria 24 — 27. Palestina is threatned. 28 — 32.

FOR the LORD will have mercy on Jacob a, and
* *Zech. 1. 17. & 2. 12. * will yet chuse b Israel, and set them in their own land: and the stranger shall be joyned with them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jacob.

a God will pity and deliver his People; and therefore will destroy Babylon, which hinders it, and set up Cyrus, who shall promote it. b Will renew his Choice of them; for he had refused and rejected them. c So they did in part at their coming from Babylon, being thereunto moved either by the Favour which the Jews had in the Persian Court, or by the consideration of their wonderful Deliverance, and that exactly in the time designed by their Holy Prophets. But what was then begun, was more fully accomplished at the coming of the Messiah.

† Heb. shall take captives. 2 And the people shall take them, and bring them to their place: and the house of Israel shall possess them in the land of the LORD, for servants and hand-maids: and they shall take them captives, † whose captives they were, and they shall rule over their oppressours d.

d Which they might do literally, and sometimes did, after their Return into their own Land, either by their Power with the Persian Monarchs, as in the days of Cyrus and Darius, and especially of Ahasuerus; or by their own Prowess, as in the time of the Maccabees. But this was more evidently and eminently verified in a Spiritual Sense, in the days of the Gospel, when the Apostles and other Ministers, who were of the Jewish Nation, conquered a great part of the Gentile-world to the Worship and Obedience of their Messiah.

3 And it shall come to pass in the day that the LORD shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear e, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve:

e For besides their present hard Service, they were in perpetual fear of further Severities and Sufferings, at the Pleasure of their cruel Lords and Masters.

‖ Or, taunting speech. ‖ Or, exactness of gold. 4 That thou * shalt take up f this ‖ proverb against the King of Babylon, and say, How hath the oppressour ceased g? the ‖ golden city h ceased.

f Into thy Mouth, as it is fully expressed Psal. 50. 16. g This is spoken by way of Astonishment and Triumph, Who would have thought this possible? h As they used to call themselves; which therefore he expresseth here in a Word of their own Language.

* *Psal. 125. 3. 5 The LORD hath broken * the staff of the Wicked, and the scepter of the rulers i.

i This is an Answer to the foregoing Question. It is God's own Work, and not Man's; and therefore it is not strange that it is accomplished.

† Heb. a stroke without removing. 6 He who smote the people in wrath with † a continual stroke; he that ruled the nations in anger k, is persecuted, and none hindreth l.

k With Rigour and not with Clemency, as many Conquerours have done. l Neither the Babylonians themselves, nor their Confederates, could withstand the Power of the Medes and Persians.

7 The whole earth m is at rest and is quiet: they break forth into singing.

m The Inhabitants and Subjects of that vast Empire, who groaned under their cruel Bondage.

8 Yea, the fir-trees rejoyce at thee, and the cedars of Lebanon n, saying, Since thou art laid down, no feller is come up against us.

n Which were felled down for the service of her Pride and Luxury, but now are suffered to stand and flourish. It is a Figure usual in Sacred and Profane Writers, called Prosopopœia.

‖ Or, the grave. † Heb. leaders. ‖ Or, great goats. 9 ‖ Hell o from beneath is moved for thee, to meet thee at thy coming: it stirreth up the dead for thee, even all the † ‖ chief ones p of the earth; it hath raised up from their thrones q all the kings of the nations.

o Or, the grave, as the same Word is rendred v. 11. and in innumerable other places; to which he elegantly ascribeth Sense and Speech, as Poets and Orators frequently do. p Heb. the he-goats; which lead and govern the Flock. q From their several Graves, which he seems to call their thrones by way of Irony or Derision, the only Thrones now left to them. Thrones both paved and covered with Worms, as is noted v. 11. instead of their former Thrones made of Ivory or Silver, and adorned with Gold and Precious Stones.

10 All they shall speak and say unto thee, Art thou r become also weak as we? art thou become like unto us?

r Who wast King of Kings, and far superiour to us in Power and Authority, that didst neither fear God nor reverence Man, that didst slay whom thou wouldest, and keep alive whom thou wouldest, Dan. 5. 19.

11 Thy pomp is brought down to † the grave s, † Heb. hell. and the noise of thy Viols t: the worm is spread under thee u, and the worms cover thee.

s All thy Glory is lost and buried with thee. t All thy musical and melodious Instruments, which were much used in Babylon, Dan. 3. 5, 7, 10. and were doubtless used in Belshazzar's Solemn Feast, Dan. 5. 1. at which time the City was taken; to which possibly the Prophet here alludes. u In stead of those rich and stately Carpets upon which thou didst frequently tread.

‖ Or, O day-star. 12 How art thou fallen from heaven x ‖ O Lucifer y, son of the morning z? how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations?

x From the height of thy Glory and Royal Majesty. As Kings are sometimes called gods in Scripture, so their Palaces and Thrones may be fitly called their heavens. y Which properly is a bright and eminent Star, which ushers in the Sun and the Morning; but is here metaphorically taken for the high and mighty King of Babylon. And it is a very usual thing, both in Prophetical and in Profane Writers, to describe the Princes and Potentates of the World under the Title of the Sun or Stars of Heaven. Some understand this Place of the Devil; to whom indeed it may be mystically applied: But as he is never called by this Name in Scripture, so it cannot be literally meant of him, but of the King of Babylon, as is undeniably evident from the whole Context, which certainly speaks of one and the same Person, and describes him as plainly as words can do it. z The Title of son is given in Scripture not only to a Person or Thing begotten or produced by another, but also in general to any thing which is any way related to another; in which sense we read of a son of stripes, Deut. 25. 2. the son of a night, Jonah 4. 10. a son of perdition, Joh. 17. 12. and, which is more agreeable to the present Case, the sons of Arturus, Job 38. 32.

13 For thou hast said in thy heart, I will ascend into heaven a, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God b: I will sit also upon the mount of a I will advance my self above the State of a weak and mortal Man. Great Monarchs are easily induced, by their own vain Imaginations, and the Flattery of their Courtiers, to entertain an Opinion of their own Divinity; so far, that many of them have received and required Divine Worship to be paid to them. b Either, 1. above all other Kings and Potentates whom he hath set up; or, 2. above the most eminent Persons of God's Church and People, who are frequently called Stars, as Dan. 8. 10. Rev. 1. 16, 20. & 12. 1. which sense the next Words favour. c I will establish my Royal Throne upon Mount Sion, where the Jews meet together to worship God. d This is added as a more exact Description of the Place of the Temple, which stood upon Mount Moriah, which was northward from the Hill of Zion strictly so called, and was a part of the Hill of Zion largely so called. See on Psal. 48. 2.

14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds e; I will be like the most high f.

e To wit, into Heaven, as he said v. 13. f In the uncontrollableness of my Power, and the universal Extent of my Dominion over all the Earth.

15 Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit.

16 They that see thee, shall narrowly look upon thee g, and consider thee, saying, Is this the man that made the earth h to tremble; that did shake kingdoms?

g As hardly believing their own Eyes, because this Change seemed impossible to them. h All the Nations of the Earth.

17 That made the world as a wilderness, and destroyed the cities thereof; that ‖ opened not the house of his prisoners*?

‖ Or, did not let his prisoners loose homeward.

* Whereby he signifies both his irresistible Power, and his continued Cruelty. He neither was willing to give them any Liberty or Ease, nor could any force him to do it.

18 All the kings of the Nations, even all of them i lie in glory, every one in his own house k.

i Other Kings most commonly do, as the Word all is frequently used. k Are buried in their own Sepulchres, having stately Monuments erected to their Honour and Memory.

19 But thou art cast out of thy grave l, like an abominable branch m: and as the raiment n of those that are slain, thrust through with a sword, that go down to the stones of the pit o, as a carcase trodden under feet p.

l Or, cast from thy grave or burying-place. Which very probably hapned to Belshazzar, who was slain in the Night, Dan. 5. 30. when his People had neither opportunity nor heart to bestow an honourable Interment upon him, and the Conquerours would not suffer them to do it. m Like an useless and rotten Twig of a Tree, which he that pruneth the Trees cutteth off, and casteth away with abhorrency, and suffers to lie rotting more and more upon the Ground: Or, like a degenerate Plant of a noble Vine, which is abominable. n Which, being cut and mangled, and besmeared with Mire, and defiled with Blood, was cast away with contempt, and abominated as an unclean thing, as it was in divers respects, in that Age and State of the Church. o Which Persons being slain, they, together with their Garments, are cast into some Pit. He saith, to the stones of the pit, either because such Bodies are commonly thrown into the next pits, and pits were frequently made by digging Stones out of their Quarries; or because there usually are a great number of Stones in the bottoms of Pits, either naturally, or being cast in thither upon divers occasions; and when dead Bodies are cast in thither, men use to throw an heap of Stones upon them. p Neglected, like such a Carcass. Or, this might literally happen to Belshazzar's dead Body, through Military Fury and Contempt, or from other Causes.

* Job 18. 19. Psal. 21. 10. & 37. 28. & 109. 13.

q Not in place; for so the Kings of several Nations did not use to be joyned in the same Sepulchre; but in Condition, not be buried as they are. r Thou hast exercised great Tyranny and Cruelty, not only to thine Enemies, but even to thine own Subjects. Which it is more than probable Belshazzar did, and it is certain that his Parents and Predecessors had done, whose Sins contributed, together with his, to bring down God's Judgments upon that Empire. s Such as Belshazzar was, being descended from that Nebuchadnezzar who had made such horrid Slaughters and Devastations in the World, meerly to gratifie his own unsatiable Lusts, and who had been so impious towards God and his Temple, and so bloody towards his Church and People. t Or, shall not be renowned for ever. Although I have long born with thee and thy Family, and suffered them to get a great Name in the World, yet I will now put a period to the Renown of thy Family and Empire.

* Exo. 20. 5. Mat. 23. 35

21 Prepare slaughter for his children u * for the iniquity of their fathers x; that they do not rise y, nor possess the land, nor fill the face of the world with cities z.

u O ye Medes and Persians, cut off all the Branches of the Royal Family of Babylon. x In the Guilt whereof the Children are justly involved, partly because of that Community of Nature and Interest which is between Parents and Children, which makes them for the most part bear a share with them, as in their Rewards and Advantages, so also in their Punishments and Miseries; and partly because they justified their Sins by their Impenitency, and Imitation of their wicked Example. y i.e. Not recover their former Splendour and Power. z Erected by them, either as Instruments of Tyranny, to keep the Country round about them in Slavery, or as Monuments of their Power and Riches, as Babylon was, Dan. 4. 30.

22 For I will rise up against them, saith the LORD of hosts, and cut off from Babylon the name and remnant a, and son, and nephew, saith the LORD.

a The Remembrance of those that are dead, and the Persons of those who yet survive.

23 * I will also make it a possession for the bittern b, and pools of water c: and I will sweep it with the besom of destruction, saith the Lord of hosts.

b A great Water-Fowl, which thrusting its Bill into some broken Reed, or hollow thing, makes a great noise; which also delights in solitary places, as also in Waterish Grounds, such as those were about Babylon. Others render the Word Hedge-hog, or Porcupine: But this being not considerable in it self, nor at all necessary for the clearing of the Text, I shall not trouble the English Reader with any Discourse about it: And the Learned may consult my Latin Synopsis. c The Ground about Babylon was of it self very moist and waterish, because of the great River Euphrates running by it, which was kept from overflowing the Country with Charge and Labour; which being neglected, as it must needs be when the City was destroyed and dispeopled, it was easily turned into Pools of Water.

24 The LORD of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand.

d I will not repent of this Threatning, as I did of that against Nineveh, Jonah 3. 4, 10. And this solemn Oath is added to confirm the Faith of God's People, because otherwise the Destruction of this vast and mighty Empire might seem incredible. But it is to be diligently observed, that this Verse doth not only concern this present Prophecy of Babylon's Destruction by the Medes and Persians, but is also to be extended unto the foregoing Prophecy concerning the Overthrow of Sennacherib and the Assyrian Host, ch. 10. as appears by the next Verse, where the sum of that Prophecy is repeated. Nor is this any Digression, but very pertinent to the main Design and Business of this Chapter; inasmuch as the Overthrow of that great Assyrian Host, and of the Deliverance of God's People at that time, was a Pledge of the certain Accomplishment of that future Destruction of the City and Empire of Babylon, and of their Deliverance out of that Captivity.

25 * That I will break the Assyrian e in my land f, and upon my mountains g tread him under feet: then shall his yoke depart from off them, and his burden depart from off their shoulders h.

* Nah. 1. 11, 13.

e Sennacherib, and his Assyrian Army. f In Judea, which is my Land in a peculiar manner, being chosen by me, and consecrated to my Use and Service, and inhabited by my People. g In my Mountainous Country, for such Judea was, Deut. 8. 9. Psal. 133. 10. Ezek. 6. 2, 3. & 39. 2, 4, 17. especially about Jerusalem, Psal. 125. 2. upon some of which probably his Army was lodged. h Which Words are repeated from Isa. 10. 27. where they are explained.

26 This is the purpose that is purposed, upon the whole earth i: and this is the hand k that is stretched out upon all the nations.

i Upon this vast Empire, now in the hands of the Assyrians, and shortly to come into the hands of the Babylonians. The whole earth is put Synecdochically for a great part of it. k The Providence of God executing his purpose.

27 For the LORD of hosts hath * purposed, and who shall disanul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?

* 2 Chr. 20. 6. Job 9. & 23. 13. Psa. 33. 11. Prov. 19. 21. & 20. 30. Ch. 43. 13. Dan. 4. 35. * 2 Kin. 16. 20.

28 In the year that * king Ahaz died, was this burden l.

l This following burdensom Prophecy concerning the Philistines, who, in Ahaz his time, made an Inroad into Judah, and took divers of their Cities and Villages, 2 Chron. 28. 18.

29 Rejoyce not thou whole Palestina, because the rod of m him that smote thee is broken: for out of the serpent's root shall come forth a ‖ cockatrice, and his fruit shall be a fiery flying serpent n.

m Most understand this of Uzziah, who did then much mischief, 2 Chron. 26. 6. But he was dead Thirty two years before this time, and therefore their Joy for his Death was long since past. Others understand it of Ahaz: But he was so far from smiting them, that he was smitten by them, as was noted on v. 27. It seems better to understand it more generally, of the Royal Race, or foregoing Kings of Judah, who had been a terrible Scourge to them, whose Rod might be said to be broken, because that Scepter was come into the hands of slothful and degenerate Princes, such as Ahaz was, who had been lately broken by the Philistins, and who probably was alive when this Prophecy was delivered, because he here speaks of Hezekiah not as a present but as a future King. It is said indeed, that this burden was in the year that Ahaz died: But so it might be, though it was before his Death. n From the Root and Race of David shall come Hezekiah, who, like a Serpent, shall sting thee to death, as he did, 2 Kings 18. 8.

30 And the first born of the poor o shall feed p, and the needy shall lie down in safety: and I will kill thy root q with famine, and he shall slay thy remnant.

o The People of the Jews, who are brought to extreme poverty by the Cruelty, and the Malice of other Enemies. The First-born were the chief of all the Children. Hence the Title of first-born is given to Persons or Things which are most eminent in their kinds, as to the People of Israel, Exod. 4. 22. to David, Psal. 89. 27. to a grievous Death, Job 18. 13. and here to Persons eminently poor. p Shall have plenty of Provisions, in spight of all thine Attempts against them. q I will utterly destroy thee both Root and Branch, so that there shall not be a Remnant of thy People referred, as it follows. It is a Metaphor from a Tree, which for want of Nourishment is dried up by the Roots.

31 Howl, O gate r, cry, O city s, thou whole Palestina art dissolved t: for there shall come from the North u a smoke x, and ‖ none shall be alone in his † appointed times y.

r The gate is put either, 1. Metaphorically, for the People passing through the Gates, or for the Magistrates and others who used to meet in the Gate for Judgment, or upon other Occasions; or, 2. Synecdochically, for the City, as gates are commonly put, as Jer. 22. 19. and as it is explained in the next Words. s City, is here put collectively for their Cities, of which see 1 Sam. 6. 17. † Heb. melted. Which may be understood either, 1. of the fainting of their Spirits and Courage, as Exod. 15. 15. Josh. 2. 9, 24. &c. or, 2. of the Dissolution of their State. u Either, 1. from Judea; which lay Northward from some part of the Philistine Land. But in truth Judea lay more East than North from Palestine, and therefore the Philistines are said to be on the west, Isa. 11. 14. and never, so far as I remember, on the North: Or, 2 from Chaldea, as may be gathered, 1. from the Scripture use of this Phrase, which generally designs that Country, as Jer. 1. 14, 15, & 6. 1, 22. &c. 2. from Jer. 47. where Destruction is threatned to the Philistins from the North, v. 2. which all understand of the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar. And whereas it is speciously objected, That this suits not with the next Verse, which speaks of Zions Safety at the time of this Destruction of the Philistins, whereas Zion and the Land and People of Judah were destroyed together with the Philistins by Nebuchadnezzar; I humbly conceive it may be answered, That that Verse is added to express the far differing Condition of God's People, and of the Philistins in the Events of that Babylonian War; and that whereas the Philistins should be irrecoverably and eternally destroyed thereby, and no remnant of them should be left, as was said v. 30. God's People, though they should be sorely scourged, and carried into Captivity, yet they should be strangely preserved, and after some years delivered, and restored to their own Land and Temple; whereby it would appear, that Zion stood upon a sure Foundation, and, albeit it was grievously shaken, yet it could not be utterly and finally overthrown. x A grievous Judgment and Calamity, which is oft signified by smoak, as Gen. 15. 17. Deut. 29. 20. Joel 2. 30. either because smoke is generally accompanied with Fire, or because it causeth a great Darkness in the Air; for Afflictions are frequently described under the names of fire and darkness. y When God's appointed time shall come for the execution of this Judgment, not one Person of all that numerous Army, which is signified by the smoke last mentioned, shall retire and desert his Colours, or lag behind the rest; But they shall march with great unanimity and alacrity, and none of them shall withdraw his hand till the Work be finished, till the Philistins be utterly destroyed.

32 What shall one then answer the messengers of the nation z? That * the LORD hath founded Zion, and * the poor of his people shall ‖ trust in it a.

z What shall a Jew say to the People of other Nations, who shall either be sent or come to enquire concerning the State of Zion in that day, when not only the Philistins, but even the Jews themselves, shall fall by the hands of one and the same Enemy? Nation is put collectively for nations, as gate and city for gates and cities in the foregoing Verse. a They shall give them this answer, That although Zion at present be in a very distressed and deplorable condition, and seems to be forsaken by her God, yet she stands upon a firm Foundation, and God who first founded her, will again restore and establish her, and his poor despised People shall resort to her, as to a strong and sure Refuge.

CHAP. XV.

The Destruction of Moab. 1,—9.

THE burden of Moab a: Because in the night b Ar c of Moab is laid waste, and ‖ brought to silence d; because in the night Kir e of Moab is laid waste, and brought to silence:

a A Prophecy of the Destruction of the Moabites, the inveterate and implacable Enemies of the Jews, begun by the Assyrian, and finished by the Babylonian Empercurs. b Or, in a night, suddenly and unexpectedly; for Men sleep securely in the Night, and therefore the Evils which then overtake them, are most terrible to them. c The Chief City of Moab, Numb. 21. 28. Deut. 2. 9. d Or rather, is cut off, as the word oft signifies, as Jer. 47. 5. Hos. 10. 9, 15. and elsewhere. e Another eminent City of Moab, called more largely and fully Kir-heres, and Kir-haresheth, Isa. 16. 7, 11. Jer. 48. 31, 36.

2 He is gone up to Bajith f, and to Dibon g, the high places, to weep h: Moab shall howl over Nebo, and over Medeba i, * on all their heads shall be baldness, and every beard cut off k.

* Which signifies an house. It is supposed to be the Name of a Place so called from some eminent House or Temple of their Idols which was in it. It is called more fully Beth-baal-meon, that is, The house of Baal's habitation, Jos. 13. 17. g Another City of Moab, as is manifest from Jer. 48. 18, 22. where also was their other eminent High-places. To these two Places they used to resort in case of great Difficulties and Troubles. h To offer their Supplications with Tears to their Idols for help. i Two considerable Cities, anciently belonging to the Moabites, from whom they were taken by the Amorites, and from them by the Israelites; and possessed by the Reubenites, Numb. 21. 30. & 32. 2, 38. but were, as it seems, recovered by the Moabites, in whose hands they now were, as is evident, for Nebo, Jer. 48. 1, 22. and for Medeba, from this Text. k The Hair of their Heads and Beards (which was their Ornament) was shaved, as was usual in great Mournings, as hath been oft observed upon divers preceding Texts. See on Levit. 19. 27, 28. & 21. 5.

3 In their streets they shall gird themselves with sack cloth; l: on the tops of their houses m, and in their streets n, every one shall howl † weeping abundantly.

l This was another practice of Mourners. m Which were made flat, Deut. 22. 8. to which Men used to go up, either to walk, or to cry to God in Heaven or to Men for Help. n Publickly, without shame; whereas in ordinary Sorrows men are wont to seek secret Places for their Mourning.

4 And Heshbon shall cry, and Elealeh: their voice shall be heard even unto Jahaz p: therefore the armed souldiers q of Moab shall cry out, his life shall be grievous unto him r.

o Two other Moabitish Cities; of which see Numb. 21. 25, 26. & 32. 3. 37. p Another City in the utmost Borders of Moab, Numb. 21. 23. called also Jahazah, Jos. 21. 36. q Who should be and use to be the most couragious. r The Moabites shall generally long for death, to free themselves from those dreadful Calamities which they perceive unavoidably coming upon them.

5 My heart shall cry out for Moab; ‖ his fugitives s shall flee unto Zoar u, an * heifer of three years old x: for by the mounting up of Luhith with weeping shall they go it up: for in the way of Horonaim, they shall raise up a cry y of † destruction z.

s Their Destruction approaching is so dreadful, that although they are a most vile Nation, and by their implacable Enmity against God and his People do abundantly deserve it, yet the respect which I have to Humane Nature fills me with Horrour at the very thoughts of it. Compare Isa. 86. 11. t Or, his bars, as others render it, and as this Word is frequently taken, as Exod. 26. 26, 27. Psal. 107. 16. &c. whereby we may understand their valiant Men, or their Princes and Rulers: who as they are called the shields of the earth, Psal. 47. 9. because, like Shields, they do, or should defend their People; so for the same reason they may be called Bars, because Bars are the strength of the Gates of Cities or Castles, and therefore are mentioned as such, Psal. 147. 13. Prov. 18. 19. Jer. 51. 30. u Or, shall cry unto Zoar; either shall cry as they go along the way, even till they come to Zoar; or, shall cry, so as they may be heard to Zoar: which may easily be understood out of the foregoing Verse. Zoar was a Town bordering upon Moab; of which see Gen. 19. 20, 21, 22. & Deut. 34. 3. x Which some underland of the City of Zoar, so called for her Strength and Wantonness. But such a Description of Zoar seems very improper and impertinent in this place. The words therefore are to be translated here, as they are by our Translators, Jer. 48. 34. as an heifer of three years old; and so they belong to their Cry, and signifie that it is strong and loud, like that of such an Heifer. y He signifies, that the Cry should be universal, in all places where they come, and reaching from one side of the Country to another. Of Luhith, see Jer. 48. 4, 5. z Such a Cry as Men send forth when they are just falling into the Pit of Destruction.

a Either, 1. properly, they shall be dried up; or, 2. figuratively, the Waterish Grounds, as waters seem to be taken, Eccles. 11. 1. Isa. 32. 20. Those being very fruitful, are commonly most inhabited and cultivated; but now they also, and much more the dry and barren Grounds, shall be desolate, and without Inhabitant. b By the just and special Judgement of God. Thus God and Man conspire together to destroy them.

7 Therefore the abundance they have gotten, and that which they have laid up, shall they c carry to the ‖ brook of the willows d.

c To wit, their Enemies; which is plainly implied. d Unto some Brook or River having great numbers of Willows growing by it, by which they might convey them to some eminent and strong City built upon the same River. Possibly he means some such River which ran into Euphrates, and so gave them opportunity of carrying their Spoils by Water unto Babylon. Though the Words may be rendred, into the valley of the Arabians; whither the Spoils might be first carried, in order to their Transportation into Assyria or Chaldea: for part of Arabia lay between Moab and those Countries. But the former Translation seems better, because these very Words are so rendred, Levit. 23. 40.

8 For the cry is gone round about the borders of Moab: the howling thereof unto Eglaim, and the howling thereof unto Beer-elim e.

e Their Cry fills all the parts of the Country.

9 For the waters of Dimon f shall be full of Blood: † Heb. additions.
for I will bring † more g upon Dimon, lions upon him that escapeth of Moab h, and upon the remnant of the land.

f This seems to be the same place with Dibon mentioned v. 2. here called Dimon for the great bloodshed in it, as it here follows; such changes of a Letter being not unusual in Proper Names, as in Merodach for Berodach, Isa. 39. 1. g Either, 1. more than upon other parts of the Country, that being one of their High-places, v. 2. or rather, 2. more than hath been already mentioned. h God shall send Lions to find out those that escape the Fury of Men.

CHAP. XVI.

The Moabites exhorted to entertain kindly the banished Jews: 1,—5. They are threatned for their pride and arrogance, 6, —8. the Prophet bewaileth them, 9, — 11. their judgment, 12,— 14.

‖ Or, of the ruler. SEnd ye the lamb ‖ to the ruler of the land a, from ‖ † Sela b to the wilderness c, unto the mount of the daughter of Zion d:

a The Prophet continues his Prophecy against Moab in this Chapter, and here turneth his Speech to them, and gives them Counsel what to do, to prevent, if possible, the threatned Desolation. In these first Words he adviseth them to the Practice either, 1. of Justice: Pay that Tribute of Lambs and Goats which you obliged your selves to pay unto David, and to his Posterity, 2 Sam. 8. 2. and pay it not unto Israel, as you have done, 2 Kings 3. 4. but unto the King of Judah, who is the rightful Heir of David, and King of the Land: Or, 2. of Piety: Send a Lamb, for a Sacrifice, unto God, who is Ruler of the Land; to wit, of your Land no less than of ours, or of the earth, as the Word is commonly rendred, who is the God of the whole earth, as he is called Isa. 54. 5. the God of all the kingdoms of the earth, Isa. 37. 16. Make your Peace with God, by Sacrifice, for all your Injuries done to him, and to his People. These Words may be understood Ironically, and the Design of them may be to represent their miserable and desperate Condition; as if he had said, You have tried all other ways, and sought to your Idols, ch. 15. 2. and all in vain; now seek to the God of Israel, who alone can help you. But, alas! he is highly incensed against you, and coming to destroy you. But this seems rather to be a serious Advice, by comparing these Words with v. 3, 4. b An eminent City of Moab, seated upon a Rock, which is here named, either because the King and his Court at this time resided there, or for some other Reason then evident, though now unknown. c To the Wilderness of Moab, of which we read Numb. 21. 11. Deut. 2. 8. and so onward to Zion, as it follows. Or, this may be added as a Description of the Place called Sela. Hence some render the Words, Sela of the wilderness; and others, Sela which lieth or looketh towards the wilderness. And this Limitation might be the more necessary, to distinguish this from other Places of Moab called by the same name, which, signifying a rock, might be common to several Places in that Rocky Country. d Unto the Temple upon Mount Zion.

‖ Or, a nest forsaken. 2 For e it shall be that as a wandring bird ‖ cast out of the nest f, so the daughters of Moab shall be at the fords of Arnon g.

e Or, otherwise, as this Particle is sometimes used; if you do not follow my advice. f Which knows not whither to go, nor what to do. g Which was the Border of the Land of Moab, where they were, either being carried that way into Captivity, or rather with design to flee out of their own Land, although they knew not whither, as the foregoing Metaphor sheweth.

h Consider seriously among your selves what course to take to prevent your utter Ruine. i Do those things which are just and right, as to all men, so particularly to my People, to whom you have been most unrighteous and unmerciful. k Or, or the shadow of the night, large and dark, as the Shadow of the Earth is in the Night-season. The meaning is, Conceal and protect my People in the time of their Distress and Danger, as this Metaphor is explained in the rest of this, and in the following Verse. l Mine out-casts, as it follows v. 4. those of my People which are driven out of their Land. m Unto their Enemies, as thou hast treacherously done in former times.

n Whom though I have forsaken, and sorely chastened, yet I do, and still will, own for my People; and I do observe, and will requite, both the Kindnesses and the Injuries done to them. o Shall shortly be destroyed, and my people shall e're long be restored, and then thou wilt not lose the Fruit of thy Kindness. The Present Tense is put for the Future, as it is usually in Prophecies.

* Dan. 7. 14,27. Mic. 4. 7. Luk. 1. 33. ‖ Or, prepared. 5 And in mercy p * shall the throne q be ‖ established, and he r shall sit upon it in truth s, in the tabernacle t of David, judging and seeking judgment u, and hasting righteousness x.

p By my Mercy. Though they have sinned, and I am now punishing their Sins, yet I will deliver them for my own Mercies sake. q The Kingdom of Judah. Therefore for thine own sake shew them Kindness in this day of their distress; for they will be capable of requiting thee. r Their King, which is easily and necessarily understood. s Which may respect either 1. the Manner of his Government, exercising Truth and Justice: But that is more plainly and fully expressed in the last part of the Verse. Or, 2. the Continuance of it, in truth, i. e. firmly and constantly; for truth is oft put for the stability and certainty of a thing, as 2 Chron. 32. 1. Prov. 11. 18. Isa. 61. 8. And this makes the Argument more considerable to the present purpose. The Kingdom shall not only be restored, but firmly settled: Therefore it is your Interest, O Moabites, to be kind to my People. t In the House, or Palace, which is called a tent, or tabernacle, either because Houses are frequently so called in Scripture, as 2 Sam. 20. 1. 1 Kings 8. 66. & 12. 16. or with respect unto the unsettledness of David's House, which now indeed was more like a Tabernacle than a strong Palace; and yet notwithstanding its present Imbecility, should be firmly established. u Seaching out the Truth of Causes and things with care and diligence, which is the Duty of a Judge. x Neither delaying, nor yet delaying Justice. And these good Qualifications seem to be here mentioned, partly to teach the Rulers of Moab their Duty towards their own People, and the Israelites which were among them; and partly as a Reason and Evidence of that Stability which he had promised to the House of David.

6 We have heard of the * pride of Moab y, (he * Jer. 29. 23. is very proud) even of his haughtiness, and his pride, and his wrath: but his lies shall not be so z.

y The Prophet, having spoken to the Moabites, and acquainted them with their Duty and Interest, now he turneth his Speech to God's People, whom he armeth and comforteth against their approaching Misery. The scope and sense of the Propet in this Verse is this, I do not expect that my Counsels will have any good effect upon Moab, they will still carry themselves insolently and outragiously towards you, and they promise themselves that they shall now effect what they have long desired, even satisfie their Malice in your total and final Destruction; but they shall be disappointed of their Hopes. It is well known to me, and you, and all their Neighbours, that they are a haughty and furious People, and therefore they will scorn my Advice, and doubt not to stand upon their own Legs. z His vain Imaginations, and false and crafty Counsels, shall not take effect. But the Words are and may be otherwise rendred, But his strength (as this Word is rendred Job 18. 13. Heb. bars, which are the Strength of Gates or Doors) is not so, not equal to his Pride or Fury. Or thus, exactly according to the Words and Order of the Hebrew Text, not so liers. A coniste Speech, such as are very common in this and other Prophets. And these Words may possibly be brought in as the Words of the Moabites, making this short Reply to the Prophets Counsels and Threatnings, directed to them in the foregoing Verses of this Chapter: It is not or shall not be so as thou sayst; thy Words are but Lies, we fear not thy Threats against us. But this I propose with submission.

7 Therefore shall Moab * howl for Moab a, every * Jer. 48. 20. ‖ Or, ter. one shall howl: for the foundations of Kirhareseth b shall ye ‖ mourn c, surely they are stricken d.

a For it self, the Noun put for the Pronoun, as is usual in the Hebrew Text. Or, to Moab. One Moabite shall howl or lament to or for another. b An ancient and eminent City of Moab, called Kir, chap. 13. 1. and Kir-hareseh, v. 11. which signifies, The city of the sun; probably because there was the Temple of the Sun: which City was preserved when their other Cities were ruined, 2 Kings 3. 25. and therefore the Destruction of it was more lamented. c Or, ye shall meditate or talk, as this Word commonly signifies. Your Thoughts and Discourses will run much upon the Ruine of such a City. d Or, broken, overthrown or destroyed.

8 For the fields of Heshbon languish e, and the vine of Sibmah, the lords of the heathen f have broken down the principal plants g thereof, they are come even unto Jazer h, they wandered through the wilderness i, her branches k are ‖ stretched out l, they are gone over the sea m. ‖ Or, ed sq.

e Either for want of Rain, as chap. 15. 6. or because there are no men left to till and manure them. f The Assyrians or Chaldeans, the great Rulers of the Eastern Nations. g The choicest Vines. Under which one Particular he seems to understand not only all other Fruits and Goods, but even their Persons and choicest People. h Either, 1. the Lords of the Heathen are come as far as Jazer, which is the utmost Border of Moab; or, 2. the People of Moab are going into Captivity, and part of them are already gone as far as Jazer. Some understand this and the following Clauses of the Vines, which are here commended, to aggravate the Loss and Ruine of them, and render the Words, which reached even unto Jazer, which Vineyards were planted for many miles together, even as far as Jazer. i Others of the Moabites fled away for their Lives, and wandred hither and thither in the Wilderness of Moab; of which see Numb. 21. 11. Deut. 2. 8. k i. e. Her People, called plants before. l Or, are spread abroad, as this Word signifies Numb. 11. 32. Judg. 15. 9. 1 Sam. 30. 16. are driven from their own Homes, and dispersed into several Countries. m Over the Dead Sea, which was the Border of Moab. They were forced to flee out of their own Country to save their Lives.

9 Therefore I will bewail with the weeping of Jazer, the vine of Sibmah n: I will water thee with my tears, O Heshbon, and Elealeh: for ‖ the shouting for thy summer fruits, and for thy harvest is fallen o. ‖ Or, alarm n So the sense is, I will bewail Sibmah as I did bewail Jazer, which, they say, was destroyed before Sibmah: Or, the weeping of Jazer might be a Proverbial Expression; for it is used also Jer. Jer. 48. 32. like that of the mourning of Hadadrimmon, Zech. 12. 11. Though the Reason of it be now unknown, as it is in many other Proverbs. The Words are by others rendred, and that more agreeably to the Hebrew Text, I will bewail with weeping (which is an usual Hebraism for, I will bitterly bewail) Jazer, and (which Particle is oft understood) the vine of Sibmah. But our Translation seems to be justified by the parallel Place, Jer. 48. 32. where it is, O vine of Sibmah, I will weep for thee with the weeping of Jazer. o Those joyful Shouts and Acclamations which were customary in the time of Harvest and Vintage, Isa. 9. 3. Jer. 25. 30. shall cease, because thy Land shall be wasted, and thy People destroyed. Or, as it is in the Margin, the shout or alarm is fallen upon thy summer-fruits and thy Harvest, instead of that joyful Shout which was then used, to which he here alludes. Which seems to be the truer Translation, not only because this Hebrew Word is elsewhere used concerning the shout of an Enemy falling upon a People, as Jer. 25. 30. & 51. 14. but especially by considering the parallel Place, Jer. 48. 32. where, for the shout is fallen, it is, the spoiler is fallen upon, &c. If it be objected, That the next Verse speaks of the ceasing of their joyful Shouts, and that this Hebrew Word is there used for vintage-shouting, which at first made me incline to the former Interpretation; that seems to be fully answered from Jer. 48. 33. which speaks likewise of the ceasing of their Joy and joyful Shouts, but withal adds, in the close of the Verse, what may end this Controversie, their shouting shall be no shouting; they shall indeed have a Shouting, but not such an one as they used to have, a joyful Shouting of their own People, but an insulting Shout of their Enemies.

10 And * gladness is taken away, and joy out of the plentiful field, and in the vineyards there shall be no singing, neither shall there be shouting: the treaders p shall tread out no wine in their presses; I have made their vintage-shouting to cease. * Jer. 48. 33.

p In those times they used to squeeze out the Juyce of their Grapes by treading them with their Feet, in Vessels appointed for that use, Judg. 9. 27. Neh. 13. 15.

11 Wherefore my bowels shall sound q like an harp for Moab, and mine inward parts for Kirhareseh.

q Through compassion to them: of which see on Isa. 15. 5. In excessive Griefs the Bowels are sometimes rolled and tumbled together, so as to make an audible noise. Hereby he signifies the greatness of their approaching Calamitie, which being so grievous to him, must needs be intolerable to them.

12 And it shall come to pass, when it is seen that Moab is weary * on the high place r, that he shall come to his Sanctuary s to pray, but he shall not prevail t. * Or, upon the high place

r When it shall appear to them and others, that all their other Devotions are vain and ineffectual. s To the Temple of his great God Chemosh, Numb. 21. 29. 1 Kings 11. 7. Jer. 48. 46. from whom he shall seek and expect Succour. t His God can neither hear nor help him.

13 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken concerning Moab † since that time u.

u Since the beginning of God's Revelation to me concerning Moab, and hitherto. Which Exposition seems to be confirmed by the following Words, But now.

14 But now the LORD hath spoken x, saying, Within three years y, * as the years of an hireling z, and the glory of Moab a shall be contemned b, with all that great multitude c; and the remnant shall be very small and ‖ feeble d. * Isa. 21. 16.

x Hath made this further discovery of his Mind to me. y To be computed either, 1. from the time of Jerusalems Destruction by Nebuchadnezzar, who did, as is confessed by all, invade the Moabites at or about that time, and execute the Judgment first foretold by this Prophet, and afterwards by Jeremy, ch. 48. or rather, 2. from the time of the Delivery of this Prophecy. Which, being uncertain, leaves us the greater Latitude for the determination of the precise time when this was fulfilled. But this is certain, from Isa. 1. 1. that this Prophecy must be delivered, at farthest, before the end of Hezekiah's Reign. And then there ariseth this great Difficulty, How this can consist with the Prophecy of Jeremiah, who above or about an hundred years after this time speaketh of Moab as a People that had been at ease from their youth, and had not gone into captivity, Jer. 48. 11. and prophesieth against them in the very same words which Isaiah useth in this Prophecy? The Answer is, That they do not speak of the same time, nor of the same Calamity; but Isaiah of a former Tribulation, and Jeremiah of their latter Devastation. It is true, Jeremiah useth the same words which Isaiah doth, and so do the later Prophets sometimes use the words of the former, to other purposes than they were first delivered, as we shall see hereafter, and as is most evident from the Revelation of St. John, in which the same words are used concerning Mystical Babylon, which were used by the foregoing Prophets concerning the first and literal Babylon. And although the foregoing Prophecy of Isaiah seems to speak of the same Destruction threatned by Jeremiah, and inflicted by Nebuchadnezzar; yet this Prophecy contained in this Verse, and ushered in with another Preface, seems to be of a differing nature, and to speak of a more speedy and less grievous Affliction that should befall them, which should be as a Pledge to assure them of the certain Accomplishment of the other Prophecy, and of their utter Destruction. And therefore it is observable, that the Prophet doth not here fix Within three years as all that I have foretold and threatned shall be fulfilled; but only, the glory of Moab shall be contemned, &c. which is quite another thing; and as the Terms here used are much milder, so the Judgment here denounced seems much less, than in the foregoing Prophecy. And therefore this Verse may very well be understood of some great Blow given to the Moabites, either by Sennacherib, or by his Son Esarhaddon, from which notwithstanding they in a little time recovered themselves, and flourished again, and continued to do so, till Nebuchadnezzar completed their Destruction. And this may well enough consist with what is said of Moab's being at ease from his youth, Jer. 48. 11. which is not to be understood simply as if they had been wholly free from War and other Calamities; for the contrary is evident both from Scripture, as 2 Sam. 8. 2. 2 Kings 3. 24, 25. and from other Histories: but comparatively, that they had not been brought to Desolation, nor carried away into Captivity, as it is explained in the following Words, and as Israel had been at that time, and Judah was threatned to be. z i. e. Within three years precisely accounted; for Hirelings are very punctual in observing the time for which they are hired; and their Thoughts and Desires run much upon it, because then they are to receive their Wages: of which see Job 7. 1, 2. & 14. 6. And this Exposition is confirmed by comparing this Place with Isa. 21. 16. where the same Phrase is used of one year. So grounded less is that Opinion which the Jewish Writers gather from this Place, compared with Deut. 15. 18. That three years was the usual and appointed time for the generality of hired Servants. a Their Strength, and Wealth, and other things in which they glory. b Shall be made contemptible to those who formerly admired them. c With the great numbers of their People, of which they boasted. d Comparatively to what they were before. Which might be very true, and yet afterwards, in an hundred years space, they might be sufficiently recruited.

CHAP. XVII.

Damascus, Samaria, Israel and their Cities to be ruined by the Assyrians, 1,—3. a Remnant shall consider and Repent, 4,—8. the Rest plagued for their impiety, 9. 12. the Woe of Israel's Enemies, 12,—14.

THE burden of Damascus a: Behold Damascus is * taken away from being a City, and it shall be a ruinous heap b. * Jer. 49. 23. Amos 1. 3. Zech. 9. 1.

a Both of that City and Kingdom, as appears from v. 2, 3. b This was fulfilled by Tiglath-pileser, 2 Kings 16. 9. although afterwards it was re-edified and possessed by another sort of Inhabitants.

2 The cities of Aroer c are forsaken: they shall be for flocks which shall lie down, and none shall make them afraid d.

c Of that part of Syria called Aram, from a great City of that name; of which see Deut. 2. 36. Jos. 13. 12. These Cities were possessed by the Reubenites and Gadites; whom Tiglath-Pileser carried into Captivity, 1 Chron. 5. 26. These he mentions here, as he doth Ephraim in the next Verse, because they were Confederate with Syria against Judah. d Because the Land shall be desolate, and destitute of Men who might disturb them.

3 The fortress also e shall cease from Ephraim, and the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Syria f: they shall be as the glory * of the children of Israel, saith the LORD of hosts. * Or, and from e Either Samaria, their chief Fortress; or all their Fortresses or Strong Holds, the Singular Number being put for the Plural; or all their Strength and Glory; which answers to the Kingdom in the next Clause. f Or, and from (which Particle is easily understood from the former Clause) the remnant of Syria. So the sense is, The Remainders of Damascus and Syria shall be an Headless Body, a People without a King. * An Ironical Speech, implying their contemptible Condition; for their Glory is supposed to be departed from them, by what he had already said of them. The sense is, Syria shall have as much Glory as Israel, i. e. neither of them shall have any at all.

4 And in that day it shall come to pass, that the glory of Jacob shall be made thin g, and the fatness of his flesh shall wax lean.

g Or, shall be emptied, as this Word is rendred, Isa. 19. 6.

5 And it shall be as when the harvest-man gathereth the corn, and reapeth the ears with his arm h; and it shall be as he that gathereth ears in the Valley of Rephaim i.

h Taking care, as far as may be, that all may be gathered in, and nothing left. So shall the whole Body of the Ten Tribes be carried away Captive, some few Gleanings only being left of them, as it is in the Harvest. i A very fruitful Place near Jerusalem, Jos. 15. 8. & 18. 16.

6 * Yet gleaning-grapes shall be left in it k, as the * Chap. 24. 13. shaking of an olive-tree, two or three berries in the top of the uppermost bough, four or five in the outmost fruitful branches thereof, saith the LORD God of Israel.

k Some few Israelites were left after their Captivity, who joined themselves to the Kingdom of Judah, and were carried Captive to Babylon with them, from whence also they returned with them, as we find in the History of their Return in Ezra and Nehemiah.

7 At that day shall a man l look to his maker m, and his eyes shall have respect to the holy One of Israel.

l Those few Men that are left. m They shall discern it's respect, and trust, and care for (all which are understood by looking to) God, and God only, as the next Verse explains it. These Afflictions shall at last bring them to Repentance.

8 And he shall not look to the altars n, the work of his hands o, neither shall respect that which his fingers have made, either the groves p, or the images q.

n Not resort or trust to them, or to the worship offered to Idols upon them. o Their own Inventions; not otherwise the Altars made by God's Command were the Work of Mens Hands. p Which were devised and planted by Men, as fit Places for the Worship of their Gods; and therefore were forbidden, Deut. 16. 21. 1 Kings 14. 15. q Worshipped in their Groves. The word properly signifies images of the Sun, either having the Form and Shape of the Sun, or at least erected to his Honour and Worship; of which see Deut. 4. 19. & 17. 3. 2 Kings 23. 5. 11. Jer. 8. 2. & 7. 18. Ezek. 6. 4. 6. 17. 18.

9 In that day r shall his strong cities be as a forsaken bough, and an uppermost branch s; which they left, because of the children of Israel t: and there shall be desolation.

r In the day of Jacob's Trouble, of which he spake v. 4. and continueth his Speech unto these Words, and afterwards; s Which he that pruneth the Tree neglecteth, either because he esteems it useless and inconsiderable, or because he cannot reach it. t The sense is, either, 1. Which they, to wit, the Enemies, left, or, which shall be left (the Active Verb being put Impersonally, as it frequently is in the Hebrew Text) because of or for the children of Israel; which God inclined their Hearts to leave or spare, out of his Love to his Israel. Thus this is mentioned as a Mercy, or Mitigation of the Calamity. But this seems not to agree either with the foregoing or following Words, both which manifestly speak of the greatness of the Judgment. And that their strong Cities were not left for them, but taken from them, seems evident from v. 3. 4. Or, 2. As the Cities (which Words are easily understood out of the former part of the Verse, where they are expressed) which they (to wit, the Canaanites, as the Seventy Interpreters express it; and it was needless to name them, because the History was so well known to them for whom the Prophet writes) left or forsook (which they did either by departing from them, or being destroyed out of them) because of (or before, or for fear of) the children of Israel. And this was a very fit Example, to awaken the Israelites to a serious belief of this Threatning, because God had inflicted the same Judgment upon the Canaanites, and that for the same Sins of which they were guilty.

10 Because thou u hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and hast not been mindful of the rock of thy strength x: therefore shalt thou plant pleasant plants y, and shalt set it with strange slips:

u O Israel: x That God who was thy only sure Defence. y Excellent Flowers and Fruit-trees. z Fetched from far Countries, and therefore highly esteemed. The sense is, Thou shalt use much Industry and Cost, but to no purpose, as it follows.

11 In the day shalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning shalt thou make thy seed to flourish a: but the harvest shall be ‖ a heap in the day of grief, and of desperate sorrow b.

a Thou shalt from day to day, beginning early in the Morning, use all Care and Diligence that what thou hast planted and sown may thrive; and thou shalt see some Effect of thy Labours, and some hopes of Success. b The sense of the word thus rendred is this; But in the time of your grief, &c. or when this grievous Calamity shall come, all your Harvest shall be but one heap, which in it self is very inconsiderable, and is easily carried away by your Enemies. But the Places and may be otherwise rendred, and that very agreeably both to the Words and Order of the Hebrew Text; But the heap (or, heaps, the Singular Number being most commonly put for the Plural) of the harvest (i. e. in stead of those Heaps of Corn which thou didst expect, and which Men usually reap in Harvest) in the day or time (to wit, of the Harvest; or, in the day of Calamity, of which I have spoken, v. 4. 9. or, in a day i. e. speedily or suddenly) shall be (or, thou shalt have) grief and desperate sorrow. This shall be all thy Harvest, and the Event of thy Labours.

12 Woe to the ‖ multitude of many people d, which make a noise like the noise of the seas e; and to the rushing of nations, that make a rushing like the rushing of ‖ mighty waters.

c This is a new Prophecy, added for the present support and comfort of God's People. d Combined together against Judah. It matters not whether you understand this of the Syrians and Israelites who were united against Judah, or of the Assyrians, whose Army consisted of vast numbers, and of men of several Nations. The following Words agree to either of them. e Which is the way and word People in the great force and fury, as the Sea doth, either in its own Channel, or when it enters into the land upon Breach.

13 The nations shall rush like the rushing of many waters: but God shall rebuke them f, and they shall flee far off, and shall be chased as the chaff of the mountains before the wind, and like a rolling thing ‖ before the whirlwind.

f Not in Words, but Deeds; shall discomfit and overthrow them. g Which is easily moved by every slight touch, and much more by a violent Wind. Or, like waves, to wit, of Sea, which is sometimes rolled together.

14 And behold at evening-tide trouble, and before the morning he is not h: this is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us i.

h At Even there is a great Terrour and Consternation among God's People, for fear of their Enemies; and e'er the Morning cometh, their Enemies are cut off by the Hand of God. This was literally and eminently fulfilled in the Destruction of Sennacherib's Army before Jerusalem. Although the Words may be more generally understood of any great and sudden Change, and unexpected Deliverance, granted to God's People, when their Enemies were ready to devour them. And this Place may be compared with that in Psal. 30. 5.—weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. i This is a triumphant Conclusion, uttered by the Prophet in the name of God's People.

CHAP. XVIII.

God in defence of his Church and punishing her Enemies, will destroy the Ethiopians, 1,—6. an accesse thereby shall be to the Church. 7.

WO to the land a shadowing with wings b, which is * beyond c the rivers d of Ethiopia e:

* Chap. Ezek. 30. Zeph. 2. & 3. 10.

a Either, 1. of Arabia; or, 2. of Ethiopia beyond Egypt; or, 3. of Egypt, as some both ancient and later Interpreters judge; of whom he speaks more darkly in this Chapter, and then explains himself more clearly in the next Chapter. But this Controversie will be best determined by examining the following Description. b The Title of which is oft given, both in Scripture, and in other Authors, unto divers things which have some general kind of resemblance to Wings, as to the Battlements of an House or Temple, as Mat 4. 5. to the Skirts of a Garment, as Ruth 3. 9. and oft elsewhere; to an Army, as Isa. 8. 8. Jer. 48. 40. & 49. 22. and to the Sails of a Ship, as this Word is here commonly understood, and as it is unquestionably used in other Authors. And shadowing with wings is nothing else but overspread or filled with them. Which Title may be given either to Ethiopia or Egypt, in regard of the great numbers either, 1. of their Armies; or rather, 2. of their Ships or Vessels sailing upon the Sea or Rivers: For, 1. in these they exceeded most of those Nations who had Dealings with the Jews, whereas other Nations equalled or exceeded them in numerous Armies. But they had an innumerable Company of Ships or Boats, not only because of the Commodiousness of the River Nilus, and its many Branches, and the Red Sea, and the Midland Sea, for Navigation; but also because of the frequent Overflowings of the River Nilus over their Land, which made them absolutely necessary. 2 This best suits with the next Verse. 3 Those ancient and venerable Interpreters, the Seventy, and the Chaldee, who best understood the Hebrew words and phrases, expound it so. c Or, on this side, as this Particle is rendred Numb. 32. 19. and 22. 1. and in many other places. Or, as others translate it, besides, which may comprehend both sides; and so the Land of which he speaks is supposed to be scituated on both sides of this River or Rivers; which is most true both of Egypt and of Ethiopia. d A late Learned Writer understands this of three or four Rivers of Arabia Chusea, whereof one flows into the Red Sea, another into the Midland Sea, and a third into a great Lake. Which being obscure and very inconsiderable Rivers, and running in so distant Channels, it is not probable that this Land should receive its Denomination from them. And therefore it seems more reasonable to understand this of the great River Nilus, which comes from Ethiopia, and runs through the length of that Land, and through Egypt, into the Midland Sea; and which is here called rivers, in the Plural Number, as it is also Exod. 7. 19. Isa. 7. 18. Ezek. 29. 3. 4. and, unquestionably, Nahum 3. 8. And so it might well be called, either for its Greatness, or for the many Rivulets that run into it, or for the various Streams or Channels into which it is divided; as Tigris, upon the same Reasons, hath the same Title of Rivers ascribed to it, Nahum 2. 6. e Heb. of Cush. By which he seems to understand either, 1. Arabia, which in many places of Scripture comes under that name, though not in all places, as some Learned Men contend. Nor doth this Place seem to be understood here, because these Rivers were not interposed between Judea, in which Isaiah wrote this Prophecy, and Arabia; nor were the Rivers of Arabia, mentioned before, interposed between Judea and Egypt or Ethiopia: and besides, those Rivers were but small and inconsiderable, and therefore, as was noted before, this Land, whatsoever it is, would not have been denominated from them, especially when it is not properly situated either beyond them, or on this side of them. But if this Cush be Arabia, peradventure it were better to understand the rivers, or the River, as it was explained before, of the Red Sea, beyond which indeed both Egypt and Ethiopia were, in reference to Arabia. And whereas it may be objected, That the Title of river or rivers is very improperly given to the Sea, it may be fairly answered, That as Rivers are sometimes called by the name of the Sea, as Euphrates is, Isa. 21. 1. Jer. 51. 36. so this very Word here rendred rivers, is used concerning the Sea in the Hebrew Text, Jonah 2. 3. and indeed may not unfitly be given to the Red Sea, which both for its Length and Breadth hath a manifest resemblance unto those large Rivers which are in the World. And to the Words may be very truly understood either of Egypt, or of Ethiopia, both which Countries in this sense are beyond the rivers or river of Arabia. But this I only propose, and submit to the Reader's Judgment. Or, 2. Africa, properly so called: For the Cushites or Ethiopians are distinguished by Herodotus, and divers other both ancient and later Writers, into the Eastern, which seem to be the Arabians, and the Western, which seem to be the Ethiopians under Egypt. And it is probably thought, that these Cushites were first planted in Arabia, and, upon their increase, part of them passed over into Africa by crossing the Red Sea, part of them passed over into Africa by crossing the Red Sea, which was very short and an easie Passage, and settled there. And according to this Interpretation of the Word, the Description of the Land given in the last Clause of this Verse agrees either to Ethiopia, or to Egypt, as is evident from what hath been already said for the clearing of this dark and difficult Verse.

2 That

2 That sendeth ambassadors f by the sea g, even in vessels of bulrushes h upon the waters †, saying , Go ye swift Messengers i to a nation scattered k and peeled l, to a people terrible from their beginning hitherto m; ‖ † a nation meted out n and trodden down o, whose land the rivers have spoiled p.

f That at this time are sending Ambassadors after their manner, to strengthen themselves with Leagues and Alliances, whereby they think to prevent those Judgments and Calamities, which, notwithstanding all their Endeavours, I will bring upon them. The first part of this Verse seems to contain a further Description of the People of the Land, mentioned in the foregoing Verse. g either by the Midland Sea, or by the Red Sea, or by great Lakes which were both in and near the Land of Egypt; it being usual among the Hebrews to give the Title of Seas to Lakes, or any great Collections of Waters, as hath been oft observed before. h For both the Egyptians and Ethiopians, as Diodorus Siculus, and Strabo, and Pliny relate, did commonly use Boats of Rushes or Reeds, which were more convenient for them than those of Wood, because they were both cheaper and swifter, and lighter for carriage from Place to Place; for which they had frequent occasion in those Parts: and safer, because of the many Rocks, and Shelves, and Water-falls of Nilus. † Heb. upon the face or surface of the waters. Which is properly expressed, because such Vessels being very light, did not sink so deep into the Waters as those of Wood do. * This Word is supplied here, as it is in many other Places. And the Words here following are supposed to contain the Commission and Direction given by the People hitherto described, unto their Messengers, to go to the People described in the following Words. But this Word, saying, is not in the Hebrew Text, nor is it supplied either by the Seventy, or by the Chaldee; nor doth it seem necessary to be understood. And it seems very improbable, that the People to whom the Messengers were sent, should be described in such general and ambiguous Terms, and in so large a manner, and not a Word said concerning their Message. And therefore, with submission, I humbly conceive these to be the Words of the Prophet, who having in God's Name pronounced a Wo against the Land hitherto described, here continues his Speech, and gives a Commission from God to these messengers following, to go to this nation scattered, &c. Then he calls to all Nations to be Witnesses of the Message sent by these Messengers, v. 3. And then the Message follows in the succeeding Verses. And so the Coherence seems to be clear. i O you my Angels, or Men, whom I have appointed for this Work, go speedily to them, and tell them what I am about to do with them, or inflict the following Judgment upon them. k not by Banishment, but in their Habitations. Which agrees well to the Cushites or Ethiopians, both for the vastness of the Land inhabited by them, to wit, Ethiopia and Arabia, and for the manner of their Habitation, which is more scattered than that of other People. Or, these People may be called scattered Prophetically, not that they were so, but that they should be so. Or, this Word may be rendred, as it is in the Margin, and by some others, outspread, or drawn out at length; which exactly suits to Egypt, which is much more extended in length than in breadth. l Either, 1. without Hair; for so were the Ethiopians in a great measure, through the great Heat of their Country: Or, 2. having their Hair shaven or plucked off; for the Word doth not signifie a natural want of Hair, but a violent taking away of Hair, as appears from Ezra 9. 3. Nehem. 13. 25. Isa. 50. 6. And this plucking or shaving of the Hair is metaphorically used in Scripture, to signifie some great Calamity, whereby Men are stripped of all their Comforts, as Isa. 7. 20. and elsewhere. And this Title may be given to them Prophetically, to signifie their future and approaching Destruction. m Such were the Egyptians, and Ethiopians or Cushites, as appears both from Sacred and Profane Histories. And this may be here added as an Aggravation of their impending Miseries, that they who had been for a long time terrible to others, should now become a contemptible and wretched People. n. Heb. of line line, i. e. meeted out as it were with Lines to Destruction; of which Phrase and Custom see 2 Sam. 8. 2. 2 Kings 21. 13. Psal. 60. 6. Isa. 34. 11. o By Divine Sentence, and to be trodden down by their Enemies. p. Which may be taken, either, 1. literally, because Egypt and Ethiopia were frequently overflowed by those two great Rivers Niger and Nilus; although that Overflow was rather an Advantage to the Land, by making it fruitful, than a Mischief: Or, 2. metaphorically and prophetically, of the Assyrians or Babylonians breaking in upon them like a River, and destroying their Land and People; of which see more on Ezek. 30. For powerful Enemies invading a Country, are oft compared to a River, as Isa. 8. 7. 8. & 59. 19. Jer. 46. 7. 8.

3 All ye Inhabitants of the world, and dwellers on the earth, see ye q when he lifteth up an ensign on the mountains, and when he bloweth a trumpet r, hear ye s.

q Take notice of what I say, and God will do. Or, Ye shall see it; you shall be Eye-witnesses of this dreadful Wo or Judgment which I am bringing upon the People of whom I have spoken. The Prophet doth in a manner summon all Nations to bear witness of his Prophecy, and of the accomplishment thereof. r When God shall gather together the Nations, as it were by the lifting up of an Ensign, or by the sound of a Trumpet, to execute his Judgments upon this People. Heb. as when a man lifts up an ensign upon the mountains, which men can easily see; and as when a man sounds a trumpet, they can hear; no less visible and manifest shall this Judgment of God be. s Ye shall hear it, as in the other Branch.

4 For so the LORD said unto me, I will take my rest t, and I will ‖ consider u in my dwelling place x, like a clear heat ‖ upon herbs, and like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest y.

t I will sit still, and not bestir my self, either to help this People, or to hinder their Enemies. God is said in Scripture to rest or sit still, when he doth not work on the behalf of a Person or People; as, on the contrary, he is said to bestir himself, when he acts for them. u Or, I will contemplate, or look upon them, to wit, the People of whom I am here speaking. So it is only an Ellipsis of the Pronoun. Now God's looking in Scripture is variously used; sometimes in way of Favour and Mercy, as Psal. 25. 18. Isa. 66. 2. &c. and sometimes in a way of Anger and Judgment, as Exod. 14. 24. Psal. 25. 19. and, as I humbly conceive, in this place. I know some Learned men render this and the next word, I will look upon my dwelling place, and interpret the Place of God's gracious Respect to his Church or People, to preserve and deliver it in the midst of all the Confusions and Combustions that happen in the World. Which Interpretation seems altogether unsuitable to the Scope and Business of the Chapter, which in all the foregoing and following Verses speaks of another sort of People, even of the Egyptians or Ethiopians, of whom therefore this Verse also must be understood, or otherwise we make a breach in the Context. x In Heaven, the Place where God dwells, and where he is said to hear Prayers, 1 Kings 8. 30, 32. as here to consider Men and Things, as elsewhere he is said to hear and to look from Heaven, as 2 Chron. 6. 21. Isa. 63. 15. the Hebrew Particles beth, in, and mem, from, being put promiscuously one for another, as hath been noted before. y The sense is, That God would look upon them, as the Sun with clear Heat looks upon Herbs, &c. But this may be understood either, 1. in way of Mercy, as most take it: And so the sense is, That God would look out and shine forth upon his Church and People, and be as comfortable and refreshing to them, as the clear heat which shines upon the Herbs; or, as others render it, after the rain, or, as a cloud of dew is in the heat of harvest: Or, 2. in way of Judgment: And so the sense is, That God would look upon them with as uncomfortable an Influence as the Sun with a clear heat upon the Herbs, which are scorched and killed by it; and as a cloud of the dew, which brings Dew or Rain, in the heat of harvest, when it is unwelcome and hurtful. And this sense seems best to agree with the following Verse, which continueth the Metaphor of an Harvest, and manifestly speaks not of refreshing, but of the destruction of the Fruits thereof.

5 For afore the harvest z, when the bud is perfect, and the sowre grape is ripening in the flower, a, he b shall both cut off the sprigs with pruning-hooks, and take away and cut down the branches c.

z Before they receive the end of their Hopes, and finish the Work which they have designed and begun. a When the Bud or Flower is turned into a perfect but unripe Grape, which gives hopes of a good Vintage. The Body of this People are compared to a Vine-tree. b The Lord, who is easily understood from the foregoing Verse, and who is here represented under the Notion of an Husband-man or Vine-dresser. c In stead of the gathering of the Grapes, he shall cut down the Body and Branches of the Tree, and throw it into the Fire.

6 They d shall be left together unto the fowls of the mountains, and to the beasts of the earth: and the fowls shall summer upon them, and all the beasts of the earth shall winter upon them e.

d The Sprigs and Branches being cut down and thrown upon the Ground, with the unripe Grapes upon them. e They shall lie upon the Earth neglected by Men, as being unripe, and unfit for their use, so that either Birds or Beasts may shelter themselves with them, or feed on them, both Summer and Winter. You are not to understand that the Summer is appropriated to the Fowls, and the Winter to the Beasts; but this is only an Elegancy of the Hebrew Language, to use such Distributions, of which we have many Instances in Prophetical Writings.

7 In that day f * shall there a present be brought unto the LORD of hosts, of a people g ‖ scattered and peeled, and from a people terrible from their beginning hitherto; a nation meted out and trodden under foot, whose land the rivers have spoiled, to the place of the Name of the LORD of hosts, the mount Zion.

f Which is to be taken largely and indefinitely, as it is frequently in the Prophets, as we have already seen, and shall more fully see hereafter. At or after that time, when the Judgment threatned in the foregoing Verses shall be fully and compleatly executed, whereby that People will be awakened to Repentance. g The People of whom I am speaking shall present and offer themselves, and their Sacrifices, unto the True God. He speaks of their Conversion to God and Christ, by the Preaching of the Gospel; the Accomplishment of which Promise is recorded in the Histories of the Church.

CHAP. XIX.

The Confusion of Egypt: their Intestine Dissention: their Idols deceive them: Cruel Lords over them: Waters fail them: their Trade dead: their Princes and Counsellors made foolish: their terrour before the Lord, 1, 17. the calling of Egypt to the Church, 18,—22. the Covenant of Egypt, Assyria and Israel, 23,—25.

* THE burden of Egypt a: Behold the LORD * Jer. 46. rideth b upon a swift cloud c, and shall come 13. into Egypt, and the idols of Egypt shall be moved 29. & 30. at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of it c.

a Some Learned men conceive, that what was said more generally and darkly in the foregoing Chapter, is here more particularly and clearly explained to be meant of Egypt; it being usual for the Prophets to mix obscure and plain Passages together, and to clear the one by the other. Others understand that Chapter of Ethiopia, and this of Egypt. But this Controversie must be decided by an exact consideration of all the passages of the former Chapter. b As a General in the Head of his Army; or, as a Judge riding the Circuit to execute Judgment. c Which Phrase sheweth, that the Judgment shall come speedily, unexspectedly, and unavoidably. And Clouds being very unusual in Egypt, the Appearance of a Cloud was a kind of Prodigy, and a Prognostick of some grievous Calamity. d From their Seats, and from their former Reputation. Or, shall shake or tremble. So far shall they be from helping the Egyptians, as they expect, that they shall tremble for themselves; which divers of the Egyptian Gods, being living Creatures, might properly do. e They shall lose all their ancient Strength and Courage, for which they had been famous formerly.

f I will raise Civil Wars among them. g For although all Egypt was now one Kingdom, and under one King, yet not many years after this time it was divided into twelve several Kingdoms, between whom there were many and cruel Wars, as is related by the Historians of those Times, and particularly by Herodotus and Diodorus.

† Heb. shall be emptied. †Heb. swallow up. 3 And the spirit h of Egypt † shall fail in the midst thereof: and I will † destroy the counsel thereof: and they shall seek to the idols i, and to the charmers, and to them that have familiar spirits, and to the wizards.

h Either, 1. their Courage: But of that he spake v. 1. Or, 2. their Understanding, as it is explained in the next Clause: for the Word spirit is oft put for the Reasonable Soul, as Eccles. 3.21. & 12. 7. and for the Thoughts of the Mind, as Prov. 29. 11. Ezek. 13. 3. i As not knowing what to do, without the help of an higher Power.

‖ Or, shut up. 4 And the Egyptians will I ‖ give over into the hand of a cruel lord, and a fierce king k shall rule over them, saith the LORD, the LORD of hosts.

k Either, 1. of the King of Assyria or Chaldea; or, 2. of those twelve petty Kings, the Singular Number being put for the Plural; or, 3. of Psammetichus, who being at first one of those twelve Kings, waged War with the rest, and subdued them, and conquered all the Land of Egypt, and ruled it with rigour.

5 And the waters shall fail from the sea l, and the river m shall be wasted and dried up n.

l Which may be understood either, 1. Metaphorically, of the taking away of their Dominion or Commerce, &c. or rather, 2. Properly, as may be gathered from the following Words and Verses. For as the River Nilus, when it had a full Stream, and free Course, did pour forth a vast quantity of Waters by its seven famous Mouths into the Sea, so when that was dried up, which is expressed in the next Clause, those Waters did truly and properly fail from the Sea. So there is no need of understanding by sea either the River Nilus, or the great Lake of Mœris, which, after the manner of the Hebrews, might be so called. m To wit, Nilus, upon whose Fulness and Overflow both the Safety and the Wealth of the Land depended, as all Authors agree; and therefore this was a very terrible Judgment. n Not totally, but in a very great measure, as such Phrases are commonly used.

o Which is to be taken Impersonally, as such Expressions are very frequently, for, the rivers (those small Rivolets by which the Waters of Nilus were conveyed and distributed into several Parts of the Land) shall be turned far away, as they must needs be, when the greater River Nilus, which fed them, was dried up. p The several Branches of the River Nilus, which were a great Defence to Egypt, as is well known. q Which were very useful to them for making their Boats, which were absolutely necessary in that Country, and divers other things. r As they commonly do for want of Water.

7 The paper-reeds s by the brooks, by the mouth of the brooks, and every thing sown by the brooks † Heb. and shall not be. shall wither, be driven away, † and be no more.

s Which by a Needle, or other fit Instrument, were divided into thin and broad Leaves, which being dried and fitted, were used at that time for Writing, as our Paper is; and consequently was a very good Commodity. t And much more what was sown in more dry and unfruitful places.

8 The fishers also shall mourn u, and all they that cast angle into the brooks shall lament, and they that spread nets upon the waters shall languish.

u Because they could catch few or no Fish, by which Trade they got their Living. Which also was a great Plague to the People, whose common Diet this was, because out of Superstitious Conceits they killed and eat but few Living Creatures, as appears both from Sacred and Profane Writers.

‖ Or, white works. 9 Moreover they that work in fine flax x, and they that weave ‖ net-works shall be confounded.

x That make fine Linen, which was one of their best Commodities; of which see 1 Kings 10. 28. Prov. 7. 16. Ezek. 27. 7.

† Heb. foundations. 10 And they shall be broken in the † purposes thereof y, all that make sluces and ponds † for fish. † Heb. Ends and Hopes; for the Fishes in them shall die for want of living Water.

11 Surely the princes of Zoan z are fools, the counsel of the wise counsellers of Pharoah is become brutish a: how say ye unto Pharoah b, I am the son of the wise c, the son of ancient kings d?

y i.e. Of Egypt, or of the Egyptians. They shall lose their living.

z The chief City, in which the King and Court frequently resided. See Psal. 78. 12. a Exceeding foolish, and destructive to themselves. b Why do you put such false and foolish Words into Pharoah's Mouth? c Wisdom is hereditary and natural to me. This vain Opinion of himself they cherished by their Flatteries, although he undid himself and his People by his Folly. d He derides the Vanity of the Egyptians, who used to make great brags of the Antiquity of their Nation, and especially of their Kings, who, as they pretended, had reigned successively for above Ten thousand years. Which number of years they made up by this Craft, by making those Successive Kings, which reigned together at the same time, in their several Nomi, or Provinces.

12 Where are they? where are thy wise men e? and let them tell thee now, and let them know what the LORD of hosts hath purposed upon Egypt.

e Who pretended, that either by their deep Policy, or by their Skill in Astrology or Magick, they could certainly foresee things to come.

13 The princes of Zoan are become fools, the princes of Noph f are deceived, they have also seduced Egypt, even ‖ † they that are the stay g of the tribes h thereof.

f Another chief City, and one of the King's Seats, so called also Jer. 2. 16. & 44. 1. called also Moph in the Hebrew Text, Hos. 9. 6. and by other and later Authors, Memphis. g Heb. even the corner, or, the Corner-stone, which is the chief Support of the Building. Whereby he may design, either, 1. the King; or, 2. some eminent Statesman of that Age, upon whose Counsel both King and People depended; or, 3. their chief Counsellors, the Singular Number being here put collectively, as it is in many other places. h Of the Provinces, which he calls by a Title borrowed from the Hebrews, in whose Language he spake and wrote this Prophecy.

14 The LORD hath mingled i † a perverse spirit k in the midst thereof; and they have caused Egypt to err in every work thereof l, as a drunken man staggereth in his vomit m.

i Or, hath poured out or given them to drink, as appears from their Drunkenness, expressed in the end of the Verse. Which also suits with the Scripture-phrase, whereby a cup signifies God's Judgments, as Isa. 51. 17, 21, 22. Jer. 25. 15. k Heb. a spirit of perverseities or crookednesses; or, as the Seventy and Chaldee render it, of errour or delusion; a Disposition of Mind very apt to mistake, and to mislead them into foolish and crooked Counsels and Courses. Which God could easily effect, partly by laying occasions of stumbling in their way, and partly by withdrawing or darkning that Wisdom which he had infused, by which alone Men can discern their way. l In all their Designs and Undertakings. m When he is so exceedingly drunk, that he reels to and fro, and vomits up his Drink.

15 Neither shall there be any work for Egypt; which * the head or tail, branch or rush may do n. *Chap. 9. 14.

n All People, both high and low, shall be at their Wits end, not knowing what to do.

16 In that day shall Egypt * be like unto Women o: * Jer. 51. and it shall be afraid and fear, because * of the shaking of the hand of the LORD of hosts p, which he shaketh over it. Nah. 3. 13. * Zech. 2. 9.

o Feeble and fearful, as it follows. p Because they shall perceive that they do not fight with Men only, but with the Lord of Hosts, who now lifts up his Hand against them, as he did against their Forefathers, Exod. 14. the very remembrance whereof is very terrible to them.

17 And the land of Judah shall be a terrour unto Egypt q, every one that maketh mention thereof shall be afraid in himself; because of the counsel of the LORD of hosts, which he hath determined r against it s.

q Either, 1. because of Judah's Calamities and Desolations: For Judah was their Bulwark against the Assyrians and Babylonians; and when this Bulwark was removed, the Egyptians, their Neighbours and Confederates, had just cause to fear: Or, 2. because of their manifold both former and later Injuries against Judah, for which they now apprehend that God is calling them to an account. Which Interpretation seems to be favoured by the following Words; for their fear of mentioning Judah's Name seems to have proceeded partly from the sense of their Guilt and Miscarriages towards Judah, and partly from their Apprehension and Experience of the irresistible Power and Justice of the God of Judah, whom they had provoked, and who was now marching to plead his own and Judahs Cause against them. Compare Jer. 23. 34, &c. r Because God is now about to execute his appointed Judgments. s Against Egypt.

18 In that day † shall five cities u in the land of Egypt speak † the language of Canaan x, and swear † to the LORD of hosts; one z shall be called the city ‖ of destruction.

† After that time, as this Phrase is used Isa. 4. 2. & 18. 7. res, or, and the sun.

p. XIX. ISAIAH. Chap. XX.

and oft elsewhere. In the Times of the Gospel, which are oft noted in the Prophets by that very Expression. u A considerable number of their chief Cities, a certain number being put for an uncertain. x Professe the Jewish Religion, agree with them in the same Mind; which is fitly signified by speaking the same Language, because out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. Thus the changing and purifying of a People's Lips, is used to signifie the change of their Hearts and Lives, Zeph. 3. 9. and praising God with one Mouth, to note their Unity or Consent in the Faith, Rom. 15. 6. y It is well observed by some Learned Interpreters, that he doth not say swear by the Lord, which is the most common Phrase, and which, being one eminent Part and Act of Worship, is put for the whole, but swear to the Lord; which Phrase is also used, 2 Chron. 15. 14. Psal. 132. 2. Isa. 45, 23. and it implies the Dedication, or Oblation, and yielding up of a Person or Thing to the Lord, by a solemn Vow, or Covenant, or Oath, as appears by the Places now quoted. In like manner God is said to swear to a Man, Deut. 26. 15. and one Man to another, Gen. 21. 23. when they oblige themselves by Oath to do such or such a thing for them. And therefore what is called swearing to God, Isa. 45. 23. is rendred or expounded bowing the knee (which signifies the subjection of a man's self) to God, and confessing to God, Rom. 14. 11. z Not one of the five, for they are supposed to be saved in the foregoing Clause; but one City, or another City, the sixth City. As divers Cities shall be converted and saved, so some other Cities shall continue in their impenitency, and be destroyed. Others render this Clause thus, One of them shall be called (or, shall be) for, to be called is oft put for to be) the city of the sun; or, as the Graecians call it, Heliopolis; which the Egyptians called On, Gen. 41. 45. which was a very eminent City, and a chief Seat of Idolatry, being a City of Priests, as Strabo reports; and therefore its Conversion to the Faith was more wonderful.

19 In that day shall there be an altar a to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar b at the border thereof c to the LORD.

a For God's Worship; not a Levitical, but a Spiritual and Evangelical Altar, as appears from hence, because that was confined to one place, Deut. 12. 13, 14. The altar is put for the Worship of God, as it is in many places both of the Old and New Testament. And nothing is more common in the Prophets than to speak of Gospel-worship in the Phrases of the Law. b A Monument of the True Religion. Here also he alludes to the ancient Custom of erecting Pillars to God; of which see Gen. 12. 7. & 28. 18, &c. Jos. 22. 10. & 24. 26, 27. c As before, in the midst of it. The meaning is, There shall be Evidences of their Piety in all Places.

20 And * it d shall be for a sign, and for a witness unto the LORD e of hosts in the land of Egypt: for they shall cry unto the LORD because of the oppressors, and he shall send them a Saviour and a great one g, and he shall deliver them.

d The Altar or Pillar last mentioned. e To testifie that they own the Lord for their God. f Being sorely distressed, and finding the weakness of their Idols, they shall turn unto the True God. g A great or mighty Saviour, by a common Figure called Hendiadwo, as a cloud and smoke is put for a smoakie cloud, Isa. 4. 5. or, a Saviour and a Prince, even Christ, who is so called Act. 5. 31. as is evident from the whole Context, which apparently speaks of Gospel-times. And the emphatical Phrase here used, directed them to look for an extraordinary Saviour.

21 And the LORD shall be known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know the LORD h in that day, and shall do sacrifice and oblation i; yea, they shall vow a vow unto the LORD, and perform it k.

h Shall acknowledge, and love, and serve them; for Words of Knowledge in Scripture commonly include Affection and Practice, as hath been often observed. i Shall worship God spiritually; which yet is signified by Typical Phrases, as it is Mal. 1. 11. and in many other Places. k They shall not only profess and promise Piety, but shall seriously and diligently practise it.

22 And the LORD shall smite Egypt, he shall smite and heal it l, and they shall return even to the LORD, and he shall be intreated of them, and shall heal them.

l God will afflict them by Oppressours, v. 20. and otherwise; and by those Afflictions he will convert and save them.

23 In that day * shall there be a high-way out of Egypt to Assyria, and the Assyrian shall come into Egypt, and the Egyptian into Assyria m, and the Egyptians shall serve n with the Assyrians.

m They who were implacable Enemies one to another, and both to the Church and People of God, shall now be reconciled and united together in the service of God, and Love to his Church. n To wit, the Lord; who is easily understood from v. 21. & 25.

24 In that day shall Israel be the third o with Egypt, and with Assyria p, even a blessing q in the midst of the land r:

o The third Party, to wit, in that sacred League, whereby all of them oblige themselves to God. p these People are named, because they were the most obstinate and malicious Enemies to God's Church, and therefore in a special manner accursed by God; but they are here put Synecdochically for all the Gentiles. q This is peculiar to Israel, who is not only a third Party, as the others are, but is the most eminent and blessed of the three, as being the Fountain, or rather the Conduit-pipe, by which the Blessing is conveyed to the other two, because Christ was to be born of them, and the Gospel-Church and Ordinances were first established among them, and from them derived to the Gentiles. r Or, of the earth. Which may be added, to imply, that God's Blessing should be conveyed from and by Israel, not only to the Egyptians and the Assyrians, but to all the Nations of the Earth, in the midst of which the Land of Israel might well be said to lie. Or, of that Land, of which I am here speaking; or, the Singular Number being put for the Plural, of those Lands, Egypt and Assyria, between which Israel lay.

25 Whom the LORD of hosts shall bless s, saying, Blessed be Egypt my people t, and Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel mine inheritance.

s Whom. i.e. which People, to wit, Israel, Egypt, and Assyria, expressed both in the foregoing Verse, and in the following Clause of this Verse; of whom he speaks as of one People, in the Singular Number, because they are all united into one Body and Church. Or, For, or Because (as this Particle is taken, 1 Sam. 15. 15. and elsewhere) the Lord of hosts shall bless him or them. So this is added as a Reason why he said, Israel should be a Blessing to them all. t This Title, and those which follow, that were peculiar to the People of Israel, shall now be given to these and all other Nations of the World.

CHAP. XX.

The Captivity of Egypt and Ethiopia represented: to take off the Jews from seeking to them for help, 1,—6.

IN the year that * Tartan a came unto Ashdod b, (when Sargon c the king of Assyria sent him) and fought against Ashdod and took it: * 2 Kings 18. 17.

a A great Commander in Sennacherib's Army, 2 Kings, 18. 17. b An eminent and strong City of the Philistines, Jos. 13. 3. 1 Sam. 5. 1. in the utmost part of the Land of Canaan, towards Egypt. c What King of Assyria this was, is much disputed. It is well known, and confessed, that one and the same Person hath frequently several Names, both in Scripture, as hath been observed again and again, and in other Authors. And therefore this may be either, 1. Salmanesser, who when he took Samaria, might also by Tartan take this Place; or, 2. Sennacherib,, who, before he came to Jerusalem, came up against and took all the fenced cities of Judah, 2 Kings 18. 13. of which Ashdod might be reckoned one, as being in the Tribe of Judah, Jos. 13. 3. & 15. 47. and taken by Hezekiah from the Philistins, as it seems very probable from that passage, 2 Kings 18. 8. He smote the Philistins even unto Gaza, and the borders thereof, from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city: Or, 3. Esarhaddon, Sennacherib's Son, who, by cutting off the first Letter, is called Sarchedon, Tobit 1. 21. and thence possibly, by abbreviation, Sargon: Who might do this thing in Hezekiah's time, some years after his Father's Death, and his coming to the Empire, although it be not recorded in Scripture: For no man doubts that there were many great Actions in those Times, which are wholly omitted in the Sacred Writings.

2 At the same time spake the LORD † by Isaiah † Heb. by the hand of Isaiah. the son of Amoz, saying, Go, and loose d the sackcloth e from off thy loins f, and put off thy shoe from thy foot: And he did so, * walking naked g and bare-foot h. * Mich. 1. 8, 11.

d Ungird it and put it off; the Antecedent put for the Consequent, which is very usual, as hath been often noted. God would sometimes have his Prophets to add to their Word a visible Sign, to awaken Peoples Minds to a more serious Consideration of the Matters propos'ed to them. e Either, 1. his course and hairy Garment, which the Prophets used to wear, 2 Kings 1. 8. Zech. 13. 4. as many understand it. But that is expressed by another Word in the places quoted, and never, to my knowledge, by this Word: Or, 2. his mournful Habit, which was commonly made of Sackcloath, and which he wore in token of his hearty grief for the great Calamities which were already come upon Israel, and were either come or coming upon Judah. f Upon which the upper Garments were commonly girt, 1 Kings 20. 32. 2 Kings 9. 1. g Not wholly naked, which had been indecent and scandalous, and withal very dangerous, at least to do so for three years, as he did, v. 3. but without his upper Garmment, as Slaves and Prisoners used to do, whose posture he was to represent, v. 4. And so the word naked is used, 1 Sam. 19. 24. 2 Sam. 6. 20. John 21. 7. Thus also men are said to be naked when they are ill cloathed, as Job 22. 6. Mat. 25. 36. 1 Cor. 4. 11. James 2. 15. h After the manner of Mourners, 2 Sam. 15. 30. and Captives, Jer. 2. 25.

3 And the LORD said, Like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked and bare-foot three years i for a sign k and wonder upon Egypt, and upon Ethiopia;

i Not constantly, but when he went abroad among the People, to whom this was appointed for a Sign. Some think it was only three days, a day being usually put for a year in Prophetical Scriptures, as Numb. 14. 33, 34. Ezek. 4. 4, 5, 6. But although a day be put for a year, yet a year is never put for a day. k Either, 1. when this Judgment should come; to wit, three years after this Prophecy. Or, 2. how long it should continue; for three years: For some have observed that the Chaldeans spent so much time in Conquering Egypt and Ethiopia.

4 So shall the king of Assyria lead away l † the Egyptians prisoners, and the Ethiopians captives, young and old, naked and bare-foot, even with their buttocks uncovered m to the † shame of Egypt.

l Like Beasts, of which this Word is commonly used. m Having their Garments cast off by the middle, to the discovery of their Buttocks and their Secret parts. Compare 2 Sam. 10. 4. Isa. 47. 2.

5 And they n shall be afraid and ashamed of Ethiopia their expectation, and of Egypt their glory.

n All they that shall trust to them, and glory in them, as appears from the following Words, the Pronoun they being put Indefinitely here, as it is Isa. 2. 19. and elsewhere. But under this general expression the Israelites not only are comprehended, but seem to be principally intended, because to them this Prophecy was delivered, and they were eminently guilty of this Sin; of which see Isa. 30. 2. & 31. 1.

‖ Or, Country. 6 And the inhabitants of this ‖ isle o shall say in that day, Behold, such is our expectation p whether we flee for help q, to be delivered from the King of Assyria: and how shall we escape r?

o Of this Land, in which the Prophet was, and to whose Inhabitants, these Words were uttered. For the Title of Isles or Islands in Scripture is frequently given not only to Lands encompassed with the Sea, but also to such Countries, as lay upon the Sea-Coasts, as Psal. 72. 10. Ezek. 26. 15, 18. as Palestina or Canaan did, yea to such Countries as are remote or separated from that place in or of which the Words are spoken, as Esth. 10. 1. Isa. 24. 15. & 42. 4, 10, &c. as Canaan was from Egypt, or at least from Ethiopia. Add to this, that Canaan had some resemblance with an Isle, either because it was almost incompassed with the Midland Sea on one side, and with the Dead Sea, and the Sea of Galilee or Tiberias and Jordan on the other side; or because, as Isles are separated from other Lands by the Sea, so this Land and People were separated from all the rest of the World by God's special Providence, and Presence, and Worship. p So vain is our hope placed upon such a People as are unable to deliver themselves, and much more to deliver us. q To whom we now and usually trust: for this was the common disease of the People of Israel, although Hezekiah was in a good measure free from it, as we read 2 Kings 18. 5. r Either by their help, who cannot defend themselves; or, by our own strength; seeing they who were much more potent than we are, could not escape.

CHAP. XXI.

The Prophet's fear and trouble at his Vision of Babylons Ruin by the Medes and Persians 1,—4. he mocketh Babel 5,—9. Edom scorning the Prophet is called to Repentance, 11, 12. the time of Arab's Calamity set, 13,—17.

* Zech. 9. 14. THE burden of the desert of the sea a. As * whirlwinds in the south b pass through c, so it d cometh from the desart e, from a terrible land f.

a Of Babylon, as is evident both from her destroyers, the Medians, v. 2. and especially from v. 9. where she is named. She seems to be called Desart Prophetically, to intimate, that although she was now a most Populous City and Kingdom, yet shortly she should be turned into a Desolate Wilderness, as was threatned, chap. 13. 19, &c. But the Word here rendred Desart sometimes signifies a Plain, as a very learned Interpreter hath observed, and thus it most properly agrees to Babylon and the Land about it, which Geographers note to be a very plain Country, without any Considerable Mountains in it. It is called the Desart of the Sea, because it is scituate by the Sea, as the Isles of the Sea, Esth. 10. 1. are those Countries which were beside the Sea. And the Title of the Sea might well be given to the Waters of Babylon, because of the great plenty and multitude of them, the great Channel of Euphrates, and the several lesser Channels cut out, and the vast Lakes of Water; in which respects it is said to sit upon many waters, Jer. 51. 13. the Name of Sea being given by the Hebrews to every great Collection of Waters. b In those Parts which lay Southward from Judea, where there were many and great Deserts, in which the Winds have greater force. See Job 1. 19. Jer. 4. 11. c As meeting with no stop or opposition. d The Burden or Judgment. Or, he, the Median, as it is in the next Verse. e From Media and Persia; thus expressed, either because those Countries were full of Desarts; or because a great Desart lay between them and Chaldea, as Geographers and Historians report. f From the Medes, a warlike and formidable People, as appears both from Sacred and Prophane Writers.

†Heb. hard. 2 A † grievous vision g is declared unto me, the treacherous dealer dealeth treacherously, and the spoiler spoileth b: * Go up i, O Elam k; Besiege l, O Media; all the sighing thereof m have I made to cease.

* Chap. 13. 17. g A Vision or Prophecy, containing dreadful Calamities which were to fall upon Babylon. h This is spoken either, 1. of the Chaldeans, as their Sin, for which God sends the following Judgment: So the sense is, The Chaldeans still persist in the Practice of Treachery and Rapine, to which they have been so long accustomed: Or, 2. of the Medes and Persians, who are here noted to pay the Babylonians in their own Coin, and to use the same Treachery and Violence towards them, which they had done to others. To which purpose the Words are and may well be rendred otherwise, either thus, The treacherous dealer hath found a treacherous dealer, and the spoiler hath found a spoiler: or thus, O thou that dealest treacherously with the treacherous dealer: and that spoilest the spoiler, go up, O Elam, &c. as it followeth. These Words will be much illustrated by comparing them with Isa. 33. 1. There is no doubt to be made, but the Medes and Persians used Treachery as well as Force against Babylon: And besides other Instances now unknown, we have one upon Record, of their entertaining those two Traytors, Gadatas and Gobrias, and following their Counsel and Conduct in taking the City, which made them Partakers of their Treason. i To fight against her. k These are God's Words, either giving them Command and Commission to do so, or rather foretelling what they would do; which is oft done in this form of Speech. k Persia, called Elam Synecdochically, because Elam was an eminent Province of Persia, bordering upon the Medes. l To wit, Babylon, v. 9. m Either, 1. Babylons sighing, which shall cease, because they shall have no time to sigh, or lament their Miseries, being suddenly surprised, and cut off in a moment, as they were. As God is said to seek out the wickedness of wicked men till he find none, Psal. 10. 15. when he utterly destroyeth them in or with their Sins: Or, 2. the sighing and groanings of God's People, and other Nations under the heavy Oppressions of that potent and cruel Empire; the Pronoun her, or thereof, being taken here not passively, as commonly it is; but actively, or efficiently, as sometimes it is; as Deut. 11. 25. your fear, i. e. the fear of you; and Job 33. 7. my terrour, i. e. the terrour or dread of me upon thee.

3 Therefore are my loins n filled with pain; pangs have taken hold upon me, as the pangs of a woman that travelleth o: I was † bowed down at the hearing of it, I was dismayed at the seeing of it. †Heb. pained.

n Which he mentions with respect to the following Similitude of childbearing, in which the loins are sorely pained. And this the Prophet speaks, either, 1. in the Name and Person of the Babylonian. Or rather, 2. in his own Name; which is most natural, and agrees best with the last clause of the Verse, which plainly speaks of the torment which he had in the inner hearing of the Word, and seeing the Vision, and not of that which they had in the feeling of it; although the latter is implied in the former; and the Prophet expresseth his horror in hearing and seeing, to intimate the dreadful horrour which should seize upon them when it came upon them. o Sharp and grievous pains.

4 ‖ My heart panted, fearfulness affrighted me: the night of my pleasure p hath he q † turned into fear r unto me. ‖ Or, my mind wandred. †Heb.

p The night, in which I used to have a sweet Repose and Sleep. He seems to have had this Vision in a night. But withal this horrour of the Prophet by night was Typical, and did signifie that grievous horrour and destruction, which should befal the Babylonians in a night of great Feasting and Jollity, as it did Dan. 5. 1, 30. q God, who shewed him that Vision. r Into a time and matter of fear.

5 Prepare the table s, watch in the watch-tower t, eat, drink: arise, ye Princes u, and anoint the shield x.

s Furnish it with Meats and Drinks, as it follows. The Prophet foretells what the Babylonians would be doing when their Enemies were their Doors, that they would give up themselves to Feasting Security. t To give us notice of any approaching danger, that in the mean time we may more securely indulge our selves in Mirth and Pleasures. u Either, 1. e Medes and Persians: Whilst your Enemies the Babylonians are feasting securely, prepare to make your Assault. Or, 2. ye Princes of Babylon: Arise from the Table and run to your Arms. Which sudden alarm and change of their Posture proceeded from Tidings out of the Watch-tower, as may be gathered from the former Clause, and is more fully expressed in the following Verses. x Prepare your selves and your Arms for the Battle approaching. The shield is put for all their weapons of Offence and Defence. They used to Anoint their Shields with Oyl, partly to preserve and polish them; and partly to make them slippery, that their Enemies Darts might not fasten in them, but slide off from them.

6 For thus hath the Lord said unto me y, Go, set a watchman z, and let him declare a what he seeth.

y I speak not my own fancies, but what God hath made me to see and hear in a Vision; the Particulars whereof are related in the following Verses. z Either, 1. a Prophet; such being oft so called, as Ezek. 3. 17. & 33. 2. Or rather, 2. a Military Watchman. For this was now done only in a Vision, which yet did foresignifie what should be done really afterwards. a To thee in Vision, to them Really.

7 And he saw b a chariot c with a couple of horsemen d, a chariot of asses, and a chariot of camels e; and he hearkned diligently f with much heed.

b A short Speech, for he told me that he saw. c Not for Burden, but for War, in which Chariots were then much used. d Attended with two Horsemen. So there were both Chariots and Troops of Horsemen. Or, with a couple of Horses, as this Word is sometimes used, as 1 Sam. 8. 11. 2 Sam. 1. 6. The Chariot was drawn with two Horses. e Two Chariots, one drawn by Asses, (under which Title some understand Mules, as being engendred of Asses) and the other by Camels. Whereby he signifies the Variety and Abundance of Warlike Provisions which the Medes and Persians should have for this Expedition, and particularly of Chariots, whereof some were for the Carriage of Necessary Things, and others for the Battle. f He carefully observed what he saw, and what he could further discover.

8 And he ‖ cried, A lion g: my Lord h, I stand continually upon the * watch-tower in the day-time, and I am set in my ward ‖ whole nights i. ‖ Or, cried as a lion. * Heb. a tower. ‖ Or, every night.

g The sense of the Words thus rendred is this, The Watchman cried out, I see also a Lion, to wit, marching before the Horsemen and Chariots already mentioned; which they suppose to represent Cyrus or Darius marching in the Head of their Armies. Or, as it is rendred in the Margin, and by divers others, he cried as (which Particle is oft understood, as hath been formerly and frequently noted) a lion, with a terrible Cry, as being affrighted with the Vision, and withal signifying the dreadfulness of that Judgment which was here represented as coming upon Babylon. The Watchman speaks these Words either to God, or to the Prophet, who by command from God had set him in this Place and Station; to whom therefore he gives the following Account of his Discharge of the Work wherewith he was intrusted. i According to thy Command I have stood, and do yet stand continually, both day and night, upon my Watch-Tower.

9 And behold k, here cometh a chariot of men l, with a couple of horsemen m: and he n answered and said, * Babylon is fallen, is fallen: and all the * graven images of her gods o he y hath broken unto the ground. * Isa. 21. 9. * Isa. 42. 17.

k The sum of what I have discovered is this. l Not filled with Goods, as Chariots of Burden use to be; but provided with Men, to fight from or with them. m Understand, and a chariot of asses, and a chariot of camels: which is easily understood from v. 7. where they are expressed. n The Prophet Isaiah, who set the Watchman; or the Lord, by whose Command he was set, v. 6. who here gives an explication of the Vision. o Which is mentioned as an Evidence that she was fully conquered, because otherwise they would not have suffered their Idols to have been thrown to the Ground. p God, by the Hands of Cyrus, his Instrument. Or, it is an indefinite Speech, he hath broken, &c. for they are broken, &c.

10 O my threshing q, and the † corn of my floor r: that which I have heard of the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, have I declared s unto you t. †Heb. flour.

q Threshing is here put for the Corn threshed, as it is explained in the following words, the Act being frequently put for the Object, as captivity for the Captives, fear for the thing feared, grief as hath been noted before. And the Corn threshed is here metaphorically put for People sorely afflicted and punished, which is oft expressed by Threshing, as Isa. 25. 10. & 41. 15. Mich. 4. 13, &c. This is spoken either, 1. of the Jews, to whom he now turneth his Speech, whom God did grievously thresh and afflict by the Babylonians, and whom he here comforts with these Tidings, as if he had said, though thou wilt be threshed fast, yet Babylon shall be threshed last, and most dreadfully, and their Threshing shall be thy Deliverance. This Interpretation is thought necessary, because of the latter Clause of the Verse, wherewith this is to be joined. Or, 2. of Babylon. O my threshing: or, thou art my threshing, whom I have undertaken to thresh and punish. And so this is fitly mentioned here, to assure them that this Prophecy of Babylon's Fall must necessarily be accomplished, because the Almighty was engaged in the Work. And this Interpretation seems not to be inconsistent with the rest of the Verse, as we shall see. r The Corn which I will cause to be threshed upon the Floor. Heb. the son of my floor. For the Title of son is oft given to lifeless things, as Arrows are called the sons of the bow, or of the quiver, Job 5. 7. & 14. 28, &c. s What I have foretold is not my own Invention, but the Word of God, and therefore shall infallibly come to pass. t Either, 1. unto you my People, or Hearers; for all the Prophecies, even concerning other Nations, were published to them, and for their Use and Comfort: Or, 2. Unto, (or, Concerning, as this Hebrew Particle is sometimes used, as the Learned know) you Babylonians, to whom this was in some sort declared, because it was published among the Jews, and by their means might easily come to the knowledge of other People, and consequently of the Babylonians. Nor is it unusual for the Prophets, in their Prophecies delivered to God's People concerning Babylon, by an Apostrophe to turn their Speech to the Babylonians themselves; of which we have instances, Jer. 50. 24, 31. & 51. 13, 14, 25, 26.

11 The burden of Dumah u. He x calleth to me y out of Seir z, Watchman a, what of the night b? watchman, what of the night c?

u Either, 1. of a part of Arabia, so called from Dumah, one of Ismael's Race, Gen. 25. 14. 1 Chron. 1. 30. Or rather, 2. of Edom or Idumea, as seems most probable from the mention of Mount Seir, which was a part of Edom; which may here be called Dumah, either by an abbreviation, or cutting off the first Letter from Edomea, as Ram is put for Aram, 1 Chron. 2. 9. Job 32. 2. or rather prophetically and farcastically; for Dumah signifies silent: Whereby he intimates, That Edom, which was much given to vain boasting and railing against God, and against his People, as we read elsewhere, should be brought to silence and utter ruine. And such new, and enigmatical, and significant Names are elsewhere given by the Prophets to divers known Places, as Babylon is called Sheshach, Jer. 25, 26. and Egypt, Rahab, Mich. 7. 12, &c. x To wit, Dumah, or the People of Dumah, of whom he speaks, or one of them in the name and by the appointment of the rest. y To the Watchman, as appears by the following Words. For the Prophet delivers his Prophecy in the form of a Dialogue between the People and the Watchman. z Out of Edom, which is frequently called Seir, as Gen. 32. 3. & 36. 8. 2 Chron. 20. 20, &c. Ezek. 25. 11. a Whereby he means either, 1. the Prophet Isaiah, whom they call watchman, either seriously, or in scorn, because the Prophets were so called by God, and by the People of the Jews: Or, 2. the Watchman of Edom, whom they had set as People use to do in times of great Danger. b The night is taken either, 1. metaphorically, for a time of Tribulation. So they ask the Prophet what he hath to say concerning that Night of Calamity which he had so long and oft threatned to them, whereof as yet they saw no appearance: Or, 2. properly; the night being the proper and chief time in which the Watchman's Care is most necessary, because then their Enemies had opportunity to do them most harm. So the People are supposed to come to him very early in the Morning, to enquire what had happed in the Night; which shews a State of great Perplexity and Fear: which might well be called a burden, both because Fear in it self is a great Torment, and because this Fear was a Sign or Presage of their approaching Miseries. c The repetition of the same Words, shews the greatness of their Solicitude and Fear.

12 The watchman said, The morning cometh, and also the night d: if ye will enquire, enquire ye: return, come e.

d The Night is past without any great mischief to you, and the comfortable Light of the Morning is approaching, which freeth mens Minds from the Terrours of the Night; but although the Morning be coming, it will be gone, and the Night will return, and your Fears with it. The night seems to be here taken properly, as the morning is; yet so, that he alludes to the Metaphorical Signification of the Word, and intimates, that the Night of Affliction was coming upon them. e If this Watchman be the Prophet Isaias, then the sense of these Words is this, If you will be enquiring, enquire sincerely and seriously of God by me, concerning your Danger, and the way to prevent it; return unto the Lord by true Repentance, who alone can secure you, and come unto me for Direction. But if it be their own Watchman, which, with submission, I conceive most probable, the sense is, If you will enquire, enquire; I perceive, by what I have observed this Night, that your Danger is not past, and therefore will be occasion for further Enquiries from time to time; and therefore return and, i. e. either return to them that sent you with this Message, and then come to me for further Tydings; or come again, as return, go home, is put for go down again, 1 Sam. 9. 7. come to me the next Morning, as you have reason to do, and so from Morning to Morning; for I see every Night is likely to bring some evil Things upon you.

13 ‖ The burden upon Arabia. In the forest in Arabia shall ye lodge, O ye travelling companies of Dedanim h.

f Not, as you used to do, in the Houses or Tents of the Arabians. Whereby he implies, That that Populous Country should be turned into a desolate Wilderness. g In those Parts Travellers then did, and still do go together in Companies. See Gen. 37. 25, 28. Job 6. 19. h Or, Declanites; of whom see Gen. 25. 3. Jer. 25. 23, 24. & 49. 7, 8. These were Merchants, and used to Trade with the Babylonians, and to go to and fro with their Wares in the same Parts of Arabia.

14 The inhabitants of the land of Tema ‖ brought water to him that was thirsty, they prevented with their bread him that fled i. ‖ Or, bring ye.

i A part of Arabia, of which see Job 6. 19. Jer. 25. 23. Where by he implies, That those other Arabians, against whom this Prophecy is principally directed, should be reduced to great scarcity of all necessary Provisions, and forced to flee for their Lives, from a bloody Enemy, as is more fully expressed in the next Verse.

15 For they fled † from the Swords, from the drawn sword, and from the bent bow, and from the grievousness of war. †Heb. from the face.

16 For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Within a year k, according to the years of an hireling m, and all the glory n of Kedar shall fail. * Chap. 16. 14.

k From the time of this Prophecy. m To wit, an exact Year; for Hirelings diligently observe and wait for the end of the Year, when they are to receive their Wages. n Their Power, and Riches, and all things wherein they used to glory. This was executed by the Assyrians. o Of whom see 2 Kings 18. 13. Isa. 36. 1. 2 Chron. 32. 28.

17 And the residue of the number of archers p, the mighty men of the children of Kedar, shall be diminished: for the LORD God of Israel hath spoken it. †Heb. bows.

p Bows and Arrows were their chief Weapons, and they were expert in the use of them, both against Beasts and Men, as occasion required.

CHAP. XXII.

The Anguish of Judah: the Prophet much grieved, 1.—5. by the Persians, Medes and Assyrians, 6, 7. he reproveth their carnall Wisdom, 8,— 11. and prophane joy, 12, 13. which God would certainly punish, 14. Shebnah's deprivation for his Pride, 15, 19. Eliakim put in his place: his glory, 20,— 25.

THE burden of the villany of Vision a. What aileth thee now, that thou art wholly gone up to the house tops b?

a Of Judah, and especially of the City of Jerusalem, as the next Verse sheweth. Which is called a valley, because a great part of it stood in a Valley, and comparatively to those higher Mountains whereunto it was encompassed; of which see Psal. 121. 1. & 125. 2. Isa. 22. 7. and the valley of vision, because of the many and clear Visions or Revelations of God's Mind, in that Place, above all other Parts of the World. As the Prophets are called Seers, 2 Sam. 9. 9. so Prophecy is frequently called vision, as 1 Sam. 3. 1. Isa. 1. 1. Ezek. 7. 13, 26. as they used to do in times of great Confusion and Consternation, that they might mourn, and look, and cry to Heaven for help. Compare Isa. 15. 3. Jer. 48. 38.

2 Thou art full of stirs c: a tumultuous d city, a joyous city: thy slain men are not slain with the sword, nor dead in battle e.

c Or, Thou who wast full of stirs, or noise, to wit, of joyful Shouts, as the following Words limit it, and as this Word is used Zech. 4. 7. though elsewhere it be taken for doleful Cries. d Or, stargerous, full of noise and clamour, through Revelling and Jollity. See Prov. 20. 1. Ezek. 9. 19. e But either by Famine or Pestilence in the Siege, as many died, Jer. 14. 18. & 38. 2. or in their Flight, as others were; both which were inglorious kinds of Death.

3 All the rulers f are fled together g, they are bound † by the archers g: all that are found in thee † Heb. of the bow. are bound together i, which are fled from far k.

f Zedekiah and his Chief Commanders, whose Flight he foretels. g Heb. from the bow, i. e. so as they were disenabled from using the Bow: which is an usual Hebraism, as from a king is put for from being a king, 1 Sam. 15. 23. and from seeing, Psal. 69. 23. is rendred that they cannot see, Rom. 11. 10. But this Word is by some, and may very well be joyned to the foregoing Clause; for the Words in the Hebrew lie thus, All thy rulers are fled together from the bow (or, bowmen, as this Word is rendred, Isa. 21. 17.) they are bound. Which seems most plain and unforced, and suits both with the following Words, as also with the Prophet's use of the same Phrase, chap. 21. 15. they fled — from the bent bow, &c. h That remained there with Zedekiah in the Siege; for those who had fled to the Chaldeans saved their Lives and Liberties. i In Fetters, Jer. 52. 11. k Which fled to Jerusalem from the remotest parts of the Land. l But he rather speaks of those who fled from Jerusalem, and from their Ellemite, whereof some had fled away, but were pursued and overtaken by their Enemies, and bound, as others had been. And the Words seem to be well rendred, they fled far away, as this very Word is used, Isa. 23. 7. which may be understood either of the same Persons who fled, but were taken in their Flight, as was now said; or of others, who fled away, when others abode there and were bound.

*Jer. 4. 19. & 9. 1. † Heb. I will be bitter in weeping.

4 Therefore said I, * Look away from me a; † I will weep bitterly, labour not to comfort me b; because of the spoiling of the daughter of my people.

l Take off your Eyes and Thoughts from me, and leave me alone, that I may take my full of Sorrows. m For all your Labour will be lost, I neither can nor will receive any Consolation. n Of that City and Nation whereof I am a Member. The Title of daughter is oft given both to Cities and Nations, as hath been noted before.

5 For it is a day of trouble, and of treading down, and of perplexity by the Lord GOD of hosts p in the valley of vision, breaking down the walls q, and of crying to the mountains r.

o In which my People are trodden under foot by their insolent Enemies. p This is added partly to shew, that this did not happen without God's Providence; and partly to aggravate their Calamity, because not only Men, but God himself fought against them. q Of the strong Cities of Judah; which was done by Sennacherib, 2 Kings 18. 30. r With lusty loud and dismal Outcries as should reach to the neighbouring Mountains, and make them ring again therewith.

6 And Elam s bare the quiver t with chariots of men and horsemen u, and Kir x † uncovered y the shield z.

s The Persians, who now, and for a long time after, were subject to the Assyrian and Chaldean Emperours, and were employ'd by them in their Wars. t Being expert Bowmen, as appears from Jer. 49. 35. and from Strabo's Testimony. u As some of them fought on foot, so others fought from Chariots and Horses. x The Medes, so called by a Synecdoche from Kir, an eminent City and Region of Media, of which see 2 Kings 16. 9. Amos 1. 5. y Prepared it and themselves for the Battel; for in times of Peace Arms were wrapt up and covered, to preserve them clean, and fit for use. z Their defensive and offensive Weapons.

7 And it shall come to pass, that † thy choicest valleys shall be full of chariots a, and the horsemen shall set themselves in array ‖ at the gate b.

a Valleys were the most proper Places for the use of Chariots: See Jos. 17. 16. b To assist and defend the Footmen whilst they made their Assault, and withal to prevent and take those who endeavoured to escape.

*Cha. 30. 1. * 1 Kings 10. 17.

8 And he c discovered * the covering of Judah d, and thou didst look in that day to the armour e * of the house of the forrest f.

c The Enemy, Sennacherib, of whose Invasion he seems to speak. d He took those fenced Cities, which were a Covering or Safeguard both to the People of Judah, who fled to them, and to Jerusalem, which was begirt and defended by them. e Thy Hope and Trust was wholly or chiefly placed in the Arm of Flesh. For although Hezekiah was commended for his Trust in God, yet the Generality of the People were guilty of Distrust in God, and Confidence in the Creature. f More fully called the house of the forest of Lebanon, 1 Kings 7. 2. not because it was built in Lebanon, for it was in Jerusalem; but either because it was built of the Trees of Lebanon, for which cause the Temple is called Lebanon, Zech. 11. 1. or for other Reasons. See my Notes on 1 Kings 7. 2.

9 Ye have seen g also the breaches of the city of David, that they are many: and ye gathered together the waters of the lower pool h.

g i. e. Observed or considered, as this Word is used, Exod. 32. 9. and elsewere, in order to the Reparation of them, and to fortifie the City, as the next Words manifest. h That you might both deprive the Enemy of Water, and supply the City with it; of which see on 2 Chron. 32. 4, 5.

10 And ye have numbred the houses of Jerusalem i, and the houses k have ye broken down to fortifie the wall.

i That they might exactly know their own Strength, and the Number of their People, and so lay the Burdens more equally upon them, and make sufficient Provisions for them. k Which stood upon or without the Walls of their City, and so gave their Enemies any Advantage against them, and hindred the fearching or fortifying the Walls and City.

11 Ye made also a Ditch between the two walls l for the water of the old pool m: but ye have not looked unto the maker thereof n, neither had respect unto him that fashioned it o long ago p.

l Either those 2 Kings 25. 4. or those 2 Chron. 32. 5. in both which Places ye read of two Walls. m To receive the Waters conveyed into it by Pipes from the old Pool. n Either, 1. of the Water; for both the Springs and the Rain which filleth the Pools are from God alone: or, 2. of Jerusalem, expressed in the foregoing Verse, and easily understood here, because all these Works were undertaken for Jerusalems Defence and Provision. And it is usual in Scripture for the Pronoun Relative to be put by it self, without any express mention of the Person or Thing to which it belongs, which is left to the Reader to gather out of the foregoing or following Words; of which see the Notes on Psal. 87. 1. Cant. 1. 1. o Heb. the former, or framer of it, God, who made it a City, and the Place of his special Presence and Worship; which also he had undertaken to protect, if the People would observe his Commands; to whom therefore they should have resorted and trusted in this time of their distress. p Which Clause may be added to aggravate their Sin, in distrusting that God who had now for a long time given proof of his Care and Kindness in defending this City.

12 And in that day did the Lord GOD of hosts call q to weeping, and to mourning; and to baldness r, and to girding with sackcloth.

q Invite and oblige them by the Course of his Providence, and require this by the Precepts requiring these things in such Times and Conditions. r to make themselves bald, by plucking or shaving off the Hair of their Heads, as was usual in great Sorrows, as Ezra 9. 3. Job 1. 20. Mic. 1. 16. although it was forbidden in case of the Death of Relations, for a special Reason; of which see on Lev. 19. 27, 28. & 21. 5.

13 And behold, joy and gladness, slaying Oxen, and killing sheep, eating flesh s, and drinking wine; * let us eat and drink for to morrow we shall die t. * Chap.

s Not only for Necessity, but to Excess and Luxury, as eating and drinking are taken Mat. 24. 38. t The Prophets tell us, that we shall certainly and suddenly be destroyed; it concerns us therefore to make our best of the present time, and to be merry whilst we have the opportunity. A most perverse and desperate Conclusion, proceeding from obstinate Profaneness, and Contempt of God's Judgments.

14 And it was revealed in mine ears u by the LORD of hosts, surely this iniquity shall not be purged from you, till ye die x, saith the Lord GOD of hosts.

u What I am saying is not my own Invention, nor uncertain Reports; but what I heard with these Ears of mine. The like Phrase we have 1 Sam. 9. 15. the Lord hath told Samuel in his ear. x You shall feel the sad Effects of this wickedness, and thy just displeasure for it, as long as you live. This is not spoken exclusively, as if it should be purged after their death, which is absurd and impious to imagine, at least concerning such as lived and died in this desperate and impenitent Condition; but emphatically, to shew that God will have no mercy upon them in that time of Life, in which he useth and delighteth to give Repentance and Remission of Sins unto Mankind.

15 Thus saith the Lord GOD of hosts, Go, get thee unto this treasurer y, even unto Shebna z, which is over the house a, and say, y Which the Prophet might boldly do, because he had the Protection not only of God, who sent him upon this Errand, but probably of Hezekiah also, who at the time of this Prophecy was either King, or his Fathers Viceroy, or at least Heir-apparent to the Crown. z Who seems to have been advanced by wicked Ahaz, and to have been a great Patron of Impiety and Injustice in his Reign, and by politick Compliance with Hezekiah, thought to gain his Favour, and so to keep his Place and Power at Court. a Over the House of David, as is more fully expressed below, v. 22. Possibly he was not only the Lord Treasurer, but also the King's Prime Minister of State.

16 What hast thou here b? and whom c hast thou here, that thou hast hewed thee out a sepulchre d here e ‖ as he that heweth him out a sepulchre on high f, and graveth an habitation g for himself in a rock h.

b Or, What dost thou here? what right hast thou to this Place and Office? c Either, 1. What Friends, in whom thou canst confide? Thou hast so ill managed thy self and thy Affairs, that thou art universally hated. Or, 2. What Kindred or Relations? For the Jews say, he was a Stranger by Birth; which is the more probable, because his Pedegree is not mentioned in any of those Places of Scripture where he is named. d As great and ambitious men used to do. e Not in thine own Country, the proper Place for such a Monument; but in Jerusalem, which should not be defiled nor disparaged with it. f In an high and eminent Place, as Isa. 57. 7. g Either, 1. a Sepulchre, which is called a mans house, Job 30. 23. or, 2. a Dwelling-House. He erected, or is compared to one that doth erect, a stately House to live in, and a stately Sepulchre to receive him when he dies. And these two are fitly joined together, because their Sepulchres were commonly built in or near their Houses. See Isa. 14. 18. Job. 19. 41. h A fit Place both for Strength and State. Thus we read of a sepulchre hewed out of a rock, Mat. 27. 60.

17 Behold, ‖ the LORD will carry thee away with † a mighty captivity i, and will surely cover thee k.

i Will cause thee to be carried into Captivity by a strong Hand, or by the Hand of a mighty man, from which therefore thou shalt not be able to escape. Or, will cast thee away with the captivity casting of a mighty man, i. e. with great force: or, in casting will cast thee away, O thou mighty man. k To wit, with confusion, as is here implied, and as this Phrase is more fully expressed, Psal. 89. 40. & 109. 29. Or, covering may be put for obscuring his Glory, which he designed to publish, and to that end erected stately Monuments, &c. Or, this may be an Allusion to the ancient Custom of covering the Faces of Condemned Persons; of which see Esth. 7. 8. Compare Job 9. 24. Ezek. 12. 6, 12.

18 He will surely violently turn and toss thee like a ball l into a † large country m: there shalt thou die, and there the chariots of thy glory shall be the shame of thy lords house n.

l Heb. Wrapping he will wrap thee up like a Ball, which consists of Materials wrapped and bound together, that it may be tossed far away. Or, Rolling he will roll thee with the rolling of a Ball. m Like a Ball which is cast into a large and plain spot of Ground, where being thrown by a strong man it runs far and wide. Or, to a far Countrey, which seems to be here called large of spaces, not so much in it self, for that was inconsiderable to him, whether the Land of his Captivity was large or little, as in respect of its distance from the Place of his Birth and Abode. n The sense of the Words thus rendred, seems to be this, Thy glorious Chariots wherein thou didst ride in great State at Jerusalem, shall then and there be turned into shame to thy self, and to thy Master, to whom it is just matter of reproach, that he was so foolish as to advance and trust such a faithless and unworthy Person. But the Words are by divers others fitly rendred, there the chariots of thy glory shall be, (or, shall die or vanish, i. e. That shall be the end of all thy pompous Chariots, and other Monuments of thy Pride) O thou who art the shame of thy Lord's house, who by thy unjust and wicked Practices hast exposed thy King and Master, and the Royal Family, to Reproach and Contempt.

19 And I o will drive thee from thy station, and from thy state shall he p pull thee down.

o The Lord, whose Words these are, v. 15. as is manifest from the following Verses. p The Lord; such sudden changes of Persons being very usual in these Writings.

20 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will call q my servant * Eliakim the son of Hilkiah:

q By my Spirit fitting him, and by my powerful Providence moving Hezekiah's heart to call him.

21 And I will cloath him with thy robe, and strengthen him with thy girdle r, and I will commit thy government into his hand, and he shall be a father s to the Inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to the house of Judah.

r There was a peculiar sort of Robe and Girdle which was the Badge of his Office, which should be taken from him, and given to Eliakim. s He shall not only have the Authority of a Father, which thou now hast, in which respect all Rulers are called fathers, as Exod. 20. 12. Numb. 36. 1. but shall also govern them with Fatherly Care and Affection, and not with Rigour and Cruelty, as thou dost.

22 And the key t of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder u: so he shall * open and none shall shut x, and he shall shut and none shall open.

t The Government, the Power of opening and shutting, of letting men into it, or putting them out of it, whereof a key is a fit Emblem; whence the delivering of the Keys of an House or City into the Hands of another, is a Sign to signifie and confirm the giving him the Power and Possession of it. u He mentions the shoulder rather than the Hand, in which Keys are commonly carried, either from some Ceremony then in use, of carrying a Key upon the Shoulder, either of the Officer of State himself, or of another in his name and stead; or to signifie that this was a Key of greater weight than ordinary, and that Government, which is designed by this Key, is an heavy Burden, and therefore in Scripture-phrase said to be upon the shoulder, as Isa. 9. 6. x Against his Will, or without his Commission or Consent.

23 And I will fasten him y as * a nail in a sure place z: and he shall be for a glorious throne to his fathers house a.

y I will establish the Power in his Hands. z In the strong walls, or solid Timber, in the House: Which is oppoſed to Shebna's instability, signified by a Ball, v. 18. a By his prudent and righteous Government he shall procure great Glory, not only to himself, but to all that have any relation to him. This also is opposed to what is said of Shebna in the end of v. 18.

24 And they shall hang upon him all the glory of his fathers house b, the off-spring and the issue c, all vessels of small quantity d; from the vessels of cups, even to all the ‖ vessels of flagons e.

b Of his own Kindred and Family, who shall all depend upon him, and receive Glory from him: of the House of David, which is called his fathers house, either because Kings are called the fathers of all their Subjects, both in Scripture, as 1 Sam. 24. 12. 2 Kings 5. 13. & 16. 7. and in other Authors; or, as Calvin ingeniously conjectures, because he was of the Blood Royal. Otherwise this had been no great Commendation to him, that he studied so much the Advancement of his own private Family. And this seems more probable, because this Character is oppoſed to that of Shebna, who was the shame of his Lords, to wit, the King's house or Family, v. 18. c Great and small, the Children and Grandchildren of his Fathers house. d The meanest of them shall receive a Lustre and Advantage from their Relation to him. e All sorts of Vessels, great or small, mean or precious, may be hanged upon him, without any fear of falling; whereas ordinary Nails or Pins, if they be oppressed with too great weight, are easily broken down, and the Vessels fall with them.

25 In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall the nail that is fastned in the sure place f, be removed, and be cut down, and fall: and the burden that was upon it g shall be cut off: for the LORD hath spoken it.

f Shebna, who seemed to be so, both in his own Eyes, and in the Eyes of others. g All those wicked Officers that were advanced and supported by his Power.

CHAP. XXIII.

The Destruction of Tyre: from God: for their Pride. 1,—14. the time of her rising again, 15,—17. and Conversion to God, 18.

*Jer. 25. 22. & 47. 4. Ezek. 26. & 27. & 28.

*THe burden of Tyre a. Howl ye ships b of Tarshish c, for it is laid waste d, so that there is no house, no entring in e: from the land of Chittim it is revealed to them f.

a The Prophecy of the heavy Calamity and Destruction of Tyre; which now stood in its Strength and Glory, being seated in an Island, upon a Rock, abounding in Riches, mighty in Naval Power, having lately conquered that Navy which the Assyrians brought against them. Yet this City was, according to this Prophecy, destroyed; and that twice, first by Nebuchadnezzar, and long afterward by Alexander the Great. And although this Prophecy seem directly and properly to respect the former Destruction, yet it seems to have some reference to the latter also; only it is intimated, That after seventy years Tyrus should recover her former Power and Glory, before her second and final Destruction. b Either, 1. properly; to which Howling and Lamenting is ascribed by a known Figure called Prosopopeia: or, 2. Metonymically, the Merchants and Owners of Ships, who had much Commerce with this illustrious Mart. c Either, 1. of Tarsus, a great Port of Cilicia, which anciently had the Dominion of that part of the Sea: or, 2. of the Ocean, which is so called, 1 King. 10. 22. Psal. 48. 8. Isa. 2. 16. d It shall shortly be laid waste; Which was fulfilled not by Shalmaneser, as some would have it; for though he straitned it for some time, yet he never took it; but by Nebuchadnezzar. e So effectually wasted, that there is not an House left in it, nor any Merchants or others that go into it, either to Trade in it, or to repair it. f The sense of the Words thus rendred may be this, It, i. e. this Burden or Destruction of Tyre, is, i. e. shall be, revealed, declared or made known, unto them; either, 1. to the Tyrians, to whom this Notice should be sent concerning the Preparations of their Enemies against them: or, 2. to the Ships, by which he means their Owners or Merchants, from the land of Chittim: which may be here mentioned either because they first had and gave them notice of it, as was now said; or because their last and forest destruction was brought upon them by Alexander, who was of the land of Chittim, as is affirmed by that very ancient and venerable, though Apocryphal Writer, 1 Maccab. 1. 1. & 8. 5. But this Place is otherwise rendred, both by ancient and later Interpreters, which seems to be more natural and easie, and no less agreeable to the Hebrew Text; either thus, that she is laid waste, so that there is no house, nor entring or coming in (to wit, for Traffick) from the land of Chittim, is made known to them, to wit, to the Ships or Merchants that used to resort thither for Traffick: or rather thus, for it is laid waste, so that there is no house, (not any Houses left for the Citizens to dwell in) nor entring or coming in (to wit, of Merchants) from the land of Chittim; she (to wit, her People) is removed or gone into captivity, as this Word properly signifies, and is rendred, Isa. 38. 12. And for the last Hebrew Word, lamo, which is rendred to them (which is the only Objection against this Interpretation) it is only added as an Elegancy of the Hebrew Language, and hath no farther signification, as it is also, Psl. 58. 7. and as the Particle lo, which signifies the same thing, and such other Pronouns, are frequently redundant and insignificant in the Hebrew Text, as hath been oft observed by Grammarians and Interpreters. He mentions the land of Chittim, because this was an eminent Place for Shipping and Trading, as is manifest from Numb. 24. 24. Ezek. 27. 6. Dan. 11. 30. and therefore doubtless had great Dealings and Commerce with Tyre, and may here be put Synecdochically for all other Countries which Traded with her. It is not necessary, for the understanding of this Text, to determine what Chittim is, whether it was Italy, or Greece, or the Islands in those Parts; it is sufficient to know, that it was a Seafaring Place in the Midland Sea, and so much startled and concerned in the Destruction of Tyre.

2 Be † still g ye inhabitants of the isle h, thou whom the merchants of Zidon i, that pass over the sea k, have replenished l.

g Heb. Be silent, as one confounded, and not knowing what to say, or as Mourners use to be, Job 2. 8, 13. Isa. 47. 5. boast no more of thy Wealth and Power, as thou usedst to do. h Heb. of Tyrus, which now was an Island, Ezek. 27. 3. & 28. 2. till Alexander joined it to the Continent, as Pliny reports. Although the Title of Islands is oft given by the Hebrews to Places bordering upon the Sea. i An eminent City of Palestina, nigh unto Tyre, much concerned with her and for her. k That are a Seafaring People. l With Mariners, Ezek. 27. 8. and Commodities.

m By the Sea, which is very fitly called the great waters, Psal. 107. 23. understand, cometh, or is brought to her. n The Corn of Egypt, wherewith Egypt abounded, and furnished divers other Parts of the World, whence it was called the Granary of the Roman Empire; which also was easily conveyed by Sea from Egypt to Tyre, and thence to divers other Countries. This is called seed here, as also Hag. 2. 10. and elsewhere, by an usual Metonymy, and the seed of Sihor, because it grew up the more abundantly because of the Overflow of the River, as all forts of Authors have noted.

noted. For Sihor is nothing else but Nilus, as appears from Jer. 2. 18. which is called Sihor, as by the Greeks it was called Melas, from its black Colour. And this and no other River seems to be that Sihor, which is so oft mentioned as one of the bounds of the Land of Canaan, as Numb. 34. 5. &c. because that Land, at least in that extent which God allotted and gave it to the Israelites, though they through neglect or cowardise might not actually possess it, did reach to one of the Branches of that River: And indeed, if Sihor be not Nilus, that great and Neighbouring River is not named in all the Scripture, which seems very improbable. o This Clause explains the former; that plentiful Harvest of Corn which comes from the Influence and Inundation of Nilus, which is emphatically called the river, as here, so also Exod. 1. 22. Isa. 19. 5. Ezek. 29. 3. 9. as Euphrates is in other Texts of Scripture. p Is as easily procured, and plentifully enjoyed by her, as if it grew in her own Territories. q A Place to which all Nations resort for Traffick.

4 Be thou ashamed, O Zidon r; for the sea s hath spoken, even the strength of the sea t, saying, I travel not, nor bring forth children, neither do I nourish up young men, nor bring up virgins u.

r For Zidon was a great City near Tyre, and strongly united to her by Commerce and League, and called by some the Mother of Tyre, which they say, was built and first inhabited by a Colony of the Sidonians; and therefore she must needs be greatly concerned in the Destruction of Tyrus. s That part of the Sea in which Tyrus was, and from which Ships and Men were sent into all Countries. t This is added to explain what he meant by the sea, even Tyrus, who might be called the strength of the Sea, either actively, because it defended that part of the Sea from Pyracies and Injuries; or passively, because it was defended and strengthned by the Sea, which encompassed it. And this Title is here given to Tyrus, to shew what great cause of Confusion and Fear Sidon had from this Example, which for Strength was much inferiour to Tyrus. u I who was so exceeding fruitful and populous, that I sent forth Colonies into other Countries, (of which the Famous City of Carthage was one) am now become barren and desolate.

5 As at the report concerning Egypt, so shall they be sorely pained at the report of Tyre x.

x According to this Translation the sense is, All the neighbouring Nations shall be no less terrified at the Tidings of the Destruction of Tyrus, than they were of old upon the Report of God's former and dreadful Judgments upon the Egyptians; of which see Exod. 15. 14, 15, 16. Jos. 2. 9, 11. because they shall despair of resisting that Enemy against whom that vast and potent City, which was deemed impregnable, could not defend it self. But the words are by the Seventy, and other both ancient and later Interpreters, rendred otherwise, and that very agreeably to the Hebrew Text, When the report (to wit, of the Destruction of Tyre) came, or shall come, (which Word is easily understood, as it is above, v. 3. and in other Texts of Scripture before mentioned) to the Egyptians, they shall be sorely pained according to the report of Tyre; their Grief shall be answerable to the Report; as the Report is very dreadful, so their Grief and Anguish shall be very great: or, they shall fear left they should be destroyed in like manner as Tyrus was destroyed.

y Flee from your own Country to Tarsus of Cilicia, and there bewail your Calamities. Or, rather, as others render the Place, Pass over the Sea, which is oft call'd Tarshish; of which see on v. 1. z Of Tyrus, as before, v. 2.

a That formerly lived in so much Pomp, and Pleasure, and Security. b Being built before Joshua's time, as is manifest from Joshua 19. 29. c Whereas before, like a delicate Lady, she would not set the sole of her foot to the ground, as the Expression is, Deut. 28. 56. but used to be carried in stately Chariots, or Magnificent Vessels. d To seek for new Habitations. For, as some of the Tyrians were taken and carried Captive into Chaldea and other Places, so others fled by Sea into several Parts of the World, Carthage, and divers other Towns of the Midland Sea, as is recorded by ancient Historians.

8 Who hath taken this counsel against Tyre e, the crowning city f, whose merchants are princes g, whose traffiquers are the honourable of the earth?

e Words of Admiration: Who and where is he that could imagine or durst attempt such a thing as this? This is the Work of God, as is expressed, v. 9. and not of Man. f Which was a Royal City, Jer. 25. 22. and called a kingdom, Ezek. 28. 2, 12. and carried away the Crown from all other Cities, and Crowned her self and her Citizens with Glory and Delights. g Equal to Princes for Wealth, and Power, and Reputation.

9 The LORD of hosts hath purposed it h, † to stain the pride of all glory, and to bring into contempt all the honourable of the earth i.

h This is the Lord's own doing; therefore do not doubt it, nor wonder at it. i God's Design is by this one Example to abate and abase the Pride of all the Potentates of the Earth, that they may see and know what weak and wretched Creatures they are, when God leaves them, and sets himself against them.

10 Pass through thy land k as a river l, O daughter of Tarshish m, there is no more † strength n.

k Tarry no longer in thy own Territories, but flee through them, and beyond them, into other Countries, for Safety and Relief. l Swiftly, left you be prevented; and continually, till you be all gone; and in Sholes and Multitudes. m Tyrus; for of her he speaks both in the foregoing and following words. And Tyrus might well be called the daughter of Tarshish, i. e. of the Sea, as that Word is used, v. 1. and elsewhere, because it then was an Island, and therefore as it were born of the Sea, and nourished and brought up by it. n Heb. no more girdle: the Girdle, which strengthens the Loins of a Man, is put for Strength, as Job 12. 21. & 38. 3. It behoveth you, O People of Tyrus, to flee away, as I advise you; for your City is unable to defend you; your Wealth, the Sinews of War, is lost; your Walls broken down; the Sea, which, like a Girdle, surrounded and defended you, is now in part filled up by your Enemies, who have joined you to the main Land; your former Friends and Allies forsake you.

11 He o stretched out his hand p over the sea q, he shook the kingdoms r: the LORD hath given a commandment s ‖ against † the merchant city t, to destroy the ‖ strong holds thereof.

o The Lord, expressed, v. 9. p To strike it, the Antecedent being put for the Consequent. q Or, against the Sea; i. e. against Tyrus, the Daughter of the Sea, as she was now called; and consequently against all those Ships and Men which used to Traffique with Tyrus, and were enriched by that Trade, and therefore suffered in her Fall. r Heb. He made the kingdoms to tremble; either, 1. the two Kingdoms of Tyre and Sidon; or rather, 2. the neighbouring and confederate Kingdoms, as appears by comparing this with Ezek. 26. 15, 16, 17, 18. who might justly quake at her Fall, partly for the dreadfulness and unexpectedness of the thing; partly because Tyre was a Bulwark, and a Refuge, and a great Advantage to them; and partly because her Fall made way for their Ruine, as being destroyed by their common Enemy. s Hath contrived and purposed it, as was said, v. 8, 9. hath put this design into the Heads and Hearts of her Enemies, and given them Courage to attempt, and Strength to execute so difficult an Enterprise. t Heb. against Canaan: the Word Canaan being taken either, 1. for a merchant, as it is used, Job 41. 6. Hos. 12. 7. or rather, 2. for the Proper name of a Place or People, as it is generally used: for the Tyrians and Sidonians were descended from Canaan, Gen. 10. 15. and were the only considerable Remainders of that cursed Race whom God had devoted to Destruction. And so this Phrase may be here used, both as an Evidence and as an Argument of their intended and approaching Ruine.

12 And he said, Thou shalt no more rejoice, O thou oppressed virgin u, daughter of Zidon x: arise, pass over to Chittim y, there also shalt thou have no rest z.

u So he calls her, either for her Pride and Beauty, and living in great ease and pleasure; or because she had hitherto never born the yoke of a conquering Enemy: though withal he declares, that she should be oppressed or deflowred very suddenly. x Whereby he understands either, 1 Zidon her self, who suffered in and with Tyre; for so this Phrase seems generally to be used, the daughter of Sion, or of Jerusalem, or of Babel, or Egypt, &c. being nothing else but Sion, Jerusalem, Babel, Egypt, &c. or rather, 2. Tyre, as most Interpreters both Jewish and Christian understand it, of whom this whole Context and Prophecy speaks; which may well be called the daughter of Zidon, because she was first built and possessed by a Colony of the Sidonians; as Pliny calleth Carthage the Daughter of Tyre, because she was built by a Colony of Tyrians. And the Title of daughter is oft-times given in Scripture to Towns or Cities which had their Being from, or Dependence upon other Cities; in which sense we read of the daughter of Heshbon, Numb. 21. 25. and of Rabbah, Jer. 49. 2, 3. and of Sodom, and of Samaria, Ezek. 16. 46, 49, 53. And the daughter of Tarshish here above, v. 10. is not meant of Tarshish it self, but of Tyrus, which had a Relation to, and Dependence upon Tarshish. y Of which Place, see on v. 1. z Thither thine Enemies shall pursue thee, and there shall they overtake thee, although thou wilt think thy self secure when thou art fled to remote Parts beyond the Sea.

13 Behold the land of the Caldeans a; this people was not b, till the Assyrian founded it for them that dwell in the wilderness c: they set up the towers thereof, they raised up the palaces thereof d, and he e brought it to ruine f.

a You Tyrians, who think your City impregnable, cast your Eyes upon the Land and Empire of the Chaldeans, or Babylonians; which, though now it be a flourishing Kingdom, and shall shortly grow far more glorious and potent, even the glory of kingdoms, as it is called, Isa. 13. 19. yet shall certainly be brought to utter ruine: and therefore your Presumption is most vain and unreasonable. b The Chaldeans at first were not a People, nor formed into any Commonwealth or Kingdom. c Till Nimrod, the Head and Founder of the Assyrian Monarchy, built Babel, Gen. 10. 9. now the head of the Chaldean Monarchy, which he built for those People, who then lived in Tents, and were dispersed here and there in wild and waste places, that he might bring them into Order, and under Government, and thereby establish and promote his own Empire. d The Chaldeans being by this means brought together into a Body, fell to the Work of Building their City, and its Towers and Palaces, and thereby got Power and Dominion over their Neighbours, till at last they grew the greatest of all the Monarchies that then were upon Earth. e The Lord, who is expressed before, and is frequently designed in Scripture by this indefinite Pronoun he, as hath been many times observed: whereby he insinuates the true Reason why neither the Chaldeans nor the Tyrians should be able to stand, because the Almighty God was engaged against them. f Will infallibly bring that great Empire to ruine. He speaks of a future thing as if it were already past, as the Prophets use to do. The Chaldeans shall now return to their their first Nothing, and become no People again.

14 Howl, ye ships of Tarshish: for your strength g is laid waste.

g The City of Tyre, where you found Safety and Wealth.

15 And it shall come to pass in that day, that Tyre shall be forgotten h seventy years i, according to the days of one king k: after the end of seventy years † shall Tyre sing as an harlot l.

h Neglected and forsaken by those who used to resort thither. i During the whole time of the Jewish Captivity in Babylon. For Tyrus was taken by Nebuchadnezzar, Jer. 27. 3, 8. Ezek. 26. 7. a little after the taking of Jerusalem, and was restored by the favour of the Persian Monarchs after the return of the Jews from the Captivity of Babylon. k Either, 1. of the Kingdom of Babylon, which lasted so long after this time; the Word king being put for kingdom, as it is Dan. 7. 17. & 8. 21. or, 2. of one Royal Race, of Nebuchadnezzar, including his Son, and his Son's Son, in whom his Family and Kingdom were to expire, as we read Ezek. 28. 7. l She shall by degrees return to her former State of Prosperity and Traffick, whereby she shall easily entice the Merchants of the World to converse and trade with her, as Harlots use to entice their Customers by Lascivious Songs.

16 Take an Harp, go about ‖ the city m, thou harlot n that hast been forgotten; make sweet melody, sing many songs, that thou mayst be remembred o.

m As Harlots use to do, to allure Customers. n So he calleth Tyre, partly because she enticed Merchants to deal with her by various Artifices, and even by dishonest Practices, as Harlots use: and partly because of the great and general Uncleanness which was both committed and tolerated in it. o By those who had forgotten thee, v. 15.

17 And it shall come to pass after the end of seventy years, that the LORD will visit Tyre p, and she shall turn to her hire q, and shall commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the world r upon the face of the earth.

p To vit, in mercy, as this Phrase is used Ruth 1. 6. Psal. 65. 9. and elsewhere. q The Hebrew Word properly signifies, the hire of an harlot; which agrees well with the fornication in the next Clause: although these Phrases are not to be understood properly, but metaphorically, of Trading or Commerce with others. r Shall trade promiscuously with People of all sorts of Nations, as Harlots entertain all Comers.

18 And her merchandise, and her hire shall be holiness to the LORD s: it shall not be treasured nor laid up t: for her merchandise shall be for them that dwell before the LORD u, to eat sufficiently, and for † durable clothing.

s He speaks not here of what the Tyrians would do immediately after their Restitution, but some time after it, even in the days of the Messias; of which even some of the Jewish Rabbies understand it. t To which the Prophets have a special respect in their several Prophecies, and Isaiah among and above the rest of them. So this is a Prophecy concerning the Conversion of the Tyrians to the True Religion, of the Accomplishment whereof, something is said Acts 21. 3, 4, 5. and more in other Authors. t Either out of Covetousness, or for the service of their Pride and Luxury, as they formerly did; but now they shall freely lay it out upon Pious and Charitable Uses. u For the Support and Encouragement of the Ministers of Holy Things, who shall teach the good Knowledge of the Lord, who dwell in God's House, and minister in his Presence; the Support of such Persons being not only an Act of Justice and Charity, but also of Piety, and of great use and necessity to maintain and propagate Religion in the World. Although this doth not exclude, but rather imply their Liberality in contributing to the Necessities of all Christians.

CHAP. XXIV.

Judgments on Judah for their defilements and transgressions, 1, — 2. a Remnant shall praise God, 13, — 15. God, by his judgments on his People and their Enemies, will advance his Kingdom, 16, — 23.

BEhold, the LORD maketh the earth a empty, and maketh it waste b, and † turneth it upside down c, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

a Or, the land, to wit, of Canaan, or Israel, or Judæa. It is usual with all Writers, when they write of their own Country, to call it the Land, by way of eminency. There are many things in this Prophecy which manifestly concern this Land and People; and nothing, at least before v. 21. which may be taken as a new and additional Prophecy, which is necessary to be understood of other Nations. But this I speak with submission, and due respect to those Learned and Judicious Interpreters who take this to be a Prophecy against Judæa, and all the neighbouring Nations. b He will shortly make it waste, first by the Assyrians, and then by the Chaldeans. c Bringeth it into great disorder and confusion.

2 And it shall be, as with the people, so with the ‖ priest d; as with the servant, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; * as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the taker of usury, so with the giver of usury to him.

d The approaching Calamity shall be universal, without any respect or distinction of Persons or Ranks of Men; the Priests themselves having been Partakers of the Peoples Sins, shall also partake with them in their Plagues. e The Purchaser of Lands shall have no more left than he that hath sold all his Patrimony; and all Persons shall be made equal in Beggary and Slavery.

3 The land shall be utterly emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the LORD hath spoken this word.

4 The earth mourneth and fadeth away, the world f languisheth and fadeth away, † the haughty people g of the earth do languish.

f From this Word come infer, That this Prophecy concerns not only the Land of Judæa, but also the neighbouring Countries: But if the proper Signification of that Word be urged, this Prophecy must be extended to all the Parts of the World, which these Learned Men will not allow. And the world, both in Scripture, and other Authors, is often used Synecdochically for that which in truth is but a small part of it, at least in comparison with the Whole; as it is not only of the Roman Empire, as Luke 2. 1. Acts 11. 28. but also of Babylon, Isa. 13. 11. and, which cometh nearer to the point, of this very Land of Judæa, as Job. 12. 19. & 18. 20. and elsewhere. And therefore it may well be so underst[illegible] here, especially when this Word world is explained by those other Words the earth, and the land, which the very next Verse sheweth to be meant of Israel or Judæa, as we shall there discover. g Not only Common People, who use to be of low Spirits; but the High and Lofty Ones, who use to be stout in their Words and Carriages towards me, and to deride my Threatnings.

5 * The earth also h is defiled under the inhabitants thereof i: because they have transgressed the laws k, changed the ordinance l, broken the everlasting covenant m.

* Gen. 3. 17.

h Heb. And the land, or, this land; for here is an emphatical Article in the Hebrew Text. i By the Wickedness of its People; of which see Levit. 18. 25, 27. Num. 35. 33, &c. k The Laws of God revealed to them, and prest upon them in a singular manner, called simply the laws, as the Word of God is oft-times called the word by way of eminency. l God's Ordinances concerning his Worship and Service; the Singular being put collectively for the plural. m The Covenant made between God and Abraham, and all his Posterity, renewed with the Israelites at Sinai, which was everlasting, both on God's part, who, upon the Conditions therein expressed, engaged himself to be a God to them and to their Seed for ever; and on Israel's part, who were obliged thereby to constant and perpetual Obedience through all Generations. All these Clauses clearly prove, that the earth or land which this Prophecy concerns, is no other than the Land of Israel and Judah.

6 Therefore hath the curse n devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate: therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned o, and few men left.

n The Curse of God threatned to Transgressours, Deut. 28. 15, &c. and 29. 20. and imprecated by and upon themselves, if they should not persist in their Obedience to God, Deut. 27. 26. and elsewhere. o Are consum'd by the Wrath of God, which is commonly compared to Fire.

7 * The new wine mourneth p, the vine languisheth q, all the merry-hearted r do sigh.

* Chap. 16. 8, 9. Joel 1. 10, 12.

p Because there are either none, or none but the Enemies of God and Israel, to drink it. Grief is ascribed to senseless Creatures by a Figure usual in all Authors. q Either because there are no People left to dress it, or gather its Grapes; or because it is broken down and spoiled by the Enemy. r That made their Hearts merry with Wine, Psal. 104. 15.

8 The mirth * of tabrets s ceaseth, the noise t of them that rejoyce endeth, the joy of the harp ceaseth.

* Jer. 7. 34. & 16. 9. & 25. 10. Ezek. 26. 13. Hos. 2. 11.

s Which they used in their Feasts and Revellings. t The Word properly signifies a roaring Noise and confused Clamour, such as drunken men make, Psal. 78. 65. Zech. 9. 15.

9 They shall not drink wine with a song, strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it u.

u Because of the Fears and Miseries wherewith it is mixed.

10 The city x of ‖ confusion y is broken down: every house is shut up z, that no man may come in.

x Jerusalem, and other Cities; for the Singular Word may be here taken collectively. y Or, of vanity, or emptiness, or desolation; for this Hebrew Word signifies all these things. And the City may be thus called, either, 1. in regard of the Judgments of God coming upon it, as if he had said, a City devoted to Desolation or Destruction, to be emptied of its Goods and People: or, 2. for its Sin, a City of Confusion or Disorder, breaking all the Laws and Orders which God had established among them; or a City that walketh with or after vanity, as the Scripture speaks, Job 31. 5. Jer. 2. 5. that loveth and speaketh vanity, as they did Psal. 4. 2. & 12. 2. And this may seem most convenient, that the Sin of the City should be noted in this Word, as the punishment is expressed in the next. z Either for fear of the Enemy who have entred the City; or rather, because the Inhabitants are either fled, or dead, or gone into Captivity, and so there are none to go into it, or come out of it.

11 There is a crying for wine a in the streets, all joy is darkned, the mirth of the land is gone.

a For the want or loss of their Wine, and spoil of their Vines, whereby they were deprived of the Means both of their Delight and Profit. Whereby he intimates their gross Sensuality and Sottishness, that instead of crying for their Sins, and humbling themselves under God's Judgments, did only howl for their corn, and wine, and oil, as they did Hos. 7. 14.

12 In the city is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction b.

b The Gates of the City are totally ruined, that the Enemy may enter when and where they please.

13 When thus it shall be c in the midst of the land d among the people, * there shall be as the shaking of an olive-tree, and as the gleaning-grapes when the vintage is done e.

* Chap. 17. 5, 6.

c When this Judgment shall be executed. d In the Land: But withal this Phrase may intimate, that the Judgment should not be slight and superficial, and in the Skirts of the Land; but that it should reach their very Heart, their most inward and best defended Parts. e There shall be left a Remnant, and that but a very small Remnant; as there are some few, and but a few Olives or Grapes left after the Vintage is over. Which, by comparing this with the following Verse, seems to be added by way of mitigation, to signifie, that God would in Judgment remember Mercy.

14 They f shall lift up their voice, they shall sing for the majesty of the LORD g, they shall cry aloud h from the sea i.

f The Remnant preserved. g For his glorious Power and Goodness manifested in their Deliverance. h In way of Exultation and Thanksgiving to God. i From the Isles of the Sea, as this is explained in the next Verse; from those Parts beyond the Sea into which they were carried Captive, and in which they were miraculously preserved.

k These are the Words either, 1. of the Remnant, who being themselves delivered, do encourage and exhort their Brethren to glorifie God with them: or, 2. of the Prophet, directing and exciting God's People to glorifie God in their Afflictions, because of that Deliverance which he had promised, and would assuredly give to them. l When you are in the Furnace of Affliction; although this Word is never used in Scripture in this sense. Others therefore render the Word, in the valleys; and others, in the holes, you that are now forced to hide your selves in Holes. Possibly it may be better rendred, for light or illumination; which may be understood either of the Light of the Truth which God would reveal to them; or for the Comfort and Felicity which God would confer upon them; Light being frequently taken both ways in Scripture. For this Hebrew Word, in all other Places of Scripture where it is found, signifies that Urim which was in the High-Priest's Breast-plate, and which properly signifies illumination, as both Jews and Christians render it, whereof that was both a Sign and Instrument; of which see on Exod. 28. 30. Add to this, that this part of the Prophecy seems to concern the Days of the Gospel, and that Light which the Jews should then receive by the Messias, of whom the High-Priest with his Ephod and Urim was a Type. And so this is an Exhortation to the converted Jews to bless God for the true Urim, even for Christ and the Gospel. And some of the ancient Translators had this signification of the Word in their Eye, as the Vulgar Latin, who render it, in doctrines; and the Chaldee, who translate it, when light shall come to the just. But this I propose with submission. m In remote Countries, beyond the Sea, which in Scripture are commonly called isles, as hath been formerly and oft observed. Whereby he seems to imply, that he here speaks not so much of a Temporal Felicity which the Jews should receive and enjoy in their own Country, as of a Spiritual Advantage which they should have by the Messias in the Places where they were dispersed.

(†Heb. wing. † Heb. Leannefs to me. Or, My secret to me.) 16 From the † uttermost part of the earth n have we heard songs o, even glory to the righteous p: but I said q, † My leanness, my leanness r, wo unto me: the treacherous dealers have dealt treacherously s, yea, the treacherous dealers have dealt very treacherously t.

n From all the Parts of the Earth or Land in which the Jews are or shall be. o Songs of Joy and Praise. p Or, glory be to the righteous; which may seem to be the Matter of the Song. By the righteous may be here understood either, 1. the Generation of Righteous and Holy Men, who formerly were despised, but now, upon this eminent Deliverance, shall be highly honoured: or, 2. the Lord, whom they were exhorted to glorifie in the foregoing Verse, and who may well be called the righteous one, as he is frequently stiled the holy one, as Hos. 11. 9. Habak. 3. 3, &c. or, 3. the Messiah, to whom this Title of just or righteous is frequently given, as Isa. 53. 11. Jer. 23. 5. Zech. 9. 9, &c. And the believing Jews call him righteous emphatically, partly to intimate that he is the Author and Procurer of all true Righteousness, and partly in opposition to their unbelieving Brethren, who rejected and condemned him as a Malefactor. All which the Prophet foresaw by the Spirit of Prophecy. q But in the midst of these joyful Tidings, I discern something which interrupts my Joys, and gives me cause of bitter complaint and lamentation. r I faint and pine away for grief, for the following Reason. s The Jews, who have been frequently guilty of great perfidiousness towards God, are now acting the same Part. Which he speaks either, 1. of those who lived in his time; or rather, 2. of those who should live when the Messias was upon Earth, of whom he foresaw by the Spirit, that they would forsake God, and reject their Messiah, and thereby bring utter Destruction upon themselves. For even the Hebrew Doctors expound this Place of the Perfidiousness of some Jews in the times of the Messiah. And it is not strange that so sad a sight made the Prophet cry out, My leanness, &c.

* Jer. 48. 43, 44. See deeply he was affected with it.

1 King. 19. 17. Amos 5. 12.

t He repeats it to shew the horridness of the Crime, and how 17 * Fear, and the pit, and the snare x are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

x Great and various Judgments, some actually inflicted, and others expected and justly feared, as the punishment of their last-mentioned Treachery.

18 And it shall come to pass, that he who fleeth from the noise of the fear y, shall fall into the pit z; and he that cometh up out of the midst of the pit, shall be taken in the snare; for the * windows from on high are opened, and the * foundations of the earth do shake a.

* Gen. 7. 11. * Psal. 18. 7.

y Upon the Report of some terrible Evil coming towards him; the Act fear, being here put for the Object, or the thing feared, as it is in many places. And thus this very Phrase is taken, Job 15. 21. z When he designs to avoid one Danger, by so doing he shall plunge himself into another, and a greater Mischief. a Both Heaven and Earth conspire against him. He alludes to the Deluge of Waters which God poured down from Heaven, and to the Earth-quakes which he oft-times causeth below.

19 The earth is utterly broken down, the earth is clean dissolved, the earth is moved exceedingly b.

b This is repeated again, partly to shew the dreadfulness and certainty of these Judgments, and partly to awaken and affect the stupid Israelites, who greatly needed it.

20 The earth c shall * reel to and fro like a drunkard d, and shall be removed like a cottage e, and the transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it f, and it shall fall, and not rise again.

* Chap. 19. 14.

c The People of the Earth. d Shall be sorely perplexed and distressed, not knowing whither to go, nor what to do. e Or, like a lodge in a Garden, of which this Word is used, Isa. 1. 8. which is soon taken down, and set up in another place, as occasion requires. Or, as others render it, like a tent, which is easily and commonly carried from place to place. f Those Sins which they formerly esteemed light and pleasant, shall now be most burdensome and grievous to them, because of the dreadful punishments which shall follow them.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day g, that the LORD shall † punish the host of the high ones that are on high h, and the kings of the earth i upon the earth.

g Either when God shall punish the Apostatical Jews; or, about or after that time; or, in a time known to God: for this Phrase is oft used indefinitely, and without any respect to the time designed in the foregoing passages. h The proud and potent Enemies of God, and of his People, who possess the High-places of the Earth. i Either, 1. the great Monarchs of the World, who now scorn and trample upon God's People; or, 2. the Princes and Rulers of Israel or Judah: for the Name of king is frequently given in Scripture unto mean and inferior Rulers, as Judg. 1. 7. 1 Kings 20. 1, 12. Psal. 119. 46. and elsewhere.

22 And they shall be gathered together k † as prisoners are gathered in the ‖ pit; and shall be shut up in the prison l; and after many days shall they be ‖ visited m.

k By God's special Providence, in order to their punishment, as the following Words shew. And thus the unbelieving Jews were generally gathered together at Jerusalem, to their solemn Feast, when Titus came and besieged, and after some time took and destroyed them. Which was a very remarkable Hand of God, as Josephus and other Historians observed. And I know nothing to the contrary, but this very thing may be meant in this place; it being confessed, that divers Passages of this Chapter concern the times of the Messiah. l As Malefactors, which are taken in several Places, are usually brought to one common Prison, where they are reserved in order to their Trial and Punishment. m Either, 1. in Judgment, as visiting is oft used. So the sense is, After they have been punished with long Imprisonment, and tormented with Expectation and Fear, they shall be brought forth to receive condign Punishment. Or, rather, 2. in Mercy. And so the sense may be either, 1. After the Jews shall have suffered many and grievous things from the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Persians, and others, at last their Messiah and Deliverer shall come into the World, &c. Or, 2. After the Unbelieving and Apostate Jews shall have been shut up in Unbelief, and in great Tribulations for many Ages together, they shall be convinced of their Sin in crucifying their Messiah, and brought home to God and Christ by true Repentance.

23 Then the * moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed n, when the LORD of hosts o shall reign in mount Zion and in Jerusalem p, and ‖ before his ancients q gloriously r.

* Chap. 30. 26. Ezek. 32. 7. Joel 2. 31. Rev. 6. 12. 24. 22. 5. 15.

n The sun and moon are here considered either, 1. as they were ‖ abused to Idolatry; for these two were most eminent Idols, and most generally worshipped, especially in those Eastern Countries, Deut. 4. 19. &c. 17. 3. Job 31. 26, &c. and so may be put for all Idols, which were confounded by Christ at his coming, as was foretold in Scripture, and verified by the Testimony of Ancient, yea even of Heathen Historians: Or, 2. as they were the most eminent and glorious Lights of the World, and were oft used, both in Scripture and other Authors, to signifie the great Kings and Potentates and Glories of the World, as hath been formerly noted, and we shall have further occasion to remember. So the sense is, That all Earthly Powers and Glories should be obscured with the far greater Splendor of Christ the King of Kings, at whose Feet even the Kings of the Earth shall fall down and worship, as we shall see in other parts of this Prophecy. o The Messiah, who, though Man, yet is also God, and the Lord of Hosts, and is so called Zech. 2. 8, 11. p Shall come in the Flesh, and set up his Kingdom, first in Jerusalem, and afterward in all other Nations.

Or, shall be ashamed. Isa. 19. 1. Jer. 43. 12. Ezek. 30. 13. Amos 1. 5. Zeph. 2. 11. Zech. 10. 11. ancients

q Before his Ministers, who are in some sort the Courtiers of this King of Glory, as being continually attending upon him, and enjoying his Presence, and executing the Powers and Offices of his Kingdom; and especially before his Apostles, who were the Witnesses of his Divine Words and Works, and particularly of his Resurrection and Ascension, by which he entred upon his Kingdom; and of this exercise of his Royal Power, in subduing both Jews and Gentiles to himself. The Word ancient or elder is not a Name of Age, but of Office, as it is in very many Texts of Scripture. And the Ancients are here put Synecdochically for the whole Church, in whose Name and for whose Service they act. r Heb. in glory; for that Prepositon is very frequently understood.

CHAP. XXV.

God Glorious in his Judgments on Babel, 1,—5. and his People's Salvation, 6,—12.

O LORD, thou art my God, I will exalt thee, I will praise thy Name a; for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth b.

a The Prophet reflecting upon those great and glorious Prophecies which he had delivered concerning the Destruction of his Enemies, and the Protection and Deliverance of his People, and the sending of the Messiah, and the Establishment of his own Kingdom in spight of all opposition, interrupteth the Course of his Prophecies, and breaketh forth into a Solemn Celebration of all these wonderful Works. b Thy counsels from which all thy Works proceed, and which thou hast from time to time revealed to thy Prophets and People, which were of old, being conceived from all Eternity, and long since made known by thy Threatnings and Promises, are true and firm, and therefore shall certainly be accomplished.

2 For thou hast made * of a city c, an heap; of a defenced city, a ruin: a palace of strangers d, to be no city, it shall never be built e.

* Chap. 17. 1, 2, 3.

c Which is put collectively for cities. He speaks of the Cities of strangers, as the following Clause explains it, or of Enemies of God, and of his People. And under the Name cities he comprehends their Countries and Kingdoms, of which Cities are an eminent and commonly the strongest part. d The Royal Cities, in which were the palaces of strangers, i.e. of the Kings of strange People, or of the Gentiles. e Their Cities and Palaces have been or shall be utterly and irrecoverably destroyed.

3 Therefore shall the strong people glorifie thee, the city of the terrible nations shall fear thee f.

f Thy stoutest Enemies observing thy wonderful Works, in saving thy People, and in destroying others of thine and their Adversaries, shall be either converted, or at least convinced, and forced to acknowledge thy Power, and shall tremble before thee.

4 For thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat g, when the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm against the wall h.

g For thou hast defended thy poor and helpless People, against the fiercest Assaults of their Enemies. h Or, for (as this Particle commonly signifies; or rather, therefore, as it is frequently used, because thou art their Defender) the blast if the terrible, or strong, or violent one, was like a storm (of Hail, or Rain or Wind) against a wall, which makes a great and terrible noise, but without any effect, for the Wall stands firm in spight of it. It is probable the Prophet in these Words had a special respect to that miraculous Deliverance of Jerusalem from the Rage and Attempt of Sennacherib; although the Words be general, and include other Deliverances of a like nature.

5 Thou shalt bring down the noise i of strangers k, as the heat in a dry place; even the heat with the shadow of a cloud l: the branch m of the terrible ones shall be brought low.

i The tumultuous noise, as the Word properly signifies, which he called their blast in the foregoing Verse; by which he means their Rage and furious Attempts, which are commonly managed with much noise and clamour. k Of those strange and Heathen Nations that fought against God's People. l With as much ease as thou dost in the Course of thy common Providence allay the Heat of a dry Season and Place, either by the shadow of thy Clouds, or by the Rain which falleth from black and shadowy Clouds. m The Arm or Power, as a Branch is the Arm of a Tree. Or, the Prince or Commanders: for the Word branch is sometimes put for a Person of eminent place and Power, as Psal. 80. 15. Isa. 4. 2. Zech. 3. 8. & 6. 12. But others render the Word, the song, as it is used, Cant. 2. 12. their jovial and triumphant Song.

6 And in this mountain n shall * the LORD of hosts make unto all people o a feast of fat things p, a feast of wines on the lees q, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined.

* Isa. 49. 6. & 56. 7. & 66. 20. Zech. 8. 20, 22.

n In Mount Zion, to wit, in God's Church, which is very frequently meant by the Names of Zion and Jerusalem, both in the Old and in the New Testament. o Both Jews and Gentiles, who shall then be admitted to the participation of the same Privileges and Ordinances. p A Feast made up of the most exquisite and delicate Provisions: Which is manifestly meant of the Ordinances, Graces, and Comforts given by God in and to his Church. q Which have continued upon the Lees a competent time, whereby they gain strength, and afterwards drawn off from the Lees, and so refined, as it is explained in the next Clause.

7 And he will † destroy in this mountain the face of the covering r † cast over all people, and the vail s that is spread over all nations.

r Which is put either, 1. for the covering of the Face, by an Hypallage, as silver of shekels is put for shekels of silver, Lev. 5. 15. or, 2. for the Covering or veil, as the next Clause expounds it, the Word face being oft superfluously used in the Hebrew Language, as Gen. 1. 2, 29. and elsewhere. s The Vail of Ignorance of God, and of the true Religion, which then was upon the Gentiles, and now is upon the Jews, 2 Cor. 3. 14, 15, 16. which, like a Vail, covers mens Eyes, and keeps them from discerning between things that differ. It may be also an Allusion either to the Vail which was put upon Moses his Face, Exod. 34. 33, 34. or to the Vail of the Sanctuary, by which the persons without it were kept from the sight of the Ark. This is a manifest Prophecy concerning the Illumination and Conversion of the Gentiles.

8 He t will * swallow up death u in victory x, and the Lord GOD will * wipe away tears y from off all faces, and the rebuke of his people z shall he take away from off all the earth a: for the LORD hath spoken it b.

t The Lord, expressed both in the foregoing and following Words, even the Messiah who is God and Man. u Shall by his death destroy the Power of Death, as is said Heb. 2. 14. take away the Sting of the First Death, and prevent the Second Death, and give Eternal Life to the World, even to all that believe in him. x Heb. unto victory, i. e. so as to overcome it perfectly; which compleat Victory Christ hath already purchased for, and will in due time actually confer upon his People. y Will take away from his People all Sufferings and Sorrows, and all the Causes of them; which is begun here, and perfected in Heaven. z The Reproach and Contempt which was daily cast upon his faithful People by the ungodly World, and, among others, by the Apostate and Unbelieving Jews, who accounted the Christians to be the scum and off-scouring of all things. a Or, from off all this Land, i. e. from all the Church and People of God, wheresoever they shall be, from all their faces, as was said in the foregoing Clause. b Therefore doubt not of it, though it seem incredible to you.

9 And it shall be said c in that day, Lo, this is our God d, we have waited for him e, and he will save us: this is the LORD, we have waited for him, we will be glad, and rejoyce in his salvation.

c By God's People, in way of triumph and reply to their Enemies. d Your Gods are senseless and impotent Idols; but Our God is Omnipotent, and hath done these great and glorious Works which fill the World with Admiration. We may well boast of him; for there is no God like to him. Possibly it may be an intimation, that God should take flesh, and become visibly present amongst Men. e Our Messiah or Saviour, long since promised, and for whom we have waited a long time, now at last is come into the World, bringing Salvation with him.

10 For in this mountain shall the hand of the LORD rest f, and Moab g shall be ‖ trodden down ‖ under him h, even as straw is ‖ trodden down for the dunghill i.

Or, threshed. ‖ Or, threshed in Madmenah.

f The powerful and gracious presence of God (which is oft signified in Scripture by God's hand) shall have its constant and settled abode; it shall not move from place to place, as it did with the Tabernacle; nor shall it depart from it, as it did from Jerusalem, but shall continue in his Church even to the end of the World, Mat. 28. 20. g the Moabites, which having been constant and implacable Enemies to Israel, are Synecdochically put for all the Enemies of God's Church, as the Edomites upon the same account are, Isa. 34. 6. & 63. 1. h Under his Feet, as appears by the following Similitude. i As easily and as effectually as the Straw, which being left upon the Ground, and mixed with the Dung which lies there, is trampled upon by the Feet of Men and Beasts.

11 And he k shall spread forth his hands l in the midst of them, as he that swimmeth spreading forth his hands m to swim: and he shall bring down their pride together with the spoils of their hands n.

k Either, 1. Moab, who being plunged into a Sea of trouble, shall endeavour to swim out of it, but to no purpose; or rather, 2. the Lord, who is designed by this very Pronoun he, both in the latter Clause of this Verse, and in the following Verse; whose Power they shall be no more able to resist, than the Waters can resist a Man that swims, who with great facility divides them hither and thither. l Or, stretch forth his hands to the utmost, to smite and destroy them. m Which he doth to the uttermost. n With all that Wealth which they have gained by Rapine, and spoiling of God's People, and others. But the Words are otherwise rendred by others with or by (as this Hebrew Particle is used, Esth. 9. 25.) the arms of his hands: which he may mention, because the Strength of a Man, and of his Hands, consisteth in his Arms; whence also the arm in Scripture, is oft put for Strength: or, by the motion or stroke of his hands, as all the ancient Translators do in effect render it. And this seems to agree best with the Metaphor here borrowed from one that swimmeth, which is performed in that manner.

12 And the * fortress of the high fort of thy walls o shall he bring down, lay low, and bring to the ground, even to the dust.

* Ch. 26. 5.

o All thy Walled Cities and Fortifications, to which thou trustest.

CHAP. XXVI.

A Song of Praise and Confidence in God: for the blessings of Righteousness: judgments on their Enemies: and favour to his People: their Chastisement, repentance, and hope. 1,—21.

In

IN that day a shall this song be sung in the land of Judah b, We have a strong city c, * salvation will God appoint for walls and bulwarks d.

* Chap. 60. 18.

a When God shall do such glorious Works for the Comfort of his People, and for the Ruine of his and their Enemies, as he hath described in the foregoing Chapter. b In the Church of God, described in the foregoing Chapter by the Titles of Judah, and Jerusalem, and Sion, or the like. c Jerusalem, or the Church, which is oft called or compared to a City, as Psal. 87.3. Rev. 3.12. & 11.2. & 21.2. d God's immediate and saving Protection shall be to his Church instead of Walls, &c. But I conceive, with submission, the Words may very fitly be thus rendred, He will send or put or make her walls and bulwarks salvation, i.e. as safe as Salvation it self: or, in safety, there being only a defect of the Preposition, which is very frequent in Scripture.

* Psal. 118. 19, 20. † Heb. truths.

2 * Open ye the gates e, that the righteous nation f which keepeth the † truth g may enter in.

e Of the City mentioned v. 1. f Either, 1. those godly Jews who are returning from Babylon; or, 2. the whole body of righteous and holy Men, whether Jews or Gentiles. For he seems to speak here, as he apparently did in the foregoing Chapter, of the Times of the Gospel. g Which is sincere and stedfast in the Profession and Practice of the True Religion.

3 Thou wilt keep him in † perfect peace, whose ‖ mind is staid on thee h: because he trusteth in thee.

h Heb. the fixed thought or mind (i.e. the Man whose Mind and Thoughts are fixed and setled upon thee by Faith, as the next Clause explains it, the Qualifications being put for the Person so qualified, as folly and wisdom are put for a Fool and a Wise man, Prov. 24.9. Mic. 6.9. and peace for a Man of Peace, Psal. 120.7.) thou wilt keep in peace peace, i.e. in all manner of peace, in constant and perfect peace. In the foregoing Verse the Righteous were admitted into the City, and here they were preserved and defended in it by God's Almighty Power.

4 Trust ye in the LORD for ever i: for in the LORD JEHOVAH is † everlasting strength k.

i In all times and Conditions. k Heb. the rock of ages, a sure Refuge to all those that trust in him, through all generations; therefore you may safely trust in him, and that for ever.

* Chap. 25. 12. & 32. 19.

5 For he bringeth down l them that dwell on high m, the * lofty city n, he layeth it low, he layeth it low, to the ground, he bringeth it even to the dust.

l Heb. he hath brought down, which yet may be put for the future, he will bring down, &c. You may trust him; for he can and doth raise some, and throw down others, according to his own good pleasure. m He speaks not so much of heighth of Place, as of Dignity and Power; in which sense also he mentions the lofty city in the next Clause. n Which may be understood either of proud Babylon; or, collectively, of all the strong and stately Cities of God's Enemies.

6 The foot shall tread it down, even the feet of the poor, and the steps of the needy o.

o God will bring it under the Feet of his poor and weak and despised People.

7 The way of the just is uprightness p: thou most upright, dost weigh the path of the just q.

p Or, most even or plain. Heb. evenness or plainness. Which is understood either, 1. of the Rectitude or Goodness of his Actions for Course: or rather, 2. of the good Success of his Affairs: for this suits best with the Coherence. When the way of the Wicked is rugged, in which they easily stumble and fall into mischief, of which he spoke v. 5, 6. the path of Just men is plain and smooth, and they walk safely and comfortably in it. q The sense of the Words thus rendred is, Thou, O God, who art most upright in all thy ways, and therefore a Lover of Uprightness, and of all upright Men, dost weigh (i.e. examine) the path of the just, the Course of his Actions, and, which is implied, dost approve of them, and therefore direct them to an happy issue. But the Words are otherwise rendred by some late Learned Interpreters, to this purpose, Thou dost level or make plain (as this very Word signifies Psal. 78. 50.) the path of the just exactly. Heb. with evenness, or evenly, so as to make it very even. Thus the first Clause declares that it was even or plain, and this sheweth whence or by whom it is made such, even by God.

8 Yea, * in the way of thy judgments, O LORD, have we waited for thee r; the desire of our soul is to thy Name, and to the remembrance of thee s.

r And as we thy People have loved and served thee when thou hast made our way plain and easie for us; so we have not forsaken thee, but waited upon thee, when thou hast made it rugged and troublesome by thy Judgments. He speaks of the same Just men, v. 7, 8, 9. though it be with a change of the Numbers and Persons, which is usual in Prophetical Writings, the just, v. 7. we v. 8. I, v. 9. s Heb. to thy name and thy memory; which by a known Figure called Hendiadys, may be put for the remembrance of thy Name. And the Name of God is here, as it is in many other places, put for God himself, as he hath made himself known by his Word and Works. And so the sense of this Clause is, Our Affections are not alienated from thee by thy Judgments, but we still continue to desire thy Presence and Favour, and we support and comfort our selves with the remembrance of what thou art, and what thou hast done, and what thou hast promised to be to do to thy People.

9 * With my soul t have I u desired thee in the night x, yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee y early z: for when thy judgments are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness a.

t Sincerely and most affectionately, as Psal. 63.1. and elsewhere. u The Prophet speaks this in the name of all God's People, by comparing this with the foregoing Verse. x Either, 1. figuratively, in the time of Affliction, which is often called night or darkness; or rather, 2. properly, as appears from the next Clause, wherein early or in the morning is opposed to it. When others are sleeping, my Thoughts and Desires are working towards God. y By fervent Prayer for thy Loving-kindness. z Betimes in the morning, as the Word signifies. a And good reason it is that we should thus desire and seek thee in the way of thy Judgments, because this is the very design of thy Judgments, that men should thereby be awakened to learn and return to their Duty; and this is a common effect of them, that those who have been careless in Prosperity, are made wiser and better by Afflictions. The inhabitants of the world seem to be here taken not in opposition to God's People, as if not they only, but even the wicked World would do thus; but in a general Notion, so as to include, yea principally to design God's People, as may be gathered both from the former part of this, and the foregoing Verse, in which he describes their pious Carriage under Affliction; as also from the two following Verses, in which he speaks of the wicked, whom he seems to oppose to these inhabitants of the world, because these learn Righteousness, whilst those wicked men remain incorrigible both under Mercies and Judgments, v. 10, 11.

10 * Let favour be shewed to the wicked, yet will he not learn righteousness b: in the land of uprightness c will he deal unjustly, and will not behold the majesty of the LORD d.

b This is the Carriage of thy People; but the Course of Wicked men is directly contrary in all conditions: For if thou dost spare them, when thou punishest thine own People, they will not accept of that gracious Invitation to Repentance, nor walk worthy of so great a Mercy. c Even in God's Church, and among his People, where Righteousness is professed and taught, and by many practised; and where Unrighteousness is discountenanced and punished: all which things are Aggravations of his Sin. d Although God gives such plain and clear Discoveries of his Majesty and Glory, not only in his Word, but also in his Works, and especially in this glorious Work of his Patience and Mercy to Wicked men, yet they wilfully shut their Eyes at it, and will not acknowledge it.

* Jer. 5.3. Psal. 28. 5. Chap. 5. 12. ‖ Or, to wards the people.

11 LORD, when thy hand is lifted up, they * will not see e: but they shall see, and be ashamed for their envy ‖ at the people g; yea, the fire of thine enemies h shall devour them.

e And they are guilty of the same obstinate Blindness when thou dost smite and punish them, which is commonly signified by lifting up the hand, as Ezek. 44. 12. Micha 5. 9. Compare also 2 Sam. 20. 21. 1 Kings 11. 26. Or, as others render it, When thine hand is high or exalted, i.e. When thy Works are most evident and most glorious, when thou appearest most gloriously for the defence of thy People, and for the punishment of thine and their Enemies, they will not see. f The same Word is repeated in another sense: They shall feel and know that by sad and costly Experience, which they would not learn by other and easier ways. Seeing is oft put for feeling; in which sense Men are said to see affliction, Lam. 3.1. and to see death, Psal. 89.48. and the like. g Or, at or towards thy people, the Pronoun thy being repeated out of the following Clause, as it is in many other places of Scripture, as hath been before noted. Their Envy and Hatred against God's People blinded their Minds, that they neither could nor would see that God was on their side, though the Tokens of it were most manifest and undeniable. Which was the Case of Pharaoh and the Egyptians, who were not sensible that the Lord fought for Israel against the Egyptians, as they said Exod. 14. 25. till it was too late. h Not efficiently, but objectively: Such Fire or Wrath as thou useth to pour forth upon thine implacable Enemies. As my wrong, Gen. 16. 5. is not the Wrong done by me, but to me; and my violence, Jer. 51. 35. is the violence done to me, as we translate it, not by me.

12 LORD, thou wilt ordain peace for us i: for thou also hast wrought all our works k ‖ in us l.

i As thou wilt destroy thine and our Enemies, so thou wilt bless us thy People with Peace and Prosperity. k Either, 1. all the Good Works done by us, which are the Effects of thy Grace: or rather, 2. all the Good and Great Works which have been wrought for us, all our wonderful Deliverances and singular Blessings come from thee. And so the Argument is this, God hath delivered us formerly upon all occasions, and therefore he will still deliver us, and give us Peace: Which Inference is frequently made by Holy Men in Scripture. l Heb. to or for us.

* Chap. 63. 12. 8.

13 O LORD our God, * other lords besides thee m have had dominion over us n: but by thee only o will we make mention of thy Name p.

m Others besides thee, who art our only Judge and King, and Law-giver, Isa. 33. 22. and besides those Governours who have been set up by thee, and have ruled us for thee, and in subordination to thee, even Foreign and Heathenish Lords, such as the Philistins, and lately the Assyrians. n Have exercised a Tyrannical Power over us. o By thy Favour and Help, by which alone (and not by our Strength or Merits) we have been rescued from their Tyranny. p We will celebrate thy Praise, and trust in thee for the future. Thou only hast given us both Ability and Occasion to magnifie thy Name, whereas without thy Succour we had gone into the place of Silence, where there is no remembrance of thee, as is said Psal. 6. 5.

14 They are dead, they shall not live; they are deceased, they shall not rise q: therefore r hast thou visited visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish s.

q Those Tyrants and Enemies are utterly and irrecoverably destroyed, so as they shall never live or rise again to molest us. Possibly he speaks of the miraculous destruction of Sennacherib's Army before Jerusalem. r That they might be so effectually destroyed, thou didst undertake the Work. Or, rather, because (as this Particle is used Numb. 14. 43. Psal. 42. 6.) thou hast, &c. as it follows. s Thou hast destroyed both them and theirs, and all the Monuments or Memorials of their Greatness and Glory.

t Heb. Thou hast added to the nation. Which may be understood either, 1. in way of Mercy, of adding to their Numbers, as our Translation takes it; and so we have in effect the same Phrase, 2 Sam. 24. 3. The Lord add to the people, &c. and Psal. 115. 14. in the Hebrew Text, The Lord shall add upon or to you: or, 2. in way of Judgment, of adding to their Plagues or Miseries, of which we read Rev. 22. 18. in which sense the Phrase is found in the Hebrew Text, Psal. 120. 3. What shall be added to thee; and in that usual Form of Imprecation, The Lord do so to me and more, Ruth 1. 17. 1 Sam. 3. 16, &c. where it is in the Hebrew, The Lord do so to me and add. And this sense seems to be favoured by the Context, as also by the ancient Greek Translators, who render the Words, add to them evil or punishments. And so the Word adding may be used emphatically and sarcastically: God indeed will add to them; but what? Not Numbers, and Power, and Glory, as they expected; but Plagues and Judgments one after another. This nation is is supposed by the Current of Interpreters to be the People of Israel, emphatically called the nation. Possibly it may be the Assyrians, of whom he spoke in the last Verse. But this I propose with submission. u Thy Justice is glorified in their Punishment or Destruction. x Which may be understood either, 1. of Israel, and that either in a way of Mercy, Thou hast by destroying the Assyrians enlarged thy People, who were shut up in Jerusalem, so that now they may go to the remotest parts of the Land; or in way of Judgment: Thou hast removed thy People out of their own Land, and suffered them to be carried Captive to the ends of the Earth: Or, 2. of the Assyrians; Thou hast removed them from Jerusalem, which they had besieged, and caused them to flee into their own Country, which in Scripture-phrase was in the ends of the earth; of which see Isa. 5. 26. & 13. 5.

16 O LORD, in trouble have they y visited thee z, they poured out a a † prayer b when thy chastning was upon them c.

y To wit, thy People, as appears both from the Matter of this Verse, and from the following Verses. z Come into thy Presence, with their Prayers and Supplications, as the next Clause explains it. a Which notes the Plenty or rather the Earnestness of their Prayers, as Psal. 42. 4. & 142. 2. b Heb. a muttering or lowly speech, such as Charmers use, and such as Hezekiah used when he was in great distress, Isa. 38. 14. Like a crane or swallow so did I chatter, I did mourn as a dove; and such as is usual in case of great humiliation and dejection of Mind. c When thou wast punishing them for their Sins.

17 Like as * a woman with child, that draweth near the time of her delivery, is in pain, and crieth out in her pangs: so have we been d in thy sight e, O LORD.

d Such was our Anguish and Danger. e Whilst thou didst only look upon us like a meer Spectator, without affording us the least degree of Pity or Help. Or, this Phrase notes only the reality of the Thing; God was Witness of this our Misery, and knoweth the Truth of what I say.

18 We have been with child, we have been in pain, we have as it were brought forth wind f, we have not wrought any deliverance g in the earth h, neither have the inhabitants of the world i fallen.

f We have had the Torment of a Woman in Childbearing, but not the Comfort of a Living Child, Job. 16.21. for we have brought forth nothing but Wind; all our Labours and Hopes were vain and unsuccessful. The Prophet here represents their deplorable and desperate Condition, before God appeared so eminently to deliver them. g we found that we were utterly unable to deliver our selves. h Or, in the land, in our own Country, where yet we had far greater Advantages than we could have had elsewhere. i The Assyrians, or our other Enemies; for they are here opposed to God's People.

19 Thy dead men shall live k, together with my dead body l shall they arise m: awake n, and sing, ye that dwell in the dust o: for thy dew p is as the dew of herbs q, and the earth shall cast out the dead r.

k The Prophet here turneth his Speech to God's People, and gives them a Cordial to support them in their deep Distress, expressed in the foregoing Verse. Thy dead Men are not like those v. 14. for they shall not live, as I there said; but thine shall live. You shall certainly be delivered from all your Fears and Dangers. Nothing is more frequent, both in Scripture and other Authors, than for great Calamities to be compared to death, and Deliverance from them to life, and reviving, and resurrection: And particularly the Captivity of the Jews in Babylon, and their Deliverance out of it, is largely expressed by this very Similitude, Ezek. 37. 11, &c. l As I my self, who am one of your number, and of these Dead men, shall live again. You shall be delivered together with me. Which he might add, to meet with an Objection; for they might think that God would take some special Care of this holy Prophet, and would preserve him when they should be destroyed. No, saith he, As I am at present like a dead Carkass no less than you, so you shall be restored to Life no less than I. If the Supplement of our Translation seems to be too literal, it may be rendred to the same purpose, as my body, the Particle as being oft understood, as I have divers times observed: As my dead Body shall rise, so shall theirs also; we are equally dead, and shall equally live again. m Unto Life, as appears from the former Clause. n Out of your sleep, even the sleep of death, as it is called Psal. 13. 3. Death being oft compared to a Sleep, as Job. 11.11. All. 7. 60. and Restauration to Life unto awaking, as 2 Kings 4. 31. o You that are dead and buried in the Dust, as the Dead are said to sleep in the dust, Dan. 12. 2. p The Favour and Blessing of God upon thee, which is oft compared to the dew, as Hos. 14. 5. Micb. 5. 7. The Pronoun thy is here taken not efficiently, but objectively, as thy curse Gen. 27.13. is the Curse coming upon thee. q Which gently refresheth and reviveth them, and maketh them to grow and flourish. r As an abortive Birth is cast out of the Womb, to which the Grave is compared, Job 1. 21. But because the Verb here used doth not signifie to cast out, but to cast down, which seems not proper here, these Words may be and are, both by ancient and later Interpreters, rendred otherwise, and thou wilt cast down the land of the giants, or of the violent ones, of the proud and potent Tyrants of the World. For the Word here rendred dead, is elsewhere rendred giants, as 2 Sam. 21. 16, 18. See also Job 26. 5. Prov. 9. 18. & 21. 16. But then the Words seem to be better rendred, and thou wilt cast the giants down to the ground: Either, 1. thou, O God, who is oft underflood in such Cases; or rather, 2. thou, O my People, to whom he speaks in the foregoing Clauses of the Verse, thy dead body, and thy dew, and here continueth his Speech, thou wilt or shalt cast, &c. thou shalt subdue even the most Giant-like and mighty Enemies. Which though it be properly God's Work, the Church is oft said to do, because she by her Prayers engageth God to do it. And so as the former Clauses of the Verse speak of the Deliverance and Prosperity of God's Church and People, so this Clause speaks of the Destruction of their Enemies, which usually accompanieth it.

* Psal. 30.5. Chap. 54. 7, 8. 2 Cor. 4.17.

20 Come, my people s, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee t: hide thy self as it were * for a little moment u, until the indignation x be overpast.

s Having foretold the wonderful Deliverance and great Happiness of God's People, and the utter Destruction of their Enemies, lest they should think they were now entring into the possession of this Felicity, he adds what here follows, and intimates, that for the present they were to expect Storms, and to prepare for them, and patiently to wait God's time for the Accomplishment of so great a Mercy. t Withdraw thy self from the Company and Conversation of the Wicked World, lest partaking with them in their Sins, thou dost also partake of their Plagues; pour out thy Prayers to God in thy Closet, as this may be explained by comparing Mat. 6. 6. put thy self under the protection of my Providence and Grace by Faith and Prayer. He alludes to the common practice of Men, who when there are Storms or Dangers abroad, betake themselves into their own Houses or Chambers for safety; or, as some think, to that History, Exod. 9. 19, 20. or to that Command of not going out of their houses, Exod. 12. 22. or to the like Charge given to Rahab, as the Condition of her Preservation, Jos. 2. u Whereby he intimates, that all their Afflictions, how long and tedious soever they may seem, are but short and momentary, in comparison of that Happiness which is reserved for them. x The dreadful Effects of God's Anger, those fore Judgments of God mentioned in the following Verse.

21 For behold, the LORD * cometh out of his place y to punish the inhabitants of the earth z for their iniquity: the earth also shall disclose her † blood, and shall no more cover her slain a.

y Cometh down from Heaven; which God in Scripture is frequently said to do, when he undertaketh any great and glorious Work, either of Delivering his People, or of Destroying their Enemies. The Speech is borrowed from the manner of Princes, who come out of their Palaces either to sit in Judgment, or to fight against their Enemies, which is the Case here. z All the Enemies of God and of his People; for these are here opposed to God's People: Therefore take heed you be not found in the number of them. a The innocent Blood which hath been spilled upon the Earth shall be brought to light, and shall be severely revenged upon the Murderers. For the Phrase see on Gen. 4. 10. Job 16. 18. Ezek. 24. 7.

CHAP. XXVII.

God's care over his Vineyard, 1,—6. his chastisements on them, 7,— 9. his severe judgments against them, 10,—11. their return, 12,— 13.

IN that day the LORD with his sore and great and strong sword shall punish Leviathan a the ‖ piercing serpent b, even Leviathan that crooked ser- pent c, and he shall slay * the dragon d that is in the sea.

a What kind of Creature the Leviathan is, see in my Notes on Job 41. 1, &c. Whence it is evident, that it was a very great and terrible Sea-monster. But here it is certain that the Expression is metaphorical, and that by this Leviathan, Serpent and Dragon, (for all signifie the same thing) he understands some very powerful Enemy or Enemies (for the Singular Number may be here put for the Plural, as it is in many other places) of God, and of his Church or People, which may well be called by these Names, partly for their great Might, and partly for the great Terrour and Destruction which they cause upon the Earth, as the Leviathan doth in the Sea. He seems to have a special respect to some some particular Enemy and Oppressor of God's People; either the Assyrian Emperour, who now was so; or rather the Babylonian, who should be so: Some understand this of the Devil: But although it may be applied to him in a mystical sense, it seems to be literally meant of some potent and visible Adverſary; which seems more agreeable to the following Verſes, and to the Stage of this and other Prophets. b Which by its sting pierceth quickly and deeply into Mens Bodies. Or, the bar (as this Word is elsewhere used) serpent, as this may be called, either for its length, or strength, or swift motion. c Winding and turning it self with great variety and dexterity. Whereby he seems to signifie the Craftiness and Activity of this Enemy, which being added to his Strength, makes it more formidable. d Or rather, the whale, as this Word is rendred, Gen. 1. 21. Job 7. 12. and elsewhere; which agrees better with the following Words, that is in the sea, which possibly were added only to limit that general and ambiguous Word to a Sea-Monster, and not to describe the Place in which the Enemy signified by this Dragon had his abode. Although the sea, which here follows, may be metaphorically understood of the great largness of his Empire, and the multitude of his Subjects, by comparing this with Rev. 17. 1, 15.

e When this potent Enemy shall be destroyed. f The Words in the Hebrew Text lie thus, A vineyard (Behold, a vineyard; or, Jacob or Israel, my Church and People, which is sufficiently understood from the next Verſe, and is expressed v. 6. shall be a Vineyard, shall be defended and dressed, shall thrive and flourish like a Vineyard) of red wine (i. e. of the choiceſt and beſt Wine, which in those parts was Red, as appears both from Scripture, as Prov. 23. 31. whence it is called the blood of the grape, Gen. 49. 11. Deut. 32. 14. and from other Authors) sing ye (O you faithful Souls, sing with Joy and Thanksgiving to God) to (or of, or, concerning, as this Prefix is elsewhere used) her, or it, to wit, the Vineyard or Church, (which is frequently compared to a Vineyard, as Pſal. 80. 8. Iſa. 5. 7. and elsewhere) now delivered from her great Enemy, and bleſſed with peace and proſperity.

3 I the LORD do keep it g, I will water it every moment: leſt any hurt it, I will keep it night and day.

g I will ſecure it, that neither Men, nor Beaſts, nor Drought ſhall ſpoil it; which alone are the things that can hurt it. I will protect my Church from all the Aſſaults of her Enemies, and ſupply her with all neceſſary Proviſions, with my Ordinances, and with my Spirit and Grace.

4 Fury h is not in me: who would ſet the briars and thorns againſt me in battel? I would ‖ go through them, I would burn them together i.

h To wit, againſt my Vineyard, or my People; which is eaſily underſtood both from the foregoing and following Verſes, I have been diſpleaſed with them, and have chaſtiſed them; but I am not implacable towards them, and reſolved utterly to deſtroy them as their Enemies are, and would have me to be. i This is added as a Reaſon of the foregoing Clauſe and Aſſertion; which may be conceived either, 1. thus, I rather deſire to contend with Briars and Thorns, i. e. with the wicked Enemies of my Church, who are thus called, Iſa. 10. 17. Ezek. 28. 24. and if my Wrath was now kindled againſt them, as it is againſt my People, I would be furious towards them, and never leave till I had utterly conſumed them; but I will deal more indulgently with my People. Which Expoſition ſeems to receive ſome light and ſtrength from v. 6, 7, 8. Or, 2. thus, For I conſider the weakneſs of my People, that if I ſhould let looſe my Fury upon them, they could no more ſtand before me, than Briars and Thorns (to which God's People, when they fall into Sin, and provoke God, are not unfitly reſembled) can ſtand before a devouring Fire, and therefore they would in an inſtant be utterly deſtroyed; which I will not do. And this Conſideration of Man's Imbecillity is elſewhere alledged as a Reaſon of God's Indulgence, as Pſal. 103. 13, 14, 15, 16. Iſa. 57. 16. But this I deliver with ſubmiſſion.

5 Or k let him l take hold of my ſtrength m, that he may make peace with me n, and he ſhall make peace with me.

k Or if at any time Fury be, or ſeem to be in me againſt my Vineyard or People. l My People, as is clearly implied from the following Words; for, there is no peace to thoſe who are not God's People, or to the wicked, Iſa. 57. 21. and is expreſſed in the following Verſe. m i. e. Take hold of my Arm, which is metonymically ſtrength, and ſtay it from giving the Blow, not by Force, which is impoſſible, but by humble Submiſſion and earneſt Supplication. Or, ſtrengthen himſelf or be ſtrong (as this Word properly ſignifies, and is elſewhere uſed) by my ſtrength; not by his own ſtrength, which he will oppoſe to mine, but by my Strength, which he may by humble and frequent Prayers not only reſtrain from doing him hurt, but effectually engage to aſſiſt him, and do him good. He ſeems to allude to that Hiſtory of Jacob's Wreſtling with the Angel of God, Gen. 32. 28. which he could never have done but by a Strength received from God. n That in ſtead of oppoſing me, he may in this manner reconcile himſelf to me. Or, and he ſhall make peace with me, as the ſame Words are rendred in the next Clauſe; which may be repeated to aſſure them of that great & important Favour, that God would make Peace with them. Or, the Words may be rendred in both Clauſes, let him make peace with me, yea let him make peace with me, this Future Verb being taken Imperatively, as the other is in the former clauſe of the Verſe.

6 He ſhall cauſe them that come of Jacob to take root o: Iſrael ſhall bloſſom and bud, and fill the face of the world with fruit p.

o To be firmly ſetled in their Poſſeſſions, and not toſſed hither and thither, as they have been. p Their Poſterity ſhall be ſo numerous, that their own Land ſhall not be ſufficient for them, but they ſhall be forced to ſeek Habitations in other Countries, and ſhall repleniſh them with People. But this ſeems to be underſtood of the Spiritual Seed of Jacob, or of Believers, who are oft called God's Iſrael, as Rom. 9. 6. and elſewhere.

7 Hath he ſmitten him, † as he ſmote thoſe that ſmote him q? or is he ſlain according to the ſlaughter of them that are ſlain by him r?

† Heb. according to the ſtroke of him that ſmote him.

q The Queſtion implies a Denial; He hath not ſo ſmitten him, to wit, Jacob. He hath not dealt ſo ſeverely with his People, as he hath dealt with his and their Enemies, whom he hath utterly deſtroyed. This may look either, 1. backward upon times paſt. If you conſult former Experiences, you will find, that God hath done ſo, hath ſpared and reſtored his People, and in Judgment remembred Mercy to them, when he hath totally ruined their Enemies; or, 2. forward upon the time to come, of which he ſpeaks as of a thing paſt, after the manner of the Prophets, and of which he ſpeaks in the next Verſe. r of thoſe who were ſlain by Iſrael, or rather by God at the Prayer and on the behalf of Iſrael. Heb. of his ſlain ones, i. e. of thoſe of his Smiters or Enemies who were ſlain. Which Expoſition is favoured by comparing this with the foregoing Clauſe.

8 * In meaſure ſ ‖ when it ſhooteth forth t, thou wilt debate with it u: ‖ he ſtayeth his rough wind x in the day of the eaſt-wind y.

* Job 23. 6. Jer. 10. 24. & 30. 11. & 46. 28. ‖ Or, when thou ſent it forth. ‖ Or, he removeth it.

ſ With moderation, in certain Proportions which God meteth out and fitteth to their Strength. t When the Vine ſhooteth forth its luxuriant Branches, he, like the Vine-dreſſer, cutteth them off, but ſo as not to ſpoil or deſtroy the Vine. Or, as divers Interpreters render it, and the Word properly and frequently ſignifies in or by caſting or diſmiſſing or ſending her or it out, or, when thou doſt caſt or ſend her out, to wit, out of her own Land, in which ſhe was planted, into Captivity. He alludes to a Man that divorceth his Wife, which is expreſſed by this Word; but withal intimates, that this ſhall not be peremptory and perpetual, as other Divorces were. u God is ſaid to debate or contend with Men, when he executeth his Judgments upon them, as Iſa. 49. 25. & 57. 16. Amos 7. 4. x He mitigateth the ſeverity of the Judgment. But, I muſt confeſs, I do not meet with any of the ancient or modern Tranſlators that agree with ours in this Verſion: nor is the Hebrew Verb ever uſed, ſo far as I know, in the ſignification of ſtaying or reſtraining: beſides, our Tranſlation takes no notice of the Hebrew Prepoſition. But this Word unqueſtionably ſignifies to remove or take away, as 2 Sam. 20. 13. Prov. 25. 4, 5. and thus moſt Interpreters underſtand it. And ſo the place is very fitly thus rendred, he (or, when he, which Particle may eaſily be underſtood out of the former Clauſe, as is uſual) removeth (underſtand either it, to wit, the Vine; or them, to wit, the Enemies of God and his People. And ſo this agreeth with the former Verſe, in repreſenting the different way of God's proceeding againſt his People, and his and their Enemies. Either way there is only a defect of the Pronoun, which I have before ſhewed in divers places to be very uſual in the Hebrew Language) with or by his rough wind, by which ſometimes Vines and other Trees are pulled up by the roots, as that did, 1 Kings 19. 11. whereby he underſtands his moſt terrible Judgments. y In the time when he ſendeth forth his Eaſt-wind; which he mentions becauſe that Wind in thoſe Parts was moſt violent and moſt hurtful to Trees and Fruits, as hath been oft obſerved, and therefore is uſed to ſignifie the moſt grievous Calamities.

9 By this z therefore a ſhall the iniquity of Jacob be purged b, and this is all the fruit, to take away his ſin c: * when he maketh d all the ſtones of the altar e as chalk-ſtones ſ that are beaten in ſunder g; the groves h and ‖ images ſhall not ſtand up i.

* 1 Kings 12. 32. ‖ Or, Sun-Images.

z By this manner of God's dealing with his People. a That the difference between Jacob and his Enemies, in their ſeveral Sufferings, may appear. b Heb. expiated or forgiven upon their true Repentance, which ſhall be the happy effect of their Chaſtiſement. c The effect hereof ſhall not be to deſtroy the Sinner, as it is in other Men, but only to take away the guilt and power of their Sins. d Which ſin of Jacob's ſhall be purged and taken away, and the Judgment removed, when he ſhall truly repent of all his Sins, and eſpecially of his Idolatry, to which they were moſt inclined, and for which the moſt of God's Judgments which they had hitherto felt had been inflicted upon them. e Which by an uſual Enallage may be put for the Altars, to wit, their Idolatrous Altars, as is evident from the following Words. Poſſibly he may ſay the altar with reſpect to that particular Altar which Ahaz had ſet up in the place of God's own Altar; and this Prophecy might be delivered either to the Prophet, or by him to the People, in Ahaz his time, while that Altar ſtood and was uſed. f When he ſhall break all thoſe goodly Altars in pieces, which God by his Law had enjoyned. g Which kind of Stones are of themſelves apt to break into ſmall pieces, and by the Artificer are broken into ſmaller pieces for making Mortar. He ſeems to allude to that Fact of Moſes, who to ſhew his deteſtation of Idolatry, took the golden calf, and burnt it, and ground it to powder; and intimates, that when their Repentance ſhould be ſincere, it would diſcover it ſelf by their Zeal in deſtroying the Inſtruments of their Idolatry. h Which were frequently erected to the Honour of Idols, of which we have many inſtances in Scripture, which God therefore commanded his People to deſtroy, Deut. 7. 5. & 12. 3. i Shall be thrown down with Contempt and Indignation.

10 Yet k the defenced city l ſhall be deſolate, and the habitation m forſaken and left like a wilderneſs n: there ſhall the calf o feed, and there ſhall he lie down, and conſume the branches thereof p.

k Yet before this glorious Promiſe concerning the removal of Iſrael's Sin and Calamity be fulfilled, a dreadful and deſolating Judgment ſhall firſt come upon them. l Jeruſalem and the reſt of the Defenced Cities in the Land, the Singular Number being put for the Plural. m The moſt inhabited and populous places. Or, as the Hebrew Word properly ſignifies, their pleaſant habitations, whether in the City or Country. n Which was fulfilled in the time of the Babyloniſh Captivity. o Which is Synecdochically put for all ſorts of Cattel, which may ſecurely feed there, becauſe there ſhall be no Men left to diſturb or annoy them. p Of their pleaſant Habitation; of the young Trees which ſhall grow up in that ruinated Country.

11 When the boughs thereof are withered q, they ſhall be broken off r: the women ſ come and ſet them on fire: for * it is a people of no underſtanding t: therefore he that made them u, will not have mercy on them; and he that formed them, will ſhew them no favour.

q When they ſhall begin to wither, as they will when they are thus gnawed and cropped by Cattle. r That there may be no hopes nor poſſibility of their Recovery. ſ He mentions women, either becauſe it is their uſual Work in the Country to make Fires and to gather Fewel for them; or to ſignifie, that the Men ſhould be generally deſtroyed. t They do not underſtand either me or themſelves, either my Word or Works; they know not the things which concern their own Peace and Happineſs, but like brute Beaſts, made to be deſtroyed, they blindly and willfully go on in thoſe Courſes which will bring them to certain ruine. * Both as they are Creatures, and as they are his People; for this alſo is expreſſed by making or forming, as Pſal. 100. 3. & 102. 18. & 149. 2. Thus he overthroweth their falſe and preſumptuous Conceits, that God would never deſtroy the Work of his own Hands, nor the Seed of Abraham his Friend for ever, and plainly declareth the contrary.

12 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, that the LORD ſhall beat off x from the channel of the river unto the ſtream of Egypt y, and ye ſhall be gathered one by one z, O ye children of Iſrael.

x Or, ſhall beat out: Which is not meant in a way of puniſhment, which is rather deſigned by threſhing, as Iſa. 21. 10. & 25. 10. than by beating; but as an Act of Mercy, as is evident from the following Clauſe of this, and from the next Verſe. It is a Metaphor from ſome Grains which were beaten out with a Rod or Staff, of which ſee Iſa. 28. 27, 28. and then were carefully gathered and laid up for the uſe of man. y From Euphrates to Nilus, which were the two Borders of the Land of Promiſe, Joſ. 1. 4. & 13. 3. All the Iſraelites which are left in the Land; which are here oppoſed to thoſe of them that are diſperſed into Foreign Parts, ſuch as Aſſyria and Egypt.. z Which ſignifies either the ſmalneſs of the Remnant of that numerous People; or rather God's exact and ſingular Care of them, that not one of them ſhould be loſt.

13 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, that the great trumpet a ſhall be blown, and they ſhall come which were ready to periſh in the land of Aſſyria b, and the out-caſts in the land of Egypt c, and ſhall worſhip the LORD in the holy Mount at Jeruſalem.

a Which may be heard even to the remoteſt parts of the Earth. God ſhall ſummon them all together as it were by ſound of Trumpet, to wit, by an eminent Call or Act of his Providence on their behalf. He alludes to the Cuſtom of calling the Iſraelites together with Trumpets; of which ſee Numb. 10. 2, 3. b Where the Ten Tribes were carried Captive. c Where many of the Jews were, as is manifeſt both from Scripture, as Jer, 43. 7. & 44. 28. Hoſ. 8. 13. Zech. 10. 10. and from other Authors.

CHAP. XXVIII.

The Drunkenneſs of Ephraim bringeth Deſtruction on them: a Remnant ſhall be honourable, 1,—8. their unteachableneſs, 9,—13. their mock at God's threatnings. 14,—15. Chriſt propheſied for a ſure foundation to Believers, 16. and deſtruction to the mockers, who are exhorted to amend, 17,—22. God's Providence, it's work and ſeaſons towards the Church, ſet out by a Husbandman, 23,—29.

a That proud and inſolent Kingdom; for the Crown is oft put for the Kingdom, as Jer. 13. 18. & 48. b Either 1. Metaphorically, drunk with proud ſelf-confidence, and ſecurity, and proſperity: Or rather, 2. Properly, by comparing this with v. 7. & Hoſ. 7. 5. Amos 6. 6. where the Iſraelites are taxed with this ſin. For having many and excellent Vines among them, they were expoſed to this Sin, and frequently overcome by it. c Of the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes; which is commonly called by the name of Ephraim, as hath been oft noted before. d Whoſe Glory and Greatneſs ſhall ſuddenly wither and periſh. e Which proud and drunken Iſraelites have their common and chief abode. Or, which is, i. e. which flower is; or which beauty or glory is. † Either 1. in Samaria, which might well be called the Head, as being ſeated upon a Mountain, and the Head of the Kingdom, and the head of the fat Valleys, becauſe it was encompaſſed with many fat and rich Valleys. Or, 2. Upon the chief or choiceſt (as this word ſignifies, Exod. 30. 23. Cant. 4. 14. Iſa. 9. 14, 15. and elſewhere) of the fat or rich Valleys: which they made occaſions and inſtruments of Luxury, g Heb. That are ſmitten, or broken, or overthrown, or knocked down; all which ſignifications of this word fitly agree to Drunkards.

2 Behold, the Lord hath h a mighty and ſtrong One i, which as a Tempeſt of Hail, and a deſtroying Storm, as a flood of mighty Waters overflowing, ſhall caſt down † to the Earth with the hand l.

3 The Crown of Pride, the Drunkards of Ephraim, ſhall be trodden † under Feet m.

h To wit, at his Command, prepared and ready to execute his Judgments. i The King of Aſſyria. k Underſtand it, the crown of pride, or them, the drunkards of Ephraim. l Or, by his hand, either by that King's force or ſtrong hand; or by the hand of God, which ſhall ſtrengthen, and ſucceed him in this work. m The Expreſſion is emphatical; the Crown which was upon their own heads, ſhall be trodden under the feet of others; and they, whoſe Drunkenneſs made them ſtagger, and fall to the ground, ſhall be trodden down there.

4 And the glorious Beauty which is on the head of the fat Valley, ſhall be a fading Flower, and as the haſty Fruit n before the Summer: which when he that looketh upon it, ſeeth it, while it is yet in his hand, he † eateth it up o.

n Which coming before the Seaſon, and before other Fruits, is moſt acceptable. o Which, as ſoon as a Man ſees he covets it, and plucks it off, yet doth not long enjoy it, but through greedineſs devours it, almoſt as ſoon as he can get it into his hand. And ſo ſhall it be with Ephraim's glory, which his Enemies, as ſoon as they obſerve, ſhall covet and ſpoil, and devour it greedily, and with delight.

5 In in that day p ſhall the Lord of Hoſts be for a Crown of Glory, and for a Diadem of Beauty q unto the reſidue of his People r:

p When the Kingdom of Iſrael ſhall be utterly deſtroyed. q God ſhall give them eminent Glory and Beauty. r Unto the Kingdom of Judah, who ſhall continue in their own Country, when Iſrael is carried into Captivity.

6 And for a ſpirit of judgment to him that ſitteth in judgment, and for ſtrength s to them that turn the battel to the gate t.

s He explains how, or wherein God would glorifie and beautifie them, even by giving wiſdom to their Rulers, and courage to their Souldiers; which two things contribute much to the ſtrength and ſafety, and glory of a Nation. t To their Warriors; whom he deſcribeth by this Phraſe to intimate, That their Valour ſhould be crowned with Succeſs, and that they ſhould not only drive their Enemies from their own Gates and Land, but ſhould purſue them into their own Lands, and beſiege them in their own Cities, which Hezekiah did, 2 Kings 18. 8.

7 But they alſo u have erred through wine, and through ſtrong drink are they out of the way x: the prieſt y and the prophet z have erred a through ſtrong drink, they are ſwallowed up b of wine: they are out of the way through ſtrong drink, they err in viſion c, they ſtumble in judgment d.

u But alas! Judah is guilty of the ſame ſins with Iſrael, and therefore they alſo muſt expect the ſame Calamities; of which he ſpeaks afterward. x They run into the ſame exceſs of Wine and ſtrong Drink, whereby they beſot themſelves, and fall into many errors and miſcarriages, both in ſacred and civil Things. The many emphatical Phraſes and Repetitions of the ſame thing in other words, in this verſe ſeem to evince, That he here ſpeaks of Drunkenneſs, properly ſo called, although he afterward chargeth them with Ignorance, and Error, and Stupidity; which alſo were the Companions, and in part, the Effects of that Sin. y To whom ſtrong Drink was expreſly forbidden, in the time of their Sacred Miniſtrations, leſt they ſhould thereby be led into errors in their work, Levit. 10. 9, 10. z The Teachers, who ſhould have been patterns of Sobriety to the People, and to whom Sobriety was abſolutely neceſſary for the right diſcharge of their Office. a In their Converſation, and in their holy Adminiſtrations. b They are, as we ſay, drowned in it; their Senſes and Reaſon are ſwallowed up, and loſt in it. c The Prophets miſcarry in their Sacred Employment of Propheſying or Teaching, which is called Viſion, Prov. 29. 18. and elſewhere. d The Prieſts miſtake in pronouncing the Sentence of the Law, which was their duty, Deut. 17. 9, 10, 11.

8 For all tables e are full of vomit, and filthineſs, ſo that there is no place ſ clean.

e At which the Prieſts and Prophets, and other Jews did eat and drink. They hardly made one ſober meal: Drunkenneſs was their daily practice. ſ No Table, or no part of the Table; no not ſo much as the holy Places, in which the Prieſts did frequently eat their meals.

9 Whom ſhall he g teach knowledge? and whom ſhall he make to underſtand † doctrine? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breaſts h.

g To wit, the Teacher, which is eaſily underſtood, out of the following Verb; either God, or his Prophets, or Miniſters. h Who is there among this People, that are capable and willing to be taught the good knowledge of God? A Miniſter may as ſoon teach a young Child, as theſe Men.

dulneſs. k One line of the book after another, as Children are taught to read.

11 For l with † * ſtammering lips m, and another tongue n ‖ will he ſpeak to this people o.

* 1 Cor. 14. 21. ‖ Or, he hath ſpoken.

l Or, therefore, as this Particle is oft uſed. For this ſeems to be the puniſhment of their dulneſs. m Either 1. in way of condeſcention, as Mothers and Nurſes teach Children, liſping and ſtammering with them. Or, 2. in way of judgment; which ſuits beſt with the next Clauſe. n By People of a ſtrange Language, whom he ſhall bring among them, and into whoſe power He ſhall deliver them; which is a great aggravation of their Miſery, ſee Deut. 28. 49. Jer. 5. 15. Ezek. 3. 5. o Seeing they will not hear Him ſpeaking, by His Prophets and Miniſters, in their own Language, they ſhall hear their Enemies ſpeaking to them in a ſtrange and rough Language.

12 To whom he ſaid p, This q is the reſt r wherewith ye may cauſe the weary to reſt s, and this is the refreſhing: yet they would not hear t.

p To which People the Lord, by his Miniſters, ſaid. q This Doctrine or Precept, as it is expreſſed, ver. 9, 10. or the Word of the Lord, as it follows, ver. 13. r The only way, in the obſervation of which you will find reſt and ſatisfaction. s Heb. Cauſe the weary (underſtand either Soul or Country) to reſt. As Reſt is offered to you by the Prophets in God's name, do you embrace it; which is to be done by hearkning to God's Word, as appears by the following Clauſes. So ſhall this People, which hath been ſo oft, and ſo long wearied, and haraſſed by great and manifold Calamities, find Reſt and Peace. t They are willfully ignorant, and obſtinately refuſed the very means of inſtruction.

13 But the word of the LORD was unto them, precept upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little u; that they might go and fall backward, and be broken, and ſnared, and taken x.

u The ſenſe of the Words thus rendred, may be this, They ſpake of God's Word, with ſcorn and contempt, repeating the Prophets Words in a ſcoffing manner, and with a ſtammering and ridiculous tone, ſaying, Precept upon Precept, &c. as if they had ſaid, It ſeems the Prophet takes us to be meer Children, that need to be taught our firſt Rudiments, and that but ſlowly. That theſe were ſenſual men, and mockers, is affirmed, ver. 14. 22. and as ſcoffers frequently catch the words out of others mens Mouths, and uſe them in way of deriſion; ſo it may be thought they did with the Prophets words. But the words may be, and by divers learned Men, are rendred a little otherwiſe; And the word of the Lord ſhall be unto them, precept upon precept, &c. As this Method hath been uſed by them, and was altogether neceſſary for them; ſo it ſtill is, and for the future ſhall be. As they were Children in underſtanding, they ſhall ſtill continue to be ſuch; they ſhall be ever learning, and never come to the knowledge of the Truth; as they formerly would not, ſo now they ſhall not profit by the Word; and their ſin ſhall be their puniſhment. And this ſeems to ſuit with the following Clauſe, which notes the dreadful dilation and effect of that judicial blindneſs, That they may go and fall backward, &c. x According to the former, which is our Tranſlation, this Clauſe notes only the event, or conſequent of their Sin: According to the Latter, it notes the Judgement of God deſigned and inflicted for it; that God's Word being ſo horribly abuſed by them, might be an occaſion at which they might ſtumble and fall, and that backward, which is the worſt, and moſt dangerous way of falling; and ſo be broken to pieces, or by which they might be ſnared and taken.

14 Wherefore hear the word of the LORD, ye ſcornful men y that rule this people, which is in Jeruſalem.

y Which make a mock at ſin, and at God's Words and Threatnings; and doubt not by your witty Devices, and by your wicked Practices, to eſcape God's Judgments, of which we read in the next Verſe.

15 Becauſe ye have ſaid z, We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement a; when the overflowing ſcourge b ſhall paſs through c, it ſhall not come unto us; for we have made lies our refuge, and under falſhood have we hid our ſelves d.

z In your hearts. a We are as ſafe from Death, and Hell, or the Grave, as if they had entred into Covenant with us, that they would not invade us. The word rendred Hell, moſt commonly ſignifies the Grave; which alſo ſeems moſt proper in this place, that ſo the ſame thing may be repeated in other words, as is moſt uſual in Prophetical Writings. b The judgment of God, which is called a Scourge, for its ſharpneſs and ſeverity, and overflowing for its univerſality; two differing Metaphors being joyned together; which is not unuſual, both in Scripture, and in other Authors. c To wit, the Land. d We ſhall ſecure our ſelves by lying and diſſimulation, by compliance with our Enemies, and with their Religion too if it be neceſſary, and many crafty devices. Or by lies and falſhood, he means their Riches and Strength, to which they truſted, to which he giveth theſe Titles, not that they called or thought them ſuch; but that he might ſignifie what they really were, and would appear to be; ſee the Notes on 5. 33. Eph. Prov. 1. 11.

16 Therefore e thus ſaith the Lord GOD, Behold, I lay f in Zion for a foundation h, * a ſtone i, a † tried ſtone k, a precious l corner-ſtone m, a ſure foundation n: he that believeth o, * ſhall not make haſt p.

e The Coherence is ſomething obſcure and difficult. It may be made either 1. thus, Therefore I will bring moſt terrible Judgments upon you; which are fully expreſſed, ver. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21. But before he comes to the Commination, to which, therefore, properly belongs, he firſt propoundeth a comfortable Promiſe concerning the ſending of the Meſſiah, partly for the ſupport of Believers, who are apt to tremble at God's Word, and might otherwiſe be apt to deſpond at the prediction of ſuch dreadful Things: And partly to aggravate their Miſery by comparing it with the ſafety and happineſs, which the Godly, and Believing Jews, whom they deſpiſed and mocked, ſhould find in Zion; and by ſignifying, that that bleſſed and ſure Foundation laid in Zion, ſhould yield them no ſupport nor benefit, nor ſecure them from the Vengeance of God. Or, 2. thus, Becauſe your Refuges are ſo mean, and vain, and deceitful; therefore I will direct you to a better and ſurer Refuge, which will never fail thoſe that truſt to it, which God hath made in Zion. But if you ſhall deſpiſe and reject that Refuge, which I now offer to you All, if you will believe; then know, that I will lay judgment to the line, &c. as it follows, v. 17. And this ſeems to me, to be the moſt natural and eaſie Connexion. f I have purpoſed and promiſed it, and will, in the fulneſs of time, actually perform it. g In my Church, which is commonly called Zion; and in Jeruſalem, where this Stone ſhall be firſt laid, which afterwards ſpread further, and filled the whole Earth, as it is ſaid of it, Dan. 2. 35. h Upon which I will Build my Church, conſiſting both of Jews and Gentiles, the Foundation of all the hopes, and comfort, and happineſs of my People; the Foundation of my Covenant made with my Church, and of all my Promiſes. i Not Hezekiah, but the Meſſiah, as appears: 1. From thoſe Scriptures of the Old-Teſtament, in which Chriſt is called a Stone, as Pſal. 118. 22. Iſa. 8. 14. Dan. 2. 34, 35, 45. Zach. 3. 9. 2. From the New-Teſtament, where this Text is directly expounded of Chriſt, as Rom. 9. 32, 33. 1 Pet. 2. 4. 3. From the laſt Clauſe, wherein He requires Faith in this Stone, which is not to be given to any meer Man, Jer. 17. 5. and wherein He implies, That this Stone was not yet come, nor to come ſpeedily into the World; whereas Hezekiah was King at the time of this Prophecy. 4. From the uſual practice of the Prophets, and eſpecially of this Prophet, which is, to comfort and fortifie God's People, againſt the dread of approaching Calamities, by that great and fundamental Promiſe of the Meſſiah, in whom alone all other Promiſes are, Yea, and Amen; whereof we have ſeen ſome Inſtances already, and ſhall ſee more hereafter. k Which I have tried, and approved as every way ſufficient to be a Corner-ſtone, and a Foundation-ſtone. Such Stones in Buildings uſe to be choſen with care, and to be thoroughly examined by the Builder. l Giving not only ſtrength but beauty, and glory to the Building, as Corner-ſtones frequently do, Pſal. 144. 12. m Uniting the ſeveral parts of the Building together, making Ephraim and Judah, now ſadly divided, one ſtick, Ezek. 37. 19, 24. and Jews and Gentiles, now implacable Enemies, one Church and People, Eph. 2. 14, &c. n Upon whom you may ſecurely reſt; One who will not fail, nor deceive you, as your lying Refuges will. o To wit, this Promiſe; or in this Stone, as it is explained, 1 Pet. 2. 6. p Shall not make more haſt than he ought, or, as we ſay, more haſt than good ſpeed; ſhall not haſtily and greedily catch at any way of eſcaping his danger, whether it be right or wrong, but ſhall patiently wait upon God in His way, till he deliver him. Withal, here is a plain intimation, that the Mercy here promiſed was not to be given preſently, but after ſome conſiderable time; and therefore, that they ſhould quietly, and patiently ſubmit to God's Will, under their preſent difficulties, and expect the accompliſhment of it in God's due time; compare Hag. 2. 3. The Word here rendred, make haſt, is by the Seventy Interpreters rendred, be confounded, whom the Apoſtles follow, Rom. 9. 33. and 1 Pet. 2. 6. either becauſe they thought it moſt convenient, in a matter where the difference was not conſiderable, to follow that Tranſlation which was moſt uſed, and beſt underſtood by the generality of Jewiſh and Gentile Chriſtians; or becauſe the ſame Word hath both theſe ſignifications in the Eaſtern Languages, as the moſt Learned, and Worthy Dr. Pocock hath proved; or becauſe the one follows upon the other; and precipitation or haſt, commonly expoſeth Men to ſhame and confuſion; which alſo is implied in the following Verſes, wherein the dreadful Judgements of God are denounced againſt thoſe, who ſhould not believe, and would make haſt to prevent or remove their Dangers by any means whatſoever.

17 Judgment alſo will I lay to the line, and righteouſneſs to the plummet q, and the hail ſhall ſweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters ſhall overflow the hiding place r.

q I will Execute juſt Judgment, as it were by a Line and Plummet annexed to it, i. e. with exactneſs and care. And this may be underſtood, either, 1. That God would ſo order and ſettle things in His Church, that Juſtice and Judgment ſhould prevail, and not Iniquity, as hitherto it had done: or rather, 2. That as God would build up, and preſerve all Believers upon that Foundation-Stone, ſo he would ſeverely puniſh, and utterly deſtroy all thoſe unbelieving Jews, who ſhould reject that Stone. For the line and plummet, or the plumb-line, was not only uſed in erecting Buildings, but alſo in pulling them down; thoſe parts of the Building being thus marked out, which were to be demoliſhed; and therefore is uſed in Scripture, to ſignifie the Deſtruction of a Place or People, as is evident from 2 Kings 21. 13. Iſa. 34. 11. Lament. 2. 8. Amos 7. 7, 8. And this ſenſe agrees beſt with the following Clauſe and Verſe. r My Judgments, which in Scripture are compared to a ſtorm of Hail or Rain, ſhall diſcover the vanity of all your crafty and wicked Devices, and ſhall ſweep you away with the Beſom of Deſtruction, in ſpight of them.

18 And your covenant with death ſhall be diſannulled s, and your agreement with hell ſhall not ſtand; when the overflowing ſcourge ſhall paſs through, through, then ye ſhall be † troden down by it t.

s Made void or of none effect: it ſhall ſtand you in no ſtead. † Which you flattered your ſelves, that it ſhould not come unto you, ver. 15.

19 From the time that it goeth forth, it ſhall take you u: for morning by morning it ſhall paſs over x, by day and by night; and it ſhall be a vexation, only ‖ to underſtand the report y.

u As ſoon as this overflowing Scourge or Judgment ſhall go forth from me into the Land, it ſhall aſſuredly, and with the firſt, take or ſeize upon you ſcoffers, or carry you away, which agrees well, both with the Hebrew word, which is frequently taken in that Senſe, and with the Metaphor of a Flood, which is here uſed. x It ſhall not only come to you, contrary to your preſumption, ver. 15. but it ſhall abide upon you; and when it hath paſſed over you, it ſhall return again to you, morning after morning; and ſhall follow you day and night, without giving you the leaſt reſpite. y So dreadful ſhall the Judgment be, that it ſhall ſtrike you with great horror, when you only hear the rumor of its approach, or of the ſad effects of it, upon other perſons or parts of the Land.

z For thoſe lying Refuges, to which you truſt, will not be able to give you that Protection and Comfort, which you expect from them; no more than a man can ſtretch himſelf (as theſe luxurious Iſraelites uſed to do, Amos 6. 4.) upon a bed which is too narrow for him, or wrap or keep himſelf warm, with a covering or bed cloaths, which are not large enough for him.

21 For the LORD ſhall riſe up a as in mount * Perazim b, he ſhall be wroth as in the valley of * Gibeon c, that he may do his work, his ſtrange work d; and bring to paſs his act, his ſtrange act.

a To act and fight againſt you, as he is ſaid to ſit ſtill, when he doth forbear to act. b Where he fought againſt the Philiſtines, 2 Sam. 5. 20. c Where he fought againſt the Canaanites, Joſ. 10. 10, &c. and afterwards againſt the Philiſtines, 1 Chron. 14. 16. d The execution of his Judgment againſt Iſrael, which he calleth his ſtrange work, to intimate, either 1. That God would puniſh them not with ordinary puniſhments; but in a moſt dreadful and ſingular, and extraordinary manner; ſuch a Judgment being called a marvellous work, Iſa. 29. 14. although the Hebrew word there uſed, be not the ſame with this, but of a much differing ſignification: Or rather 2. That this work of bringing total and irrecoverable Deſtruction upon Iſrael, was contrary to the benignity of his own Nature, and to the uſual way of dealing with his people, whom he uſed and delighted to protect, and ſpare, and bleſs; and whom, even when he is angry with them, and puniſheth them, he handleth more gently, than he doth other perſons, in Judgment remembring Mercy to them, as was noted, Iſa. 27. 7, 8. ſee alſo Chap. 26. 11.

22 Now therefore be ye not mockers e, leſt your bands be made ſtrong f: for I have heard * from the Lord GOD of hoſts a conſumption, even determined upon the whole earth g.

e For your own ſakes do not make a mock of God's Word and Threatnings, as you uſe to do. f Leſt thereby you make the Judgments of God, which are oft compared to bands, as Pſal. 66. 11. and 73. 4. and elſewhere, more ſure and unavoidable, and more ſevere and terrible, as bands are, when they are tied faſter, and more ſtrongly upon a priſoner. g God hath aſſured me, That he will utterly root out, and deſtroy the people of Iſrael; as indeed he did in Hezekiah's reign.

23 Give ye ear, and hear my voice; hearken and hear my ſpeech h.

h Obſerve what I ſay, and do you judge if it be not reaſonable.

24 Doth the plowman plow all day to ſow? doth he open k and break the clods of his ground l?

i The Plowman doth not ſpend all his time in plowing the Ground, in order to the ſowing it, or, as it follows, in opening it, and breaking its clods; but he hath ſeveral times for ſeveral works, a time for plowing, and a time for ſowing and harrowing, and a time for reaping, and a time for threſhing or beating, and bruiſing the Corn for his own uſe. Which wiſdom God hath put into him. This is the Sum of the ſimilitude propounded here, and in the following Verſes. The deſign and meaning whereof ſeems to be this, to teach them, That God had his times and ſeaſons for ſeveral Works, and that the methods of his providence were various at ſeveral times, and towards ſeveral Perſons or People; and therefore that thoſe ſcoffing Iſraelites were guilty of great Folly, in flattering themſelves, and deſpiſing God's Threatnings, becauſe of God's long Patience towards them, and becauſe of their preſent impunity and proſperity; for God would certainly and ſpeedily take a time to Threſh, and break them with his judgments, as at preſent he Plowed and Harrowed them, and ſo prepared them for it by his threatnings. k Underſtand, all day, or continually, out of the foregoing Clauſe, l Which they uſed to do with a kind of Harrow, or other proper Inſtrument. See Jer. 4. 3. Hoſ. 10. 11, 12.

25 When he hath made plain the face thereof m, doth he not caſt abroad the fitches, and ſcatter the cummin, and caſt in ‖ the principal wheat n, and the appointed barley o, and the ‖ rie in their † place p?

m By breaking the Clods, which made it ragged and uneven. n Either 1. the Wheat, which is the principal or chief of all theſe Grains: Or, 2. The beſt Wheat, which He prudently choſeth for Seed. o That proportion of Barley which He appointed. Or, as others, the marked Barley; or, the choiſe Barley, which they laid aſide in a Sack for Seed; and therefore ſet aſide with a peculiar Mark upon it. p Heb. in his Border; each Seed in a ſeveral and proper place.

26 ‖ For his God doth inſtruct him to diſcretion, and doth teach him q.

q The Senſe of the Words thus rendred is this, All this he performeth by that diſcretion, which God hath put into him: and therefore be aſſured, That God will order all His Affairs with Judgement, and will in due ſeaſon execute the Puniſhments which now He threatens, and will perfect His own Works. But the Words by ſome, are rendred otherwiſe. And he beateth it out (as this Word may be rendred, 1 Kings 12. 11. Prov. 19. 18. and 29. 17.) in ſuch ſort, as his God doth teach him, in a diſcreet manner, which being generally mentioned here, is particularly deſcribed in the following Verſe.

r Which then and there was made like a Sled ſhod with Iron, which was drawn by Men or Beaſts, over the ſheafs of Corn, to bruiſe them, and beat the Grain out of them. s A leſſer and lower Wheel than a Cart-wheel, but of the ſame form, upon which poſſibly the threſhing Inſtrument was drawn. t As being unable to bear harder uſage.

28 Bread-corn is bruiſed u; becauſe x he will not ever be threſhing it, nor break it y with the wheel of his cart, nor bruiſe it with his horſemen z.

u With a threſhing Inſtrument, by comparing this with the foregoing Verſe, and the following Words. x Or rather, but, or nevertheleſs, as the Word is frequently uſed. The Senſe is, The Husbandman doth indeed threſh the Bread-corn, but he doth it with moderation, and only for a time, not for ever. y Underſtand, for ever, out of the foregoing Clauſe, as is uſual in Scripture. z Which governed the Horſe or Horſes, that drew the threſhing Inſtrument. Or, with horſes: For it is evident, and hath been obſerved before, that this Hebrew word ſignifies Horſes, as well as Horſemen. And this was another way of Threſhing out the Corn, by driving Horſes, or other Cattel, over the Sheaves to tread it out: of which, ſee Deut. 25. 4. Mich. 4. 13.

29 This alſo ‖ cometh forth from the LORD of * hoſts, which *† is wonderful in counſel, and excellent in working †.

* Jer. 32. 19. † Heb. he hath made counſel wonderful, he hath made wiſdom great.

‖ This part of the Husbandmans diſcretion expreſſed, v. 27, 28. as well as that expreſſed, v. 24, 25. † Theſe words contain the Application of the Similitude. The Husbandman manageth all his Affairs with common diſcretion; but God governs the World, and His Church, with wonderful Wiſdom: He is great and marvellous, both in the deſign or contrivance of Things, and in the Executing on of them.

CHAP. XXIX.

The Temple and City of Jeruſalem deſtroyed, 1, — 6. her Enemies unſatiable, 7, 8. their ſenſleſneſs, 9, — 12. and deep hypocriſie, 13, — 17. the ſcorner and oppreſſor being cut off: the reſt ſhall be converted, 18, — 24.

‖ WO to Ariel a, to Ariel ‖ the city where David dwelt b: add ye year to year; let † kill ſacrifices c.

‖ Or, Oh Ariel, that is, the lion of God. ‖ Or, of the city. † Heb. cut off the heads

a This Word ſignifies a ſtrong Lion, or the Lion of God; and is uſed concerning Lion-like Men, as it is rendred, 1 Chron. 11. 22. and of God's Altar, as it is rendred, Ezek. 43. 15, 16. which ſeems to be thus called, becauſe it devoured and conſumed the Sacrifices put upon it, as greedily, and as irreſiſtably, as the Lion doth his prey. If the Altar be here meant, it is put Synecdochically for the Temple, and the words may be rendred, Wo to Ariel, to Ariel of or in the City, or, and the City; for that conjunction is ſometimes underſtood, as Iſa. 22. 6. Heb. 3. 11. And ſo the Threatning is denounced both againſt the Temple, and againſt Jeruſalem. But he ſeems rather to underſtand it of Jeruſalem, as may be gathered: 1. From the next words, which ſeem to be added by way of Appoſition, to explain what he meant by that obſcure and ambiguous Term: Wo to Ariel, to Ariel, even to the City: 2. From the following Verſes, which plainly declare, That this Ariel is the place which God threatens, that he would diſtreſs and fill with Heavineſs, ver. 2. and lay ſiege againſt Her, ver. 3. And that the Nations ſhould fight againſt her, ver. 7. All which Expreſſions agree much better to Jeruſalem, than to the Altar. And this City might be called Ariel, or the ſtrong Lion: Either 1. For its eminent ſtrength in regard of its Scituation and Fortifications, by reaſon whereof, it was thought almoſt impregnable, both by themſelves and others, Lam. 4. 12. Or, 2. For its Lion-like Fierceneſs and Cruelty, for which ſhe is called the bloody City, Ezek. 7. 23. and 22. 2. and in effect, Iſa. 1. 15. and 59. 3. and Jer. 19. 4. and for which her Princes are called Lions, Ezek. 19. 2. Zeph. 3. 3. Or, 3. In reſpect of the Altar of God, which was erected in, and confined to that City, and in which the Strength and Glory of that City did chiefly conſiſt. b The Royal City, and Seat of David and his Poſterity. Which is here mentioned, as the ground of their Confidence; and withal, it is implied, That their Relation to David, and their ſuppoſed Intereſt in the Promiſes made to him, and to his Seed, ſhould not ſecure them from the Deſtruction here threatned. c Go on in killing Sacrifices from time to time, one year after another, whereby you think to appeaſe me, and to ſecure your ſelves: But all ſhall be in vain.

2 Yet d I will diſtreſs Ariel e, and there ſhall be heavineſs and ſorrow, and it ſhall be unto me as Ariel f.

d Notwithſtanding all your Sacrifices. e By bringing and ſtrengthning her Enemies againſt her. f The ſenſe is, Either 1. I will treat her like a ſtrong and fierce Lion, which the People, among whom it is, indeavour by Nets, or Pits, and all other ways to take and to deſtroy, Or, 2. I will make Ariel the City, like Ariel the Altar,, filling it with Sacrifices, even with Men, whom I will ſlay in my Anger; which Act of God's is called his Sacrifice, Ezek. 39. 17, 19.

3 And I will camp againſt thee ‖ round about, and will lay ſiege againſt thee g ‖ with a mount, and I will raiſe forts againſt thee.

g By thoſe Enemies whom I will aſſiſt, and enable to deſtroy thee. This was fulfilled, Either 1. by Sennacherib, as ſome learned Men think. But what is here affirmed of theſe Enemies, is expreſly denied concerning Sennacherib, Iſa. 37. 3. or rather 2. by the Chaldeans, 2 Kings 25. 1. &c.

4 And thou ſhalt be brought down, and ſhalt ſpeak out of the ground, and thy ſpeech ſhall be low out of the duſt h, and thy voice ſhall be as of one that hath a familiar ſpirit out of the ground z, and thy ſpeech ſhall † whiſper out of the duſt.

h Thou who now ſpeakeſt ſo ſtoſtily, and ſcornfully againſt the Lord's Prophets and others, ſhalt be humbled and confounded, and afraid and aſhamed to ſpeak aloud, and ſhalt in a ſubmiſs manner, and with a low Voice, beg the favour of thine Enemies. z Who, that they might poſſeſs the People with a kind of Reverence and Horror, uſed to ſpeak and deliver their Anſwers with a low Voice, either out of their Bellies, or from ſome dark Cave under the ground.

Ch. 8, 19.

5 Moreover, the multitude of thy ſtrangers a ſhall be like ſmall duſt b, and the multitude of the terrible ones b ſhall be * as chaff that paſſeth away: yea it ſhall be c at * an inſtant ſuddenly.

*Job 21.18 Ch. 17. 13. * Chap. 30. 13.

a Either 1. of the Strangers that Encamp and Fight againſt thee. Or, 2. of the Egyptians, and other Strangers, whom thou haſt hired to aſſiſt thee, as indeed they did, when the Chaldeans came againſt them. This Expoſition ſeems to agree beſt, as with the phraſe, thy ſtrangers, ſo with the ſcope of the place, and with the whole Context, eſpecially the foregoing Verſes; which plainly ſhews, that this is not a Promiſe to Jeruſalem, but a threatning againſt it. b Quickly blown away with the leaſt Wind, by comparing this with the following Glauſe. b Of thy great Commanders, and ſtouteſt Souldiers. c This diſſipation and deſtruction of thy Strangers, and terrible ones ſhall come to paſs.

6 Thou d ſhalt be viſited of the LORD of hoſts with thunder, and with earthquake, and great noiſe, with ſtorm and tempeſt, and the flame of devouring fire e.

d Thou, O Ariel or Jeruſalem, of, or to whom this whole Context manifeſtly ſpeaks. e With dreadful Judgments, which are frequently expreſſed in the Prophets, by theſe and ſuch like Metaphors.

7 And the multitude of all the nations that fight againſt Ariel, even all that fight againſt her, and her munition, and that diſtreſs her, ſhall be as a dream of a night viſion f.

f Wherein it ſhall be ſo, is explained in the next verſe.

8 It ſhall even be as when a hungry man dreameth, and behold he eateth; but he awaketh, and his ſoul is empty g: or as when a thirſty man dreameth, and behold he drinketh; but he awaketh, and behold he is faint, and his ſoul hath appetite: ſo ſhall the multitude of all the nations be, that fight againſt mount Zion h.

g His appetite or deſire (as the ſoul is taken, Pſal. 41. 4. and 78. 18. and elſewhere) is unſatisfied. Or, his ſtomack or body (as the ſoul is uſed, Pſal. 16. 10.) is empty. h no leſs unſatisfied and intiatiable, ſhall the Enemies of the Jews be, with all the Cruelties which they have committed againſt you; and they ſhall be always thirſting after more of your Blood, as if they had never taſted any of it.

9 Stay your ſelves and wonder i, ‖ cry ye out, and cry k: they are drunken, but not with wine l; they ſtagger, but not with ſtrong drink:

i Pauſe upon it, and you will ſee cauſe to wonder at the ſtupidity of this People, of which he is now about to ſpeak. He diſcreteth his Speech, either to the Religious part of the People, or to thoſe particular perſons, who heard him, when he delivered this Prophecy. k Cry out again and again, either in way of Supplication for them; or rather through Aſtoniſhment and Horror. Or, They take pleaſure or ſport themſelves (as this word moſt commonly ſignifies) and riot: In the midſt of all theſe Threatnings and Dangers, they are ſecure, and give up themſelves to ſenſuality; which is matter of juſt wonder. l But either 1. With drinking the Cup of God's fury, wherewith they are ſaid to be made drunk, Iſa. 51. 17. 20. And then they are drunk, is put for, they ſhall be drunk, after the manner of the Prophets. Or 2. With the ſpirit of giddineſs or ſtupidity, which makes them like drunken Men, inſenſible of their Danger, and not knowing what to do.

Rom. 11. 8. † Heb. heads.

10 For * the LORD hath poured out upon you m the ſpirit of deep ſleep n, and hath cloſed your eyes: the prophets and your † rulers, the ſeers o hath he covered p.

m Which Phraſe notes the plenty, and vehemency of this Judgment. n Hardneſs of heart, and inſenſibleneſs of your danger and miſery, which God is faid to ſend, becauſe he denies, or withdraws his Light and Grace, which alone can cure thoſe Maladies. o Your Magiſtrates and Miniſters, whoſe blindneſs or ſtupidity is a great Curſe and plague to the people. Or, the Prophets, even the chief (for the head is oft put for the chief of perſons or things, as Exod. 30. 23. 1 Chron. 12. 18. and elſewhere) of your ſeers. p With the vail of ignorance and ſtupidity, or as to their Eyes, which is underſtood out of the former Clauſe. And this laſt Clauſe is, and may be rendred thus, The Eyes (which may be repeated out of the foregoing Clauſe) of your Prophets, and of, or even of your principal ſeers (or, and of your moſt intelligent rulers) hath he covered.

11 And the viſion of all q is become unto you, as the words of a ‖ book that is ſealed r, which men deliver to one that is learned, ſaying, Read this, I pray thee; and he ſaith, I cannot, for it is ſealed.

‖ Or, letter

12 And the book is delivered to him that is not learned s ſaying, Read this, I pray thee: and he ſaith, I am not learned.

q Of all your Prophets, whether the true or falſe Ones. r In which no Man can read, whilſt it is ſealed up, as books then ſometimes were, 1 Kings 21. 8. Eſth. 3. 12, 13. being made in the form of Rolls, which was convenient for that purpoſe. s Unſealed and opened, as the following Clauſe implies. God ſo orders the manner of delivering this Book, that neither the learned nor unlearned could read and underſtand it.

13 Wherefore the LORD ſaid, * Foraſmuch as this people draw near me † with their mouth, and with their lips u do honour me, but have removed their heart far from me x, and their fear towards me is taught by the precept of men y:

t To wit, in acts of Worſhip. u With outward Devotions, and the profeſſion of Religion. x They do not pay me that Love, and Fear, and Obedience, which I require, and prefer before all Sacrifices, and external Services. y They Worſhip me not in ſuch way and manner, as I have commanded and preſcribed, but according to their own, and other Mens inventions, preferring the devices and traditions of their falſe Prophets, before my Inſtitutions. For this was a common Errour among the Jews, as we learn from Jer. 7. 31. Hoſ. 5. 11. and many other Scriptures, and thus our bleſſed Saviour expounds this very place, Mat. 15. 7,8,9.

14 Therefore behold, † I will proceed to do a marvellous work amongſt this people, even a marvellous work and a wonder, * for the wiſdom of their wiſe men ſhall periſh, and the underſtanding of their prudent men ſhall be hid z.

z Shall diſappear and vaniſh; for this anſwers to, ſhall periſh, in the former Clauſe. A vail ſhall be caſt upon the Eyes of their Minds: they ſhall give no evidences or proofs of their Wiſdom, but their folly ſhall be made manifeſt. And this was indeed a wonderful Thing for their wiſe men to be made fools.

15 * Wo unto them that ſeek deep a to hide their counſel from the LORD b, and their works are in the dark c, and * they ſay, Who ſeeth us? and who knoweth us d?

* Ch. 30. 1. * Pſ. 94. 7.

a Heb. that make deep. A Metaphor from Men, who uſe to dig deep into the Earth, that they may hide any thing there, which they would keep ſafe and unknown. b Vainly imagining, That they can keep all their Hypocriſie and ſecret Wickedneſs out of God's ſight, and that they can deceive, not only Men, but God, by their external Profeſſions and Services. c Their wicked Counſels are contrived, and their Idolatry is practiſed in ſecret and dark places, of which, ſee Ezek. 8. 12. d We act ſo cunningly, that neither God nor Man can diſcover us.

16 Surely your turning of things upſide down e ſhall be eſteemed as the potters clay f: for ſhall the * work ſay of him that made it, He made me not? or ſhall the thing framed, ſay of him that framed it, He had no underſtanding g?

* Ch. 45. 9.

e All your ſubtle devices, by which you turn your ſelves into all ſhapes; and turn your Thoughts hither and thither, and pervert the order which God hath appointed. f It is no more to me, than the Clay is to the Potter, who can not only diſcern it thoroughly, but alter and diſpoſe it as he ſeeth fit. g And no leſs abſurd and ridiculous is your Conceit, that I your Maker, and ſupream Governour, cannot diſcover, and controul all your Artifices at my pleaſure.

17 Is it not yet a very little while, and Lebanon ſhall be turned into a fruitful field: and the fruitful field ſhall be eſteemed * as a forreſt h?

* Pſal. 72. 16.

h The Forreſt of Lebanon, which was a barren Mountain, and a deſolate Wilderneſs, ſhall by God's wonderful providence, become a fruitful and populous place; and theſe places which are now fruitful and populous, ſhall then become as Barren and Deſolate, as that Forreſt. This Senſe is confirmed by that parallel place, Iſa. 32. 15. And from both places compared togerher, this ſeems to be a Prophecy of the rejection of the wicked and unbelieving Jews, whoſe Sins and marvellous Judgments, and particularly Infatuation, are declared in the foregoing Verſes; and of the calling of the Gentiles, of which he ſpeaks in the following Verſe, as appears further by comparing that Verſe with Iſa. 35. 5. And this Opinion may receive ſome Countenance from Matth. 15. 7. &c.

where Chriſt expounds the foregoing words, ver. 13. upon which theſe have a dependance, of his own times.

18 And in that day ſhall * the deaf i hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind ſhall ſee out of obſcurity, and out of darkneſs k.

* Iſa. 35. 5.

i Who were deaf before, God by his Word and Grace did open their Ears: even the deaf and blind Gentiles, as was now noted. Compare Iſa. 35. 5. k Being, by God's Grace, brought out of that groſs, and worſe than Egyptian darkneſs of ignorance and wickedneſs, in which they formerly lived, unto a clear and ſaving knowledge of the Truth.

l The humble and meek Believers, oppoſed to thoſe proud and ſcornful Iſraelites or Jews, of whom he ſpeaks in this, and in the foregoing Chapter. m Shall greatly rejoyce in this, that the Lord, and holy one of Iſrael is now their God and Portion. n Either 1. Spiritually, of which Mat. 5. 3. Or 2. outwardly, mean and deſpicable People, ſuch as the Gentiles were in the Opinion of the Jews, and ſuch as the greateſt part of the firſt believing Chriſtians were, Mat. 11. 5. 1 Cor. 1. 26. Jam. 2. 5.

20 For the terrible one o is brought to nought, and the ſcorner p is conſumed, and all that watch for iniquity q are cut off:

o The proud and potent Enemies of thoſe meek and poor Believers now mentioned, ſuch as the unbelieving Jews, and the heathen Potentates were in the firſt Age of Chriſtianity. p The ſcornful Oppoſers of God's Word and People. q That early and diligently apply themſelves to the practice of Wickedneſs, or to do miſchief to others.

21 * That make a man an offender r for a word s, and lay a ſnare for him that reproveth t in the gate u, and turn aſide x the juſt y for a thing of nought z.

* Iſa. 29. 20, 21.

r That condemn and puniſh a Man, as if he were a great Criminal. s For a verbal Reproof, as appears from the next Clauſe. t For God's faithful Prophets and Miniſters, whoſe Office it is to reprove ungodly men, ſuch as theſe were. u Publickly; which they took for a great Affront and Diſgrace; although the Reproof ought to be publick, where the Sin is publick and ſcandalous. He mentions the gate, becauſe there the People uſed to aſſemble, both upon Civil and Sacred Accounts, and there Prophets uſed to deliver their Prophecies; of which, ſee Jer. 7. 2. and 17. 19. x To wit, from Judgment, as this Phraſe is more fully delivered, Iſa. 10. 2. or from his right; which is elſewhere called the perverting, or overturning, or overthrowing of a man's right or judgment, as Deut. 27. 19. Prov. 17. 23. Lam. 3. 35. y The faithful Prophets and Miniſters of God, and among others Chriſt, who is oft called the juſt or righteous one, both in the Old and New-Teſtament. z Not for any great advantage, but for a triſle, which is a great Aggravation of their injuſtice. Or, with vanity, i. e. with vain and frivolous Pretences, or without any colour of Reaſon or Juſtice.

22 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD, who redeemed Abraham a, concerning the houſe of Jacob, Jacob b ſhall not now be aſhamed, neither ſhall his face now wax pale c.

a From manifold dangers, and eſpecially from that Idolatry in which his Family and Anceſtors were generally involved, Joſ. 24. 2, 3. b The Iſraelites or poſterity of Jacob, who are oft called Jacob in Scripture, who had great cauſe to be aſhamed, for their continued infidelity, and for their Perſecutions of God's Prophets, and righteous Servants, and for their Rejection of their own Meſſiah; but ſhall at laſt be brought back unto the God of their Fathers, and to their Meſſiah. c Through fear of their Enemies, who, from time to time, have moleſted them, but now they ſhall be delivered from them all, and ſhall ſerve God without fear, as is ſaid, Luke 1. 74.

23 But when he ſeeth his children d, the work of mine hands e, in the midſt of him f, they ſhall ſanctify my name, g, and ſanctify the holy one of Jacob, and ſhall fear the God of Iſrael.

* Ch. 45. 11.

24 They alſo that erred in ſpirit h † ſhall come to underſtanding i, and they that Murmured, ſhall learn doctrine k.

h Thoſe Gentiles, whoſe Spirits or Minds were ignorant of, and erred from God's Truth; and who were led aſide by a lying Spirit, or by the Spirit of errour and deluſion to Idolatry, and all manner of Impiety. i Shall come to the knowledge of the Truth. k They that would not receive the doctrine of God, but murmured at God's faithful Prophets and Teachers, who delivered it, which was the practice of divers, both Jews and Gentiles, ſhall now learn Doctrine, and receive God's Truth in the Love of it.

CHAP. XXX.

The Prophet threatneth the People for their Confidence in Egypt, 1,—7. and contempt of God's word, 8,—11. wherefore they ſhall be deſtroyed, 12,—17. God's mercies towards the Church, 18,—26. God's wrath and his Peoples joy in the deſtruction of Aſſyria, 27, 33.

WO to the rebellious children a, ſaith the LORD, * that take counſel b, but not of me c, and that cover with a covering d, but not of my ſpirit e, that they may add ſin to ſin f:

a The Jews, who call themſelves God's Children, though they are rebellious Ones, as was ſaid, Iſa. 1. 2. b That Conſult together, and reſolve to do what follows, ver. 2. c Not following, nor asking my Advice, which they had command and encouragement from me to do. d That ſeek protection. e Not ſuch as by my Spirit, ſpeaking in my Word, I have directed, and required them to do; but ſuch as I have ſeverely forbidden to them; for the contrary Affirmative is frequently implied in the Negative; of which I have formerly given many inſtances. f That unto thoſe Sins, by which they have deſerved and procured my Judgments upon them, they may add diſtruſt of my power and Mercy to Save them, and confidence in an Arm of Fleſh, which alſo is Rebellion againſt my expreſs Command to the contrary.

2 * That walk to go down into Egypt g (and have not asked at my mouth h) to ſtrengthen themſelves in the ſtrength of Pharaoh, and to truſt in the ſhadow i of Egypt.

g That ſend Ambaſſadors to Egypt for ſuccour, as we read, v. 4. which the Jews were forward to do upon all occaſions, and did now upon the invaſion of the King of Aſſyria, as is evident, from Iſa. 20. 5, 6. and did the like againſt the King of Babylon, Jer. 37. 7. Ezek. 17. 15. h Either by the Prieſts or Prophets, as they were to do in weighty caſes; of which, ſee Numb. 27. 21. Joſ. 9. 14. 1 Sam. 23. 9, 10. 1 Kings 22. 7. Jer. 21. 2. and 42. 2, 20. or by ſtudying my Word; which plainly directs them to another courſe, and forbids them this practice. i In their power (as it is in the foregoing Glauſe) and protection, which is oft ſignified by the ſhadow, as Judg. 9. 15. Pſal. 17. 8. and 91. 1, 4.

3 Therefore ſhall the ſtrength of Pharaoh be your ſhame k, and the truſt in the ſhadow of Egypt your confuſion.

k As being not only unprofitable, but miſchievous to you.

4 For his princes l were at Zoan, and his ambaſſadours came to Hanes m.

l The Princes of Judah, either ſent by the King, or by the appointment of their Brethren. m An eminent City of Egypt, called more largely Tahapanes, and Tahpanhes, Jer. 2. 16. and 43. 3, 8.

5 * They n were all aſhamed of a people that could not profit them, nor be an help nor profit, but a ſhame and alſo a reproach.

n Both the Meſſengers, and they who ſent them.

6 The burden o of the beaſts of the ſouth p: into the land of trouble and anguiſh q, from whence come the young and old lion r, the viper and fiery flying ſerpent s; they t will carry their riches u upon the ſhoulders of young aſſes x, and their treaſures upon the bunches y of camels, to a people that ſhall not profit them.

o Either 1. the Prophecy; which is oft called the burden: or rather 2. the burden of riches or treaſures, as it is explained in the latter part of the Verſe. p Which is carried upon Aſſes or Camels, as it follows, into Egypt, which lay ſouthward from Judea. q Into Egypt and Ethiopia, or Cuſh; for both are joyned together in this matter, Iſa. 20. whoſe Land ſeems to be called a land of trouble and anguiſh prophetically, becauſe they ſhould diſtreſs them, and not help them; as was ſaid of the Aſſyrians in the like caſe, 2 Chron. 28. 20. Some render it, by or through the land, &c. and underſtand it of the vaſt Wilderneſs which lay between Judea and Egypt. But it was more proper, and important to ſpeak of the Land, to which theſe Men and Beaſts went, than of that, through which they were to paſs; which it was needleſs ſo particularly to deſcribe. Nor was the direct Road from Judea to Egypt, ſuch a place as is here deſcribed. r Which may be underſtood properly, becauſe theſe and the following Creatures did abound, and were very fierce and miſchievous in Egypt and Ethiopia: But withal, ſeems to deſign the craft and cruelty of that People, and the danger of their Confederacy with them, and the harm which they ſhould have from them. s That there were flying Serpents in thoſe parts, is affirmed, not only in Scripture, but alſo by Herodotus, Cicero, Ammianus, and divers other Authors. t The Jews deſigned by the ſame pronoun, they, ver. 5. u Either 1. to ſecure them: or rather 2. to procure their aſſiſtance. x Much uſed there for carrying Burdens, as is evident from Gen. 32. 15. and 45. 23. &c. y Upon the backs, which were ſtrengthned with bunches, by a Synecdoche.

7 For the Egyptians ſhall help in vain, and to no purpoſe: therefore have I cryed ‖ concerning this z, * Their ſtrength is to ſit ſtill a.

z Concerning this Counſel or Practice. Or, to her, to Jeruſalem. ver. 15. Iem or Judah. a It is ſafer and better for them to ſit quietly at home, ſeeking to me for help, than to go or ſend to Egypt for help. He ſeems indaſtriouſly to uſe an ambiguous word, Rahab, which ſignifies both ſtrength, as Job 9. 13. Pſal. 90. 10. and Egypt, as Pſal. 87. 4. Iſa. 51. 9. So called from its ſingular Strength, to intimate, that if they did not go to Rahab; Rahab, or what they expected expected from Rahab or Egypt, which was powerful Succour, should come to them.

8 Now go, write it b before them c in a table, and note it in a book d, that it may be for † the time to come e, for ever and ever:

b Write this Prophecy and Warning which I have now delivered. c In their presence, in the publick Assembly: For the Prophets were many times commanded to do such Actions, as well as to deliver their Messages. d So this was to be written twice over, once in a Table, to be hanged up in some publick place, that all that were then and there present, might read it; and again, in a Book, that it might be kept for the use of Posterity. e As a Witness for me and against them, that I have given them fair warning, and that they have willfully run upon their own Ruine.

9 That this is a rebellious people, lying children f, children that will not hear the law of the LORD g.

f Which profess one thing, and practise another. g The Commands of God, either contained in Scripture, or delivered by my Mouth, whereby these Practices are expresly forbidden to them.

* Jer. 11. 21. Amos 2. 12. Isa 7. 13. Mich. 2. 6.

10 * Which say to the Seers, See not; and to the Prophets, Prophesie not unto us right things *, speak unto us smooth things, prophesie deceit h:

h He speaks not of the words of their Mouths; for none could be so mad or impudent, as to have or profess a desire to be Cheated, but of the Language of their Actions. They do so discourage and threaten God's faithful Prophets; and so encourage their own false Prophets; as if they had rather be deceived to their Destruction, than hear the Truth for their Preservation and Salvation. They prefer the pleasing of their Humours, before the Saving of themselves.

11 Get ye out of the way i, turn aside out of the path, cause the holy one of Israel to cease from before us k.

i In which you now walk, out of your present course of Preaching unfavourly, and frightful things to us. k Do not trouble us with harsh and repeated Messages from God, as you use to do.

12 Wherefore thus saith the holy one of Israel, Because ye despise this word, and trust in ‖ oppression l and perverseness m, and stay thereon:

l In the Wealth which you have gotten by Oppression, whereby you now think to procure Egyptian Succours; of which see on ver. 6. m And in your perverse and rebellious Course of sending to Egypt for help.

* Psa. 62. 3.

13 Therefore this iniquity n shall be to you * as a breach ready to fall, swelling out in a high wall, whose breaking * cometh suddenly at an instant o.

* Ch. 1. 29. 5.

n Of sending and trusting to Egypt for Succour. o Like a Wall which is high, and seems to be strong, but swelling forth in some parts, which, upon the least Accident, falleth down suddenly to the Ground. Such shall be the issue of your high and towring Confidence in Egypt.

* Jer. 19. 11. † Heb. the bottle of the potters.

14 And * he shall break it p as the breaking of † the potters vessel, that is broken in pieces; he shall not spare; so that there shall not be found in the bursting of it, a sherd to take fire from the hearth, or to take water withal out of the pit.

p He, either God, or he whom God shall send against them: Or, It shall be broken; for such Phrases are oft taken indefinitely and passively: it, this iniquity last mentioned, ver. 13. your carnal confidence, and all the grounds of it, and you that lean upon it.

15 For thus saith the Lord GOD, the holy one of Israel, * In returning q and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness r and in confidence s shall be your strength; and ye would not.

q Either from your present purpose of sending to Egypt; or unto God, as the Seventy, and Syriack, and Arabick Translators render it. Or, In quietness; for the Verb, from which this word comes, is elsewhere used in that sense, as Psal. 23. 3. Jer. 30. 10. and 46. 27. r In sitting still, and quieting your own Minds. s To wit, rightly placed upon Me, and my promises for your deliverance.

16 But ye said, No, for we will flee t upon horses, therefore shall ye flee: and we will ride upon the swift; therefore shall they that pursue you, be swift.

t Out of this Land from the King of Assyria; which it is very probable, divers of the Richer sort did, having sent their Treasures before them, as we read ver. 6.

* Lev. 26. 8. Deut. 28. 25. & 32. 30.

17 * One thousand shall flee u at the rebuke x of one: at the rebuke of five shall ye flee y, till ye be left as ‖ a beacon upon the top of a mountain, and as an ensign upon an hill z.

u Which words are fitly supplied out of the following Clause. x Either 1. at his real Rebuke, upon his assault or on-set: Or rather 2. at his verbal Rebuke, upon his meer Threats, as fearing that he will proceed from words to blows. y All of you, how numerous soever. z Till you be generally Destroyed, and but a few of you left.

* Psal. 7. 6. Ch. 33. 3, 10. * Psal. 2. 12. & 34. 8. Prov. 16. 20. Jer. 17. 7.

18 And therefore a will the LORD wait b, that he may be gracious unto you; and therefore will he * be exalted c, that he may have mercy upon you: for the LORD is a God of Judgment d; * blessed are all they that wait for him e.

a Because of your general Destruction and great Misery; which is frequently mentioned in Scripture, as a motive to God's Mercy, as Deut. 32. 36. and in many other places, as hath been oft observed already. But some rendred this Hebrew particle, Yet or notwithstanding, as it is supposed to signifie, Isa. 51. 21. Jer. 16. 14. Ezek. 39. 25. Hos. 2. 14. b Patiently expect your Repentance, and stop the course of His Judicial Proceedings against you, that you may have an opportunity of making your Peace with Him, and of preventing your utter ruine. c He will lift up and bestir himself, and will Work gloriously in your behalf, as this Phrase is used, Psal. 21. 13. and 46. 10. Isa. 33. 10. and oft elsewhere; and as the following Verses explain it. d Who carrieth himself towards his People (for of them only he speaks in this place) not with furious Passion, but with Judgment and Discretion, or with equity and moderation; for judgment is oft opposed to Fury and rigorous Justice, as Psal. 112. 5. Jer. 10. 24. and 30. 11. e This waiting upon God, in his way, with Faith and Patience, is a furer way to your Safety and Happiness, than seeking to Egypt, or any other carnal Remedies.

19 For the people shall dwell in Zion at Jerusalem f thou shalt weep no more: he will be very gracious unto thee, at the voice of thy cry: when he shall hear it, he will answer thee g.

f For although the time is coming, when the People shall be banished from Jerusalem, and carried Captives into Babylon; yet after a set time, they shall return to Jerusalem, and have a fixed and comfortable Abode there. Which was in part accomplished upon their return from Babylon; but more fully in the times of the Gospel, when many of them were, and the whole Body of them shall be brought into Christ's Church, which is oft called Zion and Jerusalem, both in the Old and New-Testament. g Whereas now He seems to be deaf to thy Prayers.

20 And though the LORD give you the bread of adversity, and the water of ‖ affliction h, yet shall not ‖ Or, strait. thy teachers be removed into a corner any more i, but thine eyes shall see thy teachers k.

h And although in that time and state of the Church, you will be subject to many outward Straits and Afflictions. This Phrase is borrowed from Deut. 16. 3. and 1 Kings 22. 27. He seems to allude to the condition of besieged Cities, and particularly of Jerusalem, as it was straitned and distressed by Sennacherib; and is it should be far more straitned by the Chaldeans; of which see 2 Kings 25. 3. Heb. And the Lord will give, &c. Or, The Lord indeed will give, &c. i As they have been in former times, both in Israel and Judah, when the Godly Prophets and Ministers were but few, and when they were persecuted and banished by their wicked Rulers. But in the New-Testament God hath made better provision for his Church, sending his Son, the great Teacher of the Church, into the World; and pouring forth the Gifts and Graces of the Spirit in abundance, and increasing the number of able and faithful Ministers; and promising a continued Succession of them to the end of the World, Mat. 28. 19, 20. k Thou shalt have their presence, and their instruction and assistance.

21 And thine ears shall hear a word l behind thee m, saying, This is the way, walk ye in it, when ye * turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the * Isa. 1. left.

l As oft as need requires thou shalt hear the voice of God's Word and Spirit directing thee in thy Course. m A Metaphor borrowed either, 1. from the custom of Shepherds, who use to follow their Sheep, and to recall them when they go out of the way. Or 2. from Travellers, who, when they are gone out of the right way, are oft-times recalled and admonished of their Error, by some other Passenger or Person, who is behind them, and therefore discerns their mistake; which he could not so easily discover, if he were before them.

22 * Ye shall defile n also the covering o of † thy graven images of silver, and the ornament p of thy molten images of gold: thou shalt † cast them away ‖ as a menstrous cloth q; thou shalt say unto it, Get thee hence.

n To shew your contempt of it, and to make it unfit for your own, or any others use. o The Leaves or Plates wherewith their wooden Images were frequently covered: of which see Exod. 38. 17, 19. Numb. 16. 38, 39. p Or, the coat or covering. Heb. the Ephod, as this very Word is rendred, Exod. 28. 8. and 39. 5. which was a costly and glorious Robe. The Idolaters spared no Cost in the making and adorning their Idols: And, among others, the Image of Jupiter in Sicily, had a Coat put upon it made all of massy Gold. q Thou shalt so deeply abhor Idolatry, that thou shalt cast away with indignation, all the Monuments and Instruments thereof.

23 Then shall he give the rain of thy seed r that thou shalt sow the ground withal, and bread of the increase of the earth s, and it shall be fat and plenteous t: in that day shall thy cattel feed in large pastures.

r Or rather, as others render it, to or for thy seed, when thou hast newly sown thy Seed, which was called the former rain; or such as thy Seed requires, which may include both the former, and the latter Rain. Their Sins, the cause of all God's Judgments which had befallen them, being removed by their sincere Repentance, and God's gracious Pardon, God showreth down all his Blessings upon them. s Which shall be the Fruit of thy own Land and Labour: which is a great Mercy and Comfort. t Thy Bread shall be excellent for quality, which is called fat, Deut. 32. 14. and abundant for quantity.

24 The oxen likewise and the young asses that ear ear the ground shall eat ‖ clean u provender, which hath been winnowed with the shovel and with the fan.

u Or, as Learned Mr. Gataker renders it, Threshed, which agrees well with the following Clause, Corn being first Threshed, and then Winnowed. The Sense is, There should be such plenty of Corn, that there very Beasts, instead of Straw, should eat Corn; and that not in the Ear, or with the Straw, but the pure Grain.

25 And there shall be upon every high mountain, and upon every † high hill x, rivers, and streams of waters, in the day of the great slaughter y, when the towers z fall.

x Which are commonly dry and barren, and destitute of Rivers. y When God shall destroy the Enemies of His People, He will shower down his Blessings upon his People. z Either properly, the Towers of Babylon, for which She was Famous; or Metaphorically, the high and mighty Potentates, which fought against God's People, as Isa. 2. 15.

26 Moreover the light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun a, and the light of the sun shall be sevenfold, as the light of seven days b, in the day that the LORD bindeth up the breach of his people, and healeth the stroke of their wound c.

a For constancy and brightness: Which, as also the following Clause, is to be understood Metaphorically, of the most glorious and comfortable Condition of God's Church, far surpassing what it was in former Ages. And so this, as well as other passages in this Chapter, concerns the times of the Gospel. b As if the Light of seven days were combined together in one: Its Light shall then be transcendently more bright and glorious, than it hath hitherto been. Which magnificent Expressions seem to be too high for the deliverance of the Jews, either from Sennacherib, or out of Babylon: And do much better agree to the times of the Gospel, in which the Light is far more clear, and the Grace of God much more abundant, than ever it was in former times. And this exposition seems the more probable, because it is the manner of the Prophets; and especially of this, who is rightly called the Evangelical Prophet, to take all occasions to speak of the days of the Messiah, and of the blessed Priviledges of that time and state of the Church, among which, they constantly reckon Light, whether you take it for Knowledge or for Comfort, to be one. c When God shall effectually Cure the Wounds and Breaches of his People, first making up the Breach between Him and them, then making Israel and Judah to be one, who now are sadly divided; and making Jew and Gentile to be one Fold under one Shepherd, even the Messiah, which the Prophets foretel, that it shall be in the times of the Gospel.

27 Behold d, the name of the LORD e cometh from far f, burning with his anger, ‖ and the burden thereof is † heavy g: his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue as a devouring fire h.

d Here begins the last part of the Chapter, wherein he gives them an earnest of those greater Mercies promised for times to come, by assuring them of the approaching Destruction of the Assyrian Forces. e The Lord himself: For as the names of Men are oft put for the Men themselves, as Numb. 26. 53. Acts 1. 15. Rev. 3. 4. and 11. 13. So the name of God is frequently put for God, as Gen. 4. 26. Deut. 28. 58. Psal. 20. 1, 7, &c. f From a very remote place; even from Heaven, whence God sent His Angel to destroy them, Ist. 37. 36. Possibly this Expression may respect the judgment of the Assyrians, who looked upon God as one afar off, not only in his Presence, which they thought to be confined to Heaven, but in his care of, and affections to the Jews; and therefore, no more expected any opposition from Him, than from them who live in the ends of the Earth. g He will inflict heavy Judgments upon them. h He hath pronounced a severe Sentence against them, and will give command for the Execution of it.

28 And his breath i as an overflowing ſtream k, shall reach to the midst of * the neck l, * to sift m the nations n with the sieve of vanity o: and there shall be a * bridle in the jaws of the people p, causing them to err q.

* Isa. 8. 8. * Isa. 37. 29.

i Either 1. The breath of his Nostrils, as it is called, Job 4. 9. or The blast of the breath of his Nostrils, as Psal. 18. 15. in both which places it is mentioned, as a sign and effect of God's Anger, and the cause of the Destruction of those, against whom it is directed. And the Expression seems to be borrowed from hence, that Men discover their Anger by a strong and vehement breathing through their Nostrils. Or 2. The breath of his Lips or Mouth, to which the destruction of God's Enemies is elsewhere ascribed, as Job 15. 30. Isa. 11. 4. which may be the same thing with his Lips and Tongue in the foregoing Verse, or may design a strong blast coming out of his Mouth: for God is frequently said to destroy wicked Men, by blowing upon them, as Isa. 40. 7, 24. Ezek. 21. 31. and 22. 21. k Coming from Him as vehemently as a mighty Torrent of Waters. l Shall bring him into a most dangerous condition, as a Man, who is in deep Waters, which reach to his Neck, is in danger of being drowned; and afterwards, as is related in the following Verses, will utterly Destroy him. And this was fulfilled in Sennacherib, who was highly endangered, when he lost so great a part of his Army, and shortly after slain by his own Sons. Although these words may be added as a description of the overflowing stream now mentioned, and may be thus rendred, which Reacheth even to the midst of the Neck; for the relative Particle is frequently understood in Scripture. m To shake and scatter, as it were with a Sieve: or to try and vex, as this Metaphor signifies, Amos 9. 9. Luke 22. 31. n The Assyrian Army, which was made up of the People of several Nations. o Not with an ordinary Sieve, which casteth away the Chaff only, but keepeth the Corn; but with a Sieve, which should shake them so long and so vehemently, as to cast away all together, and to make a full End of them. p God will restrain and over-rule them by His secret and powerful Providence. q Whereas other Bridles guide the bridled Creatures into the right way, this shall turn them out of the way, by giving them up to their own Mistakes, and foolish Counsels, and wicked Courses, which shall bring them to sore and certain Ruine.

29 Ye shall have a song r, as in the night, when a holy solemnity is kept s, and gladness of heart, as when one goeth with a Pipe t to come into the mountain of the LORD, to the † mighty one of Israel.

r You shall have occasion of great Joy, and songs of Praise for your stupendious Deliverance from that formidable Enemy. s He mentions the Night, either because the Jewish Feasts begun at the Evening, and were Celebrated with great Joy in part of the Night-season, as well as on the following Day; or because He hath a particular respect to the solemnity of the Passover, in which they spent some considerable part of the Night in Feasting, and Rejoycing, and singing of Psalms and Songs before the Lord. t Like the joy of one that is going up to the solemn Feasts with Musick, and the voice of Joy and Praise, as they used to do, Psal. 42. 4. to cheer up themselves in the way, which to many of them was long, and would otherwise have been tedious.

30 And the LORD shall cause † his glorious voice u to be heard, and shall shew the lighting down of his arm x, with the indignation of his anger y, and with the flame of a devouring fire, with ſcattering, and tempest, and hailstones.

u His Thunder, which is called God's Voice, and said to be full of Majesty, Psal. 29. 4. But then Thunder is Metaphorically taken for some terrible Judgment, as it is in many places of Scripture. x Upon the Assyrian, whom he will smite with a deadly blow in the face of the World. The Phrase is taken from the gesture of a Man, who is about to smite another; who first lifts up his hand, and then lets it fall with great force upon him, whom he designs to strike. y With great wrath; which is signified by the heaping of so many words of the same signification together.

31 For through the voice of the LORD z shall the Assyrian be beaten down, which smote with a rod a.

z That Voice mentioned in the last Verse. a Which was the Rod wherewith God smote His and other people, Isa. 10. 5, 6. He who used to smite others, shall now be smitten himself. Or, as the words may be, and by another, as Nebuchadnezzar, He (the Lord last mentioned) shall smite him with a rod, or with his rod.

32 And † in every place where the grounded staff b it shall pass, which the LORD shall † lay c upon him d, it shall be with tabrets and harps e: and in battles of ‖ shaking f will he g fight ‖ with it h.

b Heb. the founded rod, the Judgment of God, which is frequently called a Rod in Scripture, and may be here called a founded him. Rod, or the Rod of Foundation; either because it was firmly established, and certainly to come by God's immutable Purpose and Appointment: or because the Rod should not slightly touch him, and pass over him, but strike deep, and be fixed, and as it were grounded or founded in his Flesh; and made to rest upon him, as it follows in the next Clause. c Heb. shall cause to rest; which is contrary to the manner of God's dealing with His People, upon whom He will Not suffer the rod of the wicked to rest, Psal. 125. 3. d Upon the Assyrian, mentioned in the foregoing Verse. e The Sense is, Either 1. their Destruction shall be Celebrated, by God's People, with joy and musick, and songs of Praise. Or, 2. the Victory shall be got, not by warlike Instruments and Atchievements, but as it were by Tabrets and Harps. Wherein He may possibly allude to the Victory which Jehoshaphat got against Moab and Ammon, not by fighting, but only by singing, and praising God with the Voice, and with musical Instruments, 2 Chron. 20. 19, 21, 27, 28. God being pleased to Fight for them, by his own immediate Power; which also was the case here, which made the People of God sing a Triumph before the Fight, Isa. 37. 22. f Or, with battles or fightings of shaking, to wit, of shaking of the Land, of which kind of Shaking this Hebrew word is constantly used, such as are performed by the meer shaking of the hand; namely, by God's shaking His Hand against them, as He threatens to do against others, Isa. 11. 15. and 19. 16. in which last place this very word is used; and in the former, the Verb from whence it comes. For that this Shaking is an Act of God, seems more than probable, and from the following words, Will he, i.e. God, as all understand it, fight against it. And so the Sense of the place may be this, God will Fight against them, and destroy them by His own Hands. g To wit, the Lord, who declareth himself to be the Enemy of the Assyrian, both in the foregoing and following Verses. h With the Army of the Assyrians: Or, according to the other Hebrew reading, with them, with the Assyrians.

33 For Tophet i is ordained † of old k: yea, for † Heb. from the king m it is prepared, he n hath made it deep and large o: the pile thereof is fire and much wood o; * the breath of the LORD p, like a stream of brimstone q, doth kindle it r.

i This was a place near Jerusalem, in which the Idolatrous Israelites used cruelly to Offer up their Children to Moloch, 2 Chron. 28. 3. and 33. 6. See also Jer. 7. 31. and 19. 6. And it may be put Synecdochically, for any place of Torment or Misery: And particularly it is put for Hell, as well in the Writings of the ancient Jewish Doctors, as in holy Scripture, as Mat. 18. 8, 9. and 23. 15. Mark 9. 43. 44. And so this place may be understood: Either

Either 1. literally of Tophet in the Valley of Hinnom, in which the Assyrian Host was, either slain by the Angel, as Josephus reports, or buried, or burnt. For although the Assyrians did not make any great attempt upon Jerusalem, Isa. 37. 36. yet Rabshakeh came very near it with a great Army, Isa. 36. 2. Or 2. figuratively of Hell. k Or, was ordered or prepared. And it might be said, in some sort, to be prepared by Hezekiah for this end, by the care which he took to purge this and other places, abused to Idolatry, which made them more fit to receive so great a Favour and Deliverance from God. But for Hell, that doubtless was ordained or prepared by God, for the punishment of impenitent Sinners. l Heb. From yesterday: Which Phrase is sometimes used of a time but lately past, as Job 8. 9. 2 Sam. 15. 20. and sometimes of any time past, without limitation. m For the King of Assyria, Either 1. for the Kings, the Singular Number being put for the Plural, whereby he may understand the Princes or Chief Commanders of the Host, by comparing Isa. 10. 8. Are not my Princes altogether Kings. Or 2. for Rabshakeh, the General of this Army, who, according to the style of Scripture, might very well be called King. Or, 3. Sennacherib; for whom this place might be said to be ordained or prepared: partly because it was ordained for the Destruction of his Host; nothing being more ordinary, both in Sacred and Prophane Writers, than to intitle the King, or General of the Army, to all the Victories procured, or Losses and Slaughters sustained by his Army: And partly because the sudden Destruction of the Assyrian Army, supposed to be in this place, was the occasion of the Conspiracy of that King's Sons, and so of the King's Death. But if this Tophet design Hell, this is Emphatically denounced against him, to intimate, That although he escaped that sudden Plague which cut off his Army, yet there was a more terrible Judgment appointed for him, which he should be utterly unable to escape. n The Lord, who is oft designed by this Pronoun, as in the next foregoing Verse, and elsewhere; and who is expressed in the following words. Or it is an indefinite Expression; for, it is made deep and large. n Capable of receiving vast Numbers; whereby he intimates, That he designed to make a great and general Destruction of the Assyrians; and withal, that it was a vain and foolish Confidence which the Assyrians had in their numerous Host, seeing the greatest Numbers of God's Enemies are wholy unable, either to oppose Him, or to save themselves from his wrath and power. o Whereby he further implies, That he intended to make a great slaughter among them. And he alludes in this Phrase, to the ancient Custom, either of burning Sacrifices, and particularly of burning Children to Moloch, or of burning the dead Bodies of Men. p The immediate hand of God, or his Word of Anger: See on ver. 28. q He seems to allude to that shower of Fire and Brimstone, Gen. 9. 24. r The pile of Fire and Wood now mentioned.

CHAP. XXXI.

The folly and punishment of Trust in Egypt, 1,—3. God will fight for Jerusalem, 4,—5. if they will turn unto him, 6,—7. the fall of Assyria. 8,—9.

*Ch. 30. 2. WO to them * that go down to Egypt for help a, and stay on horses b, and trust in chariots, because they are many, and in horsemen, because they are very strong: but they look not unto the holy one of Israel, neither seek the LORD c.

a As the Jews did contrary to God's Command, Deut. 17. 16. and 26. 68. b For Egypt had many and choice Horses. c Their confidence in the Creature was accompanied with, and did produce a distrust of God, and a neglect of seeking to him by Prayer for his help.

† Heb. remove. 2 Yet he also is wise d, and will bring evil e, and will not † call back his words f: but will arise g against the house of evil doers h, and against the help i of them that work iniquity.

d You think you are wise, and act wisely in ingaging the Egyptians, who are a wise and warlike People, to help you; but God is not inferiour to them in Wisdom nor in Strength, but much their Superiour; and therefore you have done foolishly, and wickedly in preferring them before him. e Will execute his Judgements upon you, notwithstanding all that you, or your Allies the Egyptians, can do to hinder it. f His Threatnings denounced against you, but will infallibly Execute them. g Though at present he sit still, yet he will bestir himself and Fight. h Against this wicked and rebellious People of the Jews. i The helpers, as it is explained in the next Verse: The Abstract being put for the Concrete.

† Heb. Egypt is a man. 3 Now † the Egyptians are men and not God k, and their horses flesh l, and not spirit m, when the LORD shall stretch out his hand, both he that helpeth shall fall, and he that is holpen shall fall down, and they all shall fall together.

k And therefore utterly unable to defend you, either without or against my Will. l Weak and frail, as that word signifies, Psal. 78. 39. Heb. 5. 7. and elsewhere. m Not like spiritual Substances, such as the Angels, who are immortal, and invisible by Men; whereof we have Instances, Exod. 12. 29, 30. Isa. 37. 36.

4 For n thus hath the LORD spoken unto me, Like as the lion and the young lion roaring on his prey o, when a multitude of shepherds is called forth against him, he will not be afraid of their voice, nor abase himself p for the ‖ noise of them, so shall the LORD of hosts come down to fight for q mount Zion, and for the hill thereof.

n Or, But: or, Nevertheless, as this Particle is elsewhere used, as hath been proved before. Although you have done evil in sending to Egypt for help, and they shall not be able to help you; yet the Lord himself will, of his own grace, and for the glory of his own Name, give you that help and deliverance which you do not deserve, and have no reason to expect from him. And therefore desist from those evil Counsels and Courses, as those which are both unnecessary and pernicious. o When he is ready to seize upon it, and devour it. p It hath been observed of Lions, that when they are pursued, they do not run away with all speed, as other Creatures do, but march away slowly, and make an honourable Retreat. q Although this Hebrew particle might be rendred against; and so this place might be understood of God's fighting against the Jews and Egyptians, of which he speaks, ver. 3. yet it is better rendred, for, as it is taken in many other places, as is manifest from the following similitude and verse.

5 * As birds flying r, so will the LORD of hosts * Psal. defend Jerusalem; * defending also he will deliver it, * Isa. and passing over s he will preserve it.

r Which come from above, and so cannot be kept off; which fly swiftly, and ingage themselves valiantly and resolutely, when they perceive that their young Ones are in eminent danger. He seems to allude, and to oppose this to those boasting Expressions of the Assyrian, Isa. 10. 14. compare Deut. 32. 11, 12. Mat. 23. 37. s The destroying Angel shall pass over Jerusalem untouched, and shall fall upon the Assyrians. He seems to allude to the History of God's passing over, and sparing the Houses of the Israelites, when he slew the Egyptians, in which this Word is constantly used, Exod. 12. 12, 22, 26.

6 Turn ye unto him t from whom the children of Israel u have deeply revolted x.

t Let the consideration of this gracious Promise ingage you to repent of your carnal Policies, in seeking and trusting to Egypt for Help, and sincerely to return to God. u Either 1. the Israelites, strictly so called, who are now utterly destroyed for their Apostacy; and therefore take heed that you do not follow their Example. Or 2. you Jews who are the Children of Israel: which Title, he here gives them, partly to admonish them of their great and many Obligations to God; and partly to aggravate the sin of their Apostacy. x In neglecting and forsaking him, and seeking to Egypt for help; which he calls a deep revolt, partly because it was an hainous Sin, being contrary to God's express Command, and highly dishonourable to God: And partly because it was carried on with deep Dissimulation, and with a publick profession of cleaving to God, and with a design of seeking deep to hide this their counsel from the Lord, wherewith he charged this People, Isa. 29. 15.

7 For in that day every Man shall * cast away his * Ch. 2. lg 30. 22 idols y of silver, and † his idols of gold, which your † Heb. idols of own hands have made unto you for a sin z. gold.

y For when the Assyrian shall invade your Land, you shall find the vanity of those Idols, to which you have trusted; and therefore shall cast them away with indignation, and be forced to seek to me for help. So this is added, as an Argument to persuade them to practise his Counsel of turning to God. z Which you have made as Instruments of your sin of Idolatry. Or, Which your sinful hands (by a common Hebraisme, called hands of sin) have made for you. Or, the sin (as an Idol is called, Deut. 9. 21.) which your hands have made for you. So there is only a Transposition of one Word, which is very usual in the Hebrew Text.

8 Then a shall the Assyrian fall with the sword, not of a mighty man, and the sword, * not of a * See mean man b shall devour him, but he shall flee ‖ from 2 King. the sword c, and his young men d shall be † dis- 19. 35. ‖ Or, for comfited e. fear of the † Heb. sword, shall tributary.

a When you have cast away your Idols, and seriously sought to me for help; both which things were performed by Hezekiah. b By the Sword, not of any Man, either mean or mighty, but of an Angel. c From, or for fear of, that Plague which so strangely and suddenly destroyed his Army. d Heb. his choice young men, his Guards and valiant Commanders and Souldiers. e Heb. shall melt † Heb. away, a great part of them being destroyed by the Angel; and the hearts of the rest melting for fear. melting, ‖ Or, tributar.

9 And † he shall pass over to ‖ his strong hold f for † Heb. his fear, and his princes shall be afraid of the ensign g, rock shall saith the LORD, whose fire is in Zion h, and his fur- pass away nace in Jerusalem i. for fear. ‖ Or, his strength.

f Sennacherib shall flee away, with all speed, from Jerusalem, to his strong City of Nineveh, Isa. 37. 37. Or, as it is in the Margent, and as the Words lie in the Hebrew Text, his rock (i. e. his Strength, the greatest Champions of his Army, to whom he trusted) shall pass away (shall flee with all speed from Jerusalem) for fear, lest the Sword of the destroying Angel should overtake them. g Either 1. of any Ensign. This dreadful Judgment shall strike them with such a Terrour, that they shall not dare to look any Enemy in the Face. Or 2. of the Lord's Ensign, which He hath lifted up against them. h So the Sense is, Either 1. whose Fire is ontinually burning upon the Altar in Zion; which signifies his Presence and residence there. Or rather 2. who is, and will appear to be in Zion, like a Fire to defend his People, and to consume their Enemies; for which end God promiseth, That he would be unto Jerusalem a wall of fire round about, Zech. 2. 5. &c. And that he would make the Governours of Judah like a hearth of fire among the wood, and like a Torch of fire in a sheaf; and that they should devour all the People round about. Possibly these and the following Words, may be thus rendred, and that very agreeeable to the Hebrew words, Who will be a fire (to wit, a consuming Fire) to him (to the King of Assyria, of whom he is here speaking) in Zion (from whence he will send forth that Fire which shall consume his Army: Or, for Zion, for Zion's sake; for the Prefix here rendred in, frequently signifies for, as hath been proved) and a furnace to him in or for Jerusalem. But this I only propose, leaving it to the Judgment of the intelligent Reader. i The same thing repeated in other Words.

CHAP. XXXII.

Christ's Kingdom, and it's Blessings, 1,——8. Careless Women shall be troubled, 9,——11. and the Land laid waste, 12,——14. until a Restoration, 15,——20.

Jer. 23. 5. BEhold, a * a king b shall reign c in righteousness, and princes c shall rule in judgment.

a This seems to me to be a distinct Prophecy from the former, and delivered at another time, and probably before that which is related in the former Chapters. For this is certain, and confessed by all, That the Prophecies are not always set down in that order, in which the Prophets delivered them. The foregoing Prophecy seems to have been delivered, not in the time of Ahaz, for he sent to the Assyrian, and not to the Egyptian, for Help; but in the days of Hezekiah, who Rebelled against the King of Assyria, as is said, 2 Kings 18. 7. was too prone to trust upon the staff of Egypt, as the Assyrian expresly chargeth him there, ver. 21. To which Course it is likely he was drawn or tempted by some of his wicked Princes and Counsellours, whom the Prophet therefore severely censures and condemns in the two foregoing Chapters. And this seems to have been delivered in the time of Ahaz, and to speak of Hezekiah, and of his righteous and happy Government: but withal, as Hezekiah and his Reign was an eminent Type of Christ, and of his Kingdom; so this Prophecy looks thorough Hezekiah unto Christ, as many other Scriptures in their literal Sense do unquestionably concern David, which yet have a mystical Sense, and are also meant of Christ, in whom those things were more fully and eminently accomplished. b Hezekiah, a Type of Christ, and Christ Typified by him. c Therefore Hezekiah was not King when this Prophecy was delivered. And whereas some say, That he speaks of the good Government of Hezekiah, after the Destruction of Sennacherib; it is easie to observe, That his Government was as good before that time as after ward; and that in the very beginning of his Reign, he Ruled with Righteousness, and the fear of God, as the History plainly declareth. c The Ministers of State, and Justice, and War, under the King. For a wise and good King will take care to have like Ministers.

2 And a man d shall be as an hiding place e from the wind f, and a covert from the tempest: as rivers Heb. of water in a dry place g, as the shadow of a † great rock in a weary land h.

d Either 1. the Man or King spoken of. Or 2. each or every one, to wit, of his Princes. That King shall not patch up an old Garment with new Cloth, nor mingle good and bad together; but shall take care to purge out all the corrupt Magistrates, and, as far as he can, to settle good Ones in all places. A man is oft put for every or any man, as Isa. 2. 20. and 3. 5. 6. and elsewhere. e Unto the People under their Government, especially to such as are oppressed or injured by those who are more Potent than they. f From the rage and violence of evil Men. g No less refreshing and acceptable shall this King and his Princes be to their Subjects. h In a dry and scorched Country, which is called weary here, as also Psal. 63. 1. Metonymically, because it makes Travellers weary; as death is called pale in other Authors, because it makes men's Faces pale.

3 And the eyes of them that see, shall not be dim, and the ears of them that hear, shall hearken i.

i This is meant, Either 1. of the Princes or Magistrates, who are instead of Eyes and Ears, both to the King, and to the People, who, by their Office, are to see and observe all things, and to hear all Causes. These, saith he, shall not shut their Eyes, nor suffer them to be blinded with Gifts, to favour a rich Man in an unjust Cause; they shall not shut their Ears against the Complaints of the poor oppressed Ones, as wicked Princes commonly do. Or 2. of the People, they shall not shut their Eyes and Ears against the good Counsels and Examples of their Religious King and Rulers, as they have done formerly: Both Princes and People shall be reformed. This was done in some poor measure in Hezekiah's time; but far more fully and eminently in the days of the Messiah, who, by his grace, changeth Men's Hearts, and cureth them of that wilful and obstinate Blindness, whereof they had been Guilty before. Which clearly sheweth, That this Prophecy looks through Hezekiah unto Christ. And the like may be said of the following Verse.

k Who were hasty and heady in judging of Things; which is an Argument of Ignorance and folly. l Shall become more knowing and considerate in their Judgments and Actions. m That used to speak of the Things of God, darkly, and doubtfully, and unwillingly. As Men's Understandings shall then be enlightned, so their Speech shall be reformed. Which though it was in part fulfilled in Hezekiah's time, this Reformation being effected in some measure by his Counsel and Example, and by the powerful Preaching of the Levites, whom he excited and encouraged to Teach the good knowledge of the Lord, as is said, 2 Chron. 30. 22. yet was truly and fully accomplished only by Christ, who wrought this wonderful Change in an innumerable company both of Jews and Gentiles.

Heb. 5 The vile person n shall be no more called ‖ liberal o, nor the churl p said to be bountiful. ‖ Or, honourable.

n Fool and wordily so Men. Heb. the fool: which in Scripture-use commonly signifies a wicked Man. o Or, Noble, or a Prince, or Lord: as this word is used, Psal. 118. 9. and 146. 3. and elsewhere. The Sense of the place is, Either 1. Unworthy Men shall not be advanced to places of Honour and Power, as the Seventy, and some others understand it; for, to be called, is oft put in Scripture for, to be, as hath been frequently observed. Or 2. vicious and worthless Persons shall no longer be reputed Honourable and Vertuous, because of their high and honourable Places, as commonly they are under wicked Princes, by means of Flatterers; but wickedness shall be discovered and punished wheresoever it is, and Vertue shall be manifested and rewarded; and all things shall be Managed with sincerity and simplicity: Which was eminently fulfilled under the Gospel; by the Preaching whereof, and by Christ's Spirit, Hypocrites are detected, and Men are enabled to discern between Good and Evil, both Persons and things. p The fordid and covetous Man; which is a great Vice in any Man, but especially in Magistrates; who therefore must be, Men hating covetousness, Exod. 18. 21. But under this one Vice, all Vices are understood by a Synecdoche, very frequent in Scripture, and in other Authors; as under the opposite Vertue of bountifulness, all Vertues are comprehended.

6 For the vile person will speak villany q, and his heart will work iniquity r, to practise hypocrisie s, and to utter errour against the LORD t, ‖ to make empty the soul of the hungry, and he will cause the drink of the thirsty to fail u.

q So this is a reason of the Assertion, ver. 5. either thus, Such shall not be Advanced to Places of Trust and Dignity; for if they were, they would abuse them by unjust Sentences and Practices: Or thus, Men shall no longer be misealled; for every one will discover what he is by his Words and Actions; which also shall be narrowly observed. But these and the following Words are, and may be otherwise rendred: But (as this Particle oft signifies) he shall be called or said to be (which words are easily understood out of the former Verse, as is very frequent in Scripture) a fool, who (which relative Particles is understood in very many places) shall speak villany, and whose heart shall work iniquity, &c. r He will, from time to time, be devising Wickedness, that he may Execute it when he hath opportunity. s To do bad things, but with a pretence of Religion and Justice, which he shall use to keep himself from the displeasure of his Prince, and from the lash of the Law. Or, to practise prophaneness or wickedness, as this Word, at least sometimes, seems to signifie. t To pass unjust Sentences, which is directly contrary to the Will and Command of God. u Whereby they take away the Bread and Drink of the Poor, and give it to their rich Oppressors.

7 The instruments also of the churl are evil x, he deviseth wicked devices y to destroy the poor with lying words z, even ‖ when the needy speaketh right. a. ‖ Or, when x Heb. The vessels, &c. which is a Word of a very general Signification among the Hebrews, and signifies any person or things, as the which is employed in a Man's use and service. I say person, for the word in name of vessel is given to such Persons as are instrumental to another; as to the Babylonians, who were God's instruments in executing His Vengeance, Isa. 13. 5. to God's Ministers, Acts 9. 15. 2 Cor. 4. 5. and to useful Christians, 2 Tim. 2. 20. and to Wives, 1 Pet. 3. 7. And so it may here noted, That such covetous or wicked Princes most willingly chuse, and employ wicked Men in their Affairs, because such Men will, without any regard to Conscience or Justice, serve all their exorbitant Desires or Lusts. But withal, it seems to include his Counsels, and Practices, and Arts, which are here declared to be generally Evil. But this Verse is, and may be otherwise rendred, as the former was; And (repeat, he shall be called) a churl (as indeed he is one) whose Instruments are evil, and who deviseth, &c. Which agrees with the order of the Words in the Hebrew Text, and with the order of the foregoing Verses: For as he speaks of the vile person, and of the churl, ver. 5. So he gives a Description of the vile Person, ver. 6. and then of the churl, in this Verse. y He useth all his Wit and Art to do Injury to others, without any inconvenience to himself. z With false and unrighteous Decrees. a When their Cause is just and good.

8 But the liberal deviseth liberal things, and by liberal things shall he ‖ stand b. ‖ Or, be established.

b He who is truly Liberal and Vertuous, will shew it by designing and practising liberal or vertuous Actions: And he who doth so, will not destroy himself thereby, as wicked Men falsely suppose, but establish and advance himself. But this Verse also, as well as the former, is, and may be otherwise rendred: And (repeat, he shall be called, as before) liberal, who deviseth liberal things, and persisteth, or continueth in liberal things. If it be thought strange, That so many Verses should be spent in Affirming that which, in effect, was said, ver. 5. it must be considered, that these Verses do not only contain an Affirmation, that they should be called vile persons, or churles, or liberal, that were so; but also a Description of their Qualities and Practices, which was useful for their Conviction, and for the Instruction of others.

9 Rise up c ye women that are at ease d, hear my voice ye careless e daughters f, give ear unto my speech.

c Bestir, and prepare your selves to hear, as it follows; and shake off Sloth and Carelessness. d That indulge your selves in Idleness and Luxury. e Heb. confident or secure, who are insensible of your sin and danger. f The same before called women: Whom he here reproveth, and threatneth for their Sins, as he did the Men before, for seeking to Egypt for Help, and divers other Sins, whereof the Men were most Guilty.

10 † Many days and years f shall ye be troubled, † Heb. days ye careless women: for the vintage shall fail g, the above a gathering h shall not come. year.

f Heb. Days above a year, i. e. a year and some days: Which notes, Either 1. the time from this Prophecy to the beginning of this Judgment: Or rather 2. the time of the continuance of it; that it should last for above one Year; as indeed this did, and no longer: For Hezekiah Reigned in all but twenty nine Years, 2 Kings 18. 2. and Sennacherib came in his fourteenth Year; and after his defeat and departure, God promised, and added to him fifteen Years more, 2 Kings 20. 6. g During the time of the Assyrian Invasion. And this Commination is here added to qualify the foregoing Promise, and to warn them, that although God would give them so good a King, and there should be some Reformation of their former abuses under the Government of Ahaz; yet as there were many Sins among them, not yet repented of, so they should be severely chastised for them. h To wit, of the other Fruits of the Earth; as that Feast, which was observed after the gathering of all the Fruits, was called the feast of in-gathering, Exod. 23. 16.

11 Tremble ye women that are at ease, be troubled, ye careless ones: strip ye and make ye bare i, and gird sackcloth upon your loyns.

i Put off your Ornaments, as God commanded upon a like occasion, Exod. 33. 5. that you may put on Sackcloth instead of them, as Mourners and Penitents used to do.

k Either 1. properly, because, through Famine, your Teats are destitute of Milk for the nourishment of your poor Children. Or rather 2. Metaphorically, as the following Words explain it, for the pleasant and fruitful Fields, which like Teats yielded you plentiful and and excellent Nourishment, for which the Land was said to flow with milk, Ezek: 20. 6. And the Earth being compared to the Womb that bare us, Job 1. 21. it is not strange, if its fruitful Fields be compared to the Breasts which nourish us.

* Chap. 34. 13. Hos. 9. 6. ‖ Or, burning upon, &c.

13 * Upon the land of my people shall come up thorns and briers l, ‖ yea upon all the houses of joy m in the joyous city:

l If any of you think there is no great cause for such Trembling and Lamentation, which shall last but for a year and some days; know that this Calamity, by the Assyrians, is but an earnest of further and fore-r judgments: For the time is coming, when this Land shall be laid desolate; and instead of Vines and other Fruits, it shall yield nothing but Briers and Thorns: of which, see on Isa. 7. 23, 24. m Upon that Ground, where now your Houses stand, in which you delight, and take your fill of mirth and pleasure.

14 Because the palaces n shall be forsaken, the multitude of the city shall be left o, the ‖ forts and towers shall be for dens for ever, a joy of wild asses p, a pasture of flocks.

n Heb. the palace, the King's House, and other magnificent buildings in the City. o Or rather shall be forsaken, to wit, of God, and given up into their Enemies hands. And the Verb in the foregoing Clause, may be rendred, shall be left. p Desolate places, in which wild Asses delight to be, Job 39. 5. Jer. 2. 24.

15 Until the spirit be poured upon us from on high q, and * the wilderness be a fruitful field, and the fruitful field be counted for a forrest r.

* Chap. 29. 17. & 35. 2. & 37. 24.

q And this Calamity and Desolation shall, in a manner, continue until the time come, in which God will pour, or, as the Hebrew Word properly signifies, reveal, i. e. evidently and plentifully pour out his spirit from Heaven upon his people. Which was done in some fort upon the return of the People from Babylon, when God, by his Spirit, stirred up the Spirit, both of Cyrus to give them liberty of returning to Jerusalem, and of the people to return and build the City and Temple: But was far more clearly and fully accomplished in the days of the Messiah. And indeed the promises contained in these, and the following Words and Verses, were not fulfilled upon their coming out of Babylon, after which time they had but a little reviving in their bondage, as is said, Ezra 9. 8. and continued in servitude and distress under the Persian Emperours. Nehem. 9. 36, 37. and afterward suffered many and grievous Calamities, from the Kings of Syria, and Egypt, and from the Romans: which suits very ill with that glorious Promise here following, ver. 18. And therefore these promises concern the times of the Gospel, when God's Spirit was in a most evident and glorious Manner poured forth upon the Apostles, and other believing Jews, to the Astonishment of their very Adversaries; and when the following Promises were in a good Measure fulfilled, and are more fully to be accomplished in God's due time. r Which is Allegorically understood. The meaning may be this; God's people, who were desolate and destroyed, shall be Revived and Flourish, and their flourishing Enemies shall be brought to Desolation and Destruction. It may also signify, The Conversion of the barren and despised Gentiles, and the Rejection of the Jews, in the time of the Messiah.

16 Then judgment s shall dwell in the wilderness, and righteousness remain in the fruitful field t.

s Just Judgment, as the next Clause explains it. t Justice shall be Executed in all the parts of the Land, both in the barren and fruitful Places, and shall be practised by all My People: Which agrees with that Promise, Isa. 60. 21. Thy people shall be all righteous, &c.

17 And the work of righteousness shall be peace u, and the effect of righteousness, quietness x and assurance y for ever.

u The effect of this prevailing practice of Righteousness shall be Prosperity and outward Felicity. x Tranquility, both of Mind and outward Estate. y Or, confidence. The observation of God's Precepts will beget in them a confidence, and assurance of God's Mercy, and the fulfilling of his Promises.

18 And my people z shall dwell in a peaceable habitation; and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places:

z Either the Gentiles, who then shall be My People: Or, the Jews, to whom this Promise shall be made good upon their Conversion to Christ in the latter times of the Gospel.

19 When it shall hail, coming down on the forest a, ‖ and the city b shall be low in a low place c.

a Heb. And it shall hail, &c. As my Blessings shall be poured down upon my People, who, from a Wilderness, are turned into a fruitful Field, as it is said, ver. 15. So my Wrath and Judgments (which are signified by hail, Isa. 28. 2, 17. and elsewhere) shall fall upon them, who were a fruitful Field, but are turned into a Forrest, as was said, ver. 15. i. e. upon the unbelieving and rebellious Jews, who seem there to be designed under that Notion. b Either 1. Babylon, the great Enemy and Oppressour of God's People. Or 2. Jerusalem, which, though now it was the Seat of God's Worship and People; yet he foresaw, by the Spirit of Prophecy, That it would be the great Enemy of the Messiah, and of God's People. c Heb. Shall be humbled with humiliation: Which, by an ordinary Hebraisme signifies, shall be greatly humbled, or brought very low.

d As the barren Forrest shall be destroyed with hail, ver. 19. so the fruitful Field shall be improved, and bring forth much Fruit; which is signified by a Declaration of the blessedness of them that Sow in it. e In all moyst and fat Grounds, which are like to yield good Fruit. But this passage, as well as others in the foregoing Verses, is to be understood mystically, and seems to respect the times of the Gospel. The Prophet reflecting upon his own unsuccessful Labours, of which he complains, Isa. 49. 4. and elsewhere, and foreseeing by the Spirit, the great and happy Success of his Successors, the Ministers of the Gospel; tacitely bewails his own unhappiness, who sowed his Seed upon dry and barren Ground, by congratulating the happiness of the Apostles, who sowed their Seed more generally, upon all fit Grounds, without any distinction between Jews and Gentiles; and who found the Ground, to wit, the hearts of the people, more moistned and softned, and better prepared to receive the good Seed of God's Word. f Which Creatures they employed in plowing and sowing the Ground, Deut. 22. 10. Psal. 144. 14. Isa. 30. 24.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The destruction of the Enemies of the Church: who are devided, 1,—13. which terrifieth the Sinners in Zion, 14. the safety and priviledges of the Godly, 23,—24.

WO to thee that * spoilest a, and thou wast not spoiled b, and dealest treacherously c, and they dealt not treacherously with thee d; when thou shalt cease to spoil, thou shalt be spoiled e; and when thou shalt make an end to deal treacherously, they shall deal treacherously with thee.

* Chap. 21. 2. Hab. 2. 8.

a To Sennacherib, who wasted the Land of Judah, b Thou didst not meet with any considerable Opposition, but wast victorious over all thine Enemies; of which, the Assyrian boasteth, Isa. 10. 8, 9. & 36. 18, 19. c As Sennacherib did with Hezekiah, 2 Kings 18. 14, 17. d None of thine Enemies could prevail against thee, either by force, of which he speaketh in the former Clause, or by treachery, as here. Or when they dealt not, &c. when Hezekiah did not deal treacherously with thee. If it be said, that Hezekiah dealt treacherously with him, in breaking his Faith, and rebelling against him; it may be answered, That Hezekiah neither promised nor owed him any Service or Subjection. What was done in that kind, was done by Ahaz only: And he only begged his assistance for a particular Work, and paid him well for it, 2 Kings 16. 7, 8. and the King of Assyria did not keep his Conditions with him; for, he distressed him, but strengthned him not, 2 Chron. 28. 20. e When thou hast performed the Work of chastising my People, for which I sent thee, thou also shalt be spoiled by thine Enemies.

2 O LORD, be gracious unto us g; we have waited for thee, be thou their * arm e every morning f, our salvation also in the time of trouble.

d The Prophet contemplating the Judgment which was now coming upon God's People, directeth his Prayer to God for them. e Our Arm or Strength. The change of persons is most frequent in Prophetical Writings. f When we offer the Morning Sacrifice, and call upon Thee: Which yet is not meant exclusively, as if he did not desire God's help at other times, but comprehensively, the Morning being put Synecdochically for the whole day. The Sence is, Help us speedily and continually.

3 At the noise of the tumult g the people h fled; at the lifting up of thy self the nations i were scattered.

g Which the Angel shall make in destroying the Army. h Those of the Army, who escaped that stroke. i The People of divers Nations, which made up his Army.

4 And your spoil k shall be gathered l like the gathering of the caterpillar m: as the running to and fro of locusts n shall he run upon them.

k That Treasure which you have raked together, by spoiling divers People. l By the Jews at Jerusalem, when you shall be forced to flee away with all possible speed, leaving your Spoils behind you. m Either 1. passively, with as much ease, and in as great numbers as Caterpillars are gathered and destroyed. Or rather 2. actively, as appears from the next Clause; as Caterpillars or Locusts (for the Word signifies either) gather and devour all the Fruits of the Earth; which was a common Plague in those Countries. n As Locusts, especially especially when they are feat, and Armed by Commission from God, come with great force, and run hither and thither, devouring all the Fruits of the Earth, wheresoever they find them.

5 The LORD is exalted o; for he dwelleth on high p, he hath filled Zion q with judgment and righteousness r.

o Will get great Glory by the marvellous Destruction of so proud and potent an Army: and by the Defence of his People. p For he is, and willappear to be Superior to his Enemies, both in Place and Power. He dwelleth in the Heaven, whence He can easily, and irresistably pour down Judgments upon his Enemies. Although these words may be, and by some are joined with those that follow, thus, For he that dwelleth on high hath filled, &c. q He will fill Jerusalem. r Either 1. with a glorious Instance of his just Judgment against the Assyrians. Or 2. with the Execution of Justice by good Hezekiah, as before it was filled with impiety and injustice under Ahaz. The City shall not only be delivered from that wicked Enemy, but shall also be established and blessed with true Religion and Righteousness; which was a great addition to that Mercy.

6 And † wisdom and knowledge s shall be the stability of thy times t, and strength of salvation u: the fear of the LORD is his treasure x.

s To govern thy self and thy People well. t Of thy Reign; times being oft put for things done in those times, as 1 Chron. 12. 32. Psal. 31. 15. & 37. 18, &c. He turneth his speech to Hezekiah. The Sense is, Thy Throne shall be established upon the sure Foundations of Wisdom and Justice. u Thy saving Strength, or thy strong or mighty Salvation. x And although thou shalt have great Treasures of Gold and Silver, &c. yet thy chief Treasure and Delight is, and shall be in promoting the Fear and Worship of God; which shall be a great honour and safeguard to thy self and people. He saith, his treasure, for thy treasure, by a sudden Change of the Person, usual in these Books.

7 Behold y, their ‖ valiant ones z shall cry without a, the embassadours of peace b shall weep bitterly c.

y That the Mercy here promised might be duly magnified, he makes a lively Representation of their great danger and distress, in which it found them. z Or, their heralds or messengers, as the Hebrew Doctors expound the word: Either 1. those whom the King of Assyria sent to Jerusalem, 2 Kings 18. 17. Or rather those whom Hezekiah sent to Treat with the Assyrian Commissioners, 2 Kings 18. 18. as the next Clause sheweth. a Through grief and fear. b Whom he shall send to beg Peace of the Assyrian. c Because they cannot obtain their desires.

8 * The high-ways lie waste, the wayfaring man ceaseth d, he hath broken the covenant e, he hath despised the cities f, he regardeth no man g.

* Chap. 24. 16.

d Because the Assyrian Soldiers possessed and filled the Land. e Sennacherib broke his Faith, given to Hezekiah, of departing for a Sum of Mony, 2 Kings 18. 14, 17. f The defenced Cities of Judah, which he contemned, and easily took, 2 Kings 18. 13. g Either to spare them, or to fear them, or to keep Faith with them. He neither feareth God, nor Reverenceth Man.

9 The earth mourneth h and languisheth, Lebanon is ashamed and ‖ hewn down i: * Sharon k is like a wilderness, and Bashan and Carmel l ‖ shake off their fruits m.

h Being desolate and neglected. i By the Assyrians. Or, as the Word signifies, and is here rendred by others, withereth or languisheth, because its Trees are not now used by the Jews for their Buildings, as they have been: And because they are spoiled and destroyed by the Assyrians. k A pleasant and fruitful Place, as appears from 1 Chron. 27. 29. Cant. 2. 1. Isa. 35. 2. l Two places eminent for Fertility, and especially for good Pastures, Deut. 32. 14. 1 Sam. 25. 2. which are here Synecdochically put for all such places. m Are spoiled of their Fruits. Or, as it is rendred in the Margent, and by some others, yeld or roar, as this Word is rendred, Jer. 51. 38.

10 Now will I rise n, saith the LORD; now will I be exalted, now will I lift up my self.

n In this extremity, I will appear on the behalf of my People and Land.

11 * Ye shall conceive chaff, ye shall bring forth stubble o, your breath as fire shall devour you p.

* Isa. 26. 17, 18.

o Instead of Solid Corn. Your great hopes and designs, O ye Assyrians! shall be utterly disappointed. p Your Rage against my People shall bring Ruine upon your selves.

12 And the people shall be as the burnings of lime q, as thorns cut up shall they be burnt in the fire.

q Shall be burnt as easily and effectually, as Chalk is burned to make Lime.

13 Hear ye that are far off, what I have done, and ye that are near, acknowledge my might r.

r My Power and Justice in destroying the Assyrians, shall be so evident, that People, both far and near, shall be forced to acknowledge it.

14 The sinners in Zion are afraid s; fearfulness hath surprized the hypocrites; who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire? who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings t?

s This is spoken, not of the Assyrians, as some would have it, but of the Jews, as appears, both from the Words themselves, and from the following Verses. The Prophet having foretold the Deliverance of God's People, and the Destruction of their Enemies, ver. 10, 11, 12. for the greater Illustration of that wonderful Mercy, here returns to the Description, and gives a lively representation of the dismal and frightful Condition, in which the Jews, especially such of them as were ungodly and unbelieving, were before this Deliverance came. Although the godly Jews were, in some measure, supported by the fear of God's Favour, and by God's Promises delivered to them by Isaiah; yet the generality of the People were filled with Horrors, and expectation of utter Destruction. t How shall we be able to abide the Presence, and endure, or avoid the Wrath of that God, who is a consuming Fire; who is now about to destroy us utterly by the Assyrians, and will afterwards burn us with unquenchable Fire? For seeing it is sufficiently evident, from both Old and New-Testament, as hath been formerly observed and proved, That the Jews, except the Sadducees, did generally believe the rewards and punishments of the future Life; and these Temporal Judgments, as they did frequently cut Men off from this Life, so they transmitted them into that future and endless Life: It is not strange, if their guilty Consciences made them dread both the present Judgment here, and the terrible Consequences of it hereafter. Heb. Who shall dwell for us, &c. i. e. in our stead? Who will interpose himself between God's Anger and us? How shall we escape these Miseries? That this is the Sence of this Question, may be gathered from the Answer, given to it in the following Verse; in which, he directs them to the right Course of removing God's Wrath, and regaining His Favour.

15 He that * walketh † righteously u, and speaketh † uprightly x, he that despiseth y the gain of ‖ oppressions, that shaketh his hands from holding z of † bribes, that stoppeth his ears from hearing of † blood a, and shutteth his eyes from seeing evil b.

* Psal. 15. 2. & 24. 4. † Heb. in righteousness. ‖ Or, deceits. † Heb. uprightnesses. † Heb. up-holdings.

u Who is just in all his dealings with Men, of which the following Clauses explain it: Which is not spoken exclusively, as if ‖ Or, &c. Piety towards God were not as necessary, as Righteousness towards Men; but comprehensively, this being one Evidence, and † Heb. a constant companion of Piety. x Who speaks truly and sincere-blondes. ly, what He really intends. y That refuseth it, not for politick Reasons, as Men sometimes may do, but from a contempt and abhorrency of injustice. z Or, from taking or receiving; as this Verb signifies, Prov. 4. 4. & 5. 5. & 28. 17. That will not receive, much less retain, Bribes. a Who will not hearken or assent to any Counsels or Courses, tending to shed Innocent Blood. b That abhorreth the very sight of Sin committed by others, and guardeth his Eyes from beholding occasions of Sin; of which, see on Job 31. 1.

16 He shall dwell on † high c, his place of defence shall be the munitions of rocks, bread shall be given him, his waters shall be sure d.

c Out of the reach of danger. d God will furnish him with all necessaries.

17 Thine eyes shall see the king e in his beauty f; they shall behold † the land that is very far off g.

e First Hezekiah, and then Christ, as before. f Triumphing over all Enemies, and Ruling his own People with Righteousness; in which two things, the beauty and glory of a King and Kingdom, doth chiefly consist. g Thou shalt not be shut up in Jerusalem, and confined to thine own narrow Borders, as thou hast been, but thou shalt have free Liberty to go abroad with honour and safety, where thou pleasest, even into the remotest Countries, because of the great renown of thy King, and the enlargement of his Dominions.

18 Thine heart shall meditate terrour h; * Where is the scribe? where is the † receiver? where is he that counted the towers i?

* 1 Cor. 1. 20. † Heb. weigher.

h This is, Either 1. a Premonition concerning a future Judgment, as if he said, before these glorious Promises shall be accomplished, thou shalt be brought into great straits and troubles: Or, rather 2. a thankful Acknowledgment of deliverance from a former Danger; as if he had said, When thou art delivered, thou shalt, with pleasure and thankfulness, recal to mind thy former Terrours and Miseries. i These Words are, Either 1. words of Gratulation, and Insultation over the Enemy. Thou shalt then say, Where are the great Officers of the Assyrian Host? They are no where, they are not, they are dead or slain. Or rather 2. the words of Men dismayed and confounded, such as proceeded from the Jews, in the time of their distress; and are here remembred to aggravate the present Mercy. For the Officers here mentioned, seem not to be those of the Assyrian Army, who were actually fighting against the Jews and Jerusalem (for then he would rather have mentioned the Captains of the host, as the Scripture commonly doth in these cases, than the scribes and receivers, &c.) but rather of the Jews in Jerusalem, who, upon the approach of Sennacherib, began to make Military preparations for the defence of the City, and to chuse such Officers, as were necessary and usual, for that end; such as these were, to wit, the scribe, whom we call Muster-Master, who was to make and keep a List of the Souldiers, and to call them together, as occasion required: The receiver, who received and laid out the Money for the Charges of the War; and he that counted the Towers, who surveyed all the parts of the City, and confidered what Towers or Fortifications were to be made or repaired for the Security of the City. And unto these several Officers the People resorted, with great distraction and confusion, to acquaint them with all Occurrences, or to quicken them to their several Works, or to transact Matters with them, as occasion required.

* 2 Kings 19. 32.

19 * Thou shalt not see a fierce people k, a * people of a deeper speech than thou canst perceive l; of a † stammering tongue m, that thou canst not understand.

* Deut. 28. 49. Jer. 5. 15. ‖ Or, ridiculous, or barbarous.

k As barbarous

k As Moses said of the Egyptians, Exod. 14. 13. So I say of the Assyrians, that fierce and warlike People, whom thou hast seen, with great Terrour, near the Walls of Jerusalem, thou shalt see them again no more. l A foreign Nation, whose Language is abstruse and unknown to thee. m Of which, see on Isa. 28. 11.

20 Look upon Zion n the city of our solemnities o, *Psal.46.5. & 125.1,2. thine eyes shall see * Jerusalem a quiet habitation, a tabernacle that shall not be taken down, not one of the stakes thereof shall ever be removed, neither shall any of the cords thereof be broken p.

n Contemplate Zions beauty and safety, and her glorious and peculiar Priviledges: it is an Object worthy of thy deepest Meditation. o This he mentions, as the chief part of Zions Glory and Happiness, that God was solemnly Worshipped, and the solemn Assemblies and Feasts kept in her. p Which was but very obscurely and imperfectly fulfilled in the literal Zion; but was clearly and fully accomplished in the mystical Zion, the Church of God in the times of the Gospel, against which, we are assured, that the gates of Hell shall not prevail, Mat. 16. 18.

‖ Or, but there (glorious is the LORD) we shall have a place, &c. † Heb. broad of spaces or hands.

21 ‖ But there q the glorious LORD will be unto us a place † of broad rivers and streams r, wherein shall go no galley with oars, neither shall gallant ships pass thereby s.

q In and about Zion. r Though we have nothing but a small and contemptible Brook to defend us; yet God will be as sure and strong a Defence to us, as if we were furrounded with such great Rivers, as Nilus or Euphrates, which were a great security to Egypt and Babylon. s But although they shall have from God, the security of a great River, yet they shall be freed from the disadvantage of it; which is, That the Enemies may come against them in Ships; for no Galleys, nor Ships of the Enemies shall be able to come into this River to annoy them.

22 For the LORD is our judge t, the Lord is our * † lawgiver u, the LORD is king, he will save us.

t To judge for us, to plead our Cause against our Enemies, as the ancient Judges of Israel did, Judg. 2. 16. u Our chief Governour, to whom it belongs, to give Laws, and to defend his People.

23 ‖ Thy tacklings are loosed x, they y could not well strengthen their mast, they could not spread the sail: then is the Prey of a great spoil divided, the lame take the prey z.

x He directeth his Speech to the Assyrians; and having tacitely designed their Army under the notion of a gallant Ship, ver. 21. he here represents their broken and undone condition, by the Metaphor of a Ship, tossed in a tempestuous Sea, having her Cables broken, and all her Tacklings loose, and out of order, so as she could have no benefit of her Masts and Sails; and therefore is quickly broken, or swallowed up by the Sea. y The Assyrians, of whom he still speaks, as in the first Clause he spake to them. z They, who came to spoil and prey upon my People, shall become a prey to them, and shall be forced to flee away so suddenly, that they shall leave so many Spoils behind them, that when strong and active Men have carried away all that they desired, there shall be enough left for the Lame, who come last to the Spoil. The general Sence of the place is, That God's People shall be victorious over all their Enemies.

24 And the inhabitant a shall not say, I am sick b: the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity c.

a To wit, of Jerusalem; God's people. b Shall have no cause to complain of any sickness or calamity; shall be fully delivered from all their Enemies and evil Occurrents; shall enjoy perfect tranquility and prosperity. c This may be added, Either 1. as the Reason of the foregoing priviledge; Their Sins, the main causes of all their Distresses, shall be pardoned; and therefore their Sufferings, the effects of Sin, shall cease: Or 2. as an additional Favour. They shall not only receive from me a glorious Temporal Deliverance; but, which is infinitely better, the pardon of all their Sins, and all those spiritual and everlasting Blessings, which attend upon that Mercy.

CHAP. XXXIV.

God's fury and wrath against his Church's Enemies, 1, — 10. their Land utterly desolate, 11, — 15. the certainty hereof: and duration, 16, 17.

COme near, ye nations, to hear, and hearken ye people a: let the earth hear, and † all that is therein; the world, and all things that come forth of it b.

a Let the People of all Nations take notice of what I am about to say and do, as that wherein they are generally concerned, and by the consideration whereof, they may, if they will, be instructed, and so delivered from the Calamity here denounced. b Heb. All the off-springs of it: Either 1. all the Trees and Fruits, and other productions of it: For it is usual with the Prophets, by a Figure, to turn their Speech to these senseless Creatures. Or 2. all the Inhabitants of the World, as the Chaldee and other Ancients restrain and understand this general Expression; which also is Emphatical, and admonisheth the proud and insolent Sons of Men, of their mean and obscure Original, that how great and glorious soever they may seem to themselves or others; yet in truth, they are but a better sort of Mushrooms springing out of the Earth, for Dust they are, and unto dust they must return, as was said, Gen. 3. 19.

2 For the indignation of the LORD is upon all nations c, and his fury upon all their armies: he hath utterly destroyed them d, he hath delivered them to the slaughter.

c Not only upon the Assyrians, and those Nations which were Confederate with them in this Expedition, but upon all other Enemies of my People whatsoever. d He will infallibly destroy all of them.

3 Their slain also shall be cast out e, and * their stink shall come up out of their carcases, and the mountains f shall be melted with their blood g.

* Joel 2. 20.

e Into the Fields, where they shall lie unburied, and be left for a prey to all ravenous Birds and Beasts: Whereby he implies, either the vast Numbers which shall be Slain, so as they could not have time or place to Bury them: Or the curse of God upon them, and the Peoples contempt and abhorrency of them. f About Jerusalem, where they are supposed to be gathered to Fight against Jerusalem, as the Assyrians now were, and as other Enemies afterward would be, Zech. 12. 2. & 14. 2. g Shall be filled with their Blood, which shall run down abundantly from the Mountains with great force, and dissolve and carry down part of the earth of the Mountains with it, as great showers of Rain frequently do.

4 And all the host of heaven h shall be dissolved i, and the heavens shall be * rolled together as a scroll k, and all their host shall fall down as the leaf that falleth off from the vine l, and as a * falling fig from the fig-tree.

* Rev. 6. 14. * Rev. 6. 13.

h The Sun, and Moon, and Stars, which frequently come under this name in Scripture, as Deut. 4. 19. & 17. 3. and elsewhere. i Shall seem to be dissolved. So great shall be the confusion and consternation of Mankind, as if all the frame of the Creation were broken into pieces. Some understand this of the general Judgment; which some passages here following will not permit. But it is a very usual thing for Prophetical Writers, both in the Old and New-Testament, to represent great and general Calamities, in such words and phrases, as properly agree to the Day of Judgment; as on the contrary, The glorious Deliverances of God's People are set forth in such Expressions, as properly agree to the Resurrection from the Dead. See Ezek. 37. 7. Joel 2. 31. & 3. 15. Rev. 6. 12, 13. k Heb. as a book; for Books were then written in Scrolls, which they usually rolled up together; and when they were so, no Man could read any word in it; and no more shall any Man be able to see those goodly Lights of Heaven, for they shall all be obscured and confounded. This Phrase is used also, Isa. 8. 1. & Rev. 6. 14. l When it is withered. m Which falleth, either through great Maturity, or being thrust out by great Figs coming forth, or by any other accident.

5 For * my sword shall be bathed n in heaven o; * Jer. 46. behold, * it shall come down upon Idumea p, and upon * Jer. 49. the people of my curse q to judgment.

n In the Blood of these People. Heb. Is or shall be made drunk. o Either 1. in my Church, which is called Heaven, Dan. 8. 10. Rev. 4. 1. & 12. 1. in and against which, these Enemies are said to be gathered together. Or 2. in the highest Heaven, where God dwells; in which this is said to be done, because it was there decreed and appointed to be done. p Upon the Edomites, who, though they were nearly related to the Israelites, and were Circumcised as well as they; yet were their most inveterate and implacable Enemies, watching all opportunities, and being ready to joyn with all those that attempted to Destroy them; whereof we have many intimations and instances in Scripture. But these are not named Exclusively, but rather Comprehensively, and Synecdochically, for all the Enemies of God's Church, of whom they were a considerable Part, and an eminent Type. q To whom my Curse belongs; or, whom I have Cursed, and devoted to utter Destruction, as this Hebrew Word properly signifies.

6 The sword of the LORD is filled with blood r, it is made fat with fatness, and with the blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of the kidneys of rams s: for * the LORD hath a sacrifice t in Bozrah u, and a * Zeph. 1. great slaughter in the land of Idumea.

r Shall drink it full of Blood. The Metaphor is here taken from a great Glutton or Drunkard, who is almost insatiable with Meat and Drink. s By Lambs, and Goats, and Rams, he means People of all ranks and conditions, high and low, rich and poor. t So he calleth this bloody Work, because it was done by God's Command, and for his Honour; and therefore was a Service acceptable to him. u A chief City of Edom, Isa. 63. 1. Jer. 49. 13. and a Type of those Cities which should be most opposite and mischievous to God's People.

7 And the ‖ unicorns x shall come down y with them, and the bullocks with the bulls, and their land shall be * soaked with blood, and their dust made fat with fatness a.

x Heb. the Reemim. But what kind of Beast is this, whether that Beast which is commonly called an Unicorn, which seems to be but a fiction in the Judgment of the Learned; or a Rhinoceros, or a wild Ox, or Bull; it is needless to trouble the ordinary Reader about it; and the Learned may consult my Latine Synopsis upon Numb. 23. 22. about it. It is confessed, That it was a Beast of great strength and fierceness; and it is certain, that it is Metaphorically used in this place, to signifie their Princes and Potentates. y Shall be humbled and cast down. The Seventy and Syriack render it, they shall fall down, as such Beasts do, when they have received a deadly blow. z With the Lambs, and Goats, and Rams, last mentioned, ver. 6. a With the Fat of the slain Sacrifices, which shall be mingled with it.

8 For it is the day of the LORD's * vengeance, and * Ch. 63. the year of recompences for the controversie of Zion b.

b This is the time which God hath long since appointed and fixed, to avenge the cause of his oppressed and persecuted People, against all their Enemies.

Mat. 9 * And the streams c thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into brimstone, and the land thereof shall become burning pitch d.

c Which seem most secure from this Danger, and much more the Land. d Idumea shall be dealt with, as Sodom and Gomorrah were, even utterly Destroyed, as it were by Fire, or burning Pitch and Brimstone thrown down upon it from Heaven.

Rev. 14. Rev. 19. 3. 10 It shall not be quenched night nor day, * the smoke thereof shall go up for ever: from generation to generation it shall lie wast, none shall pass through it for ever and ever e.

e It shall be irrecoverably ruined, and shall remain as a spectacle of God's vengeance to all succeeding Ages.

Isa. 13. 21. 11 * But the ‖ cormorant and the bittern shall possess it, the owl also and the raven shall dwell in it f, and he shall stretch out upon it the line of confusion, and the * stones of emptiness g.

Zeph. 2. 14. f The Inhabitants shall be wholly cut off, and it shall be entirely possessed by those Creatures which delight in Deserts, and wast Places. See the same or like Expressions in the like case, Isa. 13. 21, 22. & 14. 23. g He shall use the Line, or the Stone or Plummet joyned to it, not to build them, but to mark them out to Desolation and Destruction, as work-men commonly use them, to mark what they are to pull down.

12 They shall call the nobles thereof to the kingdom, but none shall be there h, and all her princes shall be nothing i.

h They shall endeavour to heal their Breaches, but in vain: The remnant of the People shall seek for any fit Person, and offer the Kingdom to him; but they shall not find any such, who shall be willing to undertake the Government. i Either shall be lost and cut off: Or, shall have no Courage or Strength left in them.

Isa. 5. 6. Hos. 9. 6. Amos 5. 16. Mic. 2. 4. 13 And * thorns shall come up in her palaces, nettles and brambles in the fortresses thereof k, and * it shall be an habitation of dragons, and a court for ‖ † owls.

k This is another Mark and Evidence of extream Desolation, as it is also, Hos. 9. 6.

Jer. 9. 11. 14 † The wild beasts of the desert shall also meet with † the wild beasts of the island, and the satyr shall cry to his fellow l, the ‖ screechowl also shall rest there m, and find for her self a place of rest.

l See on Isa. 13. 21, 22. m Because there shall be no Men left to disturb or affright them, Isa. 17. 2.

15 There shall the great owl n make her nest, and lay and hatch, and gather under her shadow o, there shall the vultures also be gathered, every one with their mate.

n Whether this, or what other Creature is meant by this Hebrew Word, the learned Reader may find largely discoursed in my Latin Synopsis upon this place: For others, it may suffice to know, what all agree in, that, whether it be a Bird of a Serpent, it is a Creature that lives in desert places. o As fearing no Disturbance from any Men.

p When this Judgment is executed, if you peruse this Book of holy Writ, and particularly this Prophecy of mine, you will find, that all things shall exactly come to pass, as I have told you. q As I have said, That the Vultures should each have their Mate; so shall it be: And this Prophecy shall be exactly fulfilled, even in its smallest Circumstances. r My Spirit; such sudden Changes of Persons being frequent here. And God's Spirit may be put for his Might and Power, as it is in many places of Scripture. s Hath brought all these Creatures together, as he formerly brought the Creatures to Adam, and to Noah, by an instinct which he put into them.

17 And he hath cast the lot for them, and his hand hath divided it unto them by line t: they shall possess it for ever, from generation to generation shall they dwell therein.

t He hath divided the Land to them, as it were, by Lot and Line, as Canaan was divided among the Israelites.

CHAP. XXXV.

The joyful flourishing of Christ's Kingdom, 1, 2. the weak he strengthens and comforts, 3, 4. his Miracles, 5, 6. the prosperity and peace of his people, 7, — 10.

Heb. 12. 12. THE wilderness and the † solitary place a shall * be glad for them b, and the desert shall rejoyce, and blossom as the rose.

a And as the Land of God's Enemies, which was exceeding Fruitful, shall be turned into a desolate Wilderness; as was declared in the foregoing Chapter; so on the contrary, Emanuel's Land, or the Seat of God's Church and People, which formerly was deserted, and despised like a Wilderness, and which the rage and malice of their Enemies had brought to desolation, shall flourish exceedingly. b For the Wilderness and solitary Place: or, for those things, which were Prophesied in the foregoing Destruction, concerning the Ruine of the implacable Enemies of God, and his Church. But that Hebrew Letter which is in the end of this Hebrew Verb, and is here rendred for them, is by all the ancient Translators, and by divers others neglected in their Translations, as if it were only added to the Verb Paragogically, as Grammarians speak; and therefore those two words may well be omitted.

2 It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoyce even with joy and singing: the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon: they a shall see the glory of the LORD c, and the excellency of our God.

c The Wilderness shall be as pleasant and fruitful as Lebanon, and Carmel, and Sharon; which were eminent parts of the Land of Canaan, as hath been oft noted. d Who are understood by the Wilderness. e The glorious discoveries and effects of God's power and goodness to his People.

Heb. 12. 12. 3 * Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees f.

f Ye Prophets and Ministers of God, comfort and encourage God's people, who are now ready to faint, with hopes and allurance of that Salvation, which, in due time, I will work for them. He mentions hands and knees, because the strength and weakness of any Man, eminently appears in those parts.

† Heb. hasty. 4 Say to them that are of a † fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come g with vengeance h, even God with a recompence, he will come and save you.

g Though he seem to be absent, and departed from you, he will come to you, and abide with you. He will shortly come in the flesh. For although this, and the following Promises may be Metaphorically taken, concerning the temporal Deliverance of his People from Babylonian and other Oppressors; yet they are much more Emphatically and Literally understood concerning the Redemption of God's People by Jesus Christ, as is sufficiently manifest, both from the Words and Phrases themselves, and from divers places of the New-Testament, where they are to expounded by Christ and the Apostles. h To execute Vengeance upon the Enemies of God, and of his People: Which also was verified in Christ, who was Set for the fall, as well as for the rising of many in Israel, Luke 2. 34. and who did accordingly inflict most dreadful Judgments, both temporal and spiritual, upon the unbelieving and apostate Jews, who were the great Persecutors of Christ, and of his People.

Chap. 29. 18. & 42. 7. 5 Then * the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and * the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped i.

i The most ignorant and stupid Creatures shall be forced to Mat. 9. 27, Acknowledge the wonderful Works of God. Or rather thus, The &c. poor Gentiles, who before were Blind and Deaf, shall now have & ver. 11. 5. the Eyes and Ears of their Minds opened to see God's Works, and & ver. 12. 22. to hear and receive his Word. And in token hereof, many Per- & ver. 20. 30. sons, who are corporally blind and deaf, shall have sight and & ver. 21. 14. hearing miraculously conferred upon them: All which being so Joh. 9. 6. 7. fully and literally accomplished in Christ, and applyed by Christ Mat. 11. 5. to himself; it is a plain Proof, That this Prophecy belongs to Mar. 7. 32, &c. the times of the Gospel.

Mat. 11. 5. & ver. 15. 30. & ver. 21. 14. Joh. 5. 8, 9. Act. 3. 2, &c. & ver. 8. 7. & ver. 14. 8, &c. Mat. 9. 32, 33. & ver. 12. 22. 6 Then shall the * lame man leap k as an hart, and * the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall * waters break out, and streams in the desert l.

k For joy, or go nimbly and readily. And this Clause also, and that which follows are to be understood, both Spiritually and Literally, as in the former Verse. l The most dry and barren Places shall be made moist and fruitful: Which is principally meant of the plentiful Effusion of God's Grace upon such Persons and Nations, as had been wholly destitute of it. m Those dry for reeds, and parched Deserts, in which Dragons have their Abode, shall yield abundance of Grass, and Reeds, and Rushes, which grow only in moist Grounds. Job 8. 11.

Joh. 7. 37. Rev. 21. 27. 7 And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of waters: in the habitation of Dragons where each lay, shall be ‖ grass with reeds and rushes m.

Mat. 9. 8, 9. Act. 3. 2, &c. & ver. 8. 7. & ver. 14. 8, &c. Mat. 9. 32, 33. & ver. 12. 22.

8 And an high way shall be there, and a way n, and it shall be called the way of holiness o, * the unclean shall not pass over it p, ‖ but it shall be for those q: the way-faring men, though fools, shall not err therein r.

Rev. 21. 27. ‖ Or, for the rest shall be with them:

n The high-way, and the way are not to be taken for two different Ways, but for one and the same Way, even a Causey or Cast-way, which is both raised Ground, as the first Hebrew Word signifies, and a Way; both signifying a convenient, prepared, plain, and common Road, or Path for Travellers, such as the Doctrine of the Gospel is, which is frequently compared to a Way, both in the Old and New-Testament, as hath been often observed. o It shall be an holy Way, trodden by holy Men, and filled with holy Practises. The People (walking in it) shall be all (i. e. a very great number of them, not to few as in the times of the Law) righteous, as is declared and prophesied afterward, Isa. 60. 21. p Either to disturb or desile it. Unclean Persons shall, in a good measure, be kept or cast out of my Church, by the strict exercise of good Discipline here, and hereafter not one unclean Person shall enter into my Kingdom. q But this way shall be appropriated unto those Persons above-mentioned; the Weak, and Blind, and Lame, whom God will Heal and Save, ver. 3, 4, 5, 6. The pronoun Relative is put without an Antecedent, as it is in many other places. But this, and the following Clause, is, and may well be, rendred rendred otherwise, and be (to wit, God, who is oft defigned by this Pronoun, and is eafily underſtood out of the Context) ſhall be to or with them walking in the way (their Companion and Guide in their Way, which is a great felicity) that fools may not err therein. r The Way ſhall be ſo plain and ſtraight, that even the moſt fooliſh Travellers (who are deſcribed by this Character, that They know not the way to the City, Eccleſ. 10. 15.) cannot eaſily miſtake it.

9 No lion ſhall be there, nor any † ravenous beaſt ſhall go up thereon, it ſhall not be found there s, but the redeemed ſhall walk there.

s It ſhall not only be a plain but a ſafe Way, free from all annoyance or danger from miſchievous Creatures. This is the ſame Promiſe for ſubſtance, with that Iſa. 11. 9. They ſhall not hurt nor deſtroy in all my holy Mountain.

* Chap. 51. 11.

10 And the * ranſomed of the LORD t ſhall return and come to Zion u with Songs, and everlaſting joy upon their heads; they ſhall obtain joy and gladneſs, and ſorrow and ſighing ſhall flee away x.

* Rev. 21. 4.

t They whom God ſhall Reſcue and Redeem from their corporal Slavery in Babylon, and eſpecially from their ſpiritual Bondage under Sin and Satan. u Shall come again to Zion, from whence they had been carried away Captive. Or, ſhall return, to wit, to the Lord now mentioned, and come to Zion, i. e. joyn themſelves to God's Church and People. x Which Expreſſions are too magnificent and emphatical, to be ſatisfied by the return of the Jews from Babylon to their own Land, which was accompanied and followed with many Sighs and Sorrows, as appears, both from ſacred and other Hiſtorians; and therefore muſt neceſſarily be underſtood of Goſpel-times, and of the Joy and Happineſs purchaſed by Chriſt for his People, begun here, and continued to all Eternity.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Sennacherib invadeth Judah, 1. he ſendeth Rabſhakeh, who by his blaſphemous perſuaſions tempteth Hezekiah to deſpair, and the people to revolt, 2, — 22.

* Kings 18. 13. 2 Chr. 32. 1.

NOw * it came to paſs in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, that Sennacherib king of Aſſyria came up againſt all the defenced cities of Judah, and took them.

2 And the king of Aſſyria ſent Rabſhakeh, from Lachiſh to Jeruſalem, unto king Hezekiah, with a great army; and he ſtood by the conduit of the upper pool, in the high-way of the fullers field.

3 Then came forth unto him Eliakim Hilkiahs ſon, which was over the houſe, and Shebna the ‖ ſcribe, and Joah Aſaphs ſon the recorder,

4 And Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them, ſay ye now to Hezekiah, Thus ſaith the great king, the king of Aſſyria, What confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?

† Heb. a word of lips. ‖ Or, but counſel and ſtrength are for the war.

5 I ſay, ſaiſt thou (but they are but † vain words) I have counſel and ſtrength for war: now on whom doſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt me?

* Ezek. 29. 6, 7.

6 Lo, thou truſteſt in the * ſtaff of this Broken reed, on Egypt, whereon if a man lean, it will go into his hand and pierce it; ſo is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all that truſt in him.

7 But if thou ſay to me, We truſt in the LORD our GOD: is it not he, whoſe high places, and whoſe altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and ſaid to Judah, and to Jeruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar?

8 Now therefore give ‖ pledges, I pray thee, to my maſter the king of Aſſyria, and I will give thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them.

9 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the leaſt of my maſters ſervants, and put thy truſt on Egypt for chariots and for horſemen?

10 And am I now come up without the LORD againſt this land to deſtroy it? the LORD ſaid unto me, Go up againſt this land, and deſtroy it.

11 Then ſaid Eliakim, and Shebna, and Joah unto Rabſhakeh, Speak, I pray thee, unto thy ſervants in the Syrian language, for we underſtand it: and ſpeak not to us in the Jews language, in the ears of the people that are on the wall.

12 But Rabſhakeh ſaid, Hath my maſter ſent me to thy maſter and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words? hath he not ſent me to the men that ſit upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piſs with you?

13 Then Rabſhakeh ſtood, and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and ſaid, Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Aſſyria.

14 Thus ſaith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he ſhall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah make you truſt in the LORD, ſaying, The LORD will ſurely deliver us, this city ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

17 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, 18 Beware leſt Hezekiah perſwade you, ſaying, the LORD will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?

19 Where are the gods of Hamath, and Arphad? where are the goods of Sepharvaim? and have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?

20 Who are they amongſt all the gods of theſe lands, that have delivered their land out of my hand, that the LORD ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of my hand?

21 But they held their peace, and anſwered him not a word, for the kings commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not.

22 Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, that was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, to Hezekiah with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh.

The Hiſtory related here, and in the Three following Chapters, is, for the ſubſtance of it, and almoſt wholly, in the ſame words contained, 2 Kings, Chap. 18. and 19. and 20. It is fitly inſerted here, to explain and confirm ſome of the foregoing Predictions. It may ſeem to have been firſt Written by this Prophet, and from him to have been taken into the Book of Kings, to compleat that Hiſtory.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Hezekiah mourneth and ſendeth to Iſaiah to pray for them, 1, — 5. he comforteth them, 6, 7. Sennacherib called away againſt the King of the Ethiopians, ſendeth a blaſphemous Letter to Hezekiah, 8, — 13. his prayer, 14, — 20. Iſaiah's Prophecy, 21, — 35. An Angel ſlayeth the Aſſyrians, 36. Sennacherib is ſlain at Nineveh by his own ſons, 37, 38.

ANd * it came to paſs when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himſelf with ſackcloth; and went into the houſe of the LORD.

* 2 Kings 19. 1, &c.

2 And he ſent Eliakim who was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and the elders of the prieſts covered with ſackcloth, unto Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz.

3 And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and of blaſphemy: for the children are come to the † birth, and there is not ſtrength to bring forth.

4 It may be the LORD thy God will hear the words of Rabſhakeh, whom the king of Aſſyria his maſter hath ſent to reproach the living God, and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that is † left.

5 So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.

6 And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſhall ye ſay unto your maſter, Thus ſaith the Lord, Be not afraid of the words that thou haſt heard, wherewith the ſervants of the king of Aſſyria have blaſphemed me.

7 Behold, I will † ſend a blaſt upon him, and he ſhall hear a rumour, and return to his own land, and I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.

8 So Rabſhakeh returned, and found the king of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah, for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh.

9 And he heard ſay concerning Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, He is come forth to make war with thee, and when he heard it, he ſent meſſengers to Hezekiah, ſaying,

10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſaying, Let not thy God in whom thou truſteſt deceive thee, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be given into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

11 Behold thou haſt heard what the kings of Aſſyria have done to all lands by deſtroying them utterly, and ſhalt thou be delivered?

12 Have

12 Have the God's of the nations delivered them which my fathers have deſtroyed, as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Telaſſar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arphad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivah?

14 And Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up unto the houſe of the LORD, and ſpread it before the LORD.

15 And Hezekiah prayed unto the LORD, ſaying,

16 O LORD of hoſts, God of Iſrael, that dwelleſt between the cherubims; thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth, thou haſt made heaven and earth.

17 Incline thine ear, O LORD, and hear; open thine eyes, O LORD, and ſee: and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which hath ſent to reproach the living God.

18 Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Aſſyria have laid waſt all the † nations and their countreys:

19 And have † caſt their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone, therefore they have deſtroyed them.

20 Now therefore, O LORD our God, ſave us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know, that thou art the LORD, even thou only.

21 Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent unto Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael Whereas thou haſt prayed to me againſt Sennacherib king of Aſſyria:

22 This is the word which the LORD hath ſpoken concerning him, The virgin, the daughter of Zion hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorn, the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaken her head at thee.

23 Whom haſt thou reproached and blaſphemed? and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even againſt the holy One of Iſrael.

24 † By thy ſervants haſt thou reproached the Lord, and haſt ſaid, By the multitude of my chariots am I come up to the height of the mountains, to the ſides * of Lebanon, and I will cut down † the tall cedars thereof, and the choice fir-trees thereof; and I will enter into the height of his border, and ‖ the forreſt of his Carmel.

25 I have digged and drunk water, and with the ſole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of the ‖ beſieged places.

26 ‖ Haſt thou not heard long ago, how I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it? now have I brought it to paſs, that thou ſhouldeſt be to ‖ lay waſt defenced cities into ruinous heaps.

27 Therefore their inhabitants were † of ſmall power, they were diſmayed and confounded; they were as the graſs of the field, and as the green herb, as the graſs on the houſe tops, and as corn blaſted before it be grown up.

28 But I know thy ‖ abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy rage againſt me.

29 Becauſe thy rage againſt me, and thy tumult is come up into mine ears; therefore will I put my hook into thy noſe, and my bridle in thy lips, and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou cameſt.

30 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee, Ye ſhall eat this year ſuch as groweth of it ſelf: and the ſecond year that which ſpringeth of the ſame, and in the third year ſow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.

31 And † the remnant that is eſcaped out of the houſe of Judah, ſhall again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.

32 For out of Jeruſalem ſhall go forth a remnant, and † they that eſcape out of mount Zion: the * zeal of the LORD of hoſts ſhall do this.

33 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD concerning the king of Aſſyria, He ſhall not come into this city, nor ſhoot an arrow there, nor come before it with ſhields, nor caſt a bank againſt it.

34 By the way that he came, by the ſame ſhall he return, and ſhall not come into this city, ſaith the LORD.

35 For I will * defend this city to ſave it, for mine own ſake, and for my ſervant David's ſake.

* 2 Kings 19. 34.

36 Then the * angel of the LORD went forth, and ſmote in the camp of the Aſſyrians a hundred fourſcore and five thouſand: and when they aroſe early in the morning, behold they were all dead corpſes.

* 2 Kings 19. 35.

37 So Sennacherib king of Aſſyria departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at Nineveh.

38 And it came to paſs as he was worſhiping in the houſe of Niſroch his god, that Adrammelech and Sharezer his ſons ſmote him with the ſword, and they eſcaped into the land of † Armenia: and Eſar-haddon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

For the underſtanding of this, and the foregoing Chapter, the Reader is deſired to conſult my Notes upon 2 Kings 18. & 19. & part of 20.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Hezekiah in his ſickneſs receiveth from Iſaiah a meſſage of death, 1. by Prayer, 2, —3. hath his life lengthned: the Sun goeth backward for a ſign thereof, 4, —8. his Song of Praiſe to God, 9, —20.

IN * thoſe days was Hezekiah ſick unto death, and Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz came unto him, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, † Set thine houſe in order, for thou ſhalt die, and not live.

2 Then Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall, and prayed unto the LORD,

3 And ſaid, Remember now O LORD, I beſeech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy ſight: and Hezekiah wept † ſore.

4 Then came the word of the LORD to Iſaiah, ſaying,

5 Go and ſay to Hezekiah, Thus ſaith the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayers, I have ſeen thy tears: Behold, I will add unto thy days fifteen years.

6 And I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the King of Aſſyria, and I will defend this city.

7 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee from the LORD, that the LORD will do this thing that he hath ſpoken.

8 Behold, I will bring again the ſhadow of the degrees which is gone down in the † ſun-dial of Ahaz ten degrees backward: ſo the ſun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down.

9 The writing of Hezekiah a king of Judah, when he had been ſick, and was recovered of his ſickneſs.

a Who was a good Man, and full of the Holy Ghoſt, and inſpired by him to Write this, both as a Teſtimony of his own Gratitude to God, and for the inſtruction of after Ages.

10 I ſaid b in the cutting off of my days c, I ſhall go to the gates of the † grave d; I am deprived of the reſidue of my years e.

b To and within my ſelf I Concluded it. c When my days were cut off by the Sentence of God, related here, ver. 1. d I perceive, That I muſt die without any hopes of prevention. The Grave is called a Man's long home, Eccleſ. 12. 5. and The houſe appointed for all living Men, Job 30. 23. and Death opens the gates of this Houſe. We read alſo of the gates of death, Pſal. 9. 13. & 107. 18. e Which I might have lived according to the common courſe of Nature, and of God's diſpenſations; and which I expected, and hoped to live for the Service of God, and of my Generation.

11 I ſaid, I ſhall not ſee the LORD f, even the LORD in the land of the living g; I ſhall behold man no more with the inhabitants of the world h.

f I ſhall not enjoy him; for ſeeing is put for enjoying, as hath been frequently noted. g In this World, which is ſo called, Pſal. 27. 13. & 116. 9. Iſa. 53. 8. in his Sanctuary. Which Limitation is prudently added to intimate, That he expected to ſee God in another place and manner, even in Heaven, Face to Face. h I ſhall have no more Society with Men upon Earth.

12 Mine age is departed i, and is removed from me as a ſhepherds tent k: I have cut off l like a weaver m my life: he n will cut me off ‖ with pining ſickneſs; from day even to night wilt thou make an end of me p.

i The time of my Life is expired. k Which is eaſily and ſpeedily removed. l To wit, by my Sins, provoking God to do it. Or, I do declare, and have concluded, That my Life is or will be ſuddenly cut off: For Men are oft ſaid in Scripture, to do thoſe Things which they only declare and pronounce to be done; as Men are ſaid to pollute, and to remit and retain ſins, and the like, when they only declare Men and things to be polluted, and Sins to be remitted or retained by God. m Who cutteth off the Web from the Loom, either when it is finiſhed, or before, according cording to his pleasure. n The Lord, who pronounced this Sentence against him. o With a consuming Disease, wasting my Spirits and Life. Some render this Word, from the thrum, from those Threds at the end of the Web, which are fastned to the Beam. So the similitude of a Weaver is continued. p The Sense is, Either 1. this Sickness will kill me in the space of one day. Or rather 2. thou dost pursue me night and day with continual Pains, and wilt not desist till thou hast made a full End of me; so that, I expect that every day will be my Last day.

13 I reckon till morning q, that as a lion, so will he break all my bones, from day even to night wilt thou make an end of me.

q When I was filled with Pain, and could not Rest all the Night long, even till Morning, my Thoughts were working and presaging, That God would instantly break me to pieces, and that every moment would be my last; and the like restless and dismal Thoughts followed me from Morning till Evening. But he mentions only the time before Morning, to aggravate his Misery, that he was so grievously Tormented, when others had sweet Rest and Repose.

14 Like a crane or a swallow r, so did I chatter s: I did mourn as a dove t; mine eyes fail with looking upward u: O LORD, I am oppressed x, ‖ undertake for me y.

r Or, a crane and a swallow; the conjunction, and, being here, as it is Heb. 3. 11. and elsewhere, understood, as is manifest from Jer. 8. 7. where it is expressed with these very words. s My complaint and cry was like to the noise of a Swallow, quick and frequent; and like that of a Crane, loud and frightful. And this very Comparison is used of Mourners, not only in Scripture, but in other Authors; concerning which, the Learned Reader may consult my Latine Synopsis. t Whose mournful Tone is observed, Isa. 59. 11. Ezek. 7. 16. and elsewhere. u Whilst I lift up mine Eyes and Heart to God for relief, but in vain. x By my grievous Disease, which like a Seriеant hath seized upon me, and is haling me to the Prison of the Grave. y Stop the Execution, and rescue me out of his hands.

15 What shall I say z? he hath both spoken unto me, and himself hath done it a: I shall go softly b all my years in the bitterness of my soul c.

z I want words sufficient to express my deep Sense of God's dealings with me. a He did foretel it by his Word, and effect it by his Hand. This Clause and Verse is, Either 1. a Continuance of his Complaint hitherto described: God hath passed this Sentence upon me, and hath also put it in execution, and to Him I must submit my self: Or 2. a Transition or entrance into the Thanksgiving, which is undoubtedly contained in the following Verse. So the Sence is, God hath sent a gracious Message to me by his Prophet, concerning the prolongation of my Life; and he, I doubt not, will make good his Word therein. And this Sence seems the more probable: 1. Because here is mention of his years to come, whereas in his sickness he expected not to live to the end of a day. 2. Because the Chaldee Paraphrast, and the Seventy, and Syriack, and Arabick Interpreters expound it so in their Versions. 3. Because this suits best with the context and coherence of this Verse, both with the former, and with the following Verse. For as he endeth the foregoing Verse with a Prayer to God for longer Life, so in this Verse he relates God's gracious Answer to his Prayer: And if this Verse be thus understood, the next Verse hath a very convenient Connexion with this; whereas it seems to be very abrupt and incoherent, if the Thanksgiving begin there. b I shall walk in the course of my Life; Either 1. humbly, with all humble thankfulness to God for conferring so great a Favour upon so unworthy a Person: Or 2. easily and peaceably with leisure, not like one affrighted, or running away from his Enemy: Or 3. by slow and gentle paces, as Men commonly spin out their Days by degrees unto a just length, which is most desired by those that are in Sickness, whereas not unfitly opposed to his former hasty and time of Sickness, wherein his days were swifter than a weavers shuttle, and than a post, as Job complained upon the same occasion, Job 7. 6. & 9. 25. and were cut off like a weavers Web, as he complained, ver. 12. c Arising from the remembrance of that desperate Condition, from which God had delivered me: For great dangers, though past, are oft-times very terrible to those that reflect upon them. But the Words may be rendred, upon or after (as this particle is rendred, Isa. 12. 4.) the bitterness of my soul, after the deliverance from this bitter and dangerous Disease. Which may be compared with ver. 17. where he saith, For or after peace, I had great bitterness, as here he prefageth and assureth himself of the contrary, That he should have Peace after his great bitterness. The Chaldee Paraphrast renders the Words, Because of my deliverance from bitterness of Sin; bitterness being put for deliverance from bitterness, as truth is put for lack of true, as we render it, Gen. 18. 28. and fat for want of fat, Psal. 109. 24. and fruits for want of fruits, Lam. 4. 9. And other such like Defects there are in the Hebrew, which is a very concise Language.

16 O Lord, by these things d men live, and in all these things is the life of my spirit e: so ‖ wilt thou recover me, and make me to live f.

‖ Or, hast recovered me or, made me live

d By vertue of thy gracious Word or Promise, and powerful Work; by the Promises, and thy performances of them, mentioned in the foregoing Verse. This place may be explained by comparing it with Deut. 8. 11. Man doth not live by bread, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord. The Sense is, Not I only, but all Men do receive and recover, and hold their Lives by thy Favour, and the Word of thy Power: And therefore it is not strange, That one Word of God hath brought me back from the very jaws of Death. e And as it is with other Men, so hath it been with me in a special manner; for in these above all other things is the life of my spirit or Soul, i. e. either the comfort (which is sometimes called Life) of my Spirit: or rather, That Life, which is in my Body, from my Spirit or Soul united to it. f Or, and or for thou hast recovered me, &c. to wit, by these things.

17 Behold, ‖ for peace I had great bitterness g, but † thou hast in love to my soul h delivered it from the pit of corruption; for thou hast cast all my sins behind my back i.

g My Health and Prosperity was quickly changed into bitter Sickness and Affliction. Or, as others render it, My great bitterness was unto peace, was turned into Prosperity, or became the occasion of my safety and further advantages: For that drove me to my prayers, and prayers prevailed with God for a gracious Answer, and the prolonging of my Life. h In kindness to me, the Soul being oft put for the Man. This is an emphatical Circumstance: For sometimes God prolongs mens days in anger, and in order to their greater misery. i Thou hast forgiven those sins which brought this evil upon me, and upon that account hast removed the punishment of them; which sheweth that thou didst this in love to me. The phrase is borrowed from the custom of men, who when they would accurately see and observe any thing, set it before their Faces, and when they desire, and resolve not to look upon any thing, turn their backs upon it, or cast it behind them.

18 For k the † grave cannot praise thee l, death † Heb. Hell cannot celebrate thee: they that go down into the pit † Psal. 115. 17. cannot hope for thy truth m.

k In this and the following verse, he declares Gods design in delivering him, that he might praise him in his Church; which if he had died he could not have done. l The dead are not capable of glorifying thy Name among men upon Earth: which I desire and determine to do. See the like expressions, Psal. 6. 5. & 30. 9. & 88. 10, &c. The Grave is put for the persons lodged in it by a Metonymy. m They cannot expect nor receive the accomplishment of thy promised goodness in the Land of the Living.

19 The Living, the living, he shall praise thee n, as I do this day, the father to the children shall make known thy truth o.

n They are especially obliged to it, and they only have this priviledge. o They shall not only praise thee whilst they live, but take care to propagate and perpetuate thy Praise and Glory to all succeeding generations.

20 The LORD was ready to save me p, therefore we q will sing my songs to the stringed instruments r, all the days of our life, in the house of the LORD.

p Was a present help to me, ready to hear, and succour me upon my prayer in my great extremity. q Both I and my People, who are concerned in me, and for me will sing forth those songs of praise which are due especially from me, for Gods great mercy to me. r According to the custom of those times.

21 For * Isaiah had said, Let them take a lump of figs, and lay it for a plaister upon the boil, and he shall recover s.

* 2 King. 20. 7.

s This was rather a sign appointed by God, than a natural means of the cure: For if it had a natural faculty to ripen a sore, yet it could never cure such a dangerous and pestilential disease at least in so little time.

22 Hezekiah also had said t, What is the sign, that I shall go up u to the house of the LORD x.

t Or, For Hezekiah had said, had asked a sign, which is here added as the reason, why Isaiah said what is related in the foregoing verse: to wit, in answer to Hezekiah's question. u Within three days, as is more fully related, 2 Kings 20. 5, 8. x For thither he designed in the first place to go, partly that he might pay his vow and thanksgivings to God, and partly that he might ingage the people to praise God with him, and for him.

CHAP. XXXIX.

The King of Babel sendeth Ambassadors with Letters and a present to Hezekiah: who sheweth them all his treasures, 1, 2. Isaiah foretelleth him of the Babylonish Captivity, 4, — 7. his Resignation, 8,

AT * that time Merodach-baladan the son of Baladan king of Babylon, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah: for he had heard that he had been sick and was recovered.

* 2 King. 20. 12, &c.

2 And Hezekiah was glad of them, and shewed them the house of his ‖ precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and the house of his † armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

‖ Or, spicery. † Or, jewels. † Heb. vessels, or, instruments

3 Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country unto me, even from Babylon.

4 Then said he, What have they seen in thy house? and Hezekiah answered, All that is in my house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

5 Then said Isaiah to Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD of hosts.

6 Be-

6 Behold, the days come that all that is in thine house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store until this day, shall be carried to Babylon, nothing shall be left, saith the LORD.

7 And of thy sons that shall issue from thee, which thou shalt beget, shall they take away; and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.

8 Then said Hezekiah to Isaiah, Good is the word of the LORD which thou hast spoken: he said moreover, For there shall be peace and truth in my days.

The History contained in this Chapter is related in the same words, 2 Kings 20. 12, &c. only he who here is called Merodach is there called Berodach, meerly by the change of one letter, which is very usual in the Hebrew Language, especially in proper Names, as Dimon is put for Dibon, Isa. 15. 9. and the same man is called Nebuchadnetsar, Nebuchadretsar. This King is called, Merodach from the Idol so called, Jer. 50. 2. and Baladan from his Fathers Name. But whether this man was an Assyrian or a Mede or a Babylonian it is not easie to determine nor worth while to enquire. But this is certain, that about this time there were Wars between the Assyrians, and the Babylonians, the issue whereof was, that the latter subdued the former.

CHAP. XL.

The Prophet having now foretold the Babylonish Captivity, chap. 39. 6, 7. doth here arm his People against it by the consideration of their certain deliverance out of it, and their blessed condition after it, as in other things so especially in the coming of the Messiah, and the great and glorious priviledges conferred upon God's Church and People in his days.

The Preaching of the Gospel by John Baptist and the Apostles, 1,—11, The Power and Wisdom of God in governing the World, 12,—17. the folly of Idolatry, 18,—26. God knoweth the state of his People: and both can and will protect them, 27,—31.

COmfort ye, comfort ye my people a, saith your God.

a Ye Prophets and Ministers of the Lord, which now are, or hereafter shall be, deliver this comfortable message from me to my People, that they may not sink under their burdens.

2 Speak ye † comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her b, that her ‖ warfare c is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned d: for she hath received of the LORD'S hand * double for all e her sins.

b Proclaim it in my name. c The time of her servitude, and captivity, and misery. d I am reconciled to her; I will not impute sin to her, to punish her any longer for it. e Not twice as much as her sins deserved, for she her self confessed the contrary, Ezra 9. 13. Lam. 3. 22. but abundantly enough to answer God's design in this chastisement, which was to humble and reform them, and to warn others by their example. Double is oft put for abundantly, as Isa. 61. 7. Jer. 16. 18. & 17. 18. God here speaks of himself after the manner of men, and compareth himself to a tender-hearted Father, who when he hath corrected his Child for his misdemeanour relenteth and repenteth of his severity, and casteth his Rod away.

3 * The voice f of him that crieth in the wilderness g, Prepare ye the way h of the LORD i, make straight k in the desert a high way for our God.

f An abrupt and imperfect speech, such as there are many in the Hebrew Language. Methinks I hear a voice: Or, a voice shall be heard. g Which words declare the place either, 1. Where the cry was made: Or, 2. Where the way was to be prepared, as it is expressed in the following Clause, which is added to explain this. And such places being commonly path-less, and many ways incommodious to passengers, it was the more necessary to prepare a way there. But both come to one thing, for the cry was to be in that place which was to be prepared. This place seems to be understood immediately of the deliverance of the Jews out of Babylon, and of smoothing their passage from thence to Judea, which lay through a great Wilderness; but ultimately and principally concerning their Redemption by the Messiah, whose coming is ushered in by the Cry of John the Baptist, who did both cry and prepare the way in the Wilderness, as we read, Mat. 3. 1, &c. Where this Text is directly expounded of him. But withal the terms of Wilderness and Desert, seem to be here chiefly used in a metaphorical sense, to express the desolate and forlorn condition of the Jewish Nation, and especially of the Gentile-world, when Christ came to redeem them; for so these words are frequently used in prophetical writings, as hath been noted in divers places. h You to whom this work belongs. He alludes to the custom of Princes who send Pioneers before them to prepare the way through which they intend to pass. The meaning is only this, That God shall by his Spirit so dispose mens hearts, and by his providence so order the Empires and affairs of the World, as to make way for the accomplishment of this promise. i For the Lord, as it is expounded in the next clause, that the Lord may walk in it: Which though it may be understood of their coming out of Babylon, when God might in some sort be said to march in the head of them, conducting and preserving them, yet it was much more evidently and eminently fulfilled, when Christ who was and is God blessed for ever, came into the World in a visible manner. k Either direct, in opposition to crooked, or even and level, in opposition to the Mountains and Valleys mentioned in the next verse.

4 Every Valley shall be exalted, and every Mountain and Hill shall be brought low: and the crooked shall be made ‖ straight, and the rough places plain l.

l This is only a more particular explication of that which was generally expressed ver. 3. The sense is, All obstructions shall be removed, and the way made in all respects convenient and easie for the passenger.

m So it was in some sort, when God brought them out of Babylon, which was a glorious work of God, but far more properly and eminently, when Christ who was the glorious God, was manifested in the flesh, and gave much clearer and fuller discoveries of God's glorious wisdom, and holiness, and goodness, and other divine perfections than ever yet had been imparted to mankind and to the Church. n All Nations, both Jews and Gentiles. o Though this may seem incredible, yet God is able to accomplish it.

6 The voice said p, Cry. And he said q, What shall I cry? * All flesh is grass, and all the goodness thereof is as the flower of the field r.

* Job 14. 2. Psal. 102. 11. & 103. 15. Jam. 1. 10. 1 Pet. 1. 24.

p God speaks unto his Prophets or Ministers. q The Prophet desires to know God's mind, and his message. r The Prophet having foretold glorious and wonderful things, which God had declared and determined to do, and suspecting that men would hardly believe them; he confirmeth their faith, and the certainty of the thing in this, and the two next verses, by representing to their minds the vast difference between the nature, and word, and work of men and of God. All that men are or have, yea their highest accomplishments, are but like the grass or flower of the field, weak and vanishing, soon mpt and brought to nothing; but God's word is like himself, immutable and irresistible: and therefore as the mouth of the Lord, and not of man, hath spoken these things, as was said ver. 5. So doubt not but they shall be fulfilled.

7 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth; because * the Spirit of the LORD s bloweth upon it: surely the People t is grass.

* Psal. 147. 18. Hos. 13. 15.

s Or, The breath, &c. as this word is rendred, Psal. 147. 18. the wind, as it frequently signifies, which hath this effect upon grass and flowers, Psal. 103. 16. Jam. 1. 11. t The same which he called Flesh, and said they were Grass, ver. 6. Which that he might prove, in this verse he first declares the frail nature of Grass and flowers, and then he applies this to the People: Or, this People, the Jews no less than the Gentiles; for here is an Article in the Hebrew Text, which is frequently emphatical and restrictive.

8 The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, but the word of our God shall stand for ever u.

* Job. 12. 34. 1 Pet. 1. 25.

u Whatsoever God hath said shall infallibly come to pass.

9 ‖ O Zion that bringest good tidings x, get thee up into the high mountain y: ‖ O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid z: say unto the Cities of Judah a, Behold your God b.

x O Zion, to whom the glad tidings of the coming of Christ into the World, and of the Salvation of Mankind by him were first published by Christ and his Apostles, and by whom they were also published to all Nations. But the words are otherwise rendred in the margent, and by others, O thou (whosoever thou art, Prophet or Apostle) that bringest good tidings to Zion. So Sion is not the deliverer but the receiver of these good tidings, as she is in the Parallel place, Isa. 52. 7. But our translation seems to agree better with the Hebrew Text, in which the particle, unto, is not here expressed, as it is in the latter part of the verse; by comparing which part with the former, it seems most probable, that Zion or Jerusalem is the Speaker or Publisher, and the Cities of Judah the hearers. y That thy voice may be better heard, as appears from the next branch of the verse. See Judg. 9. 7. 1 Sam. 26. 13, 14. z Left thou shouldest be found a false Prophet; for it shall certainly be fulfilled. a To all my People in the several places of their abode, whether Cities or Countries. Only he names Cities to intimate, that they also, though they should be destroyed, yet should afterwards be rebuilt, and inhabited again. b Take notice of this wonderful Work, and glorious appearance of your God, who will be visibly present with you, so that men may point at him and say, Behold here he is.

10 Behold the Lord GOD will come ‖ with strong hand c, and his arms shall rule for him d; behold, * his reward is with him e, ‖ and his work before him f.

c With invincible strength conquering all his Enemies. The word Hand or Arm, may very well be understood out of the following clause. d He shall need no succours, for his own Power shall be sufficient to govern his People, and to destroy his Adversaries. e He comes furnished with recompences as well of Mercy and Blessings for his Friends and Followers, as of Justice and Vengeance for his Enemies. f He carrieth on his work or design effectually, so as none can hinder him: for that is said in Scripture to be before a man which is in his Power, as Gen. 20. 15. & 24. 51, &c. Or Work is here put for the reward of the Work, as it is, Isa. 49. 4. & 62. 7. and elsewhere. And so the same thing is repeated in other words, as is very usual.

11 He shall * feed his flock like a shepherd, he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosome, and shall gently lead those ‖ that are with young g.

* Chap. 49. 10. Ezek. 34. 23. Joh. 10. 11. ‖ Or, that give suck.

g He shall perform all the Offices of a tender and faithful Shepherd towards his People, carrying himself wiah great Wisdom and Condescension, and Compassion to every one of them according to their several Capacities and Infirmities.

12 Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand h? and meted out heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in † a measure, and weighed the Mountains in scales, and the hills in a ballance!

h i. e. Who can measure them? for indicative Verbs in the Hebrew Language are often taken potentially; who can do this and the following things but God? And this discourse of God's infinite Power and Wisdom, is here conveniently added to give them the greater assurance, that God was able, as he had declared himself willing, to do these great and wonderful things which he had promised; and that neither men nor false Gods were able to hinder him in it. God is here compared to a mighty Giant, supposed to be so big that he can take up, and hold all the waters of the Sea and Rivers of the whole World in one hand, and span the Heavens, and then take up and weigh the whole Earth with the other hand.

* Job 21. 22. & 35. 22, 23. Rom. 11. 34. 1 Cor. 2. 16. † Heb. weighed. Prov. 16. 1. † Heb. man of his counsel.

13 * Who hath † directed the spirit of the Lord, or, being † his counsellour hath taught him i?

i Who did God either need or take to advise him in any of his Works, either of Creation or the Government of the World; Were they not all the effects of his own sole Wisdom? Therefore though all the Nations of the World contrive and conspire against him, and against this Work of his, as indeed they will do, yet his own counsel shall confound all their devices, and carry on his Work in spight of them.

14 With whom took he counsel, and who † instructed him, and taught him in the path of judgment k, and taught him knowledge, and shewed to him the way of † understanding?

k How to walk and manage all his Affairs with good Judgment and Discretion.

15 Behold, the nations l, are as a drop of a bucket m, and are counted n, as the small dust of the balance o; behold, he taketh up the Isles p as a very little thing.

l All the Nations of the World; m Compared with all the Water in the Bucket wherein are innumerable drops: such are they if compared with God. n By him, and in comparison of him. o Which accidentally cleaves to the Ballance, but makes no alteration in the weight. p Those numerous and vast Countries to which they went from Judea by Sea, which are commonly called Isles, as hath been oft observed.

16 And Lebanon u not sufficient to burn, nor the beasts thereof sufficient for a burnt-offering q.

q And although he is pleased to accept of poor and small Sacrifices from his People, yet if men were to offer a Sacrifice agreeable to his infinite excellency, the whole Forest of Lebanon could not afford either a sufficient number of Beasts to be sacrificed: Or, a sufficient quantity of Wood to consume the Sacrifice.

* Dan. 4. 35. 17 All nations before him r are as * nothing, and they are counted to him s less than nothing t, and vanity.

r Either in his eyes: Or, being set against him, as this Hebrew word properly and most usually signifies. s Either in his Judgment: Or, in comparison of him. t Less than a thing of nought or of no account or worth: Or, as others render it, For nothing.

* Chap. 45. 5. Act. 17. 29. 18 To whom then will ye * liken God u? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?

u This is a proper inference from the foregoing discourse of God's immense and infinite greatness; from whence he taketh occasion to shew both the folly of those that make mean and visible representations of God, as not the Gentiles only but even some of the Jews did; and the utter inability of Men or Idols to give any opposition to God in the doing of these great Works. And this discourse of the madness of Idolaters prosecuted both here, and in the following Chapter, was designed by God, as a necessary antidote whereby the Jews might be preserved from the contagion of Idolatry, to which God saw they now had strong inclinations, and would have many and great temptations when they were in Captivity.

* Chap. 41. 7. & 44. 12. Jer. 10. 3. 19 The workman melteth a graven image x, and * the goldsmith spreadeth it over with gold y, and casteth silver chains z.

x He melteth some base Metal into a mould, which giveth it the form of an Image, which afterwards is graven or carved to make it more exact and amiable. Thus the Image oweth all its excellency to the Earth for the matter of it, and to the art of man for the form or fashion of it. y Beaten out into Leaves or Plates. z Either for Ornaments: Or, rather for use, to fasten it to a Wall or Pillar, left it should fall down, and be broken in pieces. Which is spoken in way of scorn and derision of such ridiculous deities as needed such supports.

† Heb. a poor of oblation. 20 He that † is so impoverished that he hath no oblation a, chooseth a tree that will not rot; he seeketh unto him a cunning workman b to prepare a a That he can hardly procure Mony sufficient to buy the meanest Sacrifice for his God. b He is so mad upon his Idols, that he will one way or other find money to procure the choicest materials, and the help of the best Artist to make his Idol. c Which after all this cost and art, cannot stir one step out of its place to give you any help.

21 Have ye not known d? have ye not heard? hath it not been told you from the beginning e? have you not understood from the foundation of the earth?

d To wit, God to be the only true God, the Maker and Governour of the World, and all its Inhabitants: how can you be ignorant of so evident a truth? He addresseth his speech to the Idolatrous Gentiles. e To wit, of the World, as the next clause explains it: Were not these infinite perfections of God manifestly discovered to all mankind by the Creation of the World.

22 ‖ It is he that sitteth f upon the circle of the earth g, and the inhabitants thereof are as grashoppers h, that * stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain, and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in i.

‖ Or, him that sitteth, &c. * Job 9. 8. Psal. 104. 2. Isa. 44. 24. Jer. 10. 12.

f As a Judge or Governour upon his Throne: g Or, above the Circle, &c. far above this round Earth, even in the highest Heavens; from whence he looketh down upon the Earth, where men appear to him like Grashoppers. He alludes to one that looks down upon the Earth below him from some high place. As here we have the Circle of the Earth, so elsewhere we read of the Circle of Heaven, Job 22. 14. and of the Circle of the Deep, or Sea, Prov. 8. 27. because the form of the Heaven, and Earth and Sea is circular and round, as is evident both from Sense, and from the Principles of Philosophy. h Small and contemptible in his sight. Compare Numb. 13. 33. i For the benefit of the Earth and of Mankind, that all parts might partake of its comfortable influences. See on Job 9. 8. Psal. 104. 2.

23 That bringeth the * princes to nothing k, he maketh the judges of the earth as vanity.

* Job 12. 21. Psal. 107. 40.

k That can at his pleasure destroy all the great Potentates of the World.

24 Yea, they l shall not be planted, yea, they shall not be sown m, yea, their stock shall not take root in the earth; and he shall also blow upon them n, and they shall wither, and the whirlwind shall take them away as stubble.

l The Princes and Judges last mentioned. m They shall take no root, as it follows, for Planting and Sowing are in order to taking root, and are necessary to it. They shall not continue and flourish, as they have vainly imagined, but shall be rooted up and perish, as is declared in the rest of the verse. n Blast them, as a vehement east-wind doth Plants.

25 To whom then will ye liken me o, or shall I be equal? saith the holy One.

o He repeateth what he had said ver. 18. that he might oblige them to the more serious and frequent consideration of the absurdity of the Idolatry.

26 Lift up your eyes on high p, and behold who hath created these things q, that bringeth out r their host by number s, he * calleth them all by names t by the greatness of his might, for that he is strong in power u, not one faileth x.

* Psal. 147. 4.

p To the high and starry Heaven, as appears from the following words. q Which you see on High, the Host of Heaven as it follows. r That at first brought them out of nothing, and from day to day brings them forth, making them to rise and set in their appointed and fixed times. s As a General brings forth his Army into the Field, and there musters them. t As a Master calleth all the Members of his Family. u Which work is a certain and evident proof of God's infinite power, x Either to appear when he calleth them; or to do the work to which he sends them.

27 Why saist thou y, O Jacob, and speakest, O Israel, My way z is hid from the Lord, and my judgment a is passed over from my God b?

y In thy heart: why dost thou give way to such jealousies concerning thy God, of whose infinite Power and Wisdom, and Goodness, there are such evident demonstrations given to all mankind, and to thee in a singular manner? z The course and condition of my Life. He takes no notice of my Prayers and Tears, and Sufferings for his Name, but suffers my Enemies to abuse me at their pleasure, and doth not attempt to rescue me out of their hands. This complaint is uttered in the name of the People being prophetically supposed to be in Captivity. a Either 1. My Punishment: Or, rather 2. My Cause, as this word is most commonly used. God hath neglected to plead my Cause, and to give Judgment for me against mine Enemies, as he hath formerly done. b God hath dismissed it, and left it and me in the hands of mine Enemies, and now our case is so desperate that God cannot help us: for which reason they compared themselves to dry Bones lying in the Grave, Ezek. 37.

28 Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, the creator of the ends of the earth c fainteth not, neither is weary d? * there is no searching of his understanding e.

* Psal. 147. 5.

c Of all the Earth and the Inhabitants thereof, from one end to another. He seems to mention the ends or utmost bounds, because they might seem to be more out of the reach and care of God's Providence, as being most remote from Jerusalem, the only place of God's solemn and publick Worship in the World, and being then thought to be uninhabited. The argument is clear and strong: God who made all, even the most desolate and barbarous parts of the Earth, and consequently takes care of them, will not neglect his own Land and People. d He is not by age or hard labour become weak and unable to help his People, as men are apt to be. e His Counsels by which he governeth all the World, and in a most particular manner thine affairs, are far above the reach of thy understanding: and therefore thou dost ignorantly and foolishly in passing so rash a censure upon the Ways and Works of the infinitely Wise God.

29 He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he encreaseth strength f.

f He hath strength enough not only for himself but for all, even the weakest of his creatures, whom he can easily strengthen to bear all their burdens, and to vanquish all their oppressors.

30 Even the youths g shall faint, and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall:

g The youngest and strongest men, left to themselves or without God's help, or which do not wait upon God; which is easily understood from the opposition in the following verse.

31 But they that wait upon the LORD h, shall † renew their strength i, they shall mount up with wings as eagles k, they shall run and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint l.

h That rely upon him for strength to bear their burdens, and for deliverance from them in due time. i Shall grow stronger and stronger in Faith and Patience, and Fortitude, whereby they shall be more than Conquerors over all their Enemies and Adversities. k Which flyes most strongly and swiftly and high out of the reach of all danger. l They shall be enabled to run or walk in their way as they please, without any weariness.

CHAP. XLI.

God called Abraham, and won with him: the Nations Idolatrous, 1,—8. Israel encouraged by promises of safety and deliverance, 9,—20. the vanity of Idols, 21,—24. Redemption by Christ, 25,—29.

KEep silence before me a, O islands b, and let the † people renew their strength c: let them come near d, then let them speak e: let us come near together to judgment.

a Attend diligently to my plea, and then answer it if you can. b O you Inhabitants of Islands, as the next clause explains this. By Islands he here means, as he doth Chap. 40. 15. and elsewhere, Countries remote from Judea, inhabited by the Idolatrous Gentiles, with whom he here debateth his cause. c Strengthen themselves to maintain their cause against me; let them unite all their strength together. d Unto me that we may stand together, and plead our cause before any indifferent Judge. e I will give them free liberty to say what they can on their own behalf.

2 Who f raised up g † the righteous man h * from the East i, called him to his foot k, * gave the nations before him, and made him rule over kings l? he gave them as the dust m to his sword, and as driven stubble to his bow.

* Chap. 45. 1. ‖ Or, from. * Chap. 46. 11.

f What man or God? Was it not my alone work? The Idols were so far from assisting me, that they did their utmost to oppose me in it. g Into Being and Power, stirring up his Spirit, and strengthning him to the work. h Heb. Righteousness, which is put for a man of Righteousness, as Pride is put for a proud man, Psal. 36. 11. and Deceit for a deceitful man, Psal. 109. 2. For it is evident from the following words, that he spake here of a person: But who this person is, is much disputed by interpreters. Some understand it of Christ. And doubtless the Person here spoken of was an eminent Type of Christ, and so in a mystical sense it may belong to him. But the things here said to be done by this Righteous Man, seems to agree much better unto a Man of War, than unto the Prince of Peace. And therefore this place is immediately understood either. 1. Of Abraham, who was a Person eminently Righteous, and came out of Chaldea, which sometimes seems to be called the East, as Isa. 2. 6. Zech. 8. 7. who did the things here mentioned; partly in his own person, conquering five Kings and the Nations with them, Gen. 14. and following God he knew not whither; and partly by his Posterity; whose exploits may well be ascribed to him, not only because they came out of his Loyns, but also and especially, because all their successes and victories were given to them for Abraham's sake, and by the virtue of God's Promise and Covenant made with Abraham, for the giving of Canaan to him and to his Seed for ever. And this Interpretation may seem to receive some countenance from ver. 5, 6. which agrees well to the practice of the Canaanites and Neighbouring Nations; who upon Israel's March towards them were filled with great consternation, and used all possible diligence in seeking both to their Idols, and to men for help against them, as we read in that Sacred History. And thus God's argument against Idolatry, is taken from an illustrious example of God's infinite Power, put forth in saving his people, and destroying their enemies before them; and of the impotency of Idols to hinder him in that work: Or, 2. of Cyrus, who might be called a Righteous man: Or, as it is in the Hebrew, a man of Righteousness; because he was Raised up in Righteousness, as it is said of him, Isa. 45. 13. and Righteousness is put for his Righteousness; both his Faithfulness, in fulfilling his promise of delivering his people out of Babylon after seventy years (Righteousness's being often put for Faithfulness) and his Justice, in punishing the Enemies and Oppressors of his People, the wicked Babylonians; upon which account the Medes, who served under Cyrus in his Expedition against the Babylonians, are called God's Sanctified Ones, Isa. 13. 3, 17. And all the other expressions here used are very applicable to him, and were verified in him. He came from the East, from Persia which was directly eastward, both from Judea and from Babylon, and which is called the East in this very case, Isa. 46. 11. He was raised up by God in an eminent and extraordinary manner, as is noted both by sacred and profane Historians; and therefore this very word is used concerning him and his Army, not only here, but elsewhere; as Isa. 13. 17. Jer. 50. 9. and 51. 1, 11. To him also all the following passages agree, as we shall see. And although this great person & action were yet to come; yet the Prophet speaks of them as if they were already past, as the Prophets most frequently do. And as in the clause of the former Chapter he speaks of God's People, as if they were actually in the captivity of Babylon, ver. 27. so here he speaks of them, as if they were actually brought out of Babylon by Cyrus. And by this instance he pleads his cause against the Gentiles and their Idols; because this was an evident proof of God's Almighty Power, and of the vanity and weakness of Idols, which eminently appeared in the destruction of the Babylonians, who were a People mad upon their Idols, as is said, Jer. 50. 38. and yet were destroyed together with their Idols, Jer. 51. 47. i From a Country Eastward from Judea, as Chaldea was in part, but Persia more directly. k To march after him, and under God's Banner against Babylon. Thus Barachs Army is said to be at his feet, Judg. 4. 10. Compare also Gen. 30. 30. l Subdued Nations and their Kings before him. m To be beaten by him as small as dust, as is said, Psal. 18. 42. Or, to be put to flight as easily as the dust is scattered by the wind, as the following clause expounds this.

3 He pursued them and passed † safely n; even by † Heb. in peace. the way that he had not gone with his feet o.

n Went on in the pursuit with great ease and safety, and success. o Which is added as a further evidence of God's wonderful providence, in encouraging and inabling him to march by unknown paths; which hath oft proved dangerous and destructive to great Armies. This also was verified both in Abraham, and in Cyrus, as is well known.

4 Who hath wrought and done it p, * calling q the * Chap. 43. 10. Ch. 43. 10. & 44. 6. & 48. 12. Rev. 1. 17. & 22. 13. generations from the beginning r? I the Lord, the * first, and with the last s, I am he.

p Whose work was this but mine? q Either 1. Calling them out of nothing, giving to them breath and being: Or, 2. Calling them to his foot, as he said above, ver. 2. disposing and employing them as he sees fit, sending them upon his errands. r All Persons and Generations of mankind from the beginning of the World to the end of it. s Who was before all things even from Eternity, and shall be unto Eternity; whereas the Idols, to whom God herein opposeth himself, were but of yesterday, being made by mens hands, and shall within a little time vanish, and be destroyed.

5 The isles t saw it, u, and feared x; the ends of the earth were afraid, drew near, and came y.

t Even remote Countries, as ver. 1. u Discerned the mighty Work of God in delivering his People, and overthrowing their enemies, in so wonderful a manner. x Lest they should be involved in the same Calamity, as being conscious to themselves, that they also were enemies to God's people. y They gathered themselves together to consult for their common safety, and to maintain the cause of their Idols, whom by this instance they perceived in great Jeopardy.

6 * They helped every one his neighbour, and every one said to his Brother, † Be of good courage z.

* Chap. 40. 19. & 41. 7. † Heb. be strong.

z They encouraged and assisted one another in their Idolatrous Practices.

7 So the carpenter a encouraged the ‖ goldsmith b, and he that smooetheth with the hammer ‖ him that smote the anvil, ‖ saying, It is ready for the soldering c: and he fastned it d with nails that it should not be moved.

a Who brought wood to compose the body of the Idol. b Who was to prepare golden plates for covering, and adorning of the Image, which some of them beat out upon the Anvil, and others smoothed or polished, as it follows. c That we may put the several parts together, and set it up to be worshipped. d To the Wall or Pillar, left it should fall down, or go, or be carried away from them. See Isa. 40. 19, 20.

8 But thou Israel are my Servant e, Jacob whom I have * chosen f, the seed of Abraham my friend g.

* Deut. 7. 6. & 10. 15. & 14. 2.

e Thus the Gentiles shew themselves to be the Servants of their Idols, and own them for their God; but thou art my people and Psal. 135. 4. I am and will be thy God. f Out of the heap of the Idolatrous Nations to be my peculiar People. g With whom I made a strict league of perpetual friendship; of which see Gen. 12. 2, 3. and * 2 Chron. 15. 1, 8. 20. 7.

9 Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth h, and called thee from the chief men thereof i, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant, I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away k.

Jam. 2. 23.

h Thou Israel, whom I took to my self, and brought hither in the loins of thy Father Abraham from a remote Country; to wit, Chaldea: Or, whom I brought back out of Babylon into thine own Land, which though yet to come, he may speak of as of a thing past, as the Prophets use to do, as was noted before. But the former interpretation seems to agree better with the foregoing verse. i From the midst of many great and noble persons among whom he lived in Chaldea. So this notes Gods singular mercy to Abraham, and consequently to the Israelites descended from him, that he passed by many of Abraham's betters, and called him into fellowship with himself. k I have chosen thee not for a small moment, but for ever, by making an everlasting Covenant with thee and thy Seed through all Generations. Or the sense is this: As I have chosen thee at first, so I have not since that time cast thee off, as thou hadst frequently given me sufficient occasion to do. Or, and did not refuse thee, as this word is elsewhere used. So the same thing is repeated in other words, not without some emphasis; for he intimates that he chose them when he had just cause of refusing them.

10 Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God. I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness l.

l Which I do and will manage with Righteousness, whereby I will deliver thee, and destroy thine and mine enemies, as it follows.

11 Behold, all they that were incensed against thee, shall be * ashamed and confounded m: they shall be as nothing n, and † they that strive with thee shall perish.

* Exod. 23. 22. Chap. 45. 24. & 60. 12.

m Both because their hopes and designs shall be utterly disappointed, and because the mischief which they contrived against thee shall fall upon themselves. n Shall come to nothing, or perish, as the next clause explains it.

12 Thou shalt seek them, and shalt not find them, even † them that contended with thee: † they that war against thee shall be as nothing, and as a thing of nought p.

o They shall be so totally consumed, that although thou searchest for them, thou shalt not be able to find them any where in the World. p Shall be utterly brought to nought. The thing is twice repeated, to shew the certainty and greatness of their destruction.

13 For I the LORD thy God will hold thy right hand q, saying unto thee, Fear not, I will help thee.

q Or, will strengthen, &c. as this word properly signifieth; will assist and enable thee to vanquish all thine enemies.

14 Fear not, thou worm r Jacob, and ye ‖ men of Israel: I will help thee, saith the LORD, and thy redeemer, the holy One of Israel.

r Who art weak in thy self, and despised and trodden under foot by thy proud and potent enemies.

15 Behold, I will make thee a new s sharp threshing instrument having † teeth t: thou shalt thresh the mountains u, and beat them small, and shalt make the hills as chaff.

p And therefore sharper and stronger than another which hath been much used. t Such as were usual in those times and places: of which see on Isa. 28. 25, 28. u The great and lofty Potentates of the World which set themselves against thee, such persons being frequently expressed in Scripture under the notion of Hills and Mountains.

16 Thou shalt fan them x, and the wind shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them: and thou shalt rejoyce in the LORD, and shalt glory in the holy One of Israel y.

x When thou hast beaten them as small as dust or chaff. y For to him, and not to thy self, thou shalt ascribe thy victory over thine enemies.

17 When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the LORD will hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them z.

z When my poor people are come to the greatest extremity of danger and misery; then will I appear for their relief.

18 I will open * rivers in high places a, and fountains in the midst of the Valleys b: I will make the * wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water c.

a Upon the Mountains where by the course of nature there are no Rivers. b Or, in the Valleys, to wit, in such of them as are not well watered. c These people who are like a dry and barren Wilderness, I will abundantly water with my Blessing, and make them fruitful and beautiful, as the next Verse sheweth: which may be understood, either of the Jews who were in a Wilderness condition, till God brought them out of it; Or, of the Gentiles converted to the true Religion under the Gospel.

19 * I will plant in the wilderness the cedar, the shittah-tree, and the myrtle, and the oyl-tree: I will set in the desert the fir-tree, and the pine, and the box-tree together d:

d Trees which are both useful and pleasant to the eye, and giving a good shadow to the traveller, which in those hot and parched Countries was very comfortable. Thus much is evident and confessed: But what particular Trees these Hebrew words signifie, seems to me improper to discourse here, because only the Learned are capable of judging in this case, and they may consult my Latin Synopsis upon this, and other places of Scripture where they are mentioned.

20 That they may ‖ see e, and know, and consider, and understand together, that the hand of the LORD hath done this, and the holy One of Israel hath created it.

‖ Or, That men may see

e Or, That men may see t for it is an indefinite expression. The sense is, That all that see this wonderful change may consider it, and may know that this is the work of God alone.

21 † Produce your cause f, saith the LORD; bring forth your strong reasons g, saith the King of Jacob.

f The Prophet having pleaded God's cause against the Idolatrous Gentiles, whom he challenged to a dispute, ver. 1. he now reneweth the Challenge, and gives them liberty and invitation to speak whatsoever they can on the behalf of their Idols. g To prove the Divinity of your Idols.

22 * Let them h bring them forth, and shew us what shall happen i: let them shew the former things k, what they be, that we may † consider them l, and * know m the latter end of them n; or declare us things for to come o.

b Either the Idols: Or, which is all one, the Idolaters in the name and by the help of their Idols. i All future events; which he divides into two sorts in the following clause, the former and the later, as we shall see. k Which is not to be understood of such things as are past, for such things might easily be known by men from History, much more by the Devils who possessed and acted in their Idols, but of such things as should shortly come to pass, which may be better discerned, than those things which are yet at a great distance. So he propounds the easiest part first. Let us try whether they can foretel those things which are even at the door, and if so we will try them further. Let them tell us what things shall happen, and in what order, which first, and which last. l Heb. and we will set our heart to it; we will allow the argument its due weight, and either fairly answer it, or give up our cause against Idols. m That we may know, or let us know by their information. n The consequence of them, whether the events did answer to their predictions: Or, what things hapned next after those former things. o To wit, hereafter, or after a long time; which limitation may be easily gathered, both from the opposition of this clause to the former, and from the next following clause, where it is so limited and explained.

23 Shew the things that are to come hereafter: that we may know that ye are gods: p yea, * do good, or do evil q, that we may be dismayed, and behold it together r.

p That we may have, if not a certain proof, yet at least a probable argument of your Deity. It may be objected that the Devil hath foretold future events by Idols: but it may be answered, that such predictions were but rare, and oftentimes were false, and confuted by the event; and generally were dark, and doubtful, as hath been noted; and when they were verified by the event, that was only done by Divine Permission and revelation, for the tryal or punishment of wicked men, of which we have an instance, Deut. 13. 1, 2, 3. and therefore doth no more prove them to be Gods, than the predictions made known by God unto the Prophets, proved them to be Gods. q Protest and Bless your Worshippers whom I intend to destroy, and destroy my People whom I intend to save, and then you have some colour to assert your Deity. But alas! You can neither do good nor evil. r That I and my People may be astonished, and confounded, and forced to acknowledge your Godhead.

24 Behold, * ye are ‖ of nothing s, and your * work t ‖ of nought: an abomination is he that chooseth you u.

* Chap. 41. 24. 1 Cor. 8. 4.

s You lately were nothing, without any Being at all, and now you have nothing at all of Divinity or Vertue in you. t Either 1. Passively, your workmanship, all the cost and art which is laid out upon you. Or, 2. Actively, all that you can do. Your Operations are like your Beings, there is no reality in your Beings, nor efficacy in your Actions. u He that chooseth you for his Gods, is most abominable for his folly, as well as his wickedness.

25 I have raised up x one y from the north, and he shall come: from the rising of the Sun shall he ‖ call upon my name z, and he shall come upon princes as upon mortar a, and as the potter treadeth clay.

x You neither foreknow nor can do any thing. But I do now foretel, and will certainly effect a great revolution and change in the World, which you shall not be able to hinder. y Which word, though not expressed in the Hebrew must necessarily be understood, as being oft designed in the following words by the pronoun He. He understands one People: Or, rather one Person, Prince or General together with his People or Forces, as appears from the latter part of the Verse. Some conceive that the Prophet in this place speaks of two several persons; in the first clause of Nebuchadnezzar, who in Scripture is commonly said to come from the North, as Jer. 1. 13, 15. and 4. 6. and the next clause of Cyrus who came from the East, Isa. 46. 11. And then the words may be thus rendred, one from the North, and he shall come: and one from the rising of the Sun, He shall call, &c. But it seems more natural and easie to understand the whole context of one and the same Person, even of Cyrus, of whom he spake before, ver. 2, &c. who might well be said to come, both from the North, and from the East; from the North rather, because he was a Mede by his Mother, as he was a Persian by his Father; or because a great part of his Army was gathered out of Media, which was, and in Scripture is said to be Northward in reference to Judea, Jer. 50. 9, 41. and 51. 48. and because Darius the Mede was joyned with him in this expedition: and from the East, because Persia was directly eastward from Judea. And peradventure this work of calling upon or proclaiming [illegible] Name, is here ascribed to him as he came from the East [illegible] than as he came from the North, because that work [illegible] by Darius the Mede, but by Cyrus the Persian. z [illegible], as others render it, who shall call upon: Or rather, proclaim my name, which Cyrus did in express and emphatical terms, Ezra 1. 1, 2. a Treading them down, as easily as a man treadeth down morter.

26 Who hath declared from the beginning b, that we may know? and before-time c, that we may say d, He is righteous e? yea, there is none f that sheweth, yea, there is none that declareth, yea, there is none that heareth your words g.

b Which of all your Idols did or could foretel such things as this from the beginning of the World unto this day? They never yet did nor can foretel any such things, further than I think fit to reveal it to them. c Either in time past: Or, before the things come to pass. d That we may be convinced and forced to acknowledge. e His Cause now pleaded is just and good: He is a God indeed as he pretends to be, he claims his Divinity by a good title. f Heb. Surely there is none of your Gods that hath done or can do this, and therefore their claim to the Deity is false and foolish. g None of your Worshippers ever heard any such thing either from you or of you: nor indeed doth any man hear your words, because you are dumb and cannot speak.

27 * The first h shall say to Zion i, Behold, behold them k, and I will give to Jerusalem one that bringeth good tidings l.

* Chap. 40. 9. & 52. 7.

h I who am the first, as I said before, ver. 4. and therefore capable of declaring or foretelling things to come from the beginning, which your Idols cannot do, ver. 26. i Do and will foretel unto my people by my Prophets things to come. k I represent things future as if they were present, and to be beheld with your eyes. By them he means either, 1. These things which are to come: Or, 2. These men, either Cyrus and his Forces who came to deliver the Jews out of Babylon: Or, which is the same thing in effect, the Jews returning from their captivity in Babylon. l A Messenger or Messengers, the singular number being here put for the plural, as it is in many other places, to wit, my Prophets who shall foretel the good tidings of their deliverance from Captivity.

m Heb. And I beheld, I looked about me to see if I could find any man of them that could certainly, and of themselves foretel such future events. n Not any, to wit, of the Idols; for the word Man is sometimes used by the Hebrews of brute creatures, and even of lifeless things, as Isa. 34. 15. and 40. 26. and elsewhere. o Though these Idols were oft consulted, and by the help of the Devil did sometimes deliver Oracles, yet none of them were able to give any solid and certain advice concerning future things. p When I tried their divinity by this character, they had nothing to say for themselves.

29 Behold, they are all vanity q, their works are nothing r: their molten Images s are wind t, and confusion u.

q This is the conclusion of the whole dispute, and the just sentence which God passeth upon Idols after a fair trial; they are vain things, and are fally called Gods. r See ver. 24. s Which he mentions, because their materials were most precious, and more cost and art was commonly bestowed upon them, for after they had been molten they used to be carved or polished and adorned: but under these he synecdochically comprehends all Images whatsoever. t Empty and unsatisfying things, which also like the wind, do quickly pass away and come to nothing. u Confused and deformed and useless things, like that rude heap in the beginning of God's Creation, of which this very word is used, Gen. 1. 2.

CHAP. XLII.

The Person and office of Christ appointed by the Father, 1, — 9. a new song to God for his Gospel, among the Gentiles, 10, — 16. the idolatry of the Heathen: and obstinacy of the Jews, 17, — 25.

BEhold a, * my servant b whom I uphold c, mine elect d in whom my soul * delighteth e: I * have put my Spirit upon him f, he shall bring forth g judgment h to the Gentiles i.

Isa. 41. 8. & 43. 10. & 44. 1. & 45. 4. & 65. 9, 15, 22. Matt. 12. 18. * Chap. 11. 2. & 61. 1. John 3. 34.

a The Prophet, having in the former Chapter detected the vanity of Idols, by their gross Ignorance of future things, and having given one eminent instance of God's certain Foreknowledge of things to come, in the prediction of the destruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of the Jews out of it by Cyrus; he now addeth another more eminent and remote example of it, and foretelleth the coming of the Messiah, and several great effects or consequences thereof. Which he rather doth, because this was the person by whom the Idols were to be utterly abolished, as was foretold, Isa. 2. 18. compared with ver. 2, 3, 4. and as it fell out in the event: This having been observed not only by Christians, but even by the learned Heathens, not without astonishment. That at that time, when Christ came into the World, Idols were generally struck dumb, and the Oracles ceased. b The person, of whom he here speaketh, is by some supposed to be Cyrus, and by others Isaiah himself, and by others the People of the Jews. But the most and best Interpreters understand this place of Christ. And although I am sensible, that some learned men have done wrong to the sacred Text, and to the Christian cause, by expounding some places of Christ without sufficient evidence, yet this is one of the many places in this Prophecy, which cannot without manifest violence be applied to any other; which is so evident, that not only the generality of Christians, but divers of the most learned Jews understand it of the Messiah, and of him alone; and pass a severe censure upon their Brethren, that expound it of any other person, and affirm that they are smitten with blindness in this matter. Moreover this place is expressly interpreted of Christ, Mat. 12. 18, &c. And to him, and to him only all the particulars here following do truly and evidently belong, as we shall see. c Whom I will assist and enable to do and suffer all those things which belong to his Office to do. d Chosen by me to this great work of Mediation and Redemption, to which he is said to be sealed and sent, John 6. 27, 29. and predestinated, 1 Pet. 1. 20. and chosen of God, 1 Pet. 2. 4. e Or, as this same word is often rendred, is well pleased, both for himself and for all his people, being fully satisfied with that Sacrifice, which he shall offer up to me. f I have furnished him with that abundance and eminency of gifts and graces, which are necessary for the discharge of his high and hard employment. g Shall publish or shew, as this word is translated, Mat. 12. 18. shall bring to light what before was hid in his breast, or in his Fathers bosome. h This word is very ambiguous, and elsewhere is put for punishment, which cannot be meant here, because the whole context speaks of his mercy and sweetness, and not of his severity: but here it is clearly put for God's Law, as this very word is expounded here below, ver. 4. and as it is frequently used in the Holy Scriptures, as Psal. 119. and elsewhere: which also best agrees with the bringing forth or publishing of it here mentioned, publication being necessarily required and constantly used about Laws. And this interpretation is confirmed by the following words, to the Gentiles. For the great things which Christ published unto all the World, both Jews and Gentiles, was nothing else but the Law and Will, and Counsel of God concerning man's salvation, and the way, and means of obtaining it. i Not only to the Jews, to whom the knowledge of God's Laws had been hitherto appropriated, but to the Heathen Nations of the World.

2 He shall not cry k, nor lift up l, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street m.

k, Either 1. In a way of contention, as anger is oft accompanied with clamour, Eph. 4. 31. Or, 2. In a way of ostentation. It seems to be meant both ways, by comparing this place with Mat. 12. 16, 17, 20. He shall neither erect nor manage his Kingdom, with violence and outward pomp and state, as worldly Princes do, but with meekness and humility. l His voice, which is easily understood out of the following clause, and from many other Scriptures, where that word is added to this verb, to compleat the Phrase. m As contentious and vain-glorious persons frequently do.

3 A bruised reed shall he not break n: and the ‖ ‖ smoaking flax shall he not † quench o: * he shall bring forth judgment unto truth p.

* Psal. 94. 15.

n He will not break it to pieces; but rather will strengthen and bind it up. It is a common figure, whereby more is understood than was expressed, and one contrary is left to be gathered from another, of which many instances have been given in former Texts. The sense is plainly this, Christ will not deal roughly and rigorously with those that come to him, but he will use all gentleness and kindness to them, passing by their greatest sins, bearing with their present infirmities, cherishing and encouraging the smallest beginnings of grace, comforting and healing wounded consciences, and the like. o The same thing is repeated in other words, to give us the greater assurance of the truth of it. That wick of a Candle (called Flax metonymically, because it is made of Flax) which is almost extinct, and doth only smoke and not flame, he will not utterly quench, but will revive and kindle it again. p Judgment may be here taken either, 1. for the Law or will of God, or the Doctrine of the Gospel, which he will bring forth, i. e. publish, which he will do unto or in or with or according to (for this preposition is used all those ways) truth, i. e. truly and faithfully, not concealing nor corrupting it, as false teachers commonly do. So this is a character, like that which is given to Christ, Mat. 22. 16. Thou art true and teachest the way of God in truth: And thus this phrase of bringing forth Judgment, is taken here as it is ver. 1. Or, 2. for the Cause which is debated, or for the sentence which is given in the cause, as this word is most frequently used, which he will bring forth, i. e. bring to light, or discover or publish; and this he will do according to truth and equity, and not unjustly and partially, as corrupt judges use to give sentence against the poor and meek. In this sence this very phrase of bringing forth Judgment, is taken Psal. 37. 6. And this sense seems to be favoured, both by the consideration of the quality of the Persons, to whom this judgment is here implied to be brought forth, who are called bruised Reeds, and smoaking Flax, whereby they are supposed to be Persons discouraged, and oppressed, and in a contest with themselves, or with their spiritual adversaries about the state of their Souls; as also by comparing this place with Mat. 12. 20. where these very words are quoted, and thus rendred, Till he send forth Judgment unto Victory, i. e. till judgment or sentence be given for him, in which case a man is said to be victorious in Judgment. If it be said for the former interpretation, that it seems most reasonable to understand Judgment here as it is understood, ver. 1, and 4. and bringing forth Judgment here as it is taken, ver. 1. it may be truly and fairly answered, that it is a very common thing in Scripture, for the same words or phrases to be used in several senses, not only in two neighbouring verses, but sometimes also in the very same verse, whereof I have formerly given divers instances.

4 He shall not fail, nor be † discouraged q, till he have set judgment in the earth r: and the isles shall wait for his Law s.

q Though he be thus meek, and gentle, yet he is also courageous, and resolute against all the great, and many difficulties and conflicts, to which he will be exposed, and will not give over till he have finished his work: Or, as others render the words, He shall not be darkened (This glorious light shall not be eclipsed or obscured: Or, He shall shine forth brightly and gloriously, as the Seventy render this word) nor broken, by all the attempts and vigorous endeavours of his Enemies who design it. r Till he hath published and established his law or doctrine (as this Judgment ment is expounded in the next clause) among the nations of the Earth. And this word, still, respects only the time past, but not the time to come, as if he would then fail, or be discouraged, when once he had set Judgment on the Earth; which is contrary to reason, and to other evident Scriptures. And so this word is used, Gen. 28. 15. Psal. 71. 18. Mat. 1. 25. s The Countries remote from Judea, to which God's Law was now confined, as this word is oft used. t Shall gladly receive his Doctrine and commands from time to time.

* Chap. 44. 24. Zech. 12. 1. 5 Thus saith God the LORD, * he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein u:

u This large description of God's infinite power, is here seasonably added, to give them assurance of the certain accomplishment of these great and wonderful promises, which otherwise would seem incredible.

6 I the LORD have called thee in righteousness x, and will hold thine hand y, and will keep thee z, and x To declare my righteousness, as is said, Rom. 3. 26. or my faithfulness, which is frequently called Righteousness in Scripture, according to my promise long since made, and oft renewed. As the former verse asserted God's Power, so this clause declares his will and firm purpose and obligation, to effect this work, and both together evince the certainty and necessity of it. y I will give thee counsel and strength for thine high and hard work. z That thou shalt not fail in, nor be hindred by thine enemies, from the accomplishment of thy work. a To be the Angel of the Covenant, as Christ is called, Mal. 3. 1. or the Mediator in and by whom my Covenant of Grace is made, and confirmed with mankind. b Either of my People, the Jews: Or, indefinitely or universally, of all People, not only Jews but Gentiles also, as it follows. c To enlighten them with true and saving knowledge, and to direct them in the right way to true happiness, from which they had miserably wandred. He alludes to God's fiery Pillar, which enlightned and directed the Israelites in the Wilderness.

7 To open the blind eyes d, and to bring out the
* Ch. 35. 5. & 61. 1. Luk. 4. 18. prisoners e from prison, and them that sit in * darkness out of the prison-house.

d The eyes of their minds blinded with long ignorance, and deep prejudice and inveterate error, and by the Power and Policy of the God of this World, 2 Cor. 4. 4. which nothing but the almighty Power of God could cure. e Sinners who are taken captive by the Devil at his will, as we read, 2 Tim. 2. 26. and as daily experience sheweth, and who are enslaved and chained by their own lusts, and made Free-men only by Christ, Joh. 8. 32, 36. Compare this portion of Scripture with Isa. 61. 1. and both with Luke 4. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 Where it is said to be fulfilled in and by Christ.

* Chap. 43. 11. 8 I am the LORD f that is my name g, and my * glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images h.

f Heb. Jehovah: Who have all being in and of my self, and give being to all my Creatures, and to all my promises, as this name signifies. The everlasting, and unchangeable, and omnipotent God, who therefore both can, and will fulfill all my promises, and plead the cause, and set up the Kingdom of my Son in spight of all opposition, and destroy all those Idols which are set up against him and me. g Which I must own and justifie to the World. He seems to allude to Exod. 3. 14, 15. and 6. 3. h I will not any longer suffer that Honour and Worship, which is peculiar to me, to be given to Idols as it hath been, but I will by Christ and the Gospel, abolish Idolatry in the World.

* Chap. 43. 9, 10. & 44. 7, 8. & 46. 9, 10. 9 Behold, the former things are come to pass and * new things do I declare i: before they spring forth I tell you of them k.

i As all things, which I have formerly promised or foretold, have exactly come to pass in their proper seasons, and not one of them failed, as was noted Josh. 23. 14. So you have great reason to believe, that what I now promise, though it be new, and strange to you, shall infallibly be accomplished. k That when they come to pass, you may know that I am God, and that this is my Work. Compare John 13. 19.

* Psal. 33. 3. † Heb. the fulness thereof. 10 * Sing unto the LORD a new Song l, and his praise from the end of the earth m: ye that go down to the sea, and † all that is therein; the isles and the inhabitants thereof n.

l Upon this new and great occasion, the calling and salvation of the World by Christ. m All Nations from one end of the Earth to another, who shall be sharers in this Mercy. n You that go by Sea carry these glad tidings from Judea, where Christ was born, and lived, and died, and published the Gospel, unto the remotest parts of the Earth, that they may joyn with you in singing forth God's praises for his marvellous kindness and grace to them.

11 Let the wilderness o and the cities thereof lift up their voice, the villages that Kedar p doth inhabit: let the inhabitants of the rock sing, let them shout from the top of the mountains q.

o Those parts of the World which are now like a Wilderness; not literally, for he speaks of their Cities in the next clause, but spiritually, desolate and forsaken of God; dry and destitute of the waters of God's grace, and barren of all good fruits. p The Arabians; which were an Heathenish and Barbarous People, and well known to the Jews, and are synecdochically put for all Nations in the same circumstances. q Having mentioned Cities and Villages, he now adds those who dwell upon Rocks and Mountains, which are commonly more savage and ignorant than others, and therefore harder to be taught and reformed.

r In the remotest parts of the World, as well as in Arabia, which was near to them.

13 The LORD shall go forth s, as a mighty man, he shall stir up jealousie t like a man of war: he shall cry, yea, roar u; he shall ‖ prevail against his enemies. ‖ Or, shall himself mightily.

s To wit, to war, or battle, as this Phrase is used, Numb. 1. 3, 18. 2 Sam. 11. 1. t He shall stir up himself, and his strength, and anger against the obstinate and implacable enemies of his Son and Gospel. u As a Lyon doth upon his prey, and as Souldiers do when they begin the battle.

14 I have long time held my peace x, I have been still and refrained my self; now will I cry like a travailing woman y, I will destroy and † devour at once z. † Heb. swallow up.

x I have for many ages suffered the Devil and his Servants, Tyrants, and Idolaters and Persecuters to prevail in the world, to afflict my people, and to hinder the entertainment of my Doctrine and Worship in the World. y Now I will bring forth and accomplish that glorious work which I have long conceived in my mind. z I will suddenly and utterly destroy the incorrigible enemies of my Truth, and of my Sons Kingdom. He alludes to those wild Beasts which open their mouths wide, and devour all their prey at one morsel or at one time. Isa. 42. 14.

15 I will make waste mountains and hills a, and dry up all their herbs, and I will make the rivers islands, and I will dry up the pools b.

a Not dry and barren ones, for these were waste already, but such as are clothed with Grass and Herbs, as the following words imply. Which is to be understood Metaphorically, of God's destroying his most lofty and flourishing enemies, who are oft compared in Scripture unto Mountains and Hills. b I will remove all impediments out of the way: which is expressed in the Prophetical dialect, by drying up Euphrates, that the way of the Kings of the East might be prepared, Rev. 16. 12. He seems to allude to that which God did in drying up first the Red Sea, and then Jordan, to give his people passage into Canaan. And this exposition is confirmed by the following verse.

16 And I will bring the blind c by a way that they know not d, I will lead them in paths that they have not known: I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things † straight e. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them f. † Heb. and straight things.

c The Gentiles who were blind and were called so above, ver. 7. and in many other places of Scripture, and were so accounted by the Jews. d By the way of truth, which hitherto hath been hidden from them, until by my Word and Spirit I revealed it to them e I will take away all hinderances, and give them all advantages and conveniences for their Journey. I will direct them in the right way. I will enlighten their dark minds, and rectifie their perverse wills and affections. f Until I have brought them with safety and comfort to the end of their journey.

17 They shall be * turned back, they shall be greatly ashamed that trust in graven images g, that say to the molten images, Ye are our gods. * Psal. 97. 7. Chap. 1. 29. & 44. 11. & 45. 16.

g This may be understood either 1. Of the Converted Gentiles; who shall be turned back from their former sinful course, and shall sincerely grieve, and be ashamed that they did trust, &c. as the word may be rendred; that they should ever be guilty of such wickedness and madness to Worship and Trust in Idols: Or, rather 2. of those Gentiles who, when their Brethren embraced the true God and Christ, persisted obstinately in their Idolatrous courses, who shall be confounded and destroyed: For this phrase of being turned back is generally used in Scripture in a bad sense; or of them who are overthrown, or put to flight in battle, as Psal. 9. 3. & 35. 4. & 70. 2, 3, &c. And the like I may say of being ashamed, or, confounded or put to shame, especially where this Phrase is joyned with the other, as it is in the two places of the Psalms last quoted.

h O you, whosoever you are, whether Jews or Gentiles, which shall resist this clear light, and obstinately continue in your former errours, attend diligently to my words, and consider these mighty works of God.

19 * Who is blind but my servant i? or deaf as my messenger k that I sent? who is blind as he that is perfect l, and blind as the LORD's servant m. * Chap. 43. 8.

i But no People under Heaven are so blind as the Jews who call themselves my Servants and People, who will not receive their Messiah, though he be recommended to them, with such evident and illustrious Signs, and miraculous Works, as force belief from the most unbelieving, and obstinate Gentiles. k My Messengers, the singular number being put for the plural, as it is commonly in Scripture. l The Priests and other Teachers whom I appointed to instruct my People in the right way. m As the most eminent Teachers and Rulers of the Jews, whom he calleth Perfect, either because it was their duty to know and teach the way, and truth of God perfectly; or rather Sarcastically, because they pretended to greater perfection, and proudly called themselves Rabbies and Masters, as our Saviour observed, and despised the People

People as cursed and not knowing the Law, Joh. 7. 49. and derided Christ, for calling them blind, Joh. 9. 40. m Which title as it was given to the Jewish People in the first clause of the verse; So here it seems to be given to the Priests, because they were called and obliged to be the Lords Servants, in a special and eminent manner.

Isa. 42. 22. 20 Seeing many things, * but thou observest not: opening the ears, but he heareth not n.

n Thou dost not seriously and impartially consider the plain word, and the wonderful Works of God, of which thine ears and eyes have been witnesses, which are abundantly sufficient for the Conviction of any considering man.

Isa. 59. 21 The LORD is well pleased o; * for his righteousness sake p, he will magnifie the Law, and make ‖ it honourable q. ‖ Or, him.

o To wit, with you: Or, as this word is most commonly used, hath a good will, to you or to this People: which may be understood out of the following verse, as is very usual in sacred Scripture. The meaning seems to be this; Although thou art a wicked people that rebellest against the clearest light, and therefore God might justly destroy thee suddenly, yet he is very unwilling to do it, and will patiently wait for thy repentance that he may be gracious unto thee. p Not for thy sake, for thou deservest no such thing from him, but for the glory of his own faithfulness, in fulfilling that Promise and Covenant, which he made with thy pious Progenitors for themselves, and for their Seed. q He will maintain the honour of his law, and therefore is not forward to destroy you, who profess God's Law, and the true Religion, lest his Law should upon that occasion be exposed to contempt.

22 But this is a people robbed and spoiled r, ‖ they are all of them snared in holes, and they are hid in prison-houses s: they are for a prey, and none delivereth; for a † spoyl, and none saith, Restore t. ‖ Or, to all of them. † Heb. spoyling.

r But notwithstanding this great respect which God hath to his Law, and to his people for the sake of his Law; it is apparent that God hath severely scourged you for your sins: and therefore take heed that you do not provoke him by your obstinate infidelity, lest he cast you off for ever. s They are, or have been, taken in snares made by their own hands, and by God's just judgment delivered into the hands of their enemies, and by them cast into Pits or Dungeons and Prisons. t None afford them either pity or help in their extremities.

23 Who among you will give ear to this? who will hearken and hear † for the time to come u? † Heb. for the time to come.

u O that you would learn from your former and dear-bought experiences to be wiser for the future, and not to provoke God to your own total and final ruine.

24 Who gave Jacob for a spoil, and Israel to the robbers? did not the LORD x, he against whom we have sinned? for they would not walk in his wayes, neither were they obedient unto his law.

x Do not flatter your selves with a conceit of impunity, because you are a people whom God hath favoured and endowed with many, and great priviledges, which the Jews were very prone to do, as we see, Jer. 7. 4, &c. and elsewhere; for as God hath punished you formerly, doubt not, but if you continue to sin, he will proceed in punishing you more and more for your sins.

25 Therefore he hath poured upon him the fury of his anger, and the strength of battel y: and it hath set him on fire round about, yet he knew not z; and it burned him, yet he laid it not to heart.

y Most grievous Judgments. z They were secure and stupid under God's Judgments, neither fearing them when threatned, nor truly sensible of God's hand in them, and of the causes of God's displeasure against them, and of the means of cure.

CHAP. XLIII.

Promises to protect and enlarge the Church, 1, — 5. God appealeth to them as witnesses of his power and knowledge, 6, — 13. He foretelleth them the destruction of Babylon: and a new deliverance of his people, 14, — 21. whose sins, 22, — 24. against God's mercies render them inexcusable, 25, — 28.

BUt now thus saith the LORD a that created thee b, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee c, I have called thee by thy name d, thou art mine.

a But notwithstanding thy gross insensibleness under former judgments, for which I might justly send far heavier ones upon thee, yet I will deal mercifully with thee. b That made thee his people, and that in so miraculous a manner, as if he had created thee a second time out of nothing; and therefore he will be gracious to his own workmanship. c From the Egyptians, and divers other enemies; and therefore I will redeem thee again. d By the name of God's People, which was as proper and peculiar to them, as the name of Israel.

Psal. 66. 6. 2 When thou * passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee e.

e Though I will chastise thee for thy sins, yet I will not suffer thine enemies utterly to destroy thee, Compare, Jer. 30. 11.

3 For I am the LORD thy God, the holy One of Israel, thy saviour: I gave Egypt for thy ransom f, Ethiopia and Seba g for thee.

f This was fulfilled either, 1. When God smote the Egyptians, both first-born and others in Egypt; and drowned Pharaoh, and his Host in the Red Sea, for the safety and benefit of his people; Or, 2. When the King of Assyria, either Sennacherib, as many think, or rather Esar-haddon, who designed to revenge his Fathers disgrace, and losse before Jerusalem, upon the Jews, but was diverted and directed by God to employ his Forces against Egypt, and Ethiopia, and Seba, as it follows. See the Notes upon Isa. 20. 1, &c. g The Sabaans who were confederate with the Ethiopians, or Cushites.

4 Since thou wast precious in my sight, thou hast been honourable, and I have loved thee h; therefore will I give men for thee i, and people for thy † life. ‖ Or, per sons. † Heb. soul.

h So the sense is, from that time that I chose thee for my precious and peculiar treasure and People, I have had a great esteem and affection for thee. But the words may well be, and by some are rendred thus, since that (or, For that: or, Because) Thou wast precious in my sight, thou wast honourable, (the same thing repeated in other words.) and I love thee. i As I did give up the Egyptians, so I am ready to give up others to save thee, as occasion requires.

5 * Fear not, for I am with thee; I will bring thy seed from the east, and gather thee from the west k. * Chap. 44. 1, 2. Jer. 30. 10. & 46. 27.

k Although the Jews shall for their sins be carried captives out of their own Land Northward and Eastward into Babylon, and the adjacent Countries, and others of them shall flee Southward and Westward, and shall there pine away in their iniquities, as I threatned; yet their posterity I will bring back into Canaan, from all the places where they are dispersed.

6 I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, keep not back; bring my sons m from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth.

l Thou who hast so long had and held my people in Bondage, resign them to me, and permit them to return to their own Land. He speaks either to the Countries themselves by a Prosopopœia: Or, to the Inhabitants of them. m Do not only permit but assist and further their return.

7 Even every one that is called by my name n: for * I have created him for my glory o, I have formed him, yea, I have made him p. * Psal. 100. 3. Chap. 29. 23. Joh. 3. 4, 5. 2 Cor. 5. 17. Eph. 2. 10.

n They are called by my Name. I own them for my People and Children; and therefore what kindness or cruelty you exercise to them, I take it as done to my self. So it is an argument to move those people to let their Captives go: Or, it is an argument to confirm the faith of God's People, that God would deliver them, because they are his own. o And therefore I will glorifie my Power and Goodness, and Faithfulness in delivering them. p I have not only created them out of nothing, as I did all other people, but I have also formed and made them my peculiar People.

8 Bring forth the blind People that have eyes, and the deaf that have ears q. * Chap. 42. 16. Ezek. 12. 2.

q The sense is either, 1. Bring out of Captivity my People who were blind and deaf, but now have their eyes and ears opened by my grace. So this verse relates to the foregoing passages: Or rather, 2. O ye Idolatrous Gentiles, produce and bring forth your false Gods, which have eyes but see not, and ears but hear not, as is said Psal. 115. 5, 6. So this verse belongs to the following context, in which God reneweth his contest with Idols; which in this verse he calleth blind, and in the next verse proveth them so to be.

9 Let all the Nations be gathered together, and let the people be assembled r: * who among them can declare this s, and shew us former things? let them bring forth their witnesses u, that they may be justified x; or let them hear and say, It is truth y. * Chap. 41. 21, 22.

r To plead the cause of their Idols with me. s This wonderful work of mine in bringing my people out of Captivity, which I have already foretold, and shall further declare; and that so exactly, that I shall name the person by whom this work shall be begun, even Cyrus, who is yet unborn, and shall be so for above 200 years; let any of your Heathen Gods do the like. t Not things already past, but such things as shall happen long before the return from the Captivity, which yet your blind Idols cannot foresee. See on Isa. 41. 22. u Who can testifie the truth and certainty of any such predictions of theirs. x That they may be owned for true Gods, which in that case I allow them to expect. But of this argument see on Isa. 41. 22, 23. y Or if they can produce no evidence of any such thing, as I am well assured that they cannot, let them be silent, and hear me and my witnesses, as it follows in the next verse; and let them confess, that what I say is truth, that I only am the true God, and that they are but vanity and falshood.

10 Ye are my witnesses z, saith the LORD, and my servant whom I have chosen a: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he b: * before me there was ‖ no God formed, neither shall there be after me c. * Chap. 41. 4. & 44. 8. ‖ Or, nothing formed of God.

z They can produce no witnesses for themselves, but you my people are able to witness for me, that I have given you many plain demonstrations of my certain foreknowledge of future events, by my predictions and promises delivered to you from time to time. a Either, 1. Isaiah, and other Prophets, the singular word being put Collectively: Or, 2. Cyrus, who is an eminent instance and proof of God's foreknowledge: Or, 3. the Messiah, as not only Christians but even the Chaldee Paraphrast understands it; who is called by this very title, Isa. 42. 1. who also is the most eminent witness in this cause; and that both passively, as he and the time and

and place, and other circumſtances of his birth, and life, and death were particularly foretold by God in Scripture; and actively, as many future things were foretold by Chriſt, of which we have many examples in the New Teſtament. b He of whom the preſent diſpute is, or he whom I have affirmed my ſelf to be. That I only am that true God whom we are now ſeeking in this debate. c The Gods of the Heathens neither had a being before me nor ſhall continue after me. Wherein more is underſtood than is expreſſed, That whereas the Lord is God from everlaſting to everlaſting, theſe falſe pretenders to the Deity are but of yeſterday, and ſhall ſhortly be abolished. And withal he calleth them Formed Gods, in way of contempt, and to ſhew the ridiculouſneſs of their pretence to the Divinity, which are formed by the hands of Men.

* Chap. 45. 21. Hoſ. 13. 4. 11 I, even I * am the LORD, and beſides me there is no ſaviour d.

d That can and doth ſave his Worſhippers; Whereby he implies, that the falſe Gods were not only weak and unable to ſave their People, but alſo were the deſtroyers of their People, as being the great cauſe of their ruine.

* Deut. 32. 12. 12 I have declared, and have ſaved e, and I have ſhewed f, * when there was no ſtrange god among you g: therefore ye are my witneſſes, ſaith the LORD, that I am God.

e I firſt foretold your deliverance, and then effected it. f I foretold it. This branch he repeated, becauſe this is the principal argument uſed here, and Chapter 41. to determine this controverſie between God and Idols. g And this I did when you did not worſhip any Idols, and therefore it could not be pretended that you had this knowledge from them.

† Heb. from the day. † Heb. turn it back. * Job 9. 12. Chap. 14. 27. & 45. 10. 13 Yea, † before the day was h, I am he, i, and there is none k that can deliver out of my hand; l: I will work, and who ſhall † * let it m.

h Before all time: Or, which is all one, from all eternity: Or, Since the day was, ſince the Beginning of time and things, in all ages ſince the creation of the world, i I am God, and I have proved my ſelf to be ſo. k None of thoſe which are called Gods. l That can ſave them whom I will deſtroy. Therefore they are impotent, and conſequently no Gods. m Nor can they hinder me in any other work which I reſolve to do.

n I have ſent Cyrus, and the Medes and Perſians with him to war againſt Babylon, to this very end and purpoſe, that he might deliver you out of Captivity, and reſtore you to your Land according to promiſe. o From that height of Power and glory to which they were advanced. p Their Princes and great Commanders, who as they are called Shields, Pſal. 47. 9. So here they are called Bars, for the ſame reaſon, becauſe of that ſtrength and defence which they give to their People. q The common People of Chaldea, together with their great men who had Palaces in Babylon. r Who make fearful outcries, as they flee away from the Perſians in Ships; which they had opportunity to do, becauſe of their two great and famous Rivers, Euphrates and Tigris, and the ſeveral branches of them.

15 I am the LORD, your holy One s, the creator of Iſrael, your king.

s The holy One of Iſrael, as he frequently ſtileth himſelf, who ſanctifie and glorifie my ſelf in this and ſuch other glorious Works, with reſpect to you, or for your benefit.

* Ex. 14. 22 Ch. 51. 10. * Joſh. 3. 17. 16 Thus ſaith the LORD, which * maketh a way in the Sea, and a * path in the mighty waters t:

t Who as he formerly made a path-way for his people through the Red Sea, ſo he will in no leſs wonderful manner remove all impediments or difficulties out of the way of his people, when they return from Babylon.

17 Which bringeth forth the chariot and horſe, the army and the power u; they ſhall lie down together, they ſhall not riſe x: they are extinct, they are quenched as tow y.

u Or rather, Who brought forth the Chariots, &c. i. e. Pharaoh and his Chariots and Horſes, and Army: as may be gathered from the next verſe, where the things here mentioned are called former things and things of old. x Or, they did lie down together (to wit, in the bottom of the Sea,) they did not riſe; they ſank like lead, as it is ſaid, Exod. 15. 10. and they never roſe again to moleſt the Iſraelites, as God promiſed, Exod. 14. 13. Theſe two Hebrew Verbs are of the future tenſe, but that ſeems to be put for the preter-tenſe, becauſe the two following Verbs, which treat of the ſame thing, and are added to explain theſe, are of the preter-tenſe. y As the wiecke of a Candle when it is put into the Water is wholly extinguiſhed, and not the leaſt ſpark of fire left, ſo were they utterly deſtroyed, and not one of them remained.

z But although your former deliverance out of Egypt was in it ſelf a moſt glorious work, which you ought always to remember and conſider, yet this other work of your deliverance out of Babylon by Cyrus, and thoſe bleſſings which ſhall follow upon it, and particularly that ineſtimable mercy of ſending the Meſſiah, ſhall be ſo tranſcendent a favour, that in compariſon thereof, all your former deliverances are ſcarce worthy of your remembrance and conſideration. Which expoſition is confirmed by two parallel texts, Jer. 16. 14, 15. & 23. 7, 8. From all which texts laid together it appears, that this later deliverance, compared with that out of Egypt, is not to be confined to their freedom from the Babyloniſh Captivity, but to be extended to the conſequences of it, and eſpecially to the Redemption by Chriſt; becauſe otherwiſe that Egyptian deliverance, was more glorious and wonderful in many reſpects, than the Babylonian.

19 Behold, I will do a * new thing a: now b it ſhall ſpring forth, ſhall ye not know it? I will even make * a way in the wilderneſs, and rivers in the deſert d.

* Ch. 42. 9. & 48. 6. * Chap. 35. 8. a Such a work as was never yet done in the World, even the Redemption of the World by the Meſſiah. b Shortly although it was not to be done till after ſome hundreds of years. For ſo the Scripture oft ſpeaketh of things at a great diſtance of time, as if they were now at hand, as Hagg. 2. 6. Jam. 5. 9. Rev. 22. 20. and elſewhere, which it doth to correct our impatience, and to make us willing to wait till God's time come; and to aſſure us that the mercy ſhall come as ſoon as ever it is fit for us, and we for it; and to make us ſenſible of the inconſiderableneſs of time, and all temporal things in compariſon of God, and of the eternal things; upon which account it is ſaid that a thouſand years are in God's ſight but as one day, Pſal. 90. 4. c Certainly you Jews ſhall know it by experience, and ſhall find that I do not deceive you with vain hopes. d I will give you direction and proviſion in the Wilderneſs, where there is commonly no path, and where all neceſſaries are wanting: Which as it literally ſpeaks of God's conducting them in the way from Babylon to Jeruſalem, which lay through a great deſert; ſo it is myſtically meant of thoſe ſpiritual bleſſings, which God in and through Chriſt will confer upon all his people, not the Jews only, but alſo the Gentiles, who in Prophetical Language are oft compared to the Wilderneſs, as Iſa. 35. 1. and elſewhere.

20 The beaſt of the field ſhall honour me c, the dragons f and the ‖ † owls: becauſe I give waters in the wilderneſs, and rivers in the deſert, to give drink to my people g, my choſen.

c Shall have cauſe, if they had abilities, to honour and praiſe me for their ſhare in this mercy. Poſſibly the beaſt of the field may myſtically ſignifie the Gentiles, whom the Jews reputed as Beaſts, and who were as deſtitute of all ſaving knowledge, as the Beaſts which periſh, yet ſhould become the Lord's People, as they ſeem to be called, ver. 21. f Which live in dry and barren deſerts, and are very thirſty, and therefore more ſenſible of this mercy. g To whom theſe waters were principally deſigned, for the beaſts fared better for their ſakes. Thus Chriſt was primarily ſent to the loſt Sheep of Iſrael, Mat. 15. 24. yet the Gentiles there compared to Dogs, fared better for the Children, picking up ſome crumbs of their bread; and the Jews generally rejecting Chriſt, the Gentiles came in their ſtead.

21 * This people h have I formed for my ſelf, * they ſhall ſhew forth my praiſe i.

h My People, as he now called them, ver. 20. conſiſting in part of the Jews, but eſpecially of the Gentiles. i I have created as it were out of nothing, I have called them into my Church, that I might have glory and praiſe from them for ſo ſtupendious a mercy.

22 But k thou haſt not called upon me l, O Jacob, but thou haſt been weary of me, m O Iſrael.

k Or, For, as this conjunction is oft uſed. So this may be added as a reaſon, why God called the Gentiles to be his People, becauſe the Jews forſook him. l Thou haſt groſly neglected or very ſlightly performed the duties of my worſhip. m Thou haſt not eſteemed my ſervice to be a priviledge, as in truth it is, but as a burden and bondage. Compare Mal. 1. 13.

n Either, 1. Becauſe thou didſt not offer thy Sacrifices to me but to Idols. Or rather, 2. becauſe what thou didſt offer, was not done to me, not for my ſake, not from a principle of love and obedience to me, not to pleaſe and honour me with it, but meerly for thine own ends. Which interpretation ſeems to be favoured by the following clauſe, and by comparing this with Zech. 7. 5, 6. Did ye faſt unto me, even to me? And when ye did eat—did ye not eat for your ſelves? o Becauſe thou didſt either neglect this work of Sacrificing to me; or didſt perform it meerly out of cuſtome or ill deſign, and not with a purpoſe to pleaſe and glorifie me; or didſt diſhonour me, and pollute thy Sacrifices by thy wicked courſe of life. p So the ſenſe may be this; I did not require theſe weariſome ſervices of thee, to wit, upon theſe terms, or to be offered in ſuch a manner, as God ſpeaks, Iſa. 1. 11, 12, 13. But the words may very well be rendred, although I did not cauſe thee to ſerve with Offerings, nor weary thee with Incenſe: the Particle Although, being here underſtood, as it is in many other places, as hath been formerly noted. And ſo this is an aggravation of their former ſin, of being weary of, and negligent in his ſervice; although God hath not laid ſuch heavy burthens upon them, nor required ſuch hard ſervices or coſtly offerings from them, as might give them cauſe to be weary, nor ſuch as Idolaters did freely and greedily perform in the ſervice of their Idols.

† Heb. made me drunk, or abundantly miſſitted. * Mal. 2. 17. 24 Thou haſt bought me no ſweet cane q with money, neither haſt thou † filled me with the fat of thy ſacrifices r, but thou haſt made me to ſerve with thy ſins s, thou haſt * wearied me with thine iniquities.

q Or, Calamus, as this word is rendred, Exod. 30. 23. which was uſed in the making of that precious Ointment, Exod, 30. 34. and as a perfume, or for the Incenſe, Exod. 30. 7. See Jer. 6. 20. The meaning of this clauſe ſeems to be this, Thou haſt been niggardly in my ſervice, when thou haſt ſpared for no coſt in the ſervice of thine Idols, as is elſewhere noted. r Thou haſt offered no more Sacrifices than were ſimply neceſſary, thou haſt not multiplied thy thank offerings and free-will offerings, though I have given thee ſufficient occaſion to do ſo. s Thou haſt made me to bear the load and burden of thy ſins, which are very grievous and oppreſſive to me, Amos 2. 13. and great exercies of my patience. Yea thou haſt made it neceſſary for me, to take upon me the form of a Servant, that I might bear and carry away thy ſins. This clauſe and that which follows are oppoſed to, and aggravated by what he ſaid, ver. 23. I did not make thee to ſerve or weary thee with offerings, though that work was honourable and beneficial to thee, as well as conducing to my ſervice; but thou haſt made me to ſerve in the vileſt manner, with ſuch things as are not only offenſive to me, but alſo pernicious to thee.

25 I, even I t am he that * blotteth out u thy tranſgreſſions for mine own ſake x, and will not remember thy ſins y.

t I whom thou haſt thus deſpiſed, and wearied and provoked to deſtroy thee. u Out of my book in which they were all written, and to be read unto thee, and charged upon thee another day. See Jer. 17. 1. Rev. 20. 12. Sins are oft compared to debts, Mat. 6. 12, 14, &c. which are written in the creditors Book, and croſſed or blotted out when they are paid, x Being moved thereunto not by thy merits, but by my own meer goodneſs and free mercy, y So as to puniſh them and deſtroy thee for them, as thou deſerveſt.

26 Put me in remembrance z: * let us plead together: declare thou, that thou mayeſt be juſtified.

z I remember nothing by which thou haſt deſerved my favour and the pardon of thy ſins; if thou knoweſt any ſuch thing, bring it to my mind, I allow thee free liberty to plead with me, as it follows, and if thou haſt right on thy ſide, I will juſtifie thee. It is an ironical ſpeech, whereby he inſulteth over thoſe, who were puffed up with an opinion of their own innocency, and merit; which was the caſe of many Jews, as this and other Prophets have oft obſerved.

27 Thy firſt * father a hath ſinned; and thy † teachers b have tranſgreſſed againſt me.

a Either, 1. Adam, from whom the guilt and filth of ſin is propagated to thee: Or rather, 2. Abraham, who might well be called the firſt father of the Iſraelites, becauſe they all deſcended from him, had all their right and title to God's Ordinances and Promiſes, and other ſpecial Priviledges from God's Covenant made with Abraham, and with his Seed, and who is oft emphatically called their Father, as Joſh. 24. 2. Iſa. 51. 2, &c. and the Jews gloried in, and truſted to that relation, which they had to Abraham, as we read Mat. 3. 9. Joh. 8. 33. and elſewhere. And this agrees well with the foregoing context. For having ſufficiently intimated, that they had no merits of their own, he now addeth, that even their Father Abraham, to whoſe merits they truſted, had no merits of his own, nor any occaſion of boaſting, for he alſo was a ſinful man, and hath left ſome inſtances of his failings: Or, the firſt father may be put collectively for their Forefathers; and ſo he tells them, that as they were ſinners, ſo alſo were all their Progenitors, yea even the beſt of them, Abraham and David, and others, for whoſe ſakes they expected to be pardoned and rewarded. And this indeed is uſual with God to upbraid the Iſraelites with the ſins of their Fathers. b Thy Prieſts and Prophets; who were their Interceſſours with God, and who were generally preſumed to be the holieſt part of that people, and therefore if theſe were tranſgreſſours, the People had no reaſon to fancy themſelves to be innocent.

28 Therefore I have profaned c the ‖ princes of the ſanctuary d, and have given Jacob to the curſe e, and Iſrael to reproaches f.

c As they have made themſelves profane, ſo I have dealt with them as ſuch, without any regard to the ſacredneſs and dignity of their functions. I have expoſed them to contempt and deſtruction. d The higheſt and beſt of your Prieſts, whoſe perſons were moſt ſacred, and therefore ſuppoſed by themſelves and others, to be the furtheſt from danger. e To utter deſtruction, to which perſons or things accurſed were devoted, of which this Hebrew word is conſtantly uſed. f To be the Objects of their Enemies ſcorn and reproaches.

CHAP. XLIV.

A further Promiſe of Spiritual Bleſſings: 1,—5. the vanity of Idols, and folly of Idol-makers, and Worſhippers, 7,—20. an Exhortation to praiſe God, 21,—23. our Redeemer and Maker, 24. for his wiſdom, 25, truth, 26. power, 27. and goodneſs, 28.

YEt now hear, * O Jacob my ſervant, and Iſrael whom I have choſen a.

a Although I have Chaſtiſed thee for thy Sins, and had juſt cauſe utterly to Deſtroy thee, yet in judgment I will remember Mercy, and will ſtill own thee for my Servant and choſen People.

2 Thus ſaith the LORD * that made thee, and formed thee from the womb b, which will help thee, Fear not, O Jacob, my ſervant, and thou Jeſurun c, whom I have choſen.

b From the time of thy Birth, or coming out of the Womb. From that time that I firſt took thee to be my People, I have been forming and faſhioning thee, by giving thee Laws, and Ordinances, and Teachers, by threatnings and corrections, and many other ways. He ſeems to allude to the practice of Midwives, who uſe to compoſe all the parts of the new-born Infant into a right frame. c Another name of Jacob or Iſrael, given to him, Deut. 32. 15. and 33. 5, 26.

3 For I will * pour water d upon him that is thirſty e, and floods upon the dry ground: I will pour my ſpirit f upon thy ſeed, and my bleſſing g upon thine offſpring:

d My Spirit and Bleſſing, which is frequently compared to Water; and ſo it is expounded in the latter part of the Verſe. e Either 1. upon him that deſires it. Or rather 2. upon him that is deſtitute of it; For what is here thirſty, in the next Clauſe it is called dry ground. f The gifts and graces of my Spirit: Whichexpreſſion he ſeems defignedly to uſe, to lift up the minds and hearts of the Jews from carnal and worldly Things, to which they were too much addicted, unto ſpiritual and heavenly Bleſſings, and thereby to prepare them for the better entertainment of the Goſpel. g All the Bleſſings of my Covenant, both Spiritual and Temporal.

4 And they ſhall ſpring up as among the graſs h, as willows by the water-courſes.

h They ſhall increaſe and flouriſh like Graſs, and thoſe Herbs and Plants which grow up in the midſt of it.

5 One ſhall ſay, I am the LORDS: and another ſhall ‖ call himſelf by the name of Jacob: and another ſhall ſubſcribe with his hand unto the LORD, and ‖ ſirname himſelf by the name of Iſrael i.

i The Bleſſing of God upon the Jews ſhall be ſo remarkable, that the Gentiles ſhall joyn themſelves unto them, and accept the Lord for their God, and own themſelves for his People.

6 Thus ſaith the LORD h the king of Iſrael, and his redeemer the LORD of hoſts, * I am the firſt, and I am the laſt, and beſides me there is no God.

* Chap. 41. 4. & 48. 12. Rev. 1. 8, 17, & 22. 13. k Here God reneweth his Conteſt with Idols: which he inſiſteth upon ſo oft, and ſo much, becauſe his own People were exceeding prone to Idolatry.

7 And who l, as I, ſhall call, and ſhall * declare m it n, and ſet it in order o for me p, ſince I appointed the ancient people q? and the things that are coming, and ſhall come r? let them ſhew unto them s.

* Chap. 41. 22. & 45. 21. l Which of all the heathen Gods. m Shall by his powerful Call or Word cauſe it to be, and by his infinite fore-Knowledge declare that it ſhall be. Or, Shall publiſh and declare: Two words expreſſing the ſame thing, as is uſual. n That which ſhall come to paſs, whatſoever it be; which is eaſily underſtood out of the following Clauſe. o Orderly relate all future Events in the ſame manner as they ſhall happen. p Heb. to me, ſo as I may hear it, and thereby be convinced of their Divinity. q Since the time that I appointed or called the Iſraelites to be my People, whom he calleth the ancient People, becauſe they were his People long before this time; or, as the Words may be rendred, the everlaſting People, becauſe he determined, That he would never totally and finally caſt them off and deſtroy them, as he would do other Nations. But the Words are, and may well be otherwiſe rendred, Since I Conſtituted or made (as this Word is elſewhere rendred) The people of the world; ſince I firſt made Man upon Earth, as the Seventy and others underſtand it. Let them give me an account of any of their Predictions of future Events from the beginning of the World to this day. r Such things as are near at hand, and ſuch as are to come hereafter. s Unto their Worſhippers, who conſult their Oracles about future Events, as I have told them unto thee, O Jacob, as it follows in the next Verſe. So the Pronoun Relative is put for the Antecedent, which is left to be underſtood out of the following Clauſe. Or, to or for themſelves, in their own defence. Although theſe Words might have been omitted in the Tranſlation, as being inſignificant, ſuch Pronouns being oft redundant in the Hebrew Language, as Gen. 12. 1. and oft elſewhere, as alſo in the Greek and Latine.

8 Fear ye not, neither be afraid: have not I told thee t from that time u, and have declared it x? * ye are even my witneſſes y. Is there a God beſides me z? yea, * there is no † God, I know not any a.

* Ch. 43. 10. * Deut. 4. 35, 39. & 32. 39. † Heb. rock. 1 Sam. 2. 2. Ch. 45. 5. Deut. 32. 4. t Thee, O Iſrael, whom he bids not to fear. The Senſe is, I call you Iſraelites to bear me Witneſs, whether I have not, from time to time, acquainted you with things to come, ſuch as your Sojourning in a ſtrange Land for Four Hundred Years, and your deliverance and happineſs after that time, Gen. 15. 13, 14. and many things of the like nature? u From the time when I appointed the ancient people, as I now ſaid, ver. 7. Theſe were pregnant Inſtances of God's Prediction of things to come, not only from the beginning of the Jewiſh Common-wealth; but even from the firſt Ages of the World, as unto Enoch, Jude ver. 14. and unto Noah, Gen. 6. 3. To ſay nothing of what other Authors relate concerning Adam and Seth. x Have publiſhed it to the World in my Sacred Records. y Both of my Predictions, and of the exact agreeableneſs of Events to them. z Judge by this Character, whether I be not the only true God. a If any of you be wiſer than I am, I am willing to be informed. It is a ſarcaſtical Speech. But this Clauſe may be, and is, by others taken interrogatively, do not I know it? Is it not a certain and undeniable Truth, that there is no other God?

9 They that make a graven image are all of them vanity b, and their † deſectable things c ſhall not

* *Pſal.*115. 4, &c. profit, and they are their own witneſſes d, * they ſee not, nor know e; that they may be aſhamed f.

d Hereby diſcover themſelves to be vain, empty, or fooliſh Men. Or thus, They that make graven images, all of them make (which Word may fitly be repeated out of the foregoing Clauſe, as is very uſual in Scripture) a vanity or a thing of nought. Which Tranſlation ſeems better to agree, 1. With the following Clauſe, which is added to explain this, in which, not the Idol-makers, but the Idols themſelves, are ſaid to be vain or unprofitable. 2. With the uſe of the Hebrew Word in Scripture, which is never applied to Perſons, but conſtantly to Things, and ſometimes to Idols, as 1 Sam. 12. 21. e Their Idols, in the ſight and worſhip of which, they take ſo much Pleaſure. d They that make them, are Witneſſes againſt themſelves, and againſt their Idols, becauſe they very well know, That they are not God's, but the work of their own Hands, in which there is nothing but mean matter and Man's Art. e Or, that they (to wit, their Idols) do not ſee nor know, have neither Senſe nor Underſtanding. f Therefore they have juſt Cauſe to be aſhamed of their Folly and Stupidity, in worſhipping ſuch ſenſeleſs Things.

10 Who hath formed a god, or molten a graven
* *Hab.*2.18. image that is * profitable for nothing g?

g What Man in his Wits can eſteem That a god which his own Hands have formed; or melt a Graven Image (underſtand out of the former Clauſe, to be his God) which is profitable for nothing? He ſpeaks of melting a graven image, becauſe the Image was firſt molten and caſt in a Mould, and then poliſhed and graven with a Tool, as was obſerved before. Or thus, Who art thou, O Man, that formeſt a god, or meltеſt a graven image to worſhip it, which is profitable for nothing? Come hither and let me reaſon the Caſe with thee. Which he doth in the following Verſes: So this Verſe is a kind of Summons to Idolaters, to come and plead their own Cauſe.

* *Pſal.*97.7. *Chap.*1.29. & 42.17. & 45.16. 11 Behold, all his fellows h ſhall be * aſhamed: and the work-men, they are of men i: let them all be gathered together, let them ſtand up; yet they ſhall fear, and they ſhall be aſhamed together k.

h Either 1. the Workmen, as it follows, who in this Work are Companions or Partners with him, by whoſe coſt and command the Work is done. Or 2. thoſe who any way aſſiſt and encourage him in this Work, and joyn with him in worſhipping the Image which he maketh. i They are of Mankind, and therefore cannot poſſibly make a god. Or, They are of the meaneſt ſort of Men; for ſo the Hebrew Word, Adam, ſometimes ſignifies. k Though all combine together, and ſtand up with all their might to maintain the Cauſe of their falſe gods, they ſhall be filled with Fear and Confuſion, when God ſhall plead his Cauſe againſt them.

* Chap. 40. 19. & 41. 6. *Jer.*10.3. ‖ Or, with an axe. 12 * The ſmith ‖ with the tongs both worketh in the coals, and faſhioneth it with hammers l, and worketh it with the ſtrength of his arms: yea, he is hungry, and his ſtrength faileth; he drinketh no water, and is faint m.

l Firſt he makes the Metal ſoft and pliable, by putting it among burning Coals, and then he taketh it out, and beateth it into what form he pleaſeth. It muſt be here noted, That ſome of theſe Images were made of Braſs and Iron, as others were of Gold and Silver, Dan. 5. 4. m This is mentioned; Either 1. as an Argument of the vanity of Idols, which cannot relieve their poor Workmen, when they are ready to faint away through Hunger, and Thirſt, and Wearineſs. Or, 2. as an evidence of great Zeal, and induſtry in carrying on this Work; ſo that they forget or neglect to eat and drink when their neceſſities require it. This I preferr, 1. Becauſe it ſuits beſt with the next foregoing Clauſe, He worketh with the ſtrength of his arms, i. e. fervently, and putting forth all his might in the Work. 2. Becauſe the Prophet in this, and in the next following Verſes, is only deſcribing the mechanical part, or the matter of Images, and the art and labour of the Workmen in making them; and afterwards proceeds to the Theological conſideration of the thing, and the confutation of theſe Practices, as we ſhall ſee.

13 The Carpenter n ſtretcheth out his rule: he marketh it with a line o: he fitteth it with planes, and he marketh it out with a compaſs, and maketh it after the figure of a man, according to the beauty of a man p; that it may remain q in the houſe r.

n He here ſpeaks; Either 1. of the ſame Image, which is ſuppoſed to be made of Wood, and then covered with ſome Metal: Or, 2. of another ſort of Images made of Wood, as the former might be made of Iron. It is not material which way you underſtand it. o He meaſureth and marketh that portion of Wood by his Rule and Line, of which the Idol is to be made. p In the ſame comely Shape and Proportions which are in a Living Man, whom he deſigns to repreſent as exactly as is poſſible. q Or ſit or dwell. Which implies, Either 1. that it cannot ſtir out of its place: Or, 2. that when the Image is made, it is ſet up and fixed in its appointed place. r Either in the Temple appointed for it: Or in the dwelling Houſe of him that made it; that he and his Family might more frequently give Worſhip to it, and might receive Protection from it, as Idolaters vainly imagined.

14 He heweth him down cedars, and taketh the ‖ Or, taketh courage. cypreſs and the oak s, which he ‖ ſtrengthneth for himſelf among the trees of the forreſt t: he planteth an aſh, and the rain doth nouriſh it.

s Which afford the beſt and moſt durable Timber. t The Senſe of the Words thus rendred, it, That he planteth, and with care and diligence improveth thoſe Trees, among and above all the Trees of the Forreſt, that he or his Poſterity may thence have Materials for their Images, and thoſe things which belong to them. And this Senſe ſeems to be favoured by the following Clauſe, wherein it is ſaid, He planteth an Aſh for this very reaſon: Or the Senſe may be this, Which he ſuffers to grow to greater ſtrength and largeneſs, than other Trees of the Forreſt, that they may be better and fitter for his uſe. Heb. And he ſtrengtheneth himſelf, &c. And he uſeth all his ſtrength among the Trees of the Forreſt, in planting ſuch as are proper for this end; in walking hither and thither to ſurvey which is the beſt of them; in hewing them down, and in other things relating to them.

15 Then ſhall it be for a man to burn: for he will take thereof and warm himſelf: yea, he kindleth it, and baketh bread; yea, he maketh a god; and worſhippeth it; he maketh a graven image, and falleth down thereto u.

u Having related the practices of Idolaters, he now diſcovers the vanity and folly of them, that he maketh his fire and his god of the ſame Materials, diſtinguiſhed only by the Art of Man.

16 He burneth part thereof in the fire: with part thereof he eateth fleſh x: he roſteth roſt, and is ſatisfied; yea, he warmeth himſelf, and ſaith, Aha, I am warm, I have ſeen the fire y.

17 And the reſidue thereof he maketh a god, even his graven image: he falleth down unto it, and worſhippeth it, and prayeth unto it, and ſaith, Deliver me, for thou art my god.

x He dreſſeth Fleſh for his eating. y I have felt the warmth of it. Seeing is oft put for other Senſes, as Feeling, Hearing, &c. as hath been oft obſerved before.

18 * They have not known, nor underſtood z; * Chap. for he a hath † ſhut their eyes, that they cannot ſee; 20. † Heb. daubed. and their hearts, that they cannot underſtand.

z This theweth, That they want common diſcretion, and have not the underſtanding of a Man in them. a To wit, God; who is eaſily underſtood, and is oft expreſſed by this pronoun, He; and to whom this very act is frequently aſcribed in other places of Scripture: And therefore Men need not to be ſhy in aſcribing it to God here. Which yet is to be ſoberly underſtood; not as if God did make Men wicked, but only permits them ſo to be, and orders, and over-rules their Wickedneſs to his own glorious Ends. And ſuch paſſages as theſe are added in ſuch caſes, to give an account of the prodigious madneſs of Sinners herein; becauſe, as they wilfully ſhut their own Eyes, and harden their own Hearts, ſo God judicially blinds and hardens them, and ſends ſtrong Deluſions upon them, and gives them up to believe Lies, and then it is no wonder if they fall into ſuch dotages.

19 And none † conſidereth in his heart b, neither † Heb. is there knowledge nor underſtanding to ſay, I have return to his heart. burnt part of it in the fire, yea, alſo I have baked bread upon the coals thereof: I have roſted fleſh and eaten it, and ſhall I make the reſidue thereof an abomination? ſhall I fall down to † the ſtock of a tree? † Heb. the block of a tree.

b Whereby he implies, That the true Cauſe of this, as well as of other abſurd and bruitiſh practices of Sinners, is the neglect of ſerious and impartial Conſideration of things.

20 He feedeth of aſhes c: * a deceived heart d * *Hoſ.*4.12. hath turned him aſide e, that he cannot deliver his ſoul f, nor ſay, Is there not a lie in ‖ my right hand g? ‖ Or, a c Which is an unſavoury, unprofitable, and pernicious Food, and no leſs unſatisfying, uncomfortable, and miſchievous is the worſhip of Idols. d A Mind corrupted and deceived by long cuſtom, deep prejudice, groſs errour, and eſpecially by his own Luſts. e From the way of Truth, from the knowledge and worſhip of the true God, unto this brutiſh Idolatry. f From the ſnares and dangers of Idolatry. This cannot is to be underſtood morally, ſo as to note the great difficulty, but not the utter impoſſibility of it; for if Idolaters would conſider things, they might be convinced of, and turned from that groſs way of Wickedneſs, as is implied from the foregoing Verſe. g What is this Idol, which I have made with my right Hand, i. e. with all my ſtrength, as was ſaid before; the right Hand being the ſtrongeſt, and the chief inſtrument of this and other actions; which I ſet at my right Hand, as the true God is ſaid in Scripture to be at the right hand of his People, Pſal. 16. 8. & 109. 31. & 121. 5. Which I highly honour, for the moſt honourable place was on the right Hand, as is known; to which, I look and truſt for relief and aſſiſtance, which God in Scripture is ſaid to afford to his People, by being at and holding of their right hand, Pſal. 73. 23. & 110. 5. What, I ſay, is this Idol? Is it not a lie, which though it ſeems and pretends to be ſomething, and to be a god, yet in truth is nothing but vanity and falſhood, deceiving all that put their truſt in it?

21 Remember theſe h, O Jacob and Iſrael; for thou art my ſervant; I have formed thee, thou art my ſervant: O Iſrael, thou ſhalt not be forgotten of me i?

h Either theſe Men: Or, which comes to one, theſe things, the deep ignorance and ſtupidity of Idolaters; which may be a warning to thee. i I will not forget nor forſake thee; and therefore thou ſhalt have no need of Idols: Or, as the ancient Interpreters and divers others render it, do not forget me; what I am, and what I have done, and can and will do for Thee; the forgetting whereof is the ready way to Idolatry.

22 I have blotted out as a thick cloud k, thy tranſgreſſions, and as a cloud, thy ſins: return l unto me, for I have redeemed thee m.

k As the Sun commonly diſſolveth, or the Wind ſcattereth the thickeſt and blackeſt Cloud, ſo as there is no remnant, nor appearance of it left. l From thine Idolatry, and other wicked practices. m Therefore thou art mine, and obliged to return and adhere to me.

*Pſal.*96. Iſa. 42. & 49. & 52. 9. 23 * Sing, O ye heavens: for the LORD hath done it: ſhout ye lower parts of the earth: break forth into ſinging ye mountains, O forreſt, and every tree therein n: for the LORD hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified himſelf in Iſrael.

n By ſuch invitations to the ſenſeleſs Creatures to praiſe God with and for his People, he ſignifies the tranſcendent greatneſs of this Mercy and Deliverance, ſufficient to make even the Stones, if it were poſſible, to break forth into God's praiſes; and withal, that as the brute Creatures were Sufferers by Man's fall, ſo they ſhould receive benefit by Man's Redemption.

*Iſa.*41. 8. 44. 2. 24 Thus ſaith the LORD thy redeemer, and * he that formed thee from the womb o, I am the LORD, that maketh all things, * that ſtretcheth forth the heavens alone, that ſpreadeth abroad the earth by my ſelf p:

o Of which Phraſe ſee above on ver. 2. p And therefore I can ſave thee without the help of any other gods or men.

25 That fruſtrateth the tokens of the liars q, and maketh diviners mad r; that turneth wiſe men backward s, and maketh their knowledge fooliſh:

q Of the Magicians, and Aſtrologers, and Sorcerers, who were numerous, and greatly employed and eſteemed in Babylon, *Iſa.*47. 12, 13. Dan. 2. 2, 48. and who had forctold the long continuance and proſperity of the Chaldæan Empire. But, ſaith God, I will confute their tokens or predictions, and prove them to be Liars. r With grief for the diſappointment of their hopes and predictions, and their diſgrace and loſs which followed it. s Stopping their way, thwarting and blaſting their deſigns, ſo as they can proceed no further, but are forced to retreat and take new Counſels, and giving them up to ſuch counſels and courſes, as are fooliſh and pernicious to themſelves.

26 That confirmeth the word of his ſervant t, and performeth the counſel of his meſſengers; that ſaith to Jeruſalem, Thou ſhalt be inhabited, and to the cities of Judah, Ye ſhall be built, and I will raiſe up the † decayed places thereof. † Heb. waſte.

t Of his Servants, the Prophets, as appears from the next Clauſe, which anſwers to this, where he uſeth the plural number, his Meſſengers; Iſaiah and other Prophets, whom God ſent upon this Errand, to foretell the deſtruction of Babylon, and the redemption of his People.

*Chap.*42.24. 27 That ſaith * to the deep, Be dry, and I will dry up thy rivers u.

u That with a word can and will dry up the Sea (which in Scripture is very frequently called the deep, as Pſal. 107. 24. Iſa. 63. 13. Jonah 2. 3, &c.) and Rivers, and remove all impediments, and make the Way plain, that my People may return. Some think theſe words relate to that ſtratagem of Cyrus, whereby he diverted, and in a great meaſure dryed up the River Euphrates, and made it paſſable for his Army. But he ſeems rather to allude to that great Action of God's drying up the Red-Sea and Jordan, to give paſſage to the Iſraelites.

*Chap.*36. Jeſalem, * Thou ſhalt be built; and to the Temple, Thy foundation ſhall be laid. 28 That ſaith of Cyrus x, He is my ſhepherd y, and ſhall perform all my pleaſure z, even ſaying to Jeruſalem, * Thou ſhalt be built; and to the Temple, Thy foundation ſhall be laid.

x Whom God here deſigneth by his proper Name, Two Hundred Years before he was born, that this might be an undeniable Evidence of the certainty and exactneſs of God's fore-knowledge, and a convincing Argument, and ſo moſt fit to Conclude this Diſpute between God and Idols. y Him will I ſet up to be the Shepherd of my People, to Reſcue them from Wolves or Tyrants, to gather them together, to Rule them gently, and to provide comfortably for them. z All that I command him to do, even to give leave and order, for the rebuilding of the City and Temple of Jeruſalem; as it here follows.

9 Wo unto him that ſtriveth with his maker x: let the potſherd ſtrive with the potſherds of the earth y: * ſhall the clay ſay to him that faſhioneth it, * Chap. 29. What makeſt thou? or thy work z, He hath no Hands a? 16. *Jer.*18. 6. Rom. 9. 20.

x This wo is denounced; Either 1. againſt thoſe Jews who hearing this and many other Prophecies, and Promiſes of their deliverance out of Captivity, and yet continuing in Captivity, were ever prone to diſtruſt God, and to murmure at him for puniſhing them ſo grievouſly, and for not making more ſpeed to deliver them. Or 2. againſt the Babylonians, the great oppoſers of Cyrus, and of the deliverance of God's People, whom they were reſolved to keep in Bondage, in ſpight of God and Men. And therefore as God here makes many glorious Promiſes to Cyrus, in order to this Work, ſo he pronounceth a Curſe upon them, who ſhould endeavour to hinder it; and admoniſheth the Babylonians, That they did not only fight againſt Cyrus, a Man like themſelves, but againſt God, the Maker and Governour of the World. For what Nebuchadnezzar ſpoke with reſpect to thoſe three Jews, Dan. 3. 15. the Babylonians ſpoke in their Hearts, in reference to the People of the Jews, Who is that God that ſhall deliver you out of my hands? y Contend, if you pleaſe, with your fellow Creatures, but not with your Creator. z He taxeth his Speech to the Potter, of whom he ſpake in the Third Perſon in the foregoing going Clause; such sudden Changes of Persons being usual in Prophetical Writings. a The Potter that made me, had no hands, i. e. no ability or skill to make good Work.

10 Wo unto him that saith unto his Father, What begettest thou? or unto the woman, What hast thou brought forth b?

b As it were an absurd and impudent Thing, for a Child to quarrel with his Parents, either simply for Begetting him, or for Begetting him of this or that Sex, contrary to his desire; no better is it for any Persons to quarrel with God the Maker and Mother of all things, as God is called, 1 Cor. 8. 6. for disposing of Persons and their Affairs, by his Providence, as he sees fit; and otherwise than they desire or expect; as the Jews quarrelled with God, for bringing them into Captivity; and the Babylonians, for Translating the Empire from them to the Persians.

11 Thus saith the LORD, the holy One of Israel, and his maker c; † Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me d.

† Heb. do they ask me of things to come concerning my Sons, and concerning the work of my hands will ye command me?

c Israel's Maker, who not only Created him, as I did all others, but made him a new Creature, and a peculiar People to my self. d The Words thus rendred, contain a concession or permission; and the Sense may be this, Although the Potter doth not give an account to the Clay, nor Parents to their Children; yet I will so far condescend to you, as to ke at your Command in this matter, to give you an account of these great Actions of mine, for which you quarrel with me. As for the Expression, Command ye me, though it seem to be harsh, yet there are instances in Scripture of such wonderful Condescentions, as when it is said, that The Lord will make his People in Heaven to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them, Luk. 12. 17. But the Words seem to be better rendred interrogatively, as they are in the Margent, and by some other Interpreters, Do you, or, will you ask me of things to come concerning my Sons, and concerning the work of mine hands will ye command me? Will you not allow me that Liberty which your selves take, of disposing of my own Children and Works as I see fit? Must I give you an account of these matters? Will you set Bounds to me by your commands, that I shall do this, and not that according to your good pleasure? This is intolerable boldness in you; and yet I am able to give a good account of my Actions. And the Account is given in the following Verse.

12 I have made the earth, and created man upon it e: I, even my hands have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded f.

e They are wholly and solely my Creatures, and therefore absolutely at my disposal. f I have commanded them to be, or made them by my Command, or the Word of my Power: Compare Psal. 148. 5.

13 I have raised him g up in righteousness h, and I will ‖ direct all his ways i: he shall * build my city, and he shall let go my captives, * not for price nor reward k, saith the Lord of hosts.

* 2 Chron. 36. 22, 23. Ezra 1. 1. Chap. 44. 28

g Cyrus, who was named before, ver. 1. h Not in a way of absolute Soveraignty, as I might have done, but most justly, to punish the wicked Babylonians, to plead the Cause of the innocent oppressed Ones, to manifest my own Righteousness, and Truth, and Goodness. i Guide and assist him in all his Travels and Marches, in all his Attempts, and Battels, and Sieges, crowning him with Success in all his undertakings. k Freely without requiring any Ransom for or from them, as is usual in such cases. Such an exact Prediction of these things which depended wholly upon the Mind and Will of Cyrus, is mentioned here, as an infallible Evidence of the certainty of God's foreknowledge, and of his being the only true God; because Idols could discover no such things, at such a distance of time.

14 Thus saith the LORD, The labour of Egypt l, and merchandise of Ethiopia, ‖ and of the Sabeans, men of stature m shall come over unto thee n, and they shall be thine, they shall come after thee, in chains they shall come over o: and they * shall fall down unto thee, and they shall make supplication unto thee p, saying, Surely God is in thee q, and * there is none else, there is no God r.

‖ Or, and the Sabeans, men of stature, so Gr.
* Chap. 60. 14.

l The wealth gotten by their labour. m A tall and strong People, who yet shall use their strength not to oppose thee, but to serve thee, and to bring their labour to thee. n Either, 1. To thee O Cyrus: Because thou wast so generous as to dismiss my people freely, I will give thee another, and a better recompence, even the labour of Egypt, &c. Or, 2. to thee, O my City, or my Captivity or Captive People. For it is not to be neglected, that there are no less than six pronouns in this Verse, all which are of the feminine gender, which seems not to agree to Cyrus. It is true which is objected by the most learned Author of this part of the English Annotations, that the Scripture oft speaks of States and Kingdoms in the feminine gender; but when it speaks of any particular King or Emperour, it constantly speaks of him in the masculine gender, as it doth of Cyrus in this very Chapter, ver. 1. and elsewhere. And thus the Sense of the place seems to be this, Jerusalem shall not only be rebuilt, but the Wealth and Glory of other Countries shall be brought to it again, as it was in former times. Which although it was in part verified in Jerusalem, yet it was much more fully accomplished in the Church of the Gospel, which is oft expressed in Scripture under the name of Jerusalem, and in the Accession of the Gentiles to that Church which began in Jerusalem, and from thence spread it self into all the parts of the World. And this Sense seems best to agree with the latter part of this and with the following Verse, as we shall see. o They shall be taken captive by thee, and willingly submit themselves to thee. Which was accomplished in the Conversion of the Gentiles, whole subjection to God's Church is oft expressed in Scripture under such Metaphors as this; as Psal. 45. 9. and 149. 8, &c. Psal. 68. 18. compared with Eph. 4. 8. p To obtain thy favour and society. q Or, with thee. We plainly discern that God is on thy side, or in the midst of thee; and therefore we desire to joyn our selves with thee. r We are now convinced, that thou art the only true God, and that Idols are vain and empty nothings. Which was but very obscurely fulfilled in Cyrus his time, but was most evidently and eminently accomplished in the days of the Messiah, of whom Cyrus was a Type; as also this deliverance of the Jews from Babylon by Cyrus, was a Type of the Redemption of God's People by Christ.

15 Verily thou art a God s that hidest thy self, O God of Israel the Saviour. Ch. 8.

s These are the words of the Prophet drawn from him by the contemplation of the great and various works and dispensations of God towards his Church, and in the World. t To wit, from thy people for a season: Thy Counsels are deep and incomprehensible, thy ways and carriages are past finding out, and full of beautiful variety: Sometimes thou hidest thy face, and withdrawest thy help from thy people, and sometimes thou dost shew thy self to be their God and Saviour, as it follows. And therefore it is meet that we should patiently wait for the accomplishment of these glorious things here promised to us. And this admonition is most fitly inserted here, to prevent the mistakes of God's people, and to intimate, that these promises were not to be speedily executed, but that they must expect and prepare for many and sharp afflictions, before that time should come, which yet should end in their Salvation.

16 They u shall be ashamed, and also confounded all of them: they shall go to confusion together that are * makers x of Idols. * Chap. 41.

u The Idolatrous Gentiles, as it is explained in the end of the 11. verse, oppoſed to Israel in the beginning of the next verse. x Either the artificers, or the chief masters that set them on work, and consequently all their Worshippers; although the Makers being most guilty, and the cause of the sins of others, might justly expect a higher degree of confusion.

17 But Israel shall be saved in the LORD with an everlasting Salvation y: ye shall not be ashamed nor confounded world without end. ‖ Or by

y Not for a short time, as it was in the days of the Judges and of the Kings, under whom their dangers and calamities did frequently return upon them; but unto all ages, as it follows, whence it appears, that he speaks not only nor chiefly of their Deliverance out of Babylon, which was far from being compleat or perpetual, as appears both from Scripture, as Ezra 9. 8. and elsewhere, and from other Authors; but of their Redemption by Christ, by which this was truly and fully verified, unto a great number of Israelites after the Flesh, and especially unto the mystical, God's Church and People, who are frequently called in Scripture by that name; as the Ordinances and Priviledges of the Gospel are commonly described in the Old Testament, by expressions borrowed from the Levitical dispensation. And that this is the meaning of the place is evident from ver. 22. wherein all the ends of the Earth are said to be sharers in this Salvation.

18 For thus saith the LORD * that created the heavens, God himself that formed the earth, and made it, he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited, * I am the LORD, * there is none else z. * Chap. 42. 5. * Ver. 5.

z This description of God is here added, Either 1. To detect the vanity of Idols, by asserting, that none was to be owned as the true God, besides that one God who made the Heavens and the Earth, and the Inhabitants thereof: Or, 2. To demonstrate God's Sufficiency to fulfill all these glorious promises made to his Church, because he made the World of nothing, and upholds it by the word of his Power; and withal to discover God's goodness to mankind, inasmuch as he did not Create the Earth in vain, but for the use and comfort of men, that it might be a fit habitation for them: whence it was easie to infer, that God would much more be gracious to his own People.

19 I have not spoken in * secret, in a dark place of the earth a: I said not unto the seed of Jacob, Seek ye me in vain b: I the LORD speak righteousness, I declare things that are right c. * Deut. 30. 11. Chap. 42. 16.

a The Heathen Idols deliver their Oracles darkly and doubtfully, in obscure Cells and Caverns of the Earth, or out of the bellies of their Priests: but I have delivered my Oracles to Israel publickly and plainly, as one that was neither afraid nor ashamed to utter my mind, lest I should be convinced of folly and falſhood; which was the case of Idols. b Serve and worship me for nought. As I appointed them work, so I promised, and from time to time have given and shall give them, abundant recompence for their service. whereas the Gentiles seek to their Idols in vain, for they can do them no good, as is observed in the next verse. c I require nothing of my people which is not highly just and good; whereas the Idols commanded their Worshippers to do many sinful and shameful things, even in their worship, as is notoriously known.

20 Assemble your selves and come: draw near together ‖ ye that are escaped of the nations e: * they have no knowledge f that set up g the wood of their graven Image, and pray unto a god that cannot save. * Chap. 44. 9, 17, 18 &c.

d To debate the business with me concerning the Divinity of your Idols, and hear what I have said, and am now about to say again in that matter. e The remnant of the Gentiles, which shall survive those great and many destructions, which I am bringing upon the heathen Nations, for their abominable Idolatries and other wickedness. Let these dreadful Judgments upon others, and God's singular mercy in sparing you, awaken you to a more impartial and serious consideration of this point, and cast off these Idols which have now discovered their own vanity and inability to help those who serve them, and trust in them. f They hereby discover their deep ignorance and stupidity. g In an high place where it may be seen and worshipped.

21 Tell ye, and bring them near, yea, let them take counsel together h: * who hath declared this from ancient time? who hath told it from that time? have not I the LORD? and there is no God else beside me; a just God and a Saviour k, there is none beside me. * Deut. 4. 35. Chap. 43. 11. Hos. 13. 4.

h To maintain the cause of their Idols. i This great work of which I have spoken, concerning Babylon's destruction, and the redemption of God's People. k Whereas the Gods of the Heathens are neither Just nor Saviours to their People, but wicked, and the Authors and Abetters of all sorts of wickedness; and so far from being either able or willing to save their worshippers, that they are the chief occasion of their utter destruction.

22 Look unto me and be ye saved all the ends of the earth l: for I am God, and there is none else.

l Upon these considerations, I advise all People upon earth, from one end to the other, to cast away their Idols, and to turn their eyes and hearts to me, expecting Salvation from me, and from me only; and their labour shall not be in vain, for they shall be saved: the imperative being put for the future, as Gen. 42. 18. and oft elsewhere. And this is not only an exhortation to the Gentiles to turn from Idols to God, but a Prediction that they shall turn to him and look upon Christ, who shall be the Author of Salvation to all that obey him, whether Jews or Gentiles, which is confirmed by the following verse.

23 I have sworn by my self m, the word is gone out of my mouth in righteousness n, and shall not * return o, that unto me every * knee shall bow, every tongue ‖ shall swear p. ‖ Or by * Isa. 45. 23. Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 10.

m Which is the highest and most solemn Oath that is possible. Heb. 6. 13. and therefore signifies, that the matter here sworn is of an extraordinary importance. n It is not a vain word rashly uttered, and afterwards never remembred nor observed; but what I sincerely speak, and will most faithfully and infallibly perform. o To wit, unto me void, or without effect, as this Phrase is more fully delivered, Isa. 55. 11. It is a Metaphor from Ambassadours, who sometimes return to their Princes without any success in their business. p Not only the Jews, but a People of all Nations shall worship me, and submit to my laws; which is signified by an outward act, the bowing of the knee, which is a posture of reverence and subjection; and by one eminent part of God's Worship, which is swearing by his name.

q Or, shall he say, each or every one of those, whom he now said, that they should bow their knees to God, and swear by him, ver. 23. Or, it shall be said, such active verbs being oft used impersonally. r By or from God alone, or the Messiah, who is the true Jehovah as well as man. s To justifie me from all things from which I could not be justified by the Law of Moses, as is said, Act. 13. 39. This plainly points us to the Messiah, whose very name is, the Lord our Righteousness, Jer. 23. 6. and whose great business it was to bring in everlasting Righteousness, Dan. 9. 24. and who is made unto us of God Righteousness, 1 Cor. 1. 30. t Support and assistance to bear all my burdens, and overcome all my enemies, and perform all my duties. The sense is, The Gentiles shall expect and obtain from Christ both Justification, or forgiveness of sins by his blood, and Sanctification by his Spirit. u The Gentiles shall come to God and Christ, either 1. By constraint, or necessity to be judged by him at the last day: Or, 2. willingly by Prayer to seek, and by Faith to receive Righteousness and Strength from him: Which seems better to agree with the foregoing Clause, which speaks of true Believers only. Coming to Christ is put for believing on him, Mat. 11. 28. John 5. 40. and 6. 35, 36, 37. and elsewhere. x Or, but (as this Particle is oft rendred) all that are, &c. But all his implacable enemies shall be brought to shame and punishment.

25 In the LORD shall all the seed of Israel y be justified z, and shall glory ‖. ‖ Or at y All Israelites indeed, whether Jews or Gentiles; all Believers, who are frequently called God's Israel in Scripture, as Psal. 24. 6. Rom. 9. 6. and vers. 26. Gal. 6. 16. z Acquitted both from and guilt before God, and from all false aspersions before the World; for this justification of the true Israel is opposed to their enemies being ashamed, ver. 24. which seems to design their publick shame and confusion before God and men. ‖ Shall not only receive him, but shall rejoyce and triumph in him as their God and portion.

CHAP. XLVI.

The Ruine of Babylon and her Idols, 1,—2. God's Love and Faithfulness to the Jews, 3,—7. Idols not to be compared with God, 5,—7. for power, knowledge, and sure Salvation, 9,—13.

BEL a boweth down b, Nebo c stoopeth, their Idols were upon the beasts d, and upon the cattel: your carriages e were heavy loden, they are a burden to the weary beast. Or, your luggage was a The Chief God of the Babylonians; Bel signifying Lord, as also Jupiter Belus, called by Profane Historians. b As the Babylonians used to bow down to him, to worship him, so now he bowed down and submits himself to the victorious Persians. c Another of the famous Idols, which used to deliver Oracles, as his name signifies. d were taken and broken, and the materials of them, which were Gold, and Silver, and Brass, as both Scripture and other Authors witness, were carried upon Beasts into Persia. e O ye Babylonians, to whom he suddenly turneth his speech, as is usual. f They lie upon the backs of your Cattel like dull and unprofitable and heavy burdens to the beasts, as they have been to Men before.

2 They g stoop, they bowed down together, h; they could not deliver the burden i, but † themselves are gone into captivity. † Heb. their soul.

g Either 1. Of the Idols, of which these words are used, ver. 1. Or, 2. The Babylonians, who are sufficiently implied in that expression, their Idols, ver. 1. Either 1. one as well as another; both the Babylonians and their Idols together, neither could help the other. 2 Either 1. the Idols could not deliver themselves, who were now a burden to the Beasts, and forced away by them; Or, 2. the Babylonians could not deliver their Idols, which he now had called burdens. And this Sense seems most probable from the following Clause, which clearly speaks of the same persons or things, but themselves, &c. Heb. their Shule: For although the Sun is here put for the Person, as is frequently so, yet that Title is never given to any Idol or lifeless thing, but only to such Creatures as have or had Souls within their Bodies. So the meaning of this and the foregoing Verse, is this, That neither the Babylonians nor their Idols, could either save themselves or one another; but both are bowed down, and gone into Captivity together.

3 Hearken unto me, O house of Jacob, and all the remnant of the house of Israel i * which are born by me, from the belly, which are carried from the womb k. * Ch. 44. 2.

i Fitly so called, with respect either 1. to all the Tribes of Israel, Ten of which were now lost and gone: Or, 2. to the state of the Jews at their return from Babylon, there being only a remnant of the two Tribes which did Return. k Whom I have nourished, and cared for from time to time, ever since you were a People, and came out of Egypt; and that as affectionately and tenderly, as Parents bring up their own Children.

4 And even to your old age I am he, and even to hoar hairs * will I carry you: I have made, and I will bear; even I will carry and will deliver you. * Ex. 19. 4. Deut. 1. 31. & 32. 11.

l And that care and kindness which I have had for you from the beginning, I will continue to you to the end; never forsaking you, unless you wilfully and obstinately cast me off, as the Jews did when their Messiah came. m You are my Workmanship, both as you are Men, and as you are my peculiar People; and therefore I will preserve and deliver you.

5 * To whom will ye liken me, and make me equal, and compare me, that we may be like n? * Chap. 40. 18, 25.

n If you are tempted or inclined at any time to exchange me for an Idol, do me and your selves this Right, seriously to consider, Whether you can find another God, who will be more able, and more ready to do you good, than I have been; which if you can do, I am content you should prefer him before me, but if not, as will appear by what I am now saying, ver. 6, 7. then it is best for you to adhere to your ancient God and Friend.

6 * They lavish gold out of the bag, and weigh silver in the balance, and hire a goldsmith, and he maketh it a god o: * they fall down, yea, they worship. * Chap. 40. 19. & 41. 6. & 44. 12. Jer. 10. 3. * Chap. 44. 17.

o Let us suppose, a God made with the greatest Cost and Art.

7 They bear him upon the shoulder, they carry him p, and set him in his place, and he standeth; from his place shall he not remove q: yea, * one shall cry unto him, yet can he not answer, nor save him out of his trouble. * Chap. 45. 20.

p Either 1. in pomp upon solemn Occasions: Or, 2. from that place where he is made, unto that place where they intend to set him up, as it is expressed in the following words. q Or rather, he cannot remove. He can stir neither hand nor foot to help his People.

8 Remember this r, and shew your selves men s: bring it again to mind t, O ye transgressors u. * Chap. 44. 19.

r Consider these things which I now speak, O ye Israelites. s As the reasonable Creatures, and be not so brutish as to worship your own Works: Be so wise and courageous as to withstand all Solicitations to Idolatry. t Think of this again and again. u You who have been guilty of this foolish Sin; and therefore are obliged to take the better heed, that you do not relapse into it again.

9 Remember the former things of old, ‖ for I am God, and there is none else, I am God, and there is none like me.

‖ What I have done for you, and in the World, my evident Predictions of future things justified by the event; and those other miraculous Works whereby I have abundantly proved my Divinity.

10 Declaring the end from the beginning z, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, * My counsel shall stand y, and I will do all my pleasure:

* Psal. 33. 11. Prov. 19. 21. & 21. 30. Heb. 6. 17.

z Foretelling from the beginning of the World, or from the beginning of your Nation, those future Events which should happen in succeeding Ages, even to the end of the World, or to the end of your Commonwealth; for such Predictions we find delivered by Moses, the first founder of their Common-wealth. y As I will not, so no other Power can disappoint my Purposes and Predictions.

11 Calling a ravenous bird x from the East a, † the man that executeth my counsel b from a far country c: yea, I have spoken it, I will also bring it to pass, I have purposed it, I will also do it.

x Cyrus called a bird for his swiftness and great expedition, and ravenous for his fierceness, and victoriousness over his Enemies. a From Persia, as Isa. 41. 2. b Concerning the deliverance of my People, and the destruction of their cruel oppressors, the Babylonians. c From Persia, which was far from Babylon, but much farther from Judea.

d Or, You whose hearts are proud or hard or stubborn. He speaks either, 1. to the Babylonians, you who are stout against God, and say or think that neither God nor any man can deliver my People out of your hands: Or rather 2. to the House of Jacob, expressed, ver. 3. Where he bespeaks them in the same words here used, hearken to me; and to whom alone he directeth his speech in this whole Chapter; for though he speaketh of the Babylonians, yet he doth not speak to them; and to whom the Prophet, for the most part, turneth his speech in all his Prophecies, unless where there is something in the Text or Context, which determineth it to some other Person or People: And this very crime of stoutness, or hardness of heart, is most justly and most frequently charged upon the Jews, by their own Prophets every where, because of their gross contempt of, and incorrigibleness under all God's Words and Works. And the Prophet speaks this, either to the Jews of his Generation; Or rather to that generation which was carried Captive to Babylon, whose stout-heartedness is particularly noted and reproved, Zech. 7. 11, 12. Compare Mal. 3. 13, 14, 15. e That are not only void of, but enemies to righteousness and true holiness: that give up your selves to wickedness, that despise my counsels, and promises, and threatnings.

13 I bring near my righteousness f, it shall not be far off g, and my salvation shall not tarry: and I will place salvation in Zion h for Israel my glory i.

f Though you are most unrighteous persons, and have given me just cause to make you to know my breach of Promise, as I threatned in the like case, Numb. 14. 34. Yet I will shew my self to be a Righteous and Faithful God, making good my promise of delivering you out of Babylon after seventy years; and though you think the time long, and are apt to distrust the thing it self, yet it shall come, and that speedily, I will bring it near, or cause it to approach, or come unto you, and as it follows, it shall not tarry beyond the appointed time. g My work of saving you from the Babylonish Captivity. h I will bring my People from Babylon to Zion, and there I will save them from all their Enemies. i In whom I will once again glory as my People, and the illustrious monuments of my glorious Wisdom, and Power, and Truth and Goodness; whom I will make a great and glorious People, though now they are mean and contemptible, and in whom I will once more settle my glorious Presence and Ordinances.

CHAP. XLVII.

God's Judgments upon Babylon and Chaldea: for their Cruelty towards God's People, 1,—6. their Pride and other sins, 7,—10. their Enchantments shall not deliver them, 11,—15.

COme down a and sit in the dust b: O virgin daughter of Babylon c, sit on the ground: there is no throne d, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt no more be called e tender and delicate.

a From thy Throne, as it follows. b Either necessarily, because thou shalt have no higher seat: Or, voluntarily, as mourners do, bewailing thine approaching calamities. c So called either, 1. because she had not yet been humbled and conquered: Or rather, 2. Because she was tender and delicate, as the next Clause informeth us. d To wit, for thee. The empire is taken away from thee, and translated to the Persians. e Either be reputed so, Or rather be so: for to be called is frequently put for to be, as hath been divers times noted. Thou shalt be reduced to great hardships and miseries.

2 Take the Millstones f and grind meal g, uncover thy locks h: make bare the leg: uncover the thigh i, pass over the Rivers.

f Betake thy self to the Millstones; as we commonly say, take thy bed, or, betake thy self to thy bed. The meaning is, Thou shalt be brought down to the baseest kind of slavery, which grinding at the Mill was esteemed; of which see on Exod. 11. 5. Judg. 16. 21. Job 31. 10. Lament. 5. 13. For this work was not performed by horses, as now it is, but by the labour of Slaves and Captives. g Grind Bread-Corn into Meal for thy Master's use. Such metonymical expressions, we find Isa. 28. 28. Hos. 8. 7. and elsewhere. h Or, thine hair. Take off the Ornaments wherewith such Women as were free, and of good quality, used to cover and dress their heads. This and the following passages, though delivered in the form of a Command, are only Predictions of what they should be forced to do or suffer, as appears from the next verse. i Gird up thy garments close and short about thee, that thou mayest be fit for service, and for travelling on foot, and as it follows, for passing over those Rivers, through which thou wilt be constrained to wade, in the way to the Land of thy Captivity.

3 Thy nakedness shall be uncovered k, yea thy shame shall be seen l: I will take vengeance m, and I will not meet thee as a man n.

k Either, 1. for want of raiment to cover it: Or, rather, 2. by thine enemies in way of scorn and contumely, by comparing this place with Ezek. 16. 37. & 23. 29. l Upon thee for thy many and great injuries done to my people. m As a man meets his enemy in the field, to contend with thee. n With moderation and gentleness, as those men who have not quite put off Humanity use to do, but like a Lyon tearing thee to pieces, to which God in such case compareth himself, as Hos. 5. 14. & 13. 7, 8. Compare Hos. 11. 4.

o According to this version, the Prophet inserteth this passage in the midst of this Prophecy against Babylon, as Jacob inserteth a like passage in the midst of his Blessings and Prophecies concerning his Children, Gen. 49. 18. And this may be here interpoled, either, 1. As the reason why the Judgment here denounced should be certainly inflicted, because he who had undertaken it was the Lord of hosts, and therefore able to effect it, and the Holy One, and the Redeemer of Israel, whom the Babylonians had cruelly oppressed, whose quarrel God would avenge upon them, and whom he had determined and promised to deliver out of their hands: Or, 2. As a pathetical exclamation or acclamation of God's People, for this wonderful work of breaking the staff of their oppressors, which they here ascribe to God, as he is their God and Redeemer, whom they here make their boast of, and whom they Celebrate for this glorious deliverance. But because these words, as for, are not in the Hebrew Text, and therefore another word may be as conveniently supplied; this verse may be, and is by some learned Interpreters, otherwise rendred, and joyned with the foregoing words thus, I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a man, saith our Redeemer, whose Name is the Lord of Hosts, the Holy One of Israel. For the word, saith or saying, is frequently understood, and therefore supplied by Translators, as 1 Kings 22. 34. Psal. 27. 8. & 105. 15. and in this very Prophecy, as Isa. 5. 9. & 45. 14. and elsewhere.

5 Sit thou silent p, and get thee into darkness q, O daughter of the Chaldeans: for thou shalt no more be called the Lady of Kingdoms r.

p Through grief and shame, and as mourners use to do, Job 2. 13. Cease thy vaunting, and insolent speeches: thou canst say nothing for thine own justification. q Thou shalt go into an obscure, disconsolate, and calamitous condition. r The chief and glory of all Kingdoms, as Isa. 13. 19. the most large and potent and glorious Empire of the World, as thou hast been.

6 I was wroth with my people: I have polluted mine inheritance s, and given them into thine hand t: thou didst shew them no mercy u; upon the ancient hast thou very heavily laid the yoke x.

s I cast them away as an unclean thing; I stained their glory; I removed them from the Holy Land, and from the place of my presence and worship, which alone made them an holy and peculiar People; I banished them into a polluted Land, amongst uncircumcised and unclean persons, by whom they were many ways defiled; I rejected them from being my People, and so they were in my sight no better than the rest of the Heathen Nations. t To punish them, and deal with them as thou saweſt fit. u Thou hast exceeded the bounds of thy Commission, and instead of that compassion, which humanity teacheth men to shew to such as are in misery, thou didst add to their afflictions. x Who besides their common calamity were afflicted with the miseries of Old Age, and therefore did require both pity and reverence.

7 And thou sayest, I shall be * a Lady for ever: so that thou diddest not lay these things y to thy heart, neither didst remember the latter end of it z.

* Rev. 18. 7.

y Thy cruel usages of my People, and the heavy Judgments which thou hadst reason to expect for them. z Of that Lady, or of Babylon, and her Glory and Empire, or of thy self; here being a sudden change of the person, of which I have noted many Examples in this Prophet. The sense is: Thou wast befotted with the sense of thy present felicity, and didst not consider, as thy duty and common discretion obliged thee, what might and was likely to befall thee afterward; thou didst neither expect a change nor prepare for it.

8 Therefore hear now this, thou that are given to pleasures, that dwellest carelessly, that sayest in thine heart, I am a, and none else besides me b; I shall not sit as a widdow, neither shall I know the loss of children c.

a I am independent, and self-sufficient and unchangeable, as that Phrase implies, which therefore is appropriated to God, Isa. 41. 4. and 43. 10. and elsewhere. The Prophet doth not here use the very Phrase which the Babylonians used, but expresseth their sense in a Scripture Phrase. b Which is not either subject to me, or far inferiour to me in Power and Glory, so that in comparison of me it may be said not to be, because it disappears like Stars at the presence of the Sun. c I shall never want either a King or People to defend me from all dangers.

9 But these two * things shall come to thee in a moment in one day; the loss of children, and widowhood; they shall come upon thee in their perfection d, for the multitude of thy sorceries, and for the great abundance of thine inchantments e.

* Rev. 18. 8.

d In the highest degree. They King and Kingdom shall be utterly and eternally destroyed. e For thy superstitious and magical Practices, which were very frequent there, as we see below, ver. 12, 13. and as was observed before. Or, as it is in the Hebrew, In the multitude of thy Sorceries, &c. in the midst of, and notwithstanding all thy diabolical Artifices, whereby thou thinkest to foresee any dangers, and to secure thy self from them.

10 For thou hast trusted in thy wickedness f: thou hast said, None seeth me g: Thy wisdom and thy knowledge h, it hath ‖ perverted thee i, and thou hast said in thine heart, I am, and none else besides me k.

f Confidently expecting to preserve thy self by these and other wicked Arts and Policies. g My Counsels are so deeply and cunningly laid, that God himself can neither discover nor prevent the Execution of them. h In State-Policy, and the Arts mentioned above and below. i Hath misled thee into the way of Transgression and Perdition. k Which was said, ver. 8. and is here repeated, to note their intolerable Arrogancy and Self-confidence.

11 Therefore shall evil come upon thee l, thou shalt not know † from whence it riseth: and mischief shall fall upon thee, thou shalt not be able to † put it off: and desolation shall come upon thee suddenly m, which thou shalt not know.

l Or rather, when it shall come: Heb. the morning of it, the day or time of its approach: And they are justly upbraided and derided for this ignorance, because the Astrologers, the Star-gazers, and the monthly Prognosticators, mentioned here, ver. 13. pretended punctually to foretell the particular time of all future events. And this Explication agrees with the History, Babylon being surprized by Cyrus, when they were in deep Security, as is manifest, both from Scripture, Jer. 51. 31. Dan. 5. and from other Histories. m Or, when, thou shalt not know it. Thou shalt not apprehend thy danger till it be too late.

12. Stand n now with thine inchantments, and with the multitude of thy sorceries, wherein thou hast laboured from thy youth o: if so be thou shalt be able to profit, if so be thou mayest prevail.

n This Word notes! Either 1. continuance. Persist or go on in these Practices. Or 2. their gesture. For those that enquired of their Gods by any of these superstitious Practices used to stand, this being a posture, both of Reverence, and waiting for an Answer. But this is not a command or concession, but a sacred Irony, or scoff at the folly of these Men, who having so oft been disappointed by these Impostures, yet were as forward to use them, and trust to them, as if they had never deceived them. o From the beginning of thy Common-wealth or Kingdom. For the Chaldeans in all Ages were famous, or rather infamous, for the study and practice of these Arts.

13. Thou art wearied p in the multitude of thy counsels: let now the † Astrologers, the Star-gazers, the † monthly Prognosticators stand up, and save thee from these things that shall come upon thee, p Thou hast spent thy time and strength in going from one to another, in trying all manner of Experiments, and all to no purpose. q To Succour thee, or to enquire for thee.

14 Behold, they shall be as stubble: the fire shall burn them, they shall not deliver † themselves r from the power of the flame s: there shall not be a coal to warme at, nor fire to sit before it.

r And much less thee. s They shall be totally consumed, and all the comfort which thou didst expect from them, shall utterly vanish.

15 Thus t shall they u be unto thee with whom thou hast laboured, even thy merchants from thy youth, they shall wander every one to his quarter: none shall save thee x.

t Such comfortless and helpless Creatures. u Either 1. thy Merchants, as it follows, with whom thou hast trafficked. Or, 2. thy Sorcerers, Astrologers, &c. with whom they are said to have laboured, both here, and ver. 12. who also may possibly be called their Merchants, because they traded so much with them; and because of their deceitful practices; for which Ephraim is called a Merchant, Hos. 12. 7. And so the following Clause may be rendred, who have been thy Merchants from thy Youth. Or, the last clause may be understood of Merchants, properly so called, who came from several Countries to trade with Babylon, as is noted in Scripture, and by other Authors: And the Verse may be thus rendred. Thus (vain and unprofitable) shall they (thy Sorcerers, &c.) with whom thou hast laboured be unto thee. (So here is only a transposition of Words, than which nothing is more usual in Scripture. Then follows another matter in the next Clause:) also Thy Merchants, or they with whom thou hast traded from thy Youth, shall wander every one to his own quarter. x They shall all leave thee, and flee away with all possible speed to their several Countries and Habitations.

CHAP. XLVIII.

God reproveth their hypocrisie and obstinacy by his Prophecies, 1,—8. he spareth them for his names sake: and that they may learn to know him aright, 9,—11. God's powerful Salvation a motive to obedience, 12,—17. God lamenteth their backwardness, 18,—19. Deliverance out of Babylon, 20,—21. no peace to the wicked, 22.

HEar ye this a, O House of Jacob, which are called by the Name of Israel b, and are come forth out of the waters of Judah c: which swear d by the Name of the LORD, and make mention of the God of Israel e, but not in Truth, nor in Righteousness f.

a What I am now going to say against thee, that thou mayest be assured, that that great deliverance, which I have determined and declared to give thee, is not for thy own sake, but for my names sake. b Which are Israelites in name, but not in Truth, as it follows. c From the lineage of your Progenitor, Judah, as waters flow from a Fountain, and as the Israelites are said to be of the Fountain of Israel, Psal. 68. 26. Compare also, Deut. 33. 28. Prov. 5. 15. &c. d Which profess the true Religion; one act of Religion being put for all. e Either in Oaths, or otherwise: that own him, and seem to glory in him as their God, and call themselves by his name. f Which are the two chief ingredients of a lawful oath, Jer. 4. 2. They are guilty of fallhood and injustice both in oaths, and in their whole Converſation.

2 For g they shall call themselves of the Holy City h, and stay themselves i upon the God of Israel, the LORD of Hosts k is his Name k.

g Or, as others render it, and this Particle frequently signifies, Though. And so this is added as a great aggravation of their want, and neglect of Truth and Righteousness. h They glory in this, that they are Citizens of Jerusalem, a City sanctified by God himself to be the only place of his true worship, and gracious presence, which as it is a great priviledge, so it laid a great obligation upon them, to walk more holily than they did. i Not by a true and well-grounded Faith, but by a vain and presumptive confidence, flattering themselves, as that People commonly did, that they should enjoy peace and safety, notwithstanding all their wickedness; because they were the Lord's People, and had his Temple and Ordinances among them; which disposition the Prophets frequently observe, and sharply censure in them. k Or, Woose name is the Lord of Hosts.

3 I have declared the former things from the beginning l, and they went forth out of my mouth, and I shewed them, I did them suddenly, and they came to pass m.

l Those things which have formerly come to pass, which I punctually foretold from time to time before they came to pass: Whereby I gave you full proof of my Godhead. m What my mouth foretold my hand effected.

n Therefore I gave thee the more and clearer demonstrations of my divine nature and providence, because I knew thou wast an unbelieving and perverse Nation, that would not easily nor willingly be convinced. o Which will not bow down to receive my yoke, nor to obey my commands. It is a metaphor taken from untamed and stubborn cattel: of which see also Nehe. 9. 29. Zech. 7. 11. Act. 7. 51. The sense is, I considered that thou wast unteachable and incorrigible. p Thou wast impudent, and therefore wouldst boldly pretend that thou didst forsake me, for want of full conviction of my Divine Authority, and of thy duty: therefore I determined that I would leave thee without excuse.

5 I have even from the beginning declared it to thee; before it came to pass I shewed it thee q, lest thou shouldest say, Mine idol hath done them, and my graven image and my molten image hath commanded them.

q I foretold these things, that it might be evident, that they were the effects of my counsel, and not of thine Idols as I knew thou wast very inclinable to believe.

6 Thou hast heard; see all this r, and will not ye declare it? I have shewed thee new things from this time s, even hidden things, and thou didst not know them.

r As thou hast heard all these things from my mouth, from time to time, so now I advise thee to see, i. e. seriously to consider them, and to lay them to heart. s I call you to witness: must you not be forced to acknowledge the truth of what I say? Deny it if you can: Or, have ye not declared it unto all People as occasion required it? Have you not boasted unto the Gentiles of this as your Honour and Priviledge? t And I have now given thee new Predictions of secret things, and such as till this time were wholly unknown to thee, as it follows, concerning thy deliverance out of Babylon by Cyrus.

7 They are created now, u, and not from the beginning x; even y before the day when thou heardest them not z; lest thou shouldest say, Behold I knew them a.

u i.e. Revealed unto thee by me; brought to light, as things are by Creation. Things are frequently said to be made or done in Scripture, when they are declared or manifested, Job 5. 9. I cursed, cursed, i.e. I pronounced it cursed, Psal. 51. 4. That thou mightest be justified, i.e. declared and acknowledged to be just, Hos. 5. 15. Till they acknowledge their offence; which in the Hebrew is, till they be guilty. z Heb. Not from thence, not from these ancient times when other things were revealed unto thee. y Heb. and (or, or, as this particle is frequently used:) before this day, Such pronouns are oft understood, as we have seen: and this day answers to now in the first clause: and this clause seems to be added as an exposition of the next foregoing clause which is more general and ambiguous, not from then or before this day. z Heb. and thou didst not hear them, to wit, before this time in which God hath revealed them to thee by my Ministry. a Either by thine own sagacity: or by the help of thine Idols. The sense is, That it might appear, that thou hadst the knowledge of these things only from me, who made known unto thee only what, and when I pleased.

8 Yea thou heardest not, yea thou knewest not b, yea from that time that thine ear was not opened c: for I knew that thou wouldest deal treacherously d, and wast called e a transgressor from the womb.

b The same thing is repeated again and again, because this was so illustrious a proof of the infinite power and providence of the God of Israel, and so clear and full a discovery of the vanity of Idols. c Heb. Tea from then (of which phrase see the foregoing verse) thine ear was not opened, i.e. thou didst not hear, to wit, from me: I did not reveal these things unto thee: for so this Phrase of opening the ear is understood, 1 Sam. 9. 15. 2 Sam. 7. 27. d I knew all these cautions were necessary to cure thine infidelity and Apostacy. e To wit, justly and truly: Or, thou was indeed such a person, to be called put for to be as we have oft noted.

9 For my Names sake will I defer mine anger f, and for my praise g will I refrain h for thee, that I cut thee not off.

f And although thou dost justly deserve my hottest anger and most dreadful judgments, which also, if thou repentest not, I will in due time inflict, yet at present I will spare thee, and deliver thee out of Captivity, not for thy sake, be it known to thee, but meerly for my own sake, and for the vindication of my name and glory, as it follows, ver. 11. g That I may be praised and magnified for my Power, Faithfulness and Goodness, and other perfections. h To wit, mine anger; which is easily understood out of the foregoing clause.

10 Behold, I have refined thee i, but ‖ with silver k, I have chosen l thee in the furnace of affliction.

i Or, I will refine thee. Although I will not cut thee off, or utterly destroy thee, as I now said, yet I will put thee into the Furnace, not to consume thee, but to purifie thee from that dross which cleaveth to thee, and needs such afflictions to purge it away. k Or, not among Silver: Or, not as Silver, which is put into, and kept in the Furnace so long till all the dross be purged away from it. I will not deal so rigorously with thee; for then I should wholly consume thee: in judgment I will remember mercy. l Or, I willchuse thee, or I will yet chuse thee, as it is expressed Isa. 14. 1. Zech. 1. 17. Or, I will chuse thee again, as Zech. 2. 12. For it must be considered, that God had in a manner rejected Israel, when he sent them into Captivity, and given her a bill of divorce, as he saith, Jer. 3. 8. see also Isa. 50. 1. and therefore it was necessary that God should chuse this people a second time, that they might be betrothed to him again, as is expressed and promised, Hos. 2. 19, 20. This seems to me the true sense; although it may be thus understood, I will chuse thee, i.e. I will manifest by my carriage to thee that I have chosen thee: Or, that thou art my chosen People. Things be oft said to be done when they are manifested, as was observed on ver. 7.

11 For mine own sake, even for my own sake will I do it m; for how should my Name n be *Cha. 42. 8. polluted? and I will not give my * glory unto another o.

m This great work of delivering my People out of Babylon. n My Name is here fitly supplied both out of ver. 9. where it is expressed, and out of the following clause of this verse, where he saith, my glory, which is equivalent to it. The sense is, If I should not spare and deliver my people, my name would be sadly prophaned and blasphemed, as if I were either impotent or implacable to them. o I will not give any colour or occasion to Idolaters, to ascribe the Divine Nature and Properties, which are my peculiar, unto Idols. as they would do if I did not rescue my People out of their hands in spight of their Idols.

12. Hearken unto me, O Jacob, and Israel my *Cha. 41. 4. & 44. 6. Rev. 1. 17. & 22. 13. called p; I am he; I am the * first, I also am the last.

p Whom I have called out of the World to be my peculiar People, to serve, and glorifie, and enjoy me, and therefore you of all others have least cause to forsake me, or to follow after Idols.

13. Mine hand also hath laid the foundation of the earth, and ‖ my right hand hath spanned q the Heavens: When I call unto them, they stand up together r.

q Or, doth span, i.e. mete out the Heavens with a span; as the Phrase is, Isa. 40. 12. Although that be expressed there in other Hebrew words. Or, hath spread them out with its palm, or like a palm, when the hand is stretched out. r Either they stood up and arose out of nothing, when I commanded them to do so: Or, they are still continually in readiness to execute my commands.

14 All ye * assembled † your selves and hear: which among them hath declared these things s? the LORD hath loved him t: he will do his pleasure on Babylon u, and his arm shall be on the Chaldeans x.

* Ye Jews, to whom he addressed his speech, ver. 12. and continueth his speech, ver. 16, 17, &c. † I challenge you all to answer what I have said before and am now a going to say again. s Which of the Gods whom any of you have served or do still hanker after? t To wit, Cyrus, who might easily be understood out of the foregoing context, in which he is frequently mentioned. The pronoun is put for the noun, and is usual both in Scripture and in other Authors. Now God loved Cyrus, not with a special, and everlasting, and complacential love, for he was an Heathen, and had some great Vices as well as Vertues, but with that general love and kindness, which God hath for all his Creatures, as is observed, Psal. 145. 9. and moreover with that particular kind of love, which God hath for such men as excel others in any Vertues, as Cyrus did; in which sense Christ loved the young man, Mark 10. 21. and with a love of good will, and beneficence. God had such a kindness for him, as to make him a most glorious and victorious General and King, and the great instrument for the deliverance of his own People; which was a singular honour and advantage to him, and might have been far greater, and extended to the eternal Salvation of his Soul, if he had not wanted an heart to use the price which God hereby put into his hand. And as anger being ascribed to God, is not meant of the affection, for such passions are inconsistent with the perfection of God's nature, but of the effect; so the Love of God when it is applied to Scripture, to such Persons as Cyrus, is not so much to be understood of an inward affection, as of the outward effects of it; and so this Love is explained in the following Words, by that prosperous Success which God gave him against the Chaldeans. u Cyrus shall execute that I have appointed him to do for the Destruction of Babylon, and for the Redemption of my People; which was in it self a good Work: And therefore this is added, as the reason why God loved him. x He shall smite and subdue them.

15 I, even I y have spoken, yea I have called him: I have brought him, and he shall make his way prosperous z.

y Both the foreknowledge and the execution of this great Atchievement cannot be ascribed to Idols, but to me only. z God will give him good Success in this undertaking. Here is a sudden change of the Person, from I to he, which is very usual. Or, as others render it, he shall prosper in his way: the preposition in being most frequently understood.

16 Come ye near unto me a; hear ye this; I have not spoken in secret b from the beginning c: from the time that it was d, there am I e: and now the Lord GOD and his spirit f hath sent me g.

a That you may the better hear me, as it follows. A Speech of God after the manner of Men. b I have not smothered the Counsel and Word of God, but have plainly and publickly declared it unto you: Or, I have openly Revealed my mind to you. See the Note on Isa. 45. 19. where these very Words are spoken by God in his own Name, as here by the Prophet in God's name; and so all comes to one. c Either 1. from the first time that I began to Prophesie until this time. Or, 2. from the beginning of my taking you to be my People, and of revealing my Mind to you. See on Isa. 41. 26. d These Words also, as well as the former, are the Words, Either 1. of the Prophet; and so the Sense seems to be this, From the time that I was first called to be a Prophet, I have been there, i.e. I have diligently pursued my Prophetical Function; I have hearkned from time to time, to hear what God would speak to me, that I might impart it to you: Or, 2. of God; and then the Sense may be this, From the time that I first spoke of it, or foretold it, I am or was there, to take care to effect what I had foretold: I minded it carefully from that time, as being then more especially obliged to do it, lest my Truth or Power should be questioned. Or the Words may be thus rendred and explained, From the time that this shall be, when the time appointed for the doing of this Work shall come, there I will be, to encourage and assist Cyrus in the Work. e This is opposed to those foregoing Words, from the beginning. f God by his Spirit; or God, even the Spirit or the Holy Ghost, to whom the sending and inspiring of God's Prophets is ascribed, 2 Pet. 1. 21. g To wit, the Prophet Isaiah; who yet was a Type of Christ, and so this may have a Respect to him also.

17 Thus saith the LORD thy Redeemer, the holy One of Israel, I am the LORD thy God which teacheth thee to profit h; which leadeth i thee by the way that thou shouldest go.

h Which from time to time have made known unto thee, not vain and frivolous things, but all necessary and useful Doctrines; which, if believed and observed by thee, would have been infinitely profitable to thee, both for this life and that to come. So that it is not my fault, but thine own, if thou dost not profit. i Which acquainteth thee with thy Duty and Interest in all the parts and concerns of thy Life; so that thou canst not pretend ignorance.

18 O that thou hadst hearkened to my Commandements k, then had thy peace been as a river l, and thy righteousness m as the waves of the sea n.

k The failure hath not been on my part, but on thine: I gave thee my Counsels and Commands, but thou hast neglected and disobeyed them, and that to thy own great disadvantage. Such wishes as these are not to be taken properly, as if God longed for something, which he gladly would but could not effect; or as if he wished that to be undone, which was irrevocably past and done; which is a vain and foolish wish even in a Man; and much more are such wishes inconsistent with the infinite perfection and happiness of the divine Nature: but they are only significations of God's good and holy Will, whereby he requires and loves Obedience, and condemns and hates Disobedience. l Which runs Sweetly, Strongly, Plentifully, and Constantly; and such had been thy Prosperity. Then thou hadst never gone into this Babylonish Captivity, nor needed such prodigies of my power and goodness to Deliver thee out of it. m Not properly so called (for he is not now speaking of their Vertues, but of their Priviledges) but thy Peace and Prosperity, as appears by the foregoing Clause, to which this manifestly answers; which is called Righteousness here, as it is also, 1 Sam. 12. 7. and Hos. 10. 12. and elsewhere, by a Metonomy, because it is the fruit of Righteousness, both of God's Righteousness, and of Man's Righteousness; as by the very same figure, iniquity is very frequently put for the fruit and punishment of iniquity. n Infinite and continual.

o To wit, for multitude, according to my Promise made to Abraham: Whereas now I have, for thy Sins, made thee to know thy breach of Promise, as is said, Numb. 14. 34. and greatly diminished thy Numbers. p Which come out of thy Bowels, or Belly, or Loins; for all these are but various Expressions of the same thing. q Which is continued in a Man's Posterity, and commonly dies with them; and so the name here is the same thing in effect with the seed and off-spring in the former Clauses, which, for the most part, are only the memorials of Men, and of their Names, when they are dead and gone. r As now it hath been in a great measure, and should have been totally and finally cut off, if I had not spared them for my own Names sake, as he said before. s Or, out of my sight, out of their own Land, the place of my special Presence and Residence.

20 Go ye forth of Babylon t: flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing u, declare ye x, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth: say ye, Isa. 49. 6. The LORD hath * redeemed his servant Jacob.

t The imperative is here, as it is very frequently, put for the future. Ye shall go forth, &c. for this is not so much a command as a promise. Although this form of speech may be the rather used to intimate, That it was their duty to go forth, as well as God's promise to carry them forth. u With Joy and Songs of Praise to the Lord. x Publish God's wonderful Works on your behalf to all Nations.

21 And they thirsted not when he led them through Isa. 41. 17. & 43. 20. the deserts y: he * caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them: he clave the rock also, and the waters gushed out.

y This is part of the matter which the Jews are obliged to declare to all People, as they have opportunity, to wit, That God took the same care of them in their return from Babylon to Canaan, which was through many dry and desolate places, as he did in their march from Egypt to Canaan. They thirsted not, &c. i.e. They shall not Thirst. He speaks of things to come, as if they were already past or present, as the Prophets commonly do.

Rev. 7. 16, 17. 22 * There is no peace, saith the LORD, unto the wicked z.

z God having in the next foregoing Verses, foretold that Peace and blessed Deliverance which he would certainly give to his servant Jacob, ver. 20. He here adds an explication and limitation of this Mercy; and declareth, That wicked Men should not enjoy the benefit of this Mercy. Where, by the wicked, he means, Either 1. the Babylonians, who well deserved that Title; who shall be destroyed, when God's Israel shall be delivered: Or rather 2. the unbelieving and ungodly Jews; of whom these very Words are used again, Isa. 57. 21. and to whom such a Denunciation as this, was far more proper and necessary, at least in this place, than to the Babylonians; for, he had already said far more and worse things, than this concerning them, having again and again declared, That Babylon should be destroyed, in order to this deliverance of God's People out of it. But there was great need why he should say this to the ungodly Jews, because they were exceeding prone to cry peace, peace to themselves, when there was no solid ground of Peace; and they confidently expected a share in this great Deliverance. This therefore was a very seasonable Caution to the Jews in Babylon, to take heed to themselves, and to prepare for this Mercy, and to purifie themselves from all Wickedness; because those of them, who should either wickedly tarry in Babylon, when God invited and required them to go out of it; and when their Godly Brethren returned to their own Land, and to the place of God's Worship; or continue in Wickedness, when they were restored to their own Country, should not enjoy that Tranquillity and Comfort which they promised to themselves. And the necessity of this Commination appears from the event; for the Jews that returned to Canaan, did, for the most part, relapse to many of their former Sins, and therefore fell short of that Peace and Prosperity, which otherwise they might have enjoyed.

CHAP. XLIX.

Christ being sent to the Jews complaineth of them, 1, — 4. he is sent to the Gentiles with gracious Promises, 5, — 12. God's Love to his Church perpetual, 13, — 17. the ample restoration of the Church: and its enlargement, 18, — 23. powerful deliverance out of Captivity, 24, — 26.

L Isten, O Isles a, unto me b and hearken ye people from far c. The LORD hath called me from the womb d, from the bowels of my mother hath he made mention of my name e.

a God having in the last Words secretly signified the Wickedness of the Jewish Nation, after so glorious a deliverance, and foreseeing, that, for their Wickedness, he should cast them off, he here turneth his Speech to the Nations of the Gentiles, who are frequently described in this Prophecy, and elsewhere under the Title of Isles, as hath been formerly noted, and inviteth them to hearken to those Counsels and Doctrines which the Jews would reject. b Unto Christ: for it is apparent from ver. 6. and other passages of this Chapter, that Isaiah speaks these words in the name of Christ, by whose Spirit they were dictated to him, 1 Pet. 1. 11. and unto whom alone they belong, as we shall see. So this Chapter is a Prophecy of Christ, which also is very proper and seasonable in this place. The Prophet having at large prophesied of the Deliverance of the Jews out of Babylon; he now proceeds further, and prophesieth of the Redemption of the World by Christ, of which that deliverance out of Babylon was a Type and Forerunner. c Which live in Countries far from Judea, now the only Place of God's special Presence and Worship. It is evident from the foregoing Clause, and many other Passages following, that he speaks of distance of Place, not of Time. d This or the like expression is used of Jeremy, chap. 1. 5. and of Paul, Gal. 1. 15. but it was far more eminently true of Christ, who, as he was chosen to this great office of Redemption from Eternity, so he was separated and called to it before he was born, being both conceived and sanctified by the Holy Ghost in his Mothers Womb, and sent into the World upon this Errand; of which see Mat. 1. 21. and Luke 1. 31, &c. and 2, 11, &c. e Called by my Name, and by such a Name as signified my Office and Work, in the Places now mentioned.

2 And he hath made my mouth like a sharp sword f, in the shadow of his hand hath he hid me g, and made me a polished shaft h, in his quiver i he hath hid me.

f As he made me the great Teacher of his Church, and of the World, so he assisted me by his Spirit, and made my Word or Doctrine Quick and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged-sword, &c. as it is said to be, Heb. 4. 12. killing Men's Lusts, convincing, humbling, and converting their Souls; and Mighty to the pulling of strong holds, And every high thing that exalteth it self against the knowledge of God, and bringing into Captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ, as we read, 2 Cor. 10. 4. 5. g He will Protect me by his Power from all mine Enemies, until I have finished the Work, for which he sent me. h Like an Arrow, whose point is bright and polished; which therefore pierceth deeper. This Metaphor signifies the same thing with the former, Christ's piercing of Men's Hearts by his Word and Spirit. i Where Arrows are hid and kept. The Quiver signifies the same thing with the shadow in the foregoing Clause, even God's powerful and gracious Protection of him from Dangers and Mischiefs.

3 And said unto me; Thou art my servant, O Israel k, in whom I will be glorified.

k As the name of David is sometimes given to his Successors, 1 Kings 12. 16. and particularly to Christ, Jer. 30. 9. Ezek. 34. 23. Hos. 3. 5. and Jacob is called, as many think, by the name of his Grand-Father, Abraham, Acts 7. 16. and the name of Isaac is given to his Posterity, Amos 7. 9. So here the name of Israel may not unfitly be given to Christ, not only because he descended from his Loins; but also because he was the true and the great Israel, who, in a more eminent manner, prevailed with God, as that Name signifies, of whom Jacob, who was first called Israel, was but a Type: And as the name of Christ, the Head is sometimes given to the Body, the Church, as 1 Cor. 12. 12. So it is not strange if, on the contrary, the name of Israel, which properly belongs to the Church, be given to Christ the Head of it. But this Word may be otherwise rendred, being joyned, Either 1. with the foregoing words, Thou art my servant, unto, or in, or for Israel, i.e. to bring them back unto me, from whom they have revolted: Or 2. with the following words; it is Israel, in whom I will glorifie my self by thee.

4 Then I said l, I have laboured in vain, I have spent my strength for nought m, and in vain; yet surely my judgment n is with the LORD, and ‖ my work with my God.

l By way of Objection. Lord, thou saiest thou wilst be glorified by my Ministry; but I find it otherwise. m Without any considerable Fruit of my Word and Works among the Israelites. n My right, the reward which by his Promise, and my Purchase is my right. Judgment is oft put for that which is just or right, as Exod. 23. 6. Job 8. 3. and in many other places. And so this Clause agrees with the next; and the Sense of both is this: Though I see no fruit of my Labour among the Jews, and meet with nothing but contempt and reproach, and ill usage from them; yet God sees my fidelity and diligence in my Work, and he will give Judgment for me, and my reward is laid up with and by him, which he will give me in due time.

5 And now, saith the LORD that formed me from the womb to be his servant, to bring Jacob again to him o, Though Israel be ‖ not gathered p, yet shall I be glorious in the eyes of the LORD q, and my God shall be my strength r.

o To Convert the Wicked and Apostate Israelites unto God. to him, and p Not brought home to God by my Ministry. This Word implies, I may, &c. That the Israelites were divided and scattered from God, and divided among themselves, as they were in a high degree when Christ came into the World, and Turned every one to his own way, as is said, Isa. 53. 6. and therefore needed to be gathered. Either it is a Metaphor from wandring Sheep, which the good Shepherd diligently seeketh, and bringeth home to the Fold: Or, it is an Allusion to the state of the Israelites, who either now were, or shortly were to be dispersed into several parts of the World, from whence God had promised to gather them, and bring them into their own Land, and unto his Temple, Isa. 43. 5, 6. and elsewhere. The Sense is, Though Israel, God's own and only People, reject me, which will be an occasion of great wonder and scandal. q God will not despise me for the unsuccessfulness of my Labours, but will honour and glorifie me, both with himself and in the face of the World, in crowning my Indeavours with glorious Success among other People. r To support and strengthen me under this, and all other discouragements and difficulties in the discharge of mine Office.

‖ Or, art thou lighter than that thou should. 6 And he s said, ‖ It is a light thing t that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob u, and to restore the ‖ preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a * light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation x unto the end of the earth.

s The Lord; expressed both in the foregoing and following verses. t This is but a small favour in comparison of what follows. u That remnant of them which shall survive all their calamities and desolations. x I will make thy labour effectual for the illumination and conversion, and salvation of the Gentiles in all the parts of the World: Which cannot be said of Isaiah with any truth or colour, and therefore must be understood of Christ, by whom this was literally and fully accomplished. By my Salvation he means the great Instrument and Author of that Eternal Salvation which I will give to the Gentiles.

y The Holy One of Israel, as he is frequently called. z To Christ, to whom, as he was in the days of his Flesh, this description doth most truly and fully agree, being the same in effect with that, Isa. 53. 3. for men, both Jews and Gentiles among whom he lived, did despise him from their very hearts and souls, as is here implied; and the whole Nation, of which he was a member, and among whom he converfed and preached, abhorred both his Person and his Doctrine; and he was so far from being a great temporal Monarch, as the Jews vainly imagined, that he came in the form of a Servant, and was a Servant of Rulers, professing subjection and paying tribute unto Cæsar, Mat. 17. 24, 25. & 22. 21. and being treated by the Rulers both of the Jews, and the Romans, like a Servant, being despitefully used and Crucified, which was the proper Punishment of Servants. a Though for a time thou shalt be despised, yet after a while thou shalt be advanced to such Royal Majesty and Glory, that Kings shall look upon thee with admiration and reverence. b From their seats in token of reverence, as was usual, Levit. 19. 32. Judg. 3. 10. Job 29. 8. or to worship thee, as the next clause explains it: shall see and arise may be put for when they see thee they shall arise to thee: which is a common Hebraism. c Because God shall make good his promises to thee concerning the raising thee from the dead, and concerning the effusion of his Spirit upon thy Disciples, by whose assistance they shall preach most powerfully, and confirm their Doctrine by evident and glorious Miracles, and concerning the giving unto thee the Heathen for thine Inheritance. and the uttermost parts of the Earth for thy possession, as he promised, Psal. 2. 8. These and such like considerations were the great motives which prevailed with the Princes and People of the Gentiles to receive thee as the true Messiah and Saviour of the World. d And although thou shalt be rejected by thine own People. and refused by their Builders or Rulers, as was Prophesied, Psal. 118. 22. and for a time, and in some respects forsaken by God himself, Mat. 27. 46. yet God will return to thee and chuse thee again, and manifest unto the World, that thou, and thou only art the Person whom God hath chosen to be the Redeemer of Mankind, and whom, in spight of all opposition, he will make the head-stone of the Corner. For the Phrase see on Isa. 28. 16. But these words are well rendred by others, who will chuse or hath chosen thee, the conjunction, and, being put for the pronoun relative, as Isa. 44. 14. and in many other places, as hath been observed before.

2 Cor.* 6. 2. 8 Thus saith the LORD e, * In an acceptable time f have I heard thee g, and in a day of salvation h have I helped thee: and I will preserve thee i, and give thee for a covenant k of the people l, ‖ to establish the earth m, to cause to inherit the desolate heritages n.

e God the Father unto Christ. f Heb. In a time of good will, in that time when I shall have, and in a special manner manifest my good will unto the Sons of men, in the day of my Grace, and of mans Salvation, as this Phrase is explained in the next clause, in the time of the Gospel, which is the time of God's good Will towards men, as the Host of Heaven declared at the Birth of Christ, Luk. 2. 14. In the days of thy flesh, when thou dist offer up Prayers and Supplications with strong crying and tears, unto him that was able to save thee from death, as we read, Heb. 5. 7. which text is a good comment upon this place. g Though not so as to deliver thee from death and from the sense of my wrath, yet so as to keep thee from sinking under these burdens, and so as thou shouldest not be holden under the Pains or Power of Death, Acts 2. 24. and so as to Crown thee with Glory and Honour, and a blessed success of all thy labours and sufferings. h In the time of grace and of the Gospel, which I have appointed for the working out of mans Salvation by thee. i Upon earth till thy work be finished, and unto that eternal Kingdom and Glory which is prepared for thee. k To be the Mediator and Surety of that Covenant, which is made between me and them; as Christ is called, Heb. 7. 22. and 8. 6. to renew and confirm the Covenant, which the Messiah is said to do, Dan. 9. 27. by his own blood, by which God and men are reconciled and united one to the other. And therefore he may well be called the Covenant by a known Metonymy, which is very usual in such cases, as upon the same account Circumcision, the sign of the Covenant, is called God's Covenant, Gen. 17. 10. and the Paschal Lamb is called the Passover, Exod. 12. 11. and the Sacramental Cup is called the New Testament, Luk. 22. 20. and the Communion of the Blood of Christ, 1 Cor. 10. 16. l Indefinitely of all my People, not only Jews, but also the Gentiles, as may be gathered from the context, and by comparing this place with Isa. 42. 6. Where the same Phrase is used. From both which places it is most manifest, that the Messiah is designed, and not Isaiah, to whom this and divers other Phrases here used cannot be ascribed without great force. m To compose and settle the Earth and the Inhabitants thereof by making peace between God and men, and between Jews and Gentiles, and by establishing Truth and Righteousness and Holiness upon Earth, and by subduing those Lusts and Passions, which are the great disturbers of Humane Society: which was the design of God in sending, and of Christ in coming into the World. n That desolate Places may be repaired and repossessed. That Christ may possess the Heathen, according to Psal. 2. 8. who were in a spiritual sense in a most desolate and forlorn condition.

Cha.* 42. 7. 9 That thou mayest say o * to the prisoners p, Go forth q: to them that are in darkness, Shew your selves: they shall feed in the ways, and their pastures shall be in all high places r.

o To wit, with power and effect, as when God said, Let there be Light, &c. p To the Gentiles who are fast bound by the cords of their sins, and taken Captive by the Devil at his will, as this same Phrase is understood, Isa. 42. 7. q Come forth to the light, receive Divine illumination and consolation. r They shall have abundant provision in all places, yea even in those which commonly are barren and unfruitful, and such are both common roads and high grounds.

Rev.* 7. 16. 10 They shall not * hunger nor thirst, neither shall the heat nor Sun smite them s: for he that hath mercy on them shall lead them t, even by the springs of water shall he guide them.

s They shall be supplied with all good and necessary things, and kept from all evil occurrents. t God who hath magnified his mercy to them will conduct them with safety and comfort.

11 And I will make all my Mountains a way, and my high ways shall be exalted u.

u I will remove all hinderances, and prepare the way for them, by levelling high grounds, and raising low grounds: of which see on Isa. 40. 3. 4.

12 Behold these shall come from far x: and lo, these from the North, and from the West y, and these from the land of Sinim z.

x My People shall be called and gathered even from the most remote parts of the Earth. He speaks here, and in many other places of the Conversion of the Gentiles with allusion to that work of gathering, and bringing back the Jews from all parts where they were dispersed, into their own Land. y From the several parts of the world; which are here synecdochically expressed, as they are in many other places. z Either of the Sinites as they are called, Gen. 10. 17. who dwelt about the Wilderness of Sin, which was Southward from Judea: Or, of Sin, a famous City of Egypt, called the strength of Egypt, which may be synecdochically put for all Egypt, and that for all Southern parts. And so he here mentions the several quarters of the World, where the generality of the Jews were dispersed; the North, which is every where named as the chief place of their banishment and dispersion, as Jer. 16. 15. and 31. 8. and elsewhere; the West, the western Countries and Islands; and the South.

13 Sing, O Heavens, and be joyful, O Earth, and break forth into singing, O Mountains: for the Lord hath comforted his People a, and will have mercy upon his afflicted.

a God hath now sent that long-desired Consolation of Israel.

14 But Zion said, The LORD hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me b.

b This is an objection against all these glorious predictions and promises hitherto mentioned. How can these things be true, when the condition of God's Church is now so sad and desperate, as it was when the Jews were Captives in Babylon, in which the Prophet here supposeth them to be?

15 Can a woman forget her sucking child † that she should not have compassion on the Son of her womb? yea they may forget, yet will I not forget thee c.

c Earthly Parents sometimes are so unnatural and monstrous; but do not entertain such unworthy thoughts of me. I will remember thee effectually, to bring thee out of Babylon, and which is infinitely greater, to send my Son into the world to work out eternal redemption for thee.

16 Behold I have graven thee upon the palms of my hands d: thy walls are continually before me e.

d Mine eye and heart is constantly upon thee. He alludes to the common practice of men who use to put signs and memorials upon their hands or fingers of such things as they dearly affect, and would remember. See Exod. 13. 9. Deut. 6. 8. Prov. 6. 21. Cant. 8. 6. Jer. 22. 24. e My thoughts run continually upon the Walls of Jerusalem, which are now broken down that I may repair them as soon as ever the set time cometh, and then proceed to do far greater things for thee.

17 Thy children f shall make haste, thy destroyers, and they that made thee waste, shall go forth of thee g.

f Or, as others render it, thy Builders; which is favoured by the next clause where the destroyers are opposed to them. However the sence is the same, for her children were her Builders, as we read in Ezra and Nehemiah. g Shall be separated and driven from among thee, and so shall neither hinder nor annoy thee.

64. 18 * Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold: all these h gather themselves together, and come to thee i, as I live, saith the LORD, thou shalt surely cloath thee with them all, as with an ornament k, and bind them on thee as a bride doth.

b To wit, the Gentiles, as sufficiently appeareth from what hath been already said, and from that which followeth. The sence is, Thy Church shall not only be restored and established in Jerusalem, but it shall be vastly enlarged and adorned by the accession of the Gentiles to it. i To receive instruction from thee, and to be incorporated with thee into one and the same Church. k They shall not be a burden, as the Gentiles formerly were when they mixed themselves with the Jews, but an Ornament in respect of those excellent gifts and graces wherewith they shall enrich and honour thy Church.

19 For thy waste and thy desolate places l, and the Land of thy destruction m shall even now be too narrow by reason of the inhabitants, and they that swallowed thee up, shall be far away n.

l Thy own Land, which is now waste and desolate, and wherein divers parts lay formerly waste and desolate for want of People to possess and manage them. m Or rather, Thy Land of Destruction, for called because it is devoted and shall be exposed to destruction. n To wit, from thee.

20 The children which thou shalt have, after thou hast lost o the other, shall say again p in thine ears, the place is too strait for me: give place to me that I may dwell.

o Heb. The Children of thine orbity or barren and Childless-state. Those Children which thou shalt have when thou art grown past the ordinary age and state of Child-bearing, as Sarah was made the Mother of a most numerous Posterity: to which he seems here to allude. Those Gentiles which shall be begotten by thee, to wit, by the Ministry of thy Children, Christ and his Apostles, when thou shalt be deprived of thine own natural Children, when thou shalt become barren and unfruitful as to Conversion of natural Jews, when the generality of the Jews shall cut themselves off from God and from his true Church, by their Apostacy from God; and by their unbelief, and obstinate refusal of their Messiah. p Or rather, shall yet say, though for the present it be otherwise.

21 Then shalt thou say q in thine heart, Who hath begotten me these r, seeing I have lost my children s and am desolate t, a captive, and removing to and fro u? and who hath brought up these x? Behold I was left alone; these, where had they been ?

q Not without admiration. r Whence, or by whom have I this numberless issue? s Seeing it is not long since that I was in a manner left childless. t Without an Husband, being forsaken by God, who formerly owned himself for my Husband, Isa. 54. 5. Jer. 31. 32. and elsewhere. u Which condition is in many respects a great impediment to the procreation of Children. x The speech a great impediment to the procreation of Children. x The speech a great impediment to expresse the miraculousness of this same thing repeated again to expresse the miraculousness of this same thing repeated again to expresse the miraculousness of this work, and the great surprisal of the Jews at it: which sheweth that he speaks of the Conversion of the Gentiles.

22 Thus saith the Lord GOD, Behold I will lift up mine hand y to the Gentiles, and set up my standard z to the people a: and they shall bring thy sons ‖ Heb. bosoms. b in their † arms c: and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders d.

y I will call them to me, and command them to do this work, as men commonly signifie their calls and commands by this gesture. z As Generals do to gather their Forces together. See on Isa. 11. 12. a Unto thee, or to thy Church and People. b Those which shall be thine, if not by natural Generation, yet by adoption, that shall own God for their Father, and Jerusalem for their Mother. c With great care and tenderness, as Nurses carry young Infants. The sence is, even the Heathen shall contribute to the increase and preservation of those Children which shall be begotten to thee. d As sick or infirm persons used to be carried. See Mark 2. 3. Luke 15. 5.

† Heb. nursing fathers. 23 And Kings shall be thy † nursing fathers, and their † queens thy nursing mothers e: they shall bow down to thee with their face toward the earth, and * lick up the dust of thy feet f, and thou shalt know that I am the LORD: for they shall not be ashamed that wait for me g.

e Kings and Queens shall have a sincere affection, and tender regard unto thee and thy Children, which was in some sort fulfilled by Cyrus, Ahasuerus, and some few others of the Persian Kings or Queens, but much more truly and fully by those many Kings, and Emperours of the Gentile World, which after Christs time did both themselves embrace the true Religion, and also set it up in their several Dominions. f They shall highly reverence and honour thee, and shall most humbly and readily submit themselves unto thee, which was not verified in any of the Persian Kings, but only in those Kings who were converted to the Christian Faith and Church. The expressions are borrowed from the practice of the Eastern People in their Prostrations and Adorations, when they bowed so low as to touch and kiss the ground, where by they did or might seem to lick up the very dust of the ground which was about or under the feet of those whom they adored. g Their hopes and expectations shall not be disappointed, but abundantly satisfied.

h Here he started an objection against the forementioned promises: How can Gods Church be delivered when she is become a prey to, and is in the hands of her most potent Enemies? i He who was taken Captive in a just War, as Gods People might in some fort be said to be, because God himself had delivered them into their Enemies hands, and that justly for their sins. So there is a double impediment to their deliverance out of their Corporal and Spiritual Bondage, the great Power of the Enemy which kept them in Bondage, and the Justice of God which pleads against them and against their deliverance.

† Heb. the captivity. 25 But thus saith the LORD, Even the † captives of the mighty shall be taken away, and the prey of the terrible k shall be delivered: for I l will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children.

k Or, of the violent, which is opposed to the lawful Captive in the foregoing verse: and it is hereby intimated that although God was just in delivering them into Captivity, yet their Oppressors were guilty of injustice and violence both in desiring and indeavouring to keep them in perpetual Bondage, beyond the seventy years which God had fixed, and in their cruel usage of them. l The Almighty God will undertake thy quarrel, and this work, and therefore it must necessarily be accomplished.

Rev.* 14. 20. & 16. 6. ‖ Or, new wine. 26 And I will feed them that oppress thee, with their own flesh m, and they shall be drunken with their own * blood, as with ‖ sweet wine: and all flesh shall know that I the Lord am thy Saviour and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob.

m I will make them eat their own Flesh, either through hunger, as Lev. 26. 29. Isa. 9. 20. or through rage and madness. Or, I will make thine Enemies to destroy one another, and that greedily and with delight, as the next clause implies. All their Enemies are here represented as one Body, and so when one part of them devoured another, it was their own flesh that was destroyed.

CHAP. L.

The Derelition of the Jews is not of Christ: for he hath Power to save, 1, —4. And was obedient in that Work: and God is present with him, 5, —9. An Exhortation not to trust in our selves, but in God, 10, 11.

Isa.* 2. 2. THus saith the LORD a, Where * is the bill of your mothers divorcement b, whom I have put away: or which of my * creditors is it to whom † See 2 Kin. have sold you c? Behold, for your Iniquities have ye sold your selves, and for your transgressions is your mother put away d.

a This is another Sermon begun here, and continued in the next Chapter. The main scope of it is to vindicate Gods Justice, and to convince the Jews that they were the causes of all their calamities which they imputed to God. b God had formerly espoused the Israelites to himself in a kind of Matrimonial Covenant, but seemed to cast them off when he sent them to Babylon, and did wholly reject them afterward from being his People, and took the Gentiles into their stead; which great and wonderful change was foretold in the Old Testament, as hath been already observed, and we shall see again, and accomplished in the New. And because God foresaw that those strange dispensations would provoke the Jews to murmur and quarrel with God, for casting them off without sufficient cause, as indeed they were always prone to accuse God, and to vindicate themselves, he bids them produce their Bill of divorce: For those Husbands which put away their Wives meerly out of Levity or Passion, were obliged to give their Wives a Bill of Divorce, which vindicated the Wives Innocency, and declared that the Husbands Will and Pleasure was the cause of the Divorce; of which see the notes on Deut. 24. 1. Mat. 19. 3. c Have I any creditors to whom I was obliged or willing to sell you for the payment of my Debt? Produce then the Bill of sale to witness against me. Parents might, and in some cases were forced to sell their Children to their Creditors: of which see on Exod. 21. 7. and 2 Kings 4. 1. d You can blame none but your selves and your own sins, for all your captivities and miseries.

2 Wherefore e when I came f, was there no man g? when I called h, was there none to answer i? * Is my hand shortned at all, that it cannot redeem? Or have I no power to deliver k? Behold, * at my rebuke l I * dry up m the sea: I make the * rivers a wilderness n: their fish stinketh because there is no water, and dieth for thirst

e The general Accusation delivered in the last words he now proveth by particular Instances. f When I, first by my Prophets, and at last by my Son, came unto them, to call them to Repentance, and to redeem and deliver them, as it is explained in the following clauses of this verse. g That regarded and received me, that complied plied with my Call and Offer of Grace, as it follows. Whereby he implies that the Generality of the Jews were guilty of gross infidelity, and obstinate Disobedience, and therefore might justly be rejected. b Called them to Repentance, or to come unto me, or to do my Will, as Masters call their Servants. i To come at my Call, to obey my Commands. k What is the reason of this horrible contempt and Rebellion? Is it because you expect no good from me, but think that I am either unwilling or unable to save you? Because you see no Miracles wrought for you to save you from the Babylonians; and because my Son, your Messiah, cometh not with Pomp and Power, as you expect, but in the form of a Servant, poor, and exposed to contempt and death; do you therefore believe that my power to deliver you is less than it was? l This Phrase is borrowed from Psalm 106. 9. and it is used Mat. 8. 26. At my Word or Command, whereby I rebuke and check its proud waves. m Heb. I will dry up, or, I can dry up; the future Verb being put potentially. As I did it once, so I can and will do it again, when occasion requires it. n As dry and fit for travel as a Wilderness.

o Or, I will or can cloath, &c. What I once did in Egypt, when I drew black curtains before all the heavenly Lights, and caused an unparallel'd and amazing Darkness for three days together, to the great terrour of mine Enemies, so I can and will do still when it is necessary to save my People. And therefore you have no reason to distrust me. p I cover them with thick and dark Clouds black as Sackcloath, as is said, Rev. 6. 12. or as that stuff of which the Tents of Kedar were made, Cant. 1. 5. From this and some other Expressions it appears, that they wore a black sackcloath, which also was most suitable to the state of mourners, by whom it was used.

4 The LORD GOD hath given me q the tongue of the learned r, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is * weary s: he wakeneth k morning by morning t, he wakeneth mine ear to hear u as the learned x.

q God having asserted his own power, to shew the groundlesness of the Infidelity of the Jews, he proceeds to shew what excellent and effectual means he used to bring them to Repentance and Salvation; which he mentions as a great aggravation of their Unbelief and Rebellion, which by this means was without all excuse. This and the following passages may be in some sort understood of the Prophet Isaiah, though but obscurely and imperfectly, but they are far more evidently and eminently verified in Christ, and indeed seem to be meant directly of him. For seeing there are many other passages in this Prophecy, which are directly meant of Christ, and of his Ministry, and not at all of the Prophet, why may not this be added to the number of them? especially considering that there is nothing here which forceth us to understand this place of Isaiah, and several of these passages are expounded of Christ in the New Testament, as is confessed. Besides, this seems to suit best with the coherence: For according to this Exposition the same person speaketh here who hath spoken in all the foregoing Verses of the Chapter, even the Lord himself considered as Man, because he was both God and Man, as is abundantly evident from many Scriptures, both of the old and new Testament, as hath been already proved, and will hereafter be more fully evinced. r An ability of speaking plainly, and convincingly, and perfusingly, and in all points so as becometh a person taught of God, and filled with all Divine and Heavenly Wisdom and Knowledge, and with a singular skill of winning Souls, and of working upon Mens Hearts and Consciences. s Burdened with the sense of his sad and deplorable condition, in which case a word of comfort is most seasonable and acceptable. This was the proper and principal design of Christs Ministry, to give Rest and Comfort to distressed Souls, according to what is said, with respect to this place, Mat. 11. 28. And all the Doctrines, Reproofs, and Threatnings of Christ were directed to this end, to make men fit for Comfort and Salvation. k To wit, me, the Pronoun being oft understood: or, as it follows, mine ear. t From time to time, and continually. u Because humane Nature is of it self weak and sloathful, he by his Divine Power assisteth and stirreth me up to the observation and practice of all his Commands and my Duties. x Either, 1. As learned Men or Teachers use to awaken their Scholars to hear, and learn of them from time to time: Or rather, 2. As those that are or desire and endeavour to be learned, use to hear with all possible attention and diligence: For this title of learned is in the former part of the verse given not to the Teacher, who is said to be God, but to the person taught by him.

5 The LORD GOD hath opened mine ear y, and I was not * rebellious z, neither turned away back a.

* Joh. 14. 31. Phil. 2. 8. Heb. 10. 5, &c.

y Hath revealed unto me: Or rather, hath given me a power and Will to hear and receive his commands, as this Phrase is used, Psalm 40. 6. Isa. 35. 5. and elsewhere. z I readily did and suffered what he required of me. a The same thing repeated in other words. I did not turn away mine Ear from hearing any of Gods Commands, nor my feet from going where God lent me, how difficult or dangerous soever my employment was. He seems to allude to the former Prophets who had, divers of them, shrunk back, and for a time refused such work as God called them to, as Moses, Exod. 3. 11, 13. Jonah, ch. 1. 3. and others.

6 * I gave my back to the smiters b, and * my cheeks to them that plucked off the hair c: I hid not my face from shame d and spitting e.

* Mat. 26. 67. & 27. 26. * Lam. 3. 30.

b I patiently yielded up my self, and turned my back to those who smote me. I was willing not only to do, but to suffer the Will of God, and the Injuries of men. This and the following passages were litterally fulfilled in Christ, as is expressly affirmed, Mat. 26. 57, 67. and 27. 26, 30. and elsewhere; but we read of no such thing concerning Isaiah. And therefore it is most safe and reasonable to understand it of Christ, the rather because it is not usual with the Prophets to commend themselves so highly, as the Prophet here commends the person of whom he speaketh. c Which was a contumely or punishment inflicted upon Malefactors, Neh. 13. 25. d From all manner of reproachful usages, but did knowingly and willingly submit my self thereunto. e Spitting in a mans Face was used in token of contempt and detestation, Numb. 12. 14. Job 30. 10. And this was litterally fulfilled in Christ, Mat. 26. 67.

7 For the LORD GOD will help me g, therefore shall I not be confounded h: therefore have I set my face like a flint i, and I know that I shall not be ashamed.

f Or rather, But, as this particle is oft rendred. For Gods favour is here opposed to the injuries of Men. g Though as a man I am weak and inconsiderable, yet God will strengthen me to go through my great and hard work. h Therefore I assure my self of success in my employment, and of victory over all mine Enemies. i I have hardened my self with resolution and courage against all opposition. So this or the like Phrase is used, Ezek. 3. 8, 9. which elsewhere signifies obstinacy and impudence, as Jer. 5. 3. Zech. 7. 12. so that it notes any settled and unmoveable purpose, whether good or evil.

8 * He is near k that justifieth me l, who will contend with me? let us stand together: who is † mine adversary? let him come near to me m.

* Rom. 8. 33, 34. † Heb. master of cause, suit.

k God, though he seem to be at a distance, and to hide his face from me, yet he is in truth at my right hand, and ready to help me. l That will publickly acquit me from all the calumnies of mine adversaries, who say that I am a transgressor of the Law, a false Teacher and Deceiver, a Blasphemer, and a Devil, and the like, in which opinion they are confirmed by my Death and Sufferings. But God will clear up my Righteousness, and shew by many and mighty signs and wonders, that he is well pleased with me and that I lived and died his faithful Servant. m I challenge all my Accusers to stand and appear before the Judge Face to Face, and to produce all their charges against me: for I am conscious of mine own Innocency, and I know that God will give sentence for me.

9 Behold, the LORD GOD will help me, who is he that shall condemn me n? Lo, they all o shall wax old as a garment: the * moth shall eat them up p.

* Ch. 50. 9.

n That dare attempt it, or can justly do it. o Mine Accusers and Enemies. p Shall pine away in their iniquity, as God threatned, Lev. 26. 39. shall be cut off and consumed by a secret curse and Judgment of God, which is compared to a Moth, Hos. 5. 12. whilest I shall survive and flourish, and the pleasure of God shall prosper in my hands, as is said, Isa. 53. 10.

10 Who is among you that feareth the LORD q, that obeyeth the voice of his servant r, that walketh in * darkness s, and hath no light t? let him trust in the name of the LORD, and stay upon his God u.

* Ch. 9. 2. & 50. 10.

q He now turneth his Speech from the unbelieving and rebellious Jews to those of them who were or should be pious. r Of the same person of whom he hath hitherto spoken, of Christ, who is called Gods Servant, Isa. 52. 13. and 53. 11. partly by way of eminency, and partly to intimate that although he was God, yet he should take upon himself the form of a Servant, as is said, Phil. 2 7. He hereby signifies that the Grace of God, and the comfort here following belongeth to none but to those that hear and believe this great Prophet of the Church; which also was declared by Moses, Deut. 18. 15. compared with Acts 3. 22, 23. s Not in sin, which is oft called, darkness, as walking in darkness is put for living in wickedness, 1 John 1. 6. but in misery, which also frequently cometh under the name of darkness: that liveth in a most disconsolate and calamitous condition, together with great despondency or dejection of Spirit. t No comfort nor hope left. u Let him fix his Faith and Hope in the Name, i. e. in the most excellent and amiable nature, and infinite perfections, and especially in the free Grace, and Mercy, and Faithfulness, of the Lord, declared in his word, and in his propriety or interest in God, who by the mediation of this Servant is reconciled to him and made his God.

11 Behold, all ye that kindle a fire x, that compass your selves about y with sparks z: walk in the light of your fire, * and in the sparks that ye have kindled a. This shall ye have of mine hand, ye shall lie down in sorrow b.

x That you may enjoy the light and comfort of it, as it is explained in the following words. You that reject the light which God hath set up, and refuse the counsel of his Servant, and seek for Comfort, and Safety, and the Knowledge of Gods Mind, and the enjoyment of his favour by your own inventions; which was the common errour of the Jews in all Ages, and especially in the days of the Messiah, when they refused him and that way of Righteousness and Salvation which he appointed, and rested upon their own Traditions and devices, going about to establish their own Righteousness, and not submitting unto the Righteousness of God, as is expressed, Rom. 10. 3. y Endeavouring to warm and refresh your selves on all sides. z Or rather, with Firebrands, as this very word is fitly rendred, Prov. 26. 18. which is better than sparks or flames, which is there out in the margent, because firebrands only, and not sparks or flames, are capable of being thrown by one man at another. And this word is no where else used in Scripture. He mentions fire-brands, either to imply that these fires yielded more smoak than heat or light: or because these were the usual materials of a fire. a Use your utmost endeavours to get comfort and satisfaction from these devices. b This shall be the fruit of all, through my just Judgment, that instead of that comfort and security which you expect by these means, you shall receive nothing but vexation and misery, which shall pursue you both living and dying: for this word, which is here rendred lie down, is frequently used for dying, as Gen. 47. 30. Job 21. 26. and elsewhere. Or it is a metaphor from a man that lying down on his Bed for rest and ease, meets with nothing but trouble and pain, as Job complain'd, Chap. 7. 13, 14.

CHAP. LI.

Abraham our Pattern to trust in Christ: in his Promises, and righteous Salvation: this is constant, but men are transitory, 1—8. A Prayer of the Godly in Affliction, 9,—11. The Lord's Answer, 12,—17. He bewaileth Jerusalem, 18,—20. The bitter Cup taken from her, and given to her Enemies, 21,—23.

HEarken to me, ye that follow after righteousness a, ye that seek the LORD b: look unto the rock whence ye are ‖ hewen, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are ‖ digged c.

a Now he turneth his Speech again to the believing and godly Jews. b That make it your chief care and business to seek favour and help from God. c Consider the state of Abraham and Sarah, when they procreated Isaac, from whom Jacob and all of you sprang: For so he explains the Metaphor in the next verse. He compareth the Bodies of Abraham and Sarah unto a Rock, or Pit, or Quarry out of which stones are hewed or digged, thereby implying that God in some sort actually did that which Christ said he was able to do, Mat. 3. 9. even of stones to raise up Children unto Abraham; it being then as impossible by the course of nature for Abraham and Sarah in that age to procreate a Child, as it is to hew a living Child out of a Rock, or to dig one out of a Pit of Stone.

2 Look unto Abraham your father, and unto Sarah that bare you; for I called him d alone e, and blessed him, and encreased him f.

d From his own Country and kindred to follow me to an unknown Land, where I promised that I would multiply and bless him, as is particularly explained, Gen. 12. 1, 2, 3. e Heb. one, either 1. Him only of all his kindred; for though he carried some few of them with him, yet I called none but him. So this notes God's singular favour to their Progenitors above all the rest of the World. Or, 2. Him when he was alone or solitary, to wit, as to any Issue; when he neither had nor was likely to have any Child by Sarah. And this word alone, seems to belong not only to this word wherewith it is joined, but also unto the two following words, especially if we consider the order of the words in the Hebrew Text, where they lie thus; for, one (or alone, or when he was alone, or but one) I called him, and blessed him, and encreased him. f Into a vast multitude, when his condition was desperate in the eye of reason. And therefore God can as easily raise and deliver his Church when they are in the most forlorn condition, and seem to be dead, and buried, and consumed, to shut nothing but dry bones remain of them, as it is declared at large, Ezek. 37.

3 For g the LORD shall comfort Zion h: he will comfort all her waste places, and he will make her wilderness like Eden, and her desart like the garden of the LORD i: joy and gladness shall be found therein, thanksgivinng and the voice of melody.

g So this comes in as a reason why they should look unto, or consider that famous example of Abraham and Sarah, because they should find the like wonder wrought on their behalf. Or, Therefore, should find the like wonder wrought on their behalf. Or, Therefore, or for the sake of Abraham, my Friend, and of that Covenant which I made with him, and by which I promised to bless him and his seed for ever. h His Church, which is frequently called by that name both in the Old and New Testament. i Although she shall be waste and desolate like a Wilderness or Desart for a time, yet she shall be restored, and be made as pleasant and flourishing as the Garden of Eden was.

k Seeing the Gentiles will hearken to me, as I have formerly told you, take heed that you Jews, whom I chose to be my peculiar people, do not reject my counsel, nor forsake your own mercies, as I fear you will do. l A new Law, even the Doctrine of the Gospel, which ought to have the force of a Law with you, and I expect your Obedience to it, no less than to my Law delivered by Moses. m Judgment is here the same thing with Law in the former clause, the word of God, which is frequently called Judgment, as hath been observed again and again, or the Evangelical Doctrine, of which he saith that he will make it to rest, i. e. settle and establish it: whereby he may possibly intimate the stability and perpetuity of this light in the Church, that it shall not be like the light of the Mosaical Dispensation which was only to shine for a season, even until the time of Reformation, Heb. 9. 10. when all those dark shadows were to vanish and give place to the Sun of Righteousness, and to that Kingdom and State that should never be moved, as we read, Dan. 2. 44. Heb. 12. 26, 27, 28. and in many other places. n Heb. of or to the Peoples, not only to you Jews, but unto People of all sorts and Nations, who shall receive and walk in that light which you will reject, and use all possible endeavours to extinguish.

5 My righteousness o is near: my salvation is gone forth p, and mine arms shall judge the people q: the isles r shall wait upon me s, and on mine arm shall they trust.

o My Salvation, as it is expounded in the next clause, the Redemption of all my people, both Jews and Gentiles, which is the effect of his Righteousness, either his Justice, or his Faithfulness, or his Mercy and Goodness, for all these are called by the name of Righteousness in Scripture, and all these contributed to the work of Man's Redemption. p Shall shortly go forth: my secret and eternal purpose of saving my People shall speedily be fulfilled. q Either 1. Shall destroy those People who obstruct or oppose this work. Or rather, 2 Shall subdue the Gentiles to mine Authority, and rule them by my Word and Spirit, which agrees best with the following clause. r The remote Countries of the Gentiles, as Isa. 41. 1. & 42. 4. and elsewhere. s Shall confidently expect and hope for this promised Righteousness and Salvation from me, and from me only, and not from Idols, as they have done; nor by any other way.

6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for * the Heavens shall vanish away like smoak, and the earth shall wax old like a Garment t, and they that dwell therein shall die ‖ in like manner u, but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished.

* Psal n 102. 26. Mat. 24. 35. ‖ Or, as a louse.

t The Heavens and Earth shall pass away, either 1 Simply, and by a substantial corruption or annihilation, which is yet to be understood comparatively or conditionally, that these should sooner vanish into nothing, than God's promise of Salvation should not be accomplished: as when it is said, Heaven and Earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away, Mat. 24. 35. it is thus expounded, It is easier for Heaven and Earth to pass, than (for) one tittle of the Law to fail. Or 2. In regard of their present State and Properties, and Use, as Smoak is here said to vanish, although the substance of it be not destroyed. u As they shall be dissolved, as we read, 2 Pet. 3. 11. and death is nothing else but a dissolution.

7 Hearken unto me, ye that know x righteousness, the people * in whose heart is my law y, * fear ye not the reproach of men z, neither be ye afraid of their revilings.

* Psal. 37. 31. * Mat. 10. 28.

x That love and practise it, as knowing is commonly used. y Who are tacitly opposed to the carnal Jews that had the Law written only in Tables. Compare 2 Cor. 3. 3. Heb. 8. 10. z The censures of the carnal Jews, who will load their believing and godly Brethren with a world of Reproaches: but let not these things discourage you.

8 For * the moth shall eat them up a like a garment, and the worm shall eat them like wool b: but my Righteousness shall be for ever, and my salvation from generation to generation.

* Ch. 50. 9.

a Your Reproachers shall be easily destroyed, and so God will revenge your cause upon them, and deliver you from their Reproaches. b Like a woollen Garment, which is sooner corrupted by Moths or such Creatures than linnen.

9 Awake, awake c, put on strength d, O arm of the LORD; awake, as in the ancient days, in the generations of old. Art thou not it that hath cut e Rahab f, and wounded the * dragon g?

* Ps. 74. 13, 14. Ezek. 29. 3.

c Thou who hast carried thy self like one asleep, and unconcerned for thy People, and unable to save them. The Prophet having foretold what Great things God would do for his Church, and longing for the accomplishment of them, and knowing that Prayer was one means by which God fulfills his Promises, he poureth forth this Prayer to God in his own name, and in the name of God's People. d Cloath and adorn thy self with mighty works; put forth thy strength. e Heb. hewed with thy Sword. f Egypt, so called here, and Psal. 87. 4. & 89. 10. either from its Pride or strength, or from the shape and figure of that Land. g Pharaoh, so called, Psal. 74. 13. Ezek. 29. 3. & 32. 2.

10 Art thou not it which hath * dried the sea h, the waters of the great deep? that hath made the depths of the sea a way for the ransomed i to pass over?

* Ex. 14. 21.

h Art not thou the same God, and as potent now as then thou wast. i For thy people whom thou didst redeem and bring out of Egypt.

11 Therefore k * the redeemed of the LORD shall return, and come with singing unto Zion, and everlasting joy shall be * upon their head l: they shall obtain gladness and joy, and sorrow and mourning shall flee away.

* Ch. 35. 10. * Ps. 7. 16.

k Or, So. Heb. And. This verse contains an answer to the Prophet's Prayer. It is true, I did these great things, and I will do the like again. l Like a Crown of Glory. But for the accomplishment of this magnificent Promise we must needs look beyond their return from Babylon into their own Land, when they met with many discouragements, and troubles, and calamities, and extend it unto the coming of Christ, by whom these great things were procured, and actually conferred upon his People.

12 I, even I am he that comforteth you: who art thou m, that thou shouldest be afraid * of a man that shall die, and of the son of man which shall be made * as grass n?

* Psalm 118. 6. Jer. 40. 6. 1 Pet. 1. 24.

m How unreasonable and distrustful art thou, O my Church! how unlike to thy self! how unsuitable in these despondencies unto thy own professions and obligations! n Of a weak Mortal and perishing Creature.

13 And forgettest the LORD thy maker o, that hath * stretched forth the heavens, and laid the foundations of the earth? and hast feared continually every day, because of the fury of the oppressor, as if he were ready to destroy p? and where is the fury of the oppressour q?

* Job 9. 8. Ps. 104. 2. Ch. 40. 22. & 42. 5. & 44. 24. ‖ Or, made himself ready.

o And dost not consider the infinite power of that God who made thee, and who will plead thy cause. p As if it were in his power to destroy thee in a moment. q What is become of the power & rage of the Babylonians? Is it not all gone? Are not they broken, and thou delivered?

delivered? He speaks of the thing as if it were already done, because it should certainly and suddenly be done. Where is it? It is no where, it is quite, and gone, as this Phrase is frequently used, as Psal. 42. 3. Rev. 1. 9. 1 Cor. 15. 55.

14 The captive exile hasteneth that he may be loosed r, and that he should not die in the pit, nor that his bread should fail.

r God is not slack, as you think, but maketh haste to fulfil his promise, and to rescue his captive and oppressed People from all their oppressions and miseries.

‖Or, that stilleth the sea, when the waves thereof roar. Job 26. 12. Jer. 31. 35. Deut. 18. Ch. 49. 2, 3.

15 But I am the LORD thy God ‖ that * divideth the sea, whose waves roared: the LORD of hosts is his name.

16 And I have put my words * in thy mouth s, and have covered thee in the shadow of mine hand t, that I may plant the heavens, and * lay the foundations of the earth u, and say unto Zion, Thou art my people x.

s These great and glorious Promises which are in thy mouth, are not the vain words of Man, a weak and uncoastant, and unfaithful Creature, but the words of the Almighty, unchangeable, and faithful God, and therefore they shall be infallibly accomplished. These words are manifestly spoken by God, either 1. To Isaiah, by whom these promises were delivered: Or 2. To Christ, of whom, and to whom many things are said in this Prophecy, as we have already seen, and will further appear. And such abrupt and sudden Apostrophe's to persons not mentioned in the foregoing words are not unusual in this Prophecy, as hath been observed. Or rather 3, To Israel, to God's Church and People, to whom he speaks both in the foregoing and following verses. For God's Word is frequently said to be put into the mouths, not only of the Prophets, but of the People also, as Isa. 59. 21. as also Deut. 30. 14. Jos. 1. 8. &c. t Have protected thee by my almighty power. See the same Phrase, Isa. 49. 2. u I have given thee these Promises, and this protection in all thy calamities, to assure thee of my care and kindness to thee, and that I will reform thee in a most glorious manner, and bring thee unto that perfect and blessed estate which is referred for the days of the Messiah; which in Scripture Phrase is called a making of new Heavens, and a new Earth, Isa. 65. 17, and 66. 22. 2 Pet. 3. 13. and elsewhere. x That I may own thee for my People, in a more illustrious manner than ever I have done.

Ch. 52. 1. 17 * Awake y, awake, stand up z, O Jerusalem, which hast drunk at the hand of the LORD the cup of his fury a; thou hast * drunken the dregs of the * cup of trembling b, and ‖ wrung them out c.

* Psa. 75. 8. * Zech. 12. 2.

y Either 1. Out of the sleep of security. Or 2. Out of the sleep of death. Heb. Rouze up thy self: come out of that forlorn and discomfortable condition in which thou hast so long been. This sense suits best with the following words. z Upon thy feet, O thou who hast fallen, and been thrown down to the ground. a Which hast been sorely afflicted; for so this Metaphor is used, Psal. 75. 8. Jer. 25. 15. Ezec. and 49. 12. b Which striketh him that drinketh it with a deadly horrour. b Drunk every drop of it. See on Psal. 75. 8.

18 There is none to guide her among all the sons whom she hath brought forth: neither is there any that taketh her by the hand, of all the sons that she hath brought up d.

d When thou wast drunk with this Cup, and not able to go, neither thy Princes, nor Prophets, nor Priests, were able or willing to lead and support thee.

* Ch. 47. 9. † Heb. happened. † Heb. breaking.

19 * These two things e † are come unto thee: who shall be sorry for thee? desolation, and † destruction, and the famine, and the sword: by whom shall I comfort thee f?

e Either 1. Those which were now mentioned, 1. That she was drunk with the cup of God's wrath, v. 17. 2. That she had none to support or comfort her in that condition. Or 2. Those which here follow, which although they be expressed in 4 words, yet they may fitly be reduced to two things, the desolation or devastation of the Land, and the destruction of the People, by Famine and Sword. So Famine and Sword are not named as new evils, but only as the particular ways or means of bringing the destruction there mentioned, and the words may be thus rendred, desolation and destruction, even (this Hebrew particle being oft taken expositively, whereof many instances have been given) famine (or, by famine) and sword. Or, two may be put indefinitely for many, as double is put for abundantly more, Job 11. 6. Isa. 40. 2. & 61. 7. Zech. 9. 12. and elsewhere. f I cannot find any man who is able to comfort and relieve thee.

* Lament. 2. 11, 12. 20 * Thy sons have fainted g; they lie h at the head of all the streets i; as a wild bull in a net k: they are full of the fury of the LORD, the rebuke of thy God.

g They are so far from being able to comfort thee, as was said, v. 18. that they themselves faint away for want of comfort, and through famine. h Dead by Famine or the Sword of the Enemy. i Where men enter in or go out of the streets, where the Enemy found them either opposing their entrance, or running out of them to make an escape. k Those of them who are not slain are struggling for Life, and although they murmur at God, and fight with men, yet they cannot prevail or escape.

l But with the cup of God's fury mentioned above, v. 17.

22 Thus saith thy Lord, the LORD, and thy God that pleadeth the cause of his people m, Behold, I have taken out of thine hand the cup of trembling, even the dregs of the cup of my fury: thou shalt no more drink it again.

m Who though he hath fought against thee, is now reconciled to thee, and will maintain thy cause against all thine adversaries.

23 But * I will put it into the hand of them that afflict thee: which * have said to thy soul, bow down that we may go over n: and thou hast laid thy body as the ground, and as the street to them that went over.

* Jer. 25. 26. * Psal. 12.

n Lie down upon the ground, that we may trample upon thee, as Conquerours used to do upon their Conquered Enemies. See Jos. 10. 24. Psal. 110. 1.

CHAP. LII.

The Church redeemed and called upon to rejoice therein. 1,—6. The Universal Preaching of the Gospel glorious. 7,—10. A Call to free our selves from bondage. 11,—12. Christ's Kingdom shall be exalted, 13,—15.

* Ch. 51. 17. AWake, awake, put on thy strength a, O Zion, put on thy beautiful garments b, O Jerusalem, the holy city c: for henceforth there shall no more come into thee d the uncircumcised e, and the unclean f.

a God biddeth his Church do that which she intreated him to do, ch. 51. 9. And because God's word is operative, and effectual, and his sayings are doings, this is a prediction and promise what she should do, that she should awake or arise out of her low estate, and be strong and courageous. b Thy sorrows shall be ended, and thou shalt be advanced into a most glorious and blessed condition. c O my Church, which is every where called by the name of Zion or Jerusalem. d Either to molest thee, or to associate themselves with thee, or to defile or corrupt thee. e Heathens or Infidels, who are commonly called uncircumcised. f Nor any others, who though they be circumcised, as the Jews generally were, are unclean in any thing. Whereby he intimates, that there should be a greater purity and Reformation in the Church than formerly there had been, which was eminently accomplished in the Church and Kingdom of Christ.

2 Shake thy self from the dust g: arise, and sit down h, O Jerusalem: loose thy self from the bands of thy neck i, O captive daughter of Zion.

g In which thou hast lain as a Prisoner, or fate as a mourner. h Upon thy Throne. Or, sit up, as this word is rendred, Gen. 27. 19. i The yoke of thy captivity shall be taken off from thee. It is a Metaphor from Beasts that have the yoke fastened by bands to their necks.

3 For thus saith the LORD, * Ye have sold your selves k for nought l, and ye shall be redeemed without money m.

* Psa. 44. 12. Ch. 45. 13. Jer. 15. 13.

k By your sins, into the hands of the Chaldeans. l Without any price or valuable consideration paid by them either to you, or to me your Lord and owner. m Without paying any ransom.

4 For thus saith the Lord GOD, My people went down aforetime into * Egypt to sojourn there n, and o * the Assyrian p oppressed them without cause q.

* Gen. 46. 6. * Jer. 50. 17.

n Where they had protection and sustenance, and therefore owed subjection to the King of Egypt. And yet when he oppressed them I punished him severely, and delivered them out of his hands. Which is easily understood from the following words. o Or, but; for here is an opposition made between these two cases. p The King of Babylon, who is called the King of Assyria, 2 Kin. 23. 29. compared with ch. 24. 7. as also the Persian Emperour is called, Ezra 6. 22. because it was one and the same Empire which was possessed, first by the Assyrians, then by the Babylonians, and afterwards by the Persians. q Without any such ground or colour, by meer force invading their Land, and carrying them away into captivity. For although it be said that God gave this Land and People into his hand, 2 Chr. 36. 17. by his Counsel and Providence, yet that was neither known to, nor regarded by the King of Babylon, nor was it a good and lawful Title, God's Word, and not his Providence, being the Rule by which Mens rights are determined; otherwise a Robber hath a right to my purse, which he cannot take from me upon the high-way without God's Providence.

5 Now therefore, what have I here r, saith the LORD, that my people is taken away s for nought t? they that rule over them u, make them to howl x saith the LORD, and my name continually every day is * blasphemed y.

* Ezek. 36. 20, 23. Rom. 2. 24.

r Heb. What to me here? The sense is either 1. What do I here? Why do I sit still here, and not go to Babylon to punish the Babylonians, and to deliver my People? Or 2. What honour have I by suffering this injury to be done to my People? s Were carried away Captive by the Babylonians. t Without any provocation or pretence of right. See before on v. 3. u Who by their Office are obliged to deal justly and tenderly with their subjects. x By their tyrannical and unmerciful usage of them. y Instead of that praise and service which the Babylonians owe me for all their successes and Conquests, they blaspheme me as if I wanted either power or good will to save my People out of their hands.

6 Therefore my People shall know my name: therefore therefore they shall know a in that day b, that I am he that doth speak, behold, it is I c.

z They shall have sensible Experience of my infinite power and goodness in fighting for them and against you: whereby they shall be able to put your blasphemous tongues to silence. a Which word is understood from the foregoing clause, as is very frequent in Scripture. b When I shall redeem my People: which work was begun by the return of the Jews from Babylon, and afterwards carried on, and at last perfected by the coming of the Messiah. c That all these promises are not the words of a weak, or fickle, or deceitful man, but of him who is the Omnipotent, and Unchangeable, and Covenant-keeping God. Or thus, That I who have formerly spoken to you by my Servants the Prophets, (for it was the Spirit of Christ which was and spake in them, 1 Pet. 1. 11.) do now speak to you in my own person, being cloathed with flesh. Which agrees well, as with the Analogy of Faith, and with divers other Scriptures, so particularly with the next verse, and with divers following passages, which so evidently speak of the person and Kingdom of Christ, th they cannot without great force be understood of any other.

7 * How beautiful d upon the mountains e are the feet f of him g that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation h, that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth i.

d These are words of rejoicing and admiration. They are exceeding precious and acceptable. e Of Zion, and Moriah, which are sometimes mentioned as one Mountain, and sometimes as two. Or, in the mountainous Country of Judea, to which these glad tidings were brought, and from which they were spread abroad into other Countries. f Which carry this welcome messenger; or the messenger himself. g Or, of them, for the singular number is oft put for the plural: although it may be here emphatically used, to signifie, that although there were many Messengers, yet one was the chief, and Lord of the Embassy, whose coming was more acceptable than the rest: which suits excellently to the Messiah, who is called the Messenger of the Covenant, Mal. 3. 1. and is oft said to be sent by God, as Joh. 6. 38. & 8. 16, 18. &c. to publish the glad tidings of Salvation. h Those emphatical and repeated Expressions are a sufficient evidence, that something further and better is here intended than their deliverance out of Babylon, which in it self was but a very imperfect work, and reached at first but to a few of that numerous People, and was attended with many fears, and sorrows, and remainders of their bondage, Ezra 9. 8, 9. Nehem. 1. 3. and that although that was the beginning of these glad tidings, yet they extended much further even to the coming of Christ, by whom alone true Peace and Salvation were procured. i It is true, this might in some sort be said when God so over-ruled the affairs of the World, and the heart of Cyrus, that his People were freed from the Babylonish Captivity and restored into and setled in their own Land. Although he that considers the state of God's People in their own Land after their return, will find that the reign of God in and over the World was not then either very conspicuous or glorious. And therefore it seems far more reasonable to understand it of the days of the Messiah, when God did discover and exercise his dominion over the World far more eminently than ever he had done from the beginning of the World until that time.

k Thy Ministers who shall descry the approach and coming of this heavenly King and Kingdom. l Partly to give notice to all People of these glad tidings; and partly by way of exultation, to sing forth the Praises of God for this glorious day and Mercy, as it here follows. m They shall understand, and so be able to teach Divine Mysteries. n Very distinctly and clearly, and familiarly, their eyes beholding the Eyes of this King or Glory, as it is said of Zedekiah, Jer. 34. 3. Thine Eyes shall behold the Eyes of the King of Babylon; and as it is said, Mouth to Mouth, Numb. 12. 8. and Face to Face, Gen. 32. 30. Exod. 33. 11. Numb. 14. 14. They shall see with their bodily Eyes the King of the Church, or the Word made Flesh, as they are said to have done, Joh. 1. 14. & 1 Joh. 1. 1. They shall be Eye and Ear-witnesses of the Words and Works of Christ, and therefore their Testimony of these things shall be more certain and valuable. o When God shall compleat the work of bringing his Church out of Captivity; which was begun at the return out of Babylon, and perfected by Christs coming into the World.

* Isa. 13. 19. 12. 9 Break forth into joy, * sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem p: for the LORD hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem.

p For you shall be restored unto your former, and a far greater fertility.

10 The LORD hath made bare his holy arm q in the eyes of all the nations, and * all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God r.

* Isa. 2. 2. & 3. 6.

q Hath discovered and put forth his great power, which for a long time hath lain hid, and seemed to be idle. r All Nations of the World shall with astonishment behold the wonderful work of God, first in bringing his People out of Babylon, and afterwards in their Redemption by Christ.

* Isa. 30. 20. & 48. 17. & 52. 14. 11 * Depart ye, depart ye, go ye out from thence s, touch no unclean thing t, go ye out of the midst of her, be ye clean, that bear the vessels of the LORD u.

s Make haste, O ye banished Jews, to depart out of Babylon into your own Land, that there I may meet with you, and bless you, and perform those further and greater things which I have promised there to do for you. And this invitation was the more necessary, because God foresaw that a great number of the Jews would upon worldly considerations continue in those foreign Countries in which they were setled, and be very backward to return to the Holy Land. t And when you go thence, take heed that you carry not along with you any of their Superstitions or Idolatries, but purifie and prepare your selves, that so God may return to you in mercy, when you return into your own Land. u And especially you Priests and Levites, whose Office it is to minister in holy things, and to carry back the holy Vessels of the Temple, keep your selves from all pollution.

12 For ye shall not go out with haste, nor go by flight x: for the LORD will go before you: and the God of Israel will † be your rearward y.

x But securely, and in triumph, being conducted by your great Captain the Lord of Hosts. And therefore you will have both the greater Obligation, and the more leisure and opportunity to cleanse your selves from all filthiness. y So that none shall be able either to oppose and stop you in your march, or to fall upon you in the rear, as Enemies commonly do.

13 Behold a, my servant b shall ‖ deal prudently c, he shall be exalted, and extolled, and be very high d.

a This is the beginning of a new Prophecy, which is continued from hence to the end of the next Chapter; and therefore it is well observed by divers, both ancient and modern Interpreters, that the Fifty and Third Chapter should have begun here. b Qu. Of whom doth the Prophet here speak? It is apparent that these three last verses of this Chapter, and all the following Chapter speak of one and the same person. And that that Person is Christ is so evident, that the Chaldee Paraphrast, and other ancient, and some later Hebrew Doctors, understand it directly of him, and that divers Jews have been convinced and converted to the Christian Faith by the evidence of this Prophecy. And there is not a verse in this whole context which doth not afford a clear and convincing proof of this truth, as we shall see. And there needs no other Argument to confirm it, than the variety and vanity of the pretended Expositions of the Jews, who use all possible Wit and Art to wrest all these passages to other persons. Those who would seem wiser than the rest, and confute the other Expositions of their Brethren, understand it either of the Jewish People in general, or of the Prophet Jeremiah in particular. But both these conceits are so groundless and absurd, that there is scarce a verse but confutes them, as we shall clearly discern in the Expoition of them. And therefore other Jews reject them both, and understand it of Abraham, or Moses, or Joshua, or Ezra, or Zorobabel; and they might as well have named twenty persons more, to whom this place might be applied upon as good grounds as to any of these. But there is not one clause in all this context which is not most truly and fitly applied to Christ, as I shall make apparent, step by step. And first this Title of God's Servant is in an eminent and peculiar manner given to Christ in this very Prophecy, as Isa. 42. 1. & 49. 6. & 53. 11, & Ezek. 34. 23. Zech. 3. 8. c Shall manage his Kingdom with admirable Wisdom. Or, shall prosper, as it is in the margent, and as this word is frequently rendred, and particularly in this very case, and of this same person, Jer. 23. 5. Which also seems best to agree with the following Clause, and with Chap. 53. 10. 11. And this intimation concerning the future prosperity and advancement of the Messiah, is fitly put in the first place to prevent those scandals which otherwise might arise from the succeeding passages which largely describe his state of Humiliation and deep affliction. d Here are three words signifying the same thing to express the Height and Glory of his Exaltation. Which agrees most fitly to Christ, but cannot without great force be applied to Jeremiah, who had no greater honour or favour done him by the Chaldeans at the taking of Jerusalem, than to be left at liberty to go where he pleased, Jer. 40. 4. and who after that time met with great contempt and hardship from his own Countrey-men, Jer. 42. and 43, and 44.

* Ch. 53. 3, 10. 14 As many were astonied e at thee f; (his * visage was so marred more than any man, and his form more than the sons of men g.)

e Were struck with wonder, either 1. At his glorious Endowments, and the Excellency and Power of his Doctrine, and his miraculous works. Or rather 2. At his great deformity, and stupendious Humiliation and calamity, as may be gathered, both from the following words, and from the use of this word in Scripture, which is generally used in a bad sense, or of wondring at some extraordinary evil, as Jer. 18. 16. & 19. 8. and oft elsewhere, and never in a good sense, or of wondring at any thing which is extraordinarily good. f At thee, O my Servant, to whom he now turneth his speech, and then turneth his speech from him, and speaks of him in the next words; such sudden changes of Persons, and speaking of one and the same man, sometimes in one person, and then presently in another, being very frequent in the Writings of the Prophets, as we have already seen in divers instances. g He was more deformed or uncomely than any other man. Which was undoubtedly verified in Christ, who in respect of his Birth, and Breeding, and manner of Life, was most obscure and contemptible, and therefore said to be a worm, and no man, a reproach of men, and despised of the People, Psal. 22. 6. who was more hated and vilified by the generality of the Jews than any man upon Earth, and was accounted and called by them a Deceiver, a Samaritan, a Blasphemer, and a Devil, &c. whose Countenance also was so marred with frequent Watchings, and Fastings, and Troubles, that he was thought to be near fifty Years old when he was but about Thirty, Joh. 8. 57. and was farther spoiled with buffetings, and crowning with Thorns, and other cruel and despightful usages from men, and with the deep and continual sense of the burden of mens sins, and of God's displeasure due unto them; all which did not only oppress his spirit, but had a great influence upon the very constitution of his Body.

15 So b shall he sprinkle i many nations, the kings
* Rom. 15. 21. shall shut their mouths at him k: for that * which had not been told them shall they see l, and that which they had not heard shall they consider m.

b His Exaltation shall be answerable to his Humiliation. i Either 1. With his Blood, which is called, the blood of sprinkling, Heb. 12. 24. or, shall justifie them, as it follows, Isa. 53. 11. which is frequently expressed by washing, as Psal. 51. 2, 7. Ezek. 16. 9. and by sprinkling clean water, Ezek. 36. 25. Or 2. With his Word or Doctrine; which being oft compared to Rain or Waters, as Deut. 32. 2. Isa. 55. 10, 11. Hab. 2. 14, &c. may be faid to be sprinkled, as it is faid to be dropped, Deut. 32. 2. Ezek. 20. 46. & 21. 2. And this fenfe feems to be moft favoured by the following words. k Shall be filent before him out of a profound Humility, and Reverence, and Admiration of his Wifdom, and an eager defire to hear and receive Counfels and Oracles from his Mouth. Compare Job 29. 9, 10, 11, 21. They fhall no more contend with him, nor blafpeme the true God and Religion as they formerly ufed to do. l For they fhall hear from his Mouth many excellent Doctrines, which alfo will be new and ftrange to them, fuch as Men are very defirous to hear. And particularly they fhall hear from him that comfortable Doctrine concerning the Converfion and Salvation of the Gentiles, which was not only new to them, but was ftrange and incredible to the moft of the Jews themfelves. m Or, they fhall underftand. Which is added to fhew that the feeing in the former claufe was meant of difcerning thefe things with the Eyes of their Minds.

CHAP. LIII.

The incredulity of the Jews: the death of Chrift: and the bleffed Effects thereof, 1,—11. his Exaltation and Glory, 13,—15.

* Joh. 12. 38. Rom. 10. 16. ‖ Or, declarine. † Heb. heard.

WHo hath believed our ‖ † report a? and to whom is the Arm of the LORD b revealed c?

a The Prophet having in the three laft Verfes of the former Chapter, made a general report concerning the great and wonderful Humiliation, and Exaltation of Chrift, of which he intended more largely to difcourfe in this Chapter, before he defcended to particulars he thought fit to ufe in this Preface, Who, not only of the Gentiles, but even of the Jews, will believe the truth of what I have faid and muft fay? Few or none. The generality of them will never receive, nor believe in fuch a Meffias as this. Thus this place is expounded by Chrift himfelf, Joh. 12. 38. and by Paul, Rom. 10. 16. And this premonition was highly neceffary, both to caution the Jews that they fhould not ftumble at this Stone, and to inftruct the Gentiles that they fhould not be furprifed, nor fcandalized, nor feduced with their Example. b Either 1. The Word of God, called the report in the former claufe; the Doctrine of the Gofpel, which is expreffly called the power of God, 1 Cor. 1. 18. becaufe of that admirable Virtue and Succefs which accompanied the preaching of it. Or 2. The Meffiah, who alfo is called the arm or power of God, 1 Cor. 1. 24. and that moft fitly, becaufe the Almighty power of God was both feated in him, and declared and exercifed by him in his powerful Words and mighty Deeds, as Simon for fome great works wrought by him, was called by the Samaritanes, the power of God, Acts 8. 10. c Not outwardly, for fo Chrift was revealed and preached to vaft numbers, both of Jews and Gentiles, as is evident from this Context, and from divers other places of Scripture, but inwardly and with power to their Minds and Hearts, of which kind of Revelation, See Ephef. 1. 17, 18, 19. and compare it with 2 Cor. 4. 4. Thus even Mofes, though fufficiently revealed to the Eyes and Ears of the Jews, yet is faid to be unrevealed or hid from their Minds and Hearts, 2 Cor. 3. 14, 15. The fenfe of the place is, few or none of the Jews will believe the Gofpel, or receive their Meffiah when he comes among them.

* Ch. 49. 7. & 52. 14. Mark 9. 12. 2 * For he fhall grow up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground d: he hath no form nor comelinefs e: and when we fhall fee him, there is no beauty that we fhould defire him f.

d And the reafon or occafion why the Jews will fo generally reject their Meffiah, is becaufe he fhall not come into the World with fecular pomp, and power, like an earthly Monarch, as they carnally and groundlefly imagined, but he fhall grow up (or fpring up, Heb. afcend, to wit, out of the ground, as it follows, brought forth, and brought up) before him (before the unbelieving Jews of whom he fpake, v. 1. and that in the fingular number, as here, who were witneffes of his mean original; and therefore defpifed him, according to Chrift's obfervation, Joh. 4. 14. or, as others, according to his face, or outward appearance, as he was man; whereby he fufficiently implies that he had another, a far higher, and a Divine Nature in him,) as a tender plant (or, as this very word is tranflated, Ezek. 17. 4. a young twig, which is a fmall and inconfiderable thing) and as a root (as Chrift is called, Rom. 15. 12. and elfewhere: or, as a branch, the root being put Metonimically for the branch growing out of the root, as it is apparently ufed, where Chrift is called the root of Jeffe, and of David, Ifa. 11. 10. Rev. 5. 5. and in other places, as 2 Chr. 22. 10.) out of a dry ground, out of a mean and barren foil, whofe productions are generally poor and contemptible; either 1. Out of the Womb of a Virgin; but that was no ground of contempt: Or 2. Of the Jewifh Nation, which was then poor, and defpifed, and enflaved: Or 3. Out of the poor, and decayed, and contemptible Family, fuch as the Royal Family of David was at that time. e His bodily prefence and condition in the World fhall be mean and contemptible. f When we fhall look upon him, expecting to find incomparable Beauty and Majefty in his Countenance, and Carriage, and Condition, we fhall be altogether difappointed, and fhall meet with nothing amiable or defirable in him. This the Prophet fpeaketh in the perfon of the carnal and unbelieving Jews, we, i. e. our People, the Jewifh Nation.

‖ Or, he hid as it were his face from us. † Heb. hiding of faces from him, or, faces from us. forrows h, and acquainted with grief i: and ‖ † we hid as it were our faces from him k; he was defpifed, and we eſteemed him not l.

g Accounted as the fcum of Mankind, as one unworthy of the company and converfation of all men. h Whofe whole Life was filled with, and in a manner made up of an uninterrupted fucceffion of Sorrows and Sufferings. i Who had conftant Experience of and familiar converfe with grievous afflictions: for knowledge is oft taken practically, or for Experience, as Gen. 3. 5. 2 Cor. 5. 21. and elfewhere. k We feemed and loathed to look upon him. Or, as others, he hid as it were his face from us, as one aſhamed to fhew his Face, or to be feen by any Men, as perfons conficious to themfelves of any great deformity do commonly fhun the fight of men, as Lepers did, Lev. 13. 45. l Here are divers words expreffing the fame thing, to fignifie both the utmoft degree of contempt, and how ſtrange and wonderful a thing it was, that fo excellent a perfon fhould be fo defpifed.

4 Surely * he hath born our griefs, and carried our
* Mat. 8. 17. forrows m: yet we did eſteem him ſtricken, ſmitten of God and afflicted n.

m And whereas it may ſeem an unreaſonable and incredible thing, that ſo excellent and glorious, and ſo innocent and juſt a perſon ſhould meet with this uſage, it muſt be known that his griefs and miſeries were not laid upon him for his own ſake, but wholly and ſolely for the ſake of ſinful men, in whoſe ſtead he ſtood, and for whoſe ſins he ſuffered, as it here follows. n Yet our people, the Jews, were ſo far from giving him the Glory and Praiſe of ſuch a prodigious condeſcenſion and compaſſion, that they made a moſt perverſe conſtruction of it, and ſo great was their prejudice againſt him, that they believed that he was thus diſgraced and puniſhed, and at laſt put to death by the juſt judgment of God, for his Blaſphemy and other manifold Wickedneſſes.

‖ Or, tormented. he was bruiſed for our iniquities; the chaſtiſement of our peace r was upon him s, and with his * † ſtripes we are healed t.

o But this was a moſt falſe and unrighteous Sentence. p Which word comprehends all his pains, and puniſhments, and his Death among and above the reſt. q Not by them, which is expreſſed by another particle, not by the wickedneſs of the Jews, but for or becauſe of them, as this particle commonly ſignifies, for the guilt of their ſins, whe he had voluntarily taken upon himſelf, and for the Expiation of their ſins, which was hereby purchaſed and procured of God for Men. Which Interpretation is confirmed, 1. By the oppoſition of this truth to the falſe opinion mentioned in the foregoing clauſe, that he was ſmitten of God for the guilt of his own ſins. 2. By the following clauſe, as we ſhall ſee. 3. By the nature of the thing, this being evident from Scriptures both from the Old and New Teſtament, that Chriſt was not to ſuffer for his own, but for other mens Sins. See Dan. 9. 24, 26. r Thoſe puniſhments by which our Peace, i. e. our reconciliation to God, and Salvation, or Happineſs, was to be purchaſed. s Was laid upon him by God's juſtice with his own conſent. t By his ſufferings we are ſaved from our ſins, and from the dreadful effects thereof.

6 All we * like ſheep u have gone aſtray x: we
* Heb. made the iniquities of us all to meet on him. have turned every one to his own way y, and the LORD † hath laid z on him the iniquity a of us all.

t All mankind, the Jews no leſs than the Gentiles. u Which are ſimple and fooliſh Creatures, and exceeding apt to ſtraggle and loſe themſelves. x From God, and from the way of his Precepts, in which he put our firſt Parents, and in which he commanded us to walk. y In general, to the way and courſe of ſin, which may well be called a mans own way, as ſins are called mens own Luſts, Jam. 1. 14. 2 Pet. 3. 3. and elſewhere, becauſe ſin is natural to us, inherent in us, born with us, and very dear to us; and in particular, to thoſe ſeveral paths of divers Luſts, which ſeveral men chuſe and follow, according to their differing Opinions, Inclinations, Occaſions, and Circumſtances. z Heb. hath made to meet, as all the Rivers meet in the Sea. a Not properly, for ſo he knew no ſin, 2 Cor. 5. 21. but the puniſhment of iniquity, as that word is moſt frequently uſed, as Gen. 4. 13. Lev. 20, 17, &c. That which was due for all the ſins of all his people, whether Jews or Gentiles, which muſt needs be ſo great and heavy a load, that if he had not been God as well as Man, he muſt have ſunk under the burden of them. This was actually verified in Chriſt. And both this and divers other paſſages here do manifeſtly and fully point at Chriſt, as if they were not a prophetical Repreſentation of things to come, but an hiſtorical Relation of them after they were done. Nor do I ſee how they can be excuſed from the fearful wreſting of the Scripture, that expound theſe places of the Prophet Jeremiah, or any other perſon but Chriſt.

7 He was oppreſſed, and he was afflicted b, yet
* Mat. 26. 63. & 27. 12, 14. Mar. 14. 61. & 15. Act. 8. 32. he opened not his mouth c, he is brought as a lamb to the ſlaughter, and as a ſheep before her ſhearers is dumb d, ſo he openeth not his mouth.

b He was ſorely puniſhed for our ſins. But there is another Tranſlation, which ſeems to be more emphatical and more agreeable to the Hebrew Text: It (to wit, our iniquity laſt mentioned, or the puniſhment of all our ſins) was exacted, or required; (as this word moſt properly and frequently ſignifies, of which ſee my Latin Synopſis. God's juſtice expected and required ſatisfaction from us for our ſins; which, alas! we could not make to him:)

and he was afflicted or puniſhed: he bore the guilt and puniſhment of our Sins in his Body upon the tree, as is ſaid, 1 Pet. 2. 24. or, as others render this laſt word, and he anſwered, i. e. became our ſurety, or undertook to pay the debt, and to ſuffer the Law in our ſtead, and for our ſake. c He neither murmured againſt God, for cauſing him to ſuffer for other mens Sins, nor reviled men for puniſhing him without cauſe, nor uſed Apologies or endeavours to ſave his own Life; but willingly and patiently accepted of the puniſhment of our Iniquity. d Bears the loſs of its fleece or Life without any ſuch clamour or reſiſtance as other Creatures uſe in ſuch caſes.

‖ Or, when he was taken away from diſtreſs and from judgment. and who ſhall declare f his generation g? for he was cut off h out of the land of the living; for the tranſgreſſion of my people † was he ſtricken i.

e Theſe words are underſtood either, 1. Of Chriſts Humiliation or Suffering: and then the words are to be thus rendred, He was taken away (to wit, out of this Life, as this word is uſed, Pſalm 31. 13. Prov. 1. 19. and elſewhere: he was put to death:) by diſtreſs (or violence or tyranny, as this word is uſed with this Prepoſition before it, Pſalm 107. 39.) and judgment, by oppreſſion and violence under a form and pretence of Juſtice. Or rather, 2. Of Chriſts Exaltation, becauſe of the following clauſe: which is not unſeaſonably mentioned in the midſt of his Sufferings, to take off the ſcandal which might have ariſen from Chriſts Sufferings, if there had not been a proſpect and aſſurance of his victoriouſneſs over them, and his Glory after them: and ſo the words may be rendred, He was taken up (or, taken away, freed or delivered) from Priſon (i. e. from the Grave, which being called an Houſe, Job 30. 23. and a Pit, in which men are ſhut up, Pſalm 69. 15. may fitly be called a Priſon: or from diſtreſs, or affliction, or oppreſſion, from the power and malice of his Enemies, and from the torment of his own Soul, ariſing from the ſenſe of Mens ſins and Gods diſpleaſure) and from judgment, i. e. from all the ſufferings and puniſhments inflicted upon him, either by the unrighteous judgment of men, or by the juſt judgment of God, puniſhing him for thoſe ſins which he had voluntarily taken upon himſelf: or, which is the ſame thing, from the Sentence of Condemnation, and all the effects of it: For in this ſenſe Judgment is very commonly taken both in Scripture and other Authors. f Who can declare it? The future being taken potentially, as it is frequently: no words can ſufficiently expreſs it. g Either, 1. His Age, or the continuance of his Life. So the ſenſe is, That he ſhall not only be delivered from death, and all his puniſhments, but alſo ſhall be reſtored to an inexpreſſible or endleſs Life, and to an everlaſting Kingdom. Thus great Interpreters underſtand it: with whom I cannot comply, becauſe I do not find this Hebrew word to be ever uſed in Scripture of the continuance of one mans Life. Or rather, 2. His Poſterity; and ſo this word is unqueſtionably uſed, Gen. 15. 16. Exod. 23. 5. Deut. 23. 2, 3, 8. and in many other places. And ſo the ſenſe of the place is this, That Chriſts death ſhall not be unfruitful, and that when he is raiſed from the dead, he ſhall have a ſpiritual ſeed, as is promiſed, ver. 10. a numberleſs multitude of thoſe who ſhall believe in him, and be regenerated and adopted by him into the number of his Children, and of the Children of God, John 1. 12. Heb. 2. 10, 13, 14. h To wit, by a violent death. And this may be added as a reaſon both of his Exaltation, and of the bleſſing of a numerous poſterity conferred upon him, becauſe he was willing to be cut off for the tranſgreſſion of his People; and, as it followeth, ver. 10. made his Soul an offering for Sin; Chriſts death being elſewhere declared to be the only way and neceſſary means of obtaining both theſe ends, Luke 24. 26, 46. John 12. 24, 32, 33. Phil. 2. 8, 9. But theſe words may be rendred, although he was cut off; to ſignifie that his Death ſhould not hinder theſe glorious Effects. i This is repeated again, as it was fit it ſhould be, to prevent mens miſtakes about, and ſtumbling at the death of Chriſt, and to aſſure them that Chriſt did not die for his own Sins, but only for the Sins and Salvation of his People.

9 And he made his grave with the wicked k, and
* Mat. 27. 57. with the rich l in his † death m, becauſe he had done no violence, neither was any * deceit in his mouth n.

k And although he did not die for his own, but only for his Peoples Sins, yet he was willing to die like a Malefactor, or like a Sinner, as all other men are, and to be put into the Grave. as they uſed to be; which was a farther degree of his Humiliation. He ſaith, he made his Grave, becauſe this was Chriſts own Act, and he willingly yielded up himſelf to death and burial. And that which follows, with the wicked, doth not note the ſameneſs of place, as if he ſhould be buried in the ſame Grave with other Malefactors, but the ſameneſs of Condition: As when David prayeth Pſalm 26. 9. Gather not my Soul (to wit, by Death) with Sinners, he doth not mean it of the ſame Grave, but of the ſame ſtate of the Dead. l This paſſage is thought by many to ſignifie that Chriſt ſhould be buried in the Sepulchre of Joſeph, who is ſaid to be both Rich, Mat. 27. 57. and Honourable, Mark 15. 43. which they conceive to be intimated as a token of Favour and Honour ſhewed to him. Which to me ſeems not probable, partly becauſe this diſagrees with the former clauſe, which confeſſedly ſpeaks of the diſhonour which was done to him; and partly becauſe the burial of Chriſt, whatſoever Circumſtances it was attended with, is ever mentioned in Scripture as a part of his Humiliation, Acts 2. 24, 27. And it ſeems more reaſonable, and more agreeable to the uſage of the Holy Scripture, that this clauſe ſhould deſign the ſame thing with the former, and that by Rich he means the ſame perſons whom he now called Wicked, not as if all rich men were, or muſt needs be wicked, but becauſe for the moſt part they are ſo; upon which ground, riches and rich men do commonly paſs under an ill Name in Scripture; of which ſee Pſalm 37. 10. and 49. 6. Luke 6. 24. and 18. 24. Jam. 1. 11. and 5. 1. m Heb. in, or at (or after, as this particle is frequently taken, as hath been already noted) his Deaths: for Chriſts Death might well be called Deaths in the plural number, becauſe he underwent many kinds of death, and many deadly dangers and pains, which are frequently called by the name of death in Scripture, of which inſtances have been formerly given; and he might ſay, with no leſs Truth than Paul did, 1 Cor. 15. 31. I die daily, and 2 Cor. 11. 23. I was in Deaths oft. n This ſome ſuppoſe to be added as a reaſon of the laſt branch of the foregoing clauſe, why God ſo over-ruled matters by his Providence, that Chriſt ſhould not be buried in the ſame Grave, or in the ſame ignominious manner as Malefactors were, but in a more honourable manner, in Joſephs own Tomb. But the laſt part of the foregoing clauſe cannot, without violence, be pulled aſunder from the former; wherewith it is ſo cloſely joined, not only by a Conjunction copulative, and, but alſo by being under the government of the ſame Verb: And therefore this latter clauſe of the verſe, if thus rendred, muſt be added as the reaſon of what is ſaid to be done in the former. And ſo the ſenſe of the place may be thus conceived, This was all the reward of the unſpotted innocency of all his words and actions, to be thus ignominiouſly uſed: But theſe words may well be, and are otherwiſe rendred both by Jewiſh and Chriſtian Interpreters, either thus, although he had done, &c. or rather thus, nor for (as theſe two ſame particles placed in the very ſame order, are rendred by our Tranſlator, and others, Job 16. 17.) any violence (or injury, or iniquity) which he had done, nor for any deceit which was in his mouth; not for his own Sins, but, as hath been ſaid before, for his Peoples Sins. In which Tranſlation there is nothing ſupplied but what is moſt frequent in Scripture alſo.

10 Yet it pleaſed the LORD to bruiſe him o, he ‖ Or, when his ſoul ſhall make an offering. † Heb. If thou ſhalt make his ſoul ſin: 2 Cor. 5. 21. 1 Pet. 2. 24. hath put him to grief p: ‖ † when thou ſhalt make his Soul an offering for Sin q, he ſhall ſee his ſeed r, he ſhall prolong his days s, and the pleaſure of the LORD ſhall proſper in his hand t.

o But although he was perfectly innocent, it pleaſed God for other juſt and wiſe Reaſons to puniſh him. p God was the principal cauſe of all his Sorrows and Sufferings, although mens ſins were the deſerving cauſe. q When thou, O God, ſhalt make, or have made, thy Son a Sacrifice, by giving him up to death for the attonement of mens Sins. His Soul is here put for his Life, or for himſelf, or his whole humane Nature, which was facrificed, his Soul being tormented with the ſenſe of God's Wrath, and his Body crucified, and Soul and Body ſeparated by Death. Or the words may be rendred, When his Soul ſhall make, or have made, it ſelf an offering for Sin: whereby it may be implied that he did not lay down his Life by force, but willingly. r His Death ſhall be glorious to himſelf, and highly beneficial to others, for he ſhall have a numerous iſſue of Believers reconciled to God, and ſaved by his Death. s He ſhall be raiſed to immortal Life, and ſhall live and reign with God for ever; he ſhall die no more, Rom. 6. 9. and of his Kingdom there ſhall be no end, Luke 1. 33. t Gods gracious decree for the Redemption and Salvation of Mankind ſhall be effectually carried on by his Miniſtry and Mediation.

11 He ſhall ſee u of the travel of his ſoul x, and
* Ch. 42. 1. & 49. 3. ſhall be ſatisfied y: by his knowledg z, ſhall * my righteous ſervant a juſtifie b many c: for he ſhall bear their iniquities d.

u He ſhall receive or enjoy, as this word commonly ſignifies. x The comfortable and bleſſed fruit of all his hard labours, and grievous ſufferings. y He ſhall eſteem his own and his Fathers Glory, and the Salvation of his People, an abundant recompence for all his Sufferings. z Either, 1. Actively, by that knowledge of Gods Will, and of the way of Salvation, which is in him in its higheſt perfection, and which by him is revealed unto men, and by his Spirit is imprinted in the Minds and Hearts of his People, ſo as to produce Faith and Obedience in them. Or, 2. Paſſively, by the knowledge of him, as my fear and thy fear are put for the fear of me and of thee, Pſalm 5. 7. Jer. 32. 40. Knowledge being here, as it is moſt frequently in Scripture, taken practically for that kind of Knowledge which worketh Faith, and Love, and Obedience to him. So the ſenſe is the ſame in both caſes. a Which title is here given to Chriſt, partly to vindicate him from thoſe falſe imputations of wickedneſs which were faſtened upon him by his Adverſaries, and which found the more belief becauſe of his moſt grievous and unexampled Sufferings both from God and Men; and partly to ſhew his fitneſs for this great work of juſtifying ſinners, becauſe he was exactly holy, and harmleſs, and undefiled, Heb. 7. 26. and fulfilled all Righteouſneſs according to his duty, Mat. 3. 15. and therefore his perſon and performance muſt needs be acceptable to God, and effectual for the Juſtification of his People, which was the great deſign of his coming into the World. b Acquit them from the guilt of their ſins, and all the dreadful conſequences thereof: For Juſtification is here oppoſed to Condemnation, as appears from the following clauſe, and from many other paſſages in this Chapter, and as it is uſed in all places of Scripture, one, or two at moſt, excepted, where it is mentioned. And Chriſt is ſaid to juſtifie Sinners meritoriouſly, becauſe he purchaſeth and procureth it for us; as God the Father is commonly ſaid to do it authoritatively, becauſe he accepted the price paid by Chriſt for it, and the pronunciation of the ſentence of Abſolution is referred to him in the Goſpel Diſpenſation. c Which word is ſeaſonably added, partly by way of reſtriction, to ſhew that Chriſt will not juſtifie all, but only ſuch as believe in him, and obey him: and partly by way of Amplification, to declare that this bleſſed priviledge ſhall not now be, as hitherto it had in a manner been, confined to Judea; and the Jews, but ſhall be conferred upon an innumerable company of all the Nations of the World. d For he ſhall ſatisfie the Juſtice and Law of God for them, by bearing the puniſhment due to their ſins, and therefore by the principles of Reaſon and Juſtice they muſt be juſtified or acquitted, otherwiſe the ſame debt ſhould be twice required and paid.

12 Therefore will I e divide him f a portion g with the

the great h, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong i: because he hath poured out his Soul unto death k: and he * was numbred with the transgressors l, and he bare the sin of many m, and * made intercession for the transgressors n.

*Mar.15. 28. Luk. 22. 37. * Luk. 23. 34. *Rom.*8. 34. Heb. 7. 25. & 9.24. 1 Joh. 2. 1.

h God the Father, the Spectator and Judge of the Action or Combat. i Give him his share. Or, impart, or give to him; for this word is oft used without respect to any distribution or division, as Deut. 4. 19. and 29. 25. and elsewhere. g Which is very commodiously supplied out of the next clause, where a word which answers to it, the spoil, is expressed. h Or, among the great; such as the great and mighty Potentates of the World use to have after a sharp Combat and a glorious Victory. Though he be a very mean and obscure person, as to his extraction and outward condition in the World, yet he shall attain to as great a pitch of Glory as the greatest Monarchs enjoy. i The same thing is repeated in other words, after the manner of prophetical Writers. The sense of both clauses is, That God will give him, and he shall receive great and happy success in his glorious undertaking: he shall conquer all his Enemies, and lead Captivity Captive, as is said Eph. 4. 8. and set up his universal and everlasting Kingdom in the World. k Because he willingly laid down his Life in Obedience to Gods Command, John 10. 17, 18. and in order to the Redemption of Mankind. Death is here called a pouring out of the Soul, or Life, either because the Soul or Life, which in living men is contained in the Body, is turned out of the Body by Death; or to signifie the manner of Christs Death, that it should be with the shedding of his Blood, in which the Life of Man consists, Levit. 17. 11, 14. l He was willing for Gods Glory and for Mans Good to be reproached and punished like a Malefactor, in the same manner and place, and betwixt two of them, as is noted with reference to this place, Mark 15. 27, 28. m Which was said, ver. 11. and is here repeated to prevent a mistake, and to intimate, that although Christ was numbred with Transgressors, and was used accordingly, yet he was no Transgressor, nor did submit to, and suffer this usage for his own Sins, but for the Sins of others, the punishment whereof was by his own consent laid upon him. n Either, 1. By way of satisfaction: he interposed himself between an angry God and sinners, and received those blows in his own Body which otherwise must have fallen upon them. Or, 2. In way of Petition, as this word is constantly used. He prayed upon Earth for all Sinners, and particularly for those that crucified him, Luke 23. 34. and in Heaven he still interceedeth for them, not by an humble Petition, but by a legal demand of those good things which he purchased for his own People by the Sacrifice of himself, which, though past, he continually represents to his Father, as if it were present.

CHAP. LIV.

The Blessings and Fulness of the Gospel-Church, 1,—4. the Gentiles becoming Christs Spouse: to whom his Love is everlasting, 5,—10. her Glories, 11, 12. the Gifts of the Holy Ghost, 13. her sure Preservation, 14,—17.

* Zeph. 3. 14. Gal. 4. 27. *1 *Sam.*2.5. Ch. 49. 20, 21.

a The Prophet having largely discourse of the sufferings of Christ, and of the blessed fruits or effects thereof, among which, one is, that he should have a numerous seed that should believe on him, and that when the Jews rejected him, the Gentiles should gladly receive him, and here foreseeing by the Spirit of God that glorious state of the Church, he rejoiced in it, as Abraham did upon the like occasion, John 8. 56. and breaks forth into this song of triumph. He turneth his Speech to the Church and Spouse of God, or of Christ, as is manifest from the following words, and especially from ver. 5. and from Gal. 4. 27. where it is so expounded. And although this Chapter is by some understood of the flourishing condition of the Jewish Church and State after their return from Babylon, yet the magnificent and glorious Promises here following do so vastly exceed their Condition at that time, which was full of uncertainties, and Distractions, and Troubles, as all the Histories of those times assure us, and far from that Glory and lasting Tranquillity which is here assured to her, that it must necessarily be referred to the times of the Gospel, in which all that is here said was or will be remarkably fulfilled. And therefore as the foregoing Chapter doth directly and literally speak of Christ, so doth this literally speak of the Church of Christ, or of the Kingdom of the Messiah, of whom the ancient Hebrew Doctors understood it. And this Church, consisting at first of the Jews, and afterwards of the Gentiles, who were incorporated with them into the same Body, he calleth barren, not because it now was so, but because before and until the coming of Christ it had been so, as Simon is called the leper, Mat. 26. 6. after he was cured. Now this Church of the Jews might well be called, and had been, barren, because the sincere converts brought forth to God by her Ministry had been but few among the Jews comparatively, and simply few among the Gentiles. b The Church or Congregation of the Gentiles, which in the times of the Old Testament was desolate, having neither Husband nor Children, doth now under the Gospel bring forth unto God a far more numerous posterity than the Church of the Jews, which had been married to God for many ages, until by her Apostacy from God, and from her Messiah, she provoked God to put her away. He alludeth here either to the History of Sarah, who was long and naturally barren, but by the supernatural Power of God, was enabled to bring forth a numberless issue: or to that remarkable passage of Gods Providence concerning Hannah and Peninnah, 1 Sam. 2. 5. the barren hath born seven, and she that hath many Children is waxed feeble.

c That it may be capable of the Gentiles, which shall flock to thee in great numbers, and desire to associate themselves with thee. d Those to whom that work belongs. The meaning is, they must and shall be stretched out. e That they may be able to support that great weight which the Tents thus enlarged shall be upon them.

3 For thou shalt break forth f on the right hand, and on the left g, and thy seed h * shall inherit the Gentiles i, and make the desolate cities k to be inhabited. * *Ch.*61. 4, 5, 6.

f Thou shalt bring forth a multitude of Children; for this word is commonly used of any great and extraordinary propagation of living Creatures, whether Beasts or Men, Gen. 30. 30. Exod. 1. 12. g On every side, in all the parts of the World. h Either, 1. Thy spiritual seed, the Church of the New Testament, which is accounted Abraham's Seed, or Children, Gal. 3. 7, 8, 9, 29. Or 2. Thy natural seed, Christ and his Apostles, and other Ministers, who were Jews, by whom this work was first and most eminently done. i Shall subdue the Gentile World to the Church, and to the Obedience of the Faith. k These Cities and Countries which in a spiritual sense were desolate and forsaken by God.

4 Fear not, for thou shalt not be ashamed l: neither be thou confounded, for thou shalt not be put to shame: for thou shalt forget the shame of thy * youth m, and shalt not remember the reproach of thy widowhood n any more. * *Ezek.*23. 8.

l For that Barrenes and Widow-hood, which once was the matter of thy grief and shame, because now thou shalt be delivered from it, and God will own thee for his Wife, and beget Children of thee; as it is explained in the following Words. m It shall be forgotten both by thee and others: thou shalt not be upbraided with thy former barrenness in thy youthful state, nor confounded and tormented with the remembrance of it; both remembring and forgetting in Scripture use connote or comprehend those affections which naturally and usually follow upon them; so great shall be thy fertility and felicity, that it shall cause thee to forget thy former unfruitfulness and misery, as Men commonly do in like Cases, as Gen. 41. 51. Job 11. 16. Isa. 65. 16. John 16. 21. n That time and state when thou wert like a Widow disconsolate and desolate, forsaken by her Husband, and having in a manner no Children; which was a great reproach, especially among the Jews.

5 For thy maker o is thine husband p, (the * LORD of hosts q is his name) and thy redeemer the holy One of Israel, the God of the whole earth r shall he be called. * *Luk.*1.32

o He who made thee out of nothing, and therefore can easily fulfil all these Promises, how unlikely soever they seem to be; and he who made thee a People, and, which is far more and better, his People, and therefore will not easily nor utterly forsake thee. p He will own thee for his Spouse, and will do the part of an Husband to thee. q Who hath the soveraign command of all Men and Creatures, and therefore can subdue the Gentiles to thee, and can make thee to encrease and multiply in so prodigious a measure, even in thine old age, notwithstanding thy barrenness in the days of thy youth, of which he speaketh in the foregoing verse. r The God and Father of all Nations, whereas formerly he was called only the God of Israel, and the Gentiles had no special Relation to him, nor Interest in his Covenant and Favour, as was observed Psalm 147. 19, 20. and elsewhere.

6 For the LORD hath called thee s as a woman t forsaken u and grieved in spirit x, and a wife of youth y, when thou * wast refused z, saith thy God a. * Jer. 3. 1.

s To return and come again to him. t When thou wast like a Woman forsaken. Or, as an Husband recalleth his Wife. u By her Husband, who hath given her a Bill of Divorce. x For the loss of her Husbands Favour and Society, and for the reproach attending upon it. y Or, and, as (which note of similitude is supplied here by the Seventy, and Chaldee Interpreters, and is easily understood out of the foregoing clause, in which it is expressed) a Wife of youth, i. e. as readily and affectionately as an Husband recalleth his Wife which he married in her and his own youth, of whom see on Prov. 5. 18. whom though he might through a sudden and violent passion put away, yet he soon repents of it, and his affections work towards her, and he invites her to return to him. z When thou wast in a desolate Estate, and hadst been for some time rejected by me, then I recalled thee. Or, although thou wast refused, or dismissed, or despised by me, and that justly, yet I had mercy upon thee, and freely offered Reconciliation to thee. a Who will again be, and still shew himself to be, thy God, and will renew his Covenant with thee.

7 * For a small moment b have I forsaken thee c, but with great mercies d will I gather thee e. * Psal. 30. 5. Ch. 26. 20. 2 *Cor.*4.17

b For the space of some few years, as Seventy years in Babylon, and some such intervals, which may well be called a small moment in comparison of Gods everlasting Kindness mentioned in the next verse. c Withdrawn my favour and help from thee, and left thee in thine Enemies hands. d Such as are most precious and sweet for quality, as is here said, and such as are of long continuance, as is said in the following Verse. e From all the places where thou art dispersed, from all the parts of the World.

8 In a little wrath I hid my face f from thee, for a moment; but with everlasting kindness g will I have mercy on thee, saith the LORD thy Redeemer.

f I removed the means and pledges of my presence and kindness. g With kindness to thee and thy seed through all succeeding Generations, here and unto all Eternity.

*Isa.*54. 9 For this is as the waters of * Noah unto me h: for as I have sworn that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so have I sworn that I would not be wroth with thee i, * nor rebuke thee. 11. * *Isa.*54. 9.

h This Covenant of Grace and Peace made with thee shall be as certain and perpetual as that which I made with Noah, that there should never be another flood of waters to drown the World; of which see Gen. 9. 11. i To wit, so as I have been, or so as to forsake the utterly.

*Isa.*54. 10 For * the mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed k, but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace l be removed, saith the LORD, that hath mercy on thee m. 2. & 55. 12.

k Which hath been verified in some Mountains and Hills, that by Earth-quakes, or otherwise, have been removed from their places. But these kind of absolute expressions are oft times comparatively understood, of which see on Isa. 51. 6. and so the sense is, The Mountains shall sooner depart from their places, than my kindness shall depart from thee. As when it is said absolutely, I desired Mercy and not Sacrifice, it is meant comparatively, I desired Mercy more than Sacrifice, as it is explained in the following clause. l That Covenant whereby I have made Peace and Friendship with thee, and have promised unto thee all manner of happiness, which frequently comes under the name of peace in Scripture. The sense of the place is, That God will not cast off his Christian Church, as he did cast off the Church of the Jews; and that the New Covenant is established upon better and surer Promises than the Old, as is observed, Heb. 8. 6, 7, &c. and elsewhere. m Who doth thus with thee not for thine own merits, but meerly for his own Grace and Mercy.

11 Oh thou afflicted, tossed with tempests, and not comforted n, behold, I will lay thy stones with * fair colours, and lay thy foundations with saphires o. *Isa.*54. 11.

n Oh thou my poor Church, who hast frequently been, and wilt again and again be in a most afflicted and comfortless condition for a time; be not discouraged thereby. o I will make thee exceeding beautiful and glorious. Which yet is not to be understood of outward Pomp and worldly Glory, as is evident from many places of Scripture, which assure us that Christ's Kingdom is of another nature, and that the external condition of God's Church is, and for the most part will be, mean and calamitous in this World; but of a spiritual Beauty and Glory consisting in the plentiful effusion of excellent Gifts, and Graces, and Comforts: although these shall be followed with eternal Glory in Heaven. See the like description of the Churches Glory, Rev. 21. 11, &c.

12 And I will make thy windows of agates p, and thy gates of carbuncles, and all thy borders q of pleasant stones.

p One kind of which stones was transparent like glass, as Pliny writes in his Natural History, l. 37. ch. 10. But some render this word, crystal, and the Seventy, and some other of the ancients, translate it jasper. But the proper signification of the Hebrew names of precious stones is unknown to the Jews themselves, as hath been noted before. It may suffice us to know that this was some very clear, and transparent, and precious stone. q The utmost parts or Walls. The Church is here evidently compared to a Building, whose Foundation, Pavement, Gates, and Windows, were named before.

*Isa.*49. 13 And all thy Children shall be * taught of the LORD r, and great shall be the peace s of thy children. 13. *Joh.*6.45. *Jer.*31.34. *Heb.*8.10. *Isa.*60.17.

r Not only outwardly by his word, which was made known to all the Jews under the Old Testament, but inwardly by his Spirit, which is poured forth under the New Testament, both upon a far greater number of persons, and in a far higher measure, and with much more efficacy and success than it was under the Old. s 1. Inward Peace of Mind or Conscience arising from the clear discoveries of God's Love and Reconciliation to us, and wrought by the spirit of adoption which is more abundantly given to Believers under the Gospel, whereas the spirit of bondage was more common and prevalent under the Law. 2. Outward Peace, Safety, and Happiness, which is more fully promised in the following verses, and which God, when he sees fit, will confer upon his Church.

14 In righteousness t shalt thou be established: thou shalt be far from oppression u, for thou shalt not fear x, and from terrour, for it shall not come near thee.

t Either 1. As the means of thy Establishment. This Kingdom shall not be set up, and settled by fraud or Tyranny, as other Kingdoms frequently are, but by Justice: Or rather 2. As the effect of the establishment. Thine affairs shall be managed with Righteousness, which is the Glory and Felicity of any society, and not with oppression, as it follows. Justice shall be freely and impartially executed. u Either by thine own Governours, or by forreign Powers. x Thou shalt neither have any just cause of fear, nor be given up to the torment of fear without cause.

y It is true, there will not want some that shall combine and make an attempt against thee. z As they do this without any such commission from me, as Sennacherib and Nebuchadnezzar had, Isa. 10. 6, 7. Jer. 25. 9. so they shall not have my help in it, without which all their endeavours will be vain and unsuccessful. a To battle, as is manifest from the following words, of which kind of gathering this word is used Psal. 140. 2. and elsewhere. b Heb. with thee. But to fight with a man is all one with fighting against him. c For that Respect and Love which I bear to thee. Or, before thee, as this particle is sometimes used, so as thine Eyes shall behold it.

16 Behold, I have created the smith that bloweth the coals in the fire, and that bringeth forth an instrument for his work, and I have created the waster d to destroy e.

d Both the Smith that maketh all warlike Instruments, and the Souldier that useth them, are my Creatures, and totally at my Command, and therefore they cannot hurt you without my leave. e To destroy only whom and when I please.

17 No weapon that is formed against thee, shall prosper f, and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment, thou shalt condemn g. This is the heritage h of the servants of the LORD, and their righteousness i is of me k, saith the LORD.

f And as they cannot do any thing against thee without my leave, so I assure thee I will not suffer them to do it: and if any Smith shall make any weapons to be employed against thee, he shall not succeed in it. g And I will deliver thee not only from the fury of the War, but also from the strife of Tongues, from all the threatnings and boasts, and reproaches of thine Enemies, and from all the claims and pretences which they have of any right and power over thee. So thine Enemies shall neither prevail against thee by violence, nor by pretences of Justice. h This blessed condition described in this Chapter, is the portion allotted to them by me. i Either 1. The Reward or Fruit of their Righteousness, as Righteousness is used, Psal. 112. 3, 9. Or, 2. Their Right or the righteous Administration of all their concerns whereby they are preserved from all manner of oppressions, as Righteousness was used v. 14. k I give it, and I will continue it to them, and who then can take it away from them.

CHAP. LV.

An invitation to seek for Spiritual Blessings from Christ: whom the father sendeth, 1, — 5. to come to him speedily and by Repentance, 6, 7. his Grace Infinite, 8, 9. his Word Powerful, 10, 11. the joy of Believers, 12, 13.

HO, * every one a that thirsteth b, come ye to the waters c, and he that hath no money d; come ye, buy e, and eat, yea come, buy wine and milk f, without money, and without price. * *Joh.*4.14. & 7.37. *Rev.*21.6. & 22.17.

a Not only Jews but Gentiles. The Prophet having largely discourse of Christ, ch. 53. and of the Church of Christ, ch. 54. doth here invite all persons to come to Christ, and to his Church. b For the Grace of God, and the blessings of the Gospel. This thirst implies a vehement, and active, and restless Desire after it, not to be satisfied with any thing short of it. c Which are mentioned either 1. As the place where they were to buy the following commodities, it being usual to convey provisions to Cities by Rivers. Or rather 2. As the commodity to be bought, the Graces and comforts of God's Spirit, which are frequently compared to Waters, as Isa. 12. 3. and 35. 6, 7. Joh. 7. 37, 38. and elsewhere, and which are designed by all these Metaphorical Expressions of Waters, Wine, Milk, and Bread. d Even those who are most poor, in the World, and those who are most worthless and wicked, if they do but thirst, may be welcome. e i. e. Procure or receive that which is freely offered to you if you do but come for it, and are willing to take it. Thus buying is used, Prov. 23. 23. Rev. 3. 18. Nor can this be understood of buying properly, because here is no price paid. f Which are Synecdochically put for all sorts of provisions; which also are to be understood of Spiritual and Gospel-Blessings, as is evident from the following words.

2 Wherefore do ye † spend money e for that which † Heb. is not bread f, and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me g, and eat ye that which is good h, and let your soul delight it self in fatness i. weigheth

e All your time, and strength, and cost in seeking it. f For those vain or foolish things which can never nourish or satisfie you, such as worldly goods, or your own Inventions, Superstitions and Idolatries. g Unto my Doctrine and Counsel. h That which is truly, and solidly, and everlastingly good, and not such things which though they be called, and seem to be good, yet really are evil, and most pernicious to men. i In this fat and most pleasant food of Gospel-enjoyments.

3 Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear k, and your soul shall live l, and I will make an everlasting covenant with you m, even the * sure mercies of David n. * 2 Sam. 7. 8. 2 *Chr.*6.42. Psal. 89. 24, 28, 29, 33, 34.

k Hearken attentively and obediently to my Counsel: hearing being oft put for obeying, as Deut. 18. 15. 1 Sam. 15. 22, 23. Psal. 95. 7, &c. l To wit, comfortably and happily; which only is worthy of the name of Life. m That everlasting Covenant of Grace and Peace which I made with Abraham, and his Seed, the Israelites, I am ready to make it with every one of you thirsting Gentiles. n Even that Covenant which was made first with Abraham, and then with David, concerning the exhibition of those glorious and sure Mercies or Blessings which God hath promised to his People, one and the chief of which Mercies was the giving of Christ to die for their sins, and to rise again for their justification. This Exposition may receive light and strength by comparing this place with Acts 13. 33, 34. He mentions David rather than than Abraham, either 1. Because these Promises, and especially that great Promise, which is the foundation of the rest, concerning Christ and his eternal Kingdom, were far more frequently, and expressly, and fully made and revealed to David, than they were to Abraham. Or 2. Because David was a more evident and illustrious Type of Christ than Abraham was, as being raised from a mean condition to the highest honour, being made a great and most victorious and righteous King, and the first King of that Throne upon which the Messiah was to sit. Or 3. Because the name of David is not here put personally for the King of that Name, but patronimically for the Messiah who was to be David's Son and Successor, and who is therefore called David in the prophetical Scriptures, as Jer. 30. 9. Ezek. 34. 23, 24. & 37. 24, 25. Hos. 3. 5. as Rehoboam upon the same account is called David, 1 Kings 12. 16. And this is the more probable, because the next verse, which hath a manifest Relation to this verse, is confessedly understood of Christ.

4 Behold, I have given o him p for a witness q to the people r, a leader and commander s to the people.

o I have already appointed, and will in due time actually give. p The David last mentioned, even Christ, the Son and Successor of David, as is plain and certain from the titles and works ascribed to him in this and in the following Verse. But of this see the last Note upon the former Verse. q To be a Prophet or Teacher, to declare the Counsel and Will of God concerning the duty and Salvation of Men, to bear witness unto the truth, as Christ himself affirmeth, Joh. 18. 37. to confirm God's Promises, Rom. 15. 8. and, amongst others, those which respect the calling and reconciliation of the Gentiles: to be a witness for both parties of that Covenant made between God and Men. r Not only to my People of Israel, but to all People, Gentiles no less than Jews, as is evident from the following Verse, and from Isa. 49. 6. and divers other places. s A Soveraign Prince to give them Laws, and exact their Obedience, and in case of their Obedience to give them Protection and Rewards.

5 Behold, thou l shalt call m a nation that thou ‖ knowest not n, and nations that knew not thee o shall run unto thee p, because of the LORD thy God q, and for the holy One of Israel; for he hath glorified thee r.

l Thou, O Messiah, of whom he now spake, v. 4. and to whom he suddenly turneth his speech, as is very common in the Prophets. m To wit, unto thy self, and to the knowledge of thy self, as appears from the following words, and by thee unto acquaintance and fellowship with God. n Or rather, didst not know, to wit, with that special knowledge which implies approbation, and tender Care and Affection, as words of knowledge are most frequently used in Scripture: the Gentiles to whom, in former times, thou didst not make known thy Law and Covenant, and the way of Salvation, Acts 14. 16. and 17. 30. o That had but little knowledge of God, and no knowledge of the Messiah. p Upon thy call shall speedily and readily come to thee to receive Instructions from thee, and to follow thee whithersoever thou shalt lead them. q Because the Lord shall by many evident and unquestionable tokens, manifest himself to be thy God, and thee to be his Son and faithful servant. r Because the God of Israel, who is the only true God, will highly honour thee by his singular presence with thee, by his almighty Power accompanying thy Word, and making it wonderfully effectual for the conversion of an innumerable company, both of Jews and Gentiles, and by confirming thy Word with illustrious Signs and miracles, and particularly by thy Resurrection, and glorious Ascension. These and other like considerations were the motives which convinced the Gentiles, that Christ was the true Messiah, and the Religion which he taught was the true Religion.

* Psa. 32. 6. 6 * Seek ye the LORD s while he may be found: s call ye upon him while he is near u.

s Having discoursed of the Office and Work of Christ, and shewed that he should call People and Nations to himself, and to God, he now endeavours to persuade the People to hearken to his Call, and to seek the Lord, &c. To labour to get the knowledge of God's Will, and to obtain his Grace and Favour; neither of which things were to be done but in and through Christ. And this Invitation or exhortation is general like that v. 1. reaching to all nations, both Jews and Gentiles, implying, that both of them had lost him and his Favour, and were gone astray from him. Seek him ye Gentiles, whom he now inviteth so to do, and will assist in finding him. And seeing the Gentiles seek him earnestly, let their example provoke you Jews to imitate them therein, and take heed that you do not reject him whom they will receive and own. t In this day of Grace, whilest he offereth Mercy and Reconciliation to you; which he will not always do. Compare Prov. 1. 24, &c. Luk. 19. 41. 2 Cor. 6. 2. u Near to you by his gracious presence and offers, in his Ordinances, ready and desirous to receive you to Mercy upon the following conditions.

7 Let the wicked man x forsake his way y, and † the unrighteous man his thoughts z: and let him return unto the LORD a, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our GOD b, for † he will abundantly pardon c.

x Any wicked man, either Jew or Gentile. y His evil or wicked way, as is evident from the foregoing word, and as it is more fully expressed, Jer. 18. 11. & 25. 5. which is called his way, because it is natural, and customary, and dear to him, and in opposition to God's good way: his sinful course or manner of Life. Let him cease to do evil, as it is Isa. 1. 16. This he adds to intimate that Men's seeking and calling upon God will do them no good without Reformation of their Lives. z The sinful devices and purposes of his Mind. Thus he strikes at the root of sinful actions, and sheweth that the heart must be purged and changed as well as the outward actions. a As he hath departed from God by sin, let him turn to him by sincere Repentance, and the practice of all God's precepts. Whereby he intimates that a meer abstinence from wicked courses is not sufficient, without the exercise of the contrary Graces: that we must not only cease to do evil, but also learn to do well, as it is prescribed, Isa. 1. 16. b To the God of Israel, who is and hath shewed himself to be a most merciful and gracious God. c He useth so many Words and Arguments to encourage them to Repentance, because the persons here invited were guilty of Idolatry, Apostacy, and many other gross wickednesses: which he knew, when they came to themselves, and to a serious sense of their sins, and of the just and holy Nature and Law of God, would be an insupportable burden to their awakened Consciences, and make them very prone to conclude, that God either could not or would not pardon such horrid Delinquencies, and therefore would rather drive them from God, than draw them to him.

8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways d, saith the LORD.

d My disposition and carriage is vastly differing from yours. If any man provoke or injure you, especially if he do it greatly and frequently and maliciously, you are very slow and backward to forgive him, and if you do or seem to forgive, and promise to forget, and pass it by, yet you retain a secret grudge in your hearts, and upon the least occasion, and slight offence, you forget your Promise, and you are soon weary with forgiving, and prone to revenge your selves upon him; but it is not so with me: For I am slow to anger, and ready to forgive all true penitents, how many, and great, and numberless soever their sins be; and my Promises of Mercy and Pardon shall be infallibly made good to them. And therefore you need not fear to come to me, or to find Mercy and acceptance with me.

9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth e, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.

e Inexpressibly and infinitely: for the distance between the Earth and the highest Heavens is unmeasurable by any man upon Earth.

10 For * as the rain cometh down, and the snow f *Deut. 32. 2. from heaven, and returneth not thither g, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater h.

f Which in its season contributes to the fruitfulness of the Earth as well as the Rain. g To wit, void or without effect, as it is expressed in the next verse: or immediately: it is not drawn up again as soon as it is come down, and abides for a covenient time upon the Earth, until it do that work for which it was sent. h That it may bring forth store of Bread-corn, both for mens present supplies, and for seed for the next year.

11 So shall my word i be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not * return unto me void k, but Ch.* 45. 23. it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall Mat. 10. 15. prosper in the thing whereto I sent it l.

i My promises before recited concerning the sending of the Messiah, and the blessing of his Labours with such wonderful success, and concerning the reconciliation and pardon of the greatest sinners, and concerning the Redemption and Salvation of his People. k Without success. It is an allusion to an Ambassador who returns without dispatching that business for which he was sent. l It shall have that effect which I intended, it shall certainly be fulfilled in manner before expressed.

m Or, Therefore: because God hath promised it, and therefore will effect it. n Ye shall be released from the place and state of your Bondage. He alludes to their going out of Egypt, which was a type of their succeeding deliverances, and especially of their Redemption by Christ from the power of sin and of the Devil. o Or, be led along, be conducted by the gracious and powerful presence of God, as you were in the Wilderness. p Safely and triumphantly without fear of being setaken and brought back into slavery by your Enemies. q There shall be a great and general rejoycing at your deliverance: so that even the senseless Creatures shall seem to rejoice with you and for you.

13 * Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir-tree, * Ch. 41. 19, 20. and instead of the briar shall come up the myrtle-tree q: and it shall be to the LORD for a name r, for an everlasting sign s that shall not be cut off t.

q Whereas your Land was filled with Thorns and Briars, as was foretold, Isa. 7. 24. they shall be rooted out, and it shall be planted with Fir-trees and Myrtle-trees, and such other Trees, which are useful either for Fruit or for Delight. Or, this Promise may be answerable to that Ezek. 28. 24. There shall be no more a pricking briar unto the house of Israel, nor any grieving thorn, &c. but instead of them shall be such Trees as shall yield shade and refreshment. The meaning is, The Church shall be delivered from pernicious men and things, and replenished with sincere and serious Believers, and with all sorts of divine Graces and Blessings. r This wonderful change shall bring much honour to that God by whom it is wrought. s For a Monument, or evident and glorious Token of God's infinite Power, and Faithfulness, and Love to his People unto all succeeding Generations. t Which shall never be abolished, but shall aways live and flourish in the Minds and Mouths of Men.

CHAP.

CHAP. LVI.

Blessedness of the Godly: without any respect of persons, 1, ——8. Blind watchmen shall be destroyed, 9, ——12.

THus saith the LORD a, Keep ye judgment, and do justice b: for my salvation c is near to come d, and my righteousness e to be revealed.

a This verse and the rest of this Chapter, until v. 9. seems to belong to the foregoing Prophesie. From the consideration of God's Promises made to them he moveth them to perform their duty to him. b This Phrase elsewhere signifies the duties which one man oweth to another, but here it seems to signifie the Duties which men owe to God, as it is explained in the following verses. c That eminent Salvation by the Messiah so largely promised, and insisted upon in the foregoing Chapters: for which it behoves you to prepare your selves, and in which, without this condition you shall have no share nor benefit. d So the Scripture useth to speak of things which are at a great distance, as if they were present or at hand, See Hab. 2. 3. Jam. 5. 8, 9. Rev. 22. 20. e The same thing which he now called Salvation, and here calleth his Righteousness, because it is an evident demonstration of God's Righteousness, as in the fulfilling of his promises, so in the punishment of sin, and in the salvation of sinners upon just and honourable terms.

2 Blessed is the man f that doth this g, and the son of man that layeth hold on it h: that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it i, and keepeth his hand k from doing any evil l.

f Every man, not only Jews, but Gentiles, or Strangers, as it is explained in the following Verses. g Judgment and Justice, mentioned v. 1. h Or, that holdeth it fast, that is resolute and constant in so doing; that not only begins well, but perseveres in it. i That guardeth the Sabbath from prophanation, and doth not defile it, either by forbidden practices, or by the neglect of commanded duties. And the Sabbath seems to be put here, as Sacrifice is elsewhere, Synecdochically for the whole Worship of God, whereof this is an eminent part, and the bond of all the rest. k Which being the great instrument of Action, is put for all the kinds and means of Action. l To wit, to ones Neighbour, as it more fully expressed, Psal. 15. 3.

3 Neither let the son of a stranger m, that hath joined himself to the LORD n, speak, saying, The LORD hath utterly separated me from his people; neither let the eunuch o say, Behold, I am a dry tree p.

m The stranger, as the son of man is the same with the man, v. 2. the Gentile, who by Birth is a stranger to God, and to the Common-wealth of Israel. n That hath turned from dumb Idols to the living God, and to the true Religion: for such shall be as acceptable to me as the Israelites themselves, and the partition-wall between Jews and Gentiles shall be taken down, and Repentance and Remission of sins shall be preached and offered to men of all Nations. o Who is here joined with the stranger, because he was forbidden to enter into the Congregation of the Lord, Deut. 23. 1. as the stranger was, and by his barrenness might seem no less than the stranger to be cast out of God's Covenant, and cut off from his People, to whom the blessing of a numerous Posterity was promised. And under these two Instances he understands all those persons, who either by Birth, or by any Ceremonial Pollution, were excluded from the participation of Church priviledges, and so he throws open the door to all true Believers: without any restriction whatsoever. p A fapless and fruitless Tree, accursed by God with the curse of barrenness, which being oft threatned as a Curse, and being a matter of Reproach among the Jews might easily occasion such discouraging thoughts as are here expressed.

4 For thus saith the LORD unto the eunuchs that keep my sabbaths, and choose the things that please me q, and take hold of my covenant r:

q That observe my Commands not by custom, or force, or fear, but by free choice, and full consent, with love to them and delight in them. r That resolvedly and stedfastly keep the conditions of my Covenant.

5 Even unto them will I give in mine house s, and within my walls t, a place and a name better than of sons and daughters u: I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be cut off.

s In my Temple, to serve me there as Priests, which Eunuchs were not allowed to do, Lev. 21. 17, &c. Deut. 23. 1. t In the Courts of my Temple, which were encompassed with Walls. This seems to be added with respect to the People who were admitted into the Court, but not into the House it self. u A far greater Blessing and Honour than that of having posterity, which was but a temporal Mercy, and that common to the worst of men, even my Favour, and my Spirit, and eternal Felicity.

6 Also the sons of the stranger, that join themselves to the LORD x, to serve him, and to love the name of the LORD y, to be his servants, every one that keepeth the sabbath from polluting it, and taketh hold of my covenant:

x That with purpose of heart cleave unto him, as is said, Acts 11. 23. y To serve him out of love to him, and to his Worship.

Ch. 2. 2. 7 Even them will I * bring to my holy mountain z, and make them joyful a in my house of prayer b: their burnt-offerings and other sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar c: for * mine house shall be called an * Mat. 21. 13. house of prayer for all people d.

z To my house, as it is explained in the following clause, which stood upon Mount Sion, largely so called, including Mount Moriah. Mat. 11. 17. Luk. 19. 46. Formerly the Gentiles neither had any desire to come thither, nor were admitted there; but now I will incline their heats to come, and I will give them admission and free liberty to come into my Church. a By accepting their services, and comforting their hearts with the sense of my Love, and pouring down all sorts of blessings upon them. b In my Temple, in and towards which Prayers are daily made and directed unto me, 1 King. 8. 19, 28. c They shall have as free access to mine House and Altar, as the Jews themselves, and their services shall be as acceptable to me as theirs. Evangelical Worship is here described under such Expressions as agreed to the Worship of God which then was in use, as it is Mal. 1. 11. and elsewhere. See also Rom. 12. 1. Heb. 13. 15. d Jews and Gentiles shall have equal freedom of access to my House, and shall there call upon my Name. Possibly he may call it an House of Prayer, either to imply that Prayer to God, whereof Thanksgiving is a part, is a more considerable part of God's Worship than Sacrifice, which being considered in it self is little valued by him, as he frequently declareth: or to signifie that in the New Testament, when the Gentiles should be called, all other Sacrifices should cease, except that of Prayer, and such like Spiritual Services. Which also is confirmed from the nature of the thing. For seeing Sacrifices were confined to the Temple at Jerusalem, and it was impossible that all Nations should resort thither to offer up Levitical Sacrifices in such time and manner as God appointed, it was necessary upon supposition of the general conversion of the Gentiles, that that way of Worship should be abolished, and such a way prescribed as they were capable of practising.

8 The Lord GOD, which gathereth the out-casts of Israel e, saith, Yet will I gather others to him, † † Heb. to his gathered. besides those that are gathered unto him f.

e Which will gather to himself, and bring into their own Land, ed. those poor Israelites which are, or shall be, cast out of their own Land, and from God's presence, and dispersed in divers parts of the World. f As there are some few Gentiles whom I have made Proselytes, and added to the Jewish Church, so I shall make another and a far more comprehensive gathering of the Gentiles, whom I shall bring into the same Church with the Jews, making both Jews and Gentiles one fold under one Shepherd, as it is promised, Joh. 10. 16.

9 All the beasts of the field, come to devour, yea, all ye beasts in the forrest g.

g This invitation or proclamation is a prediction of Israel's Destruction by their cruel Enemies, which are oft expressed in Scripture under the names of ravenous Beasts. But the great Question is, What connexion this part of the Chapter hath with the former? Which may be thus conceived: The Prophet having largely discourfed concerning the Messiah, and his Church and Kingdom, and particularly of the great accession and conversion of the Gentiles to it, and of the Infidelity, Apostacy, and manifold Wickednesses of the Jewish Nation, and having comforted and encouraged the Gentiles with God's gracious promises made to them, he now proceeds to terrifie the unbelieving and ungodly Jews, and to shew that as the Gentiles should believe, and be saved, so They should reject their Messiah, and be utterly destroyed; although we need not labour much about the coherence: For this may be a new Sermon, and therefore many learned Interpreters make this the beginning of the 57th Chapter.

10 His h watchmen i are blind: they are all ignorant k, they are all dumb dogs, they cannot bark l, ‖ sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber m.

h Israel's, as is evident from the following verses: the Pronoun Relative being put without, and instead of the Antecedent; of which I have given divers Instances before. i Priests and Prophets, or other Teachers, who are commonly called Watchmen, as Ezek. 3. 17. & 33. 2. Hos. 9. 8. He mentions only the Teachers, because Ignorance was most shameful in them, but hereby he suppoteth the gross ignorance of the People, who neither pretended nor desired to be wiser than their Teachers. k Of God's Will and Word, and of their own and the Peoples duty, and of the true Messiah. l They are also slothful and negligent in instructing the people, and do not faithfully reprove them for their sins, nor warn them of their dangers, nor keep them from Errours and Corruptions in Doctrine, and Worship, and Conversation, as they ought to do. m Minding their own ease and safety more than the Peoples benefit.

11 Yea, they are † greedy dogs which † * can never have enough n, and they are shepherds that cannot † Heb. strong of appetite. † Heb. know not to be satisfied. understand o: they * all look to their own way p, every one for his gain from his quarter q.

n Insatiably covetous. o Heb. that know not to understand, that do not care, or love, or desire (as knowing is frequently taken) either to understand the Law, or Word of God themselves, or to make the People to understand it. p They regard neither God's Command and Glory, nor the Peoples good, but only the satisfaction of their own base Lusts. See on Isa. 53. 6. q In their several places and stations, as they have opportunity: Heb. from his or their end or extremity, i. e. universally, or all from one end of that Body or Society of men unto the other: as the same word signifies Gen. 19. 4. from one end of the City to the other, or, as we there render it, from every quarter: and as the same word is by divers learned Men rendred 1 Kings 12. 31. not of the meanest of the people, but out of all the people, or indifferently out of every Tribe: of which see my note there. But if that Phrase be rightly rendred there, out of the meanest of the people, as divers also expound the same Phrase, Gen. 47. 2. of the meanest of his Brethren; why may it not as well be rendred here, even from the meanest

meaneſt or pooreſt of his flock, which is a great aggravation of their covetouſneſs and cruelty, to extort gains from ſuch as needed their Charity.

12 Come ye, ſay they q, I will fetch wine, and we will fill our ſelves r with ſtrong drink, and to morrow ſhall be as this day, and much more abundant s.

q Unto their Brethren, by Office, and in Iniquity: unto their Fellow-Priests, or other jolly companions. r We will drink not not only to Delight, but even to Drunkenneſs, as the word ſignifies, Mich. 1. 10. and elſewhere. s Which ſheweth their dreadful ſecurity and contempt of God, and of his Judgments, and their total and reſolved abandoning of all care of their own or Peoples Souls.

CHAP. LVII.

The bleſſed death of the Righteous: not duly lamented by the Jews: who alſo commit Idolatry: and truſted in man: they are threatned, 1, —— 12. Evangelical Promiſes to the Penitent, 13, 19. no peace to the wicked, 20, 21.

f The juſt and merciful man ſhall enter into a ſtate of peace and reſt, where he ſhall be out of the reach of the approaching miſeries. Or, he ſhall go (to wit, to his Fathers, as it is fully expreſſed, Gen. 15. 15. Or, he ſhall die, going being put for dying, as 1 Chr. 17. 11. compared with 2 Sam. 7. 12. Job 10. 21. & 14. 20. Luke 22. 22. and elſewhere:) in peace. g Juſt men. Here is a ſudden change of the number, which is very frequent in the Prophets. h In their Graves, which are not unfitly called their Beds, or ſleeping-houſes, as their death is commonly called ſleep in Scripture. i Or that walketh or did walk, i. e. live. k In a ſincere and faithful diſcharge of his duties to God and Men. Or, before him, i. e. before God, according to the uſual Phraſe of Scripture, as Gen. 17. 1. 1 King. 2. 4. & 8. 25. For God is oft underſtood where he is not expreſſed, but only deſigned by this or the like pronoun, as Gen. 51. 13. and elſewhere.

3 But draw near hither l, ye ſons of the ſorcereſs m, the ſeed of the Adultereſs, and the whore n.

l To God's Tribunal, to anſwer for your ſelves, and to hear what I have to ſay againſt you, and to receive your ſentence. m Not by propagation, but by imitation; ſuch being frequently called a Man or Womans Sons that learn their Art, and follow their Example: you Sorcerers, either Properly or Metaphorically ſo called: for the Jews were guilty of it both ways. n Not the genuine Children of Abraham, as you pretend and boaſt, but begotten in Fornication upon a common Whore. Which is not to be underſtood properly but figuratively, becauſe their diſpoſitions and carriages were far more ſuitable to a baſtardly brood, than to Abraham's Seed.

o Conſider whom it is that you mock and ſcoff when you deride God's Prophets, as they did, Iſa. 28. 14, 22. and know that it is not ſo much Men that you abuſe, as God, whoſe Cauſe they plead, and in whoſe name they ſpeak. p Theſe are the known and common geſtures of Mockers, of which ſee Job 16. 10. Pſal. 22. 7. & 35. 21. q Either an adulterous brood, as was ſaid before: or, a Generation of Liars, whoſe practices groſly contradict your principles and profeſſions, who deal deceitfully and perfidiouſly both with God and with Men.

r Heb. being enflamed, &c. luſting after them, and mad upon them, as the Phraſe is, Jer. 50. 38. ſervent both in making and in worſhipping of them, as was obſerved, Iſa. 44. 12, &c. It is a Metaphor borrowed from Whoredom to which Idolatry is oft compared. s Wheresoever you ſee an Idol erected, which was commonly done in Groves, or under great and ſhady trees, which both defended the Worſhippers from the heat of the Sun, and were ſuppoſed to ſtrike them with a kind of ſacred Horrour and Reverence. See on Deut. 12. 2. 2 King. 16. 4. & 17. 10. t In way of Sacrifice to their Idols, after the manner of the barbarous Heathens; of which ſee on Lev. 18. 21. Deut. 12. 31. 2 King. 21. 6. & 23. 10. u Or, beſides the brooks, which run in the valleys: which was moſt commodious for ſuch bloody work. He ſeems to allude to to valley of Hinnom in which theſe cruelties were practiſed, Jer. 7. 31. through which alſo the Brook Kidron is ſuppoſed to have run. x Which they choſe either for ſhade, or for thoſe dark vaults and hollow places, which were either by Nature or Art made in rocks, and which were convenient for, and frequently appointed to idolatrous uſes.

6 Among the ſmooth ſtones of the ſtream u thy portion y; they, are thy lot z: even to them haſt thou poured a drink-offering, thou haſt offered a meat-offering a. Should I receive comfort in theſe b?

y Thou haſt choſen for thy portion thoſe Idols which were either made of thoſe ſmooth ſtones which were caſt up by Rivers; or which were worſhipped upon Altars made of ſuch ſtones; or which were worſhipped by the ſides of Brooks or Rivers where ſuch ſmooth ſtones commonly lie. z Thou haſt forſaken me and choſen Idols for the great object of thy Worſhip and Truſt. a For the Devil is God's Ape, and Idolaters uſed the ſame Rites and offerings in the Worſhip of Idols which God had preſcribed in his own, Num. 15. 4, &c. b Should I be pleaſed with ſuch a people and ſuch Actions? Muſt I not needs be highly provoked, and ſhew my diſpleaſure by an exemplary puniſhment of ſuch wicked and fooliſh Actions? This is an uſual Figure, called Meioſis, or Litotes, when leſs is ſaid, and more is underſtood.

7 * Upon a lofty and high mountain c haſt thou ſet thy bed d: even thither wenteſt thou up to offer ſacrifice.

* Ezek. 16. 25.

c In high places, which were much uſed for Religious Worſhip, both by Iſraelites and by Heathens. d Thine Altar, as appears from the Sacrifice here following, in which thou didſt commit ſpiritual Whoredom with Idols. Compare Ezek. 23. 17, 41.

8 Behind * the doors alſo and the poſts e haſt thou ſet up thy remembrance f: for thou haſt diſcovered thy ſelf to another than me g, and art gone up h: thou haſt enlarged thy bed i, and ‖ made a covenant with them k; * thou lovedſt their bed ‖ where thou ſaweſt it l.

* Ezek. 8. 10. & 23. 41. ‖ Or, knew it for it ſelf larger than this.

e Which by a Figure called Hendiadus may be put for the doors than theſe poſts, as it is expreſſed, Deut. 11. 20. Behind the poſts of the doors of thine Houſe: where the Heathens are ſaid to have placed their tutelar gods to whoſe protection they committed themſelves and their Houſes, that ſo they might have their Eyes and Minds upon them, whenſoever they went out or came in. Here alſo the Iſraelites might put them in ſome cloſe corner, that they might keep them ſecret, it being opprobrious, and oft times dangerous for them to worſhip Idols. f Thoſe Images or Monuments and tokens which thou didſt make and ſet up there as remembrances of thoſe Idol-gods whom they repreſented, or to whom they belonged. He ſaith, thy remembrance, in oppoſition to God's remembrances, or to that Writing of God's Law upon their door-poſts, which God preſcribed to keep him and his Law in their remembrance, Deut. 6. 9. & 11. 20. g Thou haſt uncovered thy nakedneſs; i. e. proſtituted thy Body (as the Phraſe commonly ſignifies) to others beſides me thine Husband. Heb. from with me (departing from me, or, as it were riſing out of my Bed) thou haſt uncovered or proſtituted thy ſelf to others like an impudent and inſatiable ſtrumpet. h Into the Adulterous Bed, as this very word is uſed, Gen. 49. 4. i That it might receive many Adulterers together. Thou haſt multiplied thine Idols and Altars. k Thou haſt covenanted to ſerve them, and to expect help from them. But becauſe the verb here uſed being thus put by it ſelf, never ſignifies to make a Covenant, it ſeems to be better rendred in the margent of our Bible, and by others, haſt hewed it (to wit, thy Bed, which is expreſſed both in the next foregoing, and in the next following words:) for thy ſelf (for thine Idolatrous uſes:) larger than theirs, than their Bed, as it follows: or thus, didſt hew down (to wit, trees, which is eaſily underſtood both from the Verb, and from the nature of the thing) to or for thy ſelf (to make Images or other things relating to thy falſe Gods) more than they, more than the Heathens, of whom thou haſt learned theſe practices, as God complains, 2 Kings 21. 9. Ezek. 16. 46, 47, 52. l No ſooner didſt thou ſee their Idols but thou waſt enamoured with them, and didſt fall down and worſhip them, like an unchaſte and lewd Woman, who upon all occaſions, and at the very firſt view of any man, is inflamed with Luſt towards them. Heb. thou loveſt their Bed (i. e. their filthy converſation) in the place (for ſo this Hebrew word frequently ſignifies, as Deut. 23. 12. Iſa. 22. 18. and elſewhere,) where thou ſaweſt it. Or, thus, thou loveſt their bed, thou didſt provide (as this word ſignifies, Exod. 18. 21. and ſo doth a word of the very ſame ſignification, Gen. 22. 8.) a place for it, to receive their Bed, to ſet up their Idols in thine own houſe.

9 And ‖ * thou wenteſt l to the king m with ointment n, and didſt encreaſe thy perfumes o, and didſt ſend thy meſſengers far off p, and didſt debaſe thy ſelf even unto hell q.

l Either by thy ſelf, or, by thy meſſengers, as it follows. Or, thou didſt look, to wit, earneſtly, with expectation and vehement affection. m Either to Moloch, which was as it were the King or chief of their Idols, and which ſignifies a King. Or, to the great King of Aſſyria, called the King by way of eminency, to whom the Iſraelites in the days of Iſaiah were very prone to ſeek, and truſt, and ſend preſents. Although the word, King, may be here taken collectively for the Kings of Aſſyria or Egypt, or any other King, from whom they deſired or expected help in their ſtraits. And ſo the Prophet paſſeth here from their Idolatry to another ſin, even to their carnal confidence in Heathen Princes, for which they are oft ſeverely reproved; although theſe two ſins were commonly joined together, and they eaſily received Idolatry from thoſe Kings whoſe help they deſired. n With pretious Ointments, and particularly with balm, which was of great price, and was a commodity peculiar to thoſe parts, and was ſometimes ſent as a preſent. See Gen. 43. 11. Jer. 8. 22. & 46. 11. o Didſt ſend great quantities thereof to them to procure their aid. p Into Aſſyria, which was far from Judea. q Thou waſt willing to ſubmit to the baſeſt terms to procure their aid.

10 Thou art wearied in the greatneſs of thy way r; yet ſaidſt thou not, There is no hope s: thou haſt found ſaving. found the ‖ life of thine hand t, therefore thou waſt not grieved u.

r Thou haſt not eaſed or relieved, but only tired thy ſelf with all thy tedious journeys, and laborious endeavours. s And yet thou waſt ſo ſtupid under all thy diſcouragements and diſappointments, that thou didſt not perceive that thy labour was loſt, and that thy caſe was not mended, but made worſe and deſperate by theſe practices. t Thou haſt found (i. e. Thou falſly imagineſt that thou haſt found, or ſhalt aſſuredly find by theſe courſes) the life (i. e. the ſtrength and vigour) of thine hand, that thine hand is ſtrengthned by theſe practices: or, life by thine hand, i. e. by theſe endeavours and applications of thy ſelf to others for help. Or, thou haſt ſometimes found ſucceſs in theſe ways. u Therefore thou didſt not repent of thy ſin and folly herein, but didſt perſiſt and applaud thy ſelf in ſuch courſes.

11 And of whom haſt thou been afraid or feared x, that thou haſt lied y, and haſt not remembred me x, nor laid it to thy heart a? have not I held my peace even of old b, and thou feareſt me not c!

x And what or who are they, the fear of whom drives thee to theſe wicked and deſperate courſes? Are they not men, weak and mortal Creatures, ſuch as wholly depend upon me, and can do nothing to thee either againſt me or without me? y That thou haſt dealt thus diſloyally and perfidiouſly with me, and fought for ſuch foreign aſſiſtances, contrary to my command, and thy ſolemn Covenant. z Haſt thou forgotten all thoſe great things which I have done for thee, and all thoſe Promiſes which I have made to thee, and conſtantly performed, when thou haſt not groſly violated the conditions upon which they were made. a Or thus, nor ſet me upon thine heart, as theſe very words are rendred, Cant. 8. 6. And ſo this is a repetition of what is ſaid in the foregoing clauſe in other words. The ſenſe is, Thou haſt not ſeriouſly and affectionately conſidered what I am, how all-ſufficient, and faithful, and gracious, for then thou wouldeſt not have diſtruſted or diſobeyed me. b Have not I forborn to reprove and puniſh thee for this and for other ſins, from time to time, ever ſince thou waſt my People, that by this goodneſs I might oblige thee to love me, and to cleave unto me? c Or, therefore thou doſt not fear or regard me. Thus thou abuſeſt mine indulgence and long-ſuffering, taking occaſion from thence to deſpiſe me.

12 I will declare d thy righteouſneſs and thy works e, † for they ſhall not profit thee f.

d I will no longer be ſilent and patient towards thee. e Which may be put for the righteouſneſs of thy works by that known figure, of which ſee the firſt note on v. 8. whereby he means their wickedneſs, which he calleth their righteouſneſs either Ironically, or becauſe it was covered with a pretence of Righteouſneſs, and they alledged that this was a juſt and lawful thing when they were diſtreſſed to ſeek for help from their Neighbours or Allies. The ſenſe is, I will diſcover whether thy works be righteous, as thou pretendeſt they are: my puniſhments ſhall manifeſt the wickedneſs of thy Actions. f Theſe Actions ſhall do thee no good but much hurt.

13 When thou crieſt g, let thy companies deliver thee h: but the wind ſhall carry them all away i; vanity k ſhall take them l; but he that putteth his truſt in me, ſhall poſſeſs the land, and ſhall inherit my holy mountain m.

g To wit, unto me for deliverance. h Expect it not from me whom thou haſt forſaken and deſpiſed, but from thoſe foreign troops to whom thou haſt fought and truſted for ſuccour. i But they ſhall be ſo far from ſaving thee that they ſhall not be able to deliver themſelves, but ſhall be carried away ſuddenly and violently by the blaſt of mine anger. k A vapour or puff of Breath which quickly vaniſheth away. It is the ſame thing in effect with the wind. l Or, take them away, as this verb ſignified, Hoſ. 11. 13. and elſewhere. m Shall enjoy my favour and preſence in my Temple.

That Peace which is not wrought by Mens hands, but only by God's Lips or Word, Peace with God, and in a mans own Conſcience, which God hath promiſed to his People, and which he hath publiſhed and offered to all ſorts of men by the preaching of the Prophets, and eſpecially of the Apoſtles; as may be gathered both from the Object of this Peace in the following words, and by the excluſion of all wicked Men from the Peace, ver. 20, 21. g The doubling of the word ſignifies the certainty and abundance of this Peace. h To the Gentiles who are far from God, and from Salvation, Acts 2. 38, 39 Eph. 2. 12, &c. as well as to the Jews, who are called a people near unto God, Pſal. 148. 14.

CHAP. LVIII.

The Jews hypocriſie: in their faſts, 1, —— 5. a true faſt deſcribed, 6, —— 7. promiſes to Godlineſs, 8, 12. to the keeping of the Sabbath, 13, 14.

CRy † aloud a, ſpare not b, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and ſhew my people their tranſgreſſion, and the houſe of Jacob their ſins.

a The Prophet having in the foregoing Chapter noted and cenſured divers groſs miſcarriages of the Jews, proceeds upon the ſame Subject in this Chapter, and in God's name expoſtulates with them for other miſdemeanours. b Forbear not to ſpeak whatſoever I command thee for the conviction of this People.

2 Yet they ſeek me daily c, and delight to know my ways d, as a nation that did righteouſneſs e, and forſook not the † ordinance of their God f: they aſk of me the ordinances of juſtice g: they take delight in approaching to God i.

c They cover all their wickedneſs with a profeſſion of Religion, from time to time reſorting to my houſe, pretending to aſk Counſel of me, and to deſire and ſeek my Favour and Bleſſing. d Either 1. They ſeem to delight in it: for men are oft ſaid in Scripture to be, or do, that which they ſeem or profeſs to be, or do, as Mat. 13. 12. that which he hath, is thus explained in Luke 8. 18. that which he ſeemeth to have, and Rom. 7. 9. I was alive, i. e. I falſly thought my ſelf to be alive. See alſo Phil. 3. 9. Or 2. They really delight; for this is evident, that there are many men who take ſome pleaſure in the knowing of God's Will and Word, and yet do not conform their Lives to it. e As if they were a righteous and godly People. f As if they were not guilty of any Apoſtacy from God, or neglect of, or diſobedience to God's precepts. g As if they deſired and reſolved to obſerve them. i Of which ſee the ſecond note upon this verſe. i In coming to my Temple to hear my Word, and to offer Sacrifices.

3 Wherefore have we fasted, say they, and thou seest not k? wherefore have we afflicted our soul l, and thou takest no knowledge? Behold, in the day of your ‖ Or, things wherewith ye grieve others. † Heb. grief. fast m, ye find pleasure n, and exact all your † labours o.

k They complain of hard usage from God, that although they prayed, and fasted, and kept the rest of God's ordinances, all which are synecdochically comprehended under the title of fasting, all their labour was lost, and God neither regarded nor delivered them. l Defrauded and pinched our Appetites with fasting, of which this Phrase is used, Levit. 16. 29. & 23. 27, 29. m In those solemn days of fasting which I have appointed: or, in those times when I have called you by the course of my Providence, and counsels of my Prophets, unto fasting, and weeping and mourning, &c. Isa. 22. 12. n Either 1. You indulge your selves; in sensuality, as they did, Isa. 22. 13. But this doth not agree with that afflicting of their Souls which they now professed, and which God acknowledgeth, ver. 5. Or rather 2. You pursue and satisfie your own Lusts: though you abstain from bodily food, you do not mortifie your own sinful concupisences, and when you are restrained from outward Acts, yet even then your Thoughts and Affections are set upon, and working toward those things which gratifie your fleshly Inclinations and worldly Interests. o Your money got by your labour, and lent to others either for their need, or your own advantage: for Labour is oft put for Wealth, as Deut. 28. 33. Isa. 45. 14. &c. Heb. your griefs, not passively, those things which are grievous to you, but actively such as are very grievous and burdensom to others, either hard Service, above the strength of your Servants, or beyond the time limited by God for their Service, of which see an Instance, Jer. 34. 13, 14, 15, 16. or debts, which you require either with usury, or at least with rigour and cruelty, when either the general Law of Charity, or God's particular and positive Law, commanded the release or at least the forbearance of them; of which see an instance, Nehem. 5. 1, 2, &c.

4 Behold, ye fast for strife and debate p, and to smite with the fist of wickedness q: ‖ ye shall not fast ‖ Or, ye fast not as this day. as ye do this day, to make your voice r to be heard on high.

p Your fasting days, wherein you ought in a special manner to implore the Mercy of God, and to shew compassion to Men, you imploy in a great measure in injuring or quarreling with your Brethren, your Servants or Debtors, or in contriving mischief against them, as if the design of your fasting and praying to God, were only to obtain a licence to oppress Men. Compare Mat. 23. 14. q Or, with a wicked fist, a Genitive of the Adjunct. To deal rigorously and injuriously with your Servants or Debtors, which Servants, it may be, had sold themselves to the year of Redemption, Exod. 21. 2. Lev. 25. 39, 40, 50. You handle them with an hard hand, the word is used for fist, Exod. 21. 18. the LXX add the humble, poor, or inferiour person, and that not only their Debtors with a summum jus exact rigour, which seems elsewhere to be expressed by grinding the face, ch. 3. 15. and in that Parable by taking by the throat, Mat. 18. 28. but also their Servants out of meer Will and Pleasure, and in contempt of them, treating them opprobriously, as Christ was handled in contempt and scorn, Mat. 26. 67, 68. Job. 18. 22. r Either 1. In strife and Debate, in which Mens Passions shew themselves by loud clamours. Or 2. So as to cause the cry of the oppressed, by reason of your injuries, of what kind soever, to enter into the Ears of God, which is a crying sin, whether it proceed from unmercifulness, Exod. 22. 25, 26, 27. which sometimes encreaseth to rage, 2 Chr. 28. 9. or from injustice, ch. 5. 7. or from fraud and deceit, Jam. 5. 4. The Scripture doth frequently express whatever sin is against Charity in special, as also general complex sins, by crying, Gen. 18. 20, 21. Jon. 1. 2. Or 3. By way of Ostentation, to note their Hypocrisie, they love to be taken notice of by others, Mat. 6. 2, 5, 16. or, their Folly, supposing that they shall be heard for their much speaking, upon which account Baals Priests are mocked by Elijah, 1 King. 18. 27, 28. 4. Voice here relates principally to their Prayer, it is a Synecdoche of the kind; so the sense is, this is not the way to have your Prayers heard; if you desire that, you must fast in another manner, and abstain from all kind of oppression: And this seems best to suit the Context, which is to shew what kind of fast the Lord reproves, and what he approves in the following verses.

5 Is it * such a fast that I have chosen s? ‖ a day t for a man to afflict u his soul x? is it, to bow down his * Zech. 7. 5. * Lev. 16. 29. ‖ Or, to afflict his soul for a day. head as a bulrush y, and to spread sackcloth and ashes under him z? wilt thou call a this a fast b, and an acceptable day to the LORD c?

s Approve of, accept, or delight in, by a Metonymy, because we delight in what we freely chuse. t Or, to afflict his Soul for a day, It is an Hypallage, and so it may be understood, either for a man to take a certain time to afflict his Soul in, and that either from even to even, Lev. 23. 32. or from morning to evening, Judg. 20. 26. 2 Sam. 3. 35. or else, to afflict his Soul for a little time. u Or, keep himself low, or chastise the body for want of Food, viz. outwardly without any inward sorrow, or compunction for sin, working a true Humiliation in the sight of God. x Put here Synecdochically for the Body or Person, as is usual in Scripture, Gen. 45. 18, 22, 25. Lev. 2. 2, 4. & 7. 20, 21, 27. & 22. 11. y Here the Prophet sets down those external gestures and postures in particular, which they did joyn with their hypocritical fasts, as he had mentioned it before in general. To bow down, bowing is the posture of mourners, Psal. 35. 14. and here it is either, as if through weakness of Body their Heads did hang down; or counterfeitly, to represent the posture of true penitents, moving sometimes their Heads this way, and that way, as the word signifieth, not unlike the ballance of a Clock, as the Bullrush moved by the Wind boweth it self down, waving to and fro, in a kind of circular, or semicircular motion, the contrary motion of lifting up the Head being an Indication of Pride, Ch. 3. 16. It is the guise of Hypocrites to put on affected Countenances, Mat. 6. 16. z The Jews to express their sorrow, made use of Sackloth and Ashes two ways: 1. Sometimes by putting on Sackloth upon their Bodies, as 1 Kin. 21. 27. Psl. 69. 11. and casting ashes upon their Heads, 2 Sam. 13. 19. And 2. Sometimes by spreading Sackcloth under them, and lying down upon Ashes, Esth. 4. 3. Job 2. 8. The intent of Sackcloth was to afflict the Body by its unpleasing, harshness, and of Ashes to represent their own vileness, as being but Dust and Ashes; their putting of them on might note their uncasiness under sin, and laying on them their self-abhorrency, shaming themselves for it. Quer. Are such Rites now convenient on a day of Humiliation to help us in our afflicting of our selves? Answ. Gospel Services neither require them, or need them, respecting more the Inward afflicting of the Soul with godly sorrow, and deep contrition; yet may they carry this instruction along with them, that our Ornaments, our best and gawdy Apparel, ought to be laid aside, as not suiting either the ground and cause, or the end and design of days of Humiliation. a i. e. Canst thou upon a rational account as a meer man call it so? Canst thou think, suppose, or believe it to be so? b It being such an one as has nothing in it, but the lifeless Skeleton and dumb signs of a Fast, nothing of deep Humiliation appearing in it, or, real Reformation proceeding from it: Not that the Prophet blames them for these external Rites in this outward way of afflicting themselves. For this he commands, Leu. 23. 27, 31, 32. and appoints certain Rites to be used, Leu. 16. 19, 21. And these particular Rites were frequent in their solemn Humiliations, 1 Kin. 21. 27. Esth. 4. 3. Dan. 9. 3. used also by the Heathen, Jon. 3. 5, 6. See Mat. 11. 21. But that which he condemns is their Hypocrisie in separating true Humiliation from them, for bodily exercise profiteth little, 1 Tim. 4. 8. c A day that God will approve of, as before. Heb. a day of acceptance, or that will turn to a good account on your behalf.

6 Is not this the fast that I have chosen d? to loose the bands of wickedness e, to undo † the heavy burdens f, and * to let the † oppressed g go free h, and that ye break every yoke i? † Heb. the bundles of the yoke. * Jer. 34. 10. † Heb. broken.

d Or, approve, as before, v. 5. or, ought not such a Fast to be accompanied with such things as these, where he is now about to shew the concomitants of a true Fast, with reference to the thing in hand, namely, to exercise works of Charity, consisting partly in acts of self-denial in this Verse, and partly in doing good to those in distress in the next. In this verse he instanceth in some particulars, and closeth with a general. e viz. The cruel obligations of Usury and Oppression. f Heb. bundles, a Metaphor, possibly pointing at those many bundles of Writings, as Bills, Bonds, Mortgages, and Acknowledgments, which the Usurers had lying by them. The former may relate to unjust and unlawful Obligations extorted by force, or fear, which he would have cancelled; This latter to just Debts contracted through proverty and necessity, the rigour whereof he would have abated, whether by reason of loans upon too hard conditions, called a drawing them into a net, Psal. 10. 9. and so much is implied, Prov. 6. 5. or, under too hard circumstances, whether they were loans of Food, or money, of which the People so bitterly complained, Neh. 5. 1, 2, 3, 4. and is expresly forbid, Exod. 22. 25. For Debts may be called Burdens, 1. Because they lie as a great load upon the Debtors Spirits, under which who ever can walk up and down easily, doth not so much excel in fortitude as in folly. 2 Because they usually introduce Poverty, Slavery, Imprisonment, &c. g Either in a large sense, viz. any ways grieved or vexed, whether by the gripings of Usury, or the bondage of Slavery accompanied with cruel usage; or, more peculiarly (according to some) relating to their being confined, and shut up in Prisons, which latter sense the word free, may possibly seem to favour, the former being comprised in that general expression that follows of breaking every yoke. Heb. broken, i.e. like a bruised Reed, so crushed and weakned, that they have no consistency or ability, either to satisfie their Creditors, or support themselves, and we usually call such insolvent persons, broken, that cannot look upon themselves to be, sui juris, but wholly at anothers Mercy; you have the same kind of oppression, and the same words used, Amos 4. 1. i Namely, That is grievous, a Metaphor, i. e. free them from all sorts of Vexation, whatever it is that held them under any Bondage; the LXX refer it to Bonds and Writings: But it seems more general: the word properly signifies that stick or cord that holds both ends of the yoke, that it spring not out, or fall off from the neck on which it is laid, Exod. 25. 14. where the same word is used for staves, and called the bands of the Yoke, Lev. 26. 13. I have broken the bands of your yoke, and made you go upright, the same thing that God would have them do here.

7 Is it k not * to † deal l thy bread m to the hungry, and that thou bring n the poor o that are † cast out p, to thy house q? when thou seest the naked r, that thou cover him s, and that thou hide t not thy self from thine own flesh u? * Ezek. 18. 7, 16. Mat. 25. 35. † Heb. break. ‖ Or, afflicted.

k Viz. The Fast that pleaseth me, supplied from the former verse; having shewed the evil they are to abstain from in order to an acceptable Fast, viz. cruelty, he here speaks of the duty that is required, viz. Mercy, as a manifestation of Repentance, Dan. 4. 27. Luke 19. 8. For there are two parts of Justice, one to do no man wrong, the other to do good to all. Which two ought always to accompany each other, and cannot be parted, especially in acts of Humiliation; and as by those evils mentioned he understands all other evil whatsoever, that they are to be abstained from as the consequence of a day of Humiliation, so under these duties mentioned are comprised all the duties that we are to set upon as the effect of true Repentance; and he instanceth rather in those of the second Table than those of the first, not that they are to be neglected, but because chearful performance of external duties to our Neighbour, is the clearest discovery and indication of our inward Piety towards God, 1 Joh. 4. 20. l The word properly signifies to divide, or break into parts, for the more equal and expeditious doing whereof, they were wont of old to bake their Loaves with cuts or clefts in them, more or fewer according to the bigness of the Loaf, not much unlike that which we ordinarily call buns. It implies, that as none is obliged to give away all, so none is exempted from giving some, but a distribution to be made according to the abilities of Rich and Poor: or, the meaning is, what thou spareſt on thy fasting day from thine own Belly, thou giveſt it to refresh the bowels of the hungry: What thou takeſt for thy self give to another, that thy poor Neighbour's Body may be refreshed by that. m Bread is taken for all necessaries for the Support of humane Life, and here for all kind of Food, and it is here limited by a term of propriety, Thy, Which may seem to have some Emphasis in it; see my note on Eccles. 11. 1. speaking of their grinding and oppressing the poor, he would have them be sure to give of their own, not that which of right is anothers, and thou hast, it may be, unjustly gotten. For to refresh some poor with that which thou hast gotten by the oppressing of others, and thereby possibly made them poor, will turn but to a bad account, it will bring a curse upon thy house, or Family, Proverbs 15. 27. or will transfer thy Estate over to such strangers, that will manage it as thou shouldeſt have done. Prov. 28. 8. n i. e. Voluntarily, without pressing. Invite, encourage, freely accommodate. o Viz. That are not only needy, and necessitous, as to their present condition, but helpless, and shiftless as to the means of getting out of it. p And thereby become wanderers, having no abiding place; or rather, suffered to abide no where, such are mentioned, Heb. 11. 37, 38. Or, this word coming from a root that signifies to rebel, it may be applied to such as have been adjudged, whether wrongfully or no, Rebels, and therefore cast out, viz. of favour and protection, and so become as banished ones, or Pilgrims in another Country; or afflicted, as in the margent, viz. grievously oppressed by the cruelty of great men, whereby they are cast out of their possessions, and so become wanderers, seeking Relief abroad. q That thou be hospitable, and make thy house a shelter to them that have none of their own left, but, as we usually say, cast out of house and home: see Acts 16. 34. r i. e. Either that have no cloaths, or that are so meanly cloathed that they have scarce enough to cover their nakedness, 1 Cor. 4. 11. where naked is to be taken as hunger and thirst is, not absolutely starved, so neither quite stripped: But either in a ragged and undecent condition, as to others sight, or so thinly and insufficiently cloathed as not to defend him from the injury of weather, as to his own sense of feeling. s i. e. That thou give him raiment suited to these wants, or that wherewith he may procure it, Jam. 2. 15, 16. most of these circumstances we find were the cases of the Apostles, 1 Cor. 4. 11. t That thou not only seek no occasion to excuse thy self, either by absence, or discountenancing, and disowning of him; but that out of compassion thou apply thy self heartily to his speedy relief; that thou beest not like that Priest and Levite, Luke 10. 31, 32. but like the good Samaritan, Luke 10. 33, 34, 35. not giving him occasion to complain as David, Psal. 142. 4. u Some confine this to our own kindred; and Relations, and Family, and this the LXX seem to favour, who render it, Those of thine own House, of thine own seed overlook not; agreeable to that of 1 Tim. 5. 8. where the Apostle useth the same word that the LXX doth for Kindred: But this would confine our Charity within too narrow a compass, in as much as often, nay most commonly, the necessities of others are greater than our own; neither is it congruous that the other words should be taken in the greatest latitude, and this alone confined within so narrow a compass: 'Tis true the Hebrews by their own flesh do mostly understand those who are of the same Stock, or Lineage, and Tribe, as Gen. 37. 27. & 2 Sam. 19. 12, 13. and thus many understand Paul's meaning, Rom. 11. 14. But here it is to be taken more generally, for every man, he being thine own nature; and in this latitude our Saviour interprets the relation of neighbour to that Lawyer, Luke 10. 29, 30. &c. We can look on no man, but there we contemplate our own flesh, and therefore it is barbarous, not only to tear, but to starve and succour our own flesh, Neh. 5. 5. In which soever of these two senses you take it, there is a note of similitude to be understood; so that the sense is this, Break thy Bread, &c. to them as unto thine own flesh; be not more severe to them than thou wouldeſt be to thy self; and thus it agrees with that of our Saviour, Mat. 22. 39. and with that of the Apostle, Eph. 5. 29. In short, feed him as thou wouldeſt feed thy self, or have it fed; shelter him as thou wouldeſt shelter thy self, or have it sheltered; cloath him as thou wouldeſt cloath thy self, or be cloathed; if in any of these respects thou wert in his circumstances.

8 Then shall thy * light x break forth as the morning y, and thine health z shall spring forth speedily: and thy righteousness a shall go before thee b, the * glory c of the LORD † shall be thy rereward d. * Isa. 11. 17 & 60. 1. & 59. 9, 19. † Heb. shall gather thee.

x It is put in general for all happiness and prosperity; as all kind of Adversity and Calamity is set forth and resembled by darkness; but here more particularly for a comfortable and free Estate after their dark and calamitous condition in the Babylonish Captivity; for the like reason Josephus tells us, lib. 12. cap. 11. that the Jews instituted a Feast to be observed by their posterity, upon the account of the service of the Temple being re-established, which they called The Feast of Lights, because, saith he, so great a Happiness brake forth upon them beyond their hope. y Here is a Metaphorical allusion in a Metonimical Expression, viz. of the efficient, describing the comfortable effect of humbling themselves in a right manner, which like the day light, shall break forth from the blackness of their night of affliction, and bring with it the joy and comfort of all good things; And he doth not only say this light shall appear, but break forth, dart it self forth, notwithstanding all difficulties, as the Sun breaks, & pierceth through a cloud, noting how ready God is to help his People when they are rightly humbled, how quickly, and how clearly Salvation shall break forth upon them. z Another Metaphor to express the same thing, unless there may be this difference, the Light with reference to their outward state, and Health with reference to the inward delight of their Minds, in both to describe the compleat satisfaction they should have: Deliverances out of great pressures are often in Scripture represented by the recovery of Health, as ch. 38. 18. & Jer. 8. 22. and this Prophet especially delights in this Metaphor; because all affliction is as it were a sickness to the Soul, altering the Heart and Countenance, See Neh. 2. 2, 3. and a recovery out of this estate maketh the Heart glad, and the Countenance chearful, Esth. 8. 16, 17. Jer. 33. 6. compare v. 10, 11. Hence the LXX render it Medicines. a Either 1. Thy uprightness and sincerity, Gen. 30. 33. Or 2. The reward of thy Righteousness, by a Metonymy, ch. 48. 18. Psal. 24. 5. and here perhaps it may particularly relate to their works of Mercy, and Charity, it being the thing in hand, and often so called, Psal. 112. 9. and applied by the Apostle to this purpose, 2 Cor. 9. 9. It brings temporal, spiritual, and eternal Blessings, and all this not of desert but free grace, and eternal Blessings, and all this not of desert but free grace, as a reward, that naturally springs forth from the faithfulness of his Promises, as the Harvest from the Earth, when the seed is sown, see Hos. 10. 12. so the fruit and reward of our Righteousness springs not from our deserts, but from Gods Righteousness, Heb. 6. 10. Or 3. The witness of thy Righteousness, by what thou doest or thou wilt appear to be righteous, Psal. 37. 6. For such a notion as this was vulgarly sucked in, that Adversity did never befal a person or People, but for their sins, and was strongly urged by way of argument against Job's integrity by his Friends, therefore thy being delivered shall be as a testimony of thy Righteousness. Or 4. The fruit and effect of thy Righteousness, viz. the due, just, and right order of thy Government, which, as Calvin saith, is a sign of Gods fatherly kindness; things that are now in a confusion he will bring into right order again, i. e. Justice shall be duly administred, and men shall carry themselves justly all the Land over, See Isa. 32. 16, 17, 18. Or 5. Christ's Righteousness, Jer. 23. 6. compare with 33. 16. Then the meaning is, He shall go in and out before thee, b As it were making way for thy better state, as the break of day, or the morning Star goes before the Sun. c i. e. The glory of his Power and Providence, or his glorious Power shall be seen in bringing thee up from Captivity, and defending thee free from their pursuit; or, as some, a glorious state shall succeed this thy calamitous condition, and called the Glory of the Lord to express the greatness of this glory, as very great mountains are called the mountains of God, and tall Cedars the Cedars of God: The glorious Lord, by a Metonymy of the Adjunct. d Heb. shall gather thee, Lord, by a Metonymy of the Adjunct. Dan, who was appointed to bring thus the word is used concerning Dan, who was appointed to bring up the Rear, or to close up the march of the Israelites, when they marched from the Wilderness of Sinai, Num. 10. 25. This Office God takes upon himself; for it argues great skill and courage, and makes him fit for the Honour and Glory of a Commander, both to gather up all the Straglers, that none be picked up by the Enemy, which relates to the Hebrew word of gathering, and to secure and cover the Rear of his Army; Thus the Angel of his presence secured the Israelites when they came up out of Egypt, Exod. 14. 19.

9 Then shalt thou call e, and the LORD shall answer f? thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am g: if thou take away from the midst h of thee, the yoke i, the putting forth of the finger k, and speaking vanity l, e They made great complaint, v. 3. that God took no notice of their Services, which complaint God seems now to satisfie, q. d. these conditions observed, call upon me, and thou shalt see I will regard, Psal. 34. 15. See Isa. 1. 18. f He will give an effectual demonstration, that he hears thee, by the real answer that he will give to thy request, Psal. 34. 17. & 99. 6. & 118. 5. g A Phrase used to a person to be ready at hand, for Work, as Isaiah, ch. 6. 8. but notes a person to be ready at hand, for Work, as Isaiah, ch. 6. 8. but notes a person to be ready at hand, for Work, as Psal. 145. 18, 19. or for Help, as God here, and Psal. 46. 1. or both, Psal. 145. 18, 19. or for Help, as God here, and Psal. 46. 1. or both, Psal. 145. 18, 19. h Not a Geometrical middle, or center, but having a place among others: the meaning is, from among you. i i. e. All those prescribed before, v. 6. all that barbarous fures and Grievances before mentioned, v. 6. all that barbarous fures and Grievances before mentioned, v. 6. all that barbarous slavery they brought their Brethren into; the particulars expressed by that one Hebrew word, motah, three times used in this Chapter. k There being often an indication of a mans mind by the postures of several parts of the Body, as of Lust, malice, Scorn, Revenge, &c. Prov. 6. 12, 13, 14. this putting forth of the finger may point at divers things all springing from two roots; either the secret malice of the Heart, or just and open violence. It is used 1. Sometimes by way of scoff, reproof, or disdainful insulting, as the Pharisee seems to point at the Publican, Luke 18, 11. pointing with the Finger, like winking with the Eye, seeming to indicate something that may cause shame in another; and this is reckoned among Hebr. 11, 36. See 2 Chron. 36. 16. Jer. 20. 7. great afflictions, Hebr. 11, 36. See 2 Chron. 36. 16. Jer. 20. 7. 2. Sometimes for beating, or other injurious treating men, seized either their Persons or Estates; such a putting forth of the Hand you have mentioned, 1 Sam. 22. 17. and this agrees well to Micah 2. 1. viz. not only not stretch out thine hand against thy Brother, but not so much as be lavish with thy tongue, so as to upbraid, reproach, or injure him, or threaten with thy Finger, which seldom is done without sin; and thus the counsel here may suit with our Saviours, Mat. 5. 21, 22. viz. not only not stretch out thine hand against thy Brother, but not so much as be lavish with thy tongue, so as to upbraid, reproach, or injure him, or threaten with thy Finger, which seldom is done speaking vanity may be a Meiosis, for not railing, the LXX render it muttering, which is an incompleat kind of speaking, whereby we insinuate, or hint at, what we dare not speak out, or is an incomplete kind of speaking, whereby we reproach another in low, informed, undigested Expressions: But it it seems here rather to signifie Affliction, not only because the word used in this place doth properly so signifie, but because it is most agreeable to the matter discourſed of, and the Chaldee render it violence, and then the ſenſe is, ſpeaking words of affliction, or that will vex and grieve, like thoſe words of Nabal to Davids Servants, 1 Sam. 25. 10, 11. Prov. 18. 23. And thus it relates to their harſh and unjuſt Commands, wherewith they were wont to burden their Servants, a Synecdoche of the kind.

10 And if thou draw out m thy ſoul n to the hungry, and ſatisfie o the afflicted ſoul p; then ſhall thy light riſe q in obſcurity, and thy darkneſs be as the noon day r.

m Or, open, as when we break open a Store, or Magazine to ſatisfie the wants of the needy: it implies bounty and Liberality. A Phraſe contrary to that of ſhutting up of the bowels, 1 Joh. 3. 17. n Thy affection, i. e. thy pity and compaſſion, a Metonymy of the Subject, as one that condoles with them in their miſery; affectionately, and with delight, Rom. 12. 8. 2 Cor. 9. 7. God loves a chearful giver, as well as a liberal giver, not grudgingly, not of conſtraint, not becauſe thou muſt, but becauſe thou wilt, not out of neceſſity, but of choice: Compaſſion and Mercy in a work is more than the work of mercy it ſelf; for this is ſomething only without a man, but the other is ſomething from within, and of himſelf: This argues a Sympathy, which the other doth not, all without this being as nothing, 1 Cor. 13. 3. o Here the Prophet notes the work that is to be done, as in the former Expreſſion the affection, wherewith it is to be done, otherwiſe it would be no more than what the Apoſtle James reproves, Jam. 2. 15, 16. and the Pſalmiſt joyns them both together, Pſal. 37. 21. And then further it implies a compleat and proportionable anſwering of his wants, that the ſupply anſwer the neceſſity, that is, be ſuch as may ſatisfie, not barely keep him from ſtarving. p i. e. The perſon afflicted with wants. q This is the ſame promiſe, and expreſſed in the ſame figure, as in ver. 8. See the ſame phraſe opened there. The Hebrews delight to expreſs the ſame things often by a little altering of the Phraſe; only here it ſeems to be carried to an higher degree: There the light ſhall break forth, but here Light ſhall be in obſcurity. r In the very darkneſs of the affliction it ſelf thou ſhalt have comfort, Pſal. 112. 4. There it ſhall be as the morning ſtill increaſing, here as the noon-day in its Zenith, and height of perfection, which ſhall be without ſo much as any ſhadow of affliction.

11 And the LORD ſhall guide thee s continually, and ſatisfie thy ſoul * in † drought t, and ‖ make fat thy bones u: and thou ſhalt be like a watered garden x, and like a ſpring of water, whoſe waters † fail not y.

s Viz. like a Sheperd, Pſal. 23. 1, 2, 3. or, as the Vulgar, ſhall give thee reſt, and ſo it may relate to the reſt that God would give them in Judea, upon their return from Captivity, as anſwering to their complaints in Babylon, Lam. 5. 5. And he adds continually to ſhew that his conduct and bleſſing ſhall not be momentary, or of a ſhort continuance, but all along, as he did to Iſrael in the Wilderneſs, not leaving them, till he brought them into Canaan. t Heb. Droughts, or, drought of droughts; which being in the plural number, notes extremity of drought, Pſ. 78. 72. Skilfulneſſes, that is, great skill: And Prov. 1. 20. Wiſdoms, i. e. excellent wiſdom: and conſequently great ſcarcity and famine: The meaning is, that when thy ſoul ſhall fall in the extremity of ſuch a condition, either as to time, or place, he will abundantly ſatisfie thy ſoul, i. e. thee, by a Synecdoche; thou ſhalt have plenty, when others are in ſcarcity. u Or, make nimble, and ſo the expreſſion relates to bones full of marrow, which cauſeth agility and nimbleneſs, a ſtate of health and ſtrength; ſee Prov. 15. 30. Or, it notes chearfulneſs, which is often the cauſe of bones well covered with fat, therefore a broken, or a ſorrowful ſpirit is ſaid to dry up the bones, Prov. 17. 22. This may be ſpoken in oppoſition to the ſad effects of Famine, whereby the fleſh is conſumed away, that it cannot be ſeen, and the bones that were not ſeen, ſtick out, Job 33. 21. they cleave to the skin, Pſal. 102. 5. And thus it may have reſpect to their afflicted eſtate in Babylon, where they complain that their bones were broken, Lam. 3. 4. but now in their return their bones ſhould not only be made whole, but ſtrong, and in good condition; ſee Pſal. 51. 8. Our Engliſh Annotations, after divers ſenſes given, chuſe to cloſe with the Vulgar Tranſlation, he will deliver, or ſet free thy bones, and ſo the word doth ſignifie, Prov. 11. 8, 9. Some make each expreſſion of theſe promiſes to anſwer as ſuitable, and conditional rewards of their ſeveral duties, ex. gr. If thou conduct the caſt-outs, and harbourleſs to thy houſe, ver. 7. God will guide and conduct thee continually: If thou draw forth thy ſoul to the hungry, ſo as to ſatisfie them, ver. 10. God will ſatisfie thee in a time of drought, and in famine thou ſhalt have ſufficient, Pſal. 33. 19. If thou let the oppreſſed go free, and break every yoke, ver. 6. & 9. then God will make thy bones to rejoyce, by delivering them from their burdens, i. e. if thou wilt free them, he will free thee. And if thou continue thus to draw forth thy ſoul, that it be ever running to the refreſhing of the needy, thou ſhalt be as a ſpring of waters that ſhall never fail thee, but like the Widdows Oil, ever flowing: If thou relieve the poor, thou ſhalt never be poor, but as a well watered garden, always flouriſhing; ſee Prov. 3. 9, 10. x Like a Garden, for the pleaſure and beauty of it, a Paradiſe; like a garden watered for the continual flouriſhing of thy eſtate, there ſhall be no withering, or decay upon thy proſperous condition, Pſal. 1. 3, 4. contrary to what is ſaid of the Wicked, Pſal. 37. 2, 10, 20. 35, 36. And thus Jeremiah ſpeaks of the return of this ſame People, Jer, 31. 12. y Heb. deceive not, a Metaphor which further notes alſo the continuance of this flouriſhing ſtate, which will not be like a land flood, or brooks, that will ſoon be dried up with drought; ſee Job 6. 15. but will be fed with a ſpring of bleſſing, that will never fail; a very ſignificant Metaphor, it being the nature of ſprings, ſpontaneouſly and freely, as it were to pour out their bowels to all that upon their wants come to receive it; neither is ever ſcanty, but flows ſtill like freſh milk to the Breaſt the more it is drawn; hence God is called a fountain of goodneſs.

12 And they that ſhall be of thee z, * ſhall build the old waſt places a: thou ſhalt raiſe up the foundations of many generations b; and thou ſhalt be called c, The repairer of the breach d, the reſtorer of paths e to dwell in f.

z i. e. Either 1. A remnant of thee among the Captivity, that ſhall be as perſons raiſed from the dead: Or, 2. Thy Poſterity, expreſſed thus, becauſe they ſprang, or proceeded from them. a Heb. waſts of eternity, i. e. which have lain long waſte; for olam doth not always ſignifie what is bounded by no time, but what reſpects a long time, looking either forward, as Gen. 13. 15. Exod. 21. 6. or, backward, as here, viz. the ſpace of ſeventy years, and ſo may truly be rendred the waſts of an Age. By waſt places he means the City and Temple, with Cities and places adjacent, turned as it were all into a waſt, or wilderneſs, void and untilled, and which was done not only by Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon, but by Sennacherib alſo, and the other Kings of Aſſyria. They had lain ſo long deſolate, that the Foxes inhabited them inſtead of men, Lam. 5. 18. And it was turned ſo much into a Deſert, that they were forced to fight with the beaſts that poſſeſſed it, to get their food, Lam. 5. 9. b Either the foundations that were laid many generations ago, as thoſe of Jeruſalem, which was not only built, but was the head of a Kingdom in the days of Melchizedek, who was King thereof in the days of Abraham, as appears, Gen. 14. 18. If that Salem were Jeruſalem, as is generally agreed, and Joſephus writes, lib. 1. antiquit. cap. 10. who was born about the 300th year after the Flood: the ſuperſtructures were now deſtroyed, viz. of Jeruſalem, and divers other Cities; or, that ſhall continue for many generations yet to come. c Thou ſhalt be honoured with this Title, as we uſe to ſay the Father of our Country, i. e. deſervedly ſo called becauſe thou art ſo; the like Phraſe, chap. 48. 8. d Breach is put here collectively for Breaches, which were made by God's Judgement breaking in upon them in ſuffering the walls of their Towns and cities to be demoliſhed, and their State broken, ch. 5. 5. e Such as one was Moſes, Pſal. 106. 23. And this tends to the ſame ſenſe with the former expreſſion, becauſe men were wont to make paths over thoſe breaches, to go the neareſt way; or it may more particularly point at the recovering of the antient paths, and bringing them into their wonted courſe, which were either thoſe chief Streets through the Gates of the Cities, or other Lanes out of thoſe Streets, which were now forgotten and loſt, partly by being covered with rubbiſh, and partly by thoſe ſhorter paths that were trod, and made over the Breaches; ſuch a Reſtorer of paths was Nehemiah, Neh. 6. 1. And we read of the ſeveral Repairers he made uſe of, Neh. 3. Or, thoſe paths that led from City to City, which being now laid deſolate, and uninhabited, were grown over with graſs, and weeds, for want of Travellers, or ſafety of travelling, (of ſomething a like caſe we read in the time of the Judges, Judg. 5. 6, 7.) and ſo loſt as in a wilderneſs, wherein there is no way, and by building up thoſe Cities again, the ſeveral paths leading to them would be reſtored. f Theſe accommodations being all recovered their ancient Cities might be fit to be re-inhabited.

13 If thou turn away thy foot g from the ſabbath h, from doing thy pleaſure i on my holy day k, and call the ſabbath a delight l, the holy of the LORD m, honourable n, and ſhalt honour him, not doing thine own ways o, nor finding thine own pleaſure, nor ſpeaking thine own words p.

g This is taken, either properly, i. e. if thou take no unneceſſary journeys, or do any ſervile works either of hand or foot that are forbidden on the Sabbath day, the inſtrument being here put for the work; or, Metaphorically, i. e. if thou keep thy mind, and affections clear, and reſtrain thy ſelf from whatever may prophane it, as David did concerning the word, Pſal. 119. 101. Feet are often put for the Affections, Eccl. 5. 1. becauſe the mind is moved by the affections, as the body is by the feet: if we do not let our thoughts be extravagant either upon impertinencies, or unlawful things. The ſum is, if thou be careful not to break the Sabbath. h Or for the Sabbath's ſake, whether we underſtand it more largely of the occaſional Sabbath in ſolemn humiliations or otherwiſe ſet apart for ſacred ſervices, which is called a Sabbath, Lev. 16. 31. and 23. 32. Days of this nature were ſet apart before the captivity, Ch. 22. 12. Jer. 36. 9. and alſo in the Captivity, Zech. 7. 5. And thus it may be pertinent to the occaſion of this diſcourſe, v. 3. And further, though Sabbath be here only mentioned, yet it may take in every inſtitution of God, that they were in a capacity of obſerving during their captivity; Thus I conceive it is underſtood, ch. 56. 1, 2. Or, whether we take it more particularly for the weekly Sabbath, ſuch a carriage doth God expect, as doth become it. i Satisfying thy luſts, and the corruption of thy will. k i. e. on my Sabbath, which is an holy day. l Full of delights in thy Judgement, not looking on it as a burthen; and Practice, performing the duties of it with chearfulneſs, delighting in the ordinances of it, and ſo the Sabbath by a Metonymy is put for the works of the Sabbath, the time being put for the things that ought to be done in that time; Therefore Calling here is not only a verbal, but affectionate calling, the underſtanding aſſenting, the will conſenting, and the actions conforming thereto; this delight appears in the Saints of God, in their breathings after it, as it did frequently in David, Pſ. 27. 4. & 36. 8. & 42. 1. with many more. m Or to the Lord. i. e. dedicated to him, conſecrated to his ſervice. The Jews had a Law that no man might take from the Sabbath, to add to the prophane days, but he might on the contrary. n viz. the chief of days, worthy of all honour, and therefore honourable; becauſe holy; and ſo ſhall honour, either it, i. e. the day; or, him. i. e. the Lord, whoſe day it is. For to ſanctify God, and to ſanctify his day is all one, compare ch. 8. 13. with Exod. 20. 8. thus eſteem it an honour as well as a pleaſure. o Or works, or courſe of life; a man's whole courſe being deſcribed by a way or walk, Gen. 17. 1. Eph. 5. 8. p Viz. That are properly thine own. i. e. thine own in oppoſition to what God commands, pr oceeding from the corruption of Nature, and vanity of the mind, or not ſpeaking words. i. e. vainly, impertinently, and not ſuitable to the work of the day, tending neither to thy profit, or pleaſure; or rather injurious, revengeful, or reproachful words, contrary to reſt, quiet, and ſedate compoſedneſs of the Sabbath. And thus it refers to what was their uſual practice upon their ſolemn aſſemblies, or Sabbaths towards their poor brethren, which they are charged with, ver. 3. and is called ſpeaking vanity, ver. 9. See there: and accordingly the LXX render it, if thou ſpeak not a word in anger.

14 Then ſhalt thou delight thy ſelf q in the LORD, and I will cauſe thee to * ride upon the high places of the earth r, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father; for the mouth of the LORD s hath ſpoken it.

q This hath reference to the foregoing verſe. If thou wilt delight thy ſelf in the Sabbath, then thou ſhalt delight in the God of the Sabbath; or, thou ſhalt have cauſe to delight in the Lord, viz. in his goodneſs, and faithfulneſs to thee, and ſo ſhalt live by faith in him as the fountain of all good, as Pſal. 37. 4. in the aſſurance of his love and favour, Pſal. 33. 21. and that in great abundance, Pſal. 36. 8. Such delights as no wicked man can have, Prov. 14. 10. r Thou ſhalt be above the reach of danger, chap. 33. 16. Or, it may have reſpect to their being brought out of Babylon, which lay very low in reſpect of Judea, called the Earth, as it is elſewhere, Luke 23. 44. and high, both in reſpect of the ſituation of it, as alſo its mountainouſneſs: Or, the expreſſion may import the ſubduing of their enemies, as it is, Deut. 33. 29. Riding is oft uſed for conquering, Pſal. 45. 4. See the Note there, Rev. 6. 2. The ſenſe is, they ſhall come out of Babylon, not ſneakingly as on foot, but triumphantly and gloriouſly, riding, as God brought Iſrael out of Egypt harnaſſed, in good order, and with an high hand; or, they ſhall ride to and fro in their Chariots at their pleaſure. s i. e. Thou ſhalt enjoy the good of the land of Canaan, which God had promiſed as an heritage of Jacob, and his ſeed, Gen. 35. 12. and feed on the fruits of it. Queſt. Why doth he ſay of the heritage of Jacob, and not of Abraham, or Iſaac. Anſw. Becauſe the whole Poſterity of Jacob was within the Covenant, but Iſhmael and Eſau, one the ſeed of Iſaac, the other the ſeed of Abraham, were both excluded. t This is to expreſs the certainty, and indubitableneſs of it, being from the mouth of him who cannot lie: ſee of the ſame expreſſion of aſſurance, chap. 1. 20. & 40. 5. And this Calvin refers both to what was ſpoken in the beginning of the Chapter, that it was in vain for thoſe hypocrites to contend with God; and alſo as the confirmation of his promiſe, if they would rightly obſerve thoſe promiſes: the mouth of Lord hath ſpoken it, he ſpeaks of himſelf, as of a man by a Proſopopœia: Or, it may relate to the Prophet, the Lord, whoſe mouth and inſtrument I am.

CHAP. LIX.

Sin ſeparates between God and us, 1, — 2. murther, theft, falſhood, injuſtice, cruelty, 3, — 8. calamity for ſin, 9, — 15. ſalvation only of God, 16, — 19. the Covenant of the Redeemer, 20, — 21.

Behold, the LORDS hand is not * ſhortned u, that it cannot ſave: neither his ear heavy x, that it cannot hear.

u He is not grown weaker, than in former times, as omnipotent as ever he was; hand is here by a Synecdoche put for arm, and ſo for ſtrength, becauſe the ſtrength of a man doth generally put forth it ſelf in his arm, and thus it is applied to God in his bringing Iſrael out of Egypt, Pſal. 136. 12. x Or thick of hearing; he is not like your Idol Gods, that have hands, and cannot help, and ears, and cannot hear. The phraſes are much to the ſame purpoſe, ſave only, that they ſeem to be appropriated to the double cavil, or quarrel, that the Jews might have with God, as 1. Surely if God were not heavy, or hard of hearing, he could not but hear thoſe ſtrong cries that we put up in the days of our faſt, or, 2. If he did hear, certainly he could not help us, and thus it may have reſpect to the beginning of the 58th chap. Or, the words may be by way of confirmation, and eſtabliſhment, and ſo may relate to the cloſe of it, to let them know, that if they fought him as they ought, and was before preſcribed, he was not inexorable, but willing to hear, and able to make good all thoſe promiſes that he had made from ver. 8. to the end. The ſum is, to ſhew that the fault was not in God, that their faſts and cries were not regarded, for his ear was as quick to hear as ever; nor their ſervices rewarded, for his hand was as able to help as ever, but the obſtruction lay in their ſins, which is poſitively aſſerted, ver. 2. and a more particular account given of them in the ſequel.

2 But your iniquities have ſeparated y between you and your God; and your ſins † have hid his face z from you, that he will not hear a.

y Have been as a thick wall between God and you; have ſet him at a great diſtance, Prov. 15. 29. z This may be put Synecdochically for the whole Perſon, and the Prophet ſpeaking of God by an Anthropopathy may underſtand his preſence, and then it is, hath made him hide, or withdraw his preſence, as one that turns away his face from ſome noiſom thing: or rather his favour, that though you cry to be delivered out of Babylon, yet you ſhall not find that favour. a i. e. He will not grant it, thus it is uſed, Pſal. 45. 12. Hoſ. 5. 15. ſee on chap. 1. 15. ſee Judg. 10. 13.

3 For * your hands are defiled with blood b, and your fingers c with iniquity, your lips have ſpoken lies d, your tongue hath uttered e perverſeneſs f.

b Here the Prophet comes from a more general, to a more particular charge againſt them; by blood we are to underſtand either murders, and bloodſhed, properly ſo called; or ways of injuſtice, extortion, oppreſſion, and cruelties, whereby men are deprived of a livelihood; hence hating our Brother, is called murder, 1 Joh. 3. 15. and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem called murderers. See how the Prophet phraſeth their oppreſſion, Mic. 3. 1, 2, 3. c This is not added to protract the diſcourſe, but to aggravate their ſin. q. d. Not only your hands, but your fingers; you are not free from the leaſt part of injuſtice. d Not only properly ſo called, but perjuries, and wronging your Neighbours by ſlanders, and falſe accuſations, wherein he ſhews they did not only offer violence by the hand, but they had ways of circumventing with their lips. e The verb doth properly ſignifie to muſe, or meditate; then the meaning is, that what they mutter, or utter with the tongue, they do it out of premeditated malice from a perverſe ſpirit; you may have a larger comment upon this, Jer. 9. 3, 4, 5, 6. f Perverſe words are ſuch as are contrary to God's Word, and it is put here in the abſtract, to intimate that their words were every way contrary to God's Will.

4 None calleth for juſtice g, nor any pleadeth for * truth: they truſt in vanity h, and ſpeak lies i, * they conceive miſchief, and bring forth iniquity k.

* Jer. 9. 4.
* Job. 15. 35. Pſal. 7. 14.

g i. e. None ſeek to redreſs theſe wrongs, and violences; they commit all rapines, and frauds under impunity: Either 1. Becauſe the Judges are corrupt. Or, 2. Becauſe none will warn the Judges of their duty. Or, 3. Becauſe none ſeek to bring offenders to juſtice. Or, 4. Becauſe none will plead a righteous cauſe, or plead it righteouſly, or countenance goodneſs, and this the next expreſſion favours, and ſo Juſtice ſuffers, which the Hebrew word miſpat being in the paſſive voice, ſeems to intimate; the ſenſe is the ſame, and whereas it is ſaid none, it is as much as to ſay very few, as we ſay few or none; the like, Pſal. 14. 3. Qu. How could this be charged upon them, when in the time of their Captivity they had no Courts? Anſw. It is probable they had Courts among themſelves, to judge between one another by leave of the Babyloniſh Kings. h Either, 1. Relating to their lies, which are words empty, and void of all conſiſtency, and ſo it is the ſame with the next expreſſion, and ſpeak lies. Or, 2. In their Idols, which are ſtocks and ſtones, and ſo oft called vanity and nothing, 1 Cor. 8. 4. For even in Babylon, they worſhipped Idols as appears by Jer. 16. 11, 12, 18. Or, rather, 3. In their power, and craft, and policy, whereby, laying aſide Juſtice, they can oppreſs others, and ſo he calls it vanity by a Metonymy of the Adjunct, becauſe it would prove all vain in the end, and either, 1. Fruſtrate their ends. Or, 2. Not juſtifie them againſt God's proceedings with them. Or, 3. Bring all into emptineſs and confuſion; the word is tohu, whereby the confuſion, and mingling of all things is expreſſed, before the world was brought into order and form, Gen. 1. 2. i It may refer both to the Judges, and to the Lawyers, and falſe Prophets, that tell them they ſhall not go into Captivity; they ſpeak that which they know to be falſe. k Theſe two words of Conceiving, and Bringing forth, note their whole contrivance, and perfecting their wickedneſs; the former notes their plotting, the latter their execution of miſchief; whatever is in the mind only out of ſight, warmed, and formed there by cogitating and meditation, is called Conception, which being ripe, and produced to view, is called a Birth, intimating that the wicked ſin not occaſionally, and accidentally, but premeditatingly, and profeſſedly; they grow big with it. The expreſſion is Allegorical, and in the two next verſes compared to the Cockatrices Eggs for the wickedneſs of it, and to a Spiders Web for the vanity of it.

5 They hatch ‖ cockatrice-eggs l, and weave the ſpiders web m: he that eateth n of their eggs dieth, and ‖ that which is cruſhed, breaketh out into a viper o.

l Or Adder, or Baſilisk; one kind put for any venemous creature, a proverbial ſpeech ſignifying by theſe Eggs miſchievous deſigns, and by hatching them their putting them in practice; this is to ſhew, that miſchief is natural to them, and they can do no otherwiſe, as poiſon is natural to theſe Eggs. m Another Proverbial ſpeech, whereby is taught, both how by their plots they weave nets, lay ſnares induſtriouſly with great pains and artifice, whereby they may entangle, and involve their poor Neighbours, in intricacies, and perplexities, and ſo devour them, as the Spider weaves her web to catch flies, and then to feed on them: And alſo how that they contrive nothing but what will tend to their own ruine, as the iſſue of the Viper is the death of the Mother; and they, and their deſigns will come to nothing, and not anſwer their end, as the Spiders web is ſoon ſwept away, and is ſeen no more, which doth well agree with what follows. n Here is a Catachreſtical alluſion noting, that he who hath commerce with them, and approves their Counſels, which are the Eggs which they hatch, will be poiſoned with them. o If and be copulative here, then the ſenſe is either, if any ſeek to cruſh, and diſappoint their plots, or if they be ſprinkled, or diſperſed abroad (as the margin ſeems to favour) they will ſeek his ruine, will be as a Viper to him: But if and be Cauſal, as it often is, and may be here, then the ſenſe is, q. d. he dieth, becauſe the Eggs being cruſhed, a poyſonous Viper proceeds from it: the more you partake of their counſels, the more you are infected, there lies ſuch a deadly poyſon embodied in them.

6 * Their webs ſhall not become garments p, neither ſhall they cover themſelves with their works: 6 Aa 2 their

their works are works of iniquity q, and the act of violence is in their hands r.

p i. e. Their contrivances, and deep designs shall not advantage them, they being like a thin, and raw garment, either, through which all their wretchedneſs, and malice will appear, as the next words intimate; or, for want of ſolidity, and ſubſtance, ſhall not be able to defend them from their impending evils. q i. e. Works of injuſtice, whereby they grieve and vex their Brethren, which the next words do clear. r i. e. They exerciſe themſelves in all acts of violence, and oppreſſion.

* Prov. 1. 16. Rom. 3. 15. †Heb. breaking.

s This ſeems to be taken from Prov. 1. 16. See the note there. He had ſpoken of their Hands, Lips, and Heart, &c. before, and now of their Feet, to ſhew that they were wholly ſet upon miſchief. t i. e. Their heart, and mind, it ſet upon doing wrong, and injury, they not only do evil, but do it deliberately. You have the wicked deſcribed by this kind of working of their thoughts, Pſal. 64. 6. they meditate on little or nothing elſe. u A Metaphor put for the behaviours and carriages of Men; in what way or work ſoever they are engaged, it all tends to ruine and deſtruction. A Metaphor taken from an overſpreading torrent, or ſweeping Plague, or Beaſts of prey, that tear and devour whatſoever comes in their way.

8 The way of peace they know not x, and there is ‖ Or, right. no ‖ judgment y in their goings z: they have made them crooked a paths: whoſoever goeth therein ſhall not know b peace.

x They are of ſuch turbulent Spirits, living in ſuch continual contentions, and diſcords, that, breaking in pieces the very bonds of Society, they neither know 1. How to make and keep Peace; neither 2. Do they feel or enjoy the ſweet fruits of it: And therefore by conſequence 3. They take not the courſe that leads to Proſperity and Happineſs. They are not friends to Peace. y i. e. No Juſtice, Equity, Faith or Integrity, which are the foundation of Judgment. z As Paths did note their habitual way or manner of living, ſo goings do ſignifie their actual progreſs in that way, or their works, thus Job 14. 16. a They walk by no rule, which ſhould diſcover the crooked from the ſtraight; they are full of unevenneſſes and uncertainties, contrary to what David ſpeaks, Pſal. 26. 12. The LXX render it perverſe: Moſes joins them both together, Deut. 32. 5. and ſo doth Solomon, ſpeaking what Wiſdom ſhall deliver from Prov. 2. 15. and it ſtands in oppoſition to them that walk uprightly, Prov. 28. 18. It may note 1. Their Hypocriſie, that pretend one thing, and do another, that oppreſs under a pretence of Juſtice. Or 2. Their profeſſed and owned irregularities, and deviations from the rule of Juſtice. b i. e. Shall not experience it; Whoſoever do as they do, will be turbulent, and perverſe, as they are, and have as little Peace within, or Happineſs without, as they have ch. 57. 21. They ſhall be poyſoned by having converſe with them, as in v. 5. which the next words do intimate.

* Ver. 11, & 14.

9 Therefore is * judgment far from us c, neither doth juſtice d overtake us: we wait for light e, but behold obſcurity; for brightneſs, but we walk in darkneſs f.

c This ſeems to be ſpoken in the perſon of thoſe Jews that did partake of theſe ſins, giving the reaſon by way of complaint of thoſe evils that they groaned under. d Judgment, and ſo Juſtice is here taken for deliverance, Iſa. 1. 27. q. d. God doth not defend our right, nor revenge our wrong, nor deliver us, becauſe of theſe outrages, and acts of violence, injuſtice, and oppreſſion, that are committed among us, ſo that deliverance is called here Judgment and Juſtice by a Metonymy of the efficient. q. d. If we had executed Judgment, and Equity among one another, they would not now have been far from us; as works are ſometimes put for the reward of works, Job 7. 2. Pſal. 109. 20. So Judgment and Juſtice is put for the reward of Judgment and Juſtice; or wicked men are in Power, and ſeats of Judicature, that execute no judgment or juſtice in the behalf of the oppreſſed. e How the Hebrews uſe Light and Darkneſs, ſee before on ch. 58. 8, 10. f Or, miſt, we are in ſuch a thick miſt, that which way ſoever we look, we ſee no way out, no hope of deliverance, we are ſtill in Captivity, and like ſo to be, till we ſee Judgment and Juſtice executed, and then we may expect good days.

* Deut. 28. 28, 29. Job 5. 14. Amos 8. 9.

10 We * grope g for the wall like the blind, and we grope as if we had no eyes h: we ſtumble at noonday i as in the night; we are in deſolate places as dead men k:

g As a blind man, that hath no other Eyes than his Hands, feels for the Wall, from whence he expects either direction, or a reſting place to lean on, ſo they expect Salvation as it were blindfold, not taking direction from the Prophets, but hoping to obtain it by their cries and faſts, though they continued in their ſins, and therefore may well be ſaid to grope after it; See Deut. 28. 28, 29. Job 12. 25. h As if we were ſtark blind, and being here put for yea, thereby aggravating the miſery in repeating the expreſſion. i This notes their exceeding blindneſs, as it muſt needs be with one that can diſcern no more at noon day, than if it were midnight, Job 5. 14. k He compares their Captivity to men dead without hope of recovery: their bonds render them as free among the dead, Pſal. 88. 5. They can ſee the way, or get out of their Captivity no more than dead men can get out of their Graves; Thus a calamitous eſtate is ſet forth, Pſal. 44. 19. great calamity and deſpair oft going together: they are as men caſt out no more to be looked after. Compare Lam. 3. 6. All darkneſs is uncomfortable, but that of the Grave terrible.

11 We roar l all like bears, and * mourn m ſore like doves: we look for Judgment, but there is none; for ſalvation, but it is far from us n:

* Ch. 38. 14.

l This ſignifies the greatneſs of their anguiſh, that forced from them theſe loud outcries. m This notes ſome ſenſe of their condition, that wrought in them theſe ſorrowful Lamentations: Or, it may relate to the condition, that both ſorts of people were in under their oppreſſing Governours. It made the wicked roar like Bears, and the godly mourn like Doves: It is thus expreſſed becauſe theſe properties are peculiar to theſe Creatures. The Bear, when robbed, goes into his den and roars: The Dove, when abſent from her mate, ſits ſolitary, and mourns. n See the Expoſition of this laſt part of the verſe, v. 9.

12 For our tranſgreſſions n are multiplied before thee o, and our ſins teſtifie p againſt us: for our tranſgreſſions are with us q, and as for our iniquities we know them r:

n The word here ſignifies ſins of an high nature, ſuch as wherein there is much of Mans Will againſt Light: Rebellious Sins. o q. d. They admit of no excuſe; for they are acted before thee, and multiplied againſt thee, whereby thou art juſtly provoked to deny us all help. p Every ſin that is charged upon us is like ſo many Witneſſes produced to prove the guilt of our Conſciences; or, as the Hebrew word, do anſwer, and ſo ſome make it an elegant Metaphorical Alluſion to the Eccho, which, as it returns the voice again, ſo thoſe Judgments they cry out of, are but the meritorious Repercuſſion of their ſins: They had been cruel to others, neither had they executed Judgment, and Juſtice, and here they ſuffer all kind of cruelties, and indignities from the Chaldæans, as the true and juſt repreſentation or Eccho of their own works; See a perſonal inſtance in Adoni-bezek, Judg. 1. 6, 7. q i. e. We lie under the guilt of them, they are a burden to us; God hath not yet forgiven them. r We are convinced of them; our guilty Conſciences muſt own and acknowledge them, Pſal. 51. 3. It notes either their Conviction, or Sorrow, or both, See Jer. 14. 7. Or, we know what are thoſe ſins thou art ſo angry with us for: and this is favoured by the ſequel, where they ſeem to particularize thoſe ſins in the following verſes.

13 In tranſgreſſing s and lying t againſt the LORD, and departing u away from our God, ſpeaking x oppreſſion and revolt, conceiving and uttering y from the heart words of falſhood z.

He now enumerates ſome of thoſe particular ſins they profeſs themſelves to be convinced of, whereby he doth not mean the ſins of ſome particular perſons, or ſome ſlight ſins, but a general deſection and corruption of the whole body. s Properly we rebel againſt God, ſo the word is, ch. 1. 2. and have perſiſted in our Rebellion. t Being true to none of their Engagements, Vows, and Promiſes; ſome make tranſgreſſing here, and lying to be one and the ſame thing, inaſmuch as in their tranſgreſſing of the Law of God, they did break their ſolemn engagement to God upon Mount Sinai, Exod. 19. 8. & 24. 3. and elſewhere frequently, which is a downright lying againſt God; For wherein do we more lye to God, than in a perfidious withdrawing from him? So that by tranſgreſſing here he doth mean not a breach of one, or another of the Laws of God, but there being as it were fugitives, that would be under no yoke, u i. e. Turning from God to Idols. x As it were talking of little elſe one among another, but how to oppreſs their Neighbours, and apoſtatize from God. y i. e. Firſt contriving and forging in their heart falſe accuſations to the ruine of their Neighbour, and falſe Worſhip to the diſhonour of God; laying the contrivance ſo, that it might be effectual; and then uttering it, or venting themſelves one to another in their diſcourſes, thereby encouraging each other in their perverſe ways, ſee v. 3. and whereas it is ſaid from the heart, it notes a reſoluteneſs in their wickedneſs, being a great deal worſe, than now and then to deal falſly upon ſome occaſion or temptation. z They are called words of falſhood, both with reference to men, and ſo ſignifie ſlanders, and falſe accuſations; as alſo to God, and ſo ſignifie their dealing falſly with God, as an Adultereſs doth with her Huſband, hence Idolaters are called the ſeed of falſhood, ch. 57. 3, 4, 5. and it is ſaid from the heart, to ſhew that when they dealt with men in ways of fraud, it was from the heart, but when they ſpake with God it was but from the lip.

14 And judgment is turned away backward a, and juſtice ſtandeth afar off b: for truth is fallen c in the ſtreet d, and equity cannot enter e.

a He ſpeaks here of the Sentences and Decrees in courts of Judicature, which are carried quite contrary to Right and Juſtice: God denies you Juſtice as you have denied help to others. b It notes the ſame thing with the former, to ſhew that Juſtice and Judges are far aſunder. c A Metaphor taken from a feeble perſon, that wants ſupport, without which he falls; thus Truth hath none to ſupport or patronize it: the ſame, only otherwiſe expreſſed, with v. 16. Truth is caſt upon the ground, and Juſtice trampled under foot. d i. e. in publick. e No ſuch thing will be admitted in their Courts; all corrupt, ſo that all Equity and Juſtice is violently kept off by the authority of the great ones.

15 Yea, truth faileth f, and he that departeth from evil g maketh himſelf a prey h: and the LORD ſaw it, and † it diſpleaſed him k that there was no judgment.

f q. d. Truth is more than fallen, which he had ſaid in the former verſe; It faileth. For being only fallen it may recover it ſelf again, but falling notes the loſs of its very Vitals: as being every where neglected, in Court, in City, in Country, in inferiour as well as ſuperiour Ranks, in the Streets, in the Gates, in the Markets, in the Fairs, in all publick places of commerce, the condition muſt like that under the Beaſt coming out of the Earth, Rev. 13, 11, &c. See Pſal. 10. 7, 8, &c. All things are amiſs, neither Judgment or Juſtice, or Truth is to be found among us, but Fraud and Deceit, yet none troubled at it. g That ſeparateth himſelf from evil things, and Perſons; will not be as vile, as others. h Or, is accounted mad, is laughed at that talks of Juſtice, ſo ſome. Joſephus tells us, that immediately before the deſtruction of Jeruſalem it was matter of ſcorn to be religious. Though there be no ſolid ground for, nor need of that marginal reading, yet is it a truth: The Tranſlators reach the meaning by Prey: The wicked, like wild Beaſts, endeavouring to devour ſuch as are not as bad as themſelves; where Wickedneſs rules, Innocency is oppreſſed, in bargaining, as buying, and ſelling. They that are ſimple, and innocent are outwitted by the crafty and fraudulent, as not willing, or rather daring to oppoſe fraud with fraud, but to do all things in ſincerity. i i. e. Took notice of it, 'tis ſpoken of God after the manner of men, as Gen. 11. 5. & 18. 21. and many other places. k q. d. If you would know why God is ſo angry with you, it is for ſuch things as theſe; the Lord takes notice of it, and it is a great evil in his eye.

16 And he ſaw that there was no man l, and wondred m that there was no interceſſour: * therefore n his arm brought ſalvation unto him o, and his righteouſneſs p it ſuſtained him.

* Iſa. 59. 1. Jer. 23. 5. & 33. 16. Ezek. 22. 30.

l Viz. To intercede, which is ſuppoſed from the following words; or no man to help in ſuch a caſe, to ſhew himſelf, and appear in ſuch a corrupt ſtate in the behalf of equity, as ver. 4. the like circumſtances we have Ezek. 22. 29, 30. or none fit to intercede. m Heb. iſtomen, was amazed, aſtoniſhed, as it were, not knowing what to do: This notes both God's ſollicitouſneſs about their condition, together with their dulneſs, and becauſe of their not concerning themſelves about it, eſpecially conſidering they had been a people ſo well inſtructed, and yet under the guilt of ſuch groſs ſins, ſhould be no more ſollicitous about pardon, which God would readily have granted, if any ſuch could have been found, Jer. 5. 1. n Or, Yet, as it is uſed, ch. 7. 14. & 51. 21. o This may relate 1. To the parties thus oppreſſed: Or 2. To God, as that either 1. He would do his work without help from any other, ch. 51. 5. Or 2. He would avenge himſelf, his own honour; thus the word is uſed 1 Sam. 25. 26. and this may, and ſeems to be the meaning of the next clauſe: Or 3. He had made proviſion for the maintaining his own righteous cauſe, and peoples intereſt; this ſenſe, that phraſe, ſo like this, favours ch. 63. 5. Salvation unto me. p Viz. His Juſtice, q. d. ſeeing there could be no Juſtice found among them, he would avenge the innocent himſelf, which agrees with ver. 8. and is juſtified by ch. 63. 5. where ſpeaking of the deſtruction of the Idumeans, you have the ſame words, only the word Fury changed for Righteouſneſs. The literal meaning is God's taking vengeance on the Chaldeans for his Peoples ſake: The myſtical is Chriſt's making uſe of his own Righteouſneſs for the redemption of loſt man, being deſtitute of all other.

1 Theſſ. 5. 8.

17 * For he put on righteouſneſs as a breaſt-plate q, and an helmet r of ſalvation upon his head; and he put on the garments of vengeance s for clothing, and was clad with zeal t as a cloke.

q God, reſolving to appear as a Man of War againſt Babylon, that did now oppreſs his People, puts on his Arms, Heb. Wrapt himſelf, and particularly his Breaſt-plate which he calls Righteouſneſs, to ſhew the juſtneſs of his Cauſe, as alſo his Faithfulneſs in making good his Promiſes to his People. r As the Breaſt-plate is to defend the Heart and vital parts, whereby God doth ſignifie the Innocency and juſtneſs of his Cauſe, as well as his Faithfulneſs; ſo the Helmet is to defend the Brain, the fountain of the animal Spirits, and therefore by this piece of armour would have us know that he is invincible: As by the other, that he defends a juſt Cauſe in his Truth, and Faithfulneſs, ſo by this, that he cannot be diſappointed in it by reaſon of his Power, and Invincibleneſs. s Or Garments made of Vengeance: as God is ſaid to put on the former for their ſakes, whom he would preſerve, ſo he puts on theſe for their ſakes, whom he will deſtroy, viz. his Peoples Enemies, the Chaldeans, and other enemies of the Jews. t Either 1. Zeal for his own honour, which had been given to Idols; or 2. Zeal for his own People, who were now in diſtreſs: Or 3. Zeal, and Indignation againſt the Babylonians, who were ſuch great oppreſſors of his People, which are the materials, that his garment of vengeance, and his cloke of Zeal is made of. It may be trifling to follow the Metaphor of Garments too cloſe; ſee of the Phraſe, Judg. 6. 34. marg. The ſum of all theſe expreſſions is this, to deſcribe both the cauſe, and effect together, the cauſe was Righteouſneſs and zeal in God, the effect Salvation to his People, and vengeance on his enemies, as is evident from the next verſe.

18 * According to their † deeds u, accordingly he will repay, fury x to his adverſaries, recompenſe to his enemies, to the iſlands y he will repay recompenſe.

u Heb. Recompenſes or deſerts, i. e. he will recompenſe his Adverſaries with thoſe effects of his fury that they have deſerved. x A Metonymy of the Efficient; for the effects of his fury. y Or, Iſlanders, a Metonymy of the containing for the contained, either Meſopotamia, and other adjacent Iſlands, encompaſſed by Tygris and Euphrates; or thoſe remoter Nations (for the Hebrews call Nations remote from Judæa, Iſlands, Gen. 10. 5. ch. 41. 1. See on ch. 20. 6. and the reaſon of it.) under the King of Babylon that thought themſelves ſecure.

19 So ſhall they fear the name of the LORD z from the weſt a, and his glory b from the riſing of the ſame: when the enemy c ſhall come in, * like a flood, the ſpirit of the Lord ſhall † lift up a ſtandard d againſt him.

* Rev. 12. 15. † Or, put him to flight.

z i. e. Either worſhip the Lord: For the name of God is put for God himſelf, as hath been often ſhewed, and Fear is put for his worſhip. Or, make his name renowned. a Viz. The weſtern part of the world. b Or the glorious God. c Viz. the eaſtern parts of the world: The ſum is the whole world, either a Syncedoche of the part for the whole, or, if you divide the world through the poles, the one half will be Eaſt, and the other Weſt, and ſo compriſeth the whole World. It ſhall fear and worſhip God, and make his Name renowned, laying aſide their Idolatries: whether you refer it to the deliverance of his people out of Babylon, when they ſhall hear how God hath executed vengeance on his Enemies; or, to the Redemption by Chriſt, and his calling of the Gentiles, Mal. 1. 11. d Either againſt the Babylonians, as ſome underſtand it, and ſo it is probably meant of Cyrus, who ſhall come like a violent flood, againſt whom there is no head to be made: Him God would ſtir up againſt the Babylonians for the deliverance of the Jews. Or, againſt his own People, and ſo it may have either 1. A more particular reſpect to Jeruſalem, when Sennacherib came up againſt it, which ſuits well with what God ſaith of him ch. 8. 7, 8. Or, 2. More general, at what time ſoever the Devil, or his Inſtruments ſhall make violent irruptions upon the Church, Rev. 12. 15. for powerful Enemies invading a Country are oft compared to a River. See on ch. 18. 2. It is an alluſion to the overflowing of Euphrates, which by its violent inundations was wont to do much hurt and damage to the Babylonians. e And here again, if it be taken in the firſt ſenſe, viz. againſt the Babylonians, then the meaning is, God himſelf ſhall, as it were carry the ſtandard in the midſt of Cyrus his Army, the Medes and Perſians, and that with a great deal of fury, intimated here by the Spirit of the Lord: for Spirit is often uſed among the Prophets for the paſſions of the Soul, as Anger, Wrath, Fury, &c. Or, as a violent blaſt, or gale of Wind ſhall help forward the violence of the torrent, and if ſo, then him, by an Enallage of the Number, which is frequent, is put for them. But if in either of the other two ſenſes, viz. with particular reſpect to Sennacherib, then the ſpirit of the Lord, as with a blaſt, only ſhall paſſ him away, which was made good, Iſa. 37. 7, 36, 37. Or, with more general reference to the violence of Enemies againſt the Church; then the meaning is, God ſhall make known himſelf to take their part and defend them, Pſal. 6. 3, 4, 5. and cauſe the Enemies to give back, or put them to flight, as in the margin, Iſa. 17. 12, 13, 14. and that without Power, but by his Spirit alone, as caſie as by a puff of wind, Zech. 4. 6. Again, if you take this (as ſome learned men do) in a ſpiritual ſenſe, then it notes the ſuddenneſs of the Goſpels ſpreading it ſelf by the Spirit in the Miniſtry of the Apoſtles and Evangeliſts, bearing down like a flood, all that oppoſes it, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt being lifted up in it as a Banner or Enſign; but this ſenſe, though true, ſeems to be more forced, and as it relates to temporal deliverances, more genuine and natural: however the Prophet being about to ſpeak of the ſpiritual deliverances, and ſtate of the Church by Chriſt, he ſeems to ſlide, as it were, into it by ſuch plain Alluſions, and Types, being to ſpeak of it more directly in the following Chapters.

* Rom. 11. 26.

20 And f * the redeemer g ſhall come to Zion h, and unto them that turn from tranſgreſſion in Jacob i ſaith the LORD k.

f Moreover, or to wit. And being here not ſo much copulative as expoſitive. g The word notes a Redemption with Power, viz. 1. Cyrus, the inſtrument for the efficient, viz. God the Redeemer, ch. 43. 14. & 45. 13. Or, 2. Chriſt of whom the Apoſtle expounds it, Rom. 11. 26. the Prophets uſually concluding their Promiſes of temporal deliverances with the Promiſes of ſpiritual, eſpecially ſuch, of which the temporal were evident Types. h Viz. Jeruſalem, to which though Cyrus came not in perſon, yet his ſavours, and the good effects of his Conqueſt over Babylon reached it, ſetting free the Citizens of Zion, as Chriſt alſo his Church, it, ſetting free the Citizens of Zion, as Chriſt alſo his Church, which is often called by the name of Zion, and Jacob, and Iſrael, &c. i Viz. Among the Jews, who were the children of Jacob, and he deſcribes to whom of theſe, namely to them, and none elſe, that turn from tranſgreſſion, ſuch only whoſe hearts God touched, and turned to Righteouſneſs; and ſo to come to Sion here by the Prophet, and out of Sion by the Apoſtle, is one and the ſame thing, ſee on Deut. 23. 2. for the Hebrew lamed is not only an Article of the Dative Caſe, but put often for mim, of or from, ſo that letſion is out of Sion: And for Chriſt to be given a Redeemer to Sion is the ſame thing, as his coming to take iniquity from Jacob. And ſo the Apoſtle doth by this expound that, taking an Apoſtolical Liberty not only to quote, but to expound this Text, and ſo by laying them together, and making them one, would teach us, that God muſt do for us what he requireth of us, Acts 3. 26. or elſe, which is in the opinion of ſome, he takes the laſt clauſe from ſome other Text, or Texts as Iſa. 4. 4. I incline to the former, partly becauſe there is no need of ſearching for any other Text, and partly becauſe, as the Apoſtle quoteth it, it is agreeable to the LXX, which he frequently makes uſe of; and this the Apoſtle improves as an allegory to prove that the Jews toward the end of the world ſhall be converted, and ſaved, when the fulneſs of the Gentiles ſhall be brought in. q. d. As this People of old were delivered out of a dark and doleſome eſtate, when they ſeemed as it were extinct, ſo toward the end of the world the remnant of the Jews, that ſeem to be rejected, God will again bring home unto himſelf. k Or, thus it is Decreed, and determined by the Lord; the Prophets are wont to ſet down theſe these words as a sacred seal of certainty, security, or confirmation of such signal promises as this is of the Redeemer, like to that of the Apostle, 2 Tim. 1. 15.

21 And as for me, this is my covenant l with them, saith the LORD. My spirit that is upon thee m, and my words which I have put in thy mouth n, shall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seed, nor out of the mouth of thy seeds seed o, saith the LORD, from henceforth and for ever p.

l Or what I have promised, and so am engaged to see fulfilled, viz. to them that turn from their iniquity; or rather, the promise of his word, and Spirit to abide in his Church, upon which account it is also, that the Spirit is promised in the next words, by which is understood, either the gift of Prophecy, or the Prophecy it self given here to Isaiah, and so to the Church. And being here, as in the foregoing verse explicative, not copulative; unless it note, that in an ordinary way the Spirit, and the Word go together where-ever either of them are effectual, the Spirit impressing what the word expresses, Joh. 14. 16, 17, 18. and it is the Spirit of Satan, that is different from the word. m See on Num. 11. 17, 25, &c. & 2 Kings 2. 15. n Which thou hast uttered by vertue of my Spirit, it being the Churches great treasure, and happiness to have God present with his word. o The sense is either, these words, and the fulfilling of them shall be always talked of, where-ever the mention of this deliverance shall come, as is said of Maries ointment, Mat. 26. 13. Or, rather, he seems to promise the perpetual presence of his Word, and Spirit with the Prophets, Apostles, and Ministers, and Teachers of the Church to all succeeding ages thereof, and may have a special reference to the Gospel, or new Covenant in Christ. p i. e. for a long, though yet a definitive space of time, as is it often used.

CHAP. LX.

The Glory and Blessings of the New Church after a short affliction, 1,—22.

A Rise q, ‖ shine r, for thy light s is come, and * the glory of the LORD t is risen u upon thee.

q A word of encouragement accommodated to the Jewish, or Hebrew stile, wherein, as by lying down is described a servile and calamitous condition, chap. 47. 1. So by rising, and standing up, a recovery out of it into a free, and prosperous one, as may be seen frequently; Rouze up, intimating her deliverance to be at hand. And here under a type, or hieroglyphical description of Jerusalem's restauration, is desplayed the flourishing state of the Gentile Church under the Messiah, and that in the greatness, for quality, and also the number of her Proselytes; in the description whereof, the Evangelical Prophet, whatever he doth in other parts of his Prophecy, doth here most briskly sparkle forth in divine Eloquence. r Discover thy self as one breaking forth from a dark night; or look out, as men do at Sea, who use to look out sharp, to see what they can discover after a dark, and stormy season; or be enlightned with more knowledge; or, be thou filled with joy, a metaphorical metonymy of the efficient, as thou art about to change thy condition, change thy countenance; be chearful in that light, or salvation that is approaching. s Either, 1. Thy flourishing and prosperous estate. an allusion to peoples rising, when after a dark night, the light breaks forth, they begin to rise; Or, 2. The Causer of thy light, the effect for the efficient; viz. Thy God, or Christ, because the fountain of all happiness, as the Sun and Moon are called Lights, because they give light, Gen. 1. 16. Thus Christ is called the true Light, Joh. 1. 9. and compare Joh. 8. 12. with Eph. 5. 14. and you'll find these words quoted to that purpose. t i. e. The greatest glory, as the Cedars of God, the Mountains of God, &c. comp. Rev. 21. 11. or, the glorious Lord, or the Lord of glory, or Christ, who is the glory of the Father, is come unto thee; he is at hand to make himself glorious in some wonderful work for thy salvation: either, in his Doctrine, or Miracles, or work of Redemption, that his glory may rest upon thee, suitable to the Psalmists prayer, Psal. 85. 6, 7, 9. u Like as when the Sun spreads it self into every place, leaving none dark, thus it refers to the glorious Gospel, called such a glorious Light, 2 Cor. 4. 4.

2 For behold, the darkness x shall cover the earth y, and gross z darkness the people: but the LORD a shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen b upon thee.

x Either Affliction, and Misery, a known Metaphor; or Ignorance, and Idolatry; as also all kinds of Errours, and Immoralities, with which all that are out of the Church are smutted, and polluted, compare Ephes. 4. 18, 19. y Either 1. General, all the Inhabitants of the Earth, such as through ignorance reject the Gospel. Or, rather, 2. More particular, the Babylonians, by a Synecdoche of the whole for a part, in that dismal condition being harassed by Cyrus, whereby the Jews were delivered; this being also a type of the deliverance of God's People by the Messiah, which this Text principally intends. z An allusion to that Egyptian darkness, Exod. 10. 21, &c. palpable ignorance, the inlet and nursery to gross Idolatry and all prophaneness. a i. e. Christ, Mal. 4. 2. Luke 1. 77, 78, 79. b Shall be wonderful conspicuous; as the Lord's arising answers to the darkness covering the Earth, so the glory being seen, answers to that gross darkness. The sense is, that whereas the time was, that the people of God were under great calamities, while their enemies were in ease and prosperity, now it shall be quite contrary; now these shall be in Adversity, and those in prosperity, a great turn of Providence; and withal implies, that this light of grace is a peculiar to his people, in respect of which all other prosperity is but darkness, and misery; as Light was peculiar to Goshen, when darkness was in all the Egyptian houses, Exod. 10. 23.

3 And the * Gentiles shall come c to thy light, and d kings e to the brightness of thy rising. * Rev. 21. 24.

c Either to congratulate thy deliverance; or to note the respect that should be shewn them by other Nations upon their deliverance; or rather, shall be allured by thy light to come to thee; as Travellers in a dark night, and out of their way, when a light discovers it self, do make to it; so the Doctrine of the Gospel shall shine so bright, and be made so conspicuous by preaching, and miracles, that they shall not only congratulate them, and wish them much joy, but rejoyce and participate with them in their happiness, Rev. 21. 24. A plain Prophecy of the calling of the Gentiles, which promise was made to Christ, Ch. 49. 6. d Or, yea, or even kings, which was fulfilled under Cyrus, Darius, Alexander, and the Ægyptian Kings. e To add to thy lustre, thou shalt not be honoured only by the conversion of mean persons, but even of honourable Personages, embracing the Christian faith, and submitting themselves to Christs Scepter and Government. See ch. 49. 23. To observe thy progress, and how thou shalt encrease by degrees, as the Sun in its ascending; In Christ's time there were 12 Apostles, afterwards 120 Disciples, in a short time many thousands, then the Church grew into Congregations, and then spread to Nations.

4 * Lift up thine eyes round about f and see; all * Chap. 49. 18, 22, & 66. 12. they gather themselves together g, they come to thee, thy sons h shall come from far, and thy daughters shall be nursed at thy side.

f Or in a Circle; into all parts of the Earth; it seems to relate to the Apostles, and Disciples, with their successors, carrying the Gospel into all parts of the world: And in regard it would be as it were a thing incredible, he bids them lift up their eyes, as if they were to behold it in some Vision, or upon some Watch-Tower in Jerusalem; there is the like expression, chap. 49. 18. g He speaks more particularly either of the Jews flocking from all parts to Jerusalem, when they shall hear of their return from Babylon, which may be true in the type; or especially, of the coming in of some of all nations to the Gospel. h The same thing, only for elegancy sake expressed in its parts; the sense respects both Persons, and place; as to persons, thy Sons and thy Daughters also shall be brought unto thee tenderly, as it were in arms, Isa. 49. 22. where by thy side by equivalent expressions of Arms, Bosoms, and Shoulders, is supplied with reference to them both, and may import they shall be brought unto the Church of Christ as unto their Mother, and it may further be observed, that where the Masculine gender is joined with the Feminine of the same species, it notes multitude, and variety, as, Eccles. 2. 8. Men-singers, and Women-Singers. i. e. All sorts and variety of vocal Musick: and as to place both thy Sons and thy Daughters that are not only near, but also afar off, shall come to thee as we say far and near, Acts 2. 39. or, it is the same with what was said before round about in all quarters of the world; from far, noting the Longitude, and ad latus, at, or on thy side the Latitude, and even those that perhaps were before at enmity one with another.

5 Then thalt thou see i, and ‖ flow k together, ‖ Or, flow and thine heart shall fear l, and be enlarged m, because the abundance of the sea n shall be converted unto thee, the ‖ forces p of the Gentiles shall come unto thee. ‖ Or, noise of the sea shall be turned toward thee.

i viz. With a great deal of delight the multitudes of thy Children running to thee. k As when one River meeting with another and joining Waters, run sweetly together as one and the same River, this notes the abundance of their united Joys and delights: or they shall flock together to behold such an amazing sight. Or standing amazed to see such multitudes come in to the Lord Christ, see on Chap. 54. 1, 2. &c. As it were surprized with it, as those Acts 2. 7. or, overwhelmed with the joyful sight, as Jacob was with the tydings of Joseph, Gen. 45. 26. and those of the Circumcision, that were with Peter, Act. 10. 45. such a mixture of fear and joy you have expressed, Jer. 33. 9. the sense is much the same with Chap. 49. 18. m Both with joy, and love; joy within at the coming in of the Gentiles, and this outwardly expressed in the enlargednes of love and charity towards them. Fear doth properly contract the heart, therefore this expression intimates it to be a fear mixed with such an affection as will dilate it. n Either the Islands of the Sea, viz. the Nations, as before; a Metonymy of the subject; shall turn to thee in Religion, or Affection; they that formerly so much hated thee (they that live by the Sea coasts being usually noted for the worst of men) shall now love thee; or, the wealth and traffick of those that trade by Sea, the Riches of the Merchant, and so possibly the Prophet may allude to Ps. 72. 10. for Tharsis is sometimes taken for the Sea as hath been before shewed: see on 1 King. 10. 22. o Thy traders shall not so much convert their Riches to their own use as to thine. p Or wealth, thou shalt not have only the wealth, but the strength of the Nations to stand by thee, which hath also an Eye, as in the type, to that readiness, and willingness that would be in the Nations to help them out of Babylon.

6 The multitude of camels q shall cover thee: the dromedaries r of Midian and Ephah s: all they from Sheba t shall come: they shall bring ‖ * gold and incense u, and they shall shew forth the praises x of the LORD. ‖ Or, wealth * Ps. 61. 6.

q i. e. the abundance of wealth and Treasure, that is brought upon Camels, this being the Creature the Eastern people used for carriage of their gold and spice, and other rich Treasure, which are said to cover them, the like phrase with that Judg. 6. 5. or, where-by is understood those people, that did use to ride on Camels, as the Arabians, and the bordering Countries; for by these, and such like figurative and borrowed expressions in several verses of this Chapter is particularized several Nations, and by them is implyed the coming in of all Nations unto Christ, and therefore they are brought in as presenting the chiefest Commodities of their respective Countries, so that we may be the better excused from speaking particularly to them in their respective places. r or, also, or even the Dromedaries, which are a lesser sort of Camel, so called from their swiftness in running, to which they are the better enabled, because, as Pliny observes, they can indure thirst four days together. q. d. They shall make all the hast imaginable in bringing their Riches to thee. s Both these Midianites, and Ephaites descended from Abraham by Keturah, Gen. 25. 2, 4. they dwelt beyond Arabia, and Camels are mentioned coming from hence, because of all places they were the most numerous here, Judg. 7. 12. t This Sheba descended from Cush, the Son of cursed Ham the Son of Noah, Gen. 10. 6, 7. from whom a certain Countey in Arabia Felix took its name, whose Queen it was, that came to visit Solomon, 1 King. 10. 1. and her bringing gifts might be a type of this, Solomon being a type of Christ, of which the wise men might be the first fruits, Mat. 2. u The Principal Commodities with which this Country abounded, and by which we are to understand whatever is precious; and Frankincense is only peculiar to Arabia. x The motive drawing them thither, being more for Religion than trade.

7 All the flocks of Kedar y shall be gathered together unto thee, the rams z of Nebajoth a shall minister unto thee: they shall come up with acceptance b on mine altar, and I will glorify the house of my glory c.

y The People whereof descended from Ishmael, and lived in Arabia Petrea, who were principally Shepherds. z q. d. Nay the chief of the flock, viz. for Sacrifice, this Nebajoth being put for the people thereof, and sprang from Ishmael also, Gen. 25. 13. Rich as the other were in flocks, and inhabiting the same Country. As the Sabeans offered the Proper Commodities of their Country, as Gold, and Spice, so these of theirs, viz. Cattle, shewing that each Country, and to each Person should bring that wherewith they did most excel. a This shews that Abraham's Children according to the flesh should also be brought into the Gospel, compare Mal. 1. 11. b Being offered, they shall not now, as heretofore, be rejected, and hereby they shall be distinguished from the profane oblations of the Gentiles. i. e. In the name of Christ, who is the true, and only Gospel Altar. c i. e. The Temple, or my house: Glory being put here by a Metonymy of the Adjunct for God himself, who is glorious: God shall become glorious by the multitude of Sacrifices, that shall be offered, and accepted here, Psal. 29. 9. and it is a Type how glorious his New Testament Spiritual Worship shall be, this Altar pointing at Christ, out of whom nothing is accepted, and that his Church should be glorious being built of living stones, 1 Pet. 2. 5.

8 Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as the doves to their windows?

d In the 4th verse he spake to them as upon some high watch Tower, whereby they might behold as in a Circle all the parts of World. Now espying from all parts, he brings them in calling out with admiration who are these? Partly with reference to the number, or partly with reference to the Persons; to the Heb. what are these? They being not Jews, but strangers, and so directly intimating the Gentiles flocking into the Church that come so swiftly, and in so great flocks; the same thing still; The former Metaphor of clouds imports their number as well as their speed, Ezek. 38. 9. thus abundance of Witnesses is called a cloud of Witnesses. Heb. 12. 1. the scope is to note great confluence of people that should come into the Church, that should be begotten by the Apostles Doctrine; which the LXX Translation seems to point at, who render it as Doves with their young ones, unto me: and by flying may be noted their Spiritual state, being elevated above the world, as the Clouds above the Earth, and Doves when upon the wing.

9 Surely the isles f shall wait for me, and the ships g of Tarshish h first i, * to bring thy sons k from far l, their m silver and their gold with them, unto the name n of the LORD thy God: and to the holy One of Israel because he hath glorified thee o.

f See Chap. 14. 1. & 59. 18. g viz. to convey them to me. h i. e. Those that Traffick by Sea, as before, see Chap. 2. 16. these lying most convenient for that imployment. In naming this he implies by a Synecdoche all that had commerce with other Nations. i Preferring this before any other business they take in hand; this hath undergone the various states of divers Interpreters, such as are not fabulous, and vain, I conceive, may run into one of these two; either 1. By reading it with a supplement of the note of similitude, which is frequent, as at first, or formerly, viz. As in the days of Solomon, who was a type of Christ, the matter here spoken of seeming to suit with it; 1 King. 10. 12. See 2 Chron. 9. 21, &c. Or, rather 2. By taking the word first, as the Hebrews mostly do, not so much with reference to time, or order, as to dignity, namely they shall have the precedency, and honour of bringing themselves, and conducting others; this may be true also as to time, and so verified in the wise men coming the first to Christ, when he was born, and as the first fruits of the rest of the Gentiles. k Begotten by the word. l From the remotest parts; this may be understood with reference either to place, as how great a distance soever either in place or time, they shall come to Christ, who hath sons abroad in God's decree, not yet called; other sheep that he will bring into his fold, Joh. 10. 16. m Their may refer either to the Merchants bringing traffick with him, as verse 6. or the Jews, as Israel came out of Egypt with all their treasure with them, and what others gave them, Exo. 1. 4. as also the vessels, that were sent back with them, Exo. 1. 7. n i. e. To the Lord himself, by a periphrasis; or to his Temple, where his name was placed, the Type of the Church, compare 2 Sam. 7. 13. with 1 Chron. 17. 12. or in the name of the Lord; or for his sake, who is the holy one, the like Metonymies having been formerly and frequently pointed at. o He will spread thy fame, and make thee honourable in the Eyes of the World, and that especially in setting up the ministry of the Gospel in the midst of thee. The name of God, and so also of Israel were contemptible among the Gentiles before the coming of Christ, and spreading of the Gospel, but (as a consolation to his people) it is promised they shall both be honourable; and here God by an Enallage of the Person speaks of himself in the third Person.

10 And the sons of strangers p shall build up thy walls, and their kings shall minister q unto thee: for in my wrath I smote thee, but in my favour have I had mercy r on thee.

p viz. Such as were not Israelites, and he puts Sons of strangers by an usual Hebraism for strangers properly termed alienigenæ, see Ch. 56. 3. this was literally fulfilled in repairing the walls of Jerusalem; he spake before of the Temple, now of the City, and Spiritually in the Ministers of the Gospel, who are the walls, and Bulwarks of the Church by Preaching, and writing for her; and Ecclesiastical History affords us many instances of Kings, and Princes that were great Benefactors to her, among whom Constantine did greatly excel, not caring what he bestowed on her, Valentinian and Theodosius, &c. q Shall administer all necessaries to thee; as they had been demolished by the Babylonians, so they were repaired by the favour of Cyrus, Darius Hystaspes, Artaxerxes, &c. All strangers, Exra 6. 7, &c. or strangers becoming Proselytes, see Chap. 56. 6. r As I afflicted thee in my anger, so out of my compassions I will abundantly bless thee.

11 Therefore s thy gates * shall be open continually; they shall not be shut day nor night, that men may bring unto thee the ‖ forces t of the Gentiles, and that their kings may be brought u. * Rev. 21. 25. ‖ Or, wealth.

s For that end and purpose; or by reason of the conflux of people, that shall be continually flocking thither, arguing abundance of peace and security, and great enlargement of the Church, and that the Christian Church shall be always open to the Godly, to receive all comers, freely. t Or wealth, either all wherein they excel; or all the prey taken in fight. u As it were Captives in Chains, such as they took in war, being made victorious, so say some; but rather, such as were led, and conducted in state.

x Do offices of kindness, so is the word used, Chap. 19. 23. or rather, that will not submit to Christ's Scepter. y Shall be no more sui juris, but subdued to thee, and as refusing subjection to Christ shall perish everlastingly; as they all perished in the deluge, that were not in the Ark: they that should be saved were added to the Church, Act. 2. 47. & Rev. 21. 24. z Heb. Wasting be wasted, viz. By the sword: accordingly we read of many victories in Josephus that the Jews obtained, and in the Book of the Macchabees, as a fulfilling of this Prophecy; but this doth Principally relate to the Spiritual Jerusalem, and this seems to anticipate an objection, If the gates stand continually open, we shall be in danger of enemies; not so, saith he, for they shall either serve thee, or perish.

13 * The glory a of Lebanon shall come unto thee, the fir-tree, the pine-tree and the box together, to beautifie b the place of my sanctuary c, and I will make the place of my feet d glorious. * Ch. 35. 2. & 41. 19.

a The Box, the Fir, the Pine, and the Cedar, on account where-of Lebanon grew so famous, a Metonymy of the Efficient; Kings, and great ones, the glory of the world, and also Persons of a lower rank, the Pines, Firs, and Box trees, as also the choicest Persons, endued with the special gifts of the Holy-Ghost shall be the materials, and members of Christ's Church, as those also of a lower size, and pensive. We find the godly called trees, Ch. 61. 3. they shall have sweet Communion together; the Box shall not envy the Pine, nor the Pine despise the Box, they shall worship the Lord together. b This is the reason and end why the glory of Lebanon is to be brought hither; by these trees understand the beauty, and Nobility of the Church. Trees being both for building and for beautifying. c The Temple wherein was the Sanctuary, this being a Type of the Church both actively, as that which his presence Sanctifieth; and passively, as that, wherein he is worshipped, and Sanctified. d viz. The Ark, 1 Chron. 28. 2. described here by a periphrasis; so called because, supposing God after the manner of man to sit as on a seat between the wings of the Cherubims, his feet would rest upon the Ark, and therefore called the mercy seat, Exod. 25. 17, 18, 19, 20. The Temple, and Sion is called his rest, Psal. 132. 13, 14. and all this is made good in the Gospel Church, 2 Cor. 6. 16.

14 The sons e also of them that afflicted thee,
*Ch.45.14. shall * come bending f unto thee, and all they that & 49.23. despise thee shall * bow themselves down at the soles g
* Rev. 3.9. of thy feet; and they shall call thee, The city h of the LORD, the Zion of the holy One of Israel.

e Either their posterity acknowledging their Fathers sins in afflicting thee; or themselves, for it is the manner of the Hebrews to put the Sons of a thing for the thing it self. f Humbling themselves, as penitents, this being the sign of Reverence, and respect; and that either for love, or fear, submit to the yoke of Christ; they shall be like Christ, of an humble, and meek Spirit, and the degree of this is mentioned in the next clause. g This notes that great degree of submission that even despisers, and enemies shall yield to the Church prostrating themselves as humble suppliants. See Chap. 49. 23. or rather to Christ the Head, King, and Husband of the Church. h They shall give her that honourable title, or acknowledge her to be so, and so called both from the Love that God had for her, and from the Temple of God that was in her.

15 Whereas thou hast been forsaken i and hated k, so that no man went through thee l, I will make thee an eternal excellency m, a joy of many generations n.

i Both of God, i. e. As to outward appearance; and of her inhabitants, being upon the matter depopulated. k Either slighted, and neglected, or suffering actual miseries, and slaughters; thus was she dealt with, Lam. 1. 2. l Thy streets were left desolate. m The Abstract is put here for the Concrete, whereby the Hebrews were wont to express the superlative degree, and in this happy estate we find the Church, Zech. 2. per tot. and 9. 9, &c. Which refers to the coming of Christ; and it is said to be Eternal. i. e. For a great while, it being an hyperbolical expression frequent with the Hebrews, who express a long time by eternity. n The Churches happiness should be the rejoycing and comfort of succeeding generations; the would be the matter of their great rejoycing, a Metonymy of the Object.

*Ch.49.23. 16 * Thou shalt also suck o the milk of the Gen-& 61.6. tiles, and shalt suck the breast of Kings, and thou * Ch.43.3. shalt know p that * I the LORD am thy saviour and thy redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob q.

o A Metaphor taken from Children sucking nourishment from the breast, the sense is that the Church should draw, or drain the wealth of Nations, and the riches, and power of Kings, and whatever is most excellent, and that it should come freely, and affectionately, as milk flows from the breast of the Mother; the same thing intended, Chap. 49. 23. and in the foregoing verses. p i. e. Experience it; knowing is often put for an experimental knowing. q Styled so either with reference to Jacob's Person, he being the first that gave God this title, Gen. 49. 24. or with reference to Jacob's posterity, viz. the Jews. These things will certainly be accomplished, for he is the mighty God, and so able, and the God of Jacob, so obliged by Covenant, and Relation.

17 For brass I will bring gold r, and for Iron I will bring silver, and for wood brass, and for stones iron: I will also make thy officers peace s, and thine exactours righteousness t.

r Here is the effect of the former promise, thy poverty shall be turned to riches, all things shall be altered for the best; an allusion to the days of Solomon, when Gold was as brass: thus on the Contrary, when they change for the worse in the state, it useth to be expressed by the like Metaphors, Chap. 1. 21, 22, 23. s i. e. Loving, Meek and Peaceable, the Abstract put for the Concrete, as is usual, whether you understand it of Under-officers, they shall be Officers of peace, or, of Governours, thou shalt have a peaceable Government, as it was made good to them under Ezra, Nehemiah, Zorobabel, and such like. t Most righteous, as before peace for peaceable. The Church is not freed from Taxes, and pyaments, that is given by Christ and Peter unto Cæsar, but it shall be without oppression, and grinding; no more than is necessary, and not exacted rigorously; though all these were made good in their return out of Babylon, yet doth it more properly relate to the meliorating of the Church under the Gospel, wherein instead of Carnal Ceremonies, the had Spiritual Ordinances, which is the scope of the Apostle, Heb. 9. and larger measures of the holy Spirit; and should have such Officers as would speak peace to the Consciences, by discovering the compleat, and perfect righteousness of him, who fulfilled all righteousness.

18 Violence u shall no more be heard in thy land, wasting nor destruction within thy borders x: but *Ch.26.1. thou shalt call * thy walls salvation y, and thy gates praise z.

u That this, and what follows must necessarily be understood of the Church Triumphant (though there only it will be compleat) I see no necessity, neither will obtrude my Judgement, but leave it to the judicious as being more proper in a Comment; none to offer violence to this quiet state thou shalt attain to, either within thee to oppress by Injustice, Rapine, or Fraud, or without thee by hostile invasions, and this the Prophet mentions as the effect of good Officers in the former verse. x No havock made among thy people. y They shall be safe, and able to defend thee; thou shalt be as safe as salvation it self can make thee. When a thing is said in Scripture to be called so, it often signifies as much as to be so, Ch. 26. 1. & 47. 1. & 65. 7. and it intimates as much as that God will be salvation to his Church: when they shall be without Gates, and Walls, he will be their safety, and the matter of their praise. See Isa. 26. 1. and God's care of his Church is the matter of that exhortation to praise him, Psal. 147. z A double Metonymy, viz. of the Effect, as salvation will cause praise, and of the Adjunct as it is worthy of praise; so that within or upon thy Gates and Walls, thou shalt sing praises.

19 * The sun shall be no more thy light a by day,
* Rev. 21.23 & 22.5 neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the LORD shall be unto thee an everlasting a These shall not be at all esteemed in comparison of the Spiritual light of the Church; and this is laid down as the assurance of the Churches Comfort as the former was for her safety, so that God will not only be a shield, but a Sun to her, Psal. 84. 11. not that they shall not have the Sun, and Moon among them, but that the light of the godly as such, should principally consist in what is Spiritual. b Christ shall scatter all darkness and ignorance, enlightning thee with the doctrines of the Gospel, and graces of his Spirit; and this shall be Everlasting, not wax, and wane, and suffer Eclipses, and settings, as the Sun and Moon do, but it shall be constant without shadow of change; no night; which will be undoubtedly true of the Church in Heaven, whatever it will be, or, how near soever it will come to it here, which I presume will bear its analogy. c Always ministring matter of thy glorying in him; or, thy interest in this God shall be great honour to thee; or else, it is the same thing with the sentence immediately before in other words, that will make thee glorious, a Metonymy of the Efficient, thus he is said to give glory, Psal. 84. 11.

20 Thy sun shall no more go down, neither shall thy moon withdraw it self: for the LORD shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended d.

d Literally he means the Jews mourning in Babylon; but especially the uninterrupted happiness of the Church; the Hebrew here for ended signifies recompensed, their days of rejoicing shall abundantly recompense all their days of mourning.

21 Thy people also shall be all e righteous f: they

e i. e. The greater part; the word in this use hath been shewn frequently; or, altogether righteous, compleatly righteous. f As this respects the Jews, the sense may be, they went into Captivity wicked, but most of them being dead, and many of the Survivors tarrying behind, they that are returned are said to be righteous, Chap. 1. 25, 26, 27. & 4. 4. but Principally as it respects the Church they shall be all Saints either by profession, as Paul calls them frequently Saints by calling; or rather by an inherent righteousness, or perfectly by the imputed righteousness of Christ, see on Ch. 35. 8. g i. e. for a long time, as you have many instances; and this is spoken, lest that poor remnant should be afraid of being driven out again; but with reference to the Church, that they should for ever be continued as God's peculiar people. h Put by apposition, viz. Thy people being of my planting, and so also the next clause, the work of my hands, and therefore cannot miscarry, being what I shall take delight in, and thus the Children of God are said to be his workmanship created in Christ Jesus, Eph. 2. 10. i Either that I may make them glorious in being thus planted, or, my self glorious in thus planting them.

22 A little one shall become a thousand k, and a small one a strong nation l: I the LORD will hasten
it in his time m.

k Though of very small beginning, and contemptible, yet shall greatly multiply: Though the Church at first will be but a very few, yet will it encrease into many thousands; this plant or seed will spring up to many; some understand it, that many shall be converted, and brought into the Church by men of very few, low, and mean parts; however these things seem to agree better to some state of the Church here, than to the state of the Church Triumphant. l If this signifie not the same with the other, as probably it may, the word strong signifying numerous, Joel 1. 6. then we may understand it, that as the former respected their number, so this their strength. m viz. In due time, the time that I have appointed. q. d. Let not this be doubted because I have undertaken it, to whom nothing is difficult. When the time of the promise comes, he will make hast, it will be done speedily; or, as soon as it begins, it shall hasten apace, as it did in Peter's Sermon, 3000 in one day, Acts 2. and 5000 in another, Acts 4. and so soon filled the whole world, and one Paul planted whole Churches, as the people in Egypt increased from 70 Persons to a vast multitude.

CHAP. LXI.

Christ and his blessed Office, 1, —3. the Church's Repair and Increase, 4, —6. and joy, 7, — 11.

THe * spirit of the LORD a upon me n, because *Luke 4.18. the LORD hath annointed o me to preach good tidings p unto the meek, he hath sent me to bind up q the broken-hearted r, to proclaim liberty to the captives s, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound t.

n As it were to accomplish that which is foretold, and promised in the foregoing Chapter, whereby this appears to be either the Holy-Ghost, see on, 1 King. 18. 12. or the Spirit of Prophecy; i. e. the

i. e. the gift of Prophecy; so we are often to understand by the Spirit, viz. The gifts, as the Spirit upon Samson, viz. The gift of valour, and courage, and strength, see, 1 Cor. 12. 4, &c. Though the Prophet may speak this of himself in Person, yet that it is principally understood of Christ, is evident, because he applieth this Text unto himself, Luke 4. 18. being the first text he preached upon after his Baptism, at which time the Holy-Ghost did descend upon him in a visible shape, of which that John, who Baptized him, was an ocular witness, John 1. 32, 33. and so making good the truth of this Prophecy; and it is said to rest upon, and dwell in him, according as it is prophesied, ch. 11. 2. & 42. 1. o Set me apart, i. e. both capacitating him with Gifts, and commissionating him with Authority; and yet more, as it is applied to Christ, a Power to make all effectual, from whence he hath also the name of Messiah among the Hebrews, and of Christ among the Greeks; nay Christ alone among the Prophets hath obtained this name, Psal. 45. 7. and the Prophet seems here to describe, first, who Christ is, and then what are his Offices, this being the usual Ceremony for the designing Persons to the Offices of Prophets, Priests, and Kings, as hath Been divers times shewn, in all which respects it doth most eminently belong to Christ, so that the Prophet doth hereby intimate both the final cause of his unction, viz. that he should execute these Offices to which he was anointed; and the effect of it; that unction being upon him as the head, it would flow from thence to his members, and so is an unction more peculiar to them, and in a more general way it hath respect unto all the faithful, 2 Cor. 1. 21, 22. 1 John 2. 20, 27. p Being meant of Christ, this relates to his Prophetical Office. Literally this points at the good news that Isaiah brought of Cyrus his being raised up to bring them out of Babylon, now they are become meek and humble; but if it be thus taken, it must be understood of his Prophecies left behind him, for he died many years before the Captivity. But they chiefly signifie the good tidings of the Gospel, that discovers Christ come in the flesh to redeem poor sinners from the Captivity of sin, and Satan, such as are meek, and humble, or afflicted, as the word signifies, because ordinary afflictions make men meek, and humble; called also the Poor, and our Saviour expresseth it by that word, Luke 4. 18. To these the Gospel, these good tidings are brought, Mat. 11. 5. Whether by Poor you understand, 1. The Gentiles void of all Grace and Salvation, or tenders of it till now. Or, 2. Properly so called, indigent and needy Persons, of which sort were the greatest number that followed Christ, of which the reason might be, because Christ preached the contempt of the World, and Riches, which the Poor would therefore sooner embrace, and the Rich more likely to oppose. Or, 3. The Poor in Spirit. q Now follow several particular expressions to describe the same thing that he mentioned before more generally; a Metaphor taken from Chirurgians, that carefully and tenderly roll up a broken bone, Hos. 6. 1. and this relates to Christs Priestly Office. r The heart dejected, and broken with sorrow. I am sent to ease their pains, whose Consciences are wounded with a sense of God's wrath. s Those Captives in Babylon, but principally to Satan, that they shall be delivered: and this appertains to Christ's Kingly Office, whereby he proclaims liberty from the Dominion, and Bondage of sin, and from the Fear, and Terrour of Hell. See Ch. 42. 7. t i. e. Supposing them to be in chains, and fetters, yet they should be delivered, though in the greatest bondage: the further explication of these things will be found upon Luke 4. 18. Because there are some passages expressly mentioned here.

2 To proclaim u the acceptable x year y of the LORD, and the day of vengeance z of our God, to comfort all that mourn a.

u To declare, as it respects the Jews, that their liberty is at hand. x viz. the happy age of God's grace, either which will be grateful, and welcome news to them, or acceptable to God, a time wherein it pleaseth him to favour them; but this must be understood of a farther extent than to Babylon, and rather unto Mankind in Jesus Christ, Gal. 4. 4. and Tit. 3. 4. called a time of God's good will in that Angelical Song, Luke 2. 14. On the account of those good tidings which the Angel brought, v. 10, 11. called so possibly from the arbitrariness, and good pleasure of God, having no respect to any satisfaction from man. y Not precisely, as if Christ preached but one year, the mistake of some Ancients mentioned, and refuted by Irenæus; lib. 2. ch. 38. But for time indefinitely, and may include the whole time of preaching the Gospel. See Rom. 10. 15. which I take to be the meaning of that now, 2 Cor. 6. 2. and probably hath a pertinent allusion to the year of Jubilee, which was a general release proclaimed by sound of Trumpet, which relates also here to the word Proclaiming, Lev. 25. 10. z viz. on Babylon, it being necessary, that where God will deliver his People, he should take vengeance on their enemies; but mystically, and principally on the enemies of his Church, and the Spiritual ones chiefly, viz. Satan, Sin, and Death. a Either by reason of their sufferings, or of their sins, Mat. 11. 28. Or, the miseries of Sin. See on ch. 57. 18.

3 To appoint b unto them that mourn in Zion c to give unto them beauty for ashes d, the oyl of joy for mourning e, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness, that they might be called f trees of righteousness, g, the planting of the LORD, h that he might be glorified i

b Supple it. viz. Comfort, or Joy, or else it may refer to those Accusative cases following, Beauty, Oyl, Garments. c Put by a Metonymy for the Jews, q. d. among the Jews; and they for the Church of God, or, according to the Hebrew For Zion. d By ashes understand whatever is most proper for days of mourning, as Sackcloth sprinkled with Ashes, and these ashes which were sprinkled on their heads, mixing themselves with their tears, would render them of a woful Aspect, which was wont to be the habit of Mourners, as by Beauty whatever may be beautiful, or become times of rejoycing. e The same is the same with the former, he calls it Oyl of joy in allusion to those anointings they were wont to use in times of joy, Psal. 104. 15. and also the same with what follows, viz. Gladness for heaviness, gladness brings forth Praise to God; and it is called a Garment in allusion to their Festival Ornaments, for they had Garments appropriated to their conditions, some suitable to times of rejoycing, and some to times of mourning; or else an allusion to comely garments; and the spirit of heaviness, because heaviness doth oppress, and debase the Spirits. It is all but an elegant description of the same thing by a threefold Antithesis. f That is, that they may be so, as it is usually expressed, Ch. 58. 12. & 60. 18. they shall be acknowledged so, v. 9. g He ascribes Righteousness to Trees, understanding thereby Persons by a Metaphor, by which he means, that they shall be firm, solid, and well rooted, being by faith engrafted into Christ, and bringing forth fruit suitable to the Soil wherein they are planted, that had been as dry trees, see on Isa. 56. 3. viz. the Church, the Vineyard of God, and the hand by which they are planted, as in the next words. h Planted by the holy Lord, who being himself holy, and righteous, would plant none but such, which notes also their soundness, and stability, an allusion to that passage in Moses his Song, Exod. 15. 17. i Either in that glory which he should confer upon them, or that glory he may expect and receive from them, that so it may be evident whose handy work it was. See ch. 60. 21.

4 And they shall * build the old wasts, they shall

k See ch. 58. 12. As it is applied to Gospel times, the meaning may be, that Gentilism, which was as a wilderness overgrown with Briars, and Thorns, shall be cultivated, and made Christian, and Provinces of the Gentiles, that lay as it were wast, void of all true Religion, shall now by the Ministry of the Word, be edified in the true worship of God.

5 And strangers l shall stand m and feed your flocks n, and the sons of the alien o shall be your plow-men, and your vine-dressers p.

l viz. Gentiles, such as are not of the natural race of the Jews, but Gentile Converts. Or, such as shall have no more than an outward profession, strangers to the true work of Grace. m Ready to beat thy service, a like expression, ch. 48. 13. n The Churches with the word of God. o The same with strangers, or their successours. p As the words describe the prosperous estate of the Jews, the meaning of them is, that they should be in such a flourishing and prosperous condition, that without their own labour, they should have all inferiour offices executed, either by slaves taken in War, or by Persons hired for reward, which they should have Riches and Wealth enough to accomplish; But as they principally relate to the spiritual State of the Church, so probably by Strangers we may understand Converted Gentiles with their successors meant by the Sons of Aliens, which should be ready to discharge all Offices for the advantage of the Church, feeding the Flocks, viz. the Churches of Christ with the Word of God, and should manage the whole work of God's Spiritual Husbandry therein; see 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8, 9. Or, by Strangers may be meant Members of the Church only by an outward Profession, even they shall be some way serviceable to her in ordinary and inferiour matters: The Earth shall help the Woman, Rev. 12. 16.

6 But ye shall be named the priests q * of the
* 1 Pet. 2. 5, 9. Rev. 1. 6. & 5. 10. *Ch. 60.6, 16. LORD: men shall call you the ministers of God: * ye shall eat r the riches of the Gentiles, and in their glory shall ye boast s your selves.

q For your part, ye emphatically shall be as Priests, Either 1. For Maintenance, as the Priests of old were plentifully provided for without their labour, so shall you by the labour of Strangers: Or, 2. For Countenance, you shall be every where as greatly valued as the Priests were wont to be; you shall be esteemed as Princes; for so the word is often used, the word Priest being applied not only to the Sacred Function, but to one that was of great note among the People, and was supplied with all necessaries from others, without any labour of his own. Thus David's Sons were called Priests, or Princes: Or rather, 3. For Priviledge, the whole body of them shall now be as peculiar, and as neat to God as the Priests were formerly, and shall be a Royal Priesthood, 1 Pet. 2. 9. This is most certainly true of all the faithful under the Gospel, hence they have also their Spiritual Sacrifices, Rom. 12. 1. Heb. 13. 15, 16. 1 Pet. 2. 5. r It relates to the Riches of the Gentiles, which did consist most in Flocks, and Herds: Or, what you eat shall be purchased by the Riches of the Gentiles. s You shall exalt your selves, or be renowned by others: The LXX render it, you shall be wonderful, or to admiration; or grow high by the accesse of that glory, which they shall bring unto you, viz. in Riches, Parts, Learning, Chap. 60. 5. 11.

7 For your shame ye shall have double t; and for confusion they shall rejoyce in their portion u: therefore x in their Land they shall possess the double: everlasting y joy shall be unto them.

t See on Chap. 40. 2. Supple honour; though you have been little accompted of among your Enemies, yet now you shall be greatly in their esteem, Zech. 9. 12. you shall have double damages. u viz. of honour, that God will give them, the same thing with the former; or, in their Inheritance, which God shall restore to them; and that either, 1. For worth and value through God's blessing upon it: Or, 2. For room and space, and that possibly by reason of

of the few that will return to inhabit there, viz. only a tenth part, Chap. 6. 13. Or, that which he shall give them out of their Enemies Land. z Or rather, Because, being rendred as a reason of their rejoycing, because of the doubling of their portion, in which sense it is taken, Chap. 16. 14. y Of long continuance here, and everlasting hereafter; or, to be perpetually remembered on their Anniversary Festivals; though this had its accomplishment in their return from Babylon, yet was it most signally made good in that great change for the better, which they should find in the Gospel-state in the enlargement of Christ's Kingdom, and encrease of his People, with whom they should ever rejoyce together.

* Ch. 1. 13. ‖ Or, recompense. Heb. give, Ezek. 7. 3.

8 For I the LORD love judgment z, * I hate robbery a for burnt-offerings, and I will ‖ direct their work in truth b, and I will make an everlasting covenant c with them.

z q. d. They have suffered a great deal of hardship under their Enemies, and I will do them Right, for I love Justice in my self, and in them that practise it: Or, he gives a reason why he will recompense those Strangers that did so freely minister to his People. a All things gotten by injustice, though it be for Sacrifice: As God will not accept of that which cost nothing; so much less of that which is the Effect of Rapin, and Oppression; a foundation, whereon most of our Abbies and Monasteries were built, viz. to expiate some great Crimes. And thus by making God a Receiver, they did interpretatively make him a Confederate. b Either I will lead, and guide them so, that they shall do all things in sincerity; they shall do good works, and to good Ends; they shall now love Truth, and walk in Truth, and serve him in Spirit and Truth: Or, I will reward them; or, I will make their work stable and firm. Truth notes stability; see the Notes on Ch. 16. 5. (work being here put metonymically for the reward of work) proportionably to their work. c q. d. Though you have broken Covenant with me, and I have seemed to forsake you in giving you up to Captivity, yet I will renew my ancient Covenant made with your Fathers, confirmed with the blood of Christ, and it shall be everlasting, never to be abrogated, viz. it shall be continued in the Gentiles that shall come in your rooms, that for breach of Covenant were broken off.

9 And their seed shall be among the Gentiles d, and their off-spring among the People: all that see them shall acknowledge them, that they are the seed which the LORD hath blessed e.

d i. e. Eminently, a promise of the increase of the Church; such shall be their prosperity, and multiplying, that they shall be known abroad by their great increase; or else, the meaning is, the Church shall have a seed of the Gentiles, the borders of the Church shall be enlarged, whereas it hath been confined as it were to one corner of the World, now it shall remain in one Nation alone no more, but shall fill all the Nations of the Earth. e They shall be known to be the seed of Abraham, partly by their holy conversation, and partly by their exceeding blessings, it being the seed that the Lord had so often promised to bless: There shall be such visible Characters of God's love to them, and of God's grace in them.

10 I will greatly rejoyce f in the LORD g, my soul shall be joyful in my God h; for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation i, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness k, as a bridegroom † deckereth himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels.

f This by a Prosopopœia is spoken in the Person of the Church, wherein she doth thankfully acknowledge God's kindness to her in the forementioned promise, expressed here in the greatness of her affection with reference both to her present deliverance from Babylon and to the happiness of her Gospel-state. g Or because of the Lord, or of the goodness of the Lord towards me, an usual form of gratulation. 1 Sam. 2. 1. and Hab. 3. 18. and Luke 1. 47. or thus, I will not rejoyce so much in my deliverance, as in the Lord. h This clause is to the same purpose, save only she varies the expression, q. d. Yea I do it with my whole Soul. i With Salvation, as with a garment, so in the next with righteousness, as with a Robe, the meaning is the Salvation that God will work for me, will render me as beautiful, and considerable, as they are, that are clothed with the richest garments, as Bridegrooms usually are, and Brides with their Jewels, or as venerable, as Kings in their Princely Robes; my Sack-cloth will now be turned into Robes, or, I shall be compassed about with glory, as garments do compass the body. k i. e. Either with the fruits, and effects of his Love, and many favours to the Church, in which sense Righteousness is taken, Psal. 112. 3, 4, 9. compar'd with 2 Cor. 9. 9. and chap. 57. 6, 8. She should see the Righteousness of God in fulfilling all these promises. Or that Righteousness of Christ imputed to us, which we are said to put on, Rom. 13. 14. or those graces imparted to us, and acted in an holy life.

* Ch. 45. 8. 11 * For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth the things that are sown in it to spring forth; so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness m and praise n to spring forth before all Nations o.

l By this and the other Metaphor he shews not only the reviving of the blessings of the Church after they had been as it were dead in the winter of affliction, but the great plenty, and abundance of blessings that should break forth; that which had been as a wilderness, shall be as a Paradise, pointing at the effects of his grace, and bounty. m i. e. His great work of Salvation shall break out and appear. n As the natural product, and fruit of it, his own glory being the Principal end of making his Righteousness to appear and manifest it self. o These things will not be done in a Corner, but will be eminently conspicuous in the sight of all the world, for which purpose these Hymns penned by the godly will ever be famous in the Churches of Christ to all ages, as of Moses, Hannah, Mary, Zechary, Simeon, &c.

CHAP. LXII.

A Prayer of the Watchmen for the Church in confidence of God's Gracious Designs and Promises to it, 1. —— 12.

FOR Zions p sake will I not hold my peace, q and for Jerusalems sake I will not rest, until the righteousness r thereof go forth as brightness s, and the salvation thereof as a lamp that burneth t.

p Viz. The Churches sake, Sion, and Jerusalem being both put for the Church, Heb. 12. 22. q These seem to be the words of the Prophet strongly resolving, notwithstanding all difficulties, to solicit God for the Churches happiness, and constantly excite to the belief of it by his Preaching, though it were long ere it came, for Isaiah lived near 200 years before this was accomplished; but his Prophecy lived, and the tenour of it was continued by other Prophets, whom the Lord stirred up to be still establishing his people till this Salvation was wrought; his meaning might be, as long as he lived, he would never hold his peace; or he might include himself among those, who should be then alive, as Paul doth among the other Saints, 1 Thes. 4. 17. we which are alive. Thus may we also include God speaking these words as some would have it, viz. By the mouth of Isaiah, and other of his holy Prophets, that never held their Peace, till they saw this blessed State of the Church appear. r With reference to the Babylonians, understand it of the Righteousness of God, who hath promised his People deliverance, and he must be Righteous, and so understand Salvation before; or rather, the vindicating of his People's cause in the Eyes of the Nations by the ruin of the Babylonians; he will shew that his People have a Righteous cause: or with reference to the Church, till Christ, who is her Righteousness shall appear and be manifested in the Gospel. s Clearing up their miserable, and dark estate which the Church might be supposed to be in before Christ's coming, with much joy, and happiness. t And to that purpose is set up where it may be seen continually, to signifie how eminently conspicuous this prosperous estate of the Church should be among the Nations, and as it may particularly relate to revealing of Christ unto the World.

2 All the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness u, and all kings x thy glory: and * thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the LORD shall name y.

* Ch. 65. 15. See ver. 12.

u See what is said in the foregoing verse, some read thy Just One, viz. Jesus Christ. x Those that were wont to scorn thee, shall now be taken with the admiration of thy Glory. y Not the seed of Abraham, or the Children of Israel, but of God; that whereas they were by nature the Children of Wrath, now by Grace they shall be the Children of God: Or, another Name, as it is said of Tongues. Compare Mark 16, 17. with Acts 2. 4. Or, a Name, the honour whereof shall make them famous, as Gen. 11. 4. they shall be called Christians. Or, The Church shall be more renowned than ever, both in respect of her condition, and so called Hephzibah, and of her Relation, and so called Beulah, and this new name the Lord gives them accordingly, ver. 4.

3 Thou shalt also be a * crown of glory z in the hand of the LORD a, and a royal diadem b in the hand of thy God.

* Zech. 9. 16.

z An expression to set forth the dignity of her state. a i. e. Either, as placed upon thee by God's hand, that he will dispose of, or dispense to thee; an usual form of speech in Scripture, as Hag. 1. 1. by the hand of Haggai, to Mal. 1. 1. Or, In the hand of God: He shall so manage thine honourable estate, that thou shalt be a Crown, a Credit and Honour to him; and so the word Crown may be used for any kind of ornament, or matter of Honour: Or, preserved, and defended by God's Hand; a Phrase that expresseth it to be out of all danger, as to put a Man's Life in his hands is to expose it to dangers, Judg. 12. 3. 1 Sam. 19. 5. & 28. 21. b The same thing with the former for substance. Or, the Royal Priesthood, whereof the Apostle speaks, 1 Pet. 2. 9.

4 * Thou shalt no more be termed, Forsaken c; * neither shall thy land d, any more be termed desolate e: but thou shalt be called f ‖ Hephzi-bah g, and thy land ‖ Beulah b: for the LORD delighteth in thee, and thy land shall be married i.

* Hos. 1. 10. 1 Pet. 2. 10. * Ch. 54. 6. ‖ That is, delight is in her. ‖ That is, married.

c As a Woman forsaken by her Husband, contemptible, and of low esteem. d i. e. The Inhabitants of the Land, a Metonymy of the Subject. e Though it be now almost void of Inhabitants it shall be impeopled again. f [c], for as you have frequently had such instances. g My delight is in her, a new Name agreeing with her new Condition. h Married, agreeing to her new Relation: she shall be as one well married, to the great improvement of her state. Jer. 2. 19. Isa. 2. 18, 19, 20, 21. Thou shalt see the increase of thy Children again in thy Land, as the fruit of thy married condition, which by reason of thy being forsaken of thy Husband, were in a manner wasted and decayed: And this refers to the great enlargement of the Church in the Gospel days: Or rather, shall be possessed, as the word hanh properly signifies; and so it answers to desolate; thou shalt be no more desolate, but possessed, and this helps to solve a difficulty in the next verse, which otherwise may may seem an impropriety, That the Sons would marry the Mother.

5 For as a young man marrieth a virgin k, so shall thy sons l marry thee: and † as the bridegroom rejoyceth m over the bride, so * shall thy God rejoyce over thee.

k This is delivered as a demonstration of what was said in the close of the 4th verse, and it is said Young, and Virgin to note their suitableness, not Old, and Young, but such as may delight each in other, signifying that mutual content that would be in all parties, thus it was at the first preaching of the Gospel, Acts 2. 41, to 47. l Whereas it is improbable that the Spirit of God should carry on so sacred a Prophecy by a similitude so abhorrent to Nature, the Son should marry the Mother, the scruple is easily satisfied by taking the word in its right signification to possess, as in the foregoing verse, reading it thus, as a young man marrieth or possesseth a Virgin, so shall thy Land be inhabited or possessed by thy Sons; they shall dwell with thee as a man dwells with his Wife, and thus the LXX. And it is said Sons to distinguish them from strangers, by whom she should not any longer be inhabited, but by her own natives; and expressed by marrying to signifie not only their unity of affection in the evenness of their living, but of Faith in their common profession called the Common Faith, Tit. 1. 4. according to which Paul calls Titus his Son. m Taketh delight in her, so shall thy God, viz. Christ, God and Man, in thee; see ver. 4. Christ is often called a Bridegroom, and his Church a Bride, 2 Cor. 11. 2. Rev. 21. 2, 9.

6 * I have set watchmen n upon thy walls, O Jerusalem, which shall never hold their peace day nor night o: ‖ ye that make mention p of the LORD, keep not silence q; n Understand by these, either 1. Angels, as they are called, Dan. 4. 13, 23. Or, 2. Magistrates, see chap. 56. 10. Or rather, 3. Ministers. When once the Church shall be restored again, God will undertake for its Safety and Protection, partly by Magistracy, and partly by Ministry, whom he here by a Metaphorical Allegory calls Watchmen, but the next words seem principally to intimate Spiritual Watchmen, thy spiritual safety, Heb. 13. 17. and said to be upon the Walls, as being thence able to espy dangers at the greater distance, Cant. 1. 7. o There shall be a most vigilant, and industrious Ministry, their constancy being intimated by Day and Night, either in Praying or Teaching, or warning, this being their Office. p i. e. Are his servants; To make mention of one is, according to the Hebrew Phrase, to be servant to him of whom we make mention, ch. 26. 13. And here especially are meant his Servants in ordinary, his Remembrancers, either such as put God in mind of his Promise, like such Officers that great Men have about them on purpose to mind them of the publick affairs; Or, such as make the Lord to be remembred, putting his People in mind of him. q This seems to be the charge that he gives to his Watchmen, that they never prove remiss or negligent.

* Isa. 52. 7. ‖ Or, that put the LORD in remembrance.

7 And give him no † rest r till he establish, and till he make Jerusalem a praise in the earth s.

r The same with the foregoing Verse, and very acceptable to God, Luke 11. 8, 9, 10. s By sending the Messiah, and those Labourers into his Vineyard, whereby the Church may be establish-ed, and setled on sure foundations, and so become matter of Praise to God. All the Nations may praise him for her, Psal. 67. 3, 4. Or, that she may be praised, and become renowned, and famous in the Eyes the World, see ch. 60. 9. & 61. 9. 11.

8 The LORD hath sworn by his right hand t, and by the arm of his strength, † Surely u, I will no more * give thy corn to be meat for thine enemy, and the sons x of the stranger shall not drink thy wine, for the which thou hast laboured y:

† Heb. If. * Isa. 62. 8. &c. Jer. 48. 28. Ezek. 36. 5. Joel 3. 17.

t This, and the next Verse are much to the same purpose, wherein the Prophet, to encourage them to their industrious endeavours, tells them that the Lord had sworn to see to the prosperity of Jerusalem; And he names the Hand to signifie his faithfulness, as the giving of our hand notes our Fidelity, and Arm to signifie his Power, the Arm of his strength, i. e. his strong Arm; these being eminently to be engaged, and put forth for his People, he swears by them. u Or, If I give, an usual Apostrophe, an abrupt form of swearing, implying something of an imprecation, as great as can be expressed, q. d. never account me Faithful, or Almighty, if I accomplish not this. x See ch. 61. 5. y The meaning is, that Meat, and Drink, and all necessaries, that thou hast laboured for, the Babylonians took away from thee, but now it shall be so no more, he will not give thee up to the Will of thine Enemies.

9 But they that have gathered it z, shall eat it, and praise the LORD a; and they that have brought it together, shall drink it * in the courts of my holiness b.

* Deut. 12. 17. & 16. 11, 14.

z i. e. The Wine mentioned in the former verse, that have brought it from their several Vineyards, and laid it in their Cellars, every one shall eat the fruit of his own labours; thou shalt not sow, and another reap, as formerly. a They themselves shall praise him, viz. for his Bounty, and Goodness; and others also, that shall be partakers with them; God will be bountiful, and they shall be thankful. b As I have commanded, Deut. 14. 23. in my Courts: Holiness being put for God himself by a Metonymy of the Adjunct; alluding to those anniversary Feasts, and thank-offering that were to be eaten in those places about the Temple, and perhaps in special to that part which was appropriated to the Priests; implying herein, that they should be all Priests, and, for ought I know, here may be an allusion to the great Gospel-feast, or Thank-offering in the Lord's Supper, these Promises being not only applicable to, but do point at the Soul-protections, and the Soul-provisions of the Church of Christ.

10 Go through, and go through the gates c; * prepare ye the way d of the people, cast up, cast up the high way, gather out the stones e, lift up a standard f for the people g.

c It is doubled by way of Emphasis, q. d. make haste to your own Land, as if Cyrus should say, get you out of Captivity as soon as you will, ch. 48. 20. Or, it may intimate an invitation issued out from them at Jerusalem to those that were scattered about in the Captivity, therein possibly typifying the going of Christ's Disciples into the various parts of the World, to bring those that were scattered up and down into the Church. Or, go meet the Gentiles, whom God purposeth to bring into the Church, that by pure Doctrine, and your holy Lives they may be the sooner won. d Let them not have any obstructions in their way, he seems to call upon others to prepare the way for them; Thus John was sent to prepare the way for Christ, as was prophesied, ch. 40. 3. accordingly it is ordered to be cast up, see ch. 57. 14. e That there be no stumbling stone, or offence in their way: Or, q. d. go to and fro, and remove every scandal that they may boggle at, Rom. 14. 13. The former notes the certainty of their deliverance, harbingers sent before; this the speed of it, no impediment. f An allusion to Soldiers, that usually set up their Standard that the Army may know whether to repair from all quarters. See ch. 49. 22. and lifting of it up, is that it may be more visible, see ch. 11. 10, 11, 12. and this is Christ held forth in the preaching of the Gospel. g Or, over the People.

11 Behold, the LORD hath proclaimed h unto the end of the world, * say ye to the daughter of Zion i, Behold, thy salvation k cometh, behold, his * reward is with him, and his ‖ work l before him.

* Zech. 9. 9. Mat. 21. 5. Joh. 12. 15. * Ch. 40. 10. Rev. 22. 12. ‖ Or, recompense.

h This may be understood of Cyrus his Proclamation, being thereunto directed by God, see 2 Chr. 36. 22, &c. i i. e. To Jerusalem, or the Church, the sum of which Proclamation is in the following words. k Either 1. The time of it is come, ch. 46. 1. & 60. 1. Or rather 2. The Person that effects it, thy Saviour, by a Metonymy of the Efficient, Luke, 2. 30. l i. e. the Reward due to the work, the same thing with the former; see of this on ch. 40. 10. Or, his work is ready cut out for him, which he is to do: Or, he will industriously set himself about the work that is before him; Joh. 4. 34. and he is said to bring it with him, viz. the reward, that he will give to his true Worshippers, Or, he brings eternal Salvation with him, or the Reward of Redemption which is the Subject of the next Chapter.

m Or, they shall be called, or they shall be a peculiar separate People, ch. 4. 3. n Or, one found that was lost, see Ezek. 34. 16. Or, fought out, or for, or one in great esteem, one that the Gentiles should seek to join themselves withal, so as to be one Church with her: That reproach should be wiped off from her, that this is Sion whom no man seeketh after, Jer. 30. 17. Or, cared for, viz. by God, whom he hath out of infinite Love gathered to himself. o See v. 4. The meaning is, that thus they shall esteem the Gospel Church; she shall be accosted with such salutations as these are, the Holy People, the Redeemed of the Lord, &c.

CHAP. LXIII.

Christ's victory over his Enemies, 1, —— 6. and mercy towards his Church: in judgment remembring mercy, 7, —— 14. the Church's Prayer and Complaint in faith, 15, —— 19.

VVHo is this ? that cometh from Edom q, * with † died r garments from Bozrah s? this that is † glorious in his apparel t, travelling in the greatness of his strength u? I that speak in righteousness x, mighty to save y.

* Rev. 19. 13. † Heb. wet. † Heb. deck-ed.

p In these two verses either the Prophet as in some vision or Extasie is put probably upon enquiry by God himself, rather than by Christ or Michael, or Judas Maccabæus, as some have thought, and the rather, because this place doth thus suit best with chap. 59. 16, 17. Or, the Church makes enquiry, and that with admiration, who it is that appears in such a habit or posture, v. 1. and why, v. 2. q That is the Country of Idumæa, where Esau dwelt, and Esau himself was sometimes called by this name, Gen. 25. 30. and it is put Synecdochically for all the Enemies of the Church, as Moab is, Isa. 25. 10. See the Notes. r Or, stained: Thus Christ is described, Rev. 19. 13. and so also ver. 3. LXX. the redness of Garments. s The Capital City of Idumæa; see further ch. 34. 6. a parallel Text; and Edom and Bozrah here are mentioned, either 1. Not as relating to the places so called, but by way of allusion to the Garments of this Conqueror, Edom signifying Red, and Bozrah a Vintage. The one relating to his treading the Winepress, and the other to the blood sprinkled upon his Garments, v. 3. the like manner of speaking you have, Psal. 120. 5. Or rather, 2. Put Synecdochically for all the Enemies of the Church, among whom, though Antichrist be not particularly designed, yet may be reckoned, being one of the chief of them, thus typifying Christ's Victories over all the Enemies of the Church, Rev. 19. 19, 20, 21. and this is usual; Babylon is put for any detestable City, and Moab for all that are vile and abominable,

Isa. 25. 10. so Edom here for all Gods Enemies; and he mentions these Idumeans rather than the Chaldeans, who were the Jews chief and particular Enemies: 1. partly to set forth the greatness of the enmity, being of old standing, and an inbred malignity, Gen. 25. 22, 23. and irreconcilable, and perpetual, Amos 1. 11. and particularly put forth, when the Babylonians took Jerusalem. Psal. 137. 7. 2. Partly to comfort the Jews, both because God would take particular revenge upon Edom, as he had threatned, and prophesied by Obadiah which is the substance of that whole Prophecy; And also these being their near Neighbours, God doth give them security, that they shall not only be delivered from the Chaldeans, those remoter Enemies, but from the Idumeans also, whose vicinity and neighbourhood might have been troublesom to them. t Such as Generals are wont to march before their Armies in, or great Conquerors, that walk in state and Gallantry from their Conquests. u In, or according to the Majesty of his Gate, being an indication of the greatness of his strength, and intimating that he hath throughly done his work, and fears no pursuing Enemy, as the Lion that keepeth his Majestick Gate without the fear of any other Beast, Prov. 30. 30. this notes the invincibleness of his Power, and that it is his own strength, he needeth not the help of Armies or other instruments, and thus he will travel through all the Countries of his Enemies. x Here the Lord Christ gives an answer, wherein he both asserts his Fidelity, that he will faithfully perform what-he hath promised, and that he will truly execute Justice, Rev. 19. 11. and hereby also he distinguisheth himself from all Idol Gods, Isa. 45. 19, 20. y I have power to accomplish Salvation, as powerful as faithful, Isa. 19. 20.

* Revel. 19. 13. 2 Wherefore z * art thou red in thine apparel, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the wine-fat?

z Having enquired of the Person, now he enquires the Reason of his habit being thus sprinkled.

3 I have trodden a the wine-press alone b, and of the people there was none with me c: for I will tread them in mine anger, and trample them in my fury d and their blood shall be sprinkled e upon my garments, and I will stain f all my raiment.

a i. e. I have destroyed the Enemies of my People, I have crushed them as Grapes are crushed, this being an usual Metaphor to describe the utter destruction of a People, Psal. 44. 5. Isa. 25. 10. Rev. 14. 19, 20. and the easiness of doing it, no more than to crush a bunch of Grapes. b To note his Good-will, and great Power, the Masters of Vineyards are not willing to do this drudgery themselves, neither, if they would, could they be able to manage a whole Vintage by themselves: But Christ was willing to undertake it, and able to go through it without calling in the help of any other. c 1. Not that he excludes the Jews, but the other Nations that dwelt about them, therefore he saith of the people there was none with him, but God and his own People may be reckoned as one, Judg. 5. 23. And though this be true of his passion in which sense some would carry it, yet doth it not so well suit with the design: For Christ is described here not as a Priest Sacrificing, or shedding of his own blood, but as a King, conquering and shedding the blood of his, and his Churches Enemies; hence it is said their blood, not his own; to shew that it cannot fairly relate to his Passion: Besides Christ could expect no help in that, for he knew none could; but here he looked, and wondred that there was none, v. 5. And though it may be said, that he makes use of Instruments both in his conquering of temporal Enemies, and also spiritual, consider 1. That here he speaks as a General, and therefore the whole Victory is ascribed to him alone. 2. They do it not only by commission and authority derived from him, but by strength conveyed to them from him, without which they could do no more than a Watch without a Spring, or Tool without the Work-man's strength and skill: And that Christ may make it appear they are no Coadjutors that he needs, he makes them bring about such things as they never designed, as he speaks of the Assyrian, Isee on ch. 10. 6, 7. and this is to be understood in like manner of Christ's Conquest over spiritual Enemies, 2 Cor. 4. 7. See Acts 3. 12, 13. d This latter expression is but an aggravating of the former; it implies a kind of insulting, an allusion to Conquerours, who were wont to make the conquered to lie down, that others might trample on them, ch. 51. 23. e Or, was sprinkled. As in treading of Grapes the juice sparkles upon the cloths, q. d. in his anwer, thus came my Garments to be sprinkled. f It shall not be, or it was not only sprinkled, but perfectly stained, as it were rolled in blood, ch. 9. 5.

Ch.* 34. 8. & 61. 2. 4 For the * day of vengeance g is in mine heart h, and the year of my redeemed i is come k, g Designed and purposed by me to take vengeance on the Enemies of my Church. Or, particularly the posterity of Esau; Day and Year is all one, save the latter may have some respect to the length of their Captivity. h Or, was in my heart, a desire of Execution, Psal. 40. 8. I have meditated or studied revenge, being long forborn hath wrought in me resolutions of Revenge, therefore wonder not that I am so bloody, noting the severity of his proceedings against his Enemies. i The Jews have this title, because he redeemed them out of Egypt, and would also out of Babylon. k is at hand; see Psal. 102. 13. ch. 34. 8. The former part of the verse shews that Christ is still about his work, though he defer the Execution till the fit time come; he may allude to the year of Jubilee.

Ch.* 59. 16. 5 * And I looked, and there was none to help l; and I wondred that there was none to uphold m: therefore Ps.* 98. 1. mine own * arm brought salvation unto me, and my fury n, it upheld me.

l Not that he needed it, for help implies a defect of power, or wisdom, or wealth, or opportunity, &c. But to see what men would do, in regard his people needed it, therefore the standing, or not standing by his people is the same thing with standing, or not standing by him, Judg. 5. 23. Math. 25, 35, 40, 42, 45. m A Metaphor, taken from a staff, that is an help to one that leans on it. n Or zeal, viz. Against the Adversaries of the Church: God's Arm notes his strength, and Power, and his zeal sets this Power on work, chap. 9. 7. but see on chap. 59. 16, 17.

6 And I will tread down the people in mine anger, and make them drunk o in my fury, and I will bring down their strength to the earth p.

o The Hebrew often expresseth Calamities by a cup of wine, or strong drink, by which the distressed Persons are made drunk, Psal. 75. 8. chap. 51. 21. 22. they go as it were to and fro, not knowing what to do with themselves; and in special drunk with their own blood, chap. 49. 26. Rev. 16. 6. p Whatever it is wherein their strength lies, their strong ones, or, their strong places, or deep Counsels, &c. he will bring to the very dust, to nothing; like drunken Men they shall fall to the ground, not being able to stand, the most miserable condition that men can fall into, Ps. 36. 12.

7 I will mention q the loving kindnesses of the LORD, and the praises of the LORD, according to all that the LORD hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness towards the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them, according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his loving kindnesses.

q Whether this ought to be the beginning of a new Chapter, or no, is not material, but certainly here begins a new matter, which contains the Prophet's prayer, either in his own name, or the Church's to the end of chap. 64. wherein he begins with mentioning the great kindnesses, that God had shewn the Jews, and that Emphatically, setting it forth with the greatest advantages; and the more either to aggravate their great unkindness, or to give them some hope of finding him the like again in their distresses, or by way of argument with God to shew them mercy, because he had been so good to them.

8 For he said r, Surely they are my people s, children that will not lie t, so he was their Saviour u.

r viz. within himself of old, when he made a Covenant with our Fathers, and brought them out of Egypt. s In Covenant, though they are unworthy of me, yet I cannot but look upon them as my people. Their enemies would persuade themselves, O they are not God's People, but cast-outs, that none cared for, or looked after, but God will own them. t That will keep my Covenant; they will not deal fallly with me, that are under such obligations: or, I presume they will not, though they did go after their Idols, and prove unfaithful to me in serving Baal, and Ashteroth, &c. Now I presume they will do so no more; Thus Parents are apt tenderly to think of those Children, that they have been indulgent to, that they will not offer to abuse their kindness, thus God thinks the best of them: or, he intimates here what they are obliged to do, though he knew they would do otherwise: or, they will not degenerate after I have renewed them. u viz. On these hopes and on these Conditions he undertook the charge of them, Exod. 19. 5, 6. Psal. 81. 8, 9, 10. or, he, so he alone was their Saviour: when none to save, none to uphold, then he saved them, not Cyrus, Zerubbabel, Nehemiah, &c. But Christ himself.

9 * In all their affliction he was afflicted x, and the Jer.* 30. 10. angel of his presence y saved them z: * in his love and Deut.* 7. 7, 8. in his pity a he redeemed them, and he * bore them, * Exod. and carried b them all the days of old. 19. 4. Deut. 1. 31. Ch. 46. 3.

x Because of all the afflictions they endured in Egypt; this notes the Sympathy that is in Christ, he having the same Spirit in him, that the Church hath, and her head and Father; or, in all their afflictions no affliction, so the words may be read; their afflictions were rather favours than afflictions; all that befell them from the red Sea through the wilderness; and then Tzar is taken actively, he afflicted not; this may note his Clemency, their sting was taken out; either way it may be read according to the different spelling of lo, whether by Aleph, or Vau. The first seems the more genuin, they that list to drive this notion further, may consult the Latine Synopsis, and the English Annotations. y The same that conducted them through the wilderness, called an Angel, Exod. 33. 2. and his Presence, ver. 14. and Jehovah, Exo. 13. 21. so that it must be the Lord Jesus Christ, who appeared to Moses in the bush, as Stephen doth interpret it, Act. 7. 35, &c. Other Angels are in his presence, but they were not always, he was ever so, therefore so called by way of eminency, hence the LXX express it not a Legate, or Angel, but himself. z From the house of Bondage; brought them through the red Sea, the wilderness, &c. Their rock was Christ, 1 Cor. 10. 4. This shews the ground of his kindness, they were a flubborn, Superstitious, idolatrous People, yet Christ's Love, and pity saved them for all that; It was because he loved them. b He left them not to shift for themselves, but bare them as a Father his Child, or an Eagle her young ones; he carried them in the arms of his power, see Chap. 46. 4. and on the wings of his Providence; see Deut. 32, 10, 11, 12. and the Notes on Deut. 1. 31. And he is said to do it of old, To remember his ancient kindness for many Generations past; Olam signifies an Eternity, or a long time past, as well as to come, from the days of Abraham or Moses, from their Bondage in Egypt, to the time of Isaiah and it is used as an Argument to move him to do so still, he will carry her, till he bring her unto his Father.

Exodus 14. 11. Ps. 78. 40. Isa. 63. 9, 10. Eph. 4. 30.

10 But they rebelled, c and * vexed his holy spirit d; therefore he was turned to be their enemy, e and he fought against them.

c Many of their Rebellions we read of in Exodus and Numbers in their Travels. The Lord tells Moses, that they had tempted him ten times, and therefore severely threatens them, Numb. 14. 22, 23. There were three principal Times of their Rebellion; 1. In the Wilderness, where they murmured for want of Bread and Water. 2. In Canaan, in not destroying, but only making Tributary such Nations as God commanded them to destroy. 3. Before the Babylonian Captivity, when they set themselves against the Prophets, which Stephen chargeth upon them, Acts 7. 51, 52. Among which also we may reckon all their behaviours under their Judges, and their Kings: Or, we may understand it of their not answering their God's End and Expectation. d Spirit of his Holiness; they vexed him by their obstinacy against his will and mind, and walking contrary unto him; not that there are such Passions in God, but it is spoken after the manner of men, as they are vexed when their will is crossed. e overthrew them not only in the Wilderness, Psal. 78. 31, 33, 59, 60, &c. sending among them fiery Serpents, Numb. 21. 9. but even in Canaan, stirring up against them Adversaries, sometimes the Philistines, anon the Midianites, and then the Moabites, &c.

Heb. of eternity. Exodus 14. 30. Psa. 2. 6. Or, Shepherds, as Ps. 77. 20. Heb. 13. 20.

11 Then f he remembered g the days † of old, Moses and his people h, saying, Where is he that * brought them up out of the sea i, with the ‖ shepherd k of his flock? Where is he that * put his holy spirit l within him?

f Or yet. g This relates either, 1. To the People, and then He is collectively taken, and so it looks like the Language of the People in Babylon, and must be read, he shall remember. Or, 2. It may look back to their condition in the Wilderness, and thus they may properly say, Where is he? or that God that delivered his People of old, to do the like for us now? there is a like Phrase used by Elisha, 2 King. 2. 14. Or rather, 3. To God as it were recollecting himself in a pathetical Prosopopeia; q. d. Where is he? Where am I with my former bowels, that moved me to help them of old, that I would now turn to be their Enemy? Or, Is my hand shortned that I cannot do it? And so in the following verses he gives a particular description how kind he had been to them formerly, the times mentioned, v. 9. and thus God seems to work upon himself. h Or, what great things he had done for them by Moses. i Here God speaks of himself, as in the former clause, viz. that divided the Sea from them, being one of the greatest Miracles that ever God wrought for his People; it is therefore frequently mentioned by way of encouragement to them, when they are in sore troubles. k Or, Shepherds, viz. Moses, that brought out his People as a Shepherd doth his Flock; He and Aaron are both joyned, Psal. 77. 20. l i. e. Those Abilities and Gifts, wherewith God furnished Moses, as properly proceeding from the Spirit, he can do the like again, and qualifie Instruments for his work.

* Exodus 14. 21. Isa. 63. 12. 12 That led them by the right hand m of Moses, with his glorious arm n, * dividing the water o before them, to make himself an everlasting name p.

m viz. The Strength and Power that God gave to Moses, expressed by the Right hand, that being usually esteemed the stronger, Psal. 16. 8. & 20. 6. Or, the Rod in his Right hand; by which understand also all the wonders that he did for them in Egypt. n Or, that Arm, wherewith God gained to himself so much glory, being alway present at the Assistance of Moses, Deut. 4. 34. Or, Moses his Right Hand led by God's glorious Arm, as Parents lead their Children, that God may have all the glory in the using of his Instruments. o The Red Sea, Exod. 14. 21. and also Jordan, Josh. 3. 15, 16. p With reference both to his Power and Providence, as respecting either his Aim and End in doing what he did, or, the Effect of it when it was done, it got him Renown.

13 That led them through the deep, q as an horse in the wilderness y, that they should not stumble r.

q Shewing, that God did not dry up shallow places, but the very depth of the Sea, the very Channel, which is the deepest part. Or, between those heaps of waters, that stood up as a wall on each side of them, which might make it seem terrible, and therefore it is ascribed to their Faith, Heb. 11. 29. r Or, Plain, for so Wilderness is sometimes taken, and may be here meant, by comparing it to a Valley in the next verse, viz. with as much safety as the Horse runs up and down in the plain ground. Or, with as much ease and tenderness, as an Horse led by the Bridle; not as men affrighted, but soberly, and orderly. s This may be taken Metaphorically, they came to no harm; Or, Properly that, though the Sea were bai newly divided, yet it was so dried, that the mud, as also the unevenness of the ground, was not any occasion of their stumbling, or their sticking in it; probably so dried, and smoothed by the wind, that God sent as it were to prepare the way before them. See Chap. 40. 3, 4, 5.

14 As a beast goeth down into the valley s, the spirit of the LORD u caused him to rest x: so didst thou lead y thy people, to make thy self a glorious name.

t A laden beast goeth warily, and gently down the hill: or, as a Beast goeth down to the vally for Grass, that being a Mountainous Country; or, going down for going along, so the word is used, Isa. 38. 8. noting the evenness of their passage; or, alluding to their going down from the shore into that great Channel (as the coming out of it is called a going up, ver. 11.) now made through the Sea, orderly, and composedly, not like the Gadarен Swine through consternation, ready to break their necks for haste u i. e The Lord himself. x Led them easily, that they should not be over-travelled, or fall down, or come to any injury through weariness; thus Jeremiah expresseth it, chap. 31. 2. and thus God gave them rest from their enemies, drowning of them in the Sea, and in their safe conduct, that they could not annoy or disturb them, leading them till he found them a place for resting, the word for leading, and resting being much of a like notion, Zech. 10. 6. pointing at their several rests by the way, Num. 10. 33. or it may be read by way of Interrogation, as all the foregoing words, and be the close of that inquiry, and where is the Spirit, that caused them to rest? or he led them to Canaan the place of their rest, so called, Deu. 12. 9. and Psal. 95. 11. y the Prophet here by an Apostrophe doth only repeat the words in the name of the Jews, that he had spake before, ver. 1, 2. q. d. as thou didst then, so mayest thou do again if thou pleasest.

15 * Look down from heaven z, and behold from * Deut. 26. 15. the habitation of thy holiness a, and of thy glory? Where is thy zeal b, and thy strength c, ‖ the sounding * of thy bowels d and of thy mercies towards me? ‖ Or, the multitude. * Jer. 31. 20. are they restrained e?

z Now they, or the Prophet begin to pray, and expostulate with God, and to argue both from the goodness of his nature, and from the greatness of his works, that he had done. God sees everywhere, and every thing, but he is said to look down from Heaven, because there is his throne whereon he sits in great Majesty, and Splendor. Behold is added to note, that he would not only barely see, and look on, but that he would behold with regard, and respect his poor people in Captivity. a A description of heaven by a Periphrasis frequently used and explained, Deut. 26. 15. b What is become of that love, which of old would not let thee suffer thy people to be wronged, chap. 37. 32. c That power of thine manifested in those valiant Acts, which thou didst put forth for thy people, Psa. 145. 11, 12. and 150. 2. see Jer. 14. 9. d By the sounding thereof may be understood those Sympathizing sighs, and compassionate groans, that proceed from the bowels, when they are affected, which being thought the subject of pity are often by a Metonymy put for compassion, and hence proceed those rumblings of the bowels occasioned by strong passions called yernings; it is spoken of God after the manner of men? Is all this shut up from me? Thou art naturally so compassionate, doest thou lay restraint upon thy self, that thy bowels shall not move towards me? e Or canst thou be thus straitned? Psal. 77. 7, 8, 9. and chap. 64. 12. an expostulation, that agrees very well with the next verse, doubtless, &c. How can this come to pass?

16 Doubtless thou art our Father f, though Abraham g be ignorant of us, and Israel h acknowledge us not: thou, O LORD, art our Father, ‖ our Redeemer i thy name is from everlasting k. ‖ Or, our redeemer f Thus they urge God with that relation he stands in unto them, from Mal. 2. 10. therefore we as thy children expect the bowels, and compassions of a Father. g He who was our Father after the flesh, though he be dead, and so ignorant of our condition. h Or, Jacob, who was also our Father, and therefore a vain thing to call upon them; or if they were not dead, they could not help us out of our streights; or, if they were alive, we are so much degenerate, that they would not own us. Some say Abraham, and Israel are here mentioned, and not Isaac, 1. Because the Covenant was made more solemnly, and the promises more frequently renewed with them, then with Isaac.. 2. Because with Abraham the Covenant was first made, and the whole seed of Israel was taken into it, but not so of Isaac. Or else, 3. Abraham and Israel being named Isaac is included, i This is urged as another argument for pity, and the more because their Father was their Redeemer, Deut. 32. 6. k Or, Redeemer is thy name from Everlasting, thou hast been our Redeemer of old. thy name. Isaiah is l Commandments: it is the Language of the godly among them being troubled, and therefore complaining that so gracious a Father should leave them to such exigences: made us to sin by withdrawing thy Spirit, and leaving us to our selves, Psa. 81. 12. It is not to be understood, as if God did force them to it, but either letting loose their hearts, or by giving occasion to their hearts, being naturally too apt to Apostatize by their severe Afflictions; see this more cleared in the Latine Synopsis: or, make us desperate, by leaving us so long under the Oppression of the Adversary, thereby casting off thy Worship. m Or fear of thee, viz. as the object, Psal. 5. 7. or that we may not fear thee, as seeing, that they may not see, Psa. 69. 23. or thy service, chap. 29. 13. so as to go after other gods. n Either our godly Fore-fathers, or particularly to Abraham, Isaac, &c. viz. For the sake of thy promises made to them: or rather, our sakes, that little remnant that are thy Servants, be reconciled to us, Psa. 90. 13. for the next words seem to be put by apposition to the former. o Either, 1. The people themselves, which were divided into tribes; or rather. 2. The land of Canaan, which God gave them as an inheritance, as appears by the next verse. q. d. What will thine enemies say if thou suffer us to perish, or thine Inheritance to be destroyed; or rods, meaning their Rulers, see chap. 43. 28. or heads of their tribes.

18 ‖ The people of thy holiness p have possessed it but a little while q: * our adversaries have trodden down thy Sanctuary r. ‖ Or, they have possessed thy holy people for a while. * Ps. 74. 7.

p Or they holy people, as being set apart for his servants; holiness being to be understood for a Covenant-separation from other people.

ple. q i.e. 1. Comparatively to the promise which was for ever, though they had possessed it about 1400 years. Or, 2. It seeming to them so, as things, especially such as are desirable, seem when they are past, Job 9. 25, 26. and Psa. 90.4. or 3. they enjoyed but small spaces of time in quietness, so they had small enjoyment of it, or 4. It may respect the Temple which flood but 400 years. r The Temple called the Sanctuary from the holiness of it; this our Adversaries the Babylonians have trodden down, 1 Chro. 36. 19. and this also implies their ruining of their whole Ecclesiastical Policy.

19 We are thine s, thou never barest rule over them t; ‖ they were not called by thy name u.

s We continue so; we are in Covenant, which they never were; and thus it is an Argument they use with God to look upon them. Or, the word thine, being not in the Text, some do otherwise interpret it; we are even in the same condition we were in at first, either in Egypt, or Ur of the Caldees, before thou broughtest us into Covenant, and are accordingly dealt with; we are become even as they, whom thou didst not bear Rule over. Or, we are as if thou hadst never ruled over us of old. t Not in that manner, or in that relation to them, that thou didst over us. u Neither owned thee, nor owned by thee; this phrase implies a near relation in some Circumstance or other, as Wife, or Servant, or Child, &c. Chap. 4. 1.

CHAP. LXIV.

The Churches Prayer continued: for the illustration of God's Glory, 1,—5. with a confession of their Sins: and complaint of their Afflictions, 6,—12.

*Am. 9. 5. Micah 1.4.

O That thou would'st rent the heavens x, that thou wouldest come down, that * the mountains might flow down y at thy presence.

x Either the earnest desire of the Prophet, or the Jews strong wish for the coming of the Messias: Or rather, their cry to God for vengeance upon their Adversaries, on consideration of the Enemies unmerciful dealing with them, and their insolent and opprobrious usage of God in his Temple; partly expressing their hast and earnestness, and partly intimating, that God would do it with violence and fury, implied in the word Renting them, Psal. 18. 6, 7, &c. spoken after the manner of man, who, if he were shut up, must have room made for his coming forth: This God is said to do, when he puts forth some signal manifestation of his power, Ps. 144. 5. 2 Metaphor taken from men, that when they would resolutely and effectually help one in distress, break and fling open doors, and whatever may hinder coming to their relief. y Or, melt, Psa. 68. 1, 2. & 97. 5. Micah 1. 3, 4. that all impediments might be removed out of the way; possibly an allusion to God's coming down upon Mount Sinai, in those terrible flames of fire, Judg. 5. 4, 5.

2 As when † the melting fire burneth z, the fire causeth the waters to boil, to make thy name known a to thine adversaries, that the Nations b may tremble at thy presence.

z Come with such Zeal for thy People, that the solid Mountains may be no more before thy breath, than Metal that runs, or Water that boils by the force of a vehement fire; and thus, for the most part, when God will take vengeance of his Enemies, the Scripture expresseth him coming with fire. a Thy Power known, that thine Enemies, and Persecutors of thy Church may know thy power, and that thy Name may be dreaded among them; his Name put for his Power, Psal. 106. 8. b Not the Babylonians only, but the Nations round about.

*Exod. 34. 10. Judg. 5. 4, 5. Psal. 18. 8. Hab. 3. 3.

3 When * thou didst terrible things c which we looked not for d: thou camest down, the mountains flowed down e at thy presence.

c This may relate to what he did among the Egyptians, though it be not recorded, and afterward in the Wilderness. d viz. Our Forefathers, of whose Race we are: before we expected them; or such things as we could never expect. e q. d. Seeing thou hast made the Mountains thus to melt, thou canst do the same again: This may allude either, 1. To those showers of Rain that fell with that terrible Thunder and Lightning, and so ran violently down those Mountains, and the adjacent, as is usual in such Tempests: Or rather, 2. The running along of the fire upon the ground, Exod. 9. 23, 24. It is possible it may allude to those Mountains, that do cast forth sulphureous matter, running down into the Valleys and Sea, like melted streams of fire. And Kings, Princes, and Potentates, may also metaphorically be understood by these Mountains.

Ps. 31. 19. 1 Cor. 2. 9. ‖Or, seen a God besides thee, which doth [s] for him, &c.

4 For since the beginning of the world * men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye ‖ seen f, O God, besides thee, g what he hath prepared for him that waiteth h for him.

f Whereas there are but three ways, whereby men ordinarily come to the knowledge of a thing, viz. by the Ear, either our own hearing, or by hear-say; and by the Eye, and by Reason, which the Apostle adds, where he makes use of this Text, 1 Cor. 2. 9. two of them are mentioned here. g With reference either to the Gods that do them, never any other God could do like thee: Or, to things done, never any besides thee could do such things as were never seen, or heard of; he refers to those terrible things mentioned in the former verse. It seems to be clear by comparing this with Deut. 4. 31, 32, 33, 34, 35. Not to be restrained to these, but to be applied to all the wonderful works, that God at all times wrought for his People: And thus they are a Plea with God, that they might well expect such things from him now, that had done such wonderful things for their Fathers of old. h the Apostle hath it, that Love him, 1 Cor. 2. 9. To shew that none can wait on him, that Love him not; so all that Love him will wait on him. This may be taken with reference both to the state of Grace and Glory in Christ in the mysteries of the Gospel, as well as the good things of this present life, which the Prophet may here literally aim at, it being not unusual for the Prophets in mentioning these temporal things to point at spiritual, especially being things that do so well suit with each other.

5 Thou meetest i him that rejoyceth, and worketh righteousness k, * those that remember thee in thy ways l: behold, thou art wroth, for we have sinned m: in those is continuance n, and we shall be saved o.

i Or, wast wont to meet: Or, thou preventest him, ch. 65. 24. and Psal. 21. 2, 3. as the Father the Prodigal. k viz. That rejoyce to work Righteousness, the same thing expressed by two words, by a Figure called Hendiadis. l An amplification of the former words, q. d. To walk in thy ways, whether of Providence, Precept, or Counsel, by vertue of the Covenant they have with thee. m Or, greatly angry, for, or because we have sinned, and provoked thee to wrath thereby, 1 King. 8. 46. ni. e. to those that work Righteousness: in for to. o Viz. In so doing, in working Righteousness. Or as some by way of Interrogation; in those, i. e. In our sins is continuance, and shall we be saved? Or in those viz. Works of Righteousness, in keeping in them is our continuance, and means to be saved; or thou continuest to shew mercy, and or therefore we shall be saved. The meaning of the place is to comfort the godly, that though they may have provoked God by their sins, yet looking upon the ways of God's former proceedings (in which he still continues, being unchangeable) they may find hopes of Salvation, and this is that which is amplified in the three following verses.

6 But we are all as an unclean thing p, and all our righteousnesses q are as filthy raggs r, and we all do * fade as a leaf s, and our iniquities, as the * wind, have taken us away t.

p He alludes, either to things unclean under the Ceremonial Law, wherein the Leprosy was found, and was to be burnt, Lev. 13. 55. or rather to Persons unclean. They compare their present state with the former. q. d. Formerly there were some that feared thee, and walked uprightly before thee, and were in thy favour; but now we are all as one polluted mass, nothing of good left in us by reason of an universal degeneracy, Isa. 1. 4, 6. q this according to the most Commentators, refers either to the observances of the rites, and Ceremonies of the Law, wherein they thought their Righteousnesses did much consist; or to the best work, and actions that can be performed by us; or to our natural, universal depravities: but the best Interpreters, and such as aim at the peculiar sense of the place, refer it to the gross provocations that this people were guilty of, causing God to cast them out of their habitations; or else, to their Persons. i.e. the most righteous among us, and being plural, it raiseth it up to the highest degree, the Scripture frequently putting the Abstract for the Concrete, as wisdoms for the greatest wisdom, Prov. 9. 1. and many the like instances formerly given, so that the meaning is, the very best of us all are no better than the uncleanest things or Persons, see Micah. 7. 2, 3, 4. and the rather because he lived about the time of Isaiah. r A cloath made up of patches, or such as come from a putrid sore, or are defiled with the menstruous blood of a woman, the LXX. as a rag of one that sits down, possibly alluding to Rachel, Gen. 31. 34, 35. or whatever may be most filthy. s Blown off the tree, and so withers. t Carried us away to Babylon from our habitations, as leaves hurried away by a Boisterous Wind; our iniquities have been the procuring cause.

7 And * there is none u that calleth x upon thy name, that stirreth up himself to take hold of thee y: for z, thou hast hid thy face from us, and hast † consumed us a, because of our iniquities b.

u Or yet, there is none. i. e. Few, Ps. 14. 3. they are not to be discerned among the multitude. x Such as call upon thee as they ought, as Jacob, and Moses, and David, &c. did, which often prevents the ruine of a State, or kingdom: it points out the universal Apostacy of the last times of the Jewish State, for which they were cut off. y Either to stay thee from departing from us, see Luk. 24. 28, 29. or to fetch thee back, when departed, Jer. 12. 7. or it is an Allegorical allusion to one struck down and still smitten, but never stirs to lay hold on the arm, that smites him, ch. 27. 5. it notes their great sloathfulness, and carelessness, and some refer it to their lukewarmness, and dead heartedness, relying upon their privileges before they went into Captivity, and so a great presage of their approaching Judgments. z Or when; so the particle is used, Job 5. 21. Ps. 75. 2. a Or melted; our sins have kindled such a fire of thy wrath, that we are melted with it. b Heb. in the hands of our iniquities. i. e. Either, in the place of our iniquities, the land wherein they were Committed; or, into the hands of our iniquities to be punished by them, and as it were consumed, or melted down, or our strength exhausted by them, as wax before the fire, Lev. 26. 39. Ezek. 33. 10. or, as we translate it, our iniquities being the procuring cause of it.

*Ch. 29. 16. & 45. 9. Jer 18. 6. *Rom. 9. 20, 21.

c An argument, or pathetical plea for pity; or notwithstanding all this thou art our Father both by Creation, and by Adoption, therefore pity us thy Children. d A Metonymy of the matter, clay for the vessels made of clay: Or, we are clay, pointing at our Original matter: Or, it may relate to their state, that God framed them into a Body Civil and Ecclesiastical out of a confused multitude; they plead at the same time their own frailty, why they would be pitied, and God's Covenant interest in them, why he should pity them. e Another argument of the same nature with the former, Psal. 138. 8. not only as men, but as a Body of men made thy peculiar People.

9 Be not * wroth very sore, O LORD, neither remember iniquity for ever f: behold, see, we beseech thee, we are all thy people g.

f viz. Thou hast been angry with us a long time, be not so for ever, but deal with us, as may best consist with a father's bowels: It hath reference both to Quantity and Time, that it might not be very great, nor of long durance. See on Psal. 79. 8. g Thy peculiar People, Chap. 63. 19. Another argument to back the former Petition, Psal. 28. 9. Though we are very bad in our selves, and very badly handled by our Enemies, thou sufferest in our sufferings, for thou hast no people in Covenant but us, and wilt thou not leave thy self a People in the world?

10 Thy holy cities h are a wilderness, Zion is a wilderness, Jerusalem is a desolation i.

h Either Sion, and Jerusalem, being the Cities they instance in, q. d. Thy holy Cities, viz. Sion, and Jerusalem: Or rather, other Cities also in the Land of Judea, besides those two, called Holy, Either, 1. Because they were built upon God's Inheritance, Chap. 63. 17. Or, 2. Because they were inhabited by the Jews, who were an holy People, Deut. 7. 6. Dan. 12. 7. Or, 3. Because God had his Synagogues in them, Psal. 74. 8. For all which reasons also they are called Thy Cities. i Utterly wast, not only the ordinary Cities, but even Jerusalem, and Sion themselves, the one called the upper Jerusalem, or, the City of David, because it was built upon Mount Sion; the other the lower City, because it lay under the Hill of Sion in the Valley; he particularizeth Sion and Jerusalem, though he had mentioned the other Cities before, because the chiefest of the Cities, it being usual notwithstanding the mentioning of generals, in which all the particulars, or individuals, are included, to name the particular again; as, and from the hand of Saul, Psal. 18. title.

11 Our holy and our beautiful house k, where our fathers l praised thee, is burnt up with fire: and all our pleasant things are m laid waste.

k The Temple, Chap. 60. 7. q. d. Not only our Cities, and our Principal Cities, but even our Temple, which we thought sacred, and inviolable, in which we have gloried, because it was Thine, and our Father's, and Ours, the place where thy holy service was performed, and thy Glory and Presence was manifested. l Not performed, and thy Glory and Presence was manifested. l Not performed, and thy Glory and Presence was manifested. l Not performed, as forming to mention themselves, they had been so every way abominable, but their Fathers. m The King's Palace, and the houses of the Nobles, and other pieces of State and Magnificence, 2 King. 25. 9. Lam. 1. 7, 10. Or, their Synagogues: Or, those stately pieces about the Temple.

12 Wilt thou refrain thy self for these things n, O LORD? Wilt thou hold thy peace o, and afflict us very sore p?

n viz. That are done by the Babylonians; do none of these things move thee to take vengeance on them? o Wilt thou be as one that regards not? Wilt thou be still, and suffer them? p See verse 9. For these our sins, or for these our sufferings; shall we feel the smart of it, that have done no such things, but have been sufferers under the Babylonians? to which God answers in the next Chapter.

CHAP. LXV.

The calling of the Gentiles, 1. the Jews for their Incredulity, Idolatry, and Hypocrisie, rejected, 1,—7. a Remnant shall be saved, 8,—10. judgments on the Wicked and blessings on the Godly, 11,—16. the flourishing and peaceable state of the New Jerusalem, 17,—26.

I † am sought a of them that asked not for me b: I am found c of them that sought me not: I said, Behold me, behold me, unto a nation d that was not called by my name.

That in the primary sense of this Text, it is a Prophecy of the Conversion of the Gentiles, upon the rejection of the Jews, for their contempt and crucifying of Christ, cannot be doubted by any, who will not arrogate to themselves a greater ability to interpret the Prophesies of the Old Testament, than Paul had, who, Rom. 10. 20. expressly so interpreteth it, and applieth it, which sheweth the vanity of the Jews in their other interpretations of it.

a The word signifies properly a diligent enquiry in things relating to God, 2 Cor. 14. 4. Psal. 34. 4. Jer. 37. 7. I am diligently enquired of by them. b That in times before made no enquiry after me; (as the Gentiles, who are said to be without God in the World, Eph. 2. 12.) As seeking may more strictly relate to Prayer, as the word is used, Isa. 55. 6. so this word translated asked, may also be so taken, and is so 1 Sam. 1. 20. † Sam. 22. 13. but (possibly) it is better interpreted more generally. c Yea, I was found of them before they sought me, those who formerly did not seek me, now seek me, but they were found of me before they sought me, I prevented them by my Grace, sending my Son to preach peace to those that were afar off, Eph. 2. 17. and my Apostles to intreat them to be reconciled to God, 2 Cor. 5. 20. and my Spirit to convince the world of Sin, Righteousness, and Judgment, Joh. 16. 8. d I invited whole Nations by the preaching of my Gospel to behold me, and I invited them with importunity, doubling my words upon them, and this I did unto a Nation not called by my name, with whom I was not in Covenant, and which did not profess any relation to me, which none of the Gentiles could pretend unto. The Prophet speaks of a thing to come many years after, as if it were a thing then done, to signifie the certainty of it. God doth the same thing yet in every soul that is converted. But the Text is manifestly to be interpreted of the conversion of the Gentiles.

2 I have spread out my hands e all the day long to a rebellious people f, which walketh in a way that was not good after their own thoughts h:

e Applied to the Jews, Rom. 10. 21. I have stretched out my hands, that is, I have used all probable means to reduce them, I have stretched out the hands of a paffionate Orator to perswade, of a tender Mother to protest and defend them, of a liberal Benefactor to load them with my Benefits; this I have done continually in the whole course of my Providence with them, yet f They are a rebellious people; Paul expoundeth it by ἀπειθοῦντα καὶ ἀντιλέγοντα, a People not perswaded, not believing, but contradicting the will of God. g That walketh in a way that is not good, that term, is not good, often signifies what is very bad, see 1 Sam. 2. 24. Prov. 28. 21. & 24. 23. Psal. 36. 5. Though all sins be not equal, yet what is not good is bad. h After their own thoughts. What is here called after their own thoughts, is elsewhere called a walking after the imaginations of their hearts, an ordinary Phrase, by which sin (especially sins in the matter of the Worship of God) are expressed. Eight times in the Prophet Jeremiah sinning is thus expressed, Jer. 3. 17. & 7. 24. & 9. 14. & 11. 8. & 13. 10. & 16. 12. & 18. 12. & 23. 17. so also Deut. 29. 19. Errours in matter of Worship are ordinarily thus expressed, certainly to let us know, that all Worship must be according to Gods revealed Will, and of such errours this Text seemeth by what followeth, to speak, though indeed, the reason of all sin is mens fondness of their own imaginations in opposition to Gods revealed Will, whence it is that self-denial is made the Law of a Disciple-ship to Christ.

3 A people that provoketh me to anger i continually to my face k, that sacrificeth in gardens, and burneth incense ‖ upon altars of brick l.

i That the Jews are the People here intended is without question; the Prophet speaking of the calling of the Gentiles upon their rejection, reckons up their sins, which were the causes. For though their rejection and crucifying of Christ, was that sin which was the proximate cause, yet God did but visit on that Generation their Iniquities, and the iniquities of their fathers together, they having by that act filled up their measure. They had provoked God continually to anger to his face. k Either in his Temple, the place where he used to manifest himself: or (considering what followeth) more probably the Phrase signifieth their impudence, not taking notice of Gods Omnipresence, and Omnisicience. l The particular provocations instanced in, are deviations in the matter of divine Worship. Sacrificing in gardens is one thing instanced in, and burning incense on brick, or altars of brick, is another, Deut. 12. 13. there was a particular Altar of Gold appointed for Incense, Exod. 40. 5. God commanded, Exod. 20. 24, 25. that his Altars should be made of Earth, or rough stone. This people transgressed both these Laws, sacrificing in gardens, for which the Prophet reflected on them, ch. 1. 29. and again, ch. 66. 17. whether in gardens consecrated to Idols, or in such Gardens as the Heathens worshipped Idols in, is not much material for us to know, and burning Incense upon altars of brick, directly contrary to the divine Rule. Their Worship was doubtless Idolatrous, and these Phrases signific committing Idolatry, but the expressing that sin by these Phrases lets us know that the doing contrary to the direction of the Divine Rule in Gods Worship is a great part of the sinfulness of Idolatry.

4 Which remain amongst the graves m, and lodge in the monuments n, which eat swines flesh o, and ‖ broth of abominable things p is in their vessels.

They remained amongst the Graves, either there expecting Revelations by dreams, or there consulting with Devils, who were thought to delight in such places, or to practise Necromancy, all which were forbidden, Deut. 18. 11. ch. 8. 19. n And they lodged in the Monuments, the Hebrew word here used gives advantage to Interpreters to vary in their senses. The word signifies only places kept, or observed, some Interpret it of Idol Temples, some of Caves and Denns, in which the Heathens used to worship their Idols, some of Tombs or Monuments for dead persons; besides the Idolatry of the thing, there was in it a sinful imitation of the Heathens, and a swerving from the Rule which God had given them. o They also ate Swines flesh, contrary to the divine Law, Lev. 11. 7. Deut. 14. 8. and they indured in their vessels p Broth of abominable things, so the word is used, Jud. 6. 19, 20. others read it parts or pieces of abominable things, that is, broth, or pieces of such flesh as was to the Jews unclean by the Law, Levit. 11. Every Creature of God is good, but Gods Prohibition had made the flesh of divers Creatures an abominable thing to the Jews, they might not touch their flesh, Lev. 11. 28. but they taking the measures of their duty from their Appetite, or from their Reason, concluding from natural Principles, made no Conscience of the positive Law of God. This was their iniquity which is further aggravated in the next verse.

5 Which say, Stand by thy self, come not near to

to me, for I am holier than thou q: These are a ‖ Or, anger. smoak in ‖ my nose r, a fire that burneth all the day.

q Though they were so exceedingly guilty, yet they pretended to a singular Sanctity, so as they would not suffer others to come near, or touch them. The Samaritans are usually charged with this uncharitableness, and the use of this form of Words; but as some do more excuse the Samaritans than the other Jews as to this rigour, so it may be questioned whether they were not at this time carried into Captivity: and certain it is, that amongst the Jews there was such a generation from whom the Pharisees in our Saviours time were derived, and this was the reason of their not eating, except they washed, when they came from the Market, Mark 7.4. left peradventure they should there have touched some Heathen, or some person who was legally unclean. r Thus they esteemed themselves holier than others, though all their holiness lay in these rituals, and those too such as God never commanded. And indeed those who most exceed in such ritual Holiness (lying meerly in a separation from others, by the usage of some unwritten traditions) come most short in moral and true Holiness: For of these God saith, These are a smoak in my nostrils, a fire that burneth all the day; that is, a continual provocation to me: as smoak is an offence to our Noses, Prov. 10. 26. which seemeth to be the sense rather than what some make, who make it a threatning of Gods wrath smoaking against them, which is sufficiently expressed in the following verses.

6 Behold, it is written for me s, I will not keep silence t; but will recompense even recompense into their bosom u; s They may think that I take no notice of these things, or if I take any notice, I will forget them, or at least not enter into judgment with them for them; but I as certainly know and will remember them, as Princes or great men that record things in writing which they would not forget. And they shall know that I know, and take notice of, and will remember them; for t I will not long neglect the punishment of them, though for a while I have delayed it like a man who bites in his wrath, for some wise reasons which are know unto himself best. Psal. 50. 21. u My punishment of them shall be severe, and certain, but yet it shall be just, but a giving them what is their own, as they are obnoxious to my Justice, Jer. 32. 18. Deut. 7. 10. like the payment of an Ox for an Ox, Exod. 21. 36. (where the same word is used) they have been froward against me, and I will shew my self froward against them, Psal. 18. 26.

7 Your iniquities, and the iniquities of your fathers together x (saith the Lord) which have burnt incense upon the mountains y, and blasphemed me upon the hills z: therefore will I measure their former work into their bosom a.

x Yea, and when I reckon with them, I will punish them, not only for their personal sins, but for the sins of their Parents, which they have testified their approbation of, by continuing in them, and so made them their own, by an apish sinful imitation. y Their Fathers burnt Incense upon the mountains, there performing to Idols that homage which I obliged them to pay unto me, or if any of them pretend it was to me, though before an Image, yet it was in a way which I directed them not, who had appointed them the place where I would be worshipped. z So as that instead of blessing, they indeed blasphemed me upon the hills, instead of speaking well they spake ill of my name, worshipping me in a way which I had not appointed, and for which they only took their copy from Idolaters. a Therefore I will punish them, and that justly, as he that rendreth another his due by measure, giving measure for measure, and weight for weight, only they must expect that I should not only punish the late sins that they have committed of this nature, but the former sins of this kind which those in this nation, that went before this present Generation, did commit, and the present age hath continued in the guilt of.

b These words must be conceived as a gracious answer from God to the Prophet, saying as Abraham, Gen. 18. 23, 25. or as Moses, Ex. 32. 11, 12, 13. pleading Gods covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Israel. To this God replieth, that he intended no such severity, the unfaithfulness of men should not make his promise of no effect, Rom. 3. 3. His threatning should be made good upon the generality of this people, whose Vine was of Sodom, and of the fields of Gomorrhah, Deut. 32. 32. c But yet, as in a Vineyard, which is generally unfruitful, there may be some particular Vine that brings forth fruit, or as in a Vine which is full of luxuriant branches that bring forth no fruit, there may be here and there a branch, that bringeth forth fruit, and hath the hopes of new wine in the cluster, and as to such, the Gardiner bids his Servant destroy it not, or them not; for they are fruitful, there is in them what speaketh Gods blessing, or what may be of use, and do us good. So (saith God) will I do for my Servants sake, that I may not destroy them all, either for the sake of my Servants, Abrahams, Isaac, and Jacob, with whom I anciently made a Covenant, or for my Servant Davids sake, or for the sake of such as are my Elect, at this time amongst them, see Jer. 30. 11. Amos. 9. 1.

9 And I will bring a seed out of Jacob e, and out of Judah f, an inheritor of my mountains g: and mine elect h shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there.

e No seed beareth a proportion to the tree, or plant that it produceth, but in comparison with that is very little, yet it is enough through the vertue which the God of nature hath put into it, to preserve and uphold the species to which it doth relate. They are but a remnant (saith God) that shall be saved, see Rom. 11. 5. but a small number that shall come out of the Captivity of Babylon, or (which I rather chuse) they will be but a few that shall believe in my Son, yet they shall be enough for my promise to live in; this, Paul argueth, Rom. 11. as the plant yet lives in the seed, when the root is pluckt up, the leaves drop off, and the Stalk is burnt up, so the promise of God lives in a few, when the generality of a people for their sins are cast off and destroyed. The favour of God to men, and the promise of God to good men, lived in one family of Lot, when the five Cities were burned, and in the one family of Noah, when the world was drowned; the favour and promise of God to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and David, lived in the few that returned out of Babylon, and in those few who under the Gospel received Christ, and believed in him, though the generality of them rejected the counsel of God against themselves. f God further promiseth to bring out of Judah an inheritor of his Mountains, which the most, and best interpreters do interpret of the Jews return out of the Captivity of Babylon to Hierusalem, and into their own Country, and particularly to worship God in his Temple, upon Mount Sion g the Country of Judea was a Mountainous Country, Ezek. 36. 1, 8. The Mountains were round about Hierusalem, Psal. 125. 2. See also Ezek. 38. 8. God calls these Mountains his Mountains, because he had chosen that Country before all others, and was once truly worshipped there. h Mine Elect signifieth here Gods chosen Ones, as in Psal. 106. 23. ch. 48. 10. The term doth not always signify such as belong to the Election of Grace, but such as are dignified with some special favour. The whole Nation of the Jews are called a chosen people. But possibly this promise is to be interpreted, with relation to the sincerer part of that people, after that the others should be wasted by the Captivity.

10 And Sharon shall be a fold of flocks i, and the * Valley of Achor k a place for the herds to lie down * *Hos.*2.15. in, for my people that have sought me l.

i Sharon was a place of great fruitfulness for pastures. David; herds were kept there, 1 Chron. 27. 29. It was become like a wilderness, Isaiah 33. 9. God here promiseth that it should again be a place for the flocks, So Jer. 31. 27. God promised to sow again the house of Judah, with the seed of man, and with the seed of beast. k The Valley of Achor had its name from the stoning of Achan there, Josh. 7. 26. It is thought to have been the first place the Jews set foot in when they had passed Jordan; hence Hos. 2. 14. God promised to make it a door of hope, and here the text saith, the flocks should lie down. l But left the wicked idolatrous Jews should apply this promise to themselves, God limiteth it in the last words to the people that had sought him, that is, that had truly worshipped him, according to his own institution, and that the words have the force of such a limitation, appeareth from what followeth.

11 But ye are they that forsake the Lord m, that forget my holy mountain n, that prepare a table for that ‖ troop o, and that furnish p the drink offerings unto their ‖ number q.

m Do not you that are Idolaters, think that these promises belong to you, ye are they that forsake the Lord, that is, the way of the Lord; it is a phrase opposed to a walking with God. Our walking with God is in the way of his Statutes; forsaking of him, signifieth a declining, or turning aside from that way. n To forget Gods holy mountain, signifies not to regard the true worship of God, or not to mind it. God calleth Zion his holy Mountain, Joel 3. 17. and Jerusalem is called Gods holy Mountain. The hill of Zion is called the Mountain of Gods holiness, Psal. 48. 1. as the Temple is called the beauty of holiness, Psal. 29. 2. Psal 96. 9. their not regarding the worship of God there, but worshiping God or Idols in Gardens, amongst the graves and monuments, is what is here called, a forgetting his holy Mountain. Isaiah prophecied in the time of Ahaz, ch. 1. 1. of whom it is said, 2 Chron. 28. 23, 24. that he sacrificed to the Gods of Damascus, that he cut in pieces the vessels of the Lords house, shut up the doors of the house of the Lord, and made him altars in every corner of Hierusalem, and in every several City of Judah he made high places to burn incense to other Gods. See also more of his practices. v. 2, 3, 4. of that chap. and 2 Kings 16. 3, 10, 11, 12. and there were certainly many of his people that joined with him, in his worship, who are all here said to forget Gods holy Mountain, o And to prepare a table for that troop: The Idols of the ten Tribes, 2 Kings 16. 3. and of the Assyrians, 2 Chron. 28. 23. which were a troop, whereas the God of Israel was one God. And as God had altars, which are sometimes called a table, as in Ezek. 41. 22. So they prepared altars for the Idols; as may be read in the aforementioned story of Ahaz: though by preparing a table, here seems rather to be meant the feasts they made upon their sacrifices in their festival days, which was in imitation of what the true God had commanded his people, Deut. 16. 14, 15. Idolaters also made in honour to their Idols, as appears from Jud. 9. 27. Ezek. 18. 6, 11. Amos 2. 8. 1 Cor. 8. 10. p Nor did they only feast in honour to the Idols, but they furnished their offerings unto their Number. God had appointed Drink offerings for his honour, and as a piece of homage to him, Exod. 29. 40, 41. Levit. 23. 18, 37. these people had paid this homage to Idols. See Jer. 7. 18. & 19. 13. & 32. 29. q What we translate Number in the Heb. is La Meni to Meni. Avenarius translates it Mercury, an Idol whom Merchants worshipped for good success in trading; others understand it of the Host of Heaven; others of the multitude of their idols; our translation reads it their number. The word coming from an Heb. root, which signifieth to number, is no where else found in Scripture, which makes it hard to positively to assert the true meaning of it.

12 Therefore will I number you to the sword r, and and you shall all bow down to the slaughter s, because * when I called t you did not answer, when I spake, you did not hear, but did evil before mine eyes, and did chuse u that wherein I delighted not.

r You have offended in number, worshiping a multitude, a troop of Idols, there shall be a great number of you perish by the sword; or possibly the term number may refer to all in the next phrase, to let them know that none of them should escape. God saith he will number them, tell them out one by one to the Sword. s As you have bowed down to Idols, Isa. 44. 17. (which are mine Enemies) I will make you bow down to your Enemies Swords. t I called you by my Prophets, Zech. 7. 7, 11, 12. you did not answer by doing the things which I by them spake to you for, but not considering that I saw you, or if considering it, yet not regarding it, you impudently did evil; yea, u You sinned deliberately, chusing sinful courses, the things which I hated, which are here (as often) expressed by a Meiosis, and calling the things in which God delighteth not. In matters of Worship we ought to chuse nothing wherein God delighteth not, and reason, as well as Scripture will assure us, he can delight in nothing of that nature which himself hath not directed. It is observable that ruin is here threatned to this People, not for their immoralities, or lewd lives, but for their errors, and superstitions in Divine Worship. Other sins provoke God to wrath, but those of this nature alone, are enough to ruin Souls and Nations.

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold my servants shall eat, but you shall be hungry x: Behold my servants shall drink, but you shall be thirsty: Behold my servants shall rejoyce, but ye shall be ashamed:

x As there are a party amongst you, who instead of serving God, are the Servants of men, in complying with Idolatry, and superstition; so I have some Servants amongst you who have distinguished themselves by keeping close to my Institutions from the rest of you, I will distinguish them from you in the dispensations of my Providence; those that have eat bread at their Idol Feasts, shall be hungry, my people that would not do so, they shall have enough; those who have furnished a drink-offering to Meni, or that number of Idols, shall want that drink, by which they have so prophaned my name, but my Servants, from whose mouths you pull'd the drink, because they would only furnish a drink-offering to me, they shall drink. My Servants whom now you make to mourn, and upon whom you pour shame, and contempt, shall rejoyce, and you shall be ashamed; you that now rejoyce, and shout, while my Servants that cannot comply with you are afflicted, and by you made to mourn, you shall cry for sorrow, and houl through vexation, while my Servants who keep close to my institutions shall sing for joy of heart. Those who in an hour of Persecution for Religion, can have patience under the Enemies Triumphs and Rage, will find that the Rod of the wicked shall not always rest upon the lot of the righteous.

14 Behold my servants shall sing for joy of heart, but ye shall cry for sorrow of heart, and shall houl for ‖ vexation of Spirit.

15 And ye shall leave your name for a curse unto my chosen y; for the Lord God shall slay thee z, and * call his servants by another name.

* Isa. 62.

y Your name shall rot, as Prov. 10. 7. or only be used when men would curse others, saying, let them be made like such persons. As the names of Leah and Rachel, Ruth 4. 11. and others of God's Servants were used in blessing: so your names shall only be used in cursing, or when men will curse themselves, they shall use your names as examples of the eminent wrath of God upon sinners. z For you shall not perish by an ordinary hand, but by the hand of the Lord God, and as is the God, so is his justice, so is his strength, yea God himself shall look upon your name as accursed, and not suffer his people to be called by it, they shall not be called Jews, but Christians, Acts 11. 26. The Children of God, John 1. 12. So detestable a sin is Idolatry, that God will not suffer himself to be called by a name given to Idols, how proper soever it be to express his perfection, Hos. 2. 16, 17. Nor yet suffer his own people to be called by a name by which Idolaters are known.

16 That he who blesseth himself in the Earth, shall bless himself in the God of truth a, and * he that sweareth in the Earth, shall swear by the God of truth b, because the former troubles are forgotten, and because they are hid from mine eyes c.

Deut. 33. Psal. 63. 11. Isa. 19. 18. Jer. 4. 2. Zech. 1. 5.

a I will bring it to pass, that over all the world, if any man bless himself, or bless another it shall be in God, Amen. So the Heb. (we translate it the God of truth) Amen is a name given to Christ, Rev. 3. 14. These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true witness, being here applied to God, many think it makes a great proof of the God-head of Christ, and judge the sense of this text to be: That under the times of the Gospel men should not bless themselves (as before) in the names of Abraham, & Isaac, & Jacob, but in the name of Christ, in the God Amen, nor is this an improbable sense. Others taking it more appellatively by Elohim, Amen, here understand that God who shews himself true and faithful in his promises. b In like manner it is prophesied, that those that swear (by which some understand worship God, others calling God to be a witness) should swear by the God of truth; or in the God of truth. Either worshipping God in Christ the Amen, or calling the faithful God to attest their sincerity, or swearing by that God who hath approved his truth and faithfulness by saving and delivering his people. c because they shall see what God promised is fulfilled, the troubles of his people are at an end, and they are hid from God's Eyes, that is, they are at an end.

17 For behold c, I create * new heavens, and a new earth d, and the former shall not be remembred nor † come into mind e.

* Ch. 66. 22. 2 Pet. 3. 13. Rev. 21. 1. † Heb. upon thy heart.

c I will tell you yet a more admirable thing, I am about wholly to alter and change the state not only of my people, who are now afflicted, restoring them to a more lightsome state, more free from trouble and afflictions, but d bringing a new face upon the world, shall come sending my Son to raise up a new Church, and to institute a new worship, John. 4. 21, 24. and giving out my Spirit in a more plentiful manner, Acts 2. 17. which new state shall abide until a new Heavens and Earth appear, in which shall dwell nothing but righteousness, 2 Pet. 3. 13. Rev. 21. 1. and e That state of things shall be such, and so glorious, as the former state of my People shall not be remembred, nor come into mind: whether this new Heavens and new Earth here promised, signifies such a state of the Church, wherein Christ shall personally reign upon Earth, over his Saints, the wicked being destroyed (as some have thought he shall for a thousand years) I very much doubt, and do not see how from this, and the parallel texts any such thing can be concluded.

18 But be you glad, and rejoyce for ever f, in that which I create, for behold I create Hierusalem g, a rejoycing, and her people a joy.

f You that are my people, though you cannot rejoyce with that degree of joy, that attendeth a present fruition of good, yet be glad, and rejoyce with the rejoycing of hope, for the thing is certain, what I am already doing, nor let your present state, or the discouragements you have from seeming improbabilities, spoil your joy, for it is not a work to be produced in an ordinary course, or by an ordinary power, but by the power of me who brings something out of nothing, or out of what hath no fittednes's to such a production, and I will create g Hierusalem a rejoycing, and her people a joy; by Hierusalem, here must be meant the Church, as well under the Gospel, as under the law, (because the Gospel Church is grafted into that Olive) or else this prophecy, must be understood as fulfilled in the coming of Christ, Luke 2. 10. Or else it referreth to a more full calling of the Jews, than we have yet seen or heard of.

19 And * I will rejoyce in Hierusalem, and joy in my people i, and the * voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying k.

* Ch. 62. 5. * Ch. 35. 10. Rev. 7. 17. & 21.

i The nature of joy lying in the satisfaction, and well pleasednes's of the Soul in the obtaining of the thing it hath willed; agreeth unto God, and joy and rejoycing are applied to him, ch. 62. 5. and in this text, so also, Jer. 32. 41. Zeph. 3. 17. k Such kind of promises are to be found, ch. 35. 10. & 51. 11. Jer. 31. 12. Rev. 21. 4. which must be understood either comparatively, they shall indure no such misery as formerly; or (if interpreted to a state in this life) as signifying only some long, or eminent state of happiness; if as to another life they may be taken strictly, as signifying perpetuity, and perfection of joy and happiness.

20 There shall be no more thence, an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days l: for the child shall die an hundred years old, but the sinner being an hundred years old shall be accursed m.

l Whereas God hath made many promises of long life to the Jews, they should all be fulfilled to Gods people among them, so as there should be rare abortions among them, Exod. 23. 26. few infants should be carried out to burial, nor but few that should not have filled up their years; those that were now Children, should die at a great age; m yet none of these things should be of any advantage to wicked men, but if any of them should live to be an hundred years old, yet they should die accursed. This seemeth to be the plain sense. If any desires to read more opinions of these words, he may find enough in the English Annotations.

21 And * they shall build houses and inhabit them, And they shall plant Vineyards, and eat of the fruit of them n.

* Amos 9. 14.

n The quite contrary to what is said of the slothful man, and Job 27. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17. Prov. 12. 27.

22 They shall not build, and another inhabit, they shall not plant, and another eat, for * as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and mine elect † shall long enjoy the work of their hands o.

* Psalm. 92. 12. † Shall make them continue long, or shall wear out.

o Duration, and perpetuity are promised to them, in their happy estate.

23 They shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth for trouble, for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their off-spring with them p.

p And not only, a blessing to them, but also to their Off-springs. But, what is here promised which wicked men do not oft-times enjoy, and Gods People oft-times want? Answ. 1. Wicked men may have them for their good Parents sake, and good men may sometimes want them for evil Parents sake. 2. Bad men may have some of these things, but they cannot expect them: good men may at present want them, but they may expect them from the hand of God, if they be good for them. 3. Bad men may have them in wrath, the blessing of God gives them to good men and adds no sorrow therewith.

24 And it shall come to pass that before they call, I will answer q, and whiles they are yet speaking r I will hear.

q God promised, ch. 58. 9. to answer them, when they called: here he promiseth to be so ready to answer, as to answer the words afoon as they should be formed in their hearts before they should get them out of their lips, Psal. 32. 5. Dan. 10. 12. r Yea while they were speaking, Dan. 9. 20, 23. Acts 10. 44. nor doth God say only, they shall have the things they would have (for so wicked men may sometimes have from the bountiful hand of Divine Providence) but they shall have them, as an answer or return unto their prayers.

*Ch. 11. 6, 9. 25 ¶ The * wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock s, and dust shall be the serpents meat t, they shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain u, saith the Lord.

s This verse containeth a promise much like that, ch. 11. 6, 9. And relates to the ceasing of persecution. The People of God for their whiteness, and innocency, are often compared to Lambs, and their whiteness, and innocency, are often compared to Lambs, and their whiteness, and innocency, are often compared to Lambs, and

q God promised, ch. 58. 9. to answer them, when they called: here he promiseth to be so ready to answer, as to answer the words afoon as they should be formed in their hearts before they should get them out of their lips, Psal. 32. 5. Dan. 10. 12. r Yea while they were speaking, Dan. 9. 20, 23. Acts 10. 44. nor doth God fay only, they shall have the things they would have (for so wicked men may fometimes have from the bountiful hand of Divine Providence) but they shall have them, as an answer or return unto their prayers.

*Ch. 11. 6, 9. 25 The * wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat ſtraw like the bullock s, and duſt ſhall be the ſerpents meat t, they ſhall not hurt nor deſtroy in all my holy mountain u, ſaith the Lord.

s This verſe containeth a promiſe much like that, ch. 11. 6, 9. And relates to the ceaſing of perſecution. The People of God for their whiteneſs, and innocency, are often compared to Lambs, and Sheep, wicked men to Wolves and Lions, for their antipathy to the ſeed of the Woman; God here promiſeth to take off the fierceneſs of the Spirits of his Peoples Enemies, ſo that they ſhall live quietly and peaceably together. t Wicked men are compared to Serpents, Micah 7. 17. compared with Pſal. 72. 9. God promiſeth a time of tranquility to his Church under the Metaphor of Serpents eating the duſt, their proper meat, Gen. 3. 14. inſtead of flying upon men: it ſignifies ſuch a time, when wicked men ſhould mind their proper buſineſs, and not make it their work to eatup the people of God like bread. u For the laſt phraſe, ſee ch. 11. 9. what is there noted. But will ſome ſay, When ſhall theſe things be? The Scripture gives us no record of any ſuch period of time yet paſt. And it is very probable that this is a promiſe yet to be fulfilled, and it is not for us to know the times and ſeaſons: but in the mean time to let our faith and patience be ſeen; in the mean time we may learn, That it is Gods work to reſtrain the Wolves and Serpents of the world, who would elſe be always doing what they are ſometimes doing, and it is a ſad ſign that God is not yet at peace with that People, where we ſee Wolves devouring Lambs, and Serpents deſtroying men inſtead of licking up duſt, nor well pleaſed with that part of his holy mountain where there is nothing but hurting and deſtroying, biting and devouring one another. When God ſhall be at peace with a people theſe things ſhall not be found amongſt them.

CHAP. LXVI.

God is ſerved with the Spirit, and not by Ceremonies, 1, — 5. the wonderful Birth and Benefits of the Goſpel-Church, 6, — 14. ſevere judgments againſt the wicked, 15, — 17. the Gentiles ſhall be an Holy Church, 18, —— 23. the Eternal Puniſhment of the wicked, 24.

*1 Kin. 8. 27. Acts 7. 48, 49. & 17. 24. THus ſaith the LORD *, The heaven a my throne a, and the earth is my footſtool b: where is the houſe that ye build unto me c? and where is the place of my reſt d?

a The Heaven, that is, the higheſt Heavens, are the place where I moſt manifeſt my power and glory, and ſhew my ſelf in my Majeſty. So Pſal. 11. 4. Pſal. 103. 19. Matt. 5. 34. Hence we are taught to pray; Our Father which art in Heaven. b And the Earth is my footſtool, or a place wherein I ſet my feet, Matt. 5. 35. c Can there be an houſe builded, that will contain me, who can encompaſs the Heavens and the Earth with an houſe? d Or, where is the place wherein I can be ſaid to reſt in a proper ſenſe? The Ark is indeed called God's footſtool, and the place of his reſt, in a figurative ſenſe, becauſe there God manifeſted himſelf, though in degrees much beneath the manifeſtations of himſelf in Heaven, but properly, God hath no certain place of Reſt.

2 For all thoſe things hath my hand made e, and all thoſe things have been f, ſaith the Lord: but to this man will I look, * even to him that is poor and Pſ. 34. 18. *& 51. 17. Ch. 57. 15. of a contrite ſpirit g, and * trembleth at my word h. * Ez. 9. 4. 1. 1. Joh. 1. 3. (ſome expound it of the Temple, and the Sacrifices.) & 10. 3. f They were not only made by God, but ſubſiſted and were kept Pr. 28. 14. in being by him. Theſe things were not therefore valued by him, & v. 5. nor could he have any need of, or reſpect to any houſe which is but a very little part of the Earth; he having made the Heavens and the Earth, had all them at his command, and how could he need a Temple? or, wherein could he be advantaged from it? g But God will look with a reſpect, and with a favourable Eye to him that hath a broken and contrite ſpirit, whoſe heart is ſubdued to the Will of God, and who is poor, and low in his own Eyes, Mat. 5. 3. Luke 6. 20. And h who trembleth when he heareth God's threatning words, nor ever heareth any revelation of the Divine Will without a juſt Reverence.

3 He that kil'eth an ox i, is as if he ſlew a man: ‖Or, Kid. he that ſacrificeth a lamb ‖, as if he * cut off a dogs *Deut. 23. 18. neck k: he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered † Hebr. ſwines blood: he that † burneth incenſe, as if he makes a me- bleſſed an idol l: yea, they have choſen their own morial of. ways m, and their ſoul delighteth in their abominations n.

i Solomon, Prov. 15. 8. gives us a ſhort, but full commentary on the whole verſe; The Sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord. He that killeth an ox, that is, for Sacrifice, as it is expounded by the next words, He that ſacrificeth a Lamb. k The compariſon theweth God's deteſtation of ceremonial performances from men of wicked hearts and lives. l From hence it is plain, that the Prophet is not here reflecting upon Idolatrous Worſhip, but Formal Worſhip: for to ſay, He that burneth Incenſe to an Idol, is as he that bleſſeth an Idoll, is but to ſay, he that bleſſeth an Idol, bleſſeth an Idol; but upon thoſe who in a formality worſhipped the true God, and by acts which he had appointed, ſuch were offering Sacrifices, Oblation, Incenſe. God by the Prophet declares, that theſe mens Services were no more acceptable to him than Murther, Idolatry, or the moſt horrid prophanation of his name. Such would cutting off a dogs neck for Sacrifice, have been, or offering Swines blood; ſo little do ritual performances, though inſtituted by God himſelf, pleaſe God when they are but meer formalities, as they always are, m When thoſe that perform them, live as they liſt, leud, and looſe lives, and think to ſave themſelves by their prayers, like the Whore, Prov. 7. 14, 15. n Not only ſinning by humane frailty, but taking pleaſure in their ſins, Prov. 15. 26. To offer a Sacrifice with an heart reſolved (when it is offered) to ſin on in ſinful courſes, is to offer it with an evil mind. This is a dreadful text to thoſe perſons who will murder, and ſteal, and ſwear, and curſe, and lie, and commit Adultery, and then come and ſtand before God in his houſe, which is called by his name, that is, come to ſerve him in acts of Worſhip, Levit. 10. 3. See Pſal. 50. 16, 17, 18. Iſaiah 1. 11, 12, 13, 14. Jer. 7. 9, 10. Mat. 7. 21, 22, 23. John 4. 24. 1 Tim. 4. 8.

4 I alſo will chuſe o their ‖ deluſions p, and bring ‖ Or, De- their fears upon them q, * becauſe when I called none vices. did anſwer r, when I ſpake, they did not hear s, but Pr. 1. 24. ch. 65. 12. they did evil before mine Eyes, and choſe that in Jer. 7. 13. which I delighted not.

o They had made their choice, they choſe not the ways of God, but their own ways, that which God delighted not in, as in the latter part of this verſe, therefore (faith God) I will alſo chuſe. p Their deluſions, or illuſions, or devices, Montanus tranſlates it, adinventionibus, it is a Noun derived from a word which ſignifies to ſpeak childiſhly or corruptly, the word in this form is only uſed in this text, and in 1 Sam. 25. 3. it ſignifies ſtudies, or works, Pſal. 12. 4. Iſa. 3. 4. Hoſ. 4. 9. It is an ordinary thing for God thus genterally to declare his juſtice againſt men. That he will deal with inners, as they deal with him, ſo Pſal. 18. 25, 26. Lev. 26. 27. Jer. 34. 17. Prov. 1. 24, 28. The meaning is, I will be no kinder to them, then they have been to me, They have choſen to mock and delude me, I will chuſe to ſuffer them to delude themſelves; or they have choſen to work wickedneſs, I will chuſe the effect. q That is (ſay ſome) the things which they feared, and did theſe things to avoid, as Jer. 42. 16. Ezek. 11. 8. Others by their fears chuſe rather to underſtand ſuch terrors and affrightments as are natural to men upon the proſpect of great evils, as Jer. 20. 4. as God in mercy delivereth his people from their fears, Pſal. 34. 4. So in judgment he cauſeth fears as a great judgment to poſſeſs ſinners, Lev. 26. 16. Deut. 28. 66. r Becauſe when by my Prophets, I exhorted you to your duty; very few yielded obedience, ſee Prov. 1. 24. ch. 65. 12. Jer. 7. 13. s Hearing here ſignifieth hearkning, or obeying, not hearing is expounded by doing evil, and chuſing that wherein God delighted not. God accounts that thoſe do not hear, who do not obey his will.

5 Hear the word of the Lord, you that * tremble * ver. 2. at his word s: your brethren t that hated you, that Ch. 5. 19. caſt you out u for my names ſake x ſaid, * Let the Lord be glorified y but he ſhall appear to your joy, and they ſhall be aſhamed z.

s The Prophet turneth his diſcourſe from denouncing judgment againſt the Idolaters, and formaliſts amongſt the Jews, to ſuch as feared God, whoſe religion is deſcribed by a trembling at his word, as v. 2. ſuch a turning of the Prophets diſcourſe was, ch. 50. 10. ch. 51. 1, 7. The ſame words belong not to Saints and preſumptuous Sinners. t Your Brethren, by Nation, or by external profeſſion in Religion, tho' falſe brethren, Gal. 2. 4. Thus Paul calls all the rejected Jews Brethren, Rom. 9. 3. u That either ſhut you out of their intimate ſociety, or (which is more probable) excommunicate, and caſt you out of their Synagogues, or caſt you out of their City, and ſome of you out of the world, John 9. 35, 22. John 16. 2. x i. e. For my ſake, for your owning me, and adherence to my law, ſaid. y Either mocking you as the Jews did Chriſt, when hanging upon the croſs, Mat. 27. 42. Luke 23. 35. thus they mocked at David, Pſal. 42. 2. Or, Let the Lord be glorified, thinking they did God good ſervice, John 16. 2. z There will come a day when God ſhall appear and let them know his judgment concerning their violence, and rage, then you ſhall have joy, and they ſhall be aſhamed, 2 Theſ. 4. 16, 17, 18.

6 A voice of noiſe from the city a, a voice from the temple, a voice of the Lord that rendereth recompence to his Enemies b.

a The expreſſion of a Prophetical extaſy, as much as, methinks I already hear a voice of noiſe, rather a faſt and affrighting noiſe, than the noiſe of Triumphers (as ſome think) yea, it comes not from the City only, but from the Temple, wherein theſe formaliſts have ſo much gloried, and repoſed ſo much confidence. There is a noiſe of Soldiers ſlaying, and of the Prieſts or poor people fled thither, ſhrieking or crying out. b A voice of the Lord, not in thunder, which is ſometimes called ſo, Pſal. 29. 3, 4, 5, &c. but that rendreth recompence to his enemies. Thus, the noiſe of Soldiers, the roaring of Guns, the ſound of Drums and Trumpets are the Voice of the Lord. Thus the Prophet ſeemeth to expreſs the deſtruction of the Jews by the Roman Armies, as if a thing at that time doing.

7 Before ſhe travailed ſhe brought forth, before her pain came, ſhe was delivered of a man-child c.

c The whole verſe is expreſſive of a great and ſudden ſalvation, which God would work for his Church, like the delivery of a woman, and that of a man-child, before her travail, and without pain. The only doubt is, whether it referreth to the deliverance of the People out of Babylon, or the worlds ſurprizal with the Meſſiah, and the ſudden and ſtrange propagation of the Goſpel, and it is a queſtion not eaſily determined. The delivery of the Jews out of Babylon, indeed was without ſtruglings or any pain, not like their deliverance from Egypt, after the waſting of their enemies by ten ſucceſſive Plagues, but by the kind Proclamation of Cyrus: but it ſeems not to have been ſuddenly only as to the day, and hour, and manner, for Daniel underſtood by Books that the time was come, Dan. 9. 2. and the people had a proſpect of it 70 years before, Jer. 25. 12. & 29. 10. The Prophecy therefore ſeems rather to refer to the coming of Chriſt, and the ſudden Propagation of the Goſpel. The Popiſh Interpreters applying it to the Virgin Mary, bringing forth Chriſt, is like other of their fond dreams.

8 Who hath heard ſuch a thing d? who hath ſeen ſuch things e? ſhall the earth be made to bring forth in one day? or ſhall a Nation be born at once? for as ſoon as Zion travelled, ſhe brought forth children f?

d The Prophet calls either to the whole world, or to ſuch as feared God among the Jews, to admire God in his ſtupendious works of Providence, either in the eaſie manner of the deliverance of the Jews out of the Captivity of Babylon, without any pain, without ſo much as one throw; or elſe in the erecting of his Goſpel Church, into which all the Jews that received Chriſt, were gathered as well as the Gentiles, making both one, Eph. 2. 14. e Which ſeems to be meant by the Earths bringing forth in one day, as great a work of Providence, as if all the women in the world ſhould have brought forth in a day; or as if all the plants of the Earth had brought forth their ſeaſon and fruit in one day. f As ſoon as the Church of the Jews began to move out of the Captivity of Babylon, God put it into the hearts of multitudes to go up, Exod. 1. 5. ch. 2. 1, 2, &c. Or, as ſoon as the voice of the Goſpel put the Church of the Jews into her Travel in John Baptiſt's, Chriſt's, and the Apoſtles time, it preſently brought forth. In John Baptiſt's time, the Kingdom of Heaven ſuffered violence, and the violent took it by force, Mat. 11. 12. and it continued ſo, as 3000 were converted at Peters Sermon, Acts 2. The Gentiles were the Children of Zion, being planted into their ſtock; the law of the Goſpel firſt going out of Zion.

9 Shall I bring to the birth, and not ‖ cauſe to bring forth? ſaith the Lord g; ſhall I cauſe to bring forth, and ſhut the womb ? ſaith thy God h. ‖ Hebr. cauſe to bring.

g The work before ſpoken of, ſeemeth not after the manner of men, who do things that are great gradually, and not in an ordinary courſe of nature, whoſe motions alſo bring things by degrees to their perfection, but you muſt conſider who it is that ſpeaketh (ſaith the Lord) now as is the God, ſo is his ſtrength. Again, men may undertake things, and for want of power not bring them to perfection, but ſhall I do ſuch a thing? I have by many prophecies and promiſes ſecured you in the expectation of ſuch a thing, and ſhall I not by my Providence effect it? I, that in the ordinary courſe of my providence uſe to give a birth to Women, to whom I have given a power to conceive, ſhall I not give a birth to Zion, to my people, whom by my prophecies, and promiſes I have made to conceive ſuch hopes, and expectations? h Nor ſhall Zion once only bring forth, but ſhe ſhall go on-teeming, her womb ſhall not be ſhut, ſhe ſhall every day bring forth more and more children, my preſence ſhall be with my Church to that end, to the end of the world.

10 Rejoyce ye with Hieruſalem, and be glad with her all ye that love her: rejoyce for joy with her, all ye that mourn for her i.

i There is nothing more ordinary amongſt men, than for friends, and neighbours, to meet together with their friends recovered from affliction, or brought into a better ſtate, to rejoice with them, eſpecially ſuch friends as in their afflictions have mourned with them. Thus Mary, Luke 1. 40. went to rejoice with Elizabeth, and Jobs friends came to rejoice with him, Job 42. 11. The Prophet in like manner calls to all the friends of Hieruſalem, eſpecially ſuch as in the days of her affliction had mourned for her, to come and rejoice and be glad with her, upon the proſpect of her better ſtate after the Babyloniſh Captivity: or at leaſt in the time of the Meſſiah; for though joy and gladneſs be the affection of the Soul that works upon its union with its deſirable object, and the deliverance of the people out of Babylon was not to be for many years after this, nor the Meſſias to come, for many years after that, yet faith being the evidence of things not ſeen, there is a rejoycing of hope, hope giving the Soul an union with its object hoped for, and theſe things were now preſent to believers who by faith called the things that were not as if they were; becauſe they had the ſecurity of a divine Revelation for them, and they were already exiſtent in their neceſſary cauſes.

11 That you may ſuck and be ſatisfied with the k breaſts of her conſolations l, that you may milk out, and be delighted with the abundance of her glory m.

k Hieruſalem is here ſet out as the mother of us all, as indeed ſhe was, for out of Zion went forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Hieruſalem, Iſaiah 2. 3. Chriſt was of the ſeed of Abraham, he was ſent to the loſt Sheep of the houſe of Iſrael, and is called Rom. 15. 8. the Miniſter of the Circumciſion; they were the Olive, the Branches; the Gentiles but a wild Olive, grafted in amongſt them, Rom. 11. 17, we ſucked at their breaſts, Chriſt was firſt preached to them, the 12, the 70. were all of them. The Goſpel doctrine was their breaſts of conſolation. Chriſt was in the firſt place, m The glory of the people of Iſrael, though he was alſo a light to the Gentiles, Luk. 2. 32. we are required to rejoice with Hieruſalem, That we may ſuck and be Satisfied, &c. Intimating, that our joy ſhould not be a meer act of charity to them, but a proper expreſſion of our ſenſe of Gods goodneſs to our ſelves, who ſhould ſuck and be Satisfied with the glad tidings of the Goſpel firſt publiſhed unto them, and our ſelves be inlightned from what was at firſt the glory of Iſrael.

12 For thus ſaith the Lord, Behold I * will extend *Chap. 48. 18. peace to her like a river, and the glory of the Gentiles Ch. 60. 5. *like a flowing ſtream o; then ſhall ye * ſuck p; ye Chu. 60. 4. ſhall be * born upon her ſides, and be dandled upon her Chap. 49. 22. & 60. 4. knees q.

n That this promiſe reſpects the times of the Meſſias ſeems plain, not only from the conſideration that no hiſtory gives us any account of any great or long peace or proſperity the Jews had before that time, nor indeed then, if we underſtand it not of a Spiritual Goſpel-peace, which Chriſt preached to them that were nigh, as well as thoſe afar off, Eph. 2. 17. o It alſo appears from the mention of the glory of the Gentiles as a flowing ſtream, which can hardly be underſtood of any thing but Chriſt and the preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles. But I leave it to the iſſues of Providence to expound and determine, whether the Prophecy of this text doth not relate to a further converſion and calling of the Jews than hath been yet ſeen. p When Chriſt was revealed to the Jews not thoſe only of the Gentiles, but thoſe of the Jews who belonged to Gods Election ſucked Goſpel doctrine. q The Gentiles were born upon the ſides of Hieruſalem and dandled upon her knees, as firſt hearing from the Apoſtles (who were ſome of the Daughters of Hieruſalem, members of the Jewiſh Church) the glad tidings of Salvation.

13 r As one whom his mother comforteth, ſo will I comfort you, and you ſhall be comforted in Hieruſalem.

r That is, in the moſt tender, and compaſſionate way imaginable. The husband doth not comfort his wife with that tenderneſs, and thoſe bowels that the mother comforteth the Child after it hath received ſome fall, or miſchief. Hieruſalem now mourneth, and you mourn with her, but ſhe ſhall recover from her affliction and from her ſorrows, and ſhall be comforted; and you that mourn for her, ſhall partake of her joys, as you now mourn with her in her afflictions, God in the day that he wipeth tears from her Eyes, ſhall alſo wipe them from yours: and you ſhall have as great an occaſion of joy from the happy, as now you have of ſorrow from the afflicted, ſtate of Hieruſalem.

14 And when you ſee this, your heart ſhall rejoice, and your bones ſhall flouriſh like an herb s: and the hand of the Lord ſhall be kuown toward his ſervants x, and his indignation toward his Enemies y.

u The peace, and tranquility of the Church and the propagation of the Kingdom of Chriſt, is always the cauſe of an heart-rejoycing to ſuch as fear God, Pſal. 105. 3. the reaſon is becauſe it is the greateſt object of their deſires, which are then ſatisfied, and their thoughts are then at reſt, and beſides they are members of the ſame body, ſo as their own bones, which before are dry and withered, Ezek. 37. 1, 2. and the ſinews, and the fleſh, comes again upon them, and the skin covers them above, ſo as they flouriſh like an herb in the ſpring, all whoſe verdure and beauty in the winter was concealed in the root hid in the earth. x And in this the power, protection, and influence of God for, of, and upon, ſuch as truly ſerve and obey him, ſhall be made manifeſt and known. y But the wicked ſhall be under a quite contrary diſpenſation, Pſal. 1. 4. As they have had a day, which hath been to you the power of darkneſs; ſo you ſhall have a day, which ſhall be to them the power of darkneſs; as Gods hand ſhall be upon and toward ſuch as fear me, to cover, and bleſs, and influence them, ſo his indignation ſhall in that day be ſhewed towards thoſe of your nation who have declared themſelves the enemies of the Lord.

15 For behold the Lord will come with fire z, and with his chariots, with a whirle-wind a, to render his anger with fury b, and his rebukes c with flames of fire.

z Here the Prophet comes more particularly to expound what indignation ſhould be ſhewed towards his enemies. That is, with terrible Judgments, nothing being more terrible, and waſting than fire, or with fire in a proper ſenſe, underſtanding it of the fire with which enemies uſe to conſume places brought under their power. a With a ſudden ſweeping Judgment that like a whirle-wind ſhall deſtroy this people. b With fury, that is, with fervor; for fury properly taken is not in God, ch. 27. 4. but God ſometimes executes juſtice and judgment more ſmartly and ſeverely. c By rebukes, he means puniſhments, for it is ſaid God will execute them with flames of fire. They had contemned the rebukes of his law, now God will rebuke them with fire, and ſword.

16 For by fire, and by his ſword, will the Lord plead d with all fleſh e, and the ſlain of the Lord ſhall be many f.

thee, and whatsoever I command thee, thou shalt speak.

a Do not plead Excuses. b This is God's Answer to Jeremiah in respect of his sense of his own Inability; this may be by way of Command, and then it is a check to his Timorousness; thou shalt go, therefore draw not back: or, by way of Promise, and then it is a satisfactory Answer to his Excuse, as both proceeded from a sense of his own Insufficiency, q. d. Fear not, I will make thee eloquent and courageous. c This relates, either to Persons or Things. To all, i. e. to all Persons to whom I shall send thee; thou shalt baulk none: See Rev. 10. 11. Or upon, so is the Hebrew, and then it is, thou shalt go upon all Errands and Messages that I shall send thee. See Isa. 55. 11. and Acts 26. 16.

* Jos. 1. 5. Heb. 13. 5, 6.

8 Be not afraid of their faces e: for * I am with thee f to deliver thee g, saith the LORD.

e Their fierce Looks, Ezek. 3. 9. the Indication of their enraged Minds, Dan. 3. 19. Neither when thou delivereſt my Message to them, nor when thou mayeſt be cited before them, Mat. 10. 18, 19. This is God's Answer to Jeremy's Fears in respect of the Persons he was to deal with, as the other was in respect of his own Conſciouſneſs of Inſufficiency; and he mentions their Faces, becauſe the majeſtick Countenance of Princes and Magiſtrates is apt to ſtrike a great Awe and Terrour upon Children. f I'll not only ſend thee as other Gods their Ambaſſadours, but I will go with thee: This God promiſes to Moſes, Exod. 3. 12. and Deut. 31. 6, 8. g Here God promiſes his Protection for Encouragement.

9 Then the LORD put forth his hand h, and touched i my mouth, and the LORD ſaid unto me,

* Chap. 5. 14.

Behold, I have * put my words in thy mouth.

h God having before excited the Prophet to his work by Command and Promiſe, doth now in a Viſion eſtabliſh and confirm him, either by the hand of an Angel, as Iſa. 6. 6, 7. or rather, by himſelf in ſome viſible ſhape. i Heb. Came upon, as the Word is uſed Judg. 20. 41. hereby enabling him to ſpeak; or thou ſhalt be my mouth to deliver my Words; partly to let Jeremy underſtand, that they were God's Words; and partly to intimate, that they ſhould be effectual; and partly, that he ſhould never be without them, but continually ſupplied. See the like kind of Phraſe Chap. 5. 14. And he adds, Behold, q. d. attend to what I am about to ſay; or, look upon this outward Sign, and let it aſſure thee of the thing ſignified.

10. See, I have this day ſet thee over the nations, and over the kingdoms l, to * root out, and to pull down m, and to deſtroy, and to throw down, to build and to plant n.

* Chap. 18. 7. 2 Cor. 10. 4, 5.

l Having now received his Commiſſion, he is directed to whom he is to go, viz. to the greateſt, not only ſingle Perſons, but whole Nations, as the Babylonians, Perſians, and Egyptians, and exhorted to greatneſs of Mind, as being ſent as an Ambaſſadour from God, to deliver his Meſſages without Flattery or Cowardice; and that he might make that proud People ſenſible of their Folly, that looked upon themſelves as above Reproof, he gives unto his Prophet this large Authority. m i. e. To Prophеſie, that I will pull down; which I will as certainly effect, as if thou hadſt done it thy ſelf: for, according to Scripture-uſage, the Prophets are ſaid to do that which they foretell ſhall come to paſs, Gen. 49. 7. Ezek. 43. 3. i. e. to pronounce Deſtruction: hence God is ſaid to ſlay them by the Words of his Mouth, Hoſ. 6. 5 and ſo are all the following Expreſſions to be underſtood. n Metaphors taken from Architects and Gardiners: Either the former Words relate to the Enemies of God, and the latter to his Friends; or rather to both conditionally: If they repent, he will build them up, i. e. he will increaſe their Families, and plant them, viz. ſettle them in the Land, Chap. 24. 6. If they do not, he will root them up, and pull them down, &c. He will do the contrary. Compare this with Chap. 42 10. and 45 4 The reaſon why God uſeth ſo many Words to the ſame purpoſe, ſeems to be, partly to ſhew how deeply all kind of Wickedneſs and Contempt of God had taken root; which poſſibly may be one reaſon why he placeth Pulling down and Rooting up, before Building and Planting, to ſhew what a deal of Rubbiſh there was to be removed, before he could reform, and repair his Church and State; or rather, becauſe the Prophet was to begin with theſe in his Prophecy, as appears by his ſecond Viſions, Verſe 11, 13. and partly to quicken the Prophet's Zeal againſt them.

11 ¶ Moreover, the word of the LORD came o unto me, ſaying, Jeremiah, what ſeeſt thou? and I ſaid, I ſee a rod of an almond-tree p.

o This and the boiling Cauldron, Verſe 13. is thought to be at the ſame time, and in the ſame Viſion, when he was firſt appointed to his Work. p Viz. That had Leaves, and poſſibly Bloſſoms, on it, like Aaron's, Numb. 17. 8. for without Leaves at leaſt, 'tis poſſible he had not ſo readily gueſſed of what kind it had been. This is a Tree that bloſſoms early, and ſpeedily, and hence hath its Name in Hebrew Seaked, ſignifying watchful, forward, nimble, or quick; and ſo it may point at either God's Readineſs to ſmite, Verſe 12. which is deſcribed elſewhere by Summer-Fruit, Amos 8. 1, 2. or Iſrael's Ripeneſs to be ſmitten, as we have the like Ezek. 7. 10, 11. or both; this Rod being like a portentous Comet, ſhewing to Jeremiah the Miſeries that were at hand, as the Death of Joſiah, which ſoon followed this Viſion, 2 Kings 23. 29. and the Taxing them by Pharaoh Necho, 2 Kings 23. 33. and preſently after the breaking in of the Chaldees, Syrians, Moabites, and Ammonites, 2 Kings 24. 2. and then the Babylonian Captivity, 2 Kings 24. 10. which happened in the 8th Year of Jehoiakim, 2 Kings 24. 12. when Nebuchadnezzar took him with others, and carried them away about 23 Years from hence; and about the 40th Year Jeruſalem was taken, and the Temple burnt.

12 Then ſaid the LORD unto me, Thou haſt well ſeen q: for I will haſten r my word ſ to perform it.

q Or thou haſt ſeen and judged right; or, as the Hebrew, thou haſt done well to ſee, i. e. in ſeeing ſo. r Word for Word, I will Almond-tree it, i. e. I will be upon them ſpeedily, in a ſhort time, and ſuddenly, ere they are aware; or, I will watch, and be ready to accompliſh this in the time. ſ i. e. My Word of Threatning againſt Judah and its Inhabitants.

13 And the word of the LORD came unto me the ſecond time, ſaying, What ſeeſt thou? and I ſaid, I ſee a ſeething-pot t, and the face u thereof is † towards the north x.

t After the ſmaller Puniſhment from the Lord, follows this of the Boiling-pot, by which underſtand Judea and Jeruſalem, as may appear by the Application that they themſelves make of it in a way of Scorn and Deriſion, Ezek. 11. 3, 7. Some put the face of the pot for the Pot it ſelf; as the face of the cold, the face of his anger for Cold, and Anger it ſelf, q. d. I ſee a Pot coming, meaning the Babylonian Army flowing in upon them; like boiling or ſcalding Water, as ſome interpret it: but this ſeems not to be ſo congruous to the Viſion; but rather thus, the Babylonians ſhould beſiege, as a fire plays round the Furnace, when it is to be made boil, ſo ſhould theſe Chaldeans begirt it, as Ver. 15. and reduce the Inhabitants to moſt miſerable Extremities, with unſpeakable Cruelty, as if they were like fleſh roaſting by the fire, or boiling in a Pot, as their Sufferings are deſcribed, Micah 3. 3. u Or front of the Pot, or Furnace, the place where the fire was put in, or blowed up to make it boil: as a Pot, hanged in the form of a Furnace, ſeems to be all but one and the ſame Pot or Veſſel, the face of which may be eaſily conceived to ſtand toward the North, not the mouth of the Pot; for that looks directly upward, unleſs we conceive it to be repreſented in the Viſion leaning, of which Conceit there is no need. x Indicating from whence their Miſery ſhould come, Verſe 14. viz. from Chaldea, which lay North from Jeruſalem.

14 Then the LORD ſaid y unto me, out of the * north z an evil ſhall † break forth a upon all the inhabitants of the land b.

* Chap. 4. 6. and 6. 1. † Heb. Be opened.

y Explained this Viſion. z i. e. From Babylon, a Metonymy of the Subject; for though it lie Eaſtward, yet it is North from Jeruſalem, as lying four Degrees more from the Equinoctial. See Verſe 13. a It ſhall be withheld, or reſtrained, no longer in my Treaſure; I will let it out; viz. That evil of puniſhment repreſented by the Fire. b Though God gave almoſt all the then known World to the King of Babylon, yet here he underſtands the Land of Judea, Chap. 25. 9.

15 For lo, I will * call c all the families d of the kingdoms e of the north, ſaith the LORD: and they ſhall come, and they ſhall ſet every one his throne f at the entring of the Gates g of Jeruſalem, and againſt all the walls h thereof round about, and againſt all the cities i of Judah.

* Chap. 5. 15.

c Or, I am upon calling, it is at hand, I am about to incline the Northern Countries to joyn together in this Work, Chap. 6. 22. and 10. 22. and 25. 9, 26. d Or Kindreds; viz. thoſe divers Countries and Nations, that were under one Lord, as a chief Ruler is called the Father of his Country. e Viz. The Babylonians, and their Aſſiſtants, the Medes alſo being in Confederacy with them, whoſe King's Daughter Nebuchadnezzar married. f Their Seats, Pavilions or Tents ſhall be pitched, which ſhall be as ſo many Thrones, where I will ſee my Judgments executed by the Chaldeans, Chap. 52. 4. g At the entring to the Gates, or way leading to the Gates, Judg. 9. 35. 2 Kings 7. 3. Chap. 43. 9. which Beſiegers have always a ſpecial regard to, that there be no going in, or coming out, Iſa. 22. 7. h They ſhall begirt it round, noting the great Multitude, Power, and Courage of the Chaldeans. i There were none of them ſhould fare any better than Jeruſalem.

16 And I will utter my judgments k againſt them touching all their wickedneſs, who have forſaken me l, and have burnt incenſe unto other gods m, and worſhipped the works of their own hands n.

k Cauſe Sentence to be paſſed according to my Threatning. See Chap. 39. 5. Or, I will place my Bounty and their Unworthineſs before them. Or, I will upbraid them with their Ingratitude, Rebellion, and breach of Covenant, &c. I will ſpeak with them by thee Jeremiah, and others of my Prophets. l Either noting the Perſons againſt whom, or rather the Cauſe for which, becauſe they have forſaken me; the ſame Particle being ſo uſed Chap. 13. 25. and elſewhere. Or their Sins whereby, as it is alſo expreſſed Chap. 16. 11. and 22. 9. m i. e. Worſhipped ſtrange Gods, a Synecdoche of the part for the whole. n i. e. Their Idolatrous Images expreſſed here by a Periphraſis. Iſa. 2. 8.

17 ¶ Thou therefore gird up thy loins o, and ariſe p, and ſpeak unto them all that I command thee q: be not diſmayed at their faces r, leſt I ‖ confound thee ſ before them t.

o By this Expreſſion God quickens, and haſtens him upon his Work, not to ſtand heſitating, but to be doing; prepare thy ſelf; for it is a Speech taken from the Cuſtom of the Countries where they did wear long Garments; and therefore they did gird them up about them, that they might not hinder them in any Work that required Expedition. See the Phraſe and Practice, Exod. 12. 11. 2 Kings 4. 29. and in many other Texts: It implies two things; 1. Speed and Diſpatch. 2. Courage and Reſolution; Job 38. 3. p Another Expreſſion to the ſame purpoſe, to ſpeed him about his Work; the like Chap. 13. 4. q Heb. Shall command thee. r Diſ-

r Diſcover no Fear, and conceal no Meſſage. See Verſe 8. ſ Heb. Break thee in pieces, either leſt thou prove confuſed, and ſhattered in thy Notions, and unable to deliver thy Meſſage, leſt I leave thee, and forſake thee. Or, leſt I terrifie thee worſe than they are able to do, even to ruin thee. See Matth. 10. 28. t It ſeems to be ſpoken by way of Aggravation; God would ſhame him, or deſtroy him even in their ſight, to become their Reproach. Or, think not to eſcape any more than Uriah, Ch. 26. 23.

* Iſa. 50. 7. Chap. 6. 27. and 15. 20.

18 For behold u, I have made thee this day * a defenced city x, and an iron pillar y, and brazen walls z againſt the whole land a, againſt the kings of Judah, againſt the princes thereof, againſt the prieſts thereof, and againſt the people of the land.

u Heb For I, lo, q. d. for my part, I will not fail to do what I have promiſed, to ſtand by thee. x Heb. City of Defence, impregnable, which the two following Expreſſions do import, it ſhould be ſupported with y Pillars, not of Wood, but of Iron. z And encompaſſed with Walls, not of Stone but of Braſs, noting hereby both great Uprightneſs, and alſo Strength. a i. e. All its Inhabitants in general, none to be ſpared, as he doth particularly rank them in their ſeveral degrees in the following words, intimating hereby, that though Men of all degrees ſhould fet themſelves againſt him, yet God would ſupport him againſt them all, and that he would carry him through his Work, though his Troubles and Tryals would not be only great, but long, viz. paſſing through ſeveral Kings Reigns, therefore poſſibly ſaid Kings here in the plural.

19 And they ſhall fight b againſt thee, but they ſhall not prevail c againſt thee: for I am with thee d, ſaith the LORD, to deliver thee.

b Make united Attempts upon thee. See Judg. 20. 11. c They ſhall not be able, by all their Devices, to ſhorten thy days, Chap. 15. 20. and 20, 10, 11. d Here is the reaſon given of his Safety, God will be his guard. See Verſe 8. 2 Tim. 4. 17, 18.

MOreover, the word of the LORD came unto me, e ſaying, e Now God begins by Jeremy to deal with the Jews, and to put him upon his Work, having fitted him for it: This ſeeming to be his firſt Sermon, it notes ſpeed, and quick diſpatch about his buſineſs.

2 Go f, and cry in the ears g of Jeruſalem h, ſaying, thus ſaith the LORD i; I remember k ‖ thee, the kindneſs of thy youth m, the love of thine eſpouſals n, when thou wenteſt after me in the wilderneſs o, in a land that was not ſown.

z God having, as it were on his own behalf, ſhewn how kind he had been, calls upon them to ſpeak now, if they knew any thing of injury, either in breach of Covenant, or Severity, that they can charge him with, that they have thus Apoſtatized. See on Iſa. 1. 18. and 5. 3. compare Micah. 6. 2, 3, 4. c i. e. With themſelves, thought not. d The Expreſſion may have ſome reſpect to the ſituation of the place, as lying lower than Canaan; but the Deſign is, to reprove their Sloth and Stupidity, charging herein their Apoſtacy, not upon their Ignorance, but Wilfulneſs, their Deliverance from Egypt, and therefore is it here mentioned, being ſuch a Deliverance, as never greater was wrought for any People, wherein there was ſo much of his Power and Love ſeen: they never regarded the Operations of his hands, never concerned themſelves about what God had done for them, Ver. 8. which ſhould have engaged them to a more cloſe cleaving to him. e Deſolate places, Chap. 50. 13. and then what follows is to amplifie the greatneſs of their Dangers in the Wilderneſs, and therein the greatneſs of their Deliverance. f Either thoſe natural dangerous Pits that were there; or, put for the Grave, where Paſſengers are ſo often buried quick in the heaps of Sand ſuddenly blown up by the Wind; or threatning in every reſpect nothing but Death, which may be implied in that Expreſſion of the Shadow of Death in this Verſe, which may allude to ſeveral kinds or fears of Death in paſſing through a Wilderneſs. See in the Synopſis. g Where they had no Water but by Miracle; the LXX render it a Land without water. h See in the Word Pits; the LXX render it a Land without fruit, bringing forth nothing that might have a tendency to the Support of Life, therefore nothing but Death could be expected; and beſides, it yielding ſo many venomous Creatures, as Scorpions, and Serpents, &c. as alſo the many Enemies that they went in continual danger of; all which could not but look formidable, and as the Shadow of Death. i As having in it no Accommodation for Travel, much leſs for Habitation: In theſe reſpects may it well be called a waſte howling Wilderneſs, Deut. 32. 10.

i Did I ever account him ſo, or did I not rather always reckon him my firſt-born? ſo ſome, as Verſe 31. But it may better relate to his ſad Condition, and Abuſes from others, as Chap. 49. 1. which God or the Prophet doth here enquire into; and Slave is here rightly added to home-born, (though not in the Text) to expreſs the baſeneſs of his Service, becauſe the Maſter had Power to make thoſe Slaves who were born of Slaves in his houſe; which argues his Condition very low, whether he were thus born, or had been forced to ſell himſelf to be a Slave. k He ſpeaks, either of the thing that is to be, as if it were already done, becauſe of the Certainty of it, as of that Deviaſtation made by the Aſſyrians and Chaldeans who afflicted the Remnant of the Jews, or of that Havock that was made of them formerly by Senacherib, the Aſſyrians, and Egyptians: Why is he thus tyrannized over, Iſa. 42. 24. as if Strangers had the ſame right over him as Owners over their Slaves? Or, the Place where planted, viz. in a fruitful Land, Exod. 15. 17. See on Iſa. 1. 2. If it be referred to the Plant, then it points at the excellency of its kind; and this the next Clauſe ſeems to favour: and thus it notes both God's Care; he had as great a care of it as of the choiceſt Plant: See on Iſa. 27. 2, 3. Some underſtand this of the Idolatry they committed every new Moon: but it more properly points at the Month of her Breeding, or growing big and weighty; Month put collectively for Months, ſuch as Job ſpeaks of, Job 39. 1, 2. Or, in her laſt Month, becauſe they grow then unweildy. That this Creature ſleeps one Month in the Year, and that is the Month ſhe may be taken, is generally deemed but a Fancy. † Heb. we have dominion.

h Or, Oh ye Men of this Generation, a Note of Admoration; or rather, O Generation, a Note of Compellation: it is to you I ſpeak, i. e. Look well to it, conſider it; as the Rod is to teach, and therefore ought to be heard, Mic. 6. 9. ſo the Word is to be conſidered of, and therefore ought to be looked into, Chap. 1. 19. k He ſpeaketh here, not ſo much of the Doctrine of the Word, as of the Thing it ſelf, q. d. You ſhall ſee the Thing with your Eyes, becauſe you give the Doctrine the hearing only, as we uſe to ſay, i. e. your Ears are ſtuft againſt it. l Here God challengeth them again to tell him, what Unkindneſs he had ſhewed them, as before Ver. 5. Have I been like the Wilderneſs of Arabia, have not I accommodated you with all Neceſſaries at all times, Deut. 32. 13, 14. Ezek. 34. 13, 14, 15. nay in the Wilderneſs it ſelf I was not a Wilderneſs unto you; an Account whereof, Nehemiah gives, Neh. 9. 15. to 23. And you have the Story of it Pſal. 78. m Divers Interpreters derive this Word from a different Root, and accordingly, render the Sence variouſly. Some from a Root that ſignifies to fade or fall, as a Land where Fruits fall off before they be ripe, bringing nothing to Perfection; and ſo Tremelius and Junius tranſlate it. Iſa. 28. 1, 4. q. d. Have you found me to fail your Expectations in any thing that I have promiſed you, Joſh. 21. 45. and 23. 14. Others derive it from a Word that ſignifies Late, as a Land that brings forth its Fruit late in the Year, which either ripeneth not, or ripeneth unkindly, q. d. Have you found me backward in any thing to do you good? Have I not fed you to the full? Others from Darknes, properly thick Darkneſs, Exod. 10. 22. Joel 2. 2. And it is the more ſignificant, becauſe Jah, the Name of God, is added to it, q. d. the Darkneſs of God, as a Sleep of God, for a deep Sleep, 1 Sam. 26. 12. Flame of God for a vehement Flame, Cant. 8. 6. as if it were a Land unihabitable, becauſe of the total want of Light, q. d. Have I been a God of no Uſe or Comfort to them, that they thus leave me? Have they had nothing from me but Miſery and Affliction? As this notion of Darkneſs may import, Iſa. 8. 22. Lam. 3. 2. Hence the LXX expreſs it by a Land bringing forth thorns. Or this Expreſſion, a Land of Darkneſs, may be put by Appoſition to the former. n i. e. In their Heart. o Words of Pride and Boaſting: God had endeavoured to make them ſenſible, that all their Happineſs they owed to him, and now q. d. you rule as Lords without us, ſee 1 Cor. 4. 8. Now you caſt me off; or rather, we are well enough eſtabliſhed in our Government by foreign Aids, and Compacts with the Egyptians, and Aſſyrians, &c. and have Rulers of our own; we have no ſuch great need of thee: Hence the LXX render it in the Paſſive Voice, we will not be ruled; which agrees with the next Words of the Verſe, Deut. 32. 15, 16. Something of this appeared in Uzziah, 2 Chron. 26. 15, 16. and Hezekiah, 2 Chron. 32. 25. neither was David wholly clear, Pſal. 30. 6.

God's Forbearance with the Idolatry of Judah, who is worſe than Iſrael, 1,—11. Both called to Repent, with Goſpel-Promiſes, 12,—19. Miſery by Sin; Salvation only of God, 20,——25.

1 † THey ſay n, If a man put away his o wife, and ſhe go from him, and becomes another man's, ſhall he return unto her again p? Shall not that land be greatly polluted q? But thou haſt play'd the harlot with many r lovers; yet return again to me, ſaith the LORD.

n Or, Men uſe to ſay. If this, with the four following Verſes, belong to the former Chapter, then it ſeems to expreſs God's Condeſcenſion to them, q. d. though, if a Woman forſake her Husband, and be married to another Man, the Law will not permit him to receive her again; yet God would receive thee again upon thy returning to him: but thou cauſeſt rather obſtinately to adhere to thy other Confidences, wherein thou ſhalt not proſper. But, if we look upon them as beginning a new Argument, then here God declares his Readineſs to receive them again upon their Repentance, though it be very unuſual for Husbands ſo to do, when their Wives have proved treacherous unto them, in betaking themſelves to other Husbands: And ſo this Chapter may very well begin with ſuch a proverbial Speech, they ſay, or men uſe to ſay, or it is commonly ſaid. o Or give her a Bill of Divorce, Deut. 24. 1. p q. d. He cannot take her again according to the Law, Deut. 24. 1, 2, 3, 4. Or rather, will a Man do ſuch a thing? If the Law were not againſt it, would any Man be ſo eaſily wrought upon, as to take her again? No certainly, it is an Argument from the leſs to the greater, to ſet forth God's great Lenity towards them, q. d. if an Husband ſhould turn away his Wife meerly becauſe he pleaſed her not, tho ſhe gave him no juſt cauſe, and ſhe ſhould beſtow her ſelf on another, he would not be reconciled to her, neither might he take her again; but you have gone a Whoring from me, and ſufficiently provoked me to reject and turn you off. I will diſpenſe with my own Law for your ſakes, and will act by my Prerogative: I am ready to be reconciled, to follow them that fly from me, as in the cloſe of the Verſe; and Zec. 1. 3. and Mal. 3. 7. God will pardon Sins of Apoſtacy, and falls after Repentance. q Heb. In being profane be profaned. Would not ſo great a Sin greatly pollute a State or Nation, Lev. 18. 27, 28. It muſt needs be polluted by ſuch Marriages to and fro, and promiſeuous Couplings, Deut. 24. 4. r Not with one only, as being ſufficient to make thee an Adultreſs, but with many Companions, or many Idols.

* Iſa. 57. 16.

5 * Will he reſerve g his anger for ever? will he keep it to the end h? Behold, thou haſt ſpoken and done i evil things as thou couldeſt.

g Here being a Defect of the Noun, the Jews ſupply it with thy Sin, Iſa. 43. 25. but the moſt and beſt, as we do, his Anger. Compare it with Verſe 12. Pſal. 103. 9. Nahum 1. 2. in which Texts there is a Defect of the ſame Word. This may ſeem to be the Words of the Prophet, and ſo the Connexion is eaſie with the foregoing Words, q. d. If thou wouldſt do ſo, try me now, &c. would he reſerve his Anger? Would he not be reconciled? but thou haſt taken quite another Courſe: Or, they may be the Words of God, as it were, teaching his People how they ſhould accoſt him: God is more forward and earneſt for Reconciliation, than Sinners themſelves. h The ſame with the former for ever. i God's Challenge of the People, charging them, either with their reſolved Wickedneſs, that they had made good all their evil Words by their evil Actions, they had even done as they ſaid; or rather, with their Hypocriſie, q. d. Notwithſtanding all thy former Promiſes, yet thou perſiſteſt ſtill in thy Lewdneſs and Obſtinacy, Iſa. 58. 2. Hoſ. 7. 14.

6 ¶ The LORD ſaid alſo k unto me l, in the days of Joſiah the king m, haſt thou ſeen that which backſliding Iſrael hath done n? ſhe is gone up upon every high mountain, and under every green tree, and there hath played the harlot.

k Or again, ſhewing that here begins a new Sermon, in which the Prophet, from God, 1. Declares Iſrael's Apoſtacy, and how it fared with them for it. 2. Aggravates Judah's Sin, for not taking warning. 3. Iſſues forth an Invitation of them both to Repentance, with a Promiſe of Acceptation, and re-uniting them under the Meſſiah. 4. Relates the Compliance of the Faithful among them with this Invitation. l Viz. By Revelation; for he ſpeaks of things that Iſrael had done when they were carried away by the King of Aſſyria, 2 Kings 17. 5. to 13. long before Jeremiah was born; therefore he faith, Haſt thou not ſeen, i. e. conſidered wherefore God gave her a Bill of Divorce. m When he would have purged the Land, and reſtored the pure Worſhip of God. n Viz. The ten Tribes who fell off from Judah, and ſet up a diſtinct Kingdom of their own under Jeroboam: What they did, viz. in their Idolatries expreſſed in the next Words, and Chap. 2. 20. ſee there, when they openly Apoſtatized from God, and that with one common Conſent; inſomuch, that all their Kings provved wicked and idolatrous, and poſſibly it may look as far back as Salomon's Defection, 1 Kings 11. 4, 5, &c. which may now come in remembrance.

7 And I ſaid, after ſhe had done all theſe things, turn thou unto me o. But ſhe returned not. And her treacherous ſiſter Judah p ſaw it q.

r q. d. That which others diſcern not, I ſaw well enough, viz. Both her Hypocriſie and Diſſimulation, and her incorrigibleneſs notwithſtanding what had been befallen Iſrael, whoſe correction ſhould have been her inſtruction; thus God ſpeaks of the notice he took of both, Chap. 23. 13, 14. Iſrael is ſaid to be backſliding, but Judah treacherous, becauſe ſhe retained the Worſhip of God, though ſhe did often privately, and cloſely embrace Idols, and ſometimes publickly under Manaſſeh and Ahaz, and other wicked Kings. ſ Or notwithſtanding all the ground and reaſon I had to deal ſo with Iſrael in regard of her Adulteries, as to put her way. t Delivered her up into the hands of the Aſſyrian, where God took from her the title of being his Church. 2 King. 17. 5, 6. &c. which he calls here a Bill of Divorce, not ſuch a one as the Jews were allowed to give upon every ſlight ground (for ſuch an one God denies, that ever he gave them, and challengeth them to produce it, Iſa. 50. 1.) but upon juſt, and great occaſion, viz. her playing the Adultereſs againſt him in her Idolatries. u i. e. Was neither afraid of giving me offence, nor of the like puniſhment. x Although ſhe had ſeen the judgment of God executed upon Iſrael before her eyes, which made it the more ſtupendious, that ſhe would take no warning by her Siſters ſufferings, Prov. 28. 14. yet ſhe went on ſtill, Ezek. 23. 11, 12, &c.

9 And it came to paſs through the ‖ lightneſs of her whoredom y, that ſhe defiled the land z, and committed adultery with ſtones and with ſtocks a. ‖ Or, fame.

y Whether of Judah's or of Iſrael's is not agreed upon, but the right applying of it doth depend much upon the right acceptation of the word Lightneſs, which comes from an Hebrew word that ſignifies voice, and ſo it may refer, either to the noiſe or fame of it, that would fly abroad, and thus it is applyed to Iſrael, i. e. Though Iſrael's Whoredoms were never ſo much blazed abroad, yet Judah regarded it not: Or, it may be taken for the heinouſneſs of it, a crying voice, as Gen. 4. 10. and ſo by an hypallage, her Whoredoms of fame or notorious Whoredoms; and is not ill expreſſed here by lightneſs of her Whoredom, noting her impudence in it, as we uſe to term a common Harlot a light Womanand thus it is applyed to Judah, both the foregoing and following words ſeeming to be an aggravation of Judah's refractarineſs. z Brought the whole Land under the imputation of filthineſs. a i. e. With Idols made of Stone and Wood, a Metonymy of the Matter to note the baſeneſs of the Fact.

b Though God ſaw what ſhe did, and though ſhe ſaw the ſhameful Idolatry of Iſrael, and what ſhe had ſuffered, yet ſhe was not warned, ſee verſe 8. but fell to Idolatry under Manaſſeh, who undid what Hezekiah had done, 2 Chron 33. 3. though under fair pretences ſhe diſſembled with God in the days of Joſiah, 2 Chron. 34. 32, 33. as appeared by her ſudden revolt, viz. in leſs than three Months after Joſiah's Death, 2 King. 23. 31, 32.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto me; The backſliding Iſrael hath juſtified c her ſelf more than treacherous Judah.

c Was leſs vile, hath more to ſay for her ſelf; Judah's ſin being greatly aggravated compared with Iſrael, Ezek. 16. 51. and 23. 11. See Luk. 18. 14. For, though Iſrael's ſins were more, and their Idolatry continued, yet in Judah it was more heinous. 1. Becauſe of their unruly headſtrongneſs, that broke the Reins and reſtraint, which their external Worſhip ought to have had upon them. 2. Becauſe of their ſtupid ſecurity in not being warned by the judgments, that they had ſeen befal Iſrael for the very ſame things. 3. Becauſe of their intolerable Pride, boaſting that their ſtate was ſtill unſhaken. 4 Becauſe of their groſs perfidiouſneſs in making Promiſes, and breaking them, which Iſrael did not, becauſe ſhe brought not her ſelf under ſuch ſolemn and frequent obligations, ſee Verſe 7. Laſtly, Becauſe they were a great deal more zealous in their Idolatries than Iſrael was, viz. under Manaſſeh, when they ſlew all the Prophets of the Lord.

12 ¶ Go d, and proclaim theſe words toward the north e, and ſay, Return thou backſliding Iſrael, ſaith the LORD; and I will not cauſe mine anger f to fall g upon you: For I am * merciful h, ſaith the LORD, and I will not keep anger for ever. * Verſe 5.

d It may poſſibly be uſed here as an Adverb of exciting, namely go to, as is uſual, or it notes ſpeed, go quickly, out of hand, not locally, but let thy face, Chap. 2. 2. or feet that way, or by thy office addreſs they ſelf to them, viz. by way of Proclamation, crying aloud; poſſibly implying the diſtance of place: This voice may in time reach them, though a great way off. Or rather the deafneſs of Iſrael, or the obduratenels of Judah, that they might hear what God ſaith to Iſrael, conceive hope and be reclaimed by their example, and be excited to emulation. e i. e. To Aſſyria and Media and the Regions thereabouts that lay Northward from Judea, whither the Ten Tribes were carried by Tiglath-Pileſer, and Salmaneſer, 2 Kings 15, 29. and 17. 6. f Upon condition of returning to their former true Worſhip of God, that thereby Judah might be awakened, he promiſeth that he will not let his anger, or his face, as in the Hebrew, (becauſe anger principally appears in the face) his angry face or countenance to be upon them, ſo it is uſed, Lev. 17. 10. Pſal. 34. 16. and not be inexorable, viz. for ever, which is to be ſupplyed from the next words: For otherwiſe his anger lay heavy upon them at this time. g A metaphor from things on high that drop down to the hurt of whatever is under them, and ſo Chap. 23. 34. compare Gen. 19. 24. h Here is the ground of this conditional promiſe, taken from the nature of God, that ſinners may not deſpair, Pſal. 86. 15. and 103. 8, 9. &c.

13 Only acknowledge i thine iniquity, that thou haſt tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD thy God, and haſt ſcattered thy ways to the ſtrangers k under every green tree, and ye have not obeyed my voice l, ſaith the LORD.

i Which will be the evidence of thy Repentance, without which thou canſt not lay claim to any pardon, Prov. 28. 13. Iſa 55. 7. Exhortations to Repentance ſhould always accompany the exhibition of Promiſes. k Viz. To other Nations, or rather to other Gods, or to Idols, running here and there up and downlike a light impudent Harlot, ſometimes to one, ſometimes to another, thus ſucking in divers ſuperſtitions, called ſcattering thy ways. Ver. 6. 2 King. 17. 4, 9, 10. and Chap. 2. 23, 25. Feet whereby we go on in ways; a metaphorical Metonymy. l So that your ſin is not a ſin of ignorance, but of obſtinacy, ſhutting your ears againſt my Counſels, which I ſent you by my Prophets for your reclaiming. 2 King. 17. 13, &c.

m I am in Covenant with you, Deut. 29. 1, 10, 11, 12, &c. and this Covenant notwithſtanding all your unfaithfulneſs, I am ready to renew with you, Hoſ. 2. 19, 20. n This word Family is not always to be taken ſtrictly for an houſhold; for then the expreſſion would ſeem to imply more in a Family than in a City; but frequently for a Country or Nation, compare Gen. 12. 3. with 22. 18. See Chap. 1. 15. or for a Tribe; and this may partly reſpect the fewneſs of thoſe that will be found Penitents and return. God will have a ſprinkling in every City, and in every Family, or Tribe, or Country; but chiefly it reſpects God's exact care of them, that being now married to them, there ſhall not be one in a City, or two in a Country or Tribe, but he will find them out, if there be but one or two, he will not overlook them, this ſeems to be intimated, Iſa. 27. 12. a Text that points at the ſame thing. o i. e. To Jeruſalem a Type of the Church, a double Metonymy of the Subject. It is the manner of the Prophets, when they are treating of temporal Deliverances, eſpecially from Babylon, frequently to break out abruptly into the ſpiritual deliverance by Chriſt, and ſo probably he doth here; and therefore bringing them to Zion muſt be underſtood, either of joyning them to his Church, under the Meſſiah, or bringing them again to Worſhip with Judah at Jeruſalem: as may ſeem to be intimated Chap. 31. 6. but the Ten Tribes did never return into their own Land, and therefore that Text muſt be underſtood of a ſpiritual going up to Zion, viz. when all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved. Rom. 11. 26. See Iſa. 56. 7, 8. and 66. 20. and this Chapter Ver. 18. Thus we may look upon this part of the Prophecy to have reſpect, partly to what God was at that time about to do, in this Verſe, and partly what he would hereafter do, when they ſhould be again ſetled in their own Land, under the Meſſiah, Ver. 16, 17, 18, 19.

CHAP. IV.

An Invitation to true Repentance, by Promises, 1,—4. and Judgments coming on them by the Babylonians, contrary to the Predictions of their false Prophets, for their Sins, 5,—18. A grievous Lamentation for the Miseries of Judah, 19—31.

1 IF thou wilt return, O Israel, saith the LORD, * return unto me k, and if thou wilt put away thine abominations l out of my sight m, then shalt thou not remove n. * Joel 2. 12.

k This seems to be a Continuation of the former Sermon: So that Israel having promised Repentance, they are here directed how it must be qualified; viz. It must not be hypocritical and feigned, but real and hearty, Chap. 24. 7. as Josiah's was 2 Kin. 23. 25. and it must be unto the Lord, not to this Idol and that Idol, hither and thither, shifting their way, but unto Me, see Chap. 2. 36 or to my Worship, and as thou hast promised Chap. 3. 22. And this sence agrees best with the Coherence: Or it may be an emphatical, short, peremptory Expression, If thou wilt return, return; make no longer Demur or Delay about it; like that Isa. 21. 12. The Hebrew read the Words in the Future Tense, If thou wilt return thou shalt return; and so they may be taken partly as a Promise, and that with reference either to their returning into their own Land; and so they concern Israel; thus Deut. 30. 2, 3, 4, 5. see Chap. 3. 14. But if the Word be taken in the Notion of Resting, not Returning, as some do, and as it is taken Isa. 30. 15. then it rather concerns Judah, q. d. thou shalt abide quietly where thou art, and shalt not wander into Captivity; and this may agree with the last Expression in that Verse, nor remove; or else with reference to the Assistance that God would give them to return unto him; partly, and that rather, as a Direction (for in the Hebrew, though the Word Return be in the Future Tense, yet it is often used Imperatively.) l Viz. Idols; a Metonymy of the Adjunct, which are so abominable in God's sight, Deut. 27. 15. Ezek. 20. 7, 8. called Dung Gods, Deut. 29. 17. See 2 Chron. 15. 8. m Though God's eye be every where; and hence implieth, that Idols are no where to be admitted, either in private or publick; yet it doth particularly relate to the place of his more immediate Presence, as their Land and Temple, 1 King. 9. 3. and spiritually to our Hearts, Hypocrites thinking it enough, if they conceal their Wickedness from Man's eye. n If this be read Imperatively, then it is Remove not, as it may be read; and so it agrees with Israel, Depart not away from me to thy Idols upon the Mountains and Hills: if read in the Future Tense, then it agrees with Judah, Thou shalt not go out of thine own Land into Exile. See the first Clause of the Verse.

2 And thou shalt swear o, the LORD liveth in truth, in judgment, and in righteousness p, and the nations shall bless q themselves in him, and in him shall they * glory r. * 2 Cor. 10. 17.

o This is to be understood, partly by way of Command, as Deut. 10. 20. and partly by way of Direction if thou swear, or when thou sweareſt: it is put here Synecdochically, for the whole Worship of God, hereby acknowledging and owning God as the only God. p Here he prescribes, 1. the Form of the Oath, viz. the Lord liveth, or by the Life of God, which was that Form which they did use in Swearing, 1 Sam. 14. 39, 45. and many other places; so Joseph swore by the Life of Pharaoh, Gen. 42. 15, 16. and Elisha very frequently useth this Form, 2 Kings 2. 2, 4, 6. and 3. 14. and 5. 16. which is also to be understood exclusively, q. d. not by any Idol, as Baal, &c. or any Creature, Chap. 5. 7. Matth. 5. 34, 35, 36. James 5. 12. but by God alone, Isa. 65. 16. See Heb. 2. 17. for by this indeed we declare the Godhead of him whom we Worship, Isa. 29. 18. 2. The Qualification of it, in which indeed are comprized all the Requisites to a Religious Oath and Worship of God, both in our general and particular Calling, with respect to God, our Selves, our Neighbours.

r In Truth, that the Matter and Substance of it be really true in it self, Rom. 9. 1. that which agrees with the Intent of the Mind, Psal. 24. 4. and with the Intent of him that administers it, not doubtful, feigned, or deceitful, as they did, Isa. 48. 1. and Chap. 5. 2. but as true as the Lord lives. 2. In Judgment, i. e. Either in Matter or Places of Judicature, for the Decision of Controversies deliberately, advisedly, and reverently, well considering both of the Form and Matter of the Oath, Lev. 5. 4. that God's Name be neither taken in vain customarily, or in Matters trivial, Deut. 5. 11. nor abused by Oaths that are rash and precipitant, such as Saul's was 1 Sam. 14. 39. and as Herod's, Matth. 14. 7. and without Necessity. 3. In Righteousness, that none be injured by it, that the Things we engage be, 1. Both Lawful and Possible. See 1 Sam. 25. 21, 22. and 28. 10. 2 Kings 19. 2. And, 2. That we look to the Performance, Psal. 15. 4. Matth. 5. 33. the want of either of which Circumstances make it a Bond of Iniquity, Eccl. 5. 4, 5. q This shall be a means to work upon the Heathen Nations, and prevail with them to come into the same way of Worship, that now scorn both you and me, because I am forced to make them the Rod of my Anger against you, in regard of your Provocations, Psal. 47. 8, 9. Chap. 3. 17. They shall think themselves happy to be incorporated with thee, that it may be with them according to that Promise Gen. 12. 3. and 22. 17, 18. They shall, as it were, bless themselves in such like form, the Lord make me and mine as Israel; blessed be Israel, and the God of Israel. Or rather, r Whereas before they gloried in their Idols, now, being taken into the true Church, among God's Israel, they shall glory in God alone, Psal. 106. 5. who indeed alone is the Glory of his People, Psal. 89. 17. and 148. 14.

3 ¶ For thus saith the LORD to the men s of Judah and Jerusalem t, break up u your fallow ground, and * sow not among thorns x. * Matth. 13. 7, 22.

s Heb. Man, i. e. to each Man; I speak to every individual among you, Ezek. 20. 7, 8. t The Lord having spoke what he had to say at present to Israel, turns now his Speech from Israel to Judah, and so continues it; which consists of several Subjects, and first with Repentance. u i. e. Prepare your Hearts by making them soft, tender, and pliable, fit to embrace my Word; a Metaphor, taken from Plow-men, that do either prepare the Ground that hath lain some time waste and untilled, by tearing up the Surface of the Earth, making it mellow, and soft, to receive the Seed; (for the Hebrew Word Nir seems to be of larger Extent than bare Preparation: God useth the same Word when he speaks to the same Purpose to Israel, Hos. 10. 12. and so it is used Prov. 13. 23.) or it may relate to both, that every thing that may be injurious to the Seed may be stubbed up. Or rather, from such as plow the Ground. x Rid your Hearts and Hands of what may hinder you of embracing my Word; grub up all those Briers, and Thorns, and mischievous Weeds, that will not suffer my Counsels to take, or my Graces to thrive with you; such as use to over-run the Sluggards Field, Prov. 24. 30, 31. Here the Lord begins to call upon them to Repent: The Phrase seems to intimate, that the Jews had been wont to mix the Truths of God among their own Inventions, as Seed among Thorns, and so corrupted it: as also, that they retained many secret and hidden Sins, like Hypocrites, which he exhorts them to eradicate.

4 * Circumcise y your selves to the LORD z, and * Deut. 30. 6. take away the fore-skins of your heart a; ye men of Judah, and Inhabitants of Jerusalem: lest my fury come forth like fire, and burn that none can quench it b, because of the evil of your doings.

y Put away your natural Corruptions; which was signified by the Sacrament of Circumcision, Col. 2 11. See 1 Per. 3. 21. the same thing with the other, but expressed in other Words. z Or to me, viz. so as I will approve. a Let it be inward, not outward, viz. in the Flesh only, (in which you so much glory in the sight of Men) but take away that Brawniness and Obstinacy that (having to do with God, who hath respect unto the heart) is upon your hearts, Deut. 10. 16. Ezek. 44. 9. Acts 7. 51. Rom. 2. 29. b Not only fierce and consuming, like Fire, Deut. 4. 24. but unquenchable, especially when it gets among your Thorns, Verse 3. which are very apt to kindle, Isa. 10. 17. lest you proceed so far in your Obstinacy, that I will not be appeased, Chap. 21. 12. Amos 5. 6. there being nothing that stirs up God to Anger but Sin, as in the next Clause, which is an Explication of those Metaphors of Thorns and Foreskins.

5 Declare ye in Judah, and publish in Jerusalem, and say, Blow ye the trumpet c in the land: cry d, gather together e, and say, * assemble your selves, and let us go into the defenced cities f. * Chap. 8. 14.

c The Lord being now about to bring Enemies upon them, he bespeaks them in martial Language, by stirring them to a speedy Provision, and warning of them of the nature of their approaching Judgment; not Famine or Plague within them, but a foreign Enemy from without, Chap. 6. 1. viz. the coming of Nebuchadnezzar and the Chaldeans. d That your Voice may be heard afar off, that all may hear. e Either to unite your Forces, or to take Counsel what to do, that you may be in safety: the same thing with Assemble your selves; implying, that the Calamity was general. f To secure from those Invasions, that are coming upon us.

6 Set up the standard g toward Zion ‖, retire h, ‖ Or, stay not; for * I will bring evil from the north i, strengthen and a great † destruction. * Chap. 1. 13, 14, 15. and 6. 22. † Heb. breaking.

g i. e. Either for them to resort to, as is usual in War, and it is therefore said to be towards Zion or Jerusalem, as being a Signal to shew them whither they should repair: see Chap. 50. 5. Jerusalem being their principal Place of Strength, and Zion the strongest part of it, 2 Sam. 5. 6, 7. h Or strengthen, fortifie or strengthen your selves for the Fight. Or rather, make haste away as Men use to do in a great Fright, viz. for your Security; such a use there is of the Word, Isa. 10. 31. and Chap. 6. 1. which Sence is confirmed by the next Words Stay not, or as some, Stay not your selves in Sin, where you promise your selves Security. i i. e. I am about to bring a great Destruction upon you from Chaldea, Chap.

Chap. 1. 13, 14, 15. some take this and the former Verse to be spoken Ironically.

* Dan 7. 4. 7 * The lion is come up from his thicket k, and the destroyer of the gentiles l is on his way m, he is gone forth from his place * to make thy land desolate n; and thy cities shall be laid waste, without an inhabitant o.

* Chap. 2. 15.

k i. e. Nebuchadnezzar called here a Lion from his fierceness, and strength, Prov. 30. 30. A Metaphor; especially in this expedition, (see Isa. 5. 27, 28, 29.) shall come up from Babylon where his chief seat is, Dan. 4. 30. as Lions are principally among the thickets of the Forest, in Covers; this place being so remote, and hid from them that they least expected trouble to arise from thence / Another description of the same person, of whose destroying Armies the Nations have had woful experience, Isa. 14. 16, 17. called the hammer of the whole Earth, Chap. 50. 23. q. d. and how shall you think to escape him? m i. e. As it is expressed in the next clause, he is gone forth from his place, he is already upon his march. n i. e. With a resolution so to do. o i. e. As places uninhabited, soon lie waste, and are overgrown with grass, as the notation of the word seems to import.

8 For this gird you with sackcloth p, lament and howl q: for the fierce anger of the LORD is not turned back from us r.

p The usual habit of mourners, especially in those days, Isa. 22. 12. Chap. 6. 26. it is a calling upon them to repent. q Probably these expressions do import the several ways that Men have to set forth their bitter complaints and sorrows of the mind, both by the gestures of the body, Chap. 2. 37. Luk. 18. 13. and expressions of the Tongue, Psal. 32. 3. Isa. 59. 11. r Neither will it, until it have accomplished its ends, Chap. 30. 24.

9 And it shall come to pass at that day saith the LORD, that the heart of the king shall perish s, and the heart of the princes; and the priests shall be astonished t, and the prophets u shall wonder x.

s The King, viz. of Judah, and the great Men, that should have encouraged the People in such a calamitous day, and been their great support, shall not only be afraid, but their own hearts shall melt within them, they shall be even at their wits end. See Josh. 5. 1. They shall have no heart at all to do any thing, they shall not be able to help their People, either by their Counsel, or Arms; their Courage will utterly fail, and their Counsel perish See Psal. 73. 26. This was fulfilled in Zedekiah. Jeremiah 39. and 52. whose flight would not advantage him. t Shall be in such a consternation, that they shall not know what course to take. u Viz. False Prophets, that had nothing but visions of peace for them, Ezek. 13. 16. Zech. 13. 3, 4. Chap. 8. 11. See next Verse. x Not so much at the disappointment of their Prophecies, for they knew well enough they were false, Chap. 23. 26, 27. as that they should be possessed with the same horror, and frights with the rest, not knowing where to flew, or rather to hide their heads for the shame that would fall upon them, when their Lyes should be discovered, they would be put to shame, and perish with the rest, and whither shall they cause their shame to go.

10 Then said I, Ah Lord GOD, y surely thou hast greatly deceived z this people, and Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall have peace a; whereas the sword reacheth unto the soul b.

y The Heb. aha, is a word both of admiration and lamentation together; they are Jeremiah's words, and complaint breathed out in the great sorrow and sighing of Soul, which he expresseth more emphatically, Chap. 23. 9. z Either hath suffered them to be thus deluded by these false Prophets, Isa. 63. 17. Ezek. 14. 9. compare 1 Kings 22. 21, 22, 23. and 2 Thes. 2. 11. or possibly, it may be read better by way of interrogation, q. d. How can it possibly be, that thou shouldst suffer thy people to be thus deluded by their false Prophets, Num. 23. 19. thou being a God, that canst not lye, Titus 1. 2. a Under the word Peace is comprized, and intended all good, intimating all things should go on prosperously with them, Gen. 37. 14. and seems the rather to be thus expressed, because it was the common Language and Phrase of the false Prophets, Chap. 8. 11. and 23. 17. b To persuade them it should be well with them, when the sword is at the door, not only ready to take away the comforts of Life, but even Life it self, Soul being put for Life, Verse 30. Psal. 69. 1. Mat. 16. 25, 26. It may intimate also a great cutting off, and slaughter among them, especially their great ones, they being, as it were, the Soul of the People.

11 At that time c shall it be said to this people, and to Jerusalem d, A dry wind e of the high places in the wilderness f toward g the daughter of my people, not to fan, nor to cleanse h.

c There shall be tydings brought both to the Country and City, Verse 5. d Viz. When Nebuchadnezzar is upon this expedition, Verse 7. e The meaning is a drying wind, such as shall blast, and scorch where it comes, without any Rain or moisture, or any other way for use or refreshment, as the last word in the Verse intimates, and it may also allude unto the Coast, from whence this wind comes, viz. from Babylon, or the North which drives away Rain, Prov. 25. 23. for it points at the stormy and furious irruption of the Babylonian Army, destroying all before them, a Metaphorical Allegory, Chap. 23. 19. and 30. 23, 24. f Or in the Plain, where there is no stop or obstacle in the way to hinder the wind, or to break its fury, Isa. 21. 1. Chap. 13. 24. See on Isa. 63. 13. g i. e. Directly, and designedly, coming along in the way leading to my People, for so we are to understand this expression, the Daughter of my People, as the Daughter of Zion, Isa. 1. 8. or rather, the Daughter Zion, which is as comely and beautiful in my eyes, and tender to me as a Daughter, Chap. 9. 1. h Not such a gentle wind, which is made choice of to separate the Chaff from the Wheat, the bad from the good, but so boisterous and violent, that it shall depopulate, sweep away, and lay waste all together, Chap. 51. 1. Ezek. 21. 3. ‖ Or, a full wind than those, † Heb. utter judgments.

12 Even ‖ a full wind i from those places shall come unto me k: now also will † I give sentence l against them.

i Heb. Fuller than they. A wind too strong for them. This is a farther description of the former wind, it shall be full, even fuller wind, that shall do its work throughly. k These are either God's words, q. d. It shall prefently come to me, to receive my Commission, and be at my Beck, and do my Will, Psal. 148. 8. Or, they relate, as it were, what will be the Language of the People at that time unto me, for against me. l q. d. The coming of this terrible wind, shall in effect speak the execution of my judgment upon them, which is pointed at by this word now, viz. at the time of the coming of this terrible storm from Chaldæa, Heb. † Heb. utter judgments.

13 Behold, he shall come up as clouds m, and * his chariots shall be as a whirlwind n: * his horses are swifter then eagles: Wo unto us, for we are spoiled o. * Isa. 5. 28. * Hab. 1. 8.

m Either noting the vast number of them, Isa. 60. 8. Heb. 12. 1. or the suddenness of them, when not expected, Clouds often rising on a sudden, and overspread the whole face of the Heavens, or rather, the great speed and swiftness, with which Nebuchadnezzar shall march against them, Isa. 19. 1 Hyperbolically described by the swiftness of Eagles in this Verse, Coap. 48. 8. n Which, beside the swiftness, notes also the confusion and amazement, that they will cause, Isa. 66. 15. o The dreadful apprehensions, that the People have of their woful condition, or possibly the words of the Prophet lamenting their misery.

14 O Jerusalem, wash thine heart p from wickedness q, that thou mayest be saved r: how long shall thy vain thoughts s lodge within thee?

p Cleanse your inward parts, O ye Men of Jerusalem, not your hands only, as Hypocrites do, but your hearts, James 4. 8. The same exhortation with Verse 3. 4. only in another Metaphor of washing, which seems to be taken from such Potions, that Physicians give to clear the inward parts from noxious humours. See Isa. 1. 16, 17. q Viz. From all filthiness of Flesh and Spirit, 2 Cor. 7. 1. James 1. 21. r This hath reference in this place to Temporal Salvation; it is prescribed as a means to prevent the judgments that are impending on them, as is plainly expressed, Verse 4. yet not exclusive of Spiritual Salvation, 2 Thes. 2. 13. Tit. 3. 5. s Wicked thoughts, or rather hopes, or expectation from any helps, Chap. 2. 5, 37. pleasing thy self with vain fancies of safety and security, which thoughts of thine will assuredly bring ruine and misery upon thee, which is inevitably coming, as in the next Verse.

t i. e. Either the voice of the Prophets, that is still sounding it in your ears, and declaring it unto you, or rather the rumour and noise of this Army is already come through your Land, you have the heavy tydings of this great affliction, Chap. 8. 16. to note the near approach of it. u This is laid to come from Dan and Ephraim, because Dan was the first place these Chaldæans must come to, it being the utmost boundary of Canaan Northward, and Ephraim the innermost border of Israel in the North of Judea, intimating the march of the Babylonians through all Israel toward Jerusalem.

16 Make ye mention to the nations x, behold, publish y against Jerusalem, that watchers z come a from a far country b, and give out their voice c against the cities of Judah.

x These are either the Nations in Judea, or these words are a Proclamation, summoning in the Nations by the Chaldeans, as it were in pursuance of a Commission from God, to bring great Armies together against Jerusalem, or they are the Prophets turning away from Judah, as despairing of doing any good upon them, and calling for the Nations to execute God's Sentence. y Let her be acquainted with what is coming upon her, let her have publick notice before hand, that she may be warned. z Military watchers, i. e. the Chaldean Soldiers, that shall so carefully and watchfully encompass Jerusalem, that none shall escape; possibly a Metaphor from Hunters, that in hunting their Prey, lay wait at every passage, that the game may not escape. See 1 King. 25. 4, 5. Or possibly, there may be an allusion to Nebuchadnezzar's Name, the Heb. word for Watchers being Notserim, which comes from Natser, the end of his Name, as if they were termed Nebuchadnezzarians, as the Keepers, or Guards of his Person; as they were called Cæsareans from Cæsar. a They are now at hand, you may as it were see them. b From Chaldea. c They will proclaim War against them; or a shout, either encouraging Soldiers to the Battle, or triumphing after the Victory; or the Outcries that they will make, such as the Turks now make in their Onsets, Chap. 2. 15.

17 As keepers of a field are they against her round about d; because she hath been rebellious e against me, saith the LORD.

d They will strictly besiege her, as Keepers of a Field will be careful who go in, and who go out, Zech. 2. 2. they will watch that none go in to relieve them, and also, that none get out to escape; See 2 Chron. 26. 1. e God doth not threaten his Judgments only, but he labours to convince them, that there is a sufficient reason for it; both here, and in the next Verse.

* Psal. 107. 17. 18 * Thy way f and thy doings have procured these things unto thee g, this is thy wickedness, because it is bitter h, because it reacheth unto thine heart.

f Thy manner of Life, and particularly thy Idolatries. g q. d. Thou canst not lay any blame upon me. h Thy wickedness hath been the cause of this thy grievous affliction, Isa. 50. 1. Chap. 2. 17, 19. of this thy bitterness of bringing such a bitter Enemy against thee, a Metonymy of the efficient, which hath reached unto thy very Heart, as the sword is said to reach unto the Soul, Verse 10.

* Isa 15.5. and 16. 11. and 21. 3 and 22.4 † Heb. the walls of my heart. 19 ¶ * My bowels, my bowels i, I am pained at † my very heart k, my heart maketh a noise l in me, I cannot hold my peace m, because thou hast heard, O my soul, the sound of the trumpet n, the alarm of war.

i Here begins the woful Complaint of, and the great Trouble the Prophet was in, upon the consideration of these things, crying out as one even under great pain and torment, doubling his words for want of vent, thereby expressing the excess of his sorrow, which in words was inexpressible, like 2 Sam. 18 33. which sorrow of his he expresseth, Chap. 9. 1, 10. k Heb. The walls of my heart, or my heart strings, that surrounded and encompassed my Heart, are ready to break; he may possibly allude to their encompassing the Walls of Jerusalem: Or, the proper meaning is, my Heart is ready to break, the LXX rendereth it doth beat or pant. l Is disturbed within me, I can have no rest nor quiet within. Job 30. 27. Lam. 1. 20. m I cannot forbear my Complaints, I am so troubled and grieved, Job 7. 11. Isa. 22. 4. n i. e. I have heard in the Spirit of Prophecy; it is as certain, as if I now heard the Trumpet sounding, and the alarm of War beating up.

* Psal. 42. 7. 20 * Destruction upon destruction o is cryed, for the whole land is spoiled p: suddenly are my tents q spoiled, and my curtains in a moment.

o A further expression of his bitter Lamentation, redoubling his complaint; the end of one, but the beginning of another, q. d. worse and worse. Deut. 32. 23. Ezek. 7. 26. Good Josiah slain, and four of his Successors carried away, or slain, or both, 2 Chron. 36 p This is more particularly described, Verse 23, 24, 25, 26 q The Enemy makes no more of overthrowing my stately Cities, and magnificent Palaces, sometimes described by Tents, Isa. 54. 2. than if he were plundering of a Camp, or overturning of Tents made of Curtains. Chap 49 29. either alluding to their ancient way of living, Numb. 24. 2, 5. or their Wilderness condition, when they abode in Tents: q. d. We are reduced to as mean a condition as then, and that suddenly, ere we are aware, and it is done with as much ease as overturning a poor Shepherds Cottage, Lam. 2, 5, 6. Jeremiah possibly personating a Shepherd, speaks in the Shepherds stile, and may here signifie the destruction of their whole Country, even all those Places and Fields, where Shepherds were wont to pitch their Tents

r He seems to have these Concomitants of War, both of Judea, preparing for defence, and especially those of the Enemy preparing for ruine and destruction, always in his Eye and Ear, Verse 19. and bewailing the countenance of it in taking City after City, with the several sackings of Jerusalem under her three last Kings. The LXX read, how long shall I see them flying? reading nas a Refuge, for nes a Banner, differing only in the Points.

22 For my people is foolish s, they have not known me t, they are sottish children, and they have none understanding: they are wise to do evil, but to do good they have no knowledge u.

s Though God shew them here, that the cause of all these Calamities is their folly, Chap. 2. 17, 19. Psal. 38. 3, 5 yet he owns them for his People, Chap. 2. 11, 31, 32. t Which is indeed the only true wisdom; they have not studied my disposition, or mild ness toward them; they are so sottish, that they have neither regarded my Counsels nor Threats, but utterly stupid; they know not what is for their own good, have no understanding. u i. e. Their knowledge is as bad, or worse than none, it is very ill employed in doing evil, only witty here, crafty and subtile. See 2 Sam. 13. 3 But how to do any good they know not, Chap. 9. 3. Luke 16 8. this the Apostle deherts from 1 Cor. 14. 20.

* Isa 5.25. 23 * I beheld x the earth, and lo, it was without form and void y: and the heavens, and they had no light z.

x Either I Jeremiah saw all this in a vision, or I fansied and framed such an Idea of it in my mind, it seems to be impressed upon my thoughts Graphically, as in a Map, in such a rueful manner; for in this, and the three following Verses, he doth as one transported with sorrow, elegantly, and hyperbolically describe the Phænomenon, face or appearance of it. y The Land was so squalid, and so ruined, that he fansieth it to be like the first Chaos, for which reason possibly he calls Judea the Earth, in allusion to Gen 1. 2. and herein implying that Judah's sins were such, that they had even overturned the Course of Nature, being laid waste and desolate, not of Inhabitants only, but of all things that might tend either to ornament or use, without Men, without Houses, without Fruits, without Beasts or Birds for Food or Service, Verse 25, 26. z Some say being obnubilated, and darkened by the abundance of smoke that would ascend from the desolating Fires of Towns and Cities, Isa. 9. 18, 19. of which you may read in the History of this breaking in of the Chaldees. But he seems to proceed rather in his Metaphor of the Chaos; it being an expression, whereby the Scripture doth set forth the saddest Desolations, Isa. 13. 9. &c. Ezek. 32. 7. &c. Joel 2. 10. 30, 31. every thing above and below seemed to be in a mournful posture, wrapt up in dismal blackness.

24 I beheld the mountains, and lo, they trembled a, and all the hills moved lightly b.

a He proceeds in his figurative Elegancies, q. d. Behold how the Mountains of Judea tremble! A like expression, Psal. 18. 7, 8. Isa. 5. 25. as if the very senseless Creatures were astonished at the greatness of God's Anger, and he mentions these as being the most stable part of the Earth, yet shake before him. b As easily as if they were some very light matter, or as dust, or feathers in a Whirlwind. See Psal. 114. 4, 6. Or these may be said hyperbolically to tremble. and move by reason of the multitudes of trampling and prancing Horses and Chariots furiously pacing over them.

25 I beheld, and lo, there was no man c, and all the birds of the heavens were fled d.

c Quite depopulated and laid waste, all either slain, or carried captive, or fled: For after the flight of Men, Women and Children into Egypt, upon the Death of Gedaliah, scarce a Jew was left in Judea. d Such Birds as are used to inhabited places, that live, feed and build among Men; (others indeed, both Birds and Beasts would continue, which implies but the greater desolation, and wast of the Land, as is threatned against Babylon; Isa. 13 19, 20 21, 22.) Fled, either to seek Provisions, here being no food left for them, or frighted with the hideous noises and clatterings that do attend Armies; as we have read, that such hath been the concussion of the Air by the loud clamours and noises of Armies, that Birds have fallen down to the earth. Chap 9. 10. Zeph. 1. 2, 3.

26 I beheld, and lo, the fruitful place e was a wilderness, and all the cities thereof were broken down f at the presence of the LORD, and by his fierce anger g.

e Heb. Carmel, either properly for that part of the Land so called for its fruitfulness, or rather Appellatively for, not only their most pleasant, but most fruitful Lands, that were kept dressed and occupied for food, both for necessity and delight, Verse 27. Isa. 29. 17. and 33 9. f No place left for Men to inhabit, Isa. 1. 7. g That which the Enemy could not have done with all his fury and fierceness, had it not been for the Anger of the Lord, which by their great provocation, they had brought upon themselves, 2 Kings 24. 3 Jer. 9. 12, 13.

27 For thus hath the LORD said, the whole land shall be desolate; * yet will I not make a full end h. * Chap. 5. 10. 18. & 46. 28.

h Some expound it, neither shall this punishment suffice, nor my fury stop here, I will not thus have done with them; and so look to what they have further to endure in their long captivity. See Lev. 26. 36, 39. But it seems rather to be a word of comfort, that they shall not be utterly extinct, he will preserve a remnant, Chap 5. 10. Isa. 1. 9. and 24. 13. q. d. Though I am greatly moved with anger, yet I will not be inexorable, I will remember my Covenant, Chap. 30. 11. in the midst of judgment he will remember mercy, after 70 years Captivity he brought them back again.

28 For this shall the earth mourn, and * the heavens above be black i: because I k have spoken it, I have purposed it, and will not repent, neither will I turn back from it. * Isa 5 30. and 50. 3.

i Expressions to set forth the dreadfulness of the judgment, he makes the Elements to personate Mourners, a sad face of things above and below, a Metaphor, and therein to shame the stupidity of his People. k q. d. You would not believe, either that my Prophet spake, or what they said, now I tell you I speak my self, and what I have resolved upon. I will not revoke See Ezek 24. 13, 14. and Chap. 15. 6. for I have purposed it, I have not spoken in my heat or fury, but upon mature deliberation, an Anthropopathy, or what the Prophets have denounced I will ratifie.

29 The whole city shall flee, for the noise l of the horsemen and bowmen, they shall go into thickets m, and climb up upon the rocks: every city n shall be forsaken, and not a man o dwell therein.

l The Inhabitants of all Ranks and Qualities shall seek to escape the fury of this Chaldean Army, Chap. 39. 4. m Either upon the report of their coming, hereby as it were deriding their confidence, or rather at the approach of their vast Armies, for they were close besieged before they fled, as appears 2 Kings 25. 4. n Such a consternation there shall be upon them, that they shall run into every hole to hide themselves; thus Manasseh was taken among the thorns, 2 Chron. 33. 11. the Heb. is ahm the clouds, possibly alluding to dark places on the tops of hills, reaching as it were to the clouds, or among the cloudy shades of Trees and Groves that usually grew there, the LXX render it Caves, and so the Rocks for shelter, or the clefts, Caves and hiding places in the Rocks. See Isa. 2. 21. o There shall be an utter desolation, their Cities quite forsaken, not any to inhabit them, Ver. 25, 26.

30 And when thou art spoiled p, what wilt thou do q? Though thou clothest thy self with crimson r, though thou deckest thee with ornaments s of gold, though thou rentest † t thy face u with painting, in vain x shalt thou make thy self fair, thy lovers will despise y thee, they will seek thy life. † Heb. Eyes.

p Which will certainly come upon thee, or when this destruction shall come upon thee, which is very near thee. q Viz. When thou, O Daughter of Zion, as Verse 31. art besieged by the Babylonians, what course wilt thou take? It is not to be avoided: A kind of an insulting way of speech, as it were upbraiding them with their pride and confidence, q. d. your condition is desperate. r Or Scarlet, 2 Sam. 1. 24. See on Isa. 1. 18. s Though thou dost superinduce those Ornaments, or Jewels of Gold,

Gold, that may render thy Attire the most rich and splendid, 2 Sam. 1. 24. t It is observed, that they that paint much make their Skins withered. u Heb. Eyes, the Wantonness thereof their Skins withered. u Heb. Eyes, the Wantonness thereof being possibly set out more by Painting. See Isaiah 3. 16. or rather, Face and Eyes being sometimes put one for the other. See 1 Sam. 16. 12. and Isa. 25. 8. Compare with Rev. 21. 4. x All thy tricking up thy self, thinking thereby to ingratiate thy self with the Chaldeans, will be to no purpose; for they will work thy Ruin, as in the Close of the Verse, and Chap. 19. 7. y They will slight thee more than ever; they that have doted on thee, thy unchaste Paramours, their Lust being satisfied, shall abhor thee; see 2 Sam. 13. 15. and the Pronoun, being not in the Original, it may signifie, that no Lovers at all will look after thee; thou shalt be cast off by all. See thus of Tyre, Isa. 23. 16, 16. Those that were in Confederacy with thee, and thy professed Friends, Hosea 2. 5. shall not only forsake thee, but join with thine Enemies to destroy thee, Lam. 1. 2. And thus is Babylon to be dealt withal, Rev. 17. 16. 17. The Sence is, That notwithstanding all thy Allurings and Enticements, either to obtain the help of thy Friends and Allies, the Egyptians, whom thou takest to be thy Lovers, and didst forsake me to cleave to them, or to stop the fury of thine Enemies, the Chaldeans; to them, or to stop the fury of thine Enemies, the Chaldeans; (possibly alluding to Jezabel's practice, in painting her self to stop the fury of Jehu, 2 Kings 9. 30.) yet shall it advantage thee nothing; thou shalt be no more regarded than a forsaken Strumpet, Ezek. 16. 36, 37. and 23. tot.

31 For I have heard a voice as of a woman in z travail, and the anguishes of her that bringeth forth her first a child, the voice of the daughter of b Zion: that bewaileth her self, that spreadeth her hands c, saying, Wo is me d now, for my soul is wearied because of e murderers.

z When the Scripture would express any exquisite Sorrow, exceeding all other Pains, it doth it by a Woman in travail, Isa. 13. 8, 9. Chap. 6. 24. and 30. 6, 7. a Which of all seems to be the most painful, both from natural Causes, and because they have less Patience to bear, having not had former Experience of the like. b Viz. Jerusalem, Isa. 1. 8. c In her great Distress, she either reacheth them out to God for some help, Isa. 1. 15. or rather according to the Use of Persons in great Anguish, clapping or wringing their hands together, as both the former Expression of bewailing her self, fetching of deep Sighs and Lamentations, and the following Wo is me, intimates. See Chap. 2. 37. d Or the time of my Woe is at hand; it draws near. e There is no more Spirit left within me, I am ready to sink under my Distress, considering not only that my Destruction is so near, but that those of whom I have been so fond, and whose Idols I have so zealously served, should become my Murderers, Verse 30. and that I should fall into the hands of such, as will have no Compassion, 2 Chron. 36. 17.

CHAP. V.

None godly in Judah, 1. They swear falsly, though God be a God of Truth; they are incorrigible and senseless, and know not the Law, or else wilfully violate it, 1,——6. Their Idolatry, Adultery, 7,——9. Contempt of Gods Word and Prophets, which should be sadly verified, 10,——18. They forsake, forget, and fear not God, whose Power is so great, 19,——24. They are rich through Deceit and Violence; their False Prophets, 25,——31.

1 RUn ye a to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem, and see now and know, and seek in the b broad places thereof, if ye can find a c man, if there be any that executeth d judgment, that seeketh the e truth, and I will pardon f it.

a Whether this begins a new Sermon, or be part of the former, is neither certain nor material; but here the Prophet is called upon to go up and down, and search here and there, in every part of the City, and to make a diligent Enquiry in every Street, and Places of Concourse; a Phrase frequently used for searching and enquiring after a thing, Dan. 12. 4. Amos 8. 12. and it is spoken in the Plural Number, not restrained to Jeremy in particular; q. d. Let who will search, they will find it even so: it implies the great Scarcity of good Men, that must be thus searched for: God gives leave to all the Earth to look into the state of Jerusalem, by which he vindicates himself in the face of the whole World from all severity towards his People, whatever he brings upon them, and so stops the Mouths of the Jews. b Even there, where usually is the greatest Resort for Merchants and Merchandizes, where Men meet from all Quarters. c It seems worse than Sodom and Gomorrah, for God condescends to pardon Jerusalem, if there be but one righteous Man found in it; there he came no lower than ten. But it will be objected, if it be understood thus individually, What must we think of Jeremiah himself, and Baruch, and Ebedmelech, and other few, who were then, no doubt, in Jerusalem? Answer, Either he speaks of the corrupt Body of the People, Courtiers, Priests, False Prophets, not one, or scarce one among them to be found, or if any, so few as not to be discerned: A Man might walk the Streets of Jerusalem long enough before he could meet with any one truly Religious; which Universality of Corruption is thus expressed in divers Places, Psalm 12. 1, 2. and 14. 2, 3. Ezek. 22. 30. Mic. 7. 1, 2. Or it may be understood Hyperbolically for a few. d i. e. Among the Magistracy that rightly administer Justice. e i. e. Among the Commonalty that deal faithfully and uprightly, it signifies, That among them all, there are none given to it; so far from endeavouring and seeking it fervently with their whole Heart, that they are not inclined to it, but are given to Oppressions, Falsehoods, and Deceits; they do not seek the Truth. f Or him, I will not destroy it for the sake of those few: the like he promiseth with reference to those five Cities, Gen. 18. 24. &c.

2 And though they say, the LORD g liveth, surely they swear h falsely.

g Though when they swear, they use the form of an Oath, and say, the Lord liveth, Chap. 4. 2. or by the living God. By Swearing here we may understand all their Service of God, by a Synecdoche; Swearing being a part of God's Worship. h Per, or therefore they swear falsly; either they swear to that which is false; or, if to that which is true, they are so perfidious to me, that they do it deceitfully, not in Sincerity, and in Reverence to that Holy Name by which they swear: possibly they may often speak of God, and not swear by False Gods, Verse 7. but it is all but Hypocrisie and Deceit, Isa. 48. 1. Chap. 12. 2. and 42. 5, 20. 2 Tim. 3. 5. It is neither in Truth nor Righteousness, two of the principal Qualifications of a lawful Oath: Thus they prostitute the Name of God, making themselves guilty, not of Hypocrisie only, but Sacrilege.

3 O LORD, are not thine eyes upon the i truth? thou hast * stricken them, but they have not * Isa. 9. 13. grieved; thou hast l consumed them, but * they have * Zeph. 3. refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a m rock, they have refused to n return.

i The Prophet, observing the Obstinacy of this People, abruptly turns himself to God, yet emphatically insinuates their Incorrigibleness. This may refer either to God's discerning and knowing Truth from Falsehood, as being impossible that any thing should be hid from him, Psalm 11 4. or rather (more agreeable to the Phrase) to God's approving; and this some again refer to Persons, as, Men of truth for true Men, so Man of Wisdom for a wise Man, Micah 6. 9. but others, better, to Truth and Faithfulness, as that which God hath a great Respect for, and Delight in, Psalm 51. 6. and was not to be found among these People. Though none of these Senses be improper, this seems the most genuine. k They have been under sore Grievances that God hath laid them under, yet they seem unconcerned, Prov. 23. 35. Isa. 42. 25. or it is probable they were griev'd at their Sufferings, but they have not repented, thereby to turn away the Causes of his just Displeasure. See 2 Cor. 7. 9, 10. l God had not only lightly chastised them, but wasted them by several Enemies, as the Assyrian, Isa. 10. 5, 6. and 36. 1 and Pharaoh Necho, 2 Kings 23. 33. and the Chaldees, Syrians, Moabites, and the Ammonites, 2 Kings 24. 2 and Nebuchadnezzar, 2 Kings 24. 13, &c. All these he made use of as the Rod of his Indignation, yet they refused to receive Correction. See Chap. 2. 30. a Metonymy of the Effect; they have profited nothing by it, not at all reformed, Isa. 1. 5, 16. Amos 4. 6, 8, 9, 10, 11. m Noting their Obstinacy and Impudence, laying aside all sense of Judgments, as past feeling, Prov. 21. 29. Zech. 7. 12. n Wilfully rejected Counsel, and slighted Correction, resolving to persist in their Obstinacy.

4 Therefore I said o, surely these are p poor; they are foolish: for they know not the way of the LORD, nor the judgment of their GOD.

o Or perhaps I said with my self, not possibly, that he thought so, but that he might thus express himself, as Men use to speak. p Poor, low-spirited, or of the meanest rank among the Vulgar, understand but little, either Men of greater Ignorance, John 7. 49. and therefore said not to know the way of the Lord. See Chap. 8. 7. being better skill'd in Fields and Vineyards, than in the Law; or of less Conscience than the better sort may be, and therefore said to be foolish, or infatuated, or put upon greater Temptation by reason of their Poverty, Prov. 30. 9. &c. The Methods or Ways of his Providence, the usual manner of his Dealings; so Judgment is to be taken here for the same with ways, 1 Sam. 2. 13. as it is also Chap. 8. 7.

5 I will get me to the q great men, and will speak unto them; for they have r known the way of the LORD, and the judgment of their GOD: but these have altogether broken the yoke, and burst the s bonds.

q i. e. To the Nobles, both Prince and Priest, that have more time to consider these things, have been better taught and educated, Prov. 4. 4. Not that Jeremiah had any better Thoughts of these, but as carrying a great Probability with it. r Had it been only among those in the former Verse, it might have been more excusable; but it is in the very Nobles themselves: the State is wholly corrupt from Head to Foot, who cannot plead Ignorance, therefore the more inexcusable. s These are more refractary than the other, more heady and obstinate; no Law of God is able to hold them, Psal. 2, 3. See Luke 19. 14, 27. There is not one better than another among them, whether poor or rich.

6 Wherefore a t lion out of the forest shall slay them, * u a wolf of the ‖ x evenings shall spoil * Psal. 104. 20. them *, y a leopard shall watch over their cities: ‖ Or, Deserts. every one that goeth out thence shall be torn in pieces, because their transgressions are many, and their backslidings are † z increased. * Hof. 13. 7. † Heb. Libanus, woody places, are here pointed at under the Metaphor strong.

t Nebuchadnezzar and the Chaldean Army from Syria and u Or their Greediness and Unsatiableness; one Wolf will destroy abundance of Sheep; and said to be the Wolf of the Evening, or Deserts, or Plains, they being the usual Haunts of the the Wolf; or Evening, because then they are observed to be most ravenous, Hab. 1. 8. possibly, because lying most part of the day in their Dens for fear of the Huntsmen, want of Prey enrageth their Hunger at night, and because of this greedinesse to devour, the Judges among themselves are said to be Evening Wolves, described Zeph. 3 3. They gnaw not the Bones till the morrow, either through Hunger or Rage. x The Chaldæan Army compared to a Leopard. not for its speed only, but especially for its Vigilancy and Subtilty; they will be so vigilant, that scarce any shall escape, according to Verse 16. y Heb. Strong; here is the reason why God would bring such a Devastation upon them, because they did, as it were, strengthen themselves in the multitude of their Rebellions against him.

7 ¶ How shall I z pardon thee for this? thy a children have forsaken me, and sworn by them that are b no gods: when I had fed them to the full, they c then committed d adultery, and assembled themselves by e troops in the harlots houses.

z How canst thou expect that I shall bear such Affronts? I shall expose my self, and seem to lay aside my power, I shall be look'd upon as one, that either regard not such Injuries, or cannot avenge them, as Verse 9. a Thy Inhabitants both in City and Country. b But by Idols; Swearing is here put, not for any part of Worship, as sometimes it is, but for a religious Worship and Service of them, Chap. 4. 2. c Here is noted the abuse of God's Bounty, or the natural Effect of our unsanctified Prosperity. Deut. 32. 15. Chap. 2 7. Jude 4. That which in good Men doth oft breed Forgetfulnesse, in bad Men generally breeds Filthinesse: rising up to play the Wanton, was the Effect of Israel's Eating and Drinking, Exod. 32. 6. and of Sodom's Sin, Ezek. 16. 49. d Either 1. Metaphorically to be understood of their going a Whoring after their Idols; or, 2. Properly for corporal Uncleanneſs, they usually going both together, Numb. 25. 1, 2. Hoſ. 4. 12, 14. e It may be read in the Nominative Case, the House of the Harlot assembled themselves, q. d. the whole House of Israel, Jerusalem, and Judea, are but one Stew; if it refers to their Idolatry, then it alludes to their making the Temple a common House of spiritual Harlotry; but rather, as it refers to the corporal Uncleanneſs, it seems to intimate that they did not act their Adulteries clandestinely or by stealth, but laying aside all Modesty, they went to Harlots Houses like brute Beasts in company, as ashamed of nothing.

8 They were as f fed horses in the g morning: every one h neighed after his neighbours wife.

f To note the Greatnesse and Unruliness of their Lust, pampered Horses being most wanton, like that Deut. 32. 15. g It is questioned, whether Morning relates to Horses, or to Men; if to Horses, then they are compared to Stallions, that having been fed to the full over-night, and lain at ease, in the Morning they are most lusty: but rather it seems to relate to Men, shewing that they were very early in going about their Filthinesses, Zeph. 3. 7. following their Uncleanneſs with as great Eagernesse as it is said that Drunkards follow strong Drink. Isa. 5. 11. h i. e. With an impetuous Earnestnesse and unwearied Hunting, they sought after the Adulteresses to satisfie their beastly lusts. It notes 1. The strength of their Lust, a thing in Horses much taken notice of by Authors. 2. The Unbridledneſs and Uncontroulablenesse of it, as is seen in the pampered Horses hunting after the Mare, of which neighing is a Sign, thus expressed Chap. 13 27. Thus the Grecians would express Men extreamly libidinous by the Word ἱππᾶσθαι, and ἱππομανεῖς, and that they do ἱππομανεῖν, so the LXX, and thus described Ezekiel 22 11.

* Ver. 29. Chap 9. 9. 9 * Shall I not i visit for these things? saith the LORD: and shall not my k soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

i i. e. Punish, Psal. 89. 32. Should I connive at such things, the wicked would say, I did not see them, or take notice of them Psal. 50. 21. much to the same purpose with Verse 7. begin. and Punishment may be termed Visiting, as implying the Equity of God's Procedures, that he first sees and considers the case, before he inflicts Punishment: as in the case of Sodom, Gen. 18. 21. spoke after the manner of Man k For I, it speaks the Greatnesse of God's Displeasure, Shall not my very Soul be in this work of Vengeance? Psal. 11. 5.

10 ¶ Go ye l up upon her walls, and m destroy; but make not a full n end: take away her o battlements; for they are not the p LORDS.

l Ye Babylonians, go now execute my Vengeance on them. I give them into your hands; behold, I give you a Commission. m I permit and order you not only to take the City, but make havock of her Inhabitants, Isa. 10. 6. n Though God give them a large Commission to destroy, yet he puts in a Limitation, that he will reserve a Remnant from Destruction; he sets bounds to the most raging Adversary, beyond which he must not pass. See on Chap. 4. 27. o Lay her and all her Fortifications level with the ground; take away her Counterscarp, or high Towers, or whatsoever may tend to the Defence of a City; to let Jerusalem know, that the did but in vain trust to her high Walls and strong Towers; and Battlements may as well be taken for the foundation of her Walls, which spread wider than the Wall it self: The Word the Prophet useth, signifies things that spread; and thus it agrees with the Scope, that is describing the utter Overthrow and eradicating of it: so LXX, take away her Supports. p I undertake their Defence no longer; I disown them; take my Protection from them, and give them up into your hands, O ye Chaldæans, though they make their boast that they are sheltered under my Wing and Protection, because there was the Temple and Altar; but they will find themselves deceived; for I disown them.

* Chap. 3. 20. 11 For * the House of Israel and the house of q Judah have dealt very r treacherously against me, saith the LORD.

q Whether Israel be put here for the Ten Tribes, and Judah for the two, as often they are Chap. 2. 4. and fundry other places; or rather, whether Judah here be only explicative, and the Word meant of the two Tribes only, read thus, the House of Israel, even the House of Judah, is not much material. r Have apostatized and dealt perfidiously beyond measure, not only as to the Grosseſt, but as to the Universality of it.

12 They have s belyed the LORD, and said, * It is not he, neither shall evil come upon us; neither shall we see t sword nor famine. * Isa. 28. 15.

s This may signifie either a denying, viz. a renouncing, making little or nothing of him, as some; or a denying, i. e. not believing, that these Words of the Prophet were God's Words, or God did not say so; he gave not the Prophet, nor any other, any such Commission, and possibly their Atheism might grow to so high a degree as to deny his Providence, Power, and Justice, &c. so it agrees with the following Words, it is not he, or God did not speak as he meant; but he would only fright us, it shall not be thus. t This Siege or Famine, or any other such dreadful Judgments, as Jeremiah speaks of, shall not befall us. Seeing is used here for Feeling, as it is in Job 7. 7.

13 And the prophets shall become u wind, and the word is not in x them, thus shall it be done y unto them.

u A proverbial Speech, very frequent, not in common Language only, but Scripture also, Job 6. 26. Eccles. 5. 16. and elsewhere; i. e. all the Prophet's Threats shall come to nothing: and thus they scoffed at them, Tush, what do they signifie? they are but brutum fulmina: see 2 Chron. 36. 15, 16. x This, possibly, they give as the Reason that they apprehend the Prophet's Words to be but as Wind, because they are not from God, they speak but Dreams of their own fansying. y It shall fall upon their own heads that have thus threatned us, not upon us; or, we will kill them with the Sword, for thus vainly threatning us; we will use them like False Prophets, as they are; and we shall see in the Sequel of this Prophecy how they used Jeremiah; or it may be an Imprecation, q. d. may it fall upon their own Heads: thus the Heb. So be it unto them.

14 Wherefore z thus saith the LORD God of a hosts, Because ye speak this b word, * behold, I will make my words in thy mouth fire, and this people wood, and it shall devour c them. * Chap. 1. 9.

z These vile Wretches having now done speaking, God begins to speak; and because they had thus slighted the Prophet, and God speaking by him, (as in the next Words, Because ye speak this Word) here tells them what he will do; or rather, turns himself abruptly to the Prophet, as Men usually do in a Passion. a He makes his Majesty and Power known, to cloath his Words with the greater Terror. b Viz. At the rate they discourſed in the former Verse. c i. e. It shall take place suddenly, and irresistibly, and fiercely, as Fire is wont to take in dry Wood to their utter Ruin and Overthrow. Psal 83. 14, 15. Isa. 9. 18, 19. They shall be but Fuel to my Wrath which shall be executed by the Chaldæan Army, that shall consume, and eat them up like fire; they shall find my Words to be more than Wind.

15 Lo, I will bring a * nation upon you from d far, O house of e Israel, saith the LORD: it is a mighty f nation, it is an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither understandest what they g say. * Isa. 5. 26. Chap. 1. 15. and 6. 22.

d Viz. From Chaldæa. e By these are meant Judah; for Israel properly so called, viz. the Ten Tribes, were in Captivity before: see on Chap. 4. 1. called the House of Israel; not only because they descended from Jacob, but because they were the chief of that Stock. f It is both potent, or, as the Word is, rough and harsh, and of great Antiquity, ever since the laying the first Foundation of Babylon by Nimrod, about 170 Years after the Flood; and hence it is called the Land of Nimrod, Mic. 5. 6. And this doth much add to their Cruelty, that they have had Dominion and Rule in their hands so long, and whereby they have not only grown more proud and haughty, but having been brought up so long in ways of Blood and Slaughter, they must needs by this time become skilful to destroy. g Which makes thy case much more desperate. It is a great disadvantage when Persons understand not one another; they will neither understand thy intreaties, nor thou their offers, being both unintelligible, and inexorable, which will render thy condition much more sad and perplexed; speech being that by which the affection is readily communicated, and is the bond of humane Society: Hence this was part of the Judgment threatned, Deut. 28. 36, 49, 50. the Jews not well understanding the Syrian Tongue, which the Chaldæans spake, having had no converse with them before the Captivity. It was this put a stop to all converse at the building of Babel.

16 Their h quiver is an open i sepulchre, they are all mighty k men.

h Collectively expressed for Quivers; a Synecdoche for the whole military preparations, and a Metonymy of the containing for the contained, viz. the Arrows, that will be shot out of them, called the sons of the Quiver, Lam 3. 13. Bow and Arrow being the chief Weapons for War in those Countries, and in those days. i A proverbial speech, Psal. 5. 9. relating to the dreadful havock, and destruction, that will be made devouring the living, as the Grave doth the dead, or making work for the greedy devouring Grave, that never saith it hath enough, Prov. 1. 12. Or, they shall destroy many with one Quiver, as one Grave will swallow swallow many dead, which may note their skill, and the success they shall have, few of their Arrows shall fail of doing execution. k These Chaldeans are all men of valour fit for Warriours.

17 And they shall eat up thine * harvest, and thy bread, which thy sons and thy daughters should m eat, they shall eat up thy flocks, and thine herds, they shall eat up thy vines and thy n figtrees, they shall impoverish thy fenced cities wherein thou trustest, with the o sword. * Lev. 26. 16.

l They shall make clean riddance, leave thee no supports of life, but bring an utter Famine upon thee, it is thus threatned, Deut. 28. 30, 48, 51. m Or, they shall eat up thy Sons and thy Daughters, but this is only a Metonymy of the effect; but properly this aggravates the dreadfulnesse of the Judgment; Parents, out of the tenderneſs of their affection, chusing rather to die themselves, than to live to see their Children starved before their eyes, and they no ways able to relieve them, Lam. 2. 10, 11. n A particular enumeration of the Desolation, that would be made, all tending to the greatneſs of the former. o i. e. Beside the waste that the Famine would make among Persons; their Cities also should be depopulated by the sword of the Enemy: or rather, possibly the Siege should be so streight, and strict, as may be implyed in the word impoverish, that they should be forced to eat one another, till they were quite wasted, they should be reduced to such poverty and exigencies; or the sword may relate to the mentioned mischiefs, as the cause of them all, the sword shall do all this. In all which he doth not so much tell them, that the Chaldeans shall conquer them, for that is taken as it were for granted, as, what Cruelties they shall use when they have conquered.

18 Nevertheless in those days, saith the LORD, I will not make a full ‖ end with you.

‖ See this Verse explained, Chap. 4. 27. save only, that I think, here it is taken in the first sense there mentioned; for it is not said only, or in that Verse, I will not make a full end, or a full end of you, but a full end with you; q. d. I have not done with you yet. See Lev. 26. 14. ad 40.

19 ¶ And it shall come to pass when ye shall say *, Wherefore doth the LORD our God all these things unto us? then shalt thou answer them, Like as ye have forsaken me, and served q strange gods in your land, so shall ye serve strangers in a land, that is not r yours. * Chap. 22. & 10.

p This speaks, either their unparallel'd insolency, in a manner challenging God, as if they had not deserved such dealing at his hands, they might have expected better usage from him; the Jews were good at these kinds of challenging of God, Isa. 58. 3. Or gross stupidity, as being such Sots as not to be sensible of what they had done to provoke him; like to that Chap. 16. 10. q Heb. Gods of the stranger; he doth not say strange Gods, but Gods of the stranger, which aggravated their crime, that while they lived in their own land, and the true God among them, they would precariously go fetch in Gods from the Heathens. r Here the Prophet 1. opposeth strange Lords to rule over them, to those strange Gods, that they had served, which God calls a forsaking of him. 2. He opposes a land not theirs, to their own land; so that by this the Prophet shews what resentments God had of their sin; for it implys that their sin was much greater, that they served strange Gods in their own land, than if they had done it in another, under the Tyrannical impoſition of a stranger, and therefore he would accordingly suit their punishment, that they should serve in a strange land, which should be worse, than to be servants in their own. This is a dreadful but a just Retaliation.

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob, and publish it in s Judah, saying, s See of this Chap. 4. 5. By Judah and Jacob we are to understand the two Tribes only, as Ver. 11. which see.

21 Hear now this, * O fooliſh people, and without † understanding; which have eyes and see not; which have ears, and u hear not: * Ps. 6. 9. Ezek. 12. 2. † Or, Isa. 44. 13 14. Jer. 11. 8. Heb. ears.

t Heb. Heare. They have no heart to return, or to any thing of Instruction, or Reformation, but are stupid and sottish, regardless of all Counsel, Wisdom, and common Prudence. The Heart is said to be the Symbol. and according to Galen, the seat of Wisdom; so the Poet placeth it, Cor sapit, & pulmo loquitur, fel commovet iram, &c. u See Chap. 6. 10. They are wilfully blind, and obstinately deaf, will neither see, nor hear the Word, Will or Works of God, of which he giveth two instances in two following Verses, Ver. 22, 24. viz. in governing the Sea, and appointing the seasons of the Year. It may be he alludes herein to their Idols, to which they were so much addicted.

22 Fear ye not x me? saith the LORD: will ye not tremble at my presence, which have placed the y sand for the * bound of the sea, by a z perpetual decree, that it cannot pass it; and though the waves thereof toss a themselves, yet can they not b prevail; though they roar, yet can they not pass over it? * Psal. 104. 9.

x Either a convincing Argument to perſwade them to submit unto him; will ye not submit to me, that can rule the Sea? which as unruly a thing as it is, yet quietly yields to my will; or rather, a very angry Challenge and Expostulation; do you think, that I, that can tame the boisterous Sea, cannot tame you? y That stand not in need to make Rocks for Walls and Bounds unto it, but can give a check to it by so small a matter, as the Sand, that of it self is not only yielding and penetrable, but subject to be blown away with every wind. z Either looking backward, that it never could, or forward that it never shall. Whether this decree have respect to the Creation, or to the Deluge, it is not much material; the striving of which tides it could not have been contained within its bounds, neither in the latter could it have exceeded them, without God's special order, as no time since. a Though they swell, rage, roar, and threaten never so much, as if they would swallow up all before them; though they foam against the Rocks that stand in their way, yet, when they come to their bounds appointed, shall tamely yield unto the Sand, and retire back. b Not get any ground upon or against God's decree and appointment. Either the decree or the sand, which in regard of their form, situation, unrulineſs, and flurability would overflow the whole earth, were it not for the limits, and restraints that are laid upon it, Job 38. 11. By this instance, God may shew what he could do with reference to that enraged, and raging Army, that is about to come upon them like a torrent, if his people would repent. Or rather he hereby upbraids the Jews with their unreasonable fottishness, that they are more mad in their Rebellions against God, than the raging waters of the Sea, that as boisterous as they are, yet obey his Will.

23 But this people hath a revolting and a c rebellious heart; they are revolted, and d gone.

c They are not only revolted from me, and gone back, but they continue obstinate, and will not return, Psal. 78. 8. as the next clause intimates, where God shews their obstinacy by the effect of it. d Viz. From me, they persist in their courses, no reclaiming of them, for they are not only revolted, but they are gone quite away, and are irreclaimable.

24 Neither say they in their e heart, Let us now f fear the LORD our God, that giveth g rain, both the * former and the h latter in his season: he reserveth unto us the appointed weeks of the i harvest. * Deut. 11. 14.

e They are so careleſs, that they never trouble themselves about it; or so obdurate, and stiff, that they never lay it to heart, or consider that it is God that dispoſeth of all things according to his own pleasure, both in the Earth and in the great deep. f Or serve and obey, all service to God being both performed in it, and proceeding from it. g Without which nothing could subsiſt. By this the true God is distinguished from all false Idol Gods. Chap. 14 22. and in this appears not only his power in decreeing, Job 28. 26 and preparing it, Psal. 147. 8. his Soveraignty in withholding it. Amos 4. 7. but his general goodneſs in bestowing it, Deut. 28. 12. Matt. 5. 45. and his special providence in the seasonable disposal of it, according as there is need, and which he gives as a witness of it. Acts 14. 17. As in the former instance God sets forth his Peoples insensiblenesse of the works of his greatneſs, and power in so easily taming such an unruly Element; so here he doth also further manifeſt the same by instances of his providence and goodneſs, implying, that so stupid, resolute and obstinate they are grown, that they are neither afraid of him for his greatneſs, which possibly may be understood by the former fear, nor fear him for his goodneſs, which possibly may be the sence of the word in this latter place. h He means not the former and latter part of the year, but according to their seasons of Sowing and Reaping; the former to prepare the ground for Sowing, and the latter to prepare the Corn for plumping, and ripening. See Chap. 3. 3. i He gives seasonable Harvests according to his appointment, the sum is, God would let them know by this, what an impudent and fooliſh, as well as wicked thing it is for them to set themselves against that God, that keeps the whole order of Nature at his own dispoſal, which he can govern and order as he sees Men behave themselves towards him.

25 Your iniquities have turned away these things k; and your sins have withholden good things from you.

k q. d. Do not say your ground is parched up with drought, or your fruits are corrupted and rotted by too much, or unseasonable Rain; we have nothing now in so due a course, as we were wont to have it, would you know the reason of it? You have inverted the Ordinances and order of Nature, have put Heaven and Earth out of their regular courses by your iniquities. ∴ That either you have been cut short of these good things, or denied a blessing upon them; by this God would not have prophane Men think, that unusual seasons either for better, or worse, do come by chance, but as he sees convenient either for the encouragement of the obedient or punishing the obstinate.

26 For among my l people are found wicked men: they ‖ * lay m wait as he that setteth snares; they set a trap, they catch n men. ‖ Or, pry as Fowlers * Prov. 1. 17, 18.

l I need not search for such among the Heathen Nations for they are found even among them, that are called by my Name, whereas all my People ought to have been holy. m Or contemplate mischievous designs, under deceits, as Fowlers do hide themselves, when they watch the Birds coming to the Snare or Net, Prov. 1. 11. Mic. 7. 2. and therefore the next expression, he that setteth Snares is but a periphrasis for a Fowler, the Heb. word being always so taken: Psal. 91. 3. Prov. 6. 5. and elsewhere, or they pry, i. e. they narrowly look, where they may get an advantage, hence Enemies are called pryers, or obſervers, as you may frequently find in the Psalms; Psal. 5. 8. and 27. 11. 56. 2. and 59. 10. and 92. 11. n Intimating the succeſs of their wicked Policies in bringing their wicked decrees to pass, Psal. 37. 7. as false Witnesses and Trapanners use to do, when they go about to ensnare Men that are innocent; such a Trap did Jezebel lay for Naboth, 1 King. 21. 9, 10. Such an one was that Conspiracy of more than 40 Men against Paul, Acts 23. 13, 14, 15.

27 As a ‖ cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of o deceit: therefore they are become great, and waxen p rich. ‖ Or, coop.

o i. e. They fill up their Houses with the Goods and Wealth of those that they deceive, and overreach; ill gotten Goods à Metonymy of the effects; as the Fowler carries his Cage along with him, wherein he puts the Birds which he catcheth, to keep safe that they get not away, which once they are caught, as also by their appearance, pearance, and singing to entice others. p Shewing how, and in what manner they got their riches, therefore, or by this means; such as are gotten by a lying Tongue, Prov. 21. 6. called the treasures of wickedness, Mich. 6. 10.

Deut. 32. 15. 28 They are waxen * fat, they q shine: yea, they overpass the deeds of the r wicked: they judge not
* Job 12. 6. Psal. 73. 12. the s cause of the fatherless, * yet they t prosper; and the right of the needy do they not judge.

Chap. 12. 1. q Or, so fat that they shine; by reason of their wealth and riches they pamper themselves till their eyes stand out with fatness, Psal. 73. 7. their wrinkles are filled up with fat, which makes their faces shine. r Either, they go beyond the very Heathens themselves in wickedness, Ezek. 5. 6, 7. or rather, they escape the hardships and sufferings that others undergo, Psal 73. 5, 6, 7, 8. they 'scape better than others; or they slightly pass over judgments threatned. s Such whom even the Law of Nature commits to their patronage, they either disregard them, or wrong and injure them, either by refusing them a fair hearing, Isa. 1. 23. or giving wrong sentence against them in Courts of Judicature, Zech. 7. 10. expressly forbidden, Exod. 22. 22. t Things go well with them, they live happily according to their desire, prosperum scelus, Job 21. 7, &c. Or, that they might prosper, viz. that God might bless them.

29 Shall I not visit for these u things? saith the LORD: shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

u It is expressed as a thing taken for granted, he certainly will. Can I be a God, and wink at such things? It cannot be. See this explained, Verse 9.

|| Or, astonishment and filthiness. 30 || A wonderful and x horrible thing is committed in the y land.

x So prodigious, or stupendious a Crime, that it is beyond the thought or apprehension of Man to conceive, much more to express, and so abominable, that a Man would even loath the thoughts of. What this is, we have in the next Verse. y Heb. This land aggravating the greatness of the wonder, that such a thing should be in such a land: See Isa. 26. 10.

* Chap. 14. 14 & 23. 25, 26. Ezek. 13. 6. 31 The prophets prophesie z * falsly, and the priests || bare rule by their a means; and my people love to have it so: and what will ye do in the end of thereof?

|| Or, take into their hands. z Either spreading and dispersing abroad the Lyes of their Idols, particularly Baal, Chap. 2. 8. or venting their Lyes in the Name of the true God, Chap. 4. 10. a By this means it comes to pass, that the Princes and Priests are encouraged to do all their mischiefs, whether it were in corrupting Judgment by Bribes, or countenancing fraud and oppression, and hardening themselves against God's Threatnings, or whatever else, they were encouraged by the Lyes of the false Prophets, they and the Priests and Princes combining, and setting themselves against the true Prophets of God, Chap. 26. 8. and thus the Priests in effect take the management of all the affairs into their own hands; so the Heb. take into their hands, which intimates the Authority they used in their Ministry. b They are very well pleased with the Flatteries and Lyes of the false Prophets, not being able to bear the Truths that were delivered them from God, Mic. 2. 11. c q. d. Whither do you think these things will tend? You must look for nothing but utter ruine as the fruit and effect of such doings, Mic. 3. 11, 12. when this City, which you look upon to be perpetuated, shall be overthrown, and you utterly perish in its ruine, how miserably will you find your selves to be deluded by your false Prophets, and disappointed in your hopes? A sad Apostopasis concerning the extirminating of the People by the Chaldeans.

CHAP. VI.

God sendeth and strengthneth the Babylonians against Judah, 1,——5. for her Oppression and Spoils, 6,——8. and Obstinacy; which provokes God's Wrath and their Destruction, 9,——12. Their Covetousness, false Confidence, and Impudence; People and Priests refuse to obey God, 13,——17. Their Hypocritical Worship shall not prevent their sure Destruction, 18, ——25. The People called to mourn, 26. The Prophet encouraged under their wickedness, and the fruitlessness of his Ministry among them, 27,——30.

1. O Ye Children of a Benjamin, b gather your selves to flee out of the midst of Jerusalem, and blow the trumpet in c Tekoa: and set up a sign of d fire in Beth-haccerem: for evil appeareth out of the e North, and great destruction.

a He means, either the Inhabitants of Jerusalem, because part of it stood in the lot of Benjamin, Josh 18. 28. or else, he means all Judah, because, when the Ten Tribes fell off, the Tribe of Benjamin adhered to Judah, and was incorporated into them; If it be asked why the Prophet rather speaks here to Benjamin than to Judah, the reason probably may be, because he being of Anathoth was of that Tribe, and therefore mentions them as his own Country-men. b Spoken, either ironically that they should set themselves in Array, and make head against the Enemy, that is now at hand; or rather, that they should flee away together at once, make haste out of Jerusalem in Troops, as the next expressions intimate, not counselling them what they should do, viz. for succour, Chap. 4. 5. 6. but rather telling them what they must expect, viz. to be forced to flee out of it, if they may escape. c q. d. Gather your selves together by the sound of the Trumpet at Tekoa, possibly alluding to the Name, which signifies Trumpeting; or rather, it being one of those fenced Cities 12. Miles from Jerusalem that Rehoboam built, and made exceeding strong for, and with his warlike Provisions, 2 Chron. 11. 6, 11, 12. and being built upon the advantage of a Hill towards the North of Judea in the way that the Babylonians were to come, q. d. there furnish your selves out of that Armory, and see if you can make head against them. An Irony; a place noted in Scripture, where dwelt that Tekoitish Woman, that interceded with David for Absalom by the subornation of Joab, 2 Sam. 14. 2. and also for the Herdsmen, of whom Amos was, Amos 1. 1. and (it is probable) a place where in time of danger they were wont, by the sound of the Trumpet, to summon the People together. d The word used is of very large extent; maseh is used for any thing that is lifted up, neither is there any more in the Text. The LXX also render it only a sign, and the sign of fire possibly is mentioned, rather than any other, by a Metonymy of the Subject, because, partly in time of danger of Invasion, it is the most usual, and commodious sign, being seen in regard of its lifting, or raising up of it self at once afar off, q. d. fire a Beacon, and a sign, whereby the Benjamites themselves once found they were surprized, Judg. 20. 38, 40. 2. It is a sign sooneft given of any. 3. Possibly, as being a more proper sign, than any other would be to the Vine-dressers, that they should secure themselves in some safe place, which seems to be pointed at by the next word Beth-haccerem. It signifies the House of the Vineyard, probably some high Tower built among the Vineyards for the Keeper, or Keepers of them to watch them, that no damage came to them, this seeming to be usual, Isa. 5. 2. Or, it may be the Name of a Town, such a one, as some report to lie between Jerusalem and Tekoa, the same mentioned, Neh. 3. 14. though that seems to be adjoyning to Jerusalem; whichsoever it be, it is probable, it relates to some place noted for Vineyards, which were wont to be planted upon Hills, and lying in the way that the Chaldeans were to come, and by these two we are to understand all other places that lie in that Coast. e That they may know whence their Misery will come, he doth as it were point it out with the finger: See Chap. 1. 14. & 4. 6.

2 I have likened the daughter of Zion, to a || comely and delicate f woman.

f This Supplement is not in the Text, they that approve it render the Epithete comely variously, for one dwelling at home as the Hebrew Nawa doth also signifie, Hab. 2. 5. and so the word delicate serves to explain it, as shewing the reason of her tarrying at home, not as a good Housewife, discreetly guiding and governing her affairs at home, as she is described, Prov. 31. 10, &c. and Tit. 2. 5. but through her delicacy exposing her self to all wantonness, and voluptuousness, tarrying at home to give entertainment to her Paramours, or she through her state and pride, is so delicate and nice that she will not set her foot out of door, Deut. 28. 56. possibly occasioned by the great Wealth and Riches that God had blessed Jerusalem with; this may also point at Judah's effeminacy that will be so disspirited as not to have courage to oppose the adversary, but easily taken in her Dwelling and Habitation. Others, as a beautiful Shepherdess; some there are, that rather chuse to supply the defect by the word Land or Pasture, as being that, which is greatly desirable by Shepherds, as if she were some comely Shepherdess, solacing her self in her delightful Pastures: See Ezek. 34. 14. and so it may not be without some allusion to the next Verse, where her Enemies are called by the Names of Shepherds, as being enticed by the pleasantness of her Land.

g The Prophet here proceeds in his Metaphor, and possibly the rather, because he chuseth to speak in the stile of his own education, which may also give some countenance to the Supplement of Pasture, or Land in the former Verse instead of Woman, the meaning is, the Chaldean Princes, with their Armies, as so many Flocks, shall come into this pleasant Land: See Chap. 12. 10. in which expression there is something of a Scoff, as Chap. 4. 16, 17. ∴ They shall so place their warlike Tents, as to form a Siege to begirt her round. Chap. 1. 15. Ezek. 4. 2. h Heb. hand. i.e. near hand, or beside, or near one another; thus 2 Chron. 21. 16. and Job 1. 14. thus hand is taken for place, i. e. each one in his quarter or station, not a Man, but shall do his part, and shall be skilful, and powerful to destroy wherever he comes: It intimates also that every thing shall be so much at the Enemies own disposal, that they shall be able to chuse their own quarters, they shall place their Army in Wings and Troops, and Regiments, as they see good, to their best advantage, to be helpful one unto another, as shepherds are wont to do their Flocks; or, they shall fight in several Parties, and each destroy his part assigned him through the whole Country, and they shall joyn as it were in one body against Jerusalem.

4 Prepare ye i war against her; arise, and let us go up at k noon. Wo unto us, for the l day goeth away, for the shadows of the evening are m stretched out.

i The Prophet now passeth from his Metaphor to tell them plainly what he means by the Shepherds, viz. Warriours; some make these the words of the Chaldeans making preparations for their Invasion, and it may be by some of their accustomed Rites, that they used before War; but they seem more probably to be the Words of God inviting them, and calling them into this Work, therefore in the Heb. it is sanctifie War against her, Chap. 22. 7. he speaks unto such, as he had sanctified, or set apart for this work, his sanctified ones, Isa. 13. 3. k This shews how ready they will be to obey God's Call; the like we read, Isa. 21. 5. and therefore they are said to go or march up at noon, not only to note their daringness, as needing no stratagems, or strength, or needing to stay for help, but rather to shew their forwardness to March on without stop or stay, they would not burn day-light, but be speedy in their work, and they would take the first opportunity, whether Morning or or Noon, Day or Night, as the next Verse. The next Words seem to strengthen this sence; Woe unto us, the l day goeth away, &c. we lose time, let us make haste about our Work, expressing their Greediness after their Prey, as Souldiers use to do: or this Woe unto us may be some Form of Imprecation, either against God or Men, which kind of Speeches are usual with Soldiers when they are chafed, and going upon some sudden Onset or Exploit; though not a few make it the Complaint of the Prophet in the Name of the People, foreseeing how their Night of Affliction hasted on, their joyful Days being as it were gone, Amos 8. 9, 10. But the former seems best to agree with the Scope. m They were so eagerly set upon it, that they watched the very lengthning of the Shadow, which shews the Approach of the Evening, Psal. 109. 23. See Hab. 1. 8.

Arise, and let us go by n night, and let us destroy her o palaces.

n Or, this Night. They were set upon it, they would lose neither Day nor Night; which shews that they were extraordinarily stirred up by God in this Expedition. o This was the Bait or Motive that they propounded to themselves; viz. to have the Spoil of all the stately Palaces, and rich Houses of the Nobles, and great ones.

6 For thus hath the LORD of hosts said p, Hew ye down q trees, and || cast a r mount against Jerusalem. This is the city to be s visited; she is wholly t oppression in the midst of her.

p Viz. To the Chaldeans: Here God declares whence they have their Commission, q. d. they come not up on their own heads, see Chap. 5. 14, 15. God would have the Jews to know, that they have not so much to do with the Chaldeans as with him; that they are his Rod to scourge them for their Sins, Chap. 1. 15, 16. See 2 Kings 18. 25. And thus God is said to hire for such whom he will employ in such Work, Isa. 5. 26. and 7. 18. And he stiles himself the Lord of Hosts, to shew that it is in vain to contend in Battel with them, whom he sends forth, and will be, as it were, the Captain of their Hosts. q Heb. A Tree collectively taken, q. d. cut them down all, as one Tree, not sparing their very Fruit-Trees, which indeed were to be spared in such a case, Deut. 20. 19. Either such as lie in the way of your March, or all round about Jerusalem; or, such as you may have need of there or elsewhere for your Use, either to raise up Works against the strong places, Deut. 20. 20. or to make other Instruments of War. r Throw up one continued Trench, as a Mount round about it: see on Isa. 37. 33. Heb. Pour out the Engine, of that see 2 Sam. 20. 15. s God is said to visit sometimes in Mercy, Gen. 50. 24. Zeph. 2. 7. and sometimes in Judgment, as here and Psal. 59. 5. and 89. 32. They are ripe for it, Ezek. 7. 10, 11, 12. See 1 Thes. 2. 16. and it is decreed against them, and ready to come upon them, Chap. 23. 12. Hos. 9. 7. All Attempts have failed, and now there is no remedy. t In the Abstract she doth nothing but oppress: there are found in her all kinds of Oppression and Injustice; a Synecdoche for all other Cruelties, 2 Kings 24. 3, 4. Ezek. 7. 23. even in that City, which was once full of Judgment, and Righteousness lodged in it, Isa. 1. 21. swallowed up with Oppression.

7 As a fountain casteth out her waters, so she casteth out her u wickedness: * violence and spoil is x heard in her; before me continually is grief and y wounds.

* Psal. 55 9, 10, 11.

u In this Verse God aggravates their Sin of Oppression, mention'd in the former: a Metaphor, to express how natural all manner of Wickedness is to her, how full she is of it, and how incessant in it, noting her Impudence, a Fountain being not able to retain its Water: and the Expression of Casting it out, seems to imply her Violence in her Filthiness, as it is said of the Sea, that it casteth out Mire and Dirt, Isa. 57. 20. and favoured by the next Clause. x q. d. This is all the busieth her self about, Chap. 20. 8. It is the general Complaint of her Inhabitants. y Viz. That the Poor suffain: where-ever I go or look, I can hear and see nothing but the sad Complaints and Grievances of the Poor, lamenting over Oppression and Cruelties that are used against them, Psal. 69. 26. this being so expressly against God's Command, Exod. 22. 22, 23. 24, &c. Isa. 3. 14, 15. Jam. 5. 4. for this refers rather to their Sin, than to their Sufferings from the Enemy, as some would carry it.

8 Be thou z instructed, O Jerusalem, lest my soul depart a from thee: lest † I make thee desolate, a land not b inhabited.

z Heb. Corrected, q. d. By the Correction thou hast felt, and what is threatned, be perswaded to Repentance before it be too late, Prov. 29. 15. God doth here in the midst of Judgment remember Mercy, as it were suddenly putting a stop to his fury, seeking, if by any means it may yet be prevented by their Repentance, q. d. I would yet willingly spare them, if it might be. a Heb. be disjointed, a most emphatical Metaphor whereby God would express how great Grief it is to him to withdraw himself from them, could it possibly be avoided; (his great Affection to them being here expressed by Soul which is the Seat of it, Psal. 42. 1, 2.) even like the separating one Limb from another: hereby it intimated the near Communion that God hath with the Faithful, and how ready he is to return, if the will return. b Left he make them not a People.

9 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall throughly c glean the remnant of Israel as a vine: turn d back thine hand as a grape-gatherer into the e baskets.

c Though Gleaning be a Term proper for all kind of Harvest, yet the Word used here is appropriated to the Vintage, and implies the thorough Riddance that the Chaldeans shall make, contrary to the Law for gathering the Vintage, though it may seem to allude to it, Lev. 19. 10. Judah shall be gleaned over and over, till there be a full End, none left; as the Israelites gleaned the Benjamites, Judg. 20. 45. for thus they picked them up at several times both before, 2 Kings 24. 2. and also at the time of Zedekiah's Reign, 2 Kings 25. 6, 7, 11, 18, 19. and this seems to be intimated in the next words. See Heb. 1. 9. d As much as to say, they should not be content with one spoiling, but they should go back a second and a third time, again and again, to carry away both Persons and Spoil, leaving nothing behind them worth carrying away, Chap. 52. 28, 29, 30. the first carrying away being as the Vintage, the second the Gleaning, carrying away first the principal, and afterwards the more inferiour fort. e As the Grape-Gatherers do, filling one Basket after another. Whether these be the Words of the Babylonians, calling upon and stirring up one another to do it, as some; or the Words of God to the Babylonians, as most; it comes much to the same thing: for what they did was by God's Commission.

10 To whom shall I speak and give f warning, that they may hear? Behold, their * ear is g uncircumcised, and they h cannot hearken: behold, the word of the LORD is unto them a i reproach; they have no delight in it.

* Chap. 7. 26.

f Heb. Make Protestation; noting with what Earnestness the Prophet would bespeak them in his warning of them: See Chap. 11. 7. The Prophet taking notice of their Obstinacy, speaks as one astonished, and highly makes complaint, being greatly grieved, that he can find none that will take warning; the like Chap. 7. 23, 24. he labours to perswade, but all is in vain; they turn a deaf Ear to him, as the next Expression intimates. g A figurative kind of Speech frequent with the Prophets; an uncircumcised Ear signifying the rejecting of Instruction; an uncircumcised heart, an obstinate and rebellious Will: Hence Circumcision was for a Testimony of Obedience; and therefore the Prophet doth tacitly intimate their Falseness to God, to whom they had promised to be obedient, 2 Kings 11. 17. and 23. 3. And the Scripture calls those that are void of the fear of God, and carried out to all manner of Lusts, uncircumcised; Ezek. 44. 7, 9. for Uncircumcision was abominable among the Jews: so that it notes both their Sin and their Shame, their Ear being stopped, unfit for hearing, as if it were with a Foreskin or Film over it, Acts 7. 51. h The Prophet doth not here lessen their Crimes, by their Inability and want of Power, but rather aggravates it, inasmuch as they had brought themselves under that Incapacity by their Obstinacy and Wilfulness: as a drunken Man that hath deprived himself of his Reason by Excess, renders the Want of his Understanding the more inexcusable. i Either they reproach it in the Messengers Mouth, Luke 11. 45. or rather they laugh at it, and scorn it, they cannot bear Counsel, they look upon reproving them to be reproaching them; they take no Delight in hearing such things: A farther Reason of their Impotency and Obstinacy, all their Admonitions and Instructions, seemed insipid, and therefore were they so stupid, according to the next Words, Prov. 15. 12. See Chap. 5. 31. 2 Tim. 4. 3.

11 k Therefore I am l full of the fury of the LORD; I am weary with m holding in; I will n pour it out upon the children o abroad, and upon the p assembly of young men together: for even the husband with the q wife shall be taken, the aged with him that is r full of days.

k Heb. And: which seems to be a better Connexion; for that which putteth him upon this Work, seems rather to be that Spirit of Prophecy that is in him, than any Consideration drawn from them. l I am, as it were, filled with the Fire of God's Wrath, and Curses against this People, which I am forced to discharge my self of; a Metonymy of the Subject. See Ezek. 3. 3. Chap. 4. 19. He doth not only complain of their Stupidity, as in the former Verse, but stirs up his Indignation against them. m But he can contain himself no longer, which implies his great Unwillingness to denounce these Curses, q. d. the Wrath of God, by the Impulse of his Spirit, acting so violently with mine, that it will break out: see the like Job 32. 18, 19. Whereby it appears, the Prophet is not carried on by his own private Spirit, but by the Spirit of God: he hath no Delight in it, but is forced to be the Messenger himself of his Wrath; therefore if he be sharp against them, they must not impute it to him, but to the Spirit of God, that constrains him thus to speak. n Viz. In prophesying, noting the great plenty of it; a Metaphor from violent Rains, that we say do pour down upon the Earth, Chap. 7. 20. Rev. 16. 1. o The Streets being the places where usually little Children are wont to sport themselves, Zech. 8. 5. The same Word used Psal. 8. 2. p Their secret Meetings, whether in Harlots Houses, Chap. 5. 7. or for Mirth and Jollity, or to join either their Strength or Counsel together, which Children are not capable of; for the Hebrews do not only call them Youths, that are past their Childhood, possibly at Fifteen or Sixteen Years of Age, but Men of Twenty or Thirty, grown to their full Strength and Maturity, in the flower of their Years; yet it shall advantage them nothing. q Heb. Man with Woman; the Wife shall be taken as well as the Husband, one Sex as well as the other, shall be a Prey to the Enemy. r Not only Men that may be termed old, as they may be from 50 to 80, which are then said to be waxing old, but such as had upon the point filled up the number of their Days, at the edge of the Grave, Isa. 65. 20. called very aged, as Barzillai, 2 Sam. 19. 32, 34, 35. The sence is, that all sorts, from the Children to the decrepid Old-man, had so corrupted their ways, &c. Ver. 13. that their Condition was desperate, and God would bring an Enemy upon them, should spare or pity none, of what Sex or Age soever.

12 And their houſes ſhall be turned unto ſ others, with their fields and t wives together: for I will u ſtretch out my hand upon the inhabitants of the land, ſaith the LORD.

f i. e. Their Houſes and their Lands ſhall be devolved, or turned over to Strangers, Chap. 8. 10. even that Land which they thought had been entailed upon them, and they ſo firmly fixed in for ever, Pſal. 132. 13, 14. t Their moſt deſirable Things, howbeit it need not be reſtrained preciſely to Wives, the Heb. ſignifying Women largely, Chap. 7. 18. comprizing Maids, Wives, or Concubines, and this according to the Threatning Deut. 28. 30. and Chap. 8. 10. u Viz. to ſmite, to give you a ſorer Blow, Iſa. 5. 25. a Synecdoche of the kind, ſpoken after the manner of Men. Here the Prophet gives them the reaſon of this their unexpected Calamity, that they might not think it an Impoſſibility; namely, becauſe God was become their Enemy.

13 For from the x leaſt of them even unto the greateſt of them, every one is given to y covetouſneſs *, and from the prophet even unto the prieſt, every one dealeth z falſly.

* Chap. 14. 18. & 23. 11.

x Not reſpecting ſo much their Age, as Degree and Quality, Poor and Rich, the Prophet notes the generality of their Corruption as the Reaſon of God's Severity againſt them, as Ver. 6. obſerving alſo, that it was even among the greateſt, who ought to have given better Examples, no Soundneſs from Head to Foot. y In which poſſibly, all their Wickedneſſes, as Cruelty, Oppreſſion, Injuſtice, &c. may be comprized, it being the Root of all Evil, 1 Tim. 6. 10. and may alſo ſpeak the Juſtice of God, in the Chaldeans taking them and all their Subſtance away, that had by Violence and Fraud wreſted it from others, Mic. 2. 2. z Heb. Doing Falſhood, as if that were their whole Work, the proper and peculiar Sin of the Prieſts and Prophets, to deceive the People, and to flatter them by falſe Viſions, as in the next Verſe; not that they were not alſo guilty of the other Sins, Iſa. 56. 11. and the Princes and People of this, Mic. 3. 9. Chap. 5. 31. for they were all involved in the ſame Wickedneſs: but the Prophet mentions thoſe Sins that were moſt peculiar to each Party. See the ſame Chap. 8. 10.

14 They have healed alſo the hurt of the daughter of my people a ſlightly, ſaying, b Peace, peace, when there is no peace.

a This refers peculiarly to the Prophets; either ſlighting or making light of theſe Threatnings tending to the Reproach, 1. Either of the Prophets of God bringing their Meſſage into Contempt; or, 2 The People deceiving of them, and rendring their hopes vain, Chap. 8. 11. Or, here the Prophet ſhews wherein their Falſe-dealing conſiſts, viz. in dawbing over their Miſery and Danger that was coming on them, by perſwading them, that it ſhould not come, or if it did, it would be eaſily cured; as ſome Phyſicians do with their Patients, that make light of a Wound, and ſo neglect the true Method of Cure; but either by Lenitives give ſome Eaſe for the preſent, by a ſuperficial skinning over a Sore while the Corruption is in it; or Stupefactives, making them ſenſeleſs, not feeling their Pain, Chap. 23. 14. Ezek. 13. 10. 16, 22. and ſo the Prophet makes this the Cauſe of their laſt Deſtruction. b The Chaldeans ſhall not come, all Things ſhall be proſperous with you, all kind of Proſperity being included in the Word Peace: They promiſe you Peace, but you ſhall come ſhort of it, as in the next Words.

15 Were c they † aſhamed when they had committed e abomination? nay, they were not at all aſhamed, neither could they bluſh: therefore they ſhall f fall among them that fall: at the time that I g viſit them, they ſhall be caſt down, ſaith the LORD.

c Viz. The Falſe Prophets. d Some read it Actively, as ſometimes it is taken, Did they put the People to Shame? but that is not ſo proper here: it rather notes how bold and confident, or rather impudent, they were in their Flatteries, and deceiving the People, a great Aggravation of their Sin. The Form of the Interrogation chargeth them home with the Guilt, as do alſo the next Words, neither could they bluſh, q. d. they had not the leaſt ſhew of Shame, uſually diſcovered by Bluſhing. e Or, the thing to be abominated (a Metonymy of the Effect) both by encouraging the People, and joining with them in their Idolatries. See Chap. 3. 3. Therefore they ſhall periſh with thoſe whom they have deceived, as in the following Expreſſions. To fall ſignifies to be ſlain, Iſal. 63. 10. Luke 21. 24. g Viz. Puniſh them, inflict Puniſhment on them: See Ver. 6.

16 Thus ſaith the LORD, ſtand ye in the h ways and ſee, and aſk for the i * old paths, where is the good way, and walk k therein, and ye ſhall find l reſt for your ſouls. But they ſaid, we m will not walk therein.

* Mal. 4. 4. Luk. 16. 29.

b Having told the Falſe Prophets their doom, he now turns his Speech to the People, and gives them Counſel; for he rather propounds than commands, by a Metaphor taken from Travellers, that being in doubt of their way, do ſtand ſtill, pauſe, and conſider, whether the Direction they have received from ſome ignorant Perſon or falſe Guide, be right or not. i Heb. Paths of Antiquity, ſuch as their godly Forefathers of old were wont to walk in, the ancient paths, Chap. 18. 15. Or the Oracles of God, what Directions his Word gives, Iſa. 8. 20. Or the Providence of God. Obſerve what hath been God's Ways and Method in Times paſt, with reference to Sin and Puniſhment, Deut. 4. 3, 4. Judg. 5. 6, 8. Chap. 22. 15, 16. and what have been wont to be the beſt Courſes, called here the good Way, or the beſt way to continue Mercies, and prevent Judgments, Deut. 32, 7. &c. See 1 Theſſ. 5. 21. k When you have found what was beſt, and moſt proſperous, keep it, ſtick to it. l You will find God to ſtand by you, and be a Sanctuary to you, Deut. 33. 12, 29. See Matth. 11. 29. You will find things mend with you; it will be well with you, as it hath been with others; you will be ſatisfied and quiet; you will not doubt any longer which way to follow: See 1 Kings 18. 21. m It notes their great Wilfulneſs and Obſtinacy; that, though the Prophets had directed them in the right way, and though they knew others had experimented it to be ſo, yet they would not be perſwaded to walk in it, but deliberately refuſed theſe Favours offered, Iſa. 8. 11, 12, 13. Chap. 18. 11, 12.

17 Alſo I ſet n watchmen over you, ſaying, Hearken to the ſound of the o trumpet. But they ſaid, We will not p hearken.

18 ¶ Therefore hear, ye q Nations, and know, oh r congregation, what is ſ among them.

q He calls upon the Nations round about to be as ſo many Spectators of his Severity againſt Judah, though they were his own People. 1. Partly to vindicate the Juſtice of his Proceedings, that they may not think him too ſevere. 2. Partly to ſhame them, if thereby he may bring them to Repentance; and therefore he makes them Witneſſes as well of their Sin as of their Puniſhment, Verſe 19. Beſides, 3. It is a ſecret upbraiding them, as if the Nations were more ready to underſtand than they. r Either of Iſrael, and then the next Words muſt be which are among them; or rather, of all Nations, as ſuppoſing them gathered all together, Pſal. 7. 7. God is willing, that all the World ſhould be Witneſs of the Equity of his Proceedings. ſ Or, that which is among them, the Relative put for the Antecedent; either the height of their Wickedneſs, or the ſeverity of their Judgments; underſtand it either way, or both ways, and then it is the greatneſs of their Puniſhment, as the effect of the greatneſs of their Sins.

19 * Hear, O t earth: Behold, I will bring u evil upon this people, even the fruit of their x thoughts, becauſe they have not hearkened unto my y words, nor to my Law, but z rejected it.

* Iſa. 1. 2.

See Iſaiah 59. 7. and Chap. 4. 14. by which Phraſe is alſo intimated, that their Sins were not ſome ſlight Overſights, but meditated and digeſted Wickedneſs; and therefore God will bring upon them the juſt Puniſhment for their Doings. y Thoſe Meſſages that I ſo frequently and earneſtly ſent unto them by my Prophets, Prov. 1. 24, 25. z As it were bidding open Defiance to me, ſcorning to be ruled by me.

20 * To what a purpoſe cometh there to me incenſe from b Sheba, and the ſweet c cane from a far Country? your burnt offerings are not e acceptable, nor your ſacrifices ſweet unto me.

a An Interrogation of Expoſtulation, and Contempt, wherein God by the Prophet meets with their Hypocriſie, who pleaſed themſelves with their outward Oblations and Sacrifices, and thought God would be pleaſed with them too; but he tells them plainly, they are to no purpoſe; as he ſpeaks particularly in the Cloſe of the Verſe, Chap. 7. 21, 22. Ezek. 20. 39. b That this was the Product of Sheba, a Country in Arabia Felix, to which Country Frankincenſe was peculiar. See on Iſa. 60. 6. c Or Cane, i. e. good, or the beſt Cane; the Article ה hath the force of a Superlative for Cane that is good; the Hebrews have no Degrees of Compariſon: the ſame that is mentioned as an Ingredient in the holy Oyl, Exod. 30. 23. See Iſa. 43 24. d Not that it was brought from the remoteſt parts of the World, as from India, as ſome; for it was known to the Jews in Moſes's time, Exod. 30. 23. but becauſe it grew not in their own Land, but was fetched or brought to them from Sheba, Iſa. 60. 6. where it did grow, as Diodorus teſtifies, lib. 3. p. 125. and Strabo, lib. 16. 1 Kings 10. 2. compared with Joel 3. 8. who is called the Queen of the South, and to come from the uttermoſt parts of the Earth, Matth. 12. 42. becauſe the South-Sea did bound the Country. To what purpoſe art thou at this Trouble and Charge to fetch theſe Ingredients for thy Incenſe? e Not likely to atone me; they will not be for Acceptance; I cannot take Delight in them, Hoſ. 9. 4. as the next Expreſſion, q. d. away with theſe childiſh Trifles, whereby you think to paciſie me. 21 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will lay ſtumbling f blocks before this people, and the fathers and the g ſons together ſhall fall upon them: the neighbour and his b friend ſhall periſh.

f God gives this Name to all the Occaſions of the Jews ruin, he expoſeth them, or ſuffereth ſuch things to be laid in their way, as ſhall be the Occaſion of their Deſtruction; ſuch things which they

they ſhall not get over; or an Hypallage, I will bring Deſtruction upon them; as the Hebrews uſe to ſpeak, they have ſent a City into the Fire, i. e. they have ſent Fire into the City. Or God doth here compare his Judgments to Traps, wherein they ſhall be taken, which they thought eaſily to have evaded: What theſe Stumbling-blocks are, ſeem to be expreſſed in the following Verſes. g As well the Fathers, that have more Prudence and Policy, as the Children that are more inadvertent, or poſſibly may count themſelves leſs guilty, ſhall periſh by theſe Stumbling-blocks; no reconvering for themſelves, Iſa. 8. 14, 15. h Men of all ſorts and conditions, the greateſt Intimates and Aſſociates, tho all lay their Heads together for Counſel, yet ſhall they not be able to help one another, but a promiſcuous Deſtruction there ſhall be, Ver. 11. Chap. 13, 14.

22 Thus ſaith the i LORD, Behold, a people cometh from the * north k country, and a great nation ſhall be l raiſed from the m ſides of the earth.

i Now the Prophet is ſhewing what theſe deſtructive Stumbling-blocks ſhall be, of which he had propheſied 40 Years already, and yet they would not be warned. k See Ver. 1. l God ſhall ſtir up the Chaldeans like a great Storm or Tempeſt, Chap. 1. 15. and 25. 32. 27 * I have ſet thee for a tower, and a c fortreſs among my people, that thou mayſt know and try d their way.

c Here God ſpeaks by way of Encouragement to the Prophet, and tells him, he had made him a fortified Tower, that he might both diſcover the Carriages of his People, which in one ule of an high Tower, Iſa. 21. 5, 8. Hab. 2. 1. and alſo to aſſure him, tho they ſhall make ſeveral Attempts againſt him, yet he ſhall be kept ſafe, as in a Caſtle, or Fortreſs, Chap. 15. 20. d Their Courſes, Actions, and Manners, and which way they ſtand affected, thus muſt being all to thy ſtrict Obſervation and Scrutiny, as Goldſmiths or Refiners do Metals; for ſo is the Word Ity uſed: Pſal. 66. 10. and elſewhere; Hereby he ſhall be encouraged to reprove them more freely, and with Authority, becauſe God doth promiſe to defend him, that they ſhall not hurt him; God will give him Prudence to ſee what is amiſs, and Undauntedneſs to oppoſe it.

28 They are all grievous e revolters, * walking with f ſlanders: they are braſs and g iron; they are all h corrupters.

* Chap. 9.

e Obſtinate, and refractary, Iſa. 31. 6. Chap. 5. 23. f Being their main Buſineſs to detract from thee, and the other Prophets, Chap. 18, 18. and 20. 10. a Sin expreſly forbidden, Lev. 19. 16. g This to the end of the Chapter is all metaphorical, either they are impudent, as Braſs doth ſometimes ſignifie, or they are obſtinate and inflexible, as Iron notes: ſee both Iſa. 48. 4. or it ſignifies their corrupt Eſtate; they are not pure Metal, as Silver or Gold, but baſe and mean, as Braſs and Iron mixed together, Ezek. 22. 18. h This relates to their Manners; they propagate their Corruption, Iſa. 1. 4. They ſtrengthen one another in wickedneſs.

29 The bellows are i burnt, the lead is k conſumed of the fire; the founder melteth in l vain: for the wicked are not plucked m away.

i The Prophet profecutes his Metaphor taken from Refining of Metals, intimating herein, that the Prophets had ſpent their Lungs to no purpoſe. See the like, Pſal. 22. 15. and 69. 3. and their Strength was conſumed by their ſo much Labour and Pains, q. d. the Terror of the Lord is as a Fire in my Throat. k Some read it, the Lead was entire, viz. their Droſs did ſtill remain in them, the Lead put for their Droſs; but I ſee no reaſon for, nor need of this reading, but rather hereby is underſtood, either that means which was uſed to prevail with them, his Words compared to Lead for the Weight of them, and the Uſe of them; or the Judgments which were heavy, as Lead, that God mixed among them, the more eaſily to prevail with them, it was all upon them, as Lead is uſed in melting Silver, that it may melt the eaſier, it is all waſted, and doth no good. l Let the Artiſt uſe his greateſt Skill and Induſtry, yet is it all in vain; he can make nothing of it: the Prophets did but loſe their labour in all the pains they took, Pſal. 58. 5. after they had wearied themſelves. m Or drawn away, as the Word is, Joſh. 8. 16. and Judg. 20. 32. Their Droſs and Corruption, their Wickedneſs and Filthineſs, is not removed, Iſa. 32. 6. for Wicked may be read Wickedneſs:

30 * ‖ n Reprobate ſilver ſhall men o call them, because the LORD hath p rejected them.

* Iſa. 1. 22. ‖ Or, refuſe ſilver.

n Or, Refuſe Silver; ſuch as will be rejected in Paymenta, they are not to be purged or reformed. o Or, he called, i. e. They ſhall be eſteemed ſuch, as will not paſs for current before God or good Men, Lam. 3. 45. p The Prophet gives the Reaſon of their being accounted ſuch refuſe Stuff, viz. becauſe God, who knew their Hypocriſie in boaſting of themſelves, had rejected them, Lam. 5. 22. therefore every one elſe would.

CHAP. VII.

A Call to true Repentance, 1, —7. and not living in Theft, Murder, Adultery, Perjury, &c. to truſt in the outward Worſhip and Temple of God, by the Example of Shiloh, 8, -15. the Prophet is forbid to pray for them, 16. Their Idolatry, and its Judgment, 17, —20. Their Sacrifices rejected, and Obedience requir'd, 21, -28. They are called to mourn for their Abominations in Tophet, and their Judgments, 29, —34.

1 THE word that came to Jeremiah from the a LORD, ſaying, a See Chap. 1. 2. This is the Title of a new Sermon much of the nature of the former, which reacheth to Chap. 10.

2 Stand in the b gate of the c LORDS houſe, and d proclaim e there f this word, and ſay, Hear the word of the g LORD, all ye of Judah, that enter in at theſe gates to worſhip the LORD.

b Viz. The Eaſt Gate, which was chiefly frequented; this being the publick place of going out and coming in, and where the People were then wont to aſſemble, Jeremiah 26. 2, 10. and he is ſaid to ſtand, becauſe he was to execute the Office of a Preacher, Chap. 26. 2. not of a Judge, where the Poſture would rather have been ſitting. c The Temple, Ver. 4. 10. d e The Place notes the Vanity of their Confidence, who, notwithſtanding all their Provocations, yet placed their Safety much in the Privileges of the Temple, glorying much in that; and the Manner, Proclaiming ſignifies both the Authority by which he ſpake, and the divulging of what he ſpake plainly and boldly, which, as it was in a publick place, viz. the Court of the People, not the Court of the Prieſts, (from which it is diſtinguiſhed, 2 Chron. 4. 9.) and therefore ſaid at theſe Gates, viz. the ſeveral Gates that were in the Wall of the Court, of which there were ſix, three on the South-ſide and three on the North; ſo poſſibly, it might be at ſome publick time of the People reſorting thither from all Quarters, Pſal. 122. 4, 5. when all the Males were to meet; Exod. 23. 17. See Joh. 7. 37. and therefore ſaid all ye of Judah. f The Meſſage that I ſend thee with. g See Chap. 2. 4.

3 Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts the God of Iſ- * Chap. 18. 11. rael; * Amend your ways, and your b doings, and I will cauſe you to dwell in this i place. 12. 13.

b i.e. Mend your Manners. Amending signifies both to turn from our evil Works, and make our good better. i You shall not go into Captivity, implying, that otherwise they should; he will continue their Habitations to them from Age to Age, as Ver. 7. The doing of a thing in Scripture often implies the continuance of it: Lev. 26. 11. I will set my Tabernacle, i.e. I will continue it.

4 Trust ye not in lying words, saying, The k temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD are I these.

k Because this was God's House, wherein he had promised to dwell, and that for ever, Psal. 132. 13, 14. they flattered themselves, that he could dwell no where else, and would not depart; and certainly would not suffer the Chaldæans to destroy this, and therefore, that no evil could befal them, as they promised themselves, Mic. 3 11. therefore the Prophet cautions them not to deceive themselves, in trusting to the Temple, and its Buildings, as the two Courts, and House, and Holy of Holies, implyed in the word these, which he doth as it were point to with his Finger; (For where the Prophets speak distinctly of the form of the Temple, they reckon the Court, where the People did Sacrifice, and the holy place, or House whereinto the Priests only did enter, and the Oracle, or Holy of Holies, wherein was the Ark of the Covenant, and into which only the High-Priest entred, and that but once a Year) which these Hypocrites looked upon themselves secured by, as it were, by a treble Wall, Fort, or Bulwark, that they could not miscarry; but he would have them to know that neither these, nor the Services belonging to them will be able to secure them, V. 8. Chap. 4. 14. and it is likely, their false Prophets did thus perswade them, whose Prophecies he calls here these lying words; but God will have them know, that he doth not chuse a Nation for the places sake, but the place for the Nations sake, the like caution the Apostle gives them, 1 Cor. 10. 2. &c. The Emphasis that may be in this threefold Repetition, seems rather to relate to the confident, and often reiterated brags and boasts of the Temple, that were in their Mouths, than the worth and excellency of it, in regard of God's owning it. l The Prophet, standing in the Gate at which the People entred, doth as it were point at the several Buildings appertaining to the Temple, viz. the Courts, House, Oracle, &c.

5 For if ye throughly amend your ways, and your m doings; if you throughly execute Judgment between a man and his n neighbour;

m He tells them, it is not their vain Confidence in their privileges, and boasting of the Temple, but only their serious and through Repentance in turning to God both in point of piety and equity, that can secure them. n i.e. Impartially among one another, between Man and Man, without favour or hatred.

6 If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless and the o widow, and shed not innocent p blood in this q place, neither walk after other r Gods to your hurt.

o Here they are cautioned against three sins, that this people were generally addicted to, Oppression, Blood and Idolatry; and he instanceth in the worst of oppressions, viz. of such as God hath more especially taken into his immediate protection, because these are most void of help, and most obnoxious to injuries. The stranger, Exod. 22, 21. the fatherless and widow; and Ver. 22, 23, 24. see them all three together, Deut. 10. 18. and 27. 19. See on Isa. 10. 1, 2. and where God speaks of right administring of Justice, he usually makes mention of these three to prove the integrity and impartiality of Justice; and though this may more properly respect the Princes and great Ones, yet I conceive here the Prophet doth not so restrain it. p Either by Murder, or unrighteous Sentence, being one of those sins in special mentioned, for which God expresseth his high displeasure, and will send the Chaldæans upon them, 2 King. 24. 4. q Either in this City in special, or the whole Land in general; see Ver. 3. and there he would shew what a foolish thing it is that they should boast of their security in this place, and yet shed blood, which pollutes every place, Numb. 35. 31, &c. r Abstain from your Idolatrous courses, and depart not from my pure and uncorrupted Worship, unto your superstitious and Hypocritical Service, and he adds to your hurt or your own hurt; to shew that they will be the only sufferers by it, not God, ver. 19. God is neither benefited nor damaged by any thing that we can do, Job 35. 6, 7, 8.

7 s Then will I cause you to dwell in this place t, in the land that I gave to your fathers, for u ever and ever.

s i.e. Upon this condition, that you will return unto me, then, either I will establish, and fix you in the land; or, as anciently read Sachanti in Kal, I will dwell, viz. amongst you in this place, otherwise not. t Viz. Judea both in Jerusalem, and the whole Country, as the next words manifest. u i.e. From age to age as your Fathers did before you from the days of Joshua, until now.

8 x Behold, ye trust in lying y words that cannot profit.

x Take notice of it, and think of it seriously. y Either flattering your selves with your own conceits, whereby, in your Discourses, you strengthen one another, or depending upon the delusions of your false Prophets, Chap. 5. 31. and 23. 26, 27. or rather, boulstering your selves up upon your Priviledges, or bare Ceremonies which you so much boast of as ver. 4. all which he tells them, will profit them nothing.

z Here the Prophet mentions divers of those sins, in which they were notorious, they were Thieves, Murderers, Adulterers, perjured Idolaters, &c. q. d. Can you think, that this can be grateful unto me, or any whit advantageous to your selves, to frequent my House, and yet retain these odious sins, as if I were a Companion for Thieves, Murderers, &c. a Such as they had set up new, and never had any experience of, and therefore could have no reason to serve them, therefore called new Gods, Deut. 32. 17. Judg. 5. 8. but of his power, and goodness they had had ample proof, in their deliverance from Egypt, and the wonderful Miracles, and Signs that God had shewn them in the Wilderness, and his Victorious Arm for them in Canaan, of which things these Jews could not be ignorant, and therefore the more inexcusable. Four of these sins respect the second Table, these two last the first. The Name of Baal is here put for all Idols.

10 And come and stand before me in this b house † Heb. whereupon my name is called. † which is called by my c name, and say, we are delivered to do all these d abominations?

b In the Temple, either as if they had done no such thing, like the Whore, that wipes her Mouth, and saith she hath done no wickedness, Prov. 30. 20. noting their deep Hypocrisie, or else that barely this would expiate for all their Abominations, as if they could make God amends for their sins by their Duties, and their posture of standing notes their service, 1 King. 10. 8. Prov. 22. 29. c That is acknowledged to be my House, and bears my Name, dedicated to me. d That is, after they had appearred before God with their Sacrifices, either they thought themselves safe from all danger, and freed from God's Judgments, Mal. 3. 15. Or rather priviledged to return to all those wickednesses again, hereby noting their impudence. See Isa. 1. 12, &c. LXX read it, we have abstained from all these Abominations, as if these were the lying words in which they trusted.

11 Is * this house, which is called by my name, become * a den of e robbers in your eyes? behold, even I have f seen it, saith the LORD. * Isa. 56. 7. * Mar. 11. 17. Luk. 19. 46.

e Heb. Breaker through. The word is taken in a large notion for all sorts of Plunderers whether in House, Ezek. 7. 22. or field, High-way Men, Dan. 11. 14. Do you look upon this House as a Sanctuary and refuge for Robbers and Murderers, do you esteem it so, and is it so in your Eyes, so the Phrase is used Num. 13. 33, &c. hereby making me an Abetter of all your Lewdnesse, Mat. 21. 13. a Metaphor, taken from wild Beasts, and mischievous Persons, that do both secure themselves, and hide their prey in Holes, and Caves of the Earth, Psal. 10. 8, 9. f q. d. As crafty as you are, you cannot hide these things from me, nor all those workings of your thoughts about them, Psal. 10. 11, 13, 14. Ezek. 18. 12. He checks their foolish vain confidences, whereby they deceive themselves, Isa. 29. 15. God will not be blinded by all their vain Oblations.

12 But go ye now unto my * place which was in g Shiloh, where I set my name at the h first, and see what I did i to it, for the k wickedness of my people Israel. * Josh. 18. 1. Judg. 18. 31.

g A place that did belong to the Tribe of Ephraim, Psal. 78. 60. comp. 61. The situation whereof see Judg. 21. 19. and called God's House, as the Temple is, 1 Sam. 1. 3. 7. he sends them hither for an Example, which had the same priviledges and holiness with the Temple, not to go thither locally, but to cast their thoughts back, and consider of it, that they might know, that God's Prefence is not tyed to places, Acts 7. 48. h Where I did at first give you the Token and Pledges of my Prefence among you, when you first entred into the pleasant Land, noting the antiquity of Shiloh before the Temple. i i.e. He utterly forsook it, he did not only deliver up his People into the Philistines hands, but the Ark also, the token of his Prefence, which never returned to Shiloh more, and afterwards delivered the 10 Tribes wherein Shiloh was situate, into Captivity to the Assyrian. See Ver. 14, 15. wherein he upbraids them for their folly in thinking that the Ark or Altar in the Temple should any more priviledge them than it did Shiloh. k He gives them the reason of it in these words, The wickedness of his people, and chiefly the Priests, Hophni and Phinehas, Eli's Sons, 1 Sam. 2. 12. &c. and why should they think to escape, who did equal, if not exceed them.

13 And now, because ye have done all these l works, saith the LORD, and I spake unto you, * rising up m early, and speaking, but ye heard not; and * I called you, but ye answered not. * Ver. 24. * Isa. 65. 12.

l Either the same, or as bad, or worse than they did at Shiloh, and particularly those mentioned, Ver. 9. m A Metaphor taken from Persons that are diligent in their Business, they use to rise up early, q. d. I did not only speak by my Prophets, but they in my Name used all diligence to reclaim you, Chap. 11. 7, 8. and 25. 3, 4. calling earnestly unto you, by which he means his Exhortations and Menaces, which ought to have had some efficacy upon them, but you slighted, and disregarded, and would not come at my Call, Prov. 1. 24. See on 2 Chron. 36. 15, 16. and on Isa. 50. 2.

14 n Therefore will I o do unto this house which is called by my name; wherein ye trust, and unto the p place which I q gave to you and to your fathers, as I have done * to r Shiloh. * 1 Sam. 4. 10, 11.

n Because they have added this their obstinate refusing of all Admonitions to the reft of their Provocations. o Viz. Cause the consecrated things of the Temple to be taken away by the hand of the Babylonians. p See Ver. 7. q Viz. Upon condition of your obedience, Psal. 105. 44, 45. and therefore may justly, upon the breach of the Condition, take from you again, nay, by virtue of my Sovereignty, Job 1. 21. r See Ver. 12.

15 s And I will cast you out of my sight, as I have cast out all your Brethren, even the whole seed of t Ephraim.

s You shall have my presence with, and watchful eye over you no more, but I will send you into Captivity to Babylon, as I did your Brethren into Assyria. See on 2 King. 17. 6, 18. and the terms them here Brethren, to let them know, that they, and Israel proceeded from the same stock, and therefore had no reason to expect, but it should fare alike with them, seeing their sins were alike, 2 King 21. 13, 14, &c. t Viz. The Ten Tribes, Isa. 7. 1, 2. compared; called by this Name often, because that was the most numerous and potent of all of them, Jeroboam their first King was of that Tribe.

16 Therefore * u pray not thou for this people, neither lift up cry nor prayer for them, neither make intercession to me: for I will not hear thee. * Chap. 14. 11.

u God forbids his Prophets to pray for them in any kind, by any Cry or Intercession; or running upon me, which shews that God is resolved to root them out, seeing he will admit of no Intercession: according as he charged Moses, Exod. 32. 10. and the like Chap. 11. 14. For God had been wont to suffer himself to be prevailed with by the Mediation of his Servants, as of Moses, Exod. 32. 11, 14. Numb. 14. 19, 20. But now he would admit of no Intercession. See Ezek. 14. 14, 20. and Chap. 15. 1. and the next words. This charge seems to be laid upon the Prophet, partly to take off the envy of the People from him, when they knew he was commanded to do no otherwise, partly to imbolden him in this unpleasing work, laying aside all Compassion. But certainly the Prophet did pray that God would mind his Covenant in saving a Remnant, though not that God would revoke his Decree; and to save the body of them.

17 Seest x thou not what they do in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of y Jerusalem?

x q. d. How canst thou pass along the Streets, but thou must needs be an Eye-witness of their Abominations to thy no small trouble and sorrow, as Sodom was to Lot, 2 Pet. 2. 8. therefore how canst thou plead with me on their behalf? How canst thou either pray for them or I pity them? y In City and Country. See Chap. 2. 28. and 11. 13.

18 The z children gather a wood, and the fathers kindle the b fire, and the women knead their dough to make c cakes to the ‖ queen of d Heaven, and to pour out e drink-offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke me to f anger. ‖ Or, frame, work-manship of heaven.

z Here God shews how busily they are employed from the youngest to the oldest, and how industrious for their Idolatry, Chap. 44. 17. See Matt. 24. 38. every one in the Family doth somewhat towards it. a Or sticks, for the word is plural, and so used, Numb. 15. 32, 33. an employment, if we understand small Sticks, proper for Children; if greater Wood, suitable to Youth, who excel in strength, and may be understood by Children and young ones. b They heat the Oven, Hearth or Stone on which they were baked. c Prepare all the Materials, of which to make Cakes; probably they were of some particular shape, or had some peculiar Impression of some of their Gods stamped upon them, like the Popish Wafers, some say stamped with Stars, as being offered up to the Host of Heaven, or with some peculiar Star, Amos 5. 26. Acts 7. 43. d Or, frame, or, workmanship of Heaven, this is diversly interpreted; some take it for the Sun, which is signified by a word of the Feminine gender, Isa. 24. 23. and of a feminine use, Nah. 3. 17. some for the Moon; as the Sun was looked upon as King, so the Moon as the Queen of Heaven, because of the largeness of her Body, in which she appears, and of the Light she gives, but especially by reason of the Government she exerciseth over Inferiour Bodies; others, more probably, for the whole Host of Heaven, Jer. 8. 2. and 19. 13. and so the LXX; according to which probably for their fakes they received divers stamps and impressions; they that would see more, may consult the English Annot. and the Synop. e Viz. Wine and other strong Drinks, Exod. 29. 40, 41. Numb. 28. 7. The Devil is God's Ape, and taught Idolaters to use the same Rites and Ceremonies that were used in God's Worship; therefore here these Idolaters in pouring their Drink-Offerings, which might seem to be Blood, or at least Blood mixed with them. See on Psal. 16. 4. imitated God's Drink-Offerings, as they did his Meat-Offerings in their Cakes, as in Levi. 2. by these they did furnish the Table mentioned, Isa. 65. 11. see there. f Noting rather the proper effects and consequences of their Idolatries, than that they did propound to themselves such an end in doing it, but it seemed to be a kind of bidding open defiance to God, by which it appears they were all mad upon their Idolatries, they were set upon it, as David's Heart was set upon the Worship of God, Psal. 16. 8.

19 Do they provoke me to anger? saith the LORD: do they not provoke themselves to the confusion of their own g faces?

g Do they think to grieve me, and trouble my Mind? They are deceived, I am without Passion, and can be without their Offerings, will not they themselves feel the smart of it, Verse 6? Will they not procure anger to themselves as an Arrow falls on the Head of him that shoots, 1 Cor. 10. 22. of the Phrase, see Chap. 3. 25.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; behold, my h anger and my i fury shall be k poured out upon this place, upon man and upon beast, and upon the trees of the field, and upon the fruit of the l ground; and it shall burn, and shall not be * quenched. * Psal. 78. 60 Chap. 26. 6.

h Put for his Revenge by a Metonymy of the cause for the effect. i This expresseth his anger boiled up to the height, Chap. 4. 4. k A Metaphor taken from violent Rains. See Chap. 6. 11. and may in particular allude to those showers of fire that were poured out upon Sodom, Gen. 19. 24. l These particulars are enumerated to express an utter desolation and ruine. See Chap. 4. 25. and it is threatned against these Creatures, which are innocent, because they were made for the use of Man, partly that it might shew, how greatly God is offended, and that it should work upon them not only a greater fear of his Judgments, but a greater shame for their sin, that they should occasion such sufferings upon the innocent Creature, Rom. 8. 20. 22. m He follows the threatning with shewing the irresistiblenes of it, his resolution is not to be revoked, Chap. 4. 4. and this is suitable to the Charge he gave the Prophet, Ver. 16.

21 Thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel; * n Put your burnt-offerings unto your o sacrifices, and eat flesh. * Isa. 1. 11. Chap. 6. 20. Amos 5. 21.

n The Ironical words of one that seems to be in a great rage, take those that are peculiar, and to be all burnt to me, Lev. 1. 9. and put them to your own of what kind soever, eat them, and do what you will with them, I will have none of them, take it all and fill your own Bellies, for you sacrifice not to me, but to your selves. See Hos. 9. 4. where their Meat-Offerings are called in scorn, Meat for their Life to nourish their Bodies. o That part of your Sacrifices, which you are allowed to eat, they are but as prophane food, do not you think to be sanctified by them, because I accept them not.

p Some would argue from hence, that Sacrifices were at first an invention of Men, as Papists and Socinians, and because they should not be used to Idols, God gave way for the introducing them into his Worship; but it is evident in Scripture that they have been of Divine Institution ever since Adam, Gen. 4. 3, 4. as to the meaning of the words. God doth not condemn them, or deny them, save only comparatively in respect of obedience, not so much these, as obeying his Commands, 1 Sam. 15. 22. Hos. 6. 6. i.e. Mercy rather than Sacrifice. Negatives are often put for Comparatives, Gen. 45. 8. Exod. 16. 8. Job. 5. 45. Hence the Heb. is the matter of burnt Offerings, for Sacrifices were not instituted for themselves, but for other uses, and to be signs of Faith in his Promises, and obedience to his Commands, as in the next Verse, where the Condition, Promise and end are all set down.

23 But this q thing commanded I them, saying, * Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people: and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be r well unto you. * Deut. 6. 3. Exod. 19. 5. Levit 26. 2

q Or word, which is the Rule by which all Obedience is to be tried, viz. what Commands, every thing else being but meer Superstition. r He shews what would be the good effect of their Obedience, Exod. 15. 26. Deut. 5. 29. 33. which implies, that their Sufferings are from their Perverseness, as it is expressed in the next Verse.

24 But they hearkened not, nor s enclined their ear, but walked in the counsels and in the ‖ t imagination of their evil heart; and † went backward, and not u forward. ‖ Or, stubbornesse. † Heb. were. * Chap. 32. 33.

s It notes something of an higher degree of non attention, than bare not hearkening, Viz. their not listening that they might obey what they hear, Chap. 7. 26. and 11. 8. noting not only their slightnels, but their stiffnels. t Or stubbornesse. See Chap. 3. 17. u Like restive Beasts; see Chap. 2. 27. a sign of their contempt, implying either, 1. They were worse by their Admonitions and Corrections, and so nothing did thrive with them; or, 2 From the very first they have gone farther and farther from me, as Ver. 25, 26. 3 Or else depending upon their outward Services, they set not my Commands before their Eyes, but cast my true Worship behind their backs, Matt. 23. 23.

25 Since the day that your x fathers came forth out of the land of Egypt unto this day, I have even y sent unto you all my servants the prophets, daily riling up early, and sending them.

x God seems to upbraid them with their stock, they came of a perverse kind, their very Fathers were so before them, and they have continued in their perverseness, Neh. 9. 16, 17. they did not now begin to be rebellious, but it had been their practice all along; never ceasing from the time their Fathers came out of Egypt to the Days of Jeremiah. y God tells them what care he had taken to inform them in their Duty and Happines, not once or twice, but sending Messengers to them seasonably, and constantly from first to last, 2 Chron. 36. 15. Neh. 9. 29, 30. Amos 2 10, 11. See on Ver. 13. and Chap. 25. 3, 4, &c. The Church of God hath never wanted Teachers raised up and sent by God.

26 * Yet they hearkened not unto me, nor enclined their ear, but * hardened their neck; they did worse than z their fathers. * Chap. 11. 8. * Neh. 9. 16, 17, 29, 30.

z Their Fathers had done bad enough, but they were so far from reforming, that they did worse than their Fathers, Jud. 2. 19. Chap. 16. 12. Chap. 9. 3. and wherein he had said before your Fathers, a Now changing the Person he saith their Fathers, as it were in great displeasure turning away from them to the Prophet, as one speaking, but in vain, to such a stupid People. Chap. 16. 12. and 17. 23. and 19. 15. and 25. 3.

27 Therefore thou shalt speak b all these c words unto them, but they will not d hearken to thee: thou shalt also call unto them, but they will not e answer thee.

b Viz. Revive upon them all that thou hast been speaking to them from me these 40 Years and upwards. c Whereby God shews, that there is nothing wanting on his part; for notwithstanding all their Perverseness, yet he still warns them by his Prophet, which will leave them the more inexcusable, Ezek. 2. 5. 7. d This must needs be a great Trial to the Prophet, that he is assured that he shall speak to them in vain. But this God acquants him with before-hand, partly for Jeremiah's sake, that he should not be discouraged, but the more emboldened, though he saw no Success, Ezek. 2. 7. and partly for the Peoples sake, that being foretold of their Obstinacy, they might bethink themselves and repent, if yet there might be hope, Lam. 3. 29 e This shews their farther Refractoriness, that were not only deaf to God's Message by his Prophet, but, though he cried loud, followed one Exhortation with another, yet they would make no Return unto it.

28 But thou shalt say unto them, this is a f nation that obeyeth not the voice of the LORD their God, nor receiveth g ‖ correction: truth is perished, and is cut off from their h mouth.

f Spoke in a way of Contempt, q. d. a Nation more than Heathenish, though they profess themselves a peculiar People to me, yet to be numbered among the Gentiles. g i. e. Answer not the Ends of Correction, viz. to be instructed, Chap. 5. 3. and submit their Necks to the Yoke, which laid the Foundation of all their Rebellion. h There is no trusting or believing them in any thing they say or do; no Veracity or Fidelity, but perfidious both to God and Men, being all filled with Hypocrisie, Lyes, and Deceits.

29 * Cut off thine i hair, O Jerusalem, and cast it k away, and take up a lamentation on high l places: for the LORD hath rejected and forsaken the generation of his m wrath.

* Chap. 16. 6.

i It was an usual Token of Sorrow among the Jews to cut off the hair, Job 1. 20. Isa. 15. 2. Mic. 1. 16 But here he speaketh either to Jeremiah; for O Jerusalem is not in the Text: or, to the Inhabitants of Jerusalem; and so speaks to them, as a Woman, whose Hair is for an Ornament, 1 Cor. 11. 15. Therefore this must needs signifie an higher degree of Sorrow. Cutting the Hair among the Ancients did signifie, 1. Mourning. 2. Bondage. For the cutting of the Hair in Servants was a Token of Subjection: so that this speaks Jerusalem's mournful Condition in her Captivity. k It is not to be referred, as sometimes Men and Women both do for some use, but to be cast away, and as a thing good for nought. And thus it may agree with the Churches Lamentation, Lam. 5. 16. for it is not here exhorted to, as a Token of Repentance, but as a threatning of Judgments. l See Chap. 3. 3. Lift up thy Voice on high in Lamentation, when thou hast thine Eye or Thoughts upon the high places where thou wenteſt a Whoring from me, for which thou now goeſt into Captivity. m Or of his over-running Anger, as some render it, i. e. with whom he is extremely vexed, this preſent Generation, that by their Provocations have brought themselves under his Wrath, Ver. 18. 20. a Generation deſtin'd to the Wrath of God, called elsewhere the People of his Curſe, Isa. 34. 5. and such as the Apoſtle calls Veſſels of Wrath, Rom. 9. 22. so far as it concerns the Phrase.

30 For the children of n Judah have done evil in my o sight, saith the LORD; * they have set their abomination in the p house which is called by my name, to pollute it.

* 2 Kings 21. 4. 2 Chron. 33. 4. Ezek. 8. 5, 6.

n Either Judah's Posterity, Josh. 14 6. or Judah's Inhabitants, which are often called their Children; so Chap. 2. 16. o i. e. Though they will not see it, yet I see it, and they shall know, that it is in my sight, i. e. that it displeaseth me. p Here he instanceth in one Species of their Abominations for all the rest, whereby it appears they were grown to a great height of Impiety: It was not enough to have their Idols and Superstitions abroad in the Hills and Groves, nor in private in their own Houses, Isa 57. 6, 7, 8. Chap. 19. 13 but they must bring them into God's House, as Manasses did, 2 Kings 21. 4 God having but one House in the World, as it were, to confront him, 2 Chron. 36. 14. Chap. 32. 34. Ezek. 43. 8.

31 And they have built the * high places of q Tophet, which is in the valley of the son of r Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire; which I commanded them not, neither came it into my t heart.

* 2 Kings 23. 10. Chap. 19. 5. † Heb. Upon my heart.

q See on Isa. 30. 33. It comes from Toph that signifies a drum, because they did beat Drums to hinder the Noise of their Childrens Screeches, when they burnt them in Sacrifice upon the Altars, called here high places, to Moloch, which is also called Melchom. r Tophet was situate in a pleasant Valley near Jerusalem, a place in the possession of the Children of one Hinnom, Josh. 15. 8. watered by the River of Siloe. s This most inhumane Practice of Burning their Children, even their own Bowels, to Moloch, not their Sons only, but their Daughters, who were most tender; they did expreſly against the Command and Caution of God: See on Deut. 18. 10. having learned it of the Heathen, Deut. 12. 30, 31. the Devil commanding them so to do by his Oracles: They took Pattern from the Samaritans, where those of every Nation make Gods of their own, 2 Kings 17. 29, 30, 31. t Which was always so far from my approving, that I never let it come into my Thought or Debate, whether I should or not: Or, which I abhorred from my Heart: he speaks herein after the manner of Men. See Chap. 3. 16. and 32, 35.

32 Therefore behold, the days * come, saith the LORD, that it shall u no more be called Tophet, nor the valley of the son of Hinnom, but the valley of slaughter: for they shall bury in Tophet till there be x no place.

* Chap. 16. 6.

u They were called so after this, and are known by those Names to this day; but the Meaning is, they shall acquire a Name from another Occasion, that shall suit them as well, viz. for the great Slaughter that shall be made there, or rather thereabouts, in and about Jerusalem, and therefore called the Valley of Slaughter, from the effect of Slaughter; as Judas's Field was called Akeldama, Acts 1. 19. being a place for burying of the Slain, as the next Words shew. x Either there shall be so great a Slaughter made upon that Spot by the Chaldeans that they shall bury as many as the Place will contain, and the rest of the Carcases they shall throw on heaps, to rot above-ground; for to lie unburied, is frequently used as a Curse on such, the Burying of the Dead being accounted as a thing sacred, and a significant Symbol of the Resurrection: Or, those that are slain in and about Jerusalem, at the Siege and Taking of it, shall be carried thither to be buried, either because there shall be no Burying-places left about Jerusalem, or that Valley shall be filled, till there be no Place for more, that hereby it may be so polluted, that no Thoughts of Holiness may remain in it: for a dead Carcase under the Law was unclean; and that which before was a Valley of Pleasure and great Delight, and they had dedicated to God, shall now be a Valley of Slaughter.

33 And the * carcases of this people shall be meat for the fowls of the y heaven, and for the beasts of the earth: and none shall fray them z away.

* Psal. 79. 2. Chap. 12. 9. and 16. Chap. 9. 20. and 34.

y The Birds and Beasts of Prey shall feed on them, being exposed to open View for want of Interment, Chap. 19. 7. z (A piece of Humanity that even Nature it self teacheth) Either by reason of the Enemies Presence, for fear of whom they durst not, or rather, because there will be none left to do it: And this is reckoned among the Curse, Deut. 28. 26.

34 a Then will I cause to * cease from the cities of Judah, and from the streets of Jerusalem, the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride: for the land shall be b desolate.

* Isa. 24. 7, 8. Chap. 16. 9. and 33. 11. Ezek. 26. 13. Hos. 2. 11.

a All kind and degrees of mirth shall cease, Rev. 18. 23. all places shall be filled with Lamentations and Woe; their singing shall be turned into sighing; they shall lay aside all things that are for the comfort of Humane Society, which is to be understood in this Expression. b There shall be such an utter Devastation, that there shall be neither Season nor Place for these Things, Isa. 64. 10, 11. Chap. 25. 10. where marrying shall cease, without which Mankind cannot subsist, there must needs be Desolation.

CHAP. VIII.

The Calamity of the Jews, both dead and alive, 1, —— 3. Their brutish Impenitency, 4, —— 7. Their vain boast of Wisdom: their Covetousness, Security, Impudence, 8, —— 12. Their grievous Judgments, 13, —— 17. Bewailed by the Prophet, 18, —— 22.

1 AT that time, saith the LORD, they shall bring out the a bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of his princes, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of their graves.

a This Chapter being a Continuation of the former, he proceeds in carrying on the Threatning with higher Aggravations of the Judgment, viz. that when the time shall come spoken of Chap. 7. 32. the Chaldeans Rage shall reach, not only to the Living, but even against those that are in their Graves, and that sparing none of any Degree or Quality; of the Nobles and Princes, as Manasseh and others, possibly led to it out of Greediness, supposing to find great Treasure in their Sepulchres; of the Priests and Prophets, principally the false ones, as a just Judgment of God against them for deceiving the People; of the Inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their spight and fury kindled against them, as Soldiers, or in Contempt and Ignominy; and this notes the utter Desolation of the City, not only razing the Walls, but turning up the very Sepulchres which were accounted sacred, and not to be violated.

2 And they shall b spread them before the sun, and the moon, and all the host of c heaven, whom they have d loved, and whom they have served, and after whom they have walked, and whom they have sought, and whom they have worshipped: they shall not be gathered, nor be buried; they shall be for dung upon the face of the e earth.

b Not gather them together into Charnel-Houses, as we usually do out of Humanity, but scatter them about as it were to be turned into Dust and Dung. c Viz. All the rest of the Stars, to shew that they should not lie out in the day-time only, but night also, before the Moon and Stars, Chap. 36. 30. Their Carcases shall be cast to their Idols, Lev. 26. 30. 2 Kings 23. 14, 20. A kind of Lex Talionis, that as they had served and worshipped these Creatures, God doth, as it were, appoint them as Spectators and Witnesses of his Vengeance, and what Contempt he pours upon them, their Carcases being brought before their Idols, which will be so shameful, as if one should draw forth the Adulteress, theress, with the Adulterer into open view, and expose them together, and it also insinuates the inability that is in these dumb Idols to help them in their misery. d This and the following terms serve to express the greatness and variety of their affection and zeal in their worshipping of them, Deut. 4. 19. 2 Kings 23. 5. Chap. 7. 18. he multiplies words, as it were implying, that there can hardly be words enough to express their folly and madness, the Gentiles worshipping these Creatures, not only for their beauty and lustre, but according to their ancient Philosophy apprehending them to have been living Creatures, and that all events were ordered by them. e On the superficies of it, there shall be no care taken of them, but they shall lie in the open Country in the Air, till they rot into dung, or dry into dust, as in the beginning of the Verse. See Psal. 83. 10. Chap. 9. 22. they shall be ignominious even after Death.

3 And death shall be chosen rather than f life, by all the residue of them that remain of this evil family, which remain in all the places whither I have g driven them, saith the LORD of hosts.

f A Description of the unexpressibleness of their misery, that notwithstanding all the barbarism of the Babylonians exercised both upon the living, and the dead, yet a small matter in comparison of what the living would feel, of the greatness of which misery there was a double cause; not only their being led into Captivity, but God's displeasure following them, even in their banishment, being sorely oppressed, one of those threatnings, Lev. 26. 36, 39. See Job 3. 20, 21. Rev. 9. 6. g Some dispersed about the Mountains, and hiding places of Judea, others in the Desart of Moab and Idumea, whither they fled for fear of the Chaldeans, and all other places, where God would scatter them, as Hypallage. h He that hath all the Creatures as an Army at his Command, can do this against those, with whom he is displeased.

4 ¶ Moreover, thou shalt say i unto them, Thus saith the LORD, shall they fall, and not k arise? shall he turn away, and not l return?

c Though possibly it be all in vain, yet thou shalt keep in thy work. k An Interrogation that hath the force of a negative, i. e. surely none, or will Men, is there no hope? And are they upon this ground desperate? Or rather will Men fall and not arise? Are they such Fools? that having fallen by their sins, and been foretold all that is coming, that they will not accept of a remedy, Chap. 7. 27. Hos. 14. 1. l A Metaphor taken from one that is out of his way, can any imagine, that if one tell him of it, and direct him aright, that he will not hearken to him, and turn back? It is even against Nature it self for a Man not to seek his own good.

5 Why then is this people of Jerusalem slidden back, by m a perpetual backsliding? They hold fast n deceit, they refuse to return.

m Either an universal backsliding. Or, rather obstinately resolved to hold on, though they see they are out of the way; not out of levity or inconsiderateness, the Heb. word signifies strength, the same used, Psal. 13. 1. and translated for ever, implying a strong, stiff, stout refusal. See Isa. 57. 17. Chap. 5. 3. n Either their injustice and cozenages in circumventing one another, which was so frequent among them, Chap. 9. 4, 5, 6. Mic. 7. 3, 4. or their Hypocrisie whereby they thought to deceive God, but they did indeed deceive themselves; the great impediment of their Repentance, Isa. 44. 20. or rather their sticking close to their false Prophets who did deceive them, thence incouraging themselves in their wickedness, and pleasing themselves, that their Miseries should not come upon them. See on Isa. 30. 10. Chap. 5. 31. and 14. 13, 14, &c.

6 I hearkened and o heard, but they spake not p aright, no man repented him of his wickedness, saying, What have q I done? Every one turned to his r course, as the horse rusheth into the battle.

o i. e. That I might hear, the words rather of God than of the Prophet, which the continuance of the Speech seems to shew in the next Verse, in the close whereof it is plain that God speaks, expressing himself after the manner of Men, who are wont to listen diligently after the things they are very desirous of. See 1 King. 20. 33. Mal. 3. 16. p Or not so as the LXX, and the word is thus used, Exod. 10. 11. Psal. 1. 4. not so as I would have had them, so far from Repentance, that I do not perceive a word from them tending that way. q I see no tendency to Repentance, I see none of them so much as calling themselves to an account, not recoiling upon themselves, where Repentance usually begins, 2 Chron. 6. 37. as Men use upon an inconsiderate act to smite upon their Breast, or Thigh, and say what have I done, as 2 Sam. Chap. 3. Verse 24. r To their accustomed way, committing all wickedness without restraint. See on Isa. 59. 7. the fury and unbridledness of their Lusts, being spurred on by their Wills, is described in the next expression, shewing how like a headstrong Horse, he runs away with his Rider, or compared to the delight, that an Horse seems to take in running violently, and headstrongly into the Battle, as it is described, Job 39. 21, &c. and this word rushing, signifying properly an inundation of waters, helps to shew their uncontroulableness in another Metaphor: See this verified of them, Chap. 2. 23, 24. It is said every one by an hyperbole, as Psal. 14. 3. and frequently elsewhere.

7 Yea, the stork in the r heaven knoweth her appointed s times; and the turtle, and the crane, and the swallow observe the time of their t coming; but * my people know u not the x judgment of the LORD.

* Chap. 5, 4, 5.

r i. e. In the Air, which is often called Heaven, where the Birds fly, Psal. 8. 8. compare Chap. 7. 33. who possibly observe the fit times by the temperature of the Air. s a. a. Observeth the several Seasons of her going and coming by some natural instinct, and this is said of the Stork; what kind of Fowl is here meant is disputable: See Euſtathius Annot. and Lat. Synop. t The same thing diversified in these several Fowls, that know also their Seasons. u This notes the great stupidity of his People, seeming not to have as much sense in them, as the Birds in the Air, not knowing their Summer of Prosperity, to make a good use of God's Favours, nor the Winter of Adversity, either to prevent or remove that Wrath of God that hangs over their heads, Isa. 5. 12. Luke 19. 42. 44. they know not their time for Repentance, and making their peace with God, compared also, on the same account, to the Beasts of the Field, Isa. 1. 3. and thus Christ upbraids the Pharisees, Matth. 16. 2, 3. x Either God's Vengeance in general, or particularly hovering over Jerusalem, and Judea, or rather the manner of God's Dispensations with them. So the word is used, 1 Sam. 2. 13. and 8. 11.

8 How do ye say, We are y wise, and the law of the LORD is z with us? Lo, certainly a ‖ in vain made he it, the pen of the scribes is b in vain.

y q. d. These things considered where is your Wisdom? When you see the very Fowls of the Air are not so stupid, as you are; he speaks either to Princes and Priests, or to the whole body of the People. z This may be underStood either more general of all, or may have a more special Eye to the Priests, with whom it was intruited, Deut. 33. 10. Mal. 2. 7. They were wont to boast much of the Law, as well as of the Temple, Chap. 18. 18. Rom. 2. 17, 23. a q. d. for any use they made of it, they had as good have been without it, God needed not to have given them a Law, Hos. 8. 12. b Neither need it ever have been copyed out divulged, and conveighed down to them by the Scribe, Deut. 17. 18. or the prevarications, and collusions these Lawyers used in the false interpretation of the Law, wherein they sided with the false Prophets, should be in vain. A Scribe was a Teacher, one well versed in the Scripture, or esteemed so.

9 * ‖ The wise men are ashamed, they are dismayed and c taken; lo, they have rejected the word of the LORD; and what † wisdom is in d them?

* Chap. 6. 15. ‖ Or, have they been ashamed, &c. † Heb. the wisdom of what thing.

c They trusted to their refuges of lyes, but when God shall bring the judgment threatned, the wiseſt among them will find, that they shall be confounded among themselves, not knowing what to do for all their wisdom, but shall be taken with the rest, Chap. 4. 9. by Wiſemen, he means the Scribes in the former Verse. The same said of Babylon, Isa. 47. 10. d Or what is wisdom to them? How can they say they are wise, when they have no fear of God, which is the beginning of wisdom, Prov. 1. 7. when they have no respect at all to the Word of God, as to any holy practice which is the fountain of all Wisdom, Deut. 4 6. Psal. 19. 7. 2 Tim. 3. 15.

10 Therefore * will I give their wives unto others, and their fields to them that shall e inherit them: for every one from the least even unto the greateſt is given to * f covetousness, from the prophet even unto the priest, every one dealeth g fally.

* Deut. 28. 30. Amos 5. 11. Zeph. 1. 13 * Isa. 56. 11.

e A paraphraſtical description of the Miseries of War; God doth here insinuate that their misery shall not be for a short time, but so long, as that strangers, viz. The Chaldeans shall enjoy their Land by inheritances, so far should they be from possessing their Land for ever. f So greedy after their own private gain, that they took no care of equity, or justice, in which word is comprised all their fraudulent Dealings one among another. g Of this and the two next Verses, see on Chap. 6. 13, 14, 15.

11 For they have * healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, Peace, peace, when there is no peace.

* Chap. 6. 14.

12 Were they * ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not at all ashamed, neither could they blush, therefore shall they fall among them that fall; in the time of their visitation they shall be cast down, saith the LORD.

* Chap. 3. 3. and 6. 15.

13 ¶ ‖ I will surely h consume them, saith the LORD; There shall be no grapes * on the vine, nor figs on the * fig i tree, and the leaf shall fade, and the things that I have given them shall k pass away from them.

‖ Or, In gathering * Matth. 21. 19. Luke 13. 6, &c. I will consume them. * Isa. 5. 1, &c.

h Or in gathering I will consume them; q. d. I will so gather them together into their several Cities to be befieged, that it shall be no hard matter to destroy them, Ver. 16. viz. The Body of the People, not every one, for there was a remnant, that did escape. i These Fruits, Grapes, and Figs, it is probable, were of greateſt account and use among them, Isa. 36. 16. and so may be put for all other things, either for necessity or delight, which God threatens he will deprive them of by reason of the Siege, which a Famine shall succeed, Chap. 5. 17. Joel 1. 7. Hab. 3. 17. See the like Zeph. 1. 2, 3. Or possibly, it may be spoken by way of similitude, q. d. they shall be wasted, as when there is no Grapes on the Vine, &c. the Land shall be left as bare, as when by Tempests or other violence, there is neither Leaf nor Fruit left upon the Tree, Psal. 78. 47. k If this refer to the further punishment, as some, then it is as much as to say, what they have already received from me and laid up, they shall also be deprived of, Hos. 2. 8, 9. or though I have given it to them, yet they shall not enjoy it, it shall be taken away by their Enemies; if it relate to the reason of the punishment, as others, then the Copulative is put for the cauſal, q. d. because the things that I gave them, viz. My Laws, paſs away, i. e. they have transgressed, Isa. 24. 4, 5. either sense lies fair.

* Ch. 4. 5. 14 Why do we sit l still? * Assemble your selves, and let us enter into the defenced m cities, and let us be n silent there; for the Lord our GOD hath put us

l The people at length seem to bethink themselves, and thus to bespeak each other. m In the scattered Villages, there is no safety for us, let us retire into places of greater security, Matth. 24. 16, 17, 18. possibly they thought they might be secured there, as they had been before in the time of Sennacherib. n Keep close within our walls, say or do nothing to provoke the Enemy, but sit down, and bewail the desperateness of our condition, Lam 3. 28, 29. or tremblingly expect the issue of this sad War, for there is no possibility of making head against such an Enemy, that bears down all before them. o They now begin to perceive, that the Hand of God is in all this, and that therefore they have not a word to say, as if they were wronged, God hath put them to shame; much less courage to oppose the Babylonians, their heart fails them, they are as Men in a great terror and consternation, God hath put us to silence, let us be silent. p Or Poison probably the name of some poisonous Herb, with the juice or infusion whereof they were wont to kill Persons, as Hemlock, Nightshade, &c. See Hos. 10. 4. it notes those bitter destructive judgments that God was bringing up on them. Chap 9. 15. which did spring from that bitter root of their sinning against him, as in the next words.

* Chap. 14. 19. 15 We * looked for peace, but no good came, and for a time of health, and behold, q trouble.

q Viz. Upon the perswasion of our Prophets, we expected that these Troubles would never come, but all would be well, but we find our selves meerly deluded by them, we looked so long, till even our Eyes failed us, but we see no remedy for us, Lam. 4. 17. A Metaphor: Miseries are often in Scripture compared to Diseases, and Deliverances to healing, Deut. 32. 39. Psal. 103. 3. Chap. 33. 6.

† Heb. the fulness thereof. 16 The r snorting of his horses was heard from s Dan: the whole land trembled at the sound of the neighing of his t strong ones: for they are come and have devoured the land and † all that is u in it; the x city, and those that dwell therein.

r The fury of the Chaldeans March is described by the snorting of their Horses, which is a noise they make through their Nostrils, when they are chafed, and fretted s i. e. Even to Jerusalem, q. d. the dreadfulness of the noise shall be heard from far, or rather, tho Jerusalem seem to be secure, yet the furthest Coasts of the Land are in great consternation, viz. the outmost boundary of Canaan Northward, through which the Chaldæan Army was to march. See Chap. 4. 15. or it is said to be heard, either the noise it self, or the fame of it, Chap. 6. 24. t His choice Horses or Cavalry, or his stout and sturdy ones, as the word signifies, and expressed by their brisk frolicksomness and courage in the word neighing properly applied to Horses, understanding here the chief of them, and the word for strong ones is applyed to any thing, that excels, as to Man, Job 34. 20. to Angels, Psal. 78. 25. Angels food, or the bread of the mighty. And for Horses as here, and Judg. 5. 22. Chap. 47. 3. u Heb. the fulness of it, the Trees, and Fruits, and wealth of the Land, they are entered upon their spoil, and will leave nothing in the Land, Chap. 4. 20. It is spoken in a Prophetical stile, who use to express the certainty of what shall be, as if it actually were already. x viz. Jerusalem, or rather the Cities with all their Inhabitants, as well as the Country, the singular number being put for the plural, as Isa. 27. 10.

* Psal. 58 4, 5. 17 For behold, I will send serpents, cockatrices, among you, which will not be y * charmed, and they shall z bite you, saith the LORD.

y He proceeds in increating of their terrour, q. d. there will be no appeasing, or allaying of their fury by any art or method, therefore represented by the Cockatrice, called in Latine Regulus, or King of Serpents, as putting to flight all other Serpents, but by appolition to Serpents, shewing what kind of Serpent they shall be, a sort that cannot be charmed, viz. such an Enemy as by no intreaty can be made exorable: See on Isa. 11. 8. LXX. deadly Serpents. z They shall afflict you with sore Punishments, not only Sting in their Tails, as Scorpions, but in their Teeth, whereby they shall devour you, Verse 16.

† Heb. upon. 18 When I would comfort my self against a sorrow: my heart is faint † in me.

a The language of the People being long shut up in their Cities, and finding no relief, at last faint, Lam. 4. 17. But more probably the Prophet now seems to speak his own Resentments, how greatly the Calamity of his People did affect him, the like Isa 22. 4. when he would sometimes refresh himself with the comfortable Refreshments of Nature, the thoughts of his Peoples Misery do so afflict him, that his Heart is ready to faint, to sink within him.

† Heb. because of the country of them that are afar off. 19 Behold, the voice of the b cry of the c daughter of my people, † because of them that dwell in a far d country: Is not the LORD in e Zion? is not her King in her? why have they provoked me to f anger with their graven images, and with g strange vanities?

b i. e. The greatness of their Cry, the bitter Cries and Shrieches and Complaints that methinks I hear: The words are abrupt, because the Prophet is to represent several Persons speaking; himself, the People, and God. c See Chap. 4. 11. possibly because Jeremiah lored them, instructed them, admonished them as a Daughter. d Viz. Their Enemies the Babylonians, that were to come against them from a very far Country, Chap. 6. 22. or the voice of them that were Captives under those of a far Country, now they begin to cry, which would not be perswaded to it before; the first is most to be approved of. e Viz. In Jerusalem, a Metonymy of the Subject. f Or as King in Zion, or have we not a King of the Seed of David, to whom the Kingdom was granted to be perpetual? Either the words of God, q. d. was not I among you to provide for you, and protect you, but you must needs repair to Idols? The like kind of Speech is in 2 King. 1. 3. and the close of the Verse seems to favour this, or, as others, an expostulatory Lamentation of the People, that the cruel Adversary should prevail over a People, that had God so near them, Psal. 48. 2, 3. and 76. 1, 2. hath God now left us? and is the promise of his continuance here at an end? Psal. 89. 36, 37, 38. g As if God should seem to reply here; Let them not think it strange, seeing they have turned their backs upon me, and trusted to Idols, which are but vanity, Chap. 2. 11, 13. called vanity, not only because Idols are as nothing, but because all the Confidence that is put in them is vain, and because Idolaters are vain in their Minds, and want understanding. I have not forsaken them, but they me.

20 The harvest is h past, the summer is ended, and we are not i saved.

h And the Winter no time for War, the Peoples continued complaint, not unlike that Ver. 15. the Year is gone, and we are still frustrated in our expectations, the time that we expected help from Egypt, Isa. 30. 2, 3, 5. i Viz. By the Egyptians, or any other Confederates.

21 For the k hurt of the daughter of my people am I hurt; I am l black; m astonishment hath taken hold on me.

k The Prophet here shews how deeply he is affected with the Peoples misery, he deeply sympathized with them, it signifies breach, I am broken in my Spirit, and so it answers to the breach that is made upon the People. l I am as those that are clad in deep Mourning, Psal. 38. 6. Chap. 14. 2. m I am amazed to think that my People should sin themselves beyond help, no remedy for them, as the next Verse, that no threatnings or Counsels should prevail with them.

22 Is there no * balm in n Gilead? Is there no o Phy- * Gen. 37. 25. chap. 46. 11 and 51. 8. ‖ Heb. gone up.
sician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people † p recovered.

n Gilead was eminent for Balm, Gen. 43. 11. taken for Rosin or Turpentine, which is a kind of more liquid Rosin, and either flows, or drops from certain Trees of its own accord, or their juice flows from several holes pierced into them, as from the Pine, Cedar, Cypress, or Terebinth Tree. Heb. Tseri. Gr. ῥητίνη from ῥέω to flow, or run. Lat. Resina. Engl. Rosin. A near affinity of the words in each Language, the nature whereof is to dissolve hardness, to clear, and close up wounds. o Or Chirurgeon, probably in a Country where were such plenty of Remedies, there could not want Artists, whereby their Cures might be facilitated, by means of which the Gileadites and Arabians did excel there. p Heb. gone up; the like expression, 2 Chron. 24. 13. the work was perfected, Heb. the healing, went up upon the work, and so Neh. 4. 7. the Prophet expresseth his grievous complaint by way of admiration, by a Metaphor, implying the inveteracy and obstinacy of their Hearts, that either would not come to the Physician, or that they should be thus incurable, where they wanted not for Prophets and Teachers, or for any spiritual means, flowing down daily upon them; can Jerusalem and Judea be without spiritual Physicians? Some understand it by way of Sarcasm, q. d. where are your Medicines, your Arms, your Counsels, your Confederacies? And where are your Physicians, your Princes and Priests that promised you Relief? Without God, you see, no help in any means; but the former more natural, and agrees best with the beginning of the next Chapter.

CHAP. IX.

The Prophet's Lamentation continueth over their Adultery, Deceit, Idolatry, which God would certainly punish, and they should be laid waste, when they should sufficiently lament, 1,——22. No trust in our selves, but in God, who will punish all Nations, 23,——26.

1 OH † * that my head were q waters, and mine † Heb. who will give my head, &c. * Isa. 22. 4. Chap. 4. 19. and 14. 17.
eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the r slain of the daughter of my people.

q Heb. who will give, &c. by way of enquiry, because the Hebrews do want the Imperative Mood; the Prophet in this Chapter principally bewailing his poor Countrey-mens Calamity, whom he therefore calls the Daughter of his People, he expresseth the greatness and excess of his Sorrows, by wishing that his Brains were as it were dissolved into water, (for the word is singular) as if he wished it were all one water, signifying plenty, and that his eyes might distil tears like a fountain; the same word in the Heb. for Eye signifies a Fountain; noting the continuance of it, as not to be drawn dry, expressed by Day and Night, apprehending it a misery so great, as never sufficiently to be bewailed. See Luk. 19. 41. r Or that are to be slain, viz. by the Babylonians, a prophetical stile, as sure to be slain, as if they were slain already.

2 Oh that I had in the wilderness a lodging place of s way-faring men: that I might leave my people, and go from them: for * they be all t adulterers, an * Chap. 5. 7, 8. assembly of treacherous u men.

s He proceeds in his Lamentation, which in the former Verse he did by way of Compassion, in this in a way of Indignation, wishing for some retiring place or forry shed, or night-Cottage: See on Isa. 24. 20. though it were but some mean and forry Hutt in the Wilderness Wilderness, as David, Psal. 55. 6, 7. such as might but shelter him from the Injuries of the Weather; LXX. in some remoteſt Station or Corner, where he might not be an Eye-witness of their Miseries to grieve him so at the heart, Psal. 119. 136, 158. See 2 Pet. 2. 7, 8. and where he might hope to find better Entertainment from the savage Beasts, than from his own Countrymen. t i. e. For the most part, Chap. 5. 8. both Properly and Metaphorically, being full of all idolatrous Practices; or there is no Integrity found among them. u That deal perfidiously with God and Man in all the Concerns they are converſant about, Isa. 1. 4. And though the Word here for Assembly is most ordinarily used for an Holy Assembly, Lev. 23. 36. Num. 29. 35. which causeth some to understand it of their being most vile when they should be most devout; yet here it most naturally signifies a kind of Combination among them, as such that have conspired one among another to act all manner of Villainies.

† Isa 59. 13, 15. 3 And * they x bend their tongues like their y bow for z lyes: but they are not valiant for the a truth upon the b earth: for they proceed from evil to c evil, and they know not me, saith the LORD.

x Heb. Tread, because Bows are usually kneeled or trod upon when they are bent, Chap. 50. 14. and 51. 3. y Their Tongues are here compared to a Bow, and Lyes to Arrows, because as a Bow shoots out Arrows, so doth the Tongue Words, Psal. 64. 3. z i. e. All reproachful, false, and noxious Words, to the damage of one another: and so bending may be preparing, framing, and contriving, that Mischief which they purpose to vent with their Tongues, Psal. 52. 2, 3, 4. and 64. 3. as Bending is preparing the Bow to do Execution with the Arrow. a Equity, Justice, they are as eager in the ways of Falshood as Men engaged in War, but shew no Valour in maintaining the Truth. b i. e. No Truth in the Earth in them, as we use to express our selves, or rather more genuinely in the Land wherein they live, they have no Courage in what is good. c Either in kind, or in degree, they go on from bad to worse, 2 Tim. 3. 13. which speaks little Hopes of their Repentance; the ground of all which is said here to be, their not knowing of God, as in the next Clause, Judg. 2. 10, 11. 1 Sam. 2. 12. The heart cannot work strongly after God, where there be but mean Apprehensions of him.

* Chap. 11. 6. Mic. 7. 5, 6. ‖ Or, friend. 4 * Take ye heed every one of his ‖ d neighbour, and trust ye not in any brother: for every brother will utterly e supplant, and every neighbour will walk with f slanders.

d Better rendred Friend or Companion, as 2 Sam. 16. 17. and in the next Verse, shewing, the general Corruption will be so malignant, that one Friend will betray another; no Faith in Friends. e Wholly given to it. Heb. Supplanting will supplant, or treading down, treadeth down; trampling them under their Feet, noting their Oppression, which they exercise all manner of ways, as in the next Verse, both by Fraud and Force. Like the Interpretation that Esau puts upon Jacob, Gen. 27. 36. not only such as are near in Habitation, pretending Neighbourhood and Friendship, but near in Relation, even a Brother will circumvent, no respect to Blood, arguing them to be monstrous in Nature, putting off Humanity. The Word is here in Allusion to Jacob, who had his Name from Supplanting; a Metaphor taken from the Sole of the Foot, Gen. 25. 26. f Carrying Tales and Reports up and down, whether true or false, to the Disturbance of the Peace of Neighbourhood, Chap. 6. 28. and against the Law of God, Lev. 19. 16.

‖ Or, mock, 5 And they will g ‖ deceive every one his neighbour, and will not speak the truth: they have h taught their tongues to speak lyes, and i weary themselves to commit iniquity.

g Heb. mock or deride; they are Scoffers. h They have so framed their Tongues to it by Custom, and constant Use, that Lying is become so familiar to them, that they cannot leave it: the same Word is apply'd to the wild Ass, used or taught to the Wilderness, Chap. 2. 24. and 13. 23. i They use a great deal of Industry, Diligence, and Contrivance in it, Psal. 7. 14. Isa. 5. 18. They spare for no Labour, and feel no Weariness in it, whereby they are become expert.

6 Thine habitation is in the midst of k deceit: through deceit they refuse to l know me, saith the LORD.

k This God speaks to the Prophet, either to inform him, that there is no hope of this Peoples Reformation, Chap. 8. 5. therefore he expresseth a deceitful People by the Abstract, Deceit, i. e. nothing among them, but Deceit one to another, and Hypocrisie towards me, as Psal. 109. 2. and Vanity for vain Men, Job 35. 13. or to caution and advise him, how to behave himself among such a People, that he be very wary, he be not enfnared by them, Chap. 12. 6. l Either hoping to shift well enough by their several means they think to use, Chap. 8 5. they are carelesly of turning to me, or by hearkening to their false Prophets, who have all along deceived them, they obstinately reject my Ways and Counsels, Psal. 36. 1, 2, 3, 4. and 82. 5.

7 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts; Behold, I will melt them, and m try them: for how shall I n do for the daughter of my people?

m The same Metaphor used Chap. 6. 29. try them by melting them, i. e. Either I will try what lesser Afflictions will do, before I do utterly destroy them; or rather, I will bring Judgment upon them, the Fire and Fury of the Chaldæan War, that shall clear away their Dross from among them, and purge away their Deceits in which they trust, that the Remnant may be purified, Dan. 11. 35. as when the Dross is separated from Metals, the rest remains pure. See on Isa. 1. 25. n q. d. There is no Remedy, I have tried all other means, and they have been ineffectual, my People will take no warning; they are grown to such an height of Impiety, that I can do no less, though they are my People, Hos. 6. 4. or God doth expostulate with them, How can you expect, that I should treat you otherwise, that have so provoked me, and whose Impieties have redounded so much to my Dishonour?

o Before, Verse 3. it was compared to a Bow, i. e. ready prepared, and furnished with Materials contriving their Wickedness, what they have designed. Some translate it, a murthering Arrow. of him. p Never speaking what they mean, that thereby they may the easier deceive the Credulous; a double Tongue, speaking fair when they mean to destroy, Psal. 55. 21. as the next Words explain it, intending to do the greatest Mischief when they speak fairest. q Heb. in midst of him, i. e. in his very Inwards, with his whole Heart he contrives mischief. † Heb. in the midst of him, wait for him.

9 ∴ Shall I not visit them for these things, saith the LORD; shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

∴ See Chap. 5. 9, 29.

* Chap. 12. 4. and 23. 10. Hos. 4. 3. ‖ Or, pastures. 10 For the mountains will I take up a weeping, and r wailing, and * for the ‖ habitations s of the wilderness a lamentation, because they are ‖ burnt up, so that none can pass t through them, neither can men hear the voice of the u cattel; † both the fowls of the heavens, and the beasts are fled, they are gone.

r The Prophet having, Ver. 1. taken up a Lamentation for the Slaughter of the People, he now re-assumes it for the Desolation of the whole Land, every part of it being to be laid waste: See † Heb. Chap. 4. 23, 26. And it either sets forth the greatness of his Grief, from the that shall reach to the very mountains, as the Words may be read, fowl even or rather, the Cause of his Mourning, because he presently adds, to, &c. for the Habitations of the Wilderness. s Plain, or Valley, as it often signifies; so the Word is used Isa. 63. 13, 14. or pleasant Plains. The Country of Judea being mountainous, these Plains and Valleys were their chief places for Pasturage, which doth greatly aggravate the Devastation; these shall be burnt up, the Herbage so burnt, that it shall be left utterly barren, like a parched Heath, Verse 12. The Mountains shall not be able to secure them, nor the Valleys to feed them. t Either there being no Path; the LXX render it, on the Paths of the Wilderness, or none to pass to and fro, and so leave it desolate; or so parched, and waste, that none can pass through it, so far are they from being inhabited, Chap. 2. 6. u There, where once all sort of Cattel and Fowls in great plenty were wont to feed and graze, there is not so much as the Chirping of a Bird, the Bleating of a Sheep, or Lowing of an Ox to be heard. See Chap. 23. 10, 12, 13. and 50. 3. They are said to be fled and gone; either the Enemy hath swept away all, or they have forsaken the Land, because there was no Food, Jer. 12. 4. A Figurative Expression of an Universal Desolation.

* Isa 34. 13. Chap. 10. 22. † Heb. desolation. 11 And I will make Jerusalem x heaps, and a * * den of y Dragons; and I will make the cities of Judah † desolate, without an inhabitant.

x Viz. Of Stones, and Rubbish. y Noting a desolate place, not any longer fit for the Habitation of Mankind, as the next Words do speak; but for hideous Beasts; as they had made use of the Temple for a Den of Thieves, Chap. 7. 11. The same also he afterwards threatens on Babylon her self, Chap. 51. 37.

* Psal. 107. 43. 12 * Who is the wise-man, that may understand z this? and who is he to whom the mouth of the LORD hath spoken, that he may a declare it, for what the land perisheth, and is burnt up like a wilderness, that none passeth through.

z Viz. The ground of all these Evils, q. d. Is there not a wise man among you, that will concern himself, and search into the Cause of all these threatned Judgments, which hath provoked God to so great Displeasure? See Hos. 14. 9. It is a Question that implies there is none, or very few, that consider common Calamities in the Causes of them; but rather say of Judgments, it is a Chance, 1 Sam. 6. 9.

13 And the LORD saith, a Because they have forsaken my b law, which I set before c them, and have not obeyed my voice, neither walked therein;

a Either this, and the next Verse refers to the former, viz. because there are none can give the Reason why the Land perisheth, therefore God will; or else they refer to the 15 and 16 Verses, as shewing the Causes of those Judgments threatned; for either of the References do not alter the Sence: see Chap. 5. 19. this Verse contains negative Reasons. b He chargeth them with their Apostasie, and refusing to obey his Precepts, and conform their Conversation to them. c Left they should plead they were obscure and hard to be understood, therefore he tells them, he had made it plain to them, they could not be ignorant of it, except it were out of Wilfulness and Obstinacy: The like Expression, Deut. 11. 32.

‖ Or, stubborn 14 But have walked after the ‖ d imagination of their own heart, and after e Baalim, which their f fathers taught them.

d Or Stubbornness and Obstinacy: see Chap. 7. 24. e See Ch. 2. 23. f The Prophet doth not charge them with new Crimes, but with their tenacious sticking to their Idolatry. f See Chap. 7. 18.

It seems they might partly thank their Education for it, as well as the r own natural Perverseness: hence we should learn to follow God's Counsel in the Scriptures, and not blindly follow our Fathers Counsel, Precepts, or Examples, or our own Will, which is the worst Guide.

15 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will feed them, even this g people, with * b wormwood, and give them water of gall to drink.

* Chap. 23. 15.

g This Supplement even shews that it is spoken emphatically, though they be a People that presume to be my peculiar. b Worms, Dutch Annot. A Plant to purifie and cleanse them, say some; but this doth not seem to be spoken in favour to them; therefore rather some poisonous Plant, which may agree to any other destructive Herb, as well as Wormwood, and this the Heb. word doth intimate, to which purpose the Water of Gall is mentioned in the next Words, both joined together, Deut. 29. 18 possibly the one pointing at their Drink, the other at their Bread, both metaphorically to be understood, of which see on Chap. 8. 14.

16 I will i * scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers have k known: and I will send a sword after l them, till I have consumed them.

* Lev. 26. 33. Deut. 28. 64.

i Either you shall wander up and down among Strangers, like Cain's Curse; or rather, you shall have no Friend abroad, but be sold as so many Slaves from person to person. k Part of the Curse threatned, Deut. 28. 64. l Neither shall this serve their turn, but I will follow them with the Sword, till they be destroyed, probably meant of those that might escape out of Jerusalem, and fly into Egypt, the Chaldean should pursue them thither, and either take or slay them there, i. e. such of them as were appointed for Destruction; for otherwise, they were not all consumed, a full End was not to be made, as is promised Chap. 5 10.

17 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; m consider ye, and call for the mourning n women, that they may come; and send for o cunning women that they may come.

m Either in how sad a Condition you are, what Circumstances you are under; or rather, bethink your selves what Course to take: and therefore he puts them upon mourning and bewailing their Condition, intimated by the following Expression. n A sort of Persons, and principally Women, as more apt for Passions in this kind, which they had among them, 2 Chron. 35. 25. whose Work it was, either to compose Funeral Elegies, or Panegyricks in praise of the Dead, and to act them in some mournful manner, as tearing their Hair, and beating their Breasts, with other mourning postures, or to sing them in some doleful Tone, thereby artificially to provoke and excite both Passions and Expressions of Grief in the Friends of the Deceased, rather wringing out Tears than shedding them, in which probably they made greater seeming Lamentations, than those that did really mourn, as being most concerned; not that God calls upon them to do this as approving the Formality, (though this foolish Custom had obtained in most Ages and Countries) any more, than other Customs that were made use of by way of Illustration; as the Olympick Games, and possibly that Practice mentioned 1 Cor. 15. 29. but makes use of it, as being customary, either to excite them to, and put them upon true Repentance, or to convince them hereby, that they were not able themselves sufficiently to bewail so great Calamities as were coming upon them, intimating hereby that he would give them occasion for the most unfeigned weeping and Lamentation. o Such as are most skilful in it, Amos 5. 16 Wisdom being taken for Skill in any Arts, as Exod. 31. 3. and elsewhere.

18 And let them make p haste, and take up a wailing q for us, that our eyes may run down with tears, and our eye-lids gush out with r waters.

p As by the calling for their Artificial Mourners, he did intimate the greatness of the Misery that was coming upon them, that with all their Art they could not sufficiently bewail it; so here, by making haste, he intimates the near Approach of it, that it was even at the doors q Pitch upon some form of Mourning that may be fuitable to our Condition. r This and the former are each of them an Hyperbolical Expression, and yet are too little to bewail the greatness of the Judgment, which suits with the Prophet's Lamentation, Ver. 1. The Prophet would herein intimate, that they that were so stupid as to hear the Prophets denouncing their Judgments with dry eyes, tho he wish'd them to have been Fountains of Tears, shall now suddenly feel, that they shall have cause enough to send for all the Helps, not only real but artificial, to stir up their Mournings.

19 For a voice of wailing is heard out of t Zion, How are we u spoiled? We are greatly x confounded, because we have forsaken the land, because our dwellings have cast us out.

t i. e. Jerusalem, spoken in the Prefent Tense, after the Prophetical Stile, being a frequent way of the Prophet's expressing the Certainty of a thing. u How great is our Misery? or how come we to be in such a desolate Condition? possibly Expressions of the Artificial Mourners, or rather their real Sence of it, now it is all too late. x Whether this be the Complaint of the Country people forced to fly from their Habitation to Jerusalem for shelter, or of Jerusalem it self, that could expect no less, it filled them with great Consternation, that they who thought their House should have continued for ever, because of God's Promise, Psal. 132. 10, &c must now forsake them, Lev. 18. 25. Either their Persons carried out into Captivity, or have them utterly demolished by the Enemy.

20 y Yet hear the word of the LORD, O ye a women, and let your ear receive the word of his mouth, and teach your daughters wailing, and every one her b neighbour lamentation.

y Or therefore, i. e. 'Do not think I speak words out of my own Mind or Fancy, but what I speak is from the Lord. a Either those hired Women mentioned before, or rather the Women of the Land, for God would have it not a mercenary, but a real Mourning; and he mentioneth Women, 1. To upbraid the Men with their Stupidity; 2. As being more apt to grieve, thereby to express the Readiness that he would have the Land to be in for Mourning; 3. Because of the decay and want there would be of Men, as is expressed in the next Verse, by reason partly of the Slaughter, and partly of the Captivity; therefore here is mention of Women with reference to Children in the next Verse, after whom their Bowels would yearn, and Daughters, either the Scholars of the Mourning Women, or rather, with reference to Young-men, unto whom they might be given in Marriage; 4. Because the Female Sex is least able to help themselves in a common Calamity; or 5. Because they would be least solicitous, but would indulge their Delicacies, Pride, Sloth, and Wantonness, Isa. 32. 9, 11. b Heb. A Woman her Friend, namely, that the Grief might spread the farther, and become deeper; for Affections and Passions, of what kind soever, are augmented by Company: it notes how large and universal the Mourning should be, Amos 5. 16.

21 For death is come up c into our windows, and is entred into our palaces, to cut off the children from without d, and the young-men from the streets.

c The Unavoidableness of the Ruin is expressed metaphorically, Ezek 21. 14. Chap. 6. 5. most likely alluding to the violent and universal storming of a City, Chap. 5. 10. wherein there is no respect had to Sex, Youth, or Age. Several other Allusions. See Engl. Annot. The Chaldeans are here understood by death, as bringing Death where-ever they come; a Metonymy of the Effect. d No safety within or without; the Enemy shall cut off all, not only those at home, but even those that are conversing or playing in the Streets, which most commonly Young-men and Children are, Chap. 6. 11.

22 a Speak, thus saith the LORD; even the b carcases of men shall fall as dung upon the open c field, and as the handful after the d harvest-man, and none shall gather e them.

a Lest they should think these Things would never be, cease not to tell them from me, that they shall certainly come to pass, viz. what was said before, and what is said now in this Verse (these Words, speak, thus saith the Lord, being best read in a Parenthesis.) b Heb. A Carcase of a Man, noting here and there a scattered Carcase. c As Jezabel was, 2 Kings 9 37. exposed to all Contempt, strewed up and down on the Superficies of the Earth. Heb. Face of the Field, and be offensive by their stench to all that pass by, Chap. 44. 12. d Either laid in heaps by death, as the Harvest-man doth his Cocks of Hay, or Sheaves of Corn, or rather, they shall be no more regarded than a few scattered Ears that drop out of the Reapers hand, which either lye on the ground and are eaten by Birds, or tred to dirt by Beasts: thus God would pour Contempt upon them, which must needs be grievous to so proud a People as the Jews were e None shall have so much respect to them, or Compassion of them, as to afford Burial, Chap. 8. 2.

23 ¶ Thus saith the LORD; let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, nor let the rich man glory in his f riches.

f The Jews did glory in the Counsel of their Wise-men, the strength of the Soldiers, and the Wealth of their Citizens; but here God takes them off from their vain Confidences, that neither their Counsels and Policy, Eccl. 9. 11. nor their Forces and Arms, Psal. 33. 16, 17. nor their Wealth, or Riches, Prov. 11. 4. Ezek 7. 19. should be able to deliver them from being either destroyed, or carried Captive by the Chaldeans. In these, or some of these, Men are apt to put their Confidences, and neglect God their only Succour in distresses; and therefore he puts them upon that in the next Verse.

24 But * let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and g knoweth me, that I am the LORD which exercise loving kindness, judgment and righteousness in the h earth: for in these things I i delight, saith the LORD.

* 1 Cor. 1. 31. 2 Cor. 10. 17.

g Whether we make any curious Distinction between understanding God, as if that be more speculative, whereby we rightly apprehend his Nature; and knowing God, as if that be more practical, as directing the Converfation, we need not here enquire; yet certainly both center in this, that we so know and understand God as to trust in him, and depend on him alone in all Conditions. h Kindness, as it relates to his own people, Psal. 5. 12. Judgment, with reference to his punishing the Wicked; Righteousness, namely, as he deals justly and uprightly with both, Psal. 92 15. The meaning here. I conceive, is to shew God's orderly governing and disposing of Things in the World in his distributive Justice, that all Things are right and equal. i Both in himself and others, Psal. 11. 7.

25 ¶ Behold the days come, saith the LORD, that I will k † punish all them which are I circumcised, with the uncircumcised.

k Viz. By the Babylonians. l q. d. Do not think to insist upon your external Privilege of Circumcision, that you are Abraham's natural Seed, and thereby distinguished from other Nations as you sometimes were wont to do of the Temple, that you had God in the midst of you. Do not think that shall privilege you for you shall see, it shall not be long ere I bring the Chaldeans upon those those other Nations, which either are circumcised in the Flesh as well as you, and upon you also who are uncircumcised in heart as well as they, or whether Circumcision was lost as being cast off by them, and so they were indeed uncircumcised: God tells them they shall fare alike: hence in the next Verse he ranks Judah next to Ægypt among the other uncircumcised Nations: for he looks to the Circumcision of the Heart, not of the Body; to inward Worship not outward only; therefore some read it the circumcised in Uncircumcision.

26 Egypt, and Judah, and Edom, and the children of Ammon, and Moab, and all that are in the utmost m † corners, that dwell in the wilderness: for all these nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel are n * uncircumcised in the heart.

† Heb. cut into corners, or having the corner of their hair polled. * Lev. 26. 41. Rom. 2. 28, 29.

m Some refer this to the place of their Habitation, as in Corners, and remote parts of the Wilderness, as it were separated from other Nations, and therefore might think themselves farthest remote from Danger; but some rather chuse to refer it to their Manners, as in cutting the Corners of their Hair, which was forbidden the Jews, Leviticus 19. 27. The like Description in Chap. 25. 23. n See the foregoing Verse, God regards not the outward Sign, but principally respects the Circumcision of the Heart. Here ends that Sermon that began at Chap. 7.

CHAP. X.

They are forbid to be afraid of the Token of Heaven, and consult Idols which are vain, 1,——5. and not to be compared with the Majesty and Power of God, who is Jacob's portion, 6,——16. The Babylonians destroy the Temple; the brutish Pastors and the Flocks are scattered, 17,——22. The Prophet's humble Supplication, 23,——25.

1 HEar ye the word which the LORD speaketh unto o you, O house of p Israel.

o Here begins another Sermon, i. e. most probably relating to Jechonias and the Jews, that were already in Captivity. p The ten Tribes.

2 Thus saith the LORD, learn not the way of the q heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of r heaven, for the heathen are s dismayed at them.

q The Jews being to live among the Chaldeans in their Captivity, where many of them were already, the Prophet in this Sermon admonisheth them against the Superstitions of the Chaldean Idolatries, which he understands here by Heathen, who were also much addicted to Astrology, and esteemed the Original of Sciences: The Customs and their Manners he calls here their Way, as is frequent in Scripture, Lev. 18. 3. and 20. 23. r This was a Practice and Study so common among them, that Judicial Astrologers, of what Nation soever, were generally termed Chaldeans; a practice so hateful to God, that sometimes he positively prohibits it, Deut. 18. 10, 14. and sometimes in a way of Scorn and Derision, Sarcastically sends them to such. Isa. 47. 13. and often labours to perswade against it: for though Astronomy be not only lawful, but useful, as being subject to Reason, and the Rules of Art whereby many Actions of Humane Life are directed and guided, and proportioned, yet Judiciary Astrology is indeed originally Diabolical and Heathenish; and though God do suffer their Predictions sometimes to fall out right, yet it is, to punish the Curiosity of the Enquirer. s q. d. Leave this to Heathens; it doth not become God's People, who do wholly depend upon him; for indeed the Heathen, as many ignorant Christians do to this day, were more afraid of the Signs of Heaven, and Astrological Predictions, than of God, and what is foretold in his Word of Prophecy; as of Things were governed rather by the Influences of the Stars than the Providence of God; not but that we may be affected with such preternatural Appearances in the World, which God doth extraordinarily cause to appear, as some Tokens of his approaching Judgments, Joel 2. 30, 31. Matth. 24. 7. Luke 21. 11.

3 For the † customs of the people are t vain: for * one cutteth a tree out of the u forest, the work of the hands of the workman, with the axe.

† Heb. Statutes or Ordinances are vanity. * Isa. 44. 9, 12, &c.

t i. e. Such Courses, Institutions, idolatrous Customs, and Ceremonies as these, that many People follow, they are vain, and it is a foolish and wicked thing, that any that profess the true God, should give heed to such lying Vanities. u Here he annexeth their Idolatry to their Astrology, q. d. they cut down Timber to make the Images and Representations of these Stars and Planets, that they fear and worship as Gods, either in memorial of them, when they could not see them, or else upon a superstitious Conceit that the Stars which they worshipped, did by some Magick Art convey some Vertue or Spirit into these Statues or Images; or rather, he doth set forth the Folly of the Heathen, that whereas for the matter of them, they are but a piece of Wood, a Tree out of the Forest; and as to the form of them, no other than the Carver, a sorry Man, is pleased to put them into by his Axe, which I suppose is here put for any cutting Tool of the Artist, whereby he shapes it; yet they are afraid of these, as if they were Gods, Isa. 40. 20. See on Jer. 8. 2.

4 They deck it with silver and with gold; they fasten it with nails and † with x hammers, that it move not.

x A farther Description of their Workmanship, having no other Comeliness but what they confer upon it, and they no greater Security or certainty of it, than as they can with Hammer and Nail make it fast, and fix it to some place, the woodden God being not able to preserve it self from falling; therefore it is rather to be meant of fastening to some Wall, or Pillar, than of fastening their parts together, because they seem to be cut out of one entire piece, and therefore need it not.

5 They are upright as the † palm-tree, but speak * Psal. 115. 5. and 135. 16. * Isa. 46. 1. 7. * Isa. 41. 23. not; they must needs be * born, because they cannot go: Be not afraid of b them, for they * cannot do evil, neither also is it in them to do good.

y The nature of which is to grow upright and tall, without any Branchings, till it comes to the top, thereby possibly representing Majesty. z Looking as if they were about to speak, standing in a speaking posture, but have not a word to utter, being only dumb Stocks, woodden Gods. a They move no farther or faster than you lift them, either when you go, to set them up, or upon any occasion of Removal, as stiff as stakes, being indeed but sticks. b They can do you no more harm, than the Signs of Heaven could do; they are but dead stocks: the Heathens worshipped some Idols that they might do them good, and others that they might do them no harm; but God tells them here, they can do neither good or harm, as in the next words; they can neither punish nor reward, they can neither hurt their Enemies, nor help their Friends: by this the true God will be distinguished from Idols, that he alone can foretell things to come, and he alone can reward or punish, Isa. 48. 5. and therefore the Prophet endeavours to turn them off from their Idols to the true God.

6 For c as much as * there is none like unto thee, O LORD: thou art great, and thy name is d great in e might.

* Exod. 15. 11. Psal. 86. 8. 10.

c This Particle כִּי Min is to be taken here causally, and refers either to what goes before, shewing there is no Comparison between God and Idols, or rather, to what follows, as the Ground and Reason of all due Subjection to God, as in the next Verse. d Or thou art transcendently great. e i. e. Though Idols may have something of a Name in the World among the Heathen, yet there was nothing of their real Power or Might seen; or if the Devil might act something through them to delude the World, yet nothing to be compared with that Might that hath manifested it self in God's Works, Psal. 106. 8. and 111. 6. All the Works of Idols are either none, or feeble and weak, Ver. 8.

7 * Who would not fear thee, O king of f nations? for ‖ to thee doth it appertain: for as much as among all the wise men of the nations, and in all their kingdoms there is none like g unto thee.

* Rev. 15. 4. ‖ Or, it liketh thee.

f He is called a great King, Mal. 1. 14. q. d. thou, by whom all Nations are governed, and all Affairs in them disposed, and by none else, who would worship any but thee, or be afraid of any but thee, seeing it is fit for, and therefore can belong to none besides, as in the next words, it is thy right and due, or who can be so stupid as not to acknowledge one supreme Being, and this to be but one, as among the Heathens, Socrates, Plato, Seneca, and divers others did; and therefore is it not a prodigious thing, that any should so withhold the truth in Unrighteousness, to be gross as to worship many Gods? g. d. If you search among all their Wise-men and Philosophers, all the Grave Men and Rulers in their Kingdoms. For these the Heathens were wont to worship as Gods after Death, Wise-men for their Wisdom, and Kings for their Power, you'll find none to compare with God either for Wisdom or Power: their Wise-men are but as so many Fools.

8 But they are † altogether * b brutish and foolish: the i stock is a doctrine of l vanities.

† Heb. in one, or at once. * Psal. 115. 8. Isa. 41. 29. Hab. 2 18. Zech. 10. 2. Rom 1. 21, 22.

b The awe that the Idol doth impress upon carnal mens minds, and thereby taking them off from a due Apprehension of the Essence of God, doth keep them between fuch Hope and Fear, that they become as fenseless and as inapprehensive of any true Worship, as Brutes. i Not only some of them, but even all both Jews and Gentiles, q. d. I need not stand to particularize, but take them all together, they are become stupid Idolaters, and have drunk in the most gross Superstitions of the Gentiles, as Rom. 1. 19, 21. k A Synecdoche put for all sorts of Idols, of what Materials soever; and a Metonymy of the Matters, &c. render them contemptible, either as deluding the ignorant, or in themselves considered; they are meer vain, foolish, helpless things. l The Hebrew Word Musar is taken for bad Instruction, Prov. 16 22. q. d. It is an easie Matter to prove them very Fools, and brutish, when they look upon a stock, a piece of wood, to be their God, which hath neither Knowledge nor Providence, and therefore must needs be a Doctrine of Vanity, when they think to be taught Devotion by Images, which is a teacher of Lyes; that saith to the dumb stone, it shall teach, Hab. 2 18, 19. like that Doctrine of Devils first throughed by Pope Gregory, who first commended Serenus Bishop of Massilia for not permitting Images to be worshipped, but reproved him for throwing them out of the Church, because they serve for Ornaments, and Lay-mens Books, which since hath been received as a Catholick Doctrine, that Images are Lay-mens Books.

9 m Silver spread into plates is brought from n Tarshish, and gold from o Uphaz, the work of the workman, and of the hands of the p founder: blue and purple is their q clothing: they are all the work of † cunning men.

m It was not Wood washed with Gold, nor mainly Silver or Gold, but covered over with Plates of Silver or Gold. Exod. 39. 3. n From some remote place, probably from Spain, whence the best Gold came 5. Tarshish is the proper Name of a Sea-Town in Silicia, Ezek. 27. 12, 25. Jonah 1. 3. and being a noted Port, from whence they had Passage to Africa, India, and other remote Countries, it is usually put for the Ocean, and may as well signifie from any Place beyond the Sea; if you take it properly, then possibly it is noted as the best Silver coming from thence, as Uphaz for the best Gold; for though we read also of Gold coming from thence, 1 Kin. 10, 22. 2 Chron. 9. 21. yet, where the most proper Commodities of it are mentioned, we read of no Gold, Ezek. 27. 12. unless what seems rather to be brought thither, Ver. 22.

o i.e. Precisely, as here Gold; coming from thence in those days, as that Silver from Tarshish, and that here was the best Gold is probable from Dan. 10. 5. there are various conjectures of what place this points at; whether the same with Phut, or Fez by an Aphaeresis, or Ophir a place not far from Tarshish, and divers other places are conjectured, and some think it refers to no place at all, but to point at the excellency of the Gold only; but it is not the design, that this Comment should dwell with things rather conjectural, than profitable, it is enough to know, that this place intends the purest Gold. p Thus saith he, the Artificer takes it, and each, according to his Art, shapes it, and adorns it; fits the Silver and the Gold for it. q Expositors differing about the materials, out of which they were died, do differ also in the colours, which here are called Blue and Purple, the dispute is not worth the while in a vulgar Comment, they that will may consult the Engl. Annot. Either this relates to the further adorning those rich Idols of Silver and Gold; or it implies other Artists, such as shape, or sew Silk or Cloth, Woollen or Linen, made use of to make these Garments for those Idols of more inferiour materials, as Wood or Stone, the other being sufficiently beautified without them. r i.e. The choicest men in their respective Arts were picked out for this work, that there might be nothing wanting as to exactness, richness and curiosity; all this the Prophet speaks the more to ridicule their Idols, as if all this would put any thing of power, vertue, or excellency in them, still deest aliquid intus.

10 But the LORD is the † true GOD, he is the s living GOD, and an † u * everlasting king: at his wrath the earth shall x tremble, and the nations shall not be able to abide his y indignation.

† Heb God of truth. † Heb. King of Eternity. * Psal. 10. 16.

s q. d. All these are but false Gods: Jehovah is the alone true God; they are but lyes, and the teachers of lyes; God is Truth it self, and that, both in regard of his Essence, as it is ascribed to Christ, 1 Joh. 5. 20. and also in regard of his Faithfulness, Numb. 23. 19. Psal. 31. 5. t These are all but dead flocks and stocks, Jehovah is the only Living God, having Life in himself, and giving Life to all things else, John 5. 21, 26. Hence these Idols are not only more base than any other Creature, but even viler than the matter it self of which they are made. u These though accounted Kings, and countenanced by Kings, yet both they and their Kings do all perish; time devours them all with worm or rust, or by injuries, and violence offered to them as in the next Verse, but none of these, or any thing else can affect the true God, he is Everlasting. x He can with his look, or frown make the foundations of the Heavens and the Earth to shake, whereas these flocks can move them no more, than they can themselves, which is not one hairs breadth from their Stations. y Not able either to flog it, or bear it, but must stoop, and fall under it, Psal. 76. 7. the wicked will not be able to stand in Judgment, Psal. 1. 5.

11 Thus shall ye say z unto them, The gods that have not made a the heavens and the b earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens.

z Viz. To your great Lords the Babylonians, when they shall solicite you to Worship Idols. a This seems to have some allusion to a saying common among those Greeks, that held one Supream Deity; let him that saith he is a God, make another World. b Here is noted, both how frail they are, they shall perish, and how weak they are, they could not make the Heaven, or the Earth. This Verse is writ in the Chaldean Tongue, and not in the Hebrew, that when they came among them that did worship their Idols, they might openly and plainly profess the true God in that language which the Enemies understood better than they did the Hebrew, and that in such kind of bold Language as this; Let all those Gods perish from off the Earth, and under the Heaven, that were not able to make either. It is an Imprecation upon their Idols.

In this and the next Verse, the Prophet enumerates some particulars, wherein he is transcendently above all Creatures, which he hath made, much more above Idols, which are the works of mens hands made. c Acts 14. 15. i.e. This whole Globe consisting of Waters, as well as Earth. d It must needs speak an Almighty Power to make such a vast body; where would the Idols have found Materials, of which to have compos'd such a Body and Bulk, the true God was not at a loss, he drew them out of nothing, and commanded them into a being by the word of his Power, Gen 1. 1. e Either he hath made it firm, solid and unmoveable, i.e. off from its Basis, or rather Center, (for it is out of our Sphere and Province here to meddle either with the situation, or the motion of it, that is left to the old and new Philosophers to dispute among themselves) or else by establishing we understand, he hath regulated it its use, or hath prepared it to be every way subservient to the Inhabitants thereof, both as to delight in prospect, and variety of Recreation, by its ornamental parts in Mountains, into Hills, Woods, Meadows, Fields, &c. and necessary to accommodate Man and Beast with all things useful, both for Habitation, and Provisions of this Mortal life, and to praise, and admire the foundery of it, Gen. 1. 11, 12. All which cannot always but greatly manifest the unsearchable wisdom of God. f These are stretched out, i.e. expanded, and spread over our head, through the whole circumference of the Earth with all their glorious furniture, and varieties of motions, moving regularly in their several Orbs, i.e. not varying the least degree, either in time or place from the Order of the Law that God hath set them, even in those which are more eccentrick and exorbitick, which must needs argue an unparallel'd skill, and understanding in God, which the word discretion doth here properly signifie Exod. 36. 1. Job 12. 13. all which are his handy-work, and do declare his glory, Psal. 19. 1.

14 Every man ‖ is * brutish in his m knowledge, every founder is n confounded by the graven Image, for his molten Image is o falshood, and there is no p breath in them.

‖ Or, is more brutish than to know. * Chap. 51. 17, 18.

m Some limit it to the makers of these Idols, that can employ their Arts and Wits to no better purpose, than to frame such Stocks into Gods; this suits the next expression; Men are bewitched, and befotted by these things, so as to see no more into their Folly, than if they were Brutes, and the reason that it hath taken such root may be because of Mens so much admiring the Art of Carving and Painting, or rather through their Ignorance, q.d. It is for want of knowledge, and understanding that Men are thus brutish, Isa. 44. 18. n Either it shall turn to his reproach, or rather, he shall see his folly and shall be ashamed of it when he shall discover it, that ever he should make such a thing, and trust in it, and expose it to be adored by others. o It is not that which it pretends to be, but a deceitful thing, Lye; they turn the truth of God into a lye, Rom. 1. 25. p They have nothing of life in them, nay that very vegetative life, that once was in their Stocks, is now lost, much less are they Spirits sent down from Heaven.

15 They are vanity and the work of q errors: in the time of their visitation they shall r perish.

q Either in their vile, so springing from Men of corrupt Minds, or the foundators of them: A Metonymy of the effect, Teachers and encouragers of Lyes, Hab. 2. 18. things rather to be scoffed at and derided, than adored, and worshipped, and it is expressed in the plural number to note the multiplicity of them. r When God shall have a controversie with them, shall come to reckon with Babylon and her Idols, they and their Worshippers shall be destroyed, alluding, possibly, to the manner of the Pagan Conquests, who were wont to carry away both Persons, and the Idols of the Country, and either break them to pieces, or burn them: Thus were they serv'd by the Persians, see on Isa. 46. 1. This possibly may be spoken by way of Encouragement to the Jews, that took offence at the Chaldean Idols, that were set up in their sight, that God may strengthen their Patience he tells them he visits them in Mercy, and their Enemies in Judgment; he will destroy those Idols.

16 * The s portion of Jacob is not like them, for he is the t former of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance, the LORD of hosts is his name.

17 Gather up thy ‖ wares out of the land, † inhabitant of the † fortress.

The Prophet now enters upon another subject, and probably begins another Sermon. y i.e. Every Exile upon best any advantage by, his only thy Domestick concerns, but all thy Treasure and Merchandize, where ever thou hast any concern in the Land, as Men use to do in case of Invasion by an Enemy, to secure them. It seems to be a Sarcasm, or kind of Military derision. z This is is understood by some, as spoken to the Babylonians, that they should make provision for their escape, their Idols being not able to save them, but this seems to be remote from the Prophet's meaning; It is rather therefore directed to the Inhabitants of Jerusalem, that being the chief place of security in Judea, and by a Synecdoche to all other places that they promised themselves security in; the approaching destruction being to pass through the whole Country.

1 Sam. 15. 29.

18 For thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will a * sling out the inhabitants of the land at this once, and will distress them, that they may find it so b.

a It notes with how much violence and speed, and with ease the Chaldeans shall hurry away the People into Babylon, as the stone doth swiftly, and violently pass, which is thrown out of a Sling, with so much ease, and therefore it is said at this once, I will not delay, but make one thorough quick work of it, noting not only the time, but implying the clear riddance that he would make of them, 2 Chron. 36. 17, 18, 19. they had been often assaulted by Enemies, and sometimes they redeemed themselves, sometimes delivered by God, their Enemies being sometimes divided; but it should not be so now, but all swept away. b That they may see I am in good earnest, that I have not only said it, but they shall find, that I will execute it, and though they would never believe it, yet they shall actually find the truth of my Threatnings. See Chap. 5. 12, 13. Ezek. 6. 10.

19 Wo is me for my hurt; my wound is c grievous: but I said, Truly this is a grief, and I must d bear it.

c Here the Prophet doth not so much express his own sorrow, though that be great, as personate the Sorrow and Complaint that the Land, i.e. the People of the Land, manifest, or at least ought to do; which because they do not, causeth no little grief to the Prophet himself, who cannot but be affected with their condition, which he calls not only a hurt, but a wound, and both of them very grievous. d Or rather, but I better considered it, and said within my self, I were as good be silent, it is indeed a grief grievous in it self, and grievous that I must smother it, and not complain, but it is my duty to bear it patiently. There is in this expression a double necessary preparation to Repentance, viz. 1. An acknowledgment, that they had deservedly brought the Judgment upon themselves, and that therefore 2. They would patiently bear it, and it doth imply something of their stupidity, q. d. we could not have imagined the damage could have been so very great, but now we see how it is, we will patiently bear the indignation of the Lord because we have sinned against him. If this be not the meaning, then it is a further obstinate persisting in their Rebelling, q. d. seeing it must be so, truly it is very grievous, but I am bound now to bear it, and rub through it as well as I can: A further persisting in their pertinacy, but I incline most to the former sence.

20 My tabernacle is spoiled, and all my cords are broken; my children are gone forth of f me and they are g not: there is none to stretch forth my tent h any more, and to set up my curtains.

e He proceeds in his prosopopeia to bring in the Land, or the Inhabitants thereof enumerating their Calamities, and by a Metaphor sets out the overthrow of the Land, or Jerusalem, by the breaking of the Cords of a Tabernacle, the use whereof it is to fasten it on every side to Stakes in the ground, which Cords being broken the Tabernacle falls, implying all the supports of City and Country were gone, nothing but desolation to be expected. See Chap. 4. 20. f Either the Inhabitants of the Land, or the lesser Cities, being frequently called Daughters, viz. the Chaldeans Cities, being frequently called Daughters, viz. the Chaldeans Cities, being frequently called Daughters, have snatched them away from me, and carried them into Captivity. g Of the phrase and meaning of it, see Chap. 31. 15. h i.e. 'Tis irrevocable, I am without all help either for Defence or Beauty, or any thing to regain my pristine state, which he chuseth to describe hereby, continuing this Metaphor rather than any other, of a Shepherds Tent; possibly insinuating the ground of it to arise principally from their Pastors, the neglect both of their Civil and Ecclesiastical Governours which the next Verse favours.

21 For the Pastors are become brutish, and have not sought i the LORD k; therefore they shall not l prosper, and all their flocks shall be m scattered.

i Not that the Prophet takes off all blame from the People, but that he layeth it chiefly upon the Rulers of Church and State; for so is Pastor taken frequently. See Chap. 23. 1, 2, 3. k Not sought unto him, and taken him into their Counsels. l The Prophet gives the reason why nothing went well with them, namely, because there was no regard had to Godliness, without which we cannot expect a blessing upon any thing. m i.e. All that have been committed to their care, shall be carried unto Babylon, and divers of them dispersed abroad into several Countries, for their sakes.

22 Behold, the noise of the bruit is come, and a great commotion n out of the north-country † o to make the cities of Judah desolate, and a den of dragons p.

n The Prophet had divers times sounded this Alarm to them now, but to very little purpose, his words seemed but as idle Tales, they believed him not; he speaks of it poetically, as one conceiving what dreadful Commotions and Concussions would be upon the Land by the clattering of Arms, prancings and neighings of Horses, sounding of Trumpets, and rattling of Chariots, making as it were the Earth to shake under them, when that vast Army of the Chaldeans should furiously break in upon them. Barely, insinuating an obstinate opposing the voice of God's Prophets, that had so often spoken of this, but they would not hear, against this dreadful noise, which they should not but hear and see and feel too. So that they that would not learn of God's Prophets, shall be sent to harder Masters, that shall teach them in a manner as Gideon did the Men of Succoth, Judg. 8. 16. o See Chap. 1. 10. and 5. 15. p See on Chap. 9. 11.

Prov. 16. 1. & 20. 24.

23 ¶ O LORD, q I know that the * way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps r.

q The Prophet finding that all he could say prevailed nothing upon this People, but they rather grew worse, he turns himself to God. r How far these words concern Pelagianism, or Free-will, either one way or other, or whether at all, concerns not this Comment; they seem literally to be the words of the Prophet, relating either to himself and other Holy Men, q. d. it is not in our power, neither do we presume to stop this Decree of thine against Judea; or else to the Enemies in general, or Nebuchadnezzar in particular, q. d. we know all their Marches and Designs are of thine appointing, and all their Atchievements of thine ordering, it is thy Providence that directs every step they take against this Land, without whom no Counsels shall prosper, who alone turneth Mens Hearts which way thou pleasest, Prov. 21. 1. who canst bring Men on, or turn them back, as thou seest good, Isa. 37. 29. so that no Man's way is properly his own, to give them what success he will; or to the people, whereby he doth tacitly insinuate, that all the Counsels and Measures they think to take, whether by their own strength at home, or Confederacies and Alliances abroad will avail nothing; however they may think to escape by some Devices, or Stratagems of their own, it is to no purpose, God can overturn all in a moment, when Men think their Counsels are ripe, and they want nothing but execution; or lastly, as others think, this is by way of petition, q. d. Lord we know it is not in our Power to divert these Judgements that are coming upon us by the Chaldeans, but thou canst moderate, and limit them as thou pleasest, seeing all their designs are ordered by thy Providence, they cannot do any thing against us without thy permission; this the next Verse seems to favour.

* Psal. 6. 1. & 38. 1. † Heb. diminish me.

24 O LORD, * correct me s, but with judgment t, not in thine anger u, lest thou † bring me to nothing.

s q. d. Seeing thou wilt bring the Chaldeans upon us to punish us for our sins, let it be a Correction only, not a Destruction, and utter ruine. t Let it be in measure, in judgment, i.e. in wisdom, proportioning it as a Father toward his Children, Chap. 30. 11. for so the Hebrew Mishpat signifies, and thus judgment is taken, Isa. 30. 18. We refuse not correction, but we cast our selves upon thee, therefore in the midst of Judgment remember Mercy. u The reason of this he gives in the next clause, lest if thou should'st let out thy fury upon me, thou would bring me to nothing, i.e. thou wouldst utterly consume me, or make me few, as Heb. that I should be no more a People, never lift up the Head again.

25 Pour out thy fury upon the heathen x, that know thee not, and upon the families, that call not on thy name y: for they have eaten up Jacob, and devoured him, and consumed him, and have made his habitation desolate z.

x This may imply both Petition, that God would do so, and Prediction that God will certainly do so, which toward the close of the Prophecy we find was fulfilled, God first sending the King of Babylon to overthrow divers of the Heathen Nations, and then Babylon it self destroyed, with a great destruction. He will make a difference between us and the Heathen, such as know thee not, i.e. Such as do not acknowledge and own thee for their God, the phrase is frequent, 1 Sam. 2. 12. Job 18, 21. 2 Thess. 1. 8. the sense is expressed here in the next words, that do not call on thy Name. y A Synecdoche, one part of Worship put for the whole, q. d. If thou will be pouring out thy fury, the effects of it be to thine Enemies, not unto thine own People, who worship thee. z Here he gives a reason as a motive to God, why he should do so; which words are explained on Psal. 79. 5, 6, 7. whence they are taken, and possibly Jeremiah himself was the Author of that Psalm after the City was destroyed, and he carried into Egypt; and for the phrase of devouring him, see Chap. 8. 16.

CHAP. XI.

God's Covenant, 1,—7. Their Disobedience, 8,—10. Evils to come on them, 11,—17, and on the Men of Anathoth, for Conspiring to kill Jeremiah, 18,—23.

1 THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying a, a What time, and in what manner this Revelation came from God to the Prophet is not expressed, whether it were in the days of Josiah or Jehoiachim.

2 Hear ye, the words of this covenant b, and speak unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

b God speaking in the plural number, not hear thou, but hear ye, makes some conjecture that this was a charge given to some other Prophets, either Zephaniah (if it were in Josiah's time, Kyth. 1. 1.) or Uriah (if it were in the time of Jehoiachim.) The term this also manifests, that the Book of the Law was before Jeremiah's time, for all conclude, that the Covenant here spoken of, was the Covenant of the Law of God, delivered by Moses, to which the People more than once promised obedience.

3 And say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, * Cursed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this covenant d.

d In Deuteronomy 27. 26. it is Cursed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this Law to do them, and all the People shall say, Amen. The Peoples saying Amen testified their assent, and made the Law a Covenant, but they had besides formally and explicitly covenanted with God, Exod. 24. 3, 7. with religious Rites and Ceremonies used in stipulations, and afterwards consented that God should punish those that violated that Covenant, Deuter. 27. 26.

4 Which I commanded your fathers e in the day that I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, from the * iron furnace, f saying, * Obey my voice, and do them according to all which I command you g, so shall ye be my people, and I will be your God h.

* Deut. 4. 10. 1 King. 8. 51. * Lev. 26. 3, 12.

e Which Law (that you by your restipulation made a formal Covenant) I that am the Lord, and so had a soveraign power to lay Laws upon my Creatures, commanded your Fathers. f And obliged them to obedience before I laid my Law upon them, by bringing them out of the Land of Egypt, from the Furnace wherein Iron is melted, which may either be taken literally (probably that was a piece of their work in Egypt) or metaphorically, serving at Iron Furnaces, being a very hard, and servile labour. g For which kindness I required no more of them but a gentler service to me, in obeying my voice as to the things of this Law which I gave them in charge. h Nor did I only lay my Commands upon them, but I also incouraged them to the obedience of it, by my gracious promise, that if they would they should be a People, I would bless protect and defend, and bear the Name of my People, and I would be their God to own and bless them.

* Deut. 7. 12. & 8. 18. & 9. 5. † Heb. Amen.

5 That I may perform the * oath, which I have sworn unto your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk, and honey, as it is this day i. Then answered I, and said, † so be it O LORD k.

i I required their obedience for their own good, I had swore to their Fathers that I would give their Posterity a Land abounding with plenty of all good things, the best and choicest things, upon supposition of their Obedience. I have performed that Oath, I have brought them into such a Land, and shewed my self faithful to them. k God having ended his Speech, the Prophet saith, Amen, either affirming the truth of which God had said, or wishing that the People would do according to their Covenant, or assenting to the Curse according as God had commanded, Deut. 27. 26.

6 Then the LORD said unto me, Proclaim all these words, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Hear ye the words of this covenant and do them l.

l Let it be thy work to call upon this People, not only to hear, but to do the words which I have commanded them, and they have ingaged to do.

7 For I earnestly protested unto your fathers, in the day that I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, even unto this day, * rising early, and protesting, saying, Obey my voice m.

* Ch. 7. 13.

m In protesting I protested, an usual way in the Hebrew, by which they express the seriousness, and vehemency of an action, by protesting be meaneth the same with charging, and commanding, with promises annexed to obedience, and threatnings denounced in case of disobedience. This God saith he had done with a great deal of Patience, and diligence even from the time that this People were brought by him out of the Land of Egypt.

* Ch. 7. 13. ‖ Or, Stubbornness.

8 * Yet they obeyed not, nor inclined their ear, ‖ but walked every one in the imagination of their evil heart n: therefore I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did them not o.

n But had not hearkned unto his Counsels, but every one had walked after the imaginations of his own heart. A phrase by which sin is often expressed in Holy Writ, Deut. 29. 19. Chap. 3. 17. and 7. 24. and 9. 14. and 13. 10. and 16. 12. and 18. 12. and 23. 17. The imaginations of mans heart are only evil, Gen. 6. 5. and 8. 21. Hence holiness is set out by the notion of self-denying, not pleasing our selves, mortifying our Members, &c. o For this God threatneth to bring upon them all his words of threatning, annexed to the Covenant of the Law.

9 And the LORD said unto me, a conspiracy is found amongst the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem p.

p All sorts of People, whether of the City or Country, have done alike; as if they had conspired together to break my Law, and to provoke me to wrath, they are all alike and act alike. The thing is manifest, it is not done secretly, nor is it done rashly but upon a Conspiracy, upon counsel and deliberation.

10 They are turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, which refused to hear my words q: and they went after other gods to serve them: the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant which I made with their fathers r.

q They are turned back from me, or they are turned back from their good better courses in the time of David, to the sins of their forefathers that worshipped the golden Calf, or, the many Idols which they worshipped in the time of the Judges. r They are all alike both the Ten Tribes, which were the House of Israel, and the Two Tribes which made the Kingdom of Judah, they have all broken the Covenant, which I made with their forefathers.

11 ¶ Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon them which they shall not be able † to escape s: and * though they shall cry unto me I will not hearken unto them t.

† Heb. to go forth from. * Or, when they shall cry unto me.

s A Judgment from which they shall by no means be delivered, by any Counsels of their own, or assistance of their Friends and Allies. t And though Prayer to me hath been their usual course in such cases, and I have delivered them, yet I will no more hear them though they cry unto me, Prov. 1. 28, 29. Zech. 7. 11. Ch. 14. 12. 13. God will not hear them crying to him in their Adversity, who refuse to hear him speaking to them in their Prosperity. Ezek. 8. 18. Micah 3. 4.

12 Then shall the cities of Judah, and inhabitants of Jerusalem go, and * cry unto the gods to whom they offer incense, but they shall not save them at all in the time of their † trouble u.

* Deut. 32. 37, 38. † Heb. evil.

u Shall here signifieth Will, and might as well have been so translated, denoting the hardness of the Hearts of this People, whom affliction would not reduce to God: or rather the Indicative Mood is here put for the Imperative, and the sense, Let the Cities of Judah, &c. and the phrase taken Ironically. So it agreeth with God's answer to the People crying to him, Jud. 10. 14. and what this Prophet had before said, Chap. 2. 28. But saith the Prophet, they shall do them no good, then they shall understand their vanity in their Superstition and Idolatry, that they have bestowed a divine Homage upon Lyes and Vanities, and things able to do them no good, nor at all to profit them.

13 For according to the number of thy * cities were thy gods, O Judah, and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem, have ye set up altars to that † shameful thing u, even altars to burn incense unto Baal x.

u Not that they had just so many Idols as were Cities in Judah, or Altars as were Streets in Hierusalem, the meaning is, they had very many, and that the People who lived in every City and Street were guilty. What he calls their shame, or the shameful thing, is afterwards expounded Baal, called a shameful thing, because it was what they had reason to be ashamed of, and what would certainly bring them to shame and confusion. x Baal signifieth Lord, and was a common Name given to more Idols than one, the Phanicians used the Name Baal, the Chaldeans, Bell. God Hos. 2. 16. forbad his People to call him by this Name, because so abused to Idolatry. Many think that the Sun was what the Phanicians worshipped under this Name; some say Saturn was he, Manasses who preceded Josiah, reared up Altars for Baalim, and made Groves and worshipped all the Host of Heaven and served them, 2 Chron. 33. 3. Learned Men say, that the Assians called the same Idol Baal, whom those of Europe called Jupiter. It is not improbable which learned Men judge, That the Heathens acknowledging one supream Being, worshipped him in several Creatures; some mistaking the Sun, Moon, and Stars to be he, others other things; these they called Baalim, Lords, as they called the principal God Baal. The Heathens Idolatry seems to be their Worshipping God in Creatures, and paying a Divine Homage to Creatures, the Sun, Moon, and Stars, and other far inferiour to them, not believing that those Creatures were the Divine Being, but that the Divine Being was in them, and from them would hear their Supplicants and do them good; which though the Heathens might a little be excused in, having no Scriptures shewing them the nature of the true God, and how he would be worshipped; yet in the Jews was inexcusable, they having the Oracles of God committed to them, which both shewed them the true nature of God, and let them know that no Creature could be any similitude or representation of him, and that his Will was, that they should pay their Homage to him without any similitudes, or representations, exciting them to that Homage, fit for nothing but to beget in the Minds of People false Conceptions, and apprehensions of the Divine Being, which is meerly spiritual; notwithstanding which direction from the Divine Law, the Jews after the manner of the Heathens, would pay their Homage to God, before the Sun, Moon and Stars, and before Images made with hands, and make Altars to such Creatures and Images, which was the Idolatry God complains of, and of which he declares a greater abhorrence than almost of any other sin. It is likely that Baal here mentioned was the Sun, because it was near Manasses times, who thus highly offended God, and it is probable that though Josiah had begun a famous Reformation, yet a great deal of this leaven was left in the common People, besides that the sins of Manasses, 2 King. 21. 26. are reckoned up as the special proximate cause of this Wrath of God against Judah.

14 Therefore * pray thou not for this people, neither lift up a cry, or prayer for them, for I will not hear them in the time that they cry unto me, for their † trouble y.

y Once before, and we shall find once after this, Chap. 11. 11. God forbiddeth the Prophet to pray for this People, hence ariseth a Question how the Prophet is excused from Sin, in praying for them after this Prohibition, especially when God had assured him that he would not hear. Sol. God (say some) sometimes forbiddeth Prayers for Persons and People to stir them up to more fervent Prayer. 2. We find the like done by Moses, Exod. 32. 10. and Samuel, 1 Sam. 15. 35. and 16. 1. Others say, 3. That we must not understand these words as an absolute prohibition to Jeremy, but for the terrifying of the People. 4. God speaks only of a temporal evil, and willeth Jeremiah not to be too positive in his Prayers for them, that they might be delivered from that, but he might pray for the pardon of their sins, and their deliverance from the eternal Vengeance of God. 5. He might not pray for the obstinate part of this People, but for the Elect of God amongst them.

* Isa 1. 11. † Heb. what is to me, be-cause in my house. ‖ Or, when they evil is.

15 * † What hath my beloved to do in my house, ‖ seeing she hath wrought lewdness with many? z and the holy flesh is passed from thee a: ‖ when thou doest evil, then thou rejoycest b.

z Some make these words the words of the Prophet, declaring that God (whom they suppose here called the beloved) was about to forsake the Temple. Others make them the words of God, speaking of his Prophet, whom he calleth his Beloved. Or rather speaking of his People, whom he calleth his Beloved, upon the account of his ancient Union with them, and Marriage to them, this seemeth most probable, and agreeth both with Chap. 7. 9, 10. and also with the usual confidence of the Jews, because of the Temple of the Lord, and their formal Services of God in it, my People saith God, though I was formerly their Husband, yet have wrought lewdness with many, that is, committed Idolatry with many Idols and now what have they to do more in my House, than a base Strumpet which hath turned a Whore, hath to do in the House of her Husband? a Some by this phrase understand that God would own them no more as an holy People. Others that their Circumcision was become Uncircumcision. Others more probably under stand it of the Flesh of the Sacrifices they were wont to offer, either they had been remiss in offering the Sacrifices God had commanded them. Or (which is more probable) the Flesh of their Sacrifices, being set before Idols, as well as before him who was the only true God, became polluted, and was abomination to the Lord. The learned Author of our English Annotations, Notes, that the words may very fairly be translated, and the holy flesh they shall pass away from thee, so the words import a threatning that because they had polluted, and prophaned the Sacrifices, God would make their Sacrifices to cease. b And this the Lord would rather do against them, because they were not only evil, but gloried in their wickedness, or at least were as full of mirth and jolli ty, as if they had done no iniquity.

16 The LORD called thy name, A green olive-tree, fair, and of goodly fruit c: with the noise of a great tumult, he hath kindled fire upon it, and the branches of it are broken d.

c That is, the Lord fixed thee when he brought thee first into Canaan, in a beautiful flourishing state and condition, so as thou wert in a capacity both to have done thy self much good, and to have brought him much glory, like a beautiful fair Olive-Tree, fit to bear fair and goodly fruit. d But thou hast so behaved thy self, that the Lord is altering the course of his Providence to thee, he that planted thee, is about to pluck thee up. God is about to kindle a fire which will burn thee up, and to break thy branches; there is nothing more usual in Prophetical Writings, than to have things, yet to come, expressed as if past, because of the certainty of them; they being who shall as certainly be, as if already done.

17 For the LORD of hosts * that planted thee, hath pronounced evil against thee, for the evil of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have done against themselves, to provoke me to anger, in offering incense to Baal e.

e This Verse expounds what was metaphorically expressed in the former Verse, viz. that God had declared his Will to his Prophet That he would destroy his People, the blame of which must lie upon themselves, for they had by Idolatry most highly provoked him, and had therein done against themselves as indeed all sinning is but an acting against our selves. God is unvulnerable, we cannot hurt him, though we may provoke his Justice to take vengeance upon us for our iniquities. And the Prophet tells them, that the Lord that planted them would do this, thereby hinting to them both his power to do it, and also that they had no reason to be confident that because God had made them he would not destroy them; or because he had planted them in that good Land, therefore he would not pluck them up and throw them out of it: Vid Isa. 27. 11.

18 ¶ And the LORD hath given me knowledge of it, and I know it, then thou shewedst me their doings f.

f This may be understood either more generally as relating to all the wicked actions of his Countrymen, to obviate their saying, How comest thou to know our doings? Or else (which seemeth most probable) more specially, with relation to that Conspiracy against him, which is mentioned in the following Verses.

19 But I was like a lamb, or an ox that is brought unto the slaughter, and I knew not that * they had devised devices against me, saying, Let us destroy † the tree with the fruit thereof, and let us cut him off from the land of the living, that his name may be no more remembred g.

g We have no other mention of this Conspiracy in Holy Writ, but it is plain both from this Verse, and what followeth to the end of this Chapter, that the Men of Anathoth (which was Jeremiah's own Town) were offended at his Prophesying so sharp things against the Land of Judah, and had threatned to kill him if he would not leave off that stile, and had conspired to that purpose, some think to mix poison with his Meat, others by starving of him, others think by beating of him, into which variety of sense they interpret that phrase in this Verse. Let us destroy the tree with the fruit thereof; but the sense is plain, Let us not only put an end to his prophesying, but to his being also; let us cut him off some way or other, that his Name may no more be remembred. Of this the Prophet saith he was as ignorant, as an Ox or a Lamb that is brought to the Slaughter-house, that knoweth nothing what design is against its life.

20 But, O LORD of hosts, that judgest righteously, that * triest the reins and the heart, let me see thy vengeance on them; for unto thee have I revealed my cause h.

* 1 Sam. 16. 7. 1 Chron. 28. 9.

h The Prophet appealeth to God, and appealeth to him as one that knew both the innocency of his heart toward them, and the malice of their hearts toward him, and used to deal out justice, impartially and committeth his cause unto God (as we are commanded, 1 Pet. 2. 23.) and desires that God would avenge him, and that he might see the Vengeance, which words some learned Interpreters think spoken not without some passion and mixture of humane frailty. Others, not as a Prayer so much as a Prophecy. Others, not out of a desire of private Revenge, but out of a pure zeal for the glory of God, whose Prophet he was, and Servant in the delivery of those Prophecies that were so ingrateful to them.

Psal. 7. 9. Ch. 17. 10. & 20. 12. Rev. 2. 23.

21 Therefore thus saith the LORD of the men of Anathoth, that seek thy life, saying, * Prophesie not in the name of the LORD, that thou die not by our hand.

* Isa 30. 10 Amos 2. 12 & 7. 13 Mich. 2. 6.

22 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts, Behold, I will † punish them; the young men shall die by the sword, their sons and their daughters shall die by famine.

23 And there shall be no remnant of them, for I will bring evil upon the men of Anathoth, even the year of their visitation i.

i The Prayers of God's Prophets, though they may sometimes have too much passion and humane infirmity mixed with them, yet are heard of God, and many times answered in Righteousness by terrible things, as to those against whom they are directed; the same thing they designed to do against the Prophet, God threateneth to do against them, utterly to consume them, so as no remembrance of them should remain.

CHAP. XII.

The Prophet complaineth of the Wicked's Prosperity: By Faith seeth their Ruine, 1,—4. God admonisheth him of his Brethren's Treachery against him, and lamenteth his Heritage, 5,—13. A return from Captivity promised to the Penitent, 14,—17.

1 RIghteous * art thou, O LORD, when I plead with thee a, yet let me ‖ talk with thee of thy judgments b. * Wherefore doth the way of the wicked prosper! wherefore are all they happy that deal very treacherously c?

* Pf. 51. 4. ‖ Or, let me reason the case with thee. * Job 12. 6. & 21. 13. Mal. 3. 15.

a The Prophet begins here with a Recognition of God's unquestionable Righteousness and Justice, in all his Providential Dispensations in the Government of the World. Some read the latter part, should I plead with thee? But let it be should I plead? or, although, or, when I plead, that is, argue with thee, yet the Prophet doth it not without a previous resolution to agree the Lord's Dispensations just, whatsoever he should say. b Yet saith he, let me talk with thee, not by way of accusing thee, but for my own satisfaction concerning thy judicial Dispensations in the government of the World. c Wherefore doth the way of the wicked prosper? Wherefore are all they happy that deal treacherously? by all they, he means many of them, and is thought to have spoken with a special relation to the Priests at Anathoth, that had conspired against his Life. The Prosperity of the wicked hath in all times been a Riddle, and a sore Temptation to the best of God's People; to Job, Chap. 21. 7. 13. to David, Psal. 37. 1. and 73. 2. 12. and 94. 3, 4. Hab. 1. 4, 5. Lord, saith Jeremy, I know thy ways of Providence are just and righteous, but they are dark and hidden from me, I cannot understand why thou doest this.

2 Thou hast planted them, yea, they have taken root, † they grow, yea, they bring forth fruit; thou art near in their mouth, and far from their reins d.

d Here are a People that indeed talk of thee, and one that only observeth their Mouths, would judge thou wert near to them and they had Communion with thee, but he that observeth their Lives may easily discern that thou art far from their inward parts, they have neither fear of thee, nor love for thee, nor desire after thee, nor delight in thee, nor are they obedient to thee; yet thou hast planted them by thy Power, and by thy Providence they thrive, go on, and prosper.

3 But thou, O LORD, * knowest me, thou hast seen me, and tried my heart † toward thee. e Pull them out like sheep for the slaughter, and prepare them for the day of slaughter f.

* Pf. 17. 3. 139. 1. † Heb with thee.

e Here seemeth to be something understood, viz. But Lord it is otherwise with me, I am maligned, and my life is hunted after, yet Lord thou knowest the sincerity of my heart before and towards thee, thou hast had experience of me in the discharge of my Prophetical Office, and knowest that I have been faithful in revealing to the People what thou didst reveal to me, yet for this it is they seek my Life and would have my Blood. f Lord, avenge me on this wicked Generation, confirm the words against them which I have from thee denounced. Concerning the meaning of expressions of this nature, and the lawfulness of putting up such Petitions against those who are not only our Enemies, but God's also. See what was noted on Chap. 11. Ver. 20.

4 How long shall the land mourn and the herbs of every field wither, for the wickedness of them that dwell therein g? * The beasts are consumed, and the birds, because they said, He shall not see our last end b.

* Chap. 4. 25 & 7. 20. & 9. 10

g The Prophet seems to give a reason of his former Passion, and Prayer against those wicked Men he before reflected on, because they were the cause of the Nations Ruine, which is also asserted by the Psalmist. Psal. 107. 34. A Land is said to mourn metaphorically when it is brought to an ill complexion, and looketh unpleasantly, the Grass and green Herbs in it being destroyed by Enemies, or Drought, or Vermine. b Nay the effects of their wicked courses reached to the very Beasts and Birds, because they were so presumptuous as to conclude, that they should do well enough, neither the Prophet nor any other should see their last end.

5 If thou hast run with the footmen and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses? and if in the land of peace wherein thou trustedst they wearied thee, then how wilt thou do in * the swelling of Jordan k?

* Josh. 3. 15.

i That these are the answer of God to the Prophet is reasonably well agreed by the best Interpreters, as also that this is a Proverbial expression, but as to the application of it in this place, there is some difference: Some make it this. If thou dost not understand what is done by the Men of thine own City, how canst thou think to fathom my Dispensations of Providence in the Government of the World? But this sense seemeth not very probable, because the sense of the Proverb seemeth to be, If thou beest not able to encounter lesser dangers, how wilt thou be able to overcome greater? I rather agree with those who make the sense this. Jeremy, I have greater dangers for thee to encounter than those thou art exposed to at Anathoth, if thou beest so disturbed with them, who are but as Footmen, how wilt thou be able to grapple with those far greater Enemies which thou art like to meet with at Hierusalem. k Anathoth also seemeth to be understood by the land of thy peace, that is, the Land of thy Friends wherein thou hadst a confidence: If thy Enemies thou hast there met with, tire thee, what wilt thou do in the swellings of Jordan? That is in a place in which thou art like to meet with an increase of greater Troubles, like the swelling of Jordan (which in Harvest used to overflow its Banks) Many other things are said by Interpreters, both with reference to the sense of this Text, and the explication of these proverbial expressions, but the sense above-mentioned seemeth to me least strained, and best agreeing with what went before, and what follows.

6 For even * thy brethren, and the house of thy father, even they have dealt treacherously with thee l, yea ‖ they have called a multitude after thee m, * believe them not, though they speak † fair words unto thee n.

l The Men of Anathoth, thine own Town and Country, and those of thy own Family have conspired Evil against thee secretly. m Either they have exposed thee to the rage and rudeness of a multitude, or they have accused thee to a multitude. n Tho' therefore they give thee many fair words, yet repose no trust nor confidence in them, but look to thy self.

7 I have forsaken my house o, I have left mine heritage p, I have given † the dearly beloved of my soul into the hands of her enemies q.

o God by his House here understandeth the Temple, which God is said here to have forsaken with respect to his gracious manifestations in it to the People that came thither to worship him. p By his heritage he means the whole body of the Israelites, called Gods Heritage not in this Chapter only, but Chap. 2. 7. Joel 2. 17. Mic. 7 14. whom God threateneth to leave with respect to his special Providence, by which he had taken care of them, upon which account Canaan is called the Land which God cared for, Deut. 11. 12. that is so cared for, as in comparison with them, he might seem to neglect all other Countreys. q That is, he had given that Nation which was once his dearly beloved into the hands or power of their Enemies.

8 Mine heritage is unto me, as a lion in the forest, it ‖ † crieth out against me: therefore have I hated it r.

r That is, the reason why my heart is alienated from them, is because they are altered, those that were as my Sheep, following me their chief Shepherd, and the guidance of those Prophets and Pastors which I set over them, are become like Lions in the Forest roaring against me, and rending and tearing the Prophets which I sent unto them.

9 Mine heritage is unto me as a ‖ speckled bird s, the birds round about are against her t, come ye, assemble all the beasts of the field, ‖ * come to devour u.

‖ Or, talented. ‖ Or, cause them to come. * Chap. 7. 33.

s The word in the Heb. signifies to die, or colour, and Interpreters are here divided, whether to interpret it of a Bird coloured by Nature, (so our Translators understood it, and therefore have translated it speckled) or by accident, as ravenous Birds are coloured by the blood of other Birds killed by them. Hence some interpret the Text as a reflection upon the Jews for their Cruelty, coloured by their oppression and innocent bloodshed. Others of their tincture by a variety of Superstition and Idolatry, the latter seemeth to me most probable, because of what follows, it being usual and natural for other Birds t to flock about a strange coloured Bird, such as they have not been used to see, but rather to fly from, than to come at a Bird of prey, that hath already stained her Feathers with the blood of other Birds. u But it may be understood of either, for the Jews were notoriously guilty of both, and it is God that causeth the Birds to come against her, and the Beasts of the field to devour.

10 Many Pastors have destroyed my vineyard w, they have troden my portion under foot, they have made my † pleasant portion, a desolate wilderness x.

w By Pastors most here think Civil Persons, not Ecclesiastical Officers are meant; but they are divided, some interpreting it of the Rulers and Princes of Nebuchadnezzar's Army, who took Jerusalem, and destroyed Judah, called God's Vineyard, Isa. 5. 1, 2. others understanding it of the Rulers of the Jews, who by their wicked Government, and as wicked Examp'e had ruined their Country. x And caused God to turn the Country which he had chosen for his portion, and declared such a pleasure in, into a Wildness, and such a Wilderness as was not only thinly inhabited, but wholly desolate.

11 They have made it desolate y, and being desolate it mourneth unto me z, the whole land is made desolate, because no man layeth it to heart a.

y Heb. He hath made it desolate, but it cannot be meant of God, for it is God that speaketh, and God is he mentioned in the next words; It must therefore either be understood of Nebuchadnezzar, the instrumental cause; or (one number being put for another) of the People or the Rulers as the meritorious cause, and in that rueful state into which their sins had brought it, it cried unto God. a And one great cause of this sore Judgment upon the Land, was the Peoples not laying to heart, not seriously considering what God had done or was doing against it, 12 The spoilers are come upon all high places through the wilderness b: for the sword of the LORD shall devour from the one end of the land, even unto the other end of the land: no flesh shall have peace c.

b The Prophet (as very usually) speaketh of a thing as already done, which was very shortly to be done, he saith they were come up because they should come up, and no places should be so high but they should climb them; none so strong, but they should subdue them. c The sword of the Enemy is called the sword of the Lord, because he ordereth and succeeds it, though the Enemy manageth it, and he saith it shall be against all, of all ranks and orders, no flesh should have peace; by no flesh he meaneth no ranks, no orders of Men.

13 * They have sown wheat, but they shall reap * Micah. 6 15. thorns d: they have put themselves to pain, but shall not profit e: and ‖ they shall be ashamed of your revenues, because of the fierce anger of the LORD f.

Hag 1.6. ‖ Or, ye.

d If these words be understood literally, they only signifie, that God would blast the Labours of the Husbandman, and curse them in the Field. The Earths bringing forth Thorns and Thistles was part of the Curse for the first transgression of Man: Gen. 3. 18. God's blasting the Labours of Husbandmen is often threatned as a punishment of Sin. Vid. Lev. 26. 16. Deut 28. 38. if it be taken metaphorically, it is expounded by the next words. e That they should labour in vain, all the Works of their hands, all their Counsels and Deliberations should be of no profit, or avail unto them. f The fierce anger of God against them shall be so shewed that the returns of their Labours or Estates, the profits of their Trades, &c. shall be so small that they shall be ashamed of them.

14 ¶ Thus saith the LORD against all mine evil neighbours, that touch the inheritance which I have caused my people Israel to inherit g, Behold, I will * pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the house of Dudah from amongst them h?

* Deut 30. 3. Chap.

g God will not be angry for ever with his own People, nor suffer the rod of the wicked for ever to rest upon the back of the righteous, for saith he for those that are my evil Neighbours, the Nations bordering upon Judea, which God calls his Inheritance, upon which account he calleth them his Neighbours, who touched his Inheritance, not so much by contiguity of Habitation, as by rapacious Fingers, to do them hurt, insulting over them when the Hand of God was upon them, and contributing to their affliction and misery, by helping their Enemies against them, as did the Edomites, Philistines, Moabites, &c. h I will also pluck them out of their Land, I will bring the sword upon them also, and they shall be led into captivity, and though they may have made some Inroads upon my People, and have carried away some of them into Captivity, yet I will fetch them out of their Captivity.

15 And it shall come to pass, after that I have plucked them out, I will return and have compassion on them, and will bring them again every man to his heritage, and every man to his land i.

i This seemeth not to be a Prophecy only of the Jews return into their Land after the fulfilling of the Years of their Captivity, but also of the bringing back of these Nations after that they should be plucked up, and seems to relate to the calling of the Gentiles, but this Prophecy must be limited by what followeth in the next Verse, and not understood of all the Inhabitants of those Nations.

16 And it shall come to pass, If they will diligently learn the ways of my people to swear by my name, the the LORD liveth k, (as they taught my people to swear by Baal) l then shall they be built in the midst of my people m.

k Tho these people be Heathens, yet if they will leave their Idolatries, and superstitious ways of Worship, and learn to worship and serve me as my People do and ought to worship me. l And swear by my Name the Lord liveth, that is, pay that Homage which they pay to the Divine Being to me, the living and true God; owning me alone as the fountain of life, and Searcher of the hearts (for there is a great Homage paid to the true God in swearing by his Name only, which sheweth the great impiety and profaneness of other Oaths.) m Then, saith God, I will bless and prosper them also, and they shall not only have a portion in the Earth but amongst my People, which was eminently fulfilled in the Conversion of the Gentiles, Rom. 11. 17. they were originally wild Olives, and grafted in amongst the Jews, and with them made partakers of the root, and fatness of the Olive-tree.

17 But if they will not obey, I will utterly pluck up, and destroy that nation, saith the LORD n.

n But for those, whether they be Jews or Gentiles, that shall continue in their Idolatrous, and Superstitious courses; that shall refuse the Messias, and continue in unbelief, and go on in courses of Rebellion and disobedience (saith God) I will utterly destroy that People. Thus Isa. 60. 12. The nation and kingdom, that will not serve thee, shall perish, yea those nations shall be utterly wasted.

CHAP. XIII.

In the Type of a Linen-Girdle God prefigureth their Destruction, 1,——11. Under the Parable of Bottles filled with Wine, is foretold their Drunkenness with Misery, 12,——14. He exhorteth to prevent these Judgments by Repentance from their sins, which are the cause thereof, 15,——27.

1 THus saith the LORD unto me, Go, and get the a linen girdle, and put it upon thy loins, and put it not in water a.

a God's design, by what is recorded in this Chapter, is by two Types, as in two Glasses, to let the People understand by the Prophet, how he looked upon them, and what they were in his Eyes, and also what he would do unto them, and they might expect from him, to this purpose he directeth the Prophet to procure himself a Girdle, not woollen but linen made of Flax, or the like, and to put it not upon his Clothes, but upon his Loins, to signifie (as some think) that this people were a people whom God had made near to him. He commands him not to put it in water, to soften it, as some think; Linen newly made, before it is wetted in water, being rough; and this they conceive the Prophet was forbidden, for a further Type of the stiffness and roughness, and stubbornness of this People. Others think, to typifie that God was no cause of this Peoples rotting, and growing corrupt.

2 So I got a girdle according to the word of the LORD b, and put it on my loins c.

b That is according to God's Command. c And used it as God commanded me, never disputing the reason, why God bid me do such a thing.

3 And the word of the LORD came unto me the second time, saying,

4 Take the girdle that thou hast got, which is upon thy loins, and arise, go to Euphrates, and hide it there in an hole of the rock d.

d God having commanded the Prophet to procure such a Girdle as was before mentioned, and to tie it upon his Loins, he a second time comes to him and commandeth him to take this Girdle and carry it to Euphrates. This was one of the four great Rivers that the River out of the Garden of Eden divided it self into, Gen. 2. 10, 14. It was the border of the promised Land, Gen. 15. 18. Deut. 1. 7. 11. 24. 1 Chron. 5. 9. Reuben's Lot was bounded by it. The Prophet was commanded to hide his Girdle, in the hole of a Rock in that River. But why there? Were there not other places nearer, where the Prophet might have hid it? It is judged by some, that this Command was also to signifie unto them, that they should be carried out of their own Borders into Captivity, or rather that they had corrupted, and were become rotten by doing after the fashions and manners of the Heathens who lived on the other side of Euphrates always, but having (an hundred years before this) captivated the Ten Tribes, lived also on this side of it.

5 So I went and hid it by Euphrates as the LORD commanded me e.

e Most think that Jeremiah did this but in a Vision, for it was a very long Journey for the Prophet to take to go from Anathoth, or Hierusalem as far as Euphrates. Jeremiah was obedient to God's Command, without any disputing or asking God the meaning of this Injunction to him.

6 And it came to pass after many days that the LORD said unto me, Arise, go to Euphrates, and take the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there f.

f God who had bidden the Prophet go and hide the linen Girdle, after some considerable time speaks again to him to go and take it away from the place where he had lodged it.

7 Then I went to Euphrates and digged, and took the girdle from the place where I had hid it g, and behold the girdle was marred, it was profitable for nothing h.

g Whether the Prophet really made such a journey, or all this was but a Vision is very uncertain. h When he came to the place, or in his Vision, he thought when he came to the place, that he saw all the girdle rotted, and good for nothing but to be thrown upon a Dunghil.

8 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 Thus saith the LORD, After this manner will I mar the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem i.

i By this it appears that God commanded Jeremiah to do this, not only as a representation of the rotten and corrupt state of this People, but of his Vengeance which should suddenly be brought upon them, though they were a proud people lifted up and swelled in the Opinion of themselves, from the favour which God had shewed them, in making them a People near unto him, and as it were wearing them upon his Loins, yet they having corrupted themselves by mixing their streams with the streams of Euphrates, corrupting themselves with the Superstitions, corruptions and Idolatries of Heathens, God would make use of some of those Nations to abate their Pride, and pluck their feathers, and they should rot amongst those People, and in some of those Nations with whom, and by whose Example they had sinned against the Lord. This sense of these words is much confirmed by the following words.

10 This evil people which refuse to hear my words, which walk in the ‖ imagination of their heart, and walk after other gods to serve them, and to worship them shall even be as this girdle, which is good for nothing k.

k Hitherto the Prophet had yielded a blind obedience to God, doing what he commanded him though he possibly knew no other reason for it, but because God bade him do so (which is an Homage we owe unto God, though to none but him) now God expounds himself what he meant to teach the Jews by this, viz. That he did intend that they should be consumed by the People beyond the River Euphrates, as that Girdle was there marred, and he also shews them, that their own sins in disobeying his word, and following the imaginations of their own hearts, particularly their Idolatry, was what had brought this sore judgment upon them.

11 For as the girdle cleaveth to the loins of a man, so have I caused to cleave unto me the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Judah, saith the LORD, that they might be unto me for a people, and for a name, and for a praise, and for a glory l: but they would not hear m.

l Here God openeth to the Prophet, why he commanded him to put the Girdle about his Loins, viz. to shew that he of his singular favour, had used the Jews as a Man useth his Girdle which he fasteneth about his Loins, and as a Man weareth his Girdle, made up of some costly Materials for an honour and praise to him, so God's design in honouring this People, wearing them as a Girdle, was, that they might bring him honour and glory, living to his praise, in the obedience of his Commands, especially such Commands as related to his Worship. m But they would not answer God's designs, nor hearken to any Counsels of that nature which he gave them, and therefore he was resolved to pluck them from his Loins, and to suffer them to rot, and consume as that Girdle was rotted. See Psal. 81. from Verse 8, to the end, which the Author of the English Annotations saith well, is an excellent Comment on this Text.

12 ¶ Therefore thou shalt speak unto them this word, Thus saith the LORD the God of Israel, Every bottle shall be filled with wine, and they shall say unto thee, Do we not certainly know that every bottle shall be filled with wine n?

n God by his Prophet sheweth them their ruine in another Glass, he bids the Prophet tell them, that every bottle should be filled with wine. Wine was what they delighted in, Hos. 3. 1. They loved flagons of wine, and were for those Prophets that would prophesie to them of wine and strong drink, Micah 2. 11. God therefore sendeth them a Prophecy about Wine, bids the Prophet tell them, that every bottle should be filled with wine. (Glad News to the Drunkards among them!) but no very strange thing to them who often enough were wont both to fill, and to empty Bottles of Wine; but they little understood the Wine which God and his Prophet intended, God therefore openeth it to them.

13 Then shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land, even the kings that sit upon Davids throne, and the priests, and the Prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with drunkenness o.

o There is a Wine of astonishment and confusion. Psal. 60 3. A Wine that intoxicateth, and inflameth, and stupifieth, as well as a Wine that refresheth; saith God, with that Wine I will fill all Orders of Persons, Kings, Priests, Prophets, and all the Inhabitants of Jerusalem. Nor shall the Throne of David be a protection to your Kings, I will have no regard to them upon that account, nor to the Priests though they be Persons consecrated to me.

14 And I will dash them † one against another, even the fathers, and the sons together, saith the LORD: I will not pity, nor spare, nor have mercy, but destroy them p.

p And I will set them one against another, raising up an evil Spirit of division amongst them, that they shall be like earthen Bottles dashed one against another, which are easily broken in pieces.

pieces. I will have no pity on them, therefore let them not presume upon my mercy, and pity, and compassion, for I am resolved to shew them no mercy, but to bring them to utter ruine, and destruction.

15 ¶ Hear ye and give ear, be not proud: for the LORD hath spoken q.

q God ordinarily subjoineth exhortation and counsel to his reproof, if peradventure people will change their hearts and ways. Having threatned them, therefore the Prophet speaketh to them, that they would yet hear, and that not formally but give ear, not exalting themselves against God, and nourishing a vain confidence or presumptuous hopes, and going on in their rebellious courses, despising him, and others who were but the Lord's Prophets and his Messengers unto them. The word which we bring is not ours, it is the Lord that hath spoken by us.

16 Give glory to the LORD your God r, before he cause darkness, and before your feet stumble upon the dark mountains, and while ye * look for light, he turn it into * the shadow of death, and make it gross darkness s.

* Isa 59.9. * Pf 44.19

r Glorifie God, by an humble confession of your sins, Jos. 7. 19, 20. by submitting your selves to God, Jam. 4. 7. humbling your selves under his Word, Jam. 4. 10. and under his mighty hand, 1 Pet. 5. 6. s Before God brings upon you his great and heavy Judgments before threatned; as a state of prosperity is set out often in Scripture by the Notion of Light, which is a pleasant and chearing thing; so a state of affliction is often set out to us in Scripture under the Notion of Darkness, Isa. 8. 22. Joel 2. 2. Amos 5. 18. &c. and as in the want of light, which is directive to our feet. Men are prone to stumble at any thing that lies in their way, so as they know not how to direct their feet or take their steps, so in times of affliction, especially great afflictions, Men are ordinarily perplexed and know not what course to take. In the latter part of the Verse he seemeth to threaten God's disappointment of their expectations. The Jews to the last appeared highly confident looking for light, but they met with great disappointment, even gross darkness.

17 But if ye will not hear it t, my soul shall weep in secret places for your pride u, and * mine eye shall weep sore, and run down with tears, because the Lords flock is carried away captive †.

* Lam. 1. 2.16. & 2. 18.

t That is, if you will not listen to what I say, take heed to what I say, and obey the counsel which I give you. u I shall seriously and secretly mourn for your rebellion and obstinacy which is rooted in your pride, and lifting up your selves against the Lord's Monitions and Counsels. † And I shall also mourn for your calamity when it comes upon you, I shall have a personal and family concern with you, but that will not so much trouble me as to consider that you who are the Church and People of God should be led into Captivity.

18 Say unto the king and to the queen, Humble your selves x, sit down; for your ‖ principalities shall come down, even the crown of your glory x.

x The Author of holy Writ is discernible by this as by other things, that the Scripture equally speaks to the greatest Persons, as to Persons of meaner rank. God here calls to the King of Judah, whether it was at this time Jehoiakim, or his Son Jehoiakin, is uncertain. x By Principalities he means both their dignity, and their liberty that which he often calleth the Crown of their glory. Some expound it head-tires, because the word deriveth from a word which signifies the Head.

19 The cities of the south shall be shut up, and none shall open them y, Judah shall be carried away captive all of it, it shall be wholly carried away captive.

y Either the Cities of Judah which lay Southward from Chaldæa, and therefore their Enemies in the next Verse are said to come from the North, and this great evil is said to have come from the North; or (as some would have it) the Cities of Egypt, which lay yet more Southward, so as the Egyptians should neither come with sufficient force to raise the Siege, nor should there be any Sanctuary or refuge for them in Egypt, but they should certainly be wholly carried into Captivity.

20 Lift up your eyes, and behold them that come from the north z: where is the flock that was given thee, thy beautiful flock a?

z He speaks to them as if their Enemy was even then upon their March, that if they did but look they might see him coming. a The Prophet either speaks to the King, or to the Rulers, or chief of the Congregation of Judah, Prov. 14. 28. In the multitude of the people is the king's honour. So in the multitude of Subjects or of Members, lies much of the honour of a Church or State.

21 What wilt thou say when he shall † punish thee? (for thou hast taught them to be captains, and as chief over thee) shall not * sorrows take thee as a woman in travail b?

† Heb visit thee.

b That is, thou wilt have nothing to say, but be wholly confounded and ashamed when God shall visit thee with this sore judgment, or when Nebuchadnezzar's Army sent by God, shall visit thee; for thou, either by thy commerce and trading with them, or by thy so often calling them to thy assistance, or by thy Idolatry borrowed from them, and other Nations, hast taught them to be Captains over thee; thy sorrows and affliction will come upon thee suddenly and terribly as pain cometh upon a Woman in Travail; yea, and as certainly also.

22 And if thou say in thine heart, *Wherefore come these things upon me? for the greatness of thine iniquity are thy * skirts discovered, and thy heels ‖ made bare c.

* Chap. 5. 19 & 16. 10. * Nahum 3. 5. ‖ Or, shall be violently taken away.

c Hypocrites will rarely confess their own shame and God's righteousness, but are ready to expostulate and dispute with God, and to call him to account why he hath dealt so with them, as if God had dealt unjustly. But (saith God) if thou shouldst have any such thoughts in thine heart, do but remember thine iniquities, how many and how great they have been, thy nakedness is discovered because of these, and for these thou art exposed to contempt and shame; probably these phrases are fetched from the usual practice of Soldiers when they have conquered a place and taken Prisoners, to strip them, and leave those of either Sex, either no Clothes to cover their nakedness, or nothing but their own Rags, not sufficient to cover their nakedness. By Skirts is meant the lower part of their Bodies covered with the lower part of their Garments.

23 Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots d? then may ye also do good, that are † accustomed to do evil e.

d In the Hebrew it is, Can the Cusite, &c. from whence it is well concluded, as learned Men judge, that the Ethiopians are of the posterity of Cush the Son of Cham, Brother to Misraim, the father of the Egyptians, Gen. 10. 6. For these were the only People of old noted for their black colour in Scripture, as the Ethiopians are now. e God sheweth that the Jews by their continued customary sinning had so inured themselves to wicked practices, that it was as much labour in vain to endeavour to reclaim them, as to go about to wash a Blackamore, or to take out the natural spots of the Beasts called Leopards.

24 Therefore will I scatter them as the stubble that passeth away by the wind of the wilderness f.

f The words denote a great, and clear dispersion, like that of the scattering of Stubble by a fierce Wind.

25 This is thy lot, the portion of thy measures from me, saith the LORD; because thou hast forgotten me, and trusted in falshood g.

g This is what thou shalt have at the Lord's Hand, the dispensation which thou shalt meet with, and thou mayest thank thy self for it, for hadst thou remembred either my former kindness to thee, or the Law that I gave thee, this had not come unto thee, but thou hast forgotten me, and trusted in lyes, or in idle, vain and presumptuous hopes, therefore I have given thee but a just lot, and measured to thee a just measure.

26 Therefore * will I discover thy skirts upon thy face that thy shame may appear h.

* Lam. 1. 8. Ezek. 16. 37. & 23. 29. Hos. 2. 10.

h Therefore I will expose thee to all manner of shame and contempt, without any regard to thy honour. Those that honour God, God will honour, but those that despise and dishonour him, shall not be able to maintain their own honour.

27 I have seen thy adulteries, and thy * neighings i, the lewdness of thy whoredom, and thine abominations *on the hills, in the fields k: woe unto thee, O Jerusalem, wilt thou not be made clean? † when shall it once be?

* Chap. 5. 8. * Isa 65.7. Chap. 2. 20 Ezek. 6. 13. † Heb. after when i Some think the Prophet here reflects upon them for their corporal Adulteries, and their madness upon them, which he compareth to the neighings of Horses, but those words on the hills in the fields in the next clause seem to inform us, k That he means here only their Idolatries which are in holy Writ often compared to Adulteries, which are the greatest sins in their kind, the greatest violations of the Marriage Covenant, and provocations of Persons in conjugal Relation, and the only cause of lawful divorce. l He concludes with pathetical Interrogations, intimating that yet there is almost as desperate, and not knowing what would not be, yet he leaves no means untried, but asks them if it was not yet time, or when such a thing might be hoped for at their hands?

CHAP. XIV.

A grievous Famine prophesied: Its Miseries, 1—6. The Prophet prayeth, but God will not be entreated for them, 7—12. Lying Prophets no excuse for them, 13,—16. The Prophet's Complaint, 17,—22.

THE word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning the † dearth a.

† Heb. the words of the dearths or restraints.

a What Dearth we are not told, nor when it happened; some think that it was in the time of the Siege of Hierusalem; others, of the that it was in the beginning of the Reign of Zedekiah, but they judge most probably, that think it was in the time of Jehoiakim, for we read Chap. 36. 9. of an extraordinary Fast by him proclaimed, which many judge was upon this occasion: The Heb. Phrase which is here used, signifying, The matter of the Restraints; gives Interpreters some liberty to abound in their senses of this Text, but the following words make it evident, Ver. 4. 5. that the Restraints here mentioned were God's restraining of water from them, so that the Dearth was occasioned from a great drought, which is elegantly described in the five next Verses and deprecated, Ver. 7, 8, 9. which make indeed but a Preface to the Revelation of the Mind and Will of God in this Prophecy.

2 Judah mourneth, and the gates thereof languish, they are black unto the ground, and the cry of Jerusalem is gone up b.

b By Judah is meant the Men and Women in the whole Country of Judah. The Gates is put for their Cities, or the Men of their their Cities languished, for want of moisture for themselves or their Beasts. They are all in the Habits of Mourners, or their Faces looked swarthy, and starvedly, for want of due and wholesome Nourishment, and the cry of Hierusalem is gone up, either their cry unto God by their Prayers in his Temple, or their cry by the reason of their Misery and Grief is gone up to Heaven.

3 And their nobles have sent their little ones to the waters, they came to the pits and found no water, they returned with their vessels empty: they were ashamed and confounded, and covered their heads c.

c This scarcity of water, afflicted not mean Persons only, who have not so good means to supply their necessities as others; but their greatest Persons; so as they sent their little ones (it were better translated Servants for they are meant) to the places made to receive and retain Water, but finding no Water in the Pits, they came back again with their Vessels empty like Men ashamed and confounded, and troubled upon the seeing their expectations frustrated.

4 Because the ground is chapt d, for there was no rain in the earth, the plowmen were ashamed, they covered their heads e.

d The Heb. word signifieth more largely than chapt, broken, spoiled, turn'd into dust, as is usual in great Droughts. e The word also which we translate Plowmen, doth not strictly signifie Plowmen, but Husbandmen, there having been no Rain upon the Earth, it brought forth little or no Grass for those that imployed themselves in breeding or feeding Cattel, and it was so hard, and so much wanted moisture, that they could not Plow nor Sow, but were like Men ashamed and confounded, who knew not what to do.

5 Yea, the hind also calved in the field and forsook it, because there is no grass f.

f Hinds use not to get their Food in Fields, but upon the Mountains and in Wildernesses, but the Drought was such, that these wild Creatures came into the lower Grounds, nearer the Habitations of Men, than they were wont, and there brought forth their Young. The Hinds are loving Creatures, and as all Creatures by a natural instinct love their Young, so the Hinds especially, but their moisture being dried up, they could not suckle them, but were forced to leave them, running about here and there to seek Grass to eat.

6 And the wild asses did stand in the high places, they snuffed up the wind like dragons g: their eyes did fail because there was no grass h.

g The wild Asses wanting water, got upon high places, where was the freest and coolest air, and sucked in the Wind, and this it is said they did like Dragons, of whom Aristotle and Pliny report, that by reason of the great heat of their Bodies, they ordinarily stand upon high places sucking in the cool Air, and they tell us those Creatures will live upon it for some time. The Prophet describing this great Drought, tells us, the wild Asses did the like. h But for want of Grass their Eyes were either almost sunk in their Heads, they being almost starved, or else the Phrase signifies the frustration of their expectation, which this Phrase also some times signifies in Scripture, Psal. 69. 3.

7 ¶ O LORD! though our iniquities testifie against us i, do thou it k for thy names sake l: for our backslidings are many, we have sinned against thee m.

i The Prophet having described their misery, both in the cause of it, the Drought for want of Rain, and the effects of it, he applieth himself to that God, who he knew was he who alone could give the former and the latter Rain; confessing that their sins and backslidings were very many, and testified against them, that they had deserved God's severe Scourge, and God was Righteous in what of this nature he had done against them. But yet saith he k do thou it; that is, do thou what we desire, and what we stand in need of; give us Rain. l Though not for our sake, we deserve no such kindness from thee, yet for thy Names sake: Thy Word, or Promise, or rather hear for thine Honour and Glory sake. So Isa. 43. 25. and 48. 11. where God promiseth them to shew them kindness for his Names sake, so as Jeremiah's Prayer is but a pleading of God's Promises, that he would fulfil his word. m For here signifies though, and might have been better so interpreted.

8 O the hope of Israel n, the Saviour thereof in time of trouble o, why shouldst thou be as a stranger in the land, and as a wayfaring man, that turneth aside to tarry for a night p?

n That is the object of Israel's hope, he in whom alone thy People Israel have been wont to hope, or he in whom alone Israel hath just reason to hope. o Thou who hast formerly been their Saviour in the times of their trouble, or who alone canst save them in such times of trouble, as thou hast now brought them into. See Psal. 9. 9. and 46. 1. p Why shouldst thou be as one that regardeth thy ancient People no more than a Stranger, or a Traveller, who taketh no farther care for the place, or the House where he lodgeth, than for the short time that he is to stay or abide in it.

9 Why shouldst thou be as a man astonied q? as a mighty man that cannot save? yet thou, O LORD, † art in the midst of us r, and we are † called by thy name, leave us not. ∴

q The Hebrew word here used being found in no place of Holy Writ but this, hath given Interpreters a liberty to translate it variously, sleepy, weak, astonished, frighted, like a Man in such disorder through some great Passions, that he is able to do nothing. r Like a Man who in his own nature is strong and mighty enough, but through sickness or passion is so weakned, that he cannot put forth any strength for the succour and relief of his Friends. s Yet (saith the Prophet) thou art in the midst of us, that is, we have thy Temple to which thou hast promised thy special Presence, or rather it is to be understood of the whole Land, according to what God had declared, Num 5. 3. and 35. 34. Defile not the Land which ye shall inhabite, wherein I dwell: for I the Lord dwell among the Children of Israel. t That is, we are called the Lord's People, and that not only by others amongst whom we have that repute, but by thy self. God often calleth this People in Scripture, his People, his Portion. ∴ Therefore he begs that God would not leave them; he means as to that special Providence, by which he had formerly watched over them, and cared for them, and been a protection to them; nor as to his Ordinances, and his special gracious presence with them in his Temple.

10 Thus saith the LORD unto this people, u Thus have they loved to wander w, they have not refrained their feet x, therefore the LORD doth not accept them y, * he will now remember their iniquity, and visit their sins z.

* Hos. 8. 13. and 9. 9.

u Here beginneth that Divine Revelation mentioned, Ver. 1. as an answer to the Prophet's Complaint and Prayer in the nine first Verses. The substance of which is, that for their manifold sins, he was resolved to punish them, and therefore would not be any more solicited on their behalf. w They have gone aside out of the way of my Precepts, and that out of a principle of love and delight, they have been fond of their Idols. x And they have persisted in those deviations and sinful courses, notwithstanding all Counsels, and Arguments used with them to the contrary, nothing could keep their feet to the way of my Testimonies. y Therefore though they pray, and cry, and fast, God will not accept them. z But by his punishment of them for their sins, he will let them know that as he hath seen and taken notice of, so he hath not forgot what they have done.

11 Then said the LORD unto me *. Pray not for this people for their good a.

* Exod. 32. 10.

a Twice before God had given the Prophet this charge, Chap. 7. 26. and 11, 14. how it could consist with the Piety of Jeremiah, after those charges to put up the Prayer we have Ver. 7, 8, 9. of this Chapter. See the Notes on Chap. 11. 14.

12 * When they fast, I will not hear their cry b, and * when they offer burnt-offering and an oblation, I will not accept them, c but * I will consume them by the sword and by the famine, and by the pestilence d.

* Isa. 58. 1. Zech. 7. 7. 13. * Chap. 6. 20. and 7. 21, 22. * Chap. 9. 16.

b The like threatning we have, Prov. 2. 28. Isa. 1. 15. Chap. 11. 11. Ezech. 8. 18. Micah 3. 4. c Men may so long despise God's Calls, Exhortations and Counsels as their case may be desperate as to the prevention of temporal Judgments by such Religious applications to God as ordinarily have their effect, to prevent and remove Judgments. See Chap. 15. 1. Ezek. 14. 14, 20. d He threatneth to add to their plague, three fore Judgments, ordinarily accompanying one another both in Gods Threatnings, and in the execution of them, Chap. 29. 17, 18. and 24. 17, &c.

13 Then said I, Ah Lord GOD! Behold the Prophets say unto them, Ye shall not see the sword, neither shall ye have famine, but I will give you † assured peace in this place e.

e We have many Complaints of this Prophet against false Prophets that contradicted his Prophecies, Chap. 4. 10. and 23. 9. and we shall hereafter meet with the Names of some of them. Corrupt Governments never want Prophets to their humour, though a bolder transgression can hardly be imagined, than for Men to intitle God to their own Imaginations and Fancies, and we shall Ver. 15. meet with the usual Wages of such Works.

14 Then the LORD said unto me, The prophets prophesie lyes in my name f, * I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spake unto them: they prophesie to you a false vision and divination, and a thing of nought, and the deceit of their heart.

* Chap. 23. 21 & 27. 15. & 29. 8, 9.

f They did not only prophesie falshoods, but lyes, what they knew to be false; for they pretended, that God had revealed such things unto them; for admit the things they spake (as to Men) but future Contingencies, which might be true or false, yet it was a lye for them to pretend that God had told them any such things. The things were certainly false in themselves, being contrary to God's Revelation; but letting that aside, for them to pretend God had revealed that to them which he had not revealed, was a formed lye. God denieth that he ever commanded them to speak any such things, or sent them upon any such Errands, they prophesyed what came in their own foolish heads, and the deceits of their own hearts.

15 Therefore thus saith the LORD, concerning the prophets that prophesie in my name and I sent them not, yet they say, Sword and famine shall not be in this land, by sword and famine shall those prophets be consumed g.

g It is a most dangerous thing for Ecclesiastical Ministers to believe that to People as the Will of God, which is not so: God here threatneth that these Prophets in testimony of the truth of the Word of God delivered by Jeremiah, should die by these very Judgments, which they falsely prophesied to this People as from God, an immunity from, Vid. Ch. 6. 15. and 20. 6. 1 Kings 22. 25.

16 And the people to whom they propheſie, ſhall be caſt out in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, becauſe of the famine, and the ſword, and they ſhall have none to bury them, their wives, nor their ſons, nor their daughters; for I will pour their wickedneſs upon them o.

o The Security promiſed by theſe falſe Prophets, ſhall be no Excuſe to the People for giving credit to them; the Prophets ſhall periſh for propheſying falſly in my Name, and the People that hearken to, and believe what they ſay, and practiſe accordingly, ſhall periſh for their ſight and vain Credulity. As the ſinful Commands of Superiours in things Civil, will not free thoſe from Guilt that execute their Commands; ſo the Lyes and falſe Teachings of Miniſters, will not excuſe thoſe that run into Error upon the Credit of their Words: both the one and the other owe their firſt Homage and Allegiance to God, by whoſe Word they ought to examine the Precepts of the one, and the Propheſyings of the other.

17 ¶ Therefore thou ſhalt ſay this word unto them *. Let mine eyes run down with tears night and day, and let them not ceaſe, for the virgin daughter of my people is broken with a great breach with a very grievous blow.

* Ch. 9. 1. and 13. 17. Lam. 1. 16. and 2. 18.

18 If I go forth into the field, then behold the ſlain with the ſword, and if I enter into the city, then behold them that are ſick with famine, p yea both the prophet and the prieſt ‖ go about into a land that they know not q.

‖ Or, make merchandize againſt a Land, and Men acknowledge it not.

p The Prophet is by God directed to ſpeak ſtill of the Calamities of this People as a thing paſt though yet to come; according to the uſual Stile of Prophetical Writings; and to tell them, that whatſoever their falſe Prophets told them, yet he ſo certainly knew the contrary, that he could even with himſelf melted into Tears for them, and had even already before his eyes the doleful Spectacle of their Miſeries. Some in the Field ſlain by the Enemies Sword, others within the Walls almoſt ſtarved to death. q The Word in the Hebrew סחר which we Tranſlate go about, ſignifies ſo primarily, and in a ſecond Sence to Merchandize, becauſe Merchants go about Countries to trade. This hath made that variety of Senſe which the Margents of our Bible have; but our Tranſlation is true enough, and the Senſe ſeems to be, that Prieſts and Prophets (though accounted ſacred perſons) ſhould be made Captives alſo, and wander in a Land wherein they were Foreigners. This is thought to relate to the firſt Captivity in the time of Jehoiakim, when the People of the beſt Faſhion were carried into Captivity.

19 Haſt thou utterly rejected Judah? hath thy ſoul loathed Zion r? why haſt thou ſmitten us, and there is no healing for us ſ? * we looked for peace, and no good, and for the time of healing, and behold trouble t.

* Ch. 8. 15.

r The Prophet again returns to God, expoſtulating with him, and humbly imploring mercy for his People, which lets us know that he did not underſtand God's words to him, Ver. 11. as an abſolute Prohibition of him to pray for this People. Zion was a Place whoſe gates God loved, and Judah was his pleaſant Portion. Lord ſaith the Prophet, is it poſſible thou ſhouldſt loath a Place which thou ſo much loveſt, or caſt off a People which thou haſt ſo much owned? ſ He acknowledgeth God to be he that had ſmitten them, and their Condition without him to be helpleſs and hopeleſs. t And that all their Hopes and Expectations were fruſtrated.

20 We acknowledge, O LORD, our wickedneſs, and the iniquity of our fathers, for * we have ſinned againſt thee u.

* Pſal. 106. 6. Dan 9 8.

u That is, both we and our Fathers have ſinned againſt thee, and have given thee a Right to puniſh and deſtroy us; we deſire not to cover or cloak our Sin, we own and acknowledge it.

21 Do not abhor us, for thy names ſake w, do not diſgrace the throne of thy glory x: remember, break not thy covenant with us y.

w The Thing which the Prophet deprecateth is, the Judgments come already, and farther coming upon this People, the Famine, Sword, and Peſtilence, with the Drought, under the ſad Conſequents of which they at preſent laboured; but he prays for the Removal of theſe Judgments, and the Prevention of ſuch as were yet to come, in this Phraſe, Do not abhor us; noting to us, that the Love of God to a People is the Root of all Good which they can expect; and his Hatred and Diſpleaſure, the Root of all the Evil that can betide them. Here are divers Arguments brought to back this Petition. 1. For thy Name's ſake, that is, thine Honour and Glory ſake, an Argument often made uſe of in Holy Writ, in the Prayers of God's People, Joſ. 7. 9, &c. and upon a very good Foundation, whether we conſider God's Concern for his own Glory, or the Tenure of God's Promiſes, promiſing mercy for his own Name's ſake. x He alſo argueth with God, from his former Love and Kindneſs to this People, which he had made the Throne of his Glory. The Words are either to be underſtood of the Throne of the Houſe of David, called the Lord's Throne, 1 Chron. 29. 23. or elſe the Temple, and the Ark in it, the more ſpecial Symbol of God's Preſence: hence he is ſaid to have dwelt betwixt the Cherubims, Pſal. 80. 1. ſo Chap. 17. 12. the Prophet ſaith, A glorious high Throne from the Beginning is our Sanctuary. Lord (ſaith the Prophet) we have deſerved all the Diſgrace thou canſt throw upon us, but do not thou diſgrace the Throne of thine own Glory. y Remember, break not thy Covenant with us. Did not Jeremy then know that God could not break his Covenant? Anſ. He did know it; but he alſo knew that it is our Duty to pray to God to fulfill it; or poſſibly he would extend it a little farther, and for God's Covenant ſake made with the faithful in Iſrael, he would have obtained mercy for the whole Body of the Nation.

22 Are there any among the vanities of the Gentiles that can cauſe rain z? or can the heavens give ſhowers? a * Art not thou he, O LORD our God? b therefore we will wait upon thee, for thou haſt made all theſe things c.

*Pſal. 135. 7. Iſa. 30. 23. Ch. 10. 13.

z The preſent Judgment under which they groaned, was a Drought, which he had deſcribed in the ſix firſt Verſes; the Prophet imploring God for the Removal of it, argues, from the Impoſſibility of Help in this caſe from any other way, none of the Idols of the Heathens, which he calls vain things, nothing in themſelves, and of no uſe or profit to thoſe that ran after them, could give Rain. a The Heavens indeed give it; but in the order of ſecond Cauſes, if God ſtoppeth thoſe Bottels they cannot run. b Lord, art not thou able to do it (ſaith the Prophet?) nay, art not thou he who alone is able to do it? (for ſo much the Phraſe doth import.) The Scripture conſtantly giveth God the Honour of giving Rain, Gen. 2. 5. Deut. 28. 12. 1 Kings 8. 36. 2 Chron. 6. 27. Job 5. 10. and 38. 26, 28. Pſal. 147. 8. Ch. 5. 24. and 51. 15. Joel 2. 23. Zech. 10. 1. Matth. 5. 45. Acts 14. 17. c Therefore ſaith the Prophet, we thy People will wait upon thee by Prayer, and the payment of thoſe Homages thou requireſt; for thou haſt made all theſe things, that is (ſay ſome) thou haſt cauſed all theſe Judgments, or afflictive Diſpenſations; or rather, thou haſt made the Rain, laſt mentioned.

1 THen ſaid the LORD unto me, * Though * Moſes * and Samuel ſtood before me, yet my mind could not be towards this people a; caſt them out of my ſight, and let them go forth b.

* Ezek. 14. 14. *Exod 32. 11, 14. * 1 Sam. 7. 9.

a We are (though in another Chapter) yet in the ſame Prophecy, or Diſcourſe betwixt God and this Prophet. Jeremiah having been once denied, ſollicited God again, as we had it in the four laſt Verſes of the former Chapter. God here replieth to that Prayer; and the ſum of what he ſaith is, that he was inexorable in their caſe. Though Moſes who could obtain ſo much of God upon their ſinning, in the caſe of the Golden Calf, Exod. 32. 11, 14. and in the caſe of the Peoples Murmuring, Numb. 14. 19, 20. and Samuel who was ſo prevalent with God, 1 Sam. 7. 9. though theſe two formerly ſo potent and prevalent Mediators for a People with me, ſtood before me, waited (that is) upon me, and ſollicited me on the behalf of this People, yet I could not favour this People. b q. d. I am not able to abide the ſight of them, and therefore let them go forth.

2 And it ſhall come to paſs, if they ſay unto thee, Whither ſhall we go forth? c then thou ſhalt tell them, Thus ſaith the LORD, * Such as are for death, to death, and ſuch as are for the ſword, to the ſword, and ſuch as are for famine, to famine, and ſuch as are for captivity, to captivity d.

* Chap. 43. 11. Ezek. 5. 12. Zech. 11. 9.

c If they aſk thee what thou meaneſt by going forth; which being a term of Motion, implieth a Term to which the Motion ſhould be. d Saith God in the general, it is to Ruin and Deſtruction, but they ſhall not all be deſtroyed one and the ſame way; ſome ſhall be deſtroyed by the Peſtilence, (for that is here to be underſtood by Death) others ſhall be deſtroyed by the Famine, others by the ſword of Enemies, others ſhall go into Captivity, but one way or other the Land ſhall be quitted of the moſt of you.

3 And I will * appoint over them four † kinds, ſaith the LORD e, the ſword to ſlay, and the dogs to tear, and * the fowls of the heaven, and the beaſts of the earth to devour and deſtroy f.

* Lev. 26. 16. † Heb. Families. * Ch. 7. 33.

e Four kinds of Deſtroyers, the Enemies ſwords ſhall ſlay them and ſo make Meat for the Dogs, who ſhall tear their Carcaſes, and for the Birds of prey, who ſhall prey upon their dead Bodies that ſhall lie unburied. f And I will alſo ſend amongſt them wild Beaſts, who ſhall both tear their living Bodies and their dead Carcaſes.

4 And † I will cauſe them to be * removed into all kingdoms of the earth g; becauſe of * Manaſſeh the ſon of Hezekiah king of Judah, for that which he did in Hieruſalem h.

† Heb. give them for a removing. * Deut. 28. 25. Ch. 24. 9. Ezek 23. 46. * 2 King. 24. 3.

g Though the body of the People were removed into Babylon, yet as it is more than probable that many of them fled into other Countries to ſave themſelves, ſo there is no doubt, but the King of Babylon removed them into ſeveral Kingdoms belonging to his large Empire. h What Manaſſeh did, may be read 2 Kin. 21. 11. He did wickedly, above all that the Amorites did that were before him, and made alſo Judah to ſin with his Idols. Verſe 16. Moreover, he ſhed innocent blood very much, till he had filled Jeruſalem from one end to another, beſides his ſin wherewith he made Judah to ſin, &c. Some make a Queſtion whether God means the perſonal Sins of Manaſſeh and his Miniſters, or only the Sins of the ſame kind that the Jews ſtill continued. Manaſſeh lived 55 Years, his Son Joſiah 31 Years, it was now the time of Jehoiakim, the Son of Joſiah, who reigned but eleven Years, and it is probable this was his fifth Year, (for in that Year he proclaimed the Faſt) (for the Drought, (as is ſuppoſed) Chap. 36 9. Tho the People were bad enough ſtill, yet it is no way probable, that they were ſo bad as in the time of Manaſſeh. We know all Joſiah's time, the Father of this Prince, was a time of Reformation, though it be certain, much of their old Leaven of Idolatry and Superſtition was yet in them. Whatever therefore ſome think, God undoubtedly meaneth the Guilt that Manaſſeh and his Subjects contracted, forty Years before this time: Nor do I ſee any reaſon why any ſhould queſtion, whether it be conſiſtent with the Juſtice of God, to puniſh the Sins of Parents upon their Poſterity, when it is no more than we ſee done every day in the Puniſhments of Traytors and Felons, by the ſeizing the Eſtates of their Children, and in Wars, upon the Taking of Cities and Fortified Places; and it is no more than God hath threatned in the Second Commandment, Exod. 20. and declared it as a piece of his name, Exod. 34. and done in a multitude of Scriptural Inſtances. Manaſſeh is here named as the Son of Hezekiah for his ſhame, becauſe of his degeneracy from ſo good a Parent; it is expreſly ſaid, 2 Kings 23. 6. that notwithſtanding Joſiah's Reformation, yet the Lord turned not from the fierceneſs of his wrath, kindled againſt Judah for the provocations of Manaſſeh.

*Iſa 51. 19. † Heb. to ask of thy peace.

5 For * who ſhall have pity upon thee, O Hieruſalem? or who ſhall bemoan thee? or who ſhall go aſide † to ask how thou doeſt i.

i The ſum of this is, That this People ſhould be in a moſt miſerable pitileſs ſtate and condition; none ſhould regard them in the day of their Calamity, nor ſo much as once enquire after them, or how they fared, or what they did.

6 Thou haſt forſaken me, ſaith the LORD, thou art gone backward, therefore will I ſtretch out my hand againſt thee, and deſtroy thee, I am weary with repenting k.

k God here by more Phraſes of the ſame import with many that we have before met with, declareth his ſteady Reſolution to deſtroy them, for their Apoſtacy from him; and ſets out himſelf to them as angry Princes or Parents, that had been often provoked againſt a Subject or a Child, and often reſolved to puniſh the Offender, but out of their own Clemency, or upon the Mediation and Interceſſion of others for them, had altered their Minds, and reſolved to ſpare them, but at laſt met with ſo many freſh Provocations, that they are weary of forgiving them any longer; ſo God declareth himſelf weary of his patient bearing with them, and reſolved to bear no longer.

7 And I will fan them with a fan in the gates of the land l, I will bereave them of ‖ children m, I will deſtroy my people, ſith they return not from their ways n.

‖ Or, whatſoever is dear.

l Not a purging Fan by Affliction, to ſeparate their Chaff and Droſs from them, but a ſcattering Fan; ſome Tranſlate it into the gates of the earth: So it is the ſame that God had before ſaid, that he would remove them into all Nations, (Gates being put for Cities;) but it is more probable, that this is added in purſuit of the Metaphor of Fanning, Men uſually chuſing Barn-doors to fan at, that they may have the Advantage of the Wind. m Of Children is not in the Hebrew, and is needleſſly ſupplied; it may as well be of any, or all their Comforts or good Things. n Their Privilege claimed of being my People ſhall not protect them, ſo long as they go on in their lewd and ſinful Courſes.

8 Their widows are increaſed to me above the ſand of the ſeas o, I have brought upon them ‖ againſt the mother of the young men, a ſpoiler at noonday p: I have cauſed him to fall upon it ſuddenly, and terrours upon the city q.

‖ Or, againſt the mother City, a Young-man ſpoiling, &c. Or, againſt the Mother and the Young-men.

o The Prophet ſpeaking in the Name of that God who calleth things that are not as if they were, ſtill continueth his Stile, ſpeaking of Things to come as if preſent. In Jehoiakim's time we read of no ſuch plenty of Widows; they were multiplied when the City was beſieged and taken in Zedekiah's time, to a great number, hyperbolically compared to the Sands of the Sea. p There is a great Variety amongſt Interpreters, as to their Sence of this Phraſe, about which, thoſe that are curious may conſult the Engliſh Annotations upon this Verſe. By the Spoiler at Noon-day is meant Nebuchadnezzar, in the Senſe of the beſt Interpreters, who came not like a Thief who cometh by night to rob and to ſpoil, but with an Army in the day time: The Queſtion only is about thoſe Words againſt the Mother of the Youngmen. The Hebrew Word, which our Tranſlation renders Youngmen, is בחור, which properly ſignifieth a choice Man, or a Perſon, ſo ſon choſen, from the Hebrew Verb which ſignifieth to chuſe; ſo as it may as well be Tranſlated the Mother of the Choſen, as the Mother of the Young-men. Becauſe Young-men are looked upon as the Choice Men, whether for Beauty, or Strength and Ability for any thing, the Word often ſignifies a Young-man, Deut. 32. 25. 2 Sam. 6. 1. Cant. 5. 15. Pſal. 148. 12. Iſa. 23. 4. Ezek. 9. 6. and in many other Texts. Some will have the Senſe (as in our Margent) againſt the Mother, a Young-man, meaning by the Young-man Nebuchadnezzar, and by the Mother Jeruſalem: The Jews are in the Canticles called the Daughters of Hieruſalem, and Hieruſalem which is above, is by the Apoſtle called the Mother of us all. The Hebrew Word is in the ſingular Number; how we Tranſlate it Young-men I underſtand not. Pagnine Tranſlates it Electi, the Mother of the choſen. I do think that by the Mother is meant Hieruſalem, and that Populs may be underſtood to Electi. Hieruſalem was the Mother of the Jewiſh People, or Judea at leaſt, againſt whom, Nebuchadnezzar the Spoiler, at Noon-day, was ſent; and we know that the Jews were God's Choſen People. q This laſt Clauſe is yet more obſcure than the other, Word for Word, as it is in the Hebrew; it is, I have cauſed to fall upon it ſuddenly, the City and Terrors. The Word here uſed עיר commonly ſignifies a City in Scripture, and is very rarely Tranſlated otherwiſe. Were it not for the Adverb ſuddenly coming between it and City, the Sence were plain, and thus, I will cauſe to fall upon that City, Terrors; others read it, I will cauſe him to fall upon it, and Terrors upon the City. The Word ſometimes in Scripture ſignifies Enemies, and is ſo Tranſlated, 1 Sam. 28. 16. Pſal. 139. 20. Dan. 4. 19. In this Signification of the Word, the Sence is plain, I will ſend upon it the Enemy and Terrors. The Learned Author of our Engliſh Annotations obſerves it is tranſlated a Watcher, Dan. 4. 13, 23. and thinks the Senſe may be thus, I have cauſed it to fall upon them ſuddenly, a Watcher that bringeth Terrors; to which purpoſe he tells us, the Chaldean Forces are compared to Watchers, Chap. 4. 16, 17. and 5. 6.

9 She that hath born ſeven b languiſheth: ſhe hath given up the ghoſt, * her ſun is gone down while it was yet day i; ſhe hath been aſhamed and confounded k, and the reſidue of them will I deliver to the ſword, before their enemies, ſaith the LORD l.

* Amos 8. 9.

b Seven ſignifies many, 1 Sam. 2. 5. Job 5. 19. The Prophet complains, that Hieruſalem, or the Country of Judah, that had been very numerous in People, now grew feeble, neither able to maintain thoſe ſhe had born, nor yet to bear more. i In the midſt of her Proſperity ſhe became thus miſerable. k A part of them were confounded by the Judgments of God which came upon them before their Captivity. l For the Remainder of them (ſaith God) they ſhall be deſtroyed by the Sword of the Enemy.

10 * Wo is me, my mother, that thou haſt born me a man of ſtrife, and a man of contention to the whole earth m: I have neither lent on uſury, nor men have lent to me on uſury, yet every one of them doth curſe me n.

* Job 3. 1, &c. Chap. 20. 14.

m The Prophet in this Verſe cannot be excuſed from a great meaſure of Paſſion and Humane Infirmity; he almoſt curſeth the day of his Birth, denouncing himſelf a woful, miſerable Man, to be born a Man of Striſe and Contention to the whole World, that is, thoſe Nations in it againſt which God ſent him to denounce his Judgments; which Denunciations, how true ſoever, and the truth of which they afterward did effectually find, yet they were not able to bear, and therefore they ſtrove with him, and contended againſt him; yet it was not for his Sin. n Uſury was forbidden the Jews, Deut. 23. 19. and ſo was the more odious; but ſaith the Prophet, I have not followed that trade, I have neither lent nor borrowed upon Uſury, I have done them no wrong, nor given them any occaſion againſt me, yet they will not be reconciled to me, but ſpeak of me all manner of evil: This was the Lot of the old Prophets, the Lot of Samuel, of Chriſt, of his Apoſtles, and of all the faithful Miniſters of the Goſpel ever ſince; let them carry themſelves never ſo innocently and obligingly to People, yet if they will be faithful, and truly reveal unto People the Mind and Will of God, that is enough to anger a People whoſe Wills are not ſubjugated to the Will of God, and they will curſe them.

11 The LORD ſaid, Verily it ſhall be well with thy remnant o, verily I ‖ will cauſe the enemy to entreat thee well in the time of evil, and in the time of affliction p.

‖ Or, I will entreat the Enemy for thee.

o The latter Words of the Verſe expound the former; for by Remnant is here meant the Reſidue or Remnant of Days that Jeremiah had yet to live, not the Remnant of the People who ſhould come out of Babylon. p I will, by my Providence, ſo order it, that how cruelly and feverely ſoever the Enemy deals with thy Country-men, yet he ſhall uſe thee kindly when he ſhall take the City. See the fulfilling of this Prophecy, Chap. 39. 11. and 40. 3, 4.

12 Shall iron break the northern iron and the ſteel q?

q There is a great Variety among Interpreters as to this Verſe alſo, ſome interpreting this as a Prophecy that none ſhould break the Prophet, whom God would make as the Northern Iron and Steel, which was the hardeſt of all Iron, the Chalybes (from whom Steel had its Name Chalybs) being Northern People, and the moſt famous of any then known in the World, for tempering Iron to make it hard and tough: Others interpreting it, as denying that there ſhould ever be an Agreement betwixt the Jews and the Chaldeans; but to me, the Words of the next Verſe ſeem to give us the Senſe, that the Jews ſhould certainly be over-run, and conquered by the Babylonians; for as the Northern Iron and Steel is the hardeſt, and no Iron could break that, ſo God having edged and hardened their Enemies the Chaldeans, all their Oppoſition to them would ſignifie nothing.

13 Thy ſubſtance and thy treaſures will I give to the * ſpoil without price r, and that for all thy ſins, even in all thy borders ſ.

* Chap. 17. 3.

r All thy Riches and precious Things ſhall be ſpoiled, I will have no regard, ſaith God, to Loſs or Gain in it, or there ſhall be no Price taken for the Redemption of them; for ſ what ſhall be done, ſhall be by me done for all the Sins which thou haſt been guilty of in all the parts of the Country.

14 And I will make thee to paſs with thine enemies, into a land which thou knoweſt not, for a * fire is kindled in mine anger, which ſhall burn upon you t.

* Deut. 32. 22.

r As the former Verse, so this also must be understood not of the Prophet, for he was not carried into Babylon, but of the People, whose Captivity is threatned in this place, and the cause of it declared, the Wrath of the Lord against them for their Sins, the Effects of which are compared to a fire which should burn them.

15 O LORD, thou knoweſt u, remember me and viſit me w, and revenge me of my perſecutors x, take me not away in thy long-ſuffering y: know, that for thy ſake I have ſuffered rebuke z.

u Either thou knoweſt my ſincerity, how faithfully I have revealed thy Will; ſo Pſal. 139. 1, 23. Or thou knoweſt my Sufferings, how wickedly they deal with me; or thou knoweſt what thou haſt to do, what is in thy purpoſe and reſolution to do, I will ſay no more unto thee; only for my own ſake I beg. w That I may not be out of thy Thoughts, nor without the Viſitations of thy Love, while this People is under the Viſitations of thy Wrath, Nehemiah 5. 19. and 13. 14. Chap. 18. 20. x Thou haſt commanded me not to avenge my ſelf, Lord! do thou avenge me upon my Perſecutors: (See the Notes on Chap. 11. 20. and 17. 18. how the Prophet could thus pray againſt his Enemies.) y Confirm thy Word, let not me be taken away into Captivity; though I be a Sinner, yet exerciſe toward me patience and long-ſuffering. z Lord, remember that my Reproach, and all that I ſuffer, is for thy ſake, becauſe I have faithfully publiſhed thy Truth, and maintained and defended thine Honour and Glory.

* Ezek. 3. 1, 3. Rev. 10. 9. † Heb. thy name is called upon me.

16 Thy words were found a, and I did * eat them b, and thy word was unto me the joy and rejoycing of my heart m, for † I am called by thy name, O LORD God of hoſts n.

a Either the Words which from time to time thou didſt reveal to me, were by me b greedily digeſted, and m though ſome of them were dreadful and terrible Words, yet becauſe they proceeded from thee, I was glad to hear them, and to be thy Inſtrument to communicate them to thy People, or (which better pleaſeth the Learned Author of our Engliſh Annotations, and poſſibly may be more the Senſe of the place.) thy Word of Commiſſion, (of which ſee Chap. 1.) by which I was made thy Prophet, was at firſt very grateful and pleaſing to me, I was glad at the heart, when thou at any time didſt reveal thy Will to me. n Thou art the Lord of Hoſts, and ſo able to protect thy Meſſengers. Lord, I am called by thy Name, I became a Prophet by thy Authority, therefore do thou own, protect, and defend me.

* Pſal. 1. 1. 17 * I ſat not in the aſſembly of the mockers, nor rejoyced o: I ſat alone becauſe of thy hand, for thou haſt filled me with indignation p.

o Some, and thoſe the moſt, interpret theſe Words, as an Argument the Prophet uſeth with God to obtain his favour, becauſe though the Country was full of wicked Men, ſuch as ſcoffed at the Denouncings of God's Judgments, yet he had no ſhare with them, therefore he deſires he might have no ſhare with thoſe wicked Men, in whoſe Company he had had no Delight, and in whoſe profane Contempt of God he had no ſhare: But the Learned Author of our Engliſh Annotations thinks, (and that very probably, if we conſider what follows) that the Words ſhould rather be Tranſlated thus, I ſate not in the Aſſemblies of thoſe that made merry; intimating, that though he rejoyced in his Heart when God gave him Commiſſion to be his Prophet, yet God had all along filled his mouth with ſuch dreadful Meſſages to be delivered to his People, that his whole Prophetical Life had been to him a time of Mourning and Solitude, p a time when he ſate alone, mourning and weeping in ſecret for the Wrath of God revealed to him againſt his People, and by him to be revealed unto the People.

* Chap. 30. 15. 18 Why is my * pain perpetual? and my wound incurable which refuſeth to be healed q? wilt thou be altogether to me * as a liar, and as waters † that fail r.

q The Words are judged to be the Words of Jeremiah, and that with relation unto himſelf, complaining of the hard Task which God had put upon him, continually filling his mouth with ſuch bitter Words of evil againſt the People, as expoſed him to their moſt implacable Rage againſt him, and Perſecution of him, ſo as his Miſery ſeemed like a Pain and a Wound, for which was no remedy but Patience. r Jeremiah, though a great Prophet of the Lord, was (as Elijah) a Man ſubject to like Paſſions with other Men; he here chargeth God with Unfaithfulneſs, as if he had deceived his Expectations, and had been to him as a Pit of Waters that promiſed fair, but failed a Man when he had moſt need of them. The Servants of God have ſometimes been ſurprized with ſuch Paſſions and Temptations, 1 Sam. 27. 1. Pſal. 77. 7, 9. It is an hard thing not to ſee, and yet believe.

* Zech. 3. 7. * Ezek. 22. 26. and 44. 23. 19 ¶ Therefore thus ſaith the LORD, * If thou return, then I will bring thee again ſ, and thou ſhalt ſtand before me t: and if thou * take forth the precious from the vile, thou ſhalt be as my mouth u: let them return unto thee, but return not thou unto them w.

ſ At the firſt reading of theſe Words, one would take them to be a Promiſe of God to reſtore this People to their former Rate, if they would reform; but upon a more wiſe and diligent Conſideration of what follows both in this and in the following Verſe, they ſeem rather God's Words unto the Prophet, rebuking his Diffidence and Diſtruſt in God, and promiſing him, that if he did return from that his Diffidence and Diſtruſt in God's Promiſe and Providence, t he would reſtore him to the former Favour he had had with him, and he ſhould be his Prophet to reveal his Mind to the People. u And if he would ſeparate the precious Truths of God from the vile Conceits of Men, or preach ſo as to diſtinguiſh good and bad Men one from another, then God would continue him as his Prophet, to ſpeak in his Name unto the People. w He chargeth the Prophet to keep his ground, and not to go over unto wicked Men, but to uſe his endeavour to reduce them to that Obedience which he yielded to him.

20 And I will make thee unto this people a fenced brazen * wall x, and they ſhall fight againſt thee, but * they ſhall not prevail againſt thee y, for I am with thee, to ſave thee, and to deliver thee, ſaith the LORD z.

* Chap. 1. 18. and 6. 27. * Ch. 20. 11, 12.

x Theſe Words are expounded by thoſe that follow. y Look as Men may throw Stones or ſtrike at a brazen Wall, but do it no hurt, ſo ſaith God, though thou ſhalt have Enemies that will be offering at thee, yet if thou continueſt ſteady in the doing of thy Duty, they ſhall do thee no harm. z For thou ſhalt have my power engaged for thee, to deliver and ſave thee from their malice.

21 And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked a, and I will redeem thee out of the hand of the terrible b.

a The wicked Jews. b And the power of the terrible Chaldeans, into whoſe hands thou ſhalt come, but be preſerved from any harm, by the Workings of my Providence for thee.

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet is commanded to abſtain from Marriage, from Mourning, or Feſtival Aſſemblies; hereby repreſenting to them their approaching Miſery, 1, —— 9. Their Sins which cauſed it, 10, —— 13. Their ſtrange Deliverance from Babylon, 14, 15. After that their Iniquity is recompenſed, 16, —— 18. The Prophet's Comfort in the calling of the Gentiles, 19, —— 21.

I THE word of the LORD came alſo unto me, ſaying,

2 Thou ſhalt not take thee a wife, neither ſhalt thou have ſons nor daughters in this place a.

a It is uncertain whether what we have in this Chapter, be a new Revelation, or a Continuance of his former Prophecy. God commandeth the Prophet in it under certain Types, to foretell their utter Ruin and Deſtruction. Firſt, he commandeth him to marry no Wife, nor have Sons or Daughters. He expoundeth this Command, Verſe 3, 4.

3 For thus ſaith the LORD concerning the ſons, and concerning the daughters that are born in this place, and concerning their mothers that bare them, and concerning their fathers that begat them in this land.

4 They ſhall die of * grievous deaths, they ſhall not be * lamented, neither ſhall they be buried; but they ſhall be as dung upon the face of the earth, and they ſhall be conſumed by the ſword, and by famine, and their * carcaſes ſhall be meat for the fowls of heaven, and for the beaſts of the earth b.

* Ch. 15. 2. * Ch. 25. 33. * Pſal 79. 2. Chap. 7. 33. and 15. 3. and 34. 20.

b God in theſe Verſes opens the Reaſon why he would not have the Prophet marry nor multiply Relations. In evil and calamitous times, thoſe who multiply Relations do but multiply Sorrows and Afflictions to themſelves; the Apoſtle in evil times tells the Corinthians that married Perſons ſhould have trouble in the fleſh, 1 Cor. 7. 28. and Chriſt pronounceth a Woe to thoſe that ſhould be with Child, and to thoſe that gave ſuck at the time when Hieruſalem ſhould be beſieged. God tells the Prophet, he was reſolved that the People of this Land, both Young and Old, ſhould die miſerable Deaths, and die ſo faſt, that there ſhould be none to bury them. They ſhould die by the Sword and the Famine, and be devoured by the Fowls and the Beaſts; and therefore it was better for him to abide free from Relations, for whoſe Miſeries he would be as much concerned as for his own Affliction.

5 For thus ſaith the LORD, Enter not into the houſe of ‖ mourning c, neither go to lament, nor bemoan them: for I have taken away my peace from this people, ſaith the LORD, even loving kindneſs and mercies d.

c מרזח. There is ſo great a difference in the Tranſlation of this Word, that Amos 6. 7. the very ſame Word ſignifieth a Banquet, and is ſo tranſlated, yet is there no Contradiction, for Banquets are now (and probably anciently were) in the Houſes of Mourning, as well as in the Houſes of thoſe that rejoyced. It appeareth plainly by the Words that follow, that the Apoſtle was here forbidden to go to Funeral Feaſts, or to lament and bemoan any. d For (ſaith God) I have, that is, I will take away Peace from this People. Poſſibly the meaning of God might be this, Do not go to comfort ſuch as mourn for any Relations dead, (for their Feaſtings upon thoſe Occaſions were upon a conſolatory account; thence ver. 7. you read of a Cup of Conſolation;) for ſaith God, they have no need of it; thoſe that die are moſt happy, for I will take away the Peace of this People, and deprive them of all my Mercy and Loving-kindneſs which I have hitherto ſhewed them.

6 Both the great and the ſmall ſhall die in this land: they ſhall not be buried, neither ſhall men lament for them e, nor * cut themſelves, nor * make themſelves bald for them f.

* Lev. 19. 28. Deut. 14. 1. * Iſa. 22. 12.

e There ſhall ſo many of all ranks and ſizes die in this land, that Men ſhall have no time to bury them, or there ſhall not be enough left living to bury the dead; nor ſhall Men, for their own own miſeries have leiſure to lament for the Miſeries of other Men. f Cutting themſelves in their fleſh, and cutting off their Hair, were Pagan Cuſtoms, which God forbad his own People, but yet it ſhould ſeem they practiſed theſe barbarous Cuſtoms, but faith God, I will put an end to that practice, Men ſhall die ſo faſt and in ſuch Multitudes, as they ſhall have no leiſure to cut themſelves, for ſuch as are dead, they ſhall not have ſuch ſolemn mourings as they have had.

[Or, break bread for them, as Ezek. 24. 17.

7 Neither ſhall men ‖ tear themſelves for them in mourning to comfort them for the dead g, neither ſhall men give them the cup of conſolation to drink for their father or for their mother h.

g If we allow our Tranſlation here of the word פרס with the word ſupplied themſelves, it will be hard to give a tolerable ſenſe of theſe words, for then tearing is the ſame with the cutting themſelves mentioned in the former Verſe, which though it might be as a paſſionate expreſſion of the perſons ſorrow that did it, yet how it ſhould comfort the friends of the deceaſed, will be very hard to conceive. But the Truth is, the word hath but two ſignifications, and we have here given it what doth worſt ſute this Text. It ſignifies to Divide, and to Tear or Rend. Both in Kal the firſt conjugation, and in Pihel the third conjugation it is uſed to ſignifie dividing; in the former, Iſa. 58. 7. where we interpret it deal; to deal, that is, divide thy Bread to the hungry; which is the only Text (excepting this) where it is uſed in this conjugation. In the other conjugation it is ſo uſed in many Texts, Lev. 11. 4. 5. &c. Deut. 14. 7. ſo certainly it ought to have been tranſlated here, Neither ſhall men deal out bread for them in mourning to comfort them for the dead, and ſeemeth to hint to us a cuſtom in uſe amongſt them, when they had any Friend, that had loſt his or her Relations, to ſend them ſome Meat or Victuals (for amongſt the Hebrews all things that they ate were called Bread) and then to go and Dine or Sup with them, to have opportunity to ſpeak comfortably to them. This doubtleſs is the ſenſe of the words, and ſo it is plain enough, and this is confirmed by the next Phraſe. h Neither ſhall men drink the cup of conſolation for their father, &c. as in ſuch caſes they were wont to have ſomething to eat, ſo they were alſo wont to ſend Bottles of Wine, or other chearing Liquor to drink, that they might forget their ſorrows; this is called, The cup of conſolation, from the end for which the ſending and drinking of it was intended. God tells them that the time ſhould come that ſo many ſhould die, and ſo faſt, and the reſt ſhould be ſo much upon the brink of the Grave, that they ſhould have no leiſure for, or heart to theſe Ceremonies.

8 Thou ſhalt not alſo go into the houſe of feaſting, to ſit with them to eat and to drink i.

i God did not only forbid his Prophet, to go into houſes of mourning, to eat and to drink according to their Cuſtom, to comfort thoſe who had loſt their friends, but he forbad him alſo to go into Houſes, where they were wont to eat, and to drink upon a more chearful account.

9 For thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold * I will cauſe to ceaſe out of this place in your eyes, and in your days, the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladneſs, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride k.

* Iſa. 24. 7, 8. Chap. 7. 34. & 25. 10. Ezek. 26. 13.

k And he declares that he laid this injunction upon him as a Type that his Countrymen by ſuch his forbearance, might underſtand, that God in his Providence was about to put an end to all their Civil mirth in their days.

10 ¶ And it ſhall come to paſs when thou ſhalt ſhew this people all theſe words l, and they ſhall ſay unto thee, * Wherefore hath the LORD pronounced all this great evil againſt us? or what is our iniquity? or what is our ſin that we have committed againſt the LORD our God m?

* Chap. 5. 19. & 13. 12.

l Or all theſe things, when thou ſhalt be obſerved by this people to refuſe Marriage, and to go to the Houſes of Mourners, according to the Cuſtom, to eat or to drink with Mourners, to make them to forget their Sorrows, or to go into the Houſe of Feaſting for Jollity and Mirth, and they ſhall ask the reaſon of thy ſingularity in this Behaviour, and thou ſhalt give them the reaſon of it, according as I have inſtructed thee, and they m ſhall pretend to be at a loſs, to know the reaſon why God is ſo ſevere againſt them, for what ſin or iniquity it is, thinking perhaps that Manaſſes or Jehoiakim's commanding them to worſhip Idols would excuſe them, and only leave their Superiours guilty, for otherwiſe, while there was ſuch plain Idolatry amongſt them, they could not be ignorant of cauſe ſufficient that God had, conſidering the multiplied threats in the Law.

11 Then ſhalt thou ſay unto them, Becauſe your fathers n have forſaken me, ſaith the LORD, and have walked after other gods, and ſerved them, and have worſhipped them, and have forſaken me, and have not kept my law.

n The Idolatrous Kings of Judah that were before Manaſſes his time, ſince whoſe time there were hardly forty years yet elapſed.

12 And ye o have done * worſe than your fathers (for behold ye walk every one after the ‖ imagination of his evil heart, that they might not hearken unto me.)

* Ch. 7. 26. ‖ Or, ſtubbornneſs.

o Ye in latter Ages, in the time of Manaſſes, have done worſe than your Fathers did, and now in the time of Jehoiakim, you run on much in the ſame courſe of Idolatry and Superſtition, which in this is worſe in you, becauſe for thirty Years together you had the better Example of good Joſiah the Father of your preſent King, together with what his Authority could do to reduce you; he hath not been gone now above five years, and you are returned to your old Vomit, and are all of you ſerving me according to your own fancies, ſo ſtubborn are you, and reſolved againſt obedience to me.

13 * Therefore will I caſt you out of this land, into a land that ye know not, neither ye, nor your fathers p, and there ye ſhall ſerve other Gods day and night, where I will ſhew you no favour q.

* Deut. 4. 27. & 28. 36, 64, 65.

p You would not hearken to me to obey my voice in that good Land, which I gave you, and which you have known, and inherited now many Years, therefore I will throw you out into a Land which you know not, and which your Fathers knew not. q You would not ſerve me in this Land, but choſe to ſerve other Gods in my Land; you ſhall ſerve other Gods in a ſtrange Land, you ſhall there have no ſuch opportunities as you have here at Hieruſalem, to worſhip me the true God according to the preſcription and direction of my Word, ye ſhall there have no Gods elſe but Idols to worſhip, and what is now matter of choice to you, ſhall then be forced upon you, the Governours of thoſe Countries into which you ſhall be carried, ſhall force you to fall down, and to worſhip their Idols, which was veriſied afterward by Nebuchadnezzar, Daniel 3. &c.

14 ¶ Therefore r behold the * days come, ſaith the LORD, that it ſhall no more be ſaid, The LORD liveth that brought up the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt.

* Iſa. 43. 18. Chap. 23. 7, 8.

r It were better tranſlated Notwithſtanding, for that is manifeſtly the ſenſe. God ſweeteneth the dreadful Threatnings preceding, with a comfortable promiſe of their Reſtauration.

15 But the LORD liveth that brought up the children of Iſrael from the land of the north, and from all the lands whither he had driven them ſ: and I will bring them again into their land that I gave unto their fathers t.

ſ Which he ſaith ſhould be ſo grateful a Mercy to them, that either in regard of the newneſs of this Deliverance, or in regard of the great Miſery they ſhould be in during the Captivity of Babylon, when they ſhould be delivered from it, they ſhould not ſo much remember their Deliverance from the Houſe of Bondage in Egypt, and magnifie God for that Salvation, as this new Deliverance of them out of this Captivity. t For he would certainly bring them again into the Land of Canaan, a Land which he had given unto their Fathers.

16 ¶ Behold I will ſend for many fiſhers, ſaith the LORD, and they ſhall fiſh them; and after I will ſend for many hunters, and they ſhall hunt them from every mountain, and from every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks u.

u Though ſome Interpreters make theſe words a Promiſe either of God's Reſtauration of this People and making uſe of Cyrus who as a Fiſherman or Huntſman, by his Proclamation fetched the Jews out of all parts of his Dominions, to return to Hieruſalem: Or of the Calling of God's Elect by the Apoſtles, who were God's Fiſhermen, and went up and down preaching the Goſpel in all places: yet the next Verſe rather guideth us to interpret it as a Threatning, and by theſe Fiſhermen and Huntſmen, to underſtand all thoſe Enemies whom God made uſe of to deſtroy theſe Jews, hunting them out of all holes and covers whereſoever they ſhould fly, and take Sanctuary.

17 For mine * eyes are upon all their ways: they are not hid from my face, neither is their iniquity hid from mine eyes w.

* Job 34. 21. Prov. 5. 21. and 15. 3. Chap. 32. 19.

w God is of purer Eyes than that he can behold iniquity in any ſo as to approve it, and therefore though he be long patient, yet he will at laſt puniſh evil doers, for his Eyes behold them, their ſins are open in his ſight, and he particularly obſerveth Mens Actions, that he may render unto every one according to his Works.

18 And firſt I will recompenſe their iniquity, and their ſin double x: becauſe they have defiled my land y, they have filled mine inheritance with the carcaſes of their deteſtable and abominable things z.

x Before I will reſtore them, and return in my wonted favour to them, I will puniſh them for their ſins which I have ſeen, which are ways of iniquity, and will plentifully puniſh them, (for ſo double here ſignifies, not the double of what their ſins deſerve.) y Becauſe by their Idolatry, Blood and Cruelty, and other ſins, they have defiled the Land which I own, and which I have given them. z And have filled that Country which I have choſen for, and named my Inheritance, with their abominable things, that is practices, or unclean Beaſts offered to their Idols in Sacrifices, or innocent perſons ſlain by them.

19 O LORD, my ſtrength and my fortreſs, and my Refuge in the day of affliction, a the Gentiles ſhall come unto thee from the ends of the earth, and ſhall ſay, Surely our fathers have inherited lyes and vanity, and things wherein there is no profit b.

* * Chap. 17. 17.

a The Prophet hearing God's Reſolution, before he ſhewed this People any mercy, to be avenged on them for their ſins, leaves off ſpeaking to him upon that Argument, but applieth himſelf to God for mercy for himſelf, and to confirm his Faith in him, gives him Names ſuted to his hopes in him, and which might declare his Faith in him for the obtaining favour from him in an evil day. b And comcomforteth himself with the thoughts of those good days that were coming, when not only the Jews should be again restored to their Country, but the Gentiles also from all parts of the World (whom also many of the Jews should accompany) should apply themselves to God, confessing that both they and their fathers, in their worshipping dumb Idols, had but inherited Lyes and Vanity, and things that were unprofitable.

* Chap. 2. 11. 20 Shall a man make gods unto himself, and * they are no Gods?

e It is doubtful whether these be to be understood as the words of God, shewing the unreasonableness of the Sin of Idolatry, or, as others who make them, the continued Speech of the Gentiles, who after their Conversion, should see the unreasonableness of worshipping the Works of their own hands. Whoso owneth a God, owneth an infinite being, a first Cause and mover, and Creator of all things. Now can any be so fottishly stupid as to think that a finite being, should give a being to an Infinite Being; that he who is a Creature, should make his Creator, that he should be a Cause to the first Cause? (things which are all contradictions to the common sense of Men.) A Man is no God himself, how can he communicate a Divine Nature, which himself hath not, to another?

21 Therefore behold, I will this once cause them to know, I will cause them to know mine hand, and my might d, and they shall know that my * name is the LORD e.

d Because all the goodness and mercy that I have shewed them, will not learn them to know me, my power and might, I will once for all make them to understand it, by the dreadful strokes of my Vengeance. e They shall know, that my Name is Jehovah; that I am not such a one as their Idols, but one who have my being from my self, and give Life and Being to all other things, and have all might and power in my hand, and can do whatsoever I please; and one that will make good whatsoever I have spoken whether in away of promise or threatning.

CHAP. XVII.

The Captivity of Judah for her sin, 1,—4. Trust in Man Cursed: In God Blessed, 5,—8. The Deceitful Heart and most secret Practices are known to God, 9,—11. The Salvation of God, 12,—14. The Prophet complaineth of the Mockers of his Prophecies, 15,—18. Of keeping the Sabbath, 19,—27.

* Job 19. 24. † Heb. Nail.

1 THE sin of Judah is written with * a pen of iron, and with the † point of a diamond a; it is graven upon the table of their heart b, and upon the horns of your altars c:

a There is much arguing amongst those that are critical about the true signification of words, what is here signified by שָׁמִיר which we translate a Diamond; most agree that it doth not signifie a Diamond (not used in ingraving) but that by the Pen of Iron, and the point of a Diamond, are meant some Tools with which they were wont to ingrave things upon hard substances, it may be made in a figure resembling the Claw of a Bird, as the word seemeth to import. b It is graven in their hearts they are so accustomed to sin, so inured to Idolatry, that there is no hope of any reclaiming them. For how can they that are accustomed to do evil, do well? c Nor is it a thing done in secret, but it is written or painted, or ingraven upon the Horns of their Altars, God's Altar was four-square, and at each corner there was a rising part made of Brass something high, these were called the Horns of the Altar. See Exod. 27. 2. Ezek. 43. 15, 16. Now their sin is either said to be ingraven, or published, upon the Horns of the Altar, because the Blood of the Sacrifices which they offered to Idols was sprinkled there, or because their Altars had some Inscription upon them, declaring to what Idol that Altar was consecrated, as the Altar of Athens had.

* Jud. 3. 7. Isa. 1. 29. & 17. 8. Chap. 2. 20 2 Whilst their children remember their altars, and their * groves, by the green trees upon the high hills d.

d This shewed how inveterate they were in this sin of Idolatry, that they taught it their Children, and their Children remembred their Idolatrous Altars, and the Groves, where they were wont to worship Idols by the green Trees, as they did also upon the high Hills, so their sin was derived from one Age to another. Others think that the phrase rather expresseth their fondness of their Idols, and think it should be read, as their Children, they remember, &c. that is, they loved their Idols, and their Idolatrous Services, as they loved their Children, which also was true, yea, they that made their Children pass through the fire to Molech, loved them better than their Children.

* Chap. 15. 13. 3 O my mountain in the field e, I * will give thy substance, and all thy treasures to the spoil, and thy high places for sin, throughout all thy borders f.

e O Mount Zion, for though Jerusalem stood in a Plain, yet it was at the foot of an Hill, and part of it was built upon the side of the Hill, upon the top of which Hills, were many pleasant Fields. Or, O Judah, which was a Countrey full of Mountains, God calls it his Mountain, because of the particular favour he had to this Countrey. f He threatneth to give all the Riches of the Inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem as a spoil, and all the High Places where they had committed Idolatry throughout all their Countrey into the Enemies hands.

† Heb in thy self. 4 And thou, even † thy self shalt discontinue from thine heritage which I gave thee g, and I will cause thee to serve thine enemies, in the land which thou knowest not: for * ye have kindled a fire in my anger, which shall burn for ever h. * Chap. 15. 14.

g In the word discontinue there is a secret promise, that they should again come and possess and inherit their Land, they should not lose their inheritance, but only discontinue their possession and occupation of it. Some learned Authors considering that the same word is here used, which is used, Exod. 23. 11. in the Law concerning the Sabbatical Rest, when they were to let the Land rest, and lie still, Lev. 26. 34. think this Text hath a reference to that, and the meaning is, thou shalt discontinue thy Ploughing and Tilling the Land. h And go into thine Enemies Countrey and serve them in a Land of which thou hast no knowledge, because by thine Idolatry and other sins thou hast increased my Wrath into such a fire, as shall burn for a long time, for so the word ever is oft taken, Exod. 21. 6. Deut. 15. 17. Psal. 89. 1. Isa. 34. 10.

5 ¶ Thus saith the LORD, Cursed be the man, that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD i.

i It was the great sin of this People, for which they are often taxed in Holy Writ, 2 Chron. 16. 7. and 28. 26, 20. Isa. 30. 1, 2. and 31. 1, 2. when any danger threatned them for their sins, to make Leagues with, and flee to foreign idolatrous Nations to help and succour them, and to repose a confidence in them, and so bolster up themselves in their wicked and sinful courses promising themselves deliverance from the dangers that threatned them, by the power of their Confederates, and Allies. This sin the Prophet here reflecteth upon. That while their hearts departed from God, they would yet incourage themselves, from the hoped for help of Men: The Prophet from God declares that such are and shall be cursed, and mentioned Man, under the notion of Flesh, to shew his frailty, and impotency, to help against the mighty Power and Wrath of God; withal shewing us, That God alone is the true object of our Faith and Confidence, as well for the things of this Life, as those of another Life, and that none whose heart departeth from God, can with any security look for any help from the Creature.

6 For he shall be * like the heath in the desart, and shall not see when good cometh, but shall inhabit the parched places in the wilderness, in a salt land and not inhabited k. * Chap. 48. 6.

k The sum is, he shall not thrive, nor prosper, but be like the Heath, by which is meant some barren Shrub or Tree, about which the various guesses of Interpreters (which the Reader that is curious may find in the English Annotations) are but incertainties, and this planted in the Wilderness too which is a barren soil, which Tree or Plant is never the better for all the moisture that comes from Heaven, nor for all the Beams of the Sun; but stands in a dry and salt place, not inhabited by People. The scope is to let us know, that sinners who depart from God, and do not place their confidence in him in times of danger, but trust in Creature-aids and assistances, shall miss of those very good things which they might have had if they had expected them from him, from whom alone they could have been obtained.

7 * Blessed is the man that trusteth in the LORD, and whose hope the LORD is l. * Psal. 2. 12 & 34. 10. & 125. 1. Prov. 16. 20. Isa. 30. 18

l Trusting in the Lord necessarily implieth also a walking close with him, and not in heart departing from him; for it is naturally impossible, that any should repose a confidence in another for any good things, which that other hath promised under any condition, without some satisfaction in himself, that he hath in some measure fulfilled the condition upon which the promise is made. But that Man that truly trusteth and hopeth in the Lord is, and shall be a blessed Man.

8 For he shall be as a * tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green, and shall not be careful in the year of ‖ drought, neither shall cease from yielding her fruit m. * Job 8. 16. Psal. 1. 3. ‖ Or, restraint.

m The sum is, he shall be prosperous and successful in his Counsels, and Undertakings; like a Tree planted by the side of a River, which is not affected with drought, but in a time when the leaves of Trees standing in dry mountainous places parch and wither, its leaves hold their greenness, and its colour is not altered by drought, neither doth it cease from yielding fruit, but bringeth forth much Fruit when other Trees are wholly unfruitful.

9 ¶ The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked n, who can know it?

n The words translated deceitful, and desperately wicked, are very variously Translated, fraudulent, perverse, supplanting, he speaks to the Jews, that they might not lean too much to their own Counsels, Fancies or Understandings; but it is a proposition true concerning the Hearts of all the Sons and Daughters of Men; there is nothing so false and deceitful as the Heart of Man; deceitful in its apprehensions of things, in the hopes and promises which it nourisheth, in the assurances that it gives us, &c. unsearchable by others, deceitful with reference to our selves, and abominably wicked, so that neither can a Man know his own Heart, neither can any other know our Hearts.

* 1 Sam. 16. 7. 1 Chron. 28. 9. 10 I the LORD * search the heart, I try the reins, even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings o.

o Left these Hypocrites should pretend that their Hearts were not departed from God, or should say who then can judge us if none knoweth the Heart? Saith God, though no Creature knoweth the Heart of another fellow Creature, yet I know the Hearts of all Creatures, I search the secret Thoughts, and Counsels and Designs of all my Creatures, for I will judge them according to their Thoughts and the secret Motions and Affections of their Souls, according to all their ways, and the fruit of their doings. You cannot therefore mock me, and tell me your hearts are not departed from me. Psal. 7. 9. & 20. 12. Rom. 8. 27. of Rev. 2. 23.

‖ Or, gathereth young, which she hath not brought forth. * Psal. 55 23. 11 As the partridge ‖ sitteth on eggs, and hatcheth them not p: so he that getteth riches, and not by right * shall leave them in the midst of his days q, and at his end be a fool r.

p It is no wonder if we cannot be certain as to the sence of these words so far as they concern natural History, when we are not certain what Bird it is to which they relate; we translate the word Partridge. Others will have it the Cuckow; but certain it is that it is the same word which we translate Partridge, 1 Sam. 26. 20. and Cuckows use not to be much hunted after. How the Partridge is said to sit on Eggs and hatch them not, is yet a greater question. It may be occasioned so many ways, viz. either sitting upon Wind-eggs, or being killed before the Eggs are hatched, or having its Eggs destroyed by the Male Partridge, or by some Dog, or other Vermine; or its Nest being found having her Eggs taken from her, that it is hard to determine which the Prophet means; of all other I left approve of that which Hierome makes the sence, though the thing be true, (if we may believe Cassiodorus, and several natural Historians, Aldrovandus, &c.) That Partridges have such a love and desire to hatch young ones, that having lost their own Eggs, they will steal the Eggs of other Partridges and hatch them, which Birds being hatched, the young ones knowing the cry of their proper Dams, hearing them call, leave the Partridge that hatched them; (which is one thing quoted by Aldrovandus to shew the sagacity of that Bird) but if this were the sence the words would be as the Partridge sitteth on Eggs, and hatcheth them, but enjoyeth them not, whereas they are, hatcheth them not; that is, having lost them either by some Man that hath taken them from her, or by some Vermin or wild Beast. r So he that getteth an Estate by oppression or any cozenage or unrighteous Actions, shall lose it again before he cometh to die, and when he comes to die, shall understand what a Fool he was to take so much pains to no more purpose.

12 ¶ A glorious high throne from the beginning, is the place of our sanctuary s.

s It is much more hard to give an account of the connexion of these words with the former, than of their sence considered absolutely in themselves. Some would have them the words of the People, reckoning up another vain ground of their confidence, because they had amongst them the Temple of the Lord, which we know was what they mightily gloried in. Others would have them the words of the Prophet owning his and the good Jews confidence to be only in God, and themselves to worship God not in Groves or high places, but only in that place which he had chosen to be worshipped in, even in his Sanctuary or Temple, many other Conjectures there are, but these two seem to me the most probable.

* Psal. 73. 27. Isa. 1. 28. * Chap. 2. 13. 13 O LORD! the hope of Israel t, * all they that forsake thee shall be ashamed u, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth w, because they have forsaken the LORD, the * fountain of living waters x.

t That is, he in whom alone the true Israel of God can hope. u Those who forsake thy Law, and that rule thou hast given them whereby to direct their Conversations, first or last will be ashamed of such their disobedience. w And those that depart from what I have, as thy Prophet, revealed to them as thy Will, shall have no portion beyond the Earth which they seem so fond of. Or their Names and Memories shall vanish, and perish, and be presently extinct like words written in Dust. x Because they have forsaken thee who art the alone certain relief and comfort of any People, the fountain and original of all that good they can hope for.

14 Heal me, O LORD, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise y.

y Most Interpreters here understand the Prophet speaking in these words to God for himself; he represents himself to God as a Person wounded or sick, either with his sense of God's dishonour by the sins of the People, or with their Reproaches or Threatnings, and beggeth of God to heal him, he being he, in whose hand or power it was to heal him, and who could certainly do it. The argument is in those words for thou are my praise, he whom alone I have reason to praise for mercies already received, to whom alone I owe all my good things.

15 ¶ Behold, they say unto me, Where is the word of the LORD? let it come now a.

z Scoffing at me as if I had threatned them in thy Name without any order or direction from thee, as the Scoffers mentioned by Peter, said 2 Pet. 3. 4. where is the promise of his coming. This hath been the practice of all wicked Men hardned in their sinful courses, and resolved to go on, to put the evil day far from them, and to scoff at all Denunciations of God's Judgments, Isa. 5. 19. Amos 5. 18. a Daring the Vengeance of God and challenging God to damn them, or to execute the Vengeance with which he threatneth them.

† Heb. after thee. 16 As for me, I have not hastned from being a pastor † to follow thee b, neither have I desired the woful day thou knowest c, that which came out of my lips was right before thee d.

b That the words contain the Prophets appeal to God upon some reproaches cast upon him by this wicked people, as if he had thrust himself into the Prophetical Office, is evident, and reasonably well agreed by Interpreters, but they are divided about the fence of the word רָעָה, which yet always in Scripture signifies to make haste, or to urge, or press, the fence seemeth to be this. Lord! As I did not seek the Office of a Prophet, fo when thou wert pleased to call me to it, I did not decline to be a Pastor after thee. c Neither (saith he) have I desired to be a Prophet of these sad Tidings, those woful Miseries which thou hast made me thy Messenger to foretel. d I have spoken nothing but what was right in thy sight being what thou commandedst me to deliver as from thee, and so I know was right in thy sight.

* Chap. 16. 19. 17 Be not a terror unto me e, * thou art my hope in the day of evil f.

e Though these rebellious wicked Men affright and terrifie me, yet, Lord, be not thou a terrour to me, own and defend me as thy Prophet. f For thou alone art he in whom I place my hope and trust in a day of trouble.

* Psal. 35. 4. & 40. 14. † Heb. break them with a double breach. * Chap. 11. 20. 18 * Let them be confounded that persecute me, but let not me be confounded: let them be dismayed, but let not me be dismayed: bring upon them the day of evil, and † * destroy them with double destruction g.

g That is with abundant destruction. Concerning these Prayers of the Prophet against his Enemies, see the Notes on Chap. 11. 20.

19 ¶ Thus saith the LORD unto me, Go and stand in the gate of the children of the people, whereby the kings of Judah come in, and by the which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem h.

h Most think that here begins a new Prophecy, and therefore this Verse should have began a new Chapter. The Prophets were often commanded to publish such Revelations as they had from God, either at the Gates of the City, or the Gates of the Temple, Chap. 7. 2. and 19. 2. It is not agreed what this particular Gate was, at which the Kings of Judah were wont most ordinarily to come in, and go out, but the Prophet was also commanded to publish it in all the Gates of Jerusalem, that all might take notice of it.

20 And say unto them, Here ye the word of the LORD, ye kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, that enter in by these gates i.

i The word of the Lord equally concerneth the highest, and the lowest, the greatest Princes as well as the meanest Subjects.

* Neh. 13. 19. 21 Thus saith the LORD *, Take heed to your selves k, and bear no burden on the sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem.

k The Hebrew is, take heed to your Souls, intimating to us, that the Sanctification of the Sabbath is a great thing, wherein the welfare of our Souls is concerned.

22 Neither carry forth a burden out of your houses on the sabbath day, neither do ye any work, but hallow ye the sabbath day, as I commanded your fathers l.

l This Command for the Sanctification of the Sabbath, was given, Exod. 20. 8. repeated Chap. 23. 12. and 31. 14, 15. Levit. 19. 3. and 23. 3. Deut. 5. 12, 15. Ezek 20. 12. the bearing of burdens forbidden, was such as was for profit; for in some cases it was lawful to carry burdens for the saving the Lives of Men, or Beasts, and some learned Men justifie the poor sick Man carrying his Bed when he was cured, not only from the Command of Christ alone who could authorize him to it, though against the Rule of the Law, but because he had no further occasion himself to be there, and was not obliged by the Law of the Sabbath to leave his Bed behind him, himself going away; but no unnecessary Burdens, no trading Burdens might on the Sabbath day, be either carried out of the Gates of the City, or out of the Gates of any of their private Houses.

* Chap. 11. 10. 23 * But they obeyed not, neither inclined their ear, but made their neck stiff that they might not hear, nor receive instruction m.

m The Jews were a very covetous People, and their Covetousness as well as their other Lusts, were Temptations to them to prophane the Lord's Sabbaths, Neh. 13. 19. Ezek 20. 21.

24 And it shall come to pass, if ye diligently hearken unto me, saith the LORD, to bring in no burden through the gates of this city on the sabbath day, but hallow the sabbath day to do no work therein.

* Chap. 22. 4. 25 * Then shall there enter into the gates of this city, kings and princes sitting upon the throne of David, riding in chariots, and on horses, they and their princes, the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and this city shall remain for ever.

* Chap. 32. 44. 26 And they shall come from the cities of Judah, and from * the places about Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin, and from the plain, and from the mountains, and from the south, bringing burnt-offerings, and sacrifices, and meat-offerings, and incense, and bringing sacrifices of praise unto the house of the LORD n.

m The sum of all these three Verses is, that if they would sanctifie the Lord's Sabbath, they should either continue in, or be restored unto their Ancient, Civil, and Ecclesiastical order, they should have Kings and Princes in their former order and splendor, and Men should come from all parts of the Country bringing their usual Sacrifices and Offerings to the Temple, and those of all sorts. Some think this Promise is to be understood Synecdochically, one principal part of the Law of God, and such a one as was in their power to obey, being put for the whole Law of God. Those who desire to be satisfied in the niceties as to the terms and places here mentioned may find satisfaction in the English Annotations upon this Verse. The general sence is no more, than that both their City and their Temple, their Civil and Ecclesiastical State should continue, and flourish in that order wherein it was.

27 But if you will not hearken unto me to hallow the sabbath day, and not to bear a burden, even entring in at the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath day, then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be quenched o.

o A Threatning quite contrary to the former Promise, upon their acting contrary to the Duty to which that Promise was annexed. God would destroy their City, it should be burned with fire, and the highest and noblest Structures should be burned, and though the hand of the Enemy should do this, yet God should order them to do it, so as it should be a fire of his kindling, and therefore not like to be quenched, till it had effected that thing for which God so kindled it.

CHAP. XVIII.

By the Parable of a Potter, God's absolute Power and Disposal of Nations is set forth, 1.—10. Judah's unparallel'd Revolt: and her Judgments, 11.—17. The Prophet prayeth against his Conspirators, 18.—23.

1 THE word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

2 Arise, and go down to the potters house, and there I will cause thee to hear my words a.

a It is likely there was but one Potter near the place, or at least that there was one more noted and eminent than the rest, to whose House the Lord here sendeth the Prophet, intending there further to tell him his mind what he would have him publish as his Mind and Will to this People.

3 Then I went down to the potters house, and behold, he wrought a work on the ‖ wheels b.

‖ Or, frames, or seats.

b Jeremy yields a prefent and free Obedience to the Command of God, though he did not know God's meaning in it, and findeth the Potter at work, upon wheels or frames which he formed his Clay upon, to bring it into that form which he desired. For the true form of those Frames or Instruments it is hard to assert any thing, such kind of Instruments differing not only according to several Countries, but according to the several fancies of Workmen, getting Frames or Engines made fitted to their own fancies and purposes.

4 And the vessel ‖ that he made of clay c, was marred in the hand of the potter, so he † made it again another vessel as seemed good to the potter to make it d.

‖ Or, that he made, was marred as clay in the hand of the potter. † Heb. returned and made.

c That which we read of Clay may be read (as our Margent tells us) as Clay; that is, while it was yet Clay, it was spoiled in the Potter's Hand, so as he did not think fit to go on with his design as to the form of the Vessel, but made it into another form such as he liked best.

5 Then the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

6 O house of Israel cannot I do with you as this potter e? saith the LORD: behold * as the clay is in the potters hand, so are ye in mine hand, O house of Israel f.

* Isa 64.8.

e God now expoundeth to the Prophet his design in bidding him go to the Potter's House, it was to instruct or confirm him in the power that he had over his Creatures. f For, saith he, as is the Clay to the Potter, so is the House of Israel (and indeed so are all the Sons and Daughters of Men) unto God, God hath the same power over them, that a Potter hath over the Clay, and a greater right to do what he pleaseth with them, than any Potter hath relating to the Clay; the Clay is but the Potter's Purchase, not his Creature, but Man is God's Creature. God by his Prophet Isaiah made use of the same similitude, Isa. 45 9. So doth the Apostle, Rom. 9. 20. That God hath an absolute sovereign power to do what he pleaseth with the Work of his Hands, can be denied by no Men of sense, whether God useth this his Soveraignty in the eternal punishment of sinners, that is another thing; he hath a soveraign power, but he acteth as a just Judge, rendring to every Man according to his Works.

7 At what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom to pluck up, and to pull down, and to destroy it g.

g God thus speaketh concerning Nations, and Kingdoms more immediately in his word, or more mediately by his Prophets and Ministers, he told Jeremiah, Chap. 1. 10. that he had set him over Nations, to root out, and to pull down.

8 * If that nation against whom I have pronounced, turn from their evil h, I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them i.

* Ezek. 18. 21. & 33. 18.

h If that Nation leaveth off those sinful courses, which I have by my Prophets threatned with Judgments. i I will also turn from the methods of my fevere Providence which I had resolved in case of their impenitency to proceed in against them. There is a difference betwixt Repentance in Man, and Repentance as it is attributed to God, Repentance in Man must be, not only a change in Action, but a change of Heart; Repentance as attributed to God, never signifieth a change of Heart, or Purpose, or Counsels, but only a change in action, an alteration of the course of his Providence. Hence God in Scripture is said to Repent as in this Text, and Jonah 3. 10. And it is also said of him, that he is not as man that he should lye or repent, Num. 23. 19. 1 Sam. 15. 29. God never changeth his Counsels, or Purposes, though he often varieth his actions of Providence, according to the Behaviours of his Creatures.

9 And at what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom to build, and to plant it.

10 If it do evil in my sight, that it obey not my voice, then I will repent of the good wherewith I said I would benefit them.

∴ Speaking Verse 9. and repenting Verse 10. must be understood in the same sence as in the two former Verses. The reason of this is, because in all God's Threatnings and Promises of this nature there is a condition either expressed or understood. God's Threatnings of evil must be understood with this Condition, unless Men and Women repent and turn from their evil ways: And his Promises of good must be understood with this condition, if those to whom they are made be a willing and obedient People, and keep in the way of the Lord's Statutes.

11 ¶ Now therefore go to, speak to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Behold I frame evil against you, and devise a device against you: * return ye now every one from his evil way, and make your ways, and your doings good k.

* 2 Kings 17. 13, 23. Chap. 7 3. & 25. 5. & 26. 13. & 35. 15.

k The Lord fixeth a particular application to the more general Doctrine which he had before delivered. God had told this People, that though he had by his Prophet denounced his Wrath, and Anger, and threatned to pluck them up and destroy them, yet if they turned from their sinful Courses, he would shew mercy to them, and alter the course of his Providence. Now he tells them, that this was their case, God had a Work upon the Wheel against them, and was framing evil against them, and bringing ruine upon them, therefore it was their wisdom, now to return from their evil ways, and to make their doings good. Those who think that these Exhortations are vain, if Man hath not a power in himself to turn from his evil way, ought to consider, that none denieth, that Man hath a power in himself, by vertue of that common Grace of God which he denieth to no Man, to turn from such evil Courses as were before mentioned, viz. not to carry out Burdens upon the Sabbath day, not to bow down to, and worship Idols, but to worship the true and living God according to the prescription of his Word. In short, there is no Man but hath a power to do much more than he doth do, and so much as may serve to avert temporal Judgment, and although no Man without special Grace, beyond the outward means of Grace, hath a power to do whatsoever God requireth in order to his Salvation, yet he hath a power to do so much, as if he doth, no instance can be given of any to whom, so doing, God denied his special Grace, inabling him to do whatsoever God requireth of him in order to Eternal Life.

12 And they said *, There is no hope l, but we will walk after our own devices, and we will every one do the imagination of his evil heart m.

* Chap. 2. 25.

l There is no hope of us, thou dost but labour in vain in talking to us. m For we are resolved to run on in our former Race. It cannot be imagined that they should call the Imaginations of their own Hearts evil, unless it were in derision. The sum of what they said was this, Jeremy, thou hadst as good say or do nothing, as talk to us, we are resolved upon our Course, and if thou callest our Hearts evil, we cannot help that, according to the Purposes, Counsels and Thoughts of those our evil Hearts we are resolved to steer our Courses, we will not be guided by thee.

13 Therefore thus saith the LORD, * Ask ye now amongst the heathen, Who hath heard such things? The virgin of Israel, hath done a very horrible thing n.

* 1 Cor. 1. 20.

n God was moved at this desperate obstinacy and hardness of this Peoples Hearts, he appeals to the World whether ever any Heathens behaved themselves so toward their Idols which were no Gods, as this People had behaved themselves towards him. He calls Israel a Virgin, it is a term given to Zidon, Isaiah 23 12. and to Babylon, Isa. 47. 1. The horrible thing which they had done, was their forsaking God, their God, a thing not usual amongst the Heathens, as God tells them, Chap. 2. 11.

14 Will a man leave ‖ the snow of Lebanon, which cometh from the rock of the field o? or shall the cold flowing waters that come from another place be forsaken p?

‖ Or, my field's fora rock: or, for the snow of Lebanon: waters be for the cold waters.

o The Margins of our Bibles will let us know, that there is some Variety in the Opinions of the most Learned Interpreters as to the Sence of these Words; the general Sence is plain and obvious, that it is a foolish thing for Men to forsake God, who is the Fountain of all Good and Refreshment, and what Men do not use to do with reference to poor Creature Comforts, not to forbear to be named with God. But for the Grammatical Sence of the Words, cold waters, it is not so obvious. The vulgar Latin translates them, Shall the Snow of Lebanon fail from the Rock of the Field? The Septuagint, Shall the dust fail from the Rocks? Or, The Snow from Lebanon. The Syriack Version followeth them. The Arabick Version translateth it, Should the Snow fail from the Mountain of Bressis, and from Lebanon. The Chaldee Paraphrast thus glosseth, Behold, as it cannot be, that the Snow-water should fail from Lebanon. Pagnine seems to make Lebanon the Nominative Case, and renders the Sence thus, Shall Lebanon leave the Snow from the Rock of the Field. Our Translators supply these Words a Man, and so make that the Nominative Case, and make Lebanon the Genitive Case. Lebanon was a mountainous place in which were Rocks, it had also fruitful Valleys; Snow fell upon those Rocks, and upon a Thaw ran down into the lower Places, and was grateful to them as it moistned them, and made them more fruitful. p The latter part of the Verse seems as hard. Pagnine translates them, Shall other cold flowing Waters be forsaken? The vulgar Latin, or Can the other cold flowing waters be plucked up? The LXX and the Syriack, or Shall the water fail, violently snatched up, or taken away with the wind? The Arabick, or Should the foreign cool waters desist? The Chaldee Paraphrast glosseth, So the rain waters that come down, and the waters of the fountain that spring shall not fail. In this great variety, it is very hard certainly to assert the particular Sence of these Phrases, the knowledge of which depends upon some Affections, or Customs of those Places which we are not so well acquainted with. The next Verse is the best Guide we have, where the Sin laid to the Charge of this People, is their forsaking God; which Sin is here aggravated by this Topick, That Reason teacheth Men not to forsake a greater Good for a lesser, though that greater Good were but a poor Creature Comfort, not to be compared with God. This is the general Sence, Scope, and Sum of this Verse. So as we shall not need be very sollicitous to be able to assert the particular Grammatical Sense.

* Chap. 2. 13, 32. and 3 21. and 13 25. and 17.13.

15 Because my people hath forgotten * me q, they have burnt incense to vanity r, and they have caused them to stumble in their ways from the * ancient paths, s to walk in paths, in a way not cast up t.

* Chap. 6. 16.

q Forgotten and forsaken are much the same thing, differing only as the Cause and the Effect; for if Men remembred God as they ought to do, they would not forsake him. r By Vanity he means Idols; which are called Vanity, not only because they are in themselves nothing of what they are pretended to be, and because the worshipping of them is an high degree of Sin which is often called Vanity in Scripture, but because the Service of them is of no Use nor Profit, or Advantage; and any Expectations from them are idle, and vain, for which there is no ground at all. s Whether the False Prophets or the Idols are here said to cause them to stumble by receding from the ancient paths, is uncertain. The Words may either be translated paths of Eternity, or paths of Antiquity: the most and best translate it as we do, Quod verum primum, the ways of Truth are the most ancient ways. The ways wherein Noah, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and all the ancient Patriarchs did walk. t To walk in Paths, or in a way not cast up, not fitting for God's People to walk in, Prov. 15. 19. The way of the righteous is said to be a way made plain. Heb. raised up as a Causey. Wicked Men, in opposition to these ways, are said to walk in a way not cast up.

* Chap 19. and 49. 13. and 50. 13.

16 To make their land * desolate, and a perpetual hissing u: every one that passeth thereby shall be astonished, and wag his head w.

u Not that this was finis operantis, their End which they aimed at, none wisheth ill, or doth any thing designedly to bring Evil upon himself; but it was finis operis, the End these Courses would certainly issue in, they would bring the land of Judah to Desolations, and to be a Reproach. w So as Strangers that were wont to admire at the Prosperity of this People above any other People, should stand astonished, and wag their Heads at them in Scorn and Derision.

* Chap. 13. 14.

17 * I will scatter them as with an east-wind before the enemy x: I will shew them the back and not the face in the day of their calamity y.

x The East-wind is (or was at least in those parts) the fiercest wind: As the East-wind scatters the Chaff, so saith God I will scatter them. y And when they shall be in great Calamity and Misery, I will not hearken to them, I will not turn my face to them, or shew them my Face, but I will turn my Back upon them. I will not regard them Crying, nor hear their Prayers.

* Chap. 11. 19.

18 ¶ Then said they, * Come, let us devise devices against Jeremiah z: * for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet a: Come, and let us smite him ‖ with the tongue b, and let us not give heed to any of his words c.

* Mal. 2. 7. John 7. 48, 49. ‖ Or, for the Tongue.

z This faithful dealing of the Prophet with them, did only enrage them (as is usual) against the Prophet; they plot against the Prophet, how to be revenged on him, because he would cross their Humours, and would not prophesie as they would have had him. a We have the Church on our side; the Regular Priests and the Prophets, they know God's mind as well as he; for there is a Promise that the Law shall not perish from the Priests, nor the Word from the Prophet: The Priests and Prophets tell us other things than this Jeremy doth. b Let us smite him with the Tongue, expose him, by railing on him, telling Lyes about concerning him, representing him to be what we know the People hate, abusing him to his face, informing against him; or in the Tongue, let us silence him, command him to speak no more; or for his Tongue, for prophefying at this rate; c And for his Words let us not value them at a rush, nor at all regard them.

19 Give heed to me, O LORD, and hearken to the voice of them that contend with me d.

d The several following Verses, to the end of this Chapter, contain the Prophet's Prayer by way of appeal to God against these wicked Men; Lord (saith he) though they are resolved to take no heed to my Words, yet do thou give heed to them, and do thou take notice of those Men that contend with me. Take notice of what they say, not to confirm, but to cross their Desires, and to be revenged on them for them.

20 Shall evil be recompensed for good e? For they have digged a pit for my soul f: Remember that I stood before thee to speak good for them g, and to turn away thy wrath from them h.

e To require Good for Evil is divine; God maketh his Sun to shine, and his Rain to fall upon the just and unjust. To requite evil for evil, or good for good, is but humane, what the Nature of reasonable Men prompt them to: but to requite evil for good is diabolical, and the Character of those that are the Children of the evil one. f Lord, saith the Prophet, these Men have done thus, they have laid snares for my Life. g Though thou knowest, that as a Prophet I stood before thee, both preaching and praying for their good. h Their Wrath is kindled to a great height against me, and thou knowest my Business was both in my Preachings to them, and Prayers for them, to turn away thy Wrath from them. Lord remember this, both for Good to me, and for Vengeance upon them.

21 Therefore deliver up their children to the famine i, and † pour out their blood by the force of the sword, and let their wives be bereaved of their children, and be widows, and let their men be put to death, let their young men be slain by the sword in battel k.

i A dreadful Imprecation: we meet with more of the same nature, Chap. 11. 20. and 15. 15, 17, 18. We find also several such Imprecations in the Psalms, Psal. 35. 4. and 40. 14. and 69. 22, 23, 24, 25, 27, 28. and 109. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, &c. Hence a Question is raised, Whether it be lawful for God's Servants to pray for Evil against their Enemies. That which makes the Doubt is, Christ's Command to us, to pray for them that persecute us, Matth. 5. 43, 44. his own Example, and Stephen's, Acts 7. 60. See the Notes upon the aforementioned Texts. It is doubtless our Duty, to pray for the Conversion, Forgiveness, and eternal Salvation of our worst Enemies: so Christ prayed, and Stephen, but neither of them prayed for their outward prosperity in their Perfection and Rage; and without doubt we may pray against God's Enemies, that God would tie their hands, weaken their power, confound their devices. k For such other Particulars as are mentioned in this Verse, and the beginning of the following Verse, and such as David mentions, Psal. 69. we must know they were both Prophets, and did but pray to God to do that thing which God had revealed to them he would do.

22 Let a cry be heard from their houses, when thou shalt bring a troop suddenly upon them, for they have digged a pit to take me, and hid snares for my feet l.

l That is, let the Enemy break into their houses, which are in an ordinary Course of Providence, Mens Castles and Sanctuaries, and cause such Shrieks as use to be heard in such cases, for their malicious seeking my life by all secret practices.

23 Yet LORD, thou knowest all their counsel against me to † slay me not: forgive not their iniquity, neither blot out their sin from thy sight n, but let them be overthrown before thee; deal thus with them in the time of thine anger o.

m Lord, thou knowest I do not charge them fallly, though their Counsels have been fecret against my life. n Obj. Will some say, doth Jeremy here pray for the eternal Damnation of his Adversaries? Is this lawful? Sol. I do not think this is to be granted lawful, being so highly against Charity: nor that Jeremy in this is to be excused as a Prophet, for even Prophets had no such Revelations; but I take these Phrases to be expounded by the next Words, Let them be overthrown before thee; and that all which the Prophet prayeth for is God's shewing some temporal Displeasure and Vengeance against them. For forgiving, and not forgiving sin, doth not always in Holy Writ signifie the discharging or not discharging the persons from the Obligation to eternal Death, under which Sin layeth them; but sometimes, the discharging or not discharging of them from the punishments in this Life, to which Sin doth expose the Sinner; and all Jeremy's meaning is, That however it should please God to deal with these wicked Men as to their eternal State, yet he would so far not forgive, not blot out their Sins, as that he would let some mark of his Vengeance on them in this Life, for their Treachery and Ingratitude to him. Whether we in it consider Jeremy as an ordinary Suppliant in this Case, praying in Faith, or as a Prophet, foreknowing what God would do, it ought to lay a Law upon all to take heed of being mischievous, and treacherous to others. It is seldom but God, before they die, repays such Men into their own Bosom, especially if it be against any who are God's Ministers or People; and that for their speaking to, or doing before them the Will of God: It is a Sin seldom escapes without a temporal Vengeance; and if such Men be saved at last, it will be as through Fire. God will mind them that he hath said, Touch not mine Anointed, and do my Prophets no harm, 1 Chron. 16. 22. Psal. 105. 15.

CHAP. XIX.

Under the Type of breaking a Potters Veſſel is foreſhewn the Deſolation of the Jews for their Sins committed in the Valley of Hinnom and elſewhere, 1,—15.

1 THus ſaith the LORD, Go and get a potters earthen bottel a, and take of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the prieſts b.

a Criticks diſpute the Figure and Faſhion of this Bottel, (Vid. the Engliſh Annotations, and Mr. Pool's Latin Synopſis) but that is not much material, for God's Deſign was only to ſhew the fragility of this people, how eaſily he could break them, and how certainly he would break them in pieces. b For the more publick notice of this typical Action, Jeremy is commanded to take for Witneſſes, ſome of the graveſt of the people, and of the Prieſts: Whether they were Members of the Sanhedrim, (which was made up of thoſe two ſorts) or not, the Scripture ſaith not.

2 And go forth unto the valley of the ſon of Hinnom c, which is by the entry of the † eaſt-gate, and proclaim there the words that I ſhall tell thee d.

d We ſhall hereafter hear why God commanded Jeremiah to go thither rather than to another place, to break this earthen pot. This Valley was a place very near unto Hieruſalem, of which one Hinnom was Owner in Joſhua's time, Joſ. 15. 8. and 18. 16. The Valley is in Scripture ſometimes called Ge-hinnom, from whence came the Greek Word Gehenna, uſed by our Saviour for Hell, Matth. 5. 22. εἰς τὴν γέενναν τοῦ πυρός, becauſe of the helliſh Torments they there put their Children to when they ſacrificed them, and of the helliſh Cries they made. d In the Hebrew it is the Sun-gate, ſuppoſed to be ſo called, becauſe the Sun riſeth in the Eaſt. This Valley is ſaid to have lien very near to this Gate; thither Jeremy is commanded to go, and there to proclaim the following Words.

3 And ſay, Hear ye the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah, and inhabitants of Jeruſalem, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold I will bring evil upon this place, the which whoſoever heareth, his ears ſhall tingle e.

e That is, a very great Evil; it is an Hebrew way of expreſſion, which we alſo find, 1 Sam. 3. 11. 2 Kings 21. 12. As a very great glaring Light affects our eyes, and blindeth them, ſo a very great Sound affecteth the Ear, and makes it tingle, and for ſome time deaf: This God commandeth the Prophet to proclaim, as particularly directed to all, both high and low, as well the Kings of Judah, as the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

* Iſa. 65. 11. Chap. 2. 13, 17, 19. and 15. 6. and 17. 13.

4 Becauſe they have * forſaken me f, and have eſtranged this place g, and have burnt incenſe in it unto other gods h, whom neither they nor their fathers have known, nor the kings of Judah, and have filled this place with the blood of innocents i.

f The Laws, Statutes, and Ordinances which God had given them, to direct them both in their religious Behaviour towards him, and in their civil Converſations. g Either this City, or this Temple, (which ſtood very nigh to this Valley) or this particular Valley, which they had turned to an uſe quite contrary to the end for which God gave it them; h for in it they had paid a religious Homage to Idols, ſtrange Idols which their Fathers knew not, i and had filled that place with the blood of ſuch as had not deſerved Death, either innocent Men, or Children, that they had there ſacrificed to Idols; of which he afterward ſpeaketh more particularly.

5 They have built alſo the high places of Baal, to burn their ſons with fire for burnt-offerings unto Baal k, which I commanded not, nor ſpake it, neither came it into my mind l.

k This, and the following Verſe, contain another great Sin of this People, with the Puniſhment which God proportioneth to it. The Sin in the general was Idolatry, but a moſt barbarous Species of it, mentioned alſo Chap. 7. 31. and 32. 35. where it is ſaid, they made their Sons and their Daughters paſs through the Fire to Molech; the place where they did it is called Tophet, Verſe 6. of which alſo mention is made Iſa. 30. 33. Chap. 7. 21, 32. For the opening of this Text, as alſo of thoſe other Texts that mention this Idolatry, we muſt open what is meant by Baal, Moloch, Tophet, and the Valley of the Son of Hinnom. There is no doubt but Baal, and Molech, or Moloch, ſignifie the ſame thing; Baal ſignifieth a Lord, Molech a King. They ordinarily called their Idols by theſe Names; as alſo Malcham, Zeph. 1. 5. upon which account God would not be called Baal, Hoſ. 2. 16. though he was called Jehovah, Elohim, and Adonai, all which ſignified Lord, as Baal did. Both Baal and Molech ſeem common Names to all Idols. There was more than one Idol in the Houſe of Baal, 2 Kings 10. 26. The Ammonites called their principal Idol Milcom and Molech, as appears from 1 Kings 11. 5. 2 Kings 23. 13. To this Idol they ſacrificed their Children. It was a very ancient Idolatry, as appeareth by the very early Law of God againſt it, Lev. 20. 3, 4, 5. Some ſay it was derived from Saturn, whom they make contemporary with Debora and Barak, who, to appeaſe the Gods in an imminent Danger, ſacrificed his Son. Others ſay it began in the time of Serug the Father of Nahor, of whom we read Gen. 11. 20. and that it had its Original from the Devil, ſpeaking out of the Belly of ſome dead Perſons, commanding this Homage, poſſibly in Imitation of God, who Gen. 22. 2. to try Abraham's Obedience, commanded him to offer up Iſaac upon the Mount Moriah. We muſt know there were other Sacrifices they offered to Baal: they burnt Incenſe to Baal, 2 Kings 23. 5. They offered Sacrifices and Burnt-offerings of Beaſts, 1 Kings 18. 26. 2 Kings 10. 24. only in ſome extraordinary Straits to ſhew their great Obedience to the Devil, they offered their Children. What Creature they worſhipped under this Name is not certain, but very probably it was the Sun, from 2 Kings 23. 5. or ſome ſuperiour Being, which they owned as their ſupreme Lord and King, which they, ſome of them, miſtook the Sun, Moon, and Stars to be; they being glorious Beings removed out of Mens Knowledge, ſo as they had not ſufficient means to underſtand their Natures, might, conſidering their Motions, and vaſt Influence they had upon all other Creatures, miſtake them for Animate and ſupreme Beings, to which as they paid other Homages, (ſuch as ſwearing by them, Zeph. 1. 5. burning Incenſe, offering Beaſts, praying to them,) ſo in imitation of the Heathens, and in a pretence of high Devotion, and Homage in ſome ſpecial Caſes and Straits, they offered their Children. Some think they only made them go through the fire, but did not burn them; and indeed, ſo moſt of the Scriptures expreſs this abominable Idolatry; but ſome Scriptures ſpeak it plain enough, that they actually burnt them: the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 106. 37. ſaith, They ſhed innocent blood, even the blood of their ſons and daughters, whom they ſacrificed to the Idols of Canaan, and the land was polluted with blood, which it could not have been by their Children merely paſſing through the fire; and it is laid to their Charge, Ezek. 16. 20, 21. Thou haſt taken thy Sons and thy Daughters, whom thou haſt born unto me, and thoſe haſt thou ſacrificed to them to be devoured. 21. That thou haſt ſlain my Children, and delivered them to cauſe them to paſs through the fire for them. We read of the Idolatry of Jeroboam, who worſhipped the true God, but by Calves ſet up at Dan and Bethel. Ahab exceeded this, bringing in the terminative Worſhip of the Creatures, worſhipping the Sun, Moon, and Stars, under the Name of Baal: but the firſt in Judah, of whom we read, that he made his Son to paſs through the fire, was Ahaz, the Father of Hezekiah, 2 Kings 10. 3. He was followed by his Grandchild Manaſſeh, 2 Kings 21. 6. Joſiah, the good Son of a bad Father, deſiled the place where this abominable Idolatry was committed, 2 Kings 23. 10. The place where they committed this horrible Abomination, was the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, very near the City, and the particular place was called Tophet. There was an high place built for the Idol, and many think, that the Name Tophet ariſeth from their uſe of a Drum or Tabret, with which while the poor Children were burning, they made great noiſes to drown the ſound of the Childrens Tellings; tho others think, the Word Tophet originally ſignifies Hell, or the place of the Damned, of which this place, both for the torments and roarings in it, was a lively Repreſentation. Now of this barbarous and horrible Idolatry God ſaith, I He commanded them not, neither came it into his mind. It was ſo far from it, that God had moſt ſeverely forbid it, Lev. 20. 2, 3, 4, 5. making it a capital Crime for any to do it, and for any to conceal others that they knew did it: ſo that here is a Meioſis, leſs ſpoken than was true in the caſe; but poſſibly God's expreſſing a thing of this nature, being an Error in his Worſhip, under theſe ſoft terms, I commanded them not, neither did it come into my mind, giveth no ſmall ground to conſiderate Men to judge, that we muſt have a Command from God, though not for every individual Act of our Worſhip, nor for every Circumſtance of humane Action which we do in his Worſhip, yet for every ſpecifical religious Act, and for any thing whereby we pay an Homage to God; it being indeed the moſt reaſonable thing imaginable, that God ſhould have the ſame Privilege which every Prince or great Man amongſt Men claimeth as his Right, to preſcribe the Acts, Modes, and Methods, for his own Homage.

6 Therefore behold, the days come, ſaith the LORD, that this place ſhall no more be called Tophet, nor the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, but the valley of ſlaughter m.

m For this God, by his Prophet threatneth, that this Place anciently, in Joſhua's time called the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, and more lately Tophet, from the Noiſe of Drums and Tabrets there, whilſt Children were burning, ſhould have a new Name, and be called the Valley of Slaughter, from the multitude of dead bodies which upon the taking of the City ſhould be ſlain and thrown into this Valley. It was expounded Chap. 7. 32, 33. For they ſhall bury in Tophet till there be no place; And the Carcaſſes of this people ſhall be meat for the fowls of the Heaven, and for the beaſts of the Earth, and none ſhall fray them away.

7 And I will make void the counſel of Judah and Jeruſalem in this place n, and I will cauſe them to fall by the ſword before their enemies, and by the hands of them that ſeek their lives: and * their carcaſes will I give to be meat for the fowls of the heavens, and for the beaſts of the earth.

* Chap. 7. 33. and 16. 4. and 34. 20.

n In this place, amongſt others, I will make void all the Counſels that the Men of Judah and the Inhabitants of Hieruſalem, have taken to eſcape my righteous Judgments. I will fruſtrate all their little Arts and Deſigns to avoid the Dint of my Judgments. I will cauſe them to fall by the ſword before their Enemies, ſo as there ſhall be no way of eſcape for them.

8 And I will make this city * deſolate, and an hiſſing; every one that paſſeth thereby ſhall be aſtoniſhed and hiſs, becauſe of all the plagues thereof o.

* Chap. 18. 16. and 49. 13. and 50. 13.

o This is no more than we met with before, Chap. 18. 16. and ſhall again meet with; Mens Honour and Reputation is ordinarily very dear to them, it was eſpecially to the Jews, who valued themſelves much upon the Reputation their City and their Temple had, and the Security they promiſed themſelves from their right in the Holy City and Land. God tells them, he will make them as much a Scorn and Reproach, as ever they were for an Honour or Praiſe; as great a Wonderment for the Wrath and Vengeance he would execute upon them, as they had been in their flouriſhing ſtate for the Mercies which he beſtowed upon them.

9 And I will cauſe them to eat the fleſh of their ſons, and the fleſh of their daughters, and they ſhall eat every one the fleſh of his friend in the ſiege and ſtraitneſs, wherewith their enemies, and they that ſeek their lives, ſhall ſtraiten them p.

p Theſe were the miſerable effects or conſequents of the Famine, with which God had often before threatned them; the juſt fulfilling of God's Word threatned, Lev. 26. 29. Deut. 28. 43. and the accompliſhment of which our Prophet hath recorded, Lam. 4. 10.

10 Then ſhalt thou break the bottle in the ſight of the men that go with thee q.

q The earthen Bottle, which Verſe 1. he was commanded to carry with him into the Valley of the Son of Hinnom (where he now was) in the ſight of the ancients of the Prieſts, and of the People, the Men who there were appointed to go with the Prophet. This ſymbolical, or ſacramental teaching by figns, was much in uſe by the Prophets.

11 And ſhalt ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts r, Even ſo will I break this people and this city, as one breaketh a potters veſſel, that cannot † be made whole again ſ, and they ſhall * bury them in Tophet, till there be no place to bury t.

† Heb. be healed.

* Chap. 7. 32.

r A Name ordinarily given to God, here very properly, to let them know that he had nothing with his Lips, but what he had power by his Hand to accompliſh, being the Captain General of all the Armies of his Creatures. ſ God by ordering the Prophet to carry no other Veſſel, but one of Earth, had a deſign upon the breaking of it, not only to ſhew them that he would bruiſe, wound, or indamage them greatly, but ſo deſtroy them, as there ſhould be no preſent remedy. If a Veſſel of Braſs, Silver, Gold, &c. be broken, it may be mended, but an earthen Veſſel if broken, cannot be made whole. See the like Iſaiah 30. 14. t He tells them that this Topher, which they had made a place of barbarous ſlaughter for the Children, kill'd for Idolatrous Sacrifices, ſhould continue for a Slaughter-houſe, but of another nature, even for them that had committed ſuch wickedneſs in it, who ſhould be ſlain there in ſuch plenty, that they ſhould want ground to bury dead Carcaſſes in.

12 Thus will I do unto this place, ſaith the LORD, and to the inhabitants thereof, and even make this city as Tophet u.

u That is a place of Slaughter and Buriall, or a baſe, ignominious place, or where the noiſe of Drums and Trumpets, and Cryings and Yellings ſhall be heard, as uſed to be in Tophet.

13 And the houſes of Jeruſalem, and the houſes of the kings of Judah ſhall be defiled as the places of Tophet w, becauſe of all the houſes upon whoſe * roofs they have burnt incenſe unto all the hoſt of heaven, and * have poured out drink-offerings unto other Gods x.

* 2 Kings 23. 12. Chap. 32. 29.

* Chap. 7. 18.

w Under the Judaick Law, perſons and places were defiled by touching dead Bodies, or any unclean filthy thing; God threatneth in this ſenſe to deſile Topher, as it was laid before, it ſhould be filled with dead Bodies which ſhould be buried, or lie unburied there. He ſheweth that the aforementioned Judgment of filling places with dead Bodies, ſhould not be reſtrained to Tophet in the Valley of Hinnom, but reach to the dwelling-houſes in Hieruſalem, both their Kings Houſes, and the meaner Subjects. x The provoking cauſe of which ſhould be their Idolatry, which they had alſo brought into their dwelling-houſes, for they having flat Roofs, had upon them, though not burnt Children in Sacrifice to Idols, yet poured out Drink-Offerings to the Sun, Moon and Stars, and to other Idols.

14 Then came Jeremiah from Tophet, whither the LORD had ſent him to propheſie, and he ſtood in the court of the LORD's houſe y, and ſaid to all the people.

y Jeremiah had now diſpatched the Errand upon which God had ſent him to Topher, coming back by God's direction, he ſtands in the Court, which was common to all people, where the moſt might hear.

15 Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will bring upon this city and upon all her towns, all the evil that I have pronounced againſt it; becauſe * they have hardened their necks, that they might not hear my words z.

* Chap. 17. 23.

z He aſſureth the people from God, that he would moſt certainly juſtifie all his words, and bring to paſs all his Threats againſt that City, and that they muſt thank themſelves for it, for hardening their heart, ſo as all that he had ſaid made no impreſſion upon them, nor found any place with them.

CHAP. XX.

Paſhur ſmiting Jeremiah for this Propheſy receiveth a new Name, and a fearful Doom, 1,—6. Jeremiah's Impatience under their Treachery and Contempt, 7,—10. Rejoyceth in hope of Vengeance, 11,—13. Curſeth his Birth, 14,—18.

NOW Paſhur the ſon of Immer the prieſt a, who was alſo chief governour in the houſe of the LORD b, heard that Jeremiah propheſied theſe words c.

a The courſe of Immer was the ſixteenth courſe of the Prieſts, as we read in 1 Chron. 24. 14. Paſhur was his Son, that is deſcended from him through many Generations. b It is neither much material for us to know, nor very eaſie to determine in what ſenſe he is called the chief Governor of the Temple, whether he was Deputy to the High Prieſt, or the head of his courſe, which at that time waited in the Temple, or had ſome place as Captain of the Temple, to take notice of any Diſorders ſhould be committed there, contrary to the Law. Certain it is he was no High Prieſt, for then he could not have been one of the Courſe of Immer. c Either he heard Jeremiah himſelf (which is moſt probable) or ſome body told him what Jeremiah had propheſied in the Temple which was within his charge, and juriſdiction.

2 Then Paſhur ſmote Jeremiah the prophet d, and put him in the ſtocks e that were in the high gate of Benjamin, which was by the houſe of the LORD f.

d It is not ſaid how he ſtruck him, though ſome think it moſt probable, that it was with his fiſt as the falſe Prophet ſtruck Micaiah, 1 Kings 22. 24. e We are as uncertain what is here meant by Stocks, whether ſuch an Engine as is in uſe amongſt us to puniſh Offenders, which we call by that Name. Or, as others, an Engine like our Pillary, where Malefactors are faſtned by the Necks. Or, as others, with three holes, one for the Neck of the Offender, one for each Hand; or whether meerly a Priſon where he was kept all Night a Priſoner; the Heb. word will not determine us further than that it was a place of reſtraint, and where that will not determine, other Conjectures are as incertain as needleſs. f There is as much uncertainty as to the place, where this Priſon or theſe Stocks were; we are told it was near the Temple, and in the High Gate of Benjamin, but whether this was a Gate belonging to the Temple that opened toward that part of the Country which was the Lot of Benjamin, or a Gate of the City that opened that way, whether in the inner Wall, or outer Wall, whether called the Higher-gate, becauſe nearer the Temple, or upon ſome other account, are nice and curious Speculations, the determination of which, is of no moment for us to know.

3 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Paſhur brought forth Jeremiah out of the ſtocks g. Then ſaid Jeremiah unto him, The LORD hath not called thy name Paſhur, but ‖ Magor-miſſabib h.

‖ That is, fear round about.

g Poſſibly by this time the mad-brain'd Prieſt, thought he had done more than he could juſtifie by Law, for if he were a falſe Prophet, the Judgment of him belonged not to him but to the Sanhedrim. He had nothing to do to ſmite him, poſſibly he brought him forth in order to his bringing him before the Sanhedrim; but it doth not appear that he did ſo, tho' Jeremiah's following words to him might reaſonably be thought provocative enough if he had deſigned any formal charge againſt him. h He had it ſeemeth no more to ſay to Jeremiah, but Jeremiah (to whom God had appeared in the Priſon that Night, while he was ſeparated from Communion with Men, and revealed to him, what end this hot-headed Prieſt ſhould come to) had ſomething to ſay to him. God's meaning was, not that he ſhould by Men be no longer called Paſhur (for doubtleſs after this he was called by the ſame Name he had before) but his ſtate and condition ſhould not anſwer the Name Paſhur, which ſignifies, as ſome ſay, a noble flouriſhing Prieſt; or, as others, one who by his Authority maketh others to tremble; but Magor miſſabib, that is, fear and terror on all ſides.

4 For thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will make thee a terror to thy ſelf, and to all thy friends, and they ſhall fall by the ſword of their enemies, and thine eye ſhall behold it, and I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he ſhall carry them captive into Babylon, and ſhall ſlay them with the ſword i.

i God now expoundeth the name of Magor-miſſabib, threatning to fill this wicked Prieſt with Terrors, that he and all his friends ſhould be affrighted, reflecting upon his moſt miſerable ſtate, and condition; and his Friends from whom he might poſſibly expect ſome relief, ſhould be as miſerable as he, and it ſhould be an addition to his miſery, that his Eyes ſhould ſee it, and ſee his whole Country ruined, ſome being ſlain by the Sword of the King of Babylon, others by him carried into Captivity.

5 Moreover, I will deliver * all the ſtrength of this city k, and all the labours thereof l, and all the precious things thereof, and all the treaſures of the king of Judah m, will I give into the hand of their enemies, which ſhall ſpoil them, and take them, and carry them to Babylon n.

* 2 Kings 20. 17.

k This is but the repetition of what God had often threatned, viz. The perfect ruine of Hieruſalem, and the Land of Judah. Their Military Men, or rather their Riches. l And all the fruit of their Labours. m And whatſoever was valuable in their eyes, or in the eyes of the greateſt perſons amongſt them. n The Babylonians ſhould make a ſpoil, and a prey of them all.

6 And thou Paſhur, and all that dwell in thine houſe, ſhall go into captivity, and thou ſhalt come to Babylon, and there thou ſhalt die, and ſhalt be buried there, thou and all thy friends, to whom thou haſt propheſied lyes o.

o Thoſe that teach others to diſobey the Commandments of God, ſeldom eſcape that Vengeance which cometh upon them who are ſeduced by them. Paſhur was one whoſe Office it was to have taught others the Fear of the Lord, and obedience to his Will, he teacheth teacheth them what was false, and is not patient to hear the Will of God. Jeremiah tells him he should see the Truth of it, for he himself should be one of those who should be carried into Captivity, and should die there, out of his own Country, and be buried there, and this also should be the portion of all his Friends whom he had seduced by his false and lying Prophecies.

7 O LORD, thou hast deceived me, and I was ‖ deceived p: thou art stronger than I, and hast prevailed q: I am in derision daily, every one mocketh me r.

‖ Or, enticed.

p The following part of the Chapter to the end of it, contains a Complaint or Prayer of the Prophet unto God, made (as some think) during his Imprisonment by Pasture, but the certain time is not known. Our Translators here might have translated the word פִּתִּיתָנִי more favourably than thou hast deceived me. It might have been thou hast perswaded me, or thou hast allured, or enticed me, as it is translated, Jud. 14. 15. 1 King. 22. 21, 22. Exod. 22 16. Prov. 1. 10. and 16. 29. Psal. 78. 36. The word signifies no more than by words to remove a Man from his own Opinion. That is doubtless, the sense here, Lord, I was not fond of this employment as a Prophet, by thy words I was removed from my own Opinion of my self, which might be spoken by the Prophet without any reflection upon God; it only signifieth his undertaking the Office of a Prophet at God's Command, not out of any ambition of his own. q But thou prevailedst against me. Jeremy at first excused himself to God, as we read, Chap. 1. 6. He said, Ah Lord God, behold I am a child and cannot speak; but the Lord prevailed upon him replying, Ver. 7. Say not, I am a child, for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak, Ver. 9. The Lord put forth his hand, and touched his mouth, and said, Behold I have put my words in thy mouth. This is all that is here meant by deceiving, viz. Gods over-ruling of him contrary to his own inclinations. r He complaineth that now he was in this Office, every one mock'd him and derided him, and that for the faithful discharge of that Office, to which God had called him.

8 For since I spake, I cried out s, I cried violence, and spoil t, because the word of the LORD was made a reproach unto me, and a derision daily u.

s If the particle be translated since, as we translate it, the meaning is, since I first began to be a Prophet, I have faithfully discharged my Prophetical Office, and that with some warmth and zeal. t Some understand it of the violence which he himself experienced; others understand it of those Acts of injustice and violence which were found amongst the People, he cryed out against them. Others understand it as a denunciation of Judgment. He prophesied that violence and spoil was coming upon them. u Because of that scorn and derision with which they treated him. But others think that it were better translated surely than because, as it is in many Texts, Isa. 60. 9. and 63. 16, &c. It is not much material which way we translate it, for it appeareth from 2 Chron. 36. 16. That this People mocking of God's Messengers, despising his words, and misusing his Prophets, was one great cause of the wrath of God coming upon them; and it is certain that Jeremy was made such a scorn and derision to them.

9 Then I said, I will not make mention of him, nor speak any more in his name w. But his word was in my heart as a * burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and * I could not stay x.

* Psal. 39. 3.
* Job 32. 18.

w This daily scorn and reproach which the Prophet saw himself expofed unto, for preaching against the sin and wickedness of the people, was a fore Temptation upon him to lay down his Imployment as a Prophet. He did not speak this openly, but he spake it in his heart, he had (as he confesseth) many such thoughts in his Breast. x But he saith he was not able to do what he thought to do, he found in his heart a constraint to go on, that when a Revelation came at any time from God unto him, it was like a fire in his Bones which he must quench, by uttering what God had revealed to him.

10 ¶ For I heard the defaming of many, fear on every side y: Report, say they, and we will report it z: † * all my familiars watched for my halting a, saying, Peradventure he will be enticed, and we shall prevail against him b, and we shall take our revenge on him c.

† Heb every man of my peace.
* Psal. 41. 9. & 55. 13, 14.

y The Prophet here rendereth a reason why he thought of giving over his work as a Prophet, his ears were continually filled with the Obloquies and Reproaches of such as reproached him, and besides he was afraid on all hands there were so many Traps laid for him, so many Devices devised against him. They did not only take all advantages against him, but they fought advantages and z invited others to raise up false Stories of him. They said to Men like themselves, Raise but you the Report, we will blow it abroad. a Not onely Strangers, but those that I might have expected the greatest kindness from, those that pretended most courteously, watched for opportunities to do me mischief, and lay in wait for my halting. b Desiring nothing more than that I might be enticed to speak or do something which they might make matter of a colourable Accusation. c That so they might satisfie their malice upon me. This hath always been the genius of wicked Men; Job and David both made Complaints much like this, Job 19. 19. Psal. 31. 13 and 55. 12, 13, 14. Thus it fared with Christ himself. The same Spirit which yet possesseth wicked Men, was found in wicked Men in all former times. And this ought to be a great relief to the people of God under the like measures, to consider that the Servants are not above their Lord, and wicked Men thus of old persecuted the Prophets.

11 But the LORD is with me as a mighty terrible one d: therefore my persecutors shall stumble, and they shall not * prevail e, they shall be greatly ashamed e, for they shall not prosper f, * their everlasting confusion shall never be forgotten g.

* Chap. 15 20. & 17. 18.

d The Prophet recovering himself out of his fit of Passion, incourageth himself in his God, whom he calls the mighty and terrible one, so declaring his Faith in the Power of God, as one able to save him and in the promise and good Will of God toward him; therefore he saith, The Lord is with me, such was the promise of God to this Prophet, when he first undertook the Prophetical Office, Chap. 1. 8. Be not afraid of their Faces, for I am with thee to deliver thee saith the Lord. e From hence he concludeth, that though he had many that pursued after his life, yet they should stumble in their ways of violence, and should not prevail. e That they should either be ashamed of what they had done, or be brought to shame for what they had done. f For prosper they should not, or they acted like Fools, and did not deal prudently for themselves (so this word is translated, Isa. 52. 13.) g They should come to a reproach and ignominy, and their reproach should not be like his for a time, but it should be a lasting, perpetual reproach that should not be forgotten. This was not only written for that Generation, but for all Generations that are yet to come, and hath been made good in the experience of all Ages past. The Persecuters of God's Ministers have found that God hath been with his Ministers according to his Promise, Matth. 28. 20. and that they have stumbled in their way, and not at last prevailed, that they have not acted prudently for their own good, and the good of their Families; that a perpetual ignominy clave to the memory of those who have been employed in this Work. There stands to this day a blot upon the memory of them who persecuted Isaiah, Jeremy, &c. The Apostles, and such faithful Ministers as have been since their time.

12 But, O LORD of hosts, that triest the righteous, and seest the reins and the heart h, let me see thy vengeance on them i: for unto thee have I opened my cause k.

b The Prophet had Chap. 17. 10. spoken unto God under this notion; here he appealeth to him as such, who therefore must needs see as well the Prophet's sincerity, as his Enemies Malice. i For his Prayer against his Enemies, it is of the same nature with what we met with, Chap. 11. 20. indeed this whole Verse is the same with that David, Psal. 58. 10. prophesyeth that the righteous should rejoyce when they see the vengeance which God brings on his Enemies; but yet the Prophet seems in this Petition to have shewed himself a Man (as the Apostle speaks of Elijah) subject to like Passions with other Men, for although God sometimes in his Providence, causeth Vengeance to come upon his, and his Peoples Enemies in their sight, yet whether they may absolutely pray for it is a question. See the notes on Chap. 11. 20.

13 Sing unto the LORD, praise ye the LORD, for he hath delivered the soul of the poor from the hand of evil doers l.

l The Prophet here riseth higher, from prayer to praise; it is not certain whether this was a rejoycing of faith, or of sense; a Thanksgiving to God, upon his Deliverance out of the hand of Pasture, or some other Enemies, or a rejoycing in the sure belief that God would deliver his life out of the hands of these wicked Men. If we take it in the latter sense, it teacheth us our Duty, to give God the honour of all our Deliverances from the hands of wicked Men. If in the former sense it sheweth us the power of faith, which being the substance of things not seen, and evidence of things but hoped for, sheweth us things to come as if already present, and teacheth us to rejoyce in the hope of those things of which we have no present possession.

14 ¶ * Cursed be the day wherein I was born: let not the day wherein my mother bare me be blessed m.

* Chap. 15. 10.

m This sudden change of the Prophet's stile, maketh both Mr. Calvin, and some other good Interpreters, think that these words proceeded from Jeremiah rather as a repetition of a former passion into which the Abuses of his Enemies had put him, than as the immediate product of his Spirit at this time. Whenever they were spoken, they speak a very extravagant Passion, to shew us, that though Jeremiah was a great Man, yet he was but a Man, encompassed with infirmities, and subject to like Passions with other Men. We find Job in the like passion, Chap. 3. 3. These great failures of God's people stand in Scripture, as Rocks in the Sea appear, to mind Mariners to keep off them, not to run upon them.

15 Cursed be the man who brought tidings to my father, saying, A man-child is born unto thee, making him very glad n.

n Parents are usually rejoyced when a Son is Born to them.

16 And let that man be as the cities which the LORD overthrew and repented not, let him hear the cry in the morning, and the shouting at noontide o.

o By the Cities he means those Cities mentioned, Gen. 19 25. Sodom and Gomorrah; by the cry in the morning and shouting at Noon, he means the shouts, and noises that Enemies make when they break in upon a place, in an hostile manner.

17 Because he slew me not from the womb: or that my mother might have been my grave, and her womb to be always great with me p.

p These various expressions do only let us see to what a tide passion swelled in this good Man's Heart, and teach us how much need we

we have to pray to be delivered from our own passions; Jeremiah's leaving these things recorded by himself, is one instance of what is brought as a rational argument to prove that only Men wrote the Scriptures by inspiration from God, they would never else have recorded their own gross failings, Men commonly writing for their own honour, not to their own defamation.

* Job 5. 10.

18 * Wherefore came I forth out of the womb to see labour and sorrow, that my days should be consumed with shame? q.

q These words let us know the Prophet's Temptation to these extravagant eruptions of passion, it was the reproach and shame, and affliction which he indured for the faithful discharge of his Ministry, which both lets us see the goodness of God towards those whom he spareth as to these Trials, and what need we have under them to keep a watch upon our own hearts. These Records also of Holy Writ are useful to us, if at any time we be overtaken with such errors, to comfort us, in that they are not such spots, but have been found in the Faces of Gods fairest ones: and to make us charitable towards such as we may see sometimes overborn with the like Temptations.

CHAP. XXI.

King Zedekiah in the Siege sendeth to Jeremiah to enquire of the Event, 1, 2. He foretelleth a hard Siege and miserable Captivity, 3, —7. He counselleth the People to fall to the Chaldæans, 8, —10. and upbraideth the King's House, 11, —14.

1 THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD a, when king Zedekiah sent unto him Pashur the son of Melchiah, and Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the priest, saying b, a God in sundry times, and in divers manners, spake in times past, to the Fathers by the Prophets, Heb. 1. 1. The two principal were visions and dreams, Numb. 12. 6. How the following word came to Jeremiah is not expreft, it is enough that he knew it came from the Lord. b It is apparent, some Prophecies in this Book are not put in the right order as they were delivered, Chap. 25. we have an account of the word of the Lord which came to Jeremiah in the fourth Year of Jehoiakim, who was the second Son of Josiah made King by Pharaoh-Necho, pursuing his Victory (mentioned 2 Chron. 35 22.) upon the Battle, in which Josiah was killed, as we read there. The people made Jehoahaz King, but he reigned but three Months, and the Conqueror carrying him away, made Eliakim his Brother King, changing his Name to Jehoiakim, who reigned 11 Years, that is 7 after the word of the Lord mentioned, Chap. 25. came to Jeremiah; after whom Jehoiakin his Son reigned three Months and 10 Days: Zedekiah was his Uncle, the Son of Josiah, he reigned 11 Years. So that it is plain that Jeremiah's Prophecy (mentioned Chap. 25.) was 7 Years and 3 Months before this, besides the number of Years that Zedekiah had reigned. But some think that Jeremiah, Chap. 23. 24, 25. doth but make a repetition to Zedekiah's Messengers of what he had before prophesied. This Message was (as appeareth by the next Verse) when Nebuchadnezzar was come up to make War against Hierusalem, Jer. 39. 1. Jeremy was at liberty, when the Word of the Lord at this time came to him, for as it was some time before the City was taken. The fatal Siege held about a Year and half, as appears by Chap. 39. 1, 2. The Pashur mentioned here, was another from him, mentioned Chap. 20. 1. he was the Son of Immer, of the sixteenth Course of the Priests; and of a more rugged ill Temper; this was the Son of Malchiah, and so of the fifth Course. Vid. 1 Chron. 24 9. 14.

2 Enquire I pray thee of the LORD for us c, (for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon maketh war against us) if so be that the LORD will deal with us according to all his wondrous works, that he may go up from us d.

c Zedekiah, as he was none of the best, so he was none of the worst of the Kings of Judah, he had some convictions and impressions (possibly from his Education) not worn off, and having some reverence of God, he sends to the Prophet to enquire of the Lord. Because the King of Babylon was come up to make war against them. It is true, the greatest Contemners of God and his faithful Ministers, will sometimes, in great straits, chuse to send for them rather than those who in their prosperity pleased them. Hence we read of Saul when he went to the Witch at Endor, desiring that Samuel might be raised up; but in Zedekiah's whole story we read no such eminent contempt of God, but a disobedience to the Commands of God, proceeding rather from his easiness to be ruled by his corrupt Court, than from a stubbornness in himself. d By mentioning God's former wondrous Works, possibly he may have a respect to God's raising Senacherib's Seige in the time of his Grandfather Hezekiah. The remembring of God's former wondrous Works, is of use to raise in us an hope and confidence in God for further Deliverances, supposing our selves under the same circumstances of Obedience to God's Will, otherwise not, as we shall see in the case of Judah and its King, at this time; therefore Zedekiah saith, if so be. Guilt of sin hinders Confidence, and holy boldness in the best; but as the guilt is greater, so the hope or confidence of any is justly less.

3 Then said Jeremiah unto them, Thus shall ye say to Zedekiah,

4 Thus saith the Lord GOD of Israel e, Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, wherewith ye fight against the king of Babylon, and against the Chaldeans, which besiege you without the walls f, and I will assemble them into the midst of this city g.

e The honour that the King of Judah had put upon the Prophet, in sending these special Messengers to him, is no temptation to this good Prophet to prophesie smooth and pleasing things, for which he had no Warrant from God. The Prophet stileth God the God of Israel, because the whole Posterity of Jacob were in covenant with God, notwithstanding which, ten parts of twelve were at this time carried into a Captivity from which they never returned, yet God was the God of Israel, for all were not Israel that were descended from Israel, but those only who were Israelites indeed, without guile; so that the Prophet by this Name given to God, doth both assert God's faithfulness to his Covenant, and also shew the constancy of that faithfulness, with those Judgments, which he was now bringing upon that remnant of Israel which yet were in their own Land. f The Message which God by the Prophet sendeth to Zedekiah, is exceeding terrible. The sum of it is, That as they had not dealt with God according to the Works of Israel, and the former Generation that defended from him, or those at least who were the true Israel of God, so they must not expect that God should deal with them according to his former wondrous Works, but that as he with the pure had shewed himself upright, so with the froward he should shew himself froward. For God had determined to turn into their own Bowels, and against themselves, the Weapons they had in their hands taken up against the King of Babylon and the Chaldeans that were now Besieging them, (by which we may learn that this Message was sent during the time of the Siege, probably about the beginning of it, for it lasted 18 Months) g God threatneth to bring the Chaldeans into the midst of the Holy City, that their City should be broken up, their Arms taken from them, and they killed with their own Swords. There is a great Emphasis in the Pronoun I. It is not an Enemy that is to be feared, but God's being our Enemy.

5 And I my self will fight against you h with an out-stretched hand, and with a strong arm, even in anger, and in fury, and in great wrath i.

h I will fight against you, (as a Prince is said to fight against a Nation, whose Captains fight against it, though himself stirreth not from his Royal Palace; yea more than so) animating and influencing the Babylonians and Chaldæans, whom I have sent to fight against you, and discouraging and dispiriting your Armies. i With such an hand and power as I manifested for my ancient Israel, Exod. 6. 6. God is here spoken of in a Dialect which maketh him more intelligible to us. He hath no Hands, no Arms, neither is anger and fury in him confidered as turbulent Passions, as they are in us; but as Men stretch out their Hands and Arms when they intend to give smart and terrible strokes, and are edged to such Blows from their Passions and excessive wrath, so God is set out to us by expressions proper to Men, and in him significative only of his just Will to be revenged severely upon a sinful people. The sence is no more, than that an end was now come, and God was resolved no longer to bear with such a provoking people, but to bring his utmost Wrath upon them, and to deal with them no longer according to his wondrous Works of Mercy, but in wondrous Works of Justice, which in Men would look like the effects of Wrath and Fury.

6 And I will smite the inhabitants of this city, both man and beast: they shall die of a great pestilence k.

k St. Il God proclaimeth himself this people's Enemy. Pestilences are but the usual consequents of long Sieges, through the scantness, and unwholsomness of Food, but God is the first cause of such fore Judgments, though these he other second causes. The Murrain of Beasts bears proportion to the Pestilence amongst Men, and the Beasts are threatned as well as Men, not because of any sin in them, but because Men are punished in them, they being part of their Substance; and this is a part of that Bondage of Corruption, from which the Creature groaneth to be delivered, of that Vanity to which they are subject, which maketh the irrational part of the Creation to be brought in by the Apostle, Rom. 8. 20, 21, 22. like as a Woman travailing in pain, and desiring the Day of Judgment.

7 And afterwards l, saith the LORD, I will deliver Zedekiah king of Judah, and his servants and the people, and such as are left in this city, from the pestilence, from the sword, and from the famine, into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those that seek their life m, and he shall smite them with the edge of the sword: he shall not spare them, neither have pity, nor have mercy n.

l After that many of the People of this City, shall be destroyed, some by the Enemy assaulting, and skirmishing with them; others by the Famine that shall be amongst them through a want of Victuals, being all spent with the long Siege; others by the Pestilence. m Zedekiah, who shall escape these three Judgments, together with his Courtiers, and the residue of the People, shall be delivered into the power of the King of Babylon, and into the power of such as will not be content with the plunder of their Houses, but thirst after their blood, and n these Enemies (set on by Nebuchadnezzar) shall smite them with the Sword, without shewing them any Mercy or Pity. This is not to be understood of King Zedekiah himself, for God let him know, Chap. 34. 4. that he should not die by the sword but in peace, as he did afterward in Babylon, though in Prison; but it was true of his Sons and Courtiers, and a great part of the People, Chap. 39. 6, 8. and 52. 10, Those who went into Captivity, were only such as had revolted during the Siege, and many of those that were of the poor of the Land, for the rest there was little pity had of them, or mercy shewed to them, as may be seen Chap. 39. and 52. 2 Chron. 36 17.

8 ¶ And

8 ¶ And unto this people thou shalt say, Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I set before you, the way of life, and the way of death o.

o I tell you the way that you should take, if you would save your lives; and the course, which if you take, you will certainly lose your lives.

* Chap. 38. 2. 9 He that * abideth in this city, shall die by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence: but he that goeth out, and falleth to the Chaldeans that besiege you, he shall live p, and * his life shall be unto him for a prey q.

* Chap. 39. 18. and 45. 5. p But certainly, if ever any Man spake High Treason, this Prophet now did it, when there was an Enemy besieging them, telling them, That if they would save their Lives, they must revolt from their King, and join with their Enemies. All that can be said in excuse for the Prophet is, that this was a Divine Revelation to him, and a Message sent to the King himself. q His life shall be given him for a prey, appeareth to have been a proverbial Expression, either signifying a Man's possession of his life as a Prey, or Booty recovered from Death, or the hand of the Enemy. 2. Or a Man's rejoycing in the saving of his life, as if he had got some notable Booty.

10 For I have set my face against this city, for evil, and not for good r, saith the LORD; it shall be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire s.

r That is, I will set my self against it, I will be an Enemy to it. See the like Phrase Lev. 17. 10. and 20. 5. It is a Phrase signifying not only God's Aversion from them, and the taking his Affection off them, but his Determination to bring Ruin upon them, and chusing Methods of Providence tending and conducive thereunto: and so it is opened in the following Words, which are rather to be understood of the Structure of the City than of the Inhabitants, for that not the People were burnt with fire, though probably many of the People perished in so great Burnings.

11 ¶ And touching the house of the king of Judah t, say, Hear ye the word of the LORD u.

t By the house of the King of Judah he means the House of Zedekiah, the Court, or those (as appeareth by the next Verse) who were the Magistrates. u These, how great soever, are not excused from the common Obligation upon all to listen to, and to obey the Revelations of the Divine Will.

* Chap. 22. 3. † Heb. Judge. 12 O house of David w, thus saith the LORD; * † Execute judgment in the morning x, and deliver him that is spoiled, out of the hand of the oppressor y, lest my fury go out like fire, and burn that none can quench it z, because of the evil of your doings a.

w He calls these the House of David, either checking them, who were indeed so in a lineal Descent, or minding them what they ought to be in imitation of their Father David. x The only way they had to keep off those Divine Judgments which now hang'd over their Heads, was to execute Judgment, that is, Justice, without partiality; the Prophet's Advice to them to execute Judgment in the morning, either lets them know they must do it quickly, or else it hath respect to the time when the Courts of Justice sate. y One Species of Justice, was the Deliverance of the oppressed from the hands, that is, from the power and malice of the Oppressors; which if it were not done, z God threatneth certain Ruin and Destruction to them, which none should be able to hinder, or avoid. a The cause of which was, their wicked Doings; for that God who doth People good, and sheweth them favour, not for their sake, but for his own names sake, yet never punisheth them, but for a cause found in them.

† Heb. Inhabitress. 13 Behold, I am against thee, † O inhabitant of the valley b, and rock of the plain c, saith the LORD; which say, Who shall come down against us? or who shall enter into our habitations d?

b The Inhabitants of the City of Hierusalem are those here intended, Psal. 125. 2. The Mountains were round about Hierusalem, yea Hierusalem it self was builded in part upon the rocky Mountain of Zion, but a great part was in the Valley, and the higher Mountains, about Mount Zion, made that Mountain it self, in comparison with them, as a Valley. c Though also a Rock of the Plain, that is, near to the Plain. Which situation of this place, made the Jews think it to be impregnable, and to mock at Dangers, or Threats of Enemies, saying, Who shall, that is, Who can, or Who will dare to come against us? Or, Who will be able to enter into our City? Saith the Lord, I am against you. I will come down against you, and I, by such as I shall employ, will enter into your Habitations. No natural position or situation of Places, no artificial Fortifications, are sufficient against an Almighty God.

† Heb. Visit upon you. * Prov. 1. 31. 14 But I will † punish you e according to the * fruit of your doings, saith the LORD f: and I will kindle a fire in the forest thereof g, and it shall devour all things round about it h.

e In the Hebrew it is, I will visit upon you; God's Visitations are either of Mercy, Psal. 80. 14. and 106. 4. or of Judgment; therefore the Sence is here rightly given by our Translators, punish. f The fruit of Mens Doings is the product of their Actions; God punisheth the fruit of our Doings. In shewing Mercy, he acts from Prerogative; in Punishments, he doth but fill Men with their own ways, and give them according to the fruit of their Doings; so Verse 12. g By the Forest he either meaneth the Forest of Libanon, or their Houses made up of Wood out out of that Forest, or their idolatrous Groves. h And this Fire he saith should not determine in the Destruction only of this City, but in the total Destruction of all the Country adjacent to Hierusalem.

CHAP. XXII.

God sendeth the Prophet to Court with Promises, 1, —— 4. and Threats against the King's house and Jerusalem, 5, —— 9. The Judgment of Shallum, 10, —— 12. of Jehoiakim, 13, —— 19. and of Coniah, 20, —— 30.

1 THus saith the LORD, Go down to the house of the king of Judah, and speak there this word a.

a Some by the King of Judah here mentioned, understand Jehoahaz, made King upon the death of Josiah by the People (being the second Son of Josiah) 2 Kings 23. 30. Others understand Jehoiakim whom Pharaoh-Necho made King, carrying his elder Brother Jehoahaz, after a short Reign of three Months, with him into Egypt, 2 Chron. 36. 4.

2 And say, Hear the word of the LORD, O king of Judah, that sittest upon the throne of David b, thou, and thy servants, and thy people that enter in by these gates c; b None is so great but he is obliged to hear the Word of the Lord. The Prophets mentioning him under the Notion of him that sat upon the Throne of David, both minds him of God's Faithfulness, who had promised that David should not want one to sit on his Thrones; and his Duty, to walk in the steps of him upon whose Throne he sate; and also of his Errors, he not walking in David's steps, though he sate upon his Throne. c The Word of the Lord concerned not the King alone, but all his Instruments in places of Magistracy, and also all the People of Jerusalem and Judea.

3 Thus saith the LORD, * Execute ye judgment and righteousness, and deliver the spoiled out of the hand of the oppressor: and do no wrong, do no violence to the stranger, the fatherless, nor the widow, neither shed innocent blood in this place d. * Chap. 21. 12.

d That is, Administer Justice to all your Subjects. The Stranger, the Fatherless, and the Widow, are particularly named, as Persons who have fewest Friends, and so are most exposed to the Lusts of great Men, who have a Power to oppress them. Two things are observable; 1. That the Terms upon which God promiseth Mercy to them, are such as were in their power to perform. 2. They are the due performance of relative Duties, to teach us how much sieth upon Mens just performance of the Duties of their Relations, and more particularly, how much God loveth Justice and Judgment, without the impartial Execution of which, no Princes, no Magistrates, can promise themselves Security from temporal Judgments: which much commendeth the Love of God to humane Society, Injustice being the greatest Enemy to it, and Justice the great Foundation and Pillar of it.

4 For if ye do this thing indeed e, * then shall there enter in by the gates of this house kings sitting † upon the throne of David, riding in chariots, and on horses, he, and his servants, and his people f. * Chap. 17. 25. † Heb. for David upon his Throne.

e If ye will not pretendedly, but really, give to every one their Due, and look that inferiour Magistrates acting under you do so. f Then, he doth not say you shall be saved: the Promise is only of a secular, temporal nature, of all Prosperity, and Continuance of the Family of David, with great Honour and Splendour; expressed by those Phrases of riding in Chariots, and on Horses. Though the Performance of moral Acts of Justice and Mercy, which Men may perform without any special Grace of God, be not enough to intitle them to the Hopes of spiritual and eternal good Things; yet they may intitle them to the Hopes of outward Prosperity and Happiness in this Life, Dan. 4. 27. Which is sufficient to demonstrate, That Mens outward Infelicities, and Sufferings under the grievous Judgments of God upon themselves, is from their selves; they might in a great measure avoid them, by doing such Acts as are in their power to do.

5 But if ye will not hear these words g, I swear by my self, saith the LORD, that this house shall become a desolation h.

g By hearing, the Prophet meaneth hearkning to, and obeying. God accounteth us to hear no more than we practise. h If (saith the Prophet) you will not execute Judgment, &c. I give you the greatest Assurance imaginable, that this noble House of David shall become a Desolation. The Apostle saith, that God, because he could swear by no greater, sware by himself. The End of an Oath is, the Confirmation of a thing where any doubt of the Truth of it, or any have Strife about it. Sinners finding in themselves a Difficulty to believe God upon his Word, revealing his Will against the Interests of their Lusts, the Lord is brought in as swearing, not by a greater (that is impossible) but by himself, that the House of David, or the House of Israel, or his own House, the Temple, (though the first seems most probable to be here meant, which seemeth to be the House mentioned Verse 4. through the Gates of which, Kings should enter, riding in Chariots and on Horses) should be made desolate.

6 For thus saith the LORD unto the kings house of Judah, Thou art Gilead unto me i, and the head of Lebanon k: yet surely I will make thee a wilderness, and cities which are not inhabited l.

i Interpreters are not agreed in what Sence God saith, that the Kings House of Judah was unto him as Gilead. k Or the Head of Lebanon. Gilead was a Country fertile for Pastures; upon which account the Reubenites and Gadites, being Men whose Estates lay in Cattel, begged it of Moses for their Portion, Num. 32. 2. and Moses gave it to the Sons of Manasses Verse 40. It was also famous for Spicery, Balm, and Myrrh, Gen. 37. 25. It had in it a famous Mountain. Lebanon also was a very pleasant place, famous for Cedars, and indeed whatsoever could gratifie the Senses: they both were in the Lot of Gad and Manasseh. Some think God compareth the King of Judah's House to these places, in regard of the Height and Nobleness of the Structure; others, for the Pleasantness and Delightfulness of it. Others consider Gilead as the principal part of the Inheritance of the Ten Tribes, wasted by Tiglath Pilezar, 2 Kings 15. 29. and that God telleth them, by this Comparison, that he would certainly destroy them, and make them as Gilead, which was the Head of Lebanon. Though Jerusalem were a noble and pleasant place, yet they might remember so was Gilead, which yet for their Sins was wasted, and brought to Ruin. l So also Jerusalem, formerly the Garden of Judea, and Joy of the whole Earth, should be made a Wilderness, and the Cities of Judah should not be inhabited.

7 And I will prepare destroyers against thee, every one with his weapons m, and they shall cut down thy choice cedars, and cast them into the fire n.

m They shall not only be edged with their own Lusts and Malice, but commissionated and influenced by me, and shall come sufficiently prepared for their work. n And they shall cut down and burn thy Buildings, which are made of goodly Cedars.

8 And many nations shall pass by this city, and they shall say every man to his neighbour, wherefore hath the LORD done thus to this great city o?

o According to God's Threatnings, Deut. 29. 24. 1 Kin. 9. 8. Though the Jews would not understand that there was a Cause, yet others would understand it, and enquire into it.

9 Then they shall answer, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD their GOD p, and worshipped other gods, and served them q.

p Some shall answer them, or they shall answer one another. Surely it is because they have broken the divine Law, which the Israelites made a Covenant, Exod. 19. 8. Chap. 24. 3. 7. Deut. 5. 27. upon which account their Sinning was an Apostacy, and a forsaking their Covenant. q Their Sinning was not of an ordinary nature, but by Idolatry, worshipping Images and Idols, which indeed were no Gods, but only in the Opinion of those Nations that worshipped them.

10 ¶ Weep ye not for the dead, neither bemoan him r, but weep sore for him that goeth away s; for he shall return no more, nor see his native country t.

r Not for Josiah your dead Prince, for whom there was a great Mourning, 2 Chron. 35. 25. mentioned Zech. 12. 11. Josiah is happy, you need not trouble your selves for him; but weep for Jehoahaz, who is to go, or is gone into Captivity; Jehoahaz was set up upon his Father's Death by the People, 2 Kings 23. 30. 2 Chron. 36. 1. but Verse 3. put down within three Months, and carried into Egypt, Verse 4. where he died, 2 Kings 23. 34. s So as he no more returned into Judah. The Participle being in the Present Tense, inclineth me to think, that this Prophecy was long before that in the former Chapter, soon after the Death of Josiah, upon the Peoples setting up of Jehoahaz in his stead, or presently after he was carried away. Some interpret this of the People that were dead, and those that were going into Captivity; but the next Verse makes it far more probable that it is to be understood of Josiah and Jehoahaz.

11 For thus saith the LORD touching Shallum, the son of Josiah king of Judah u, who reigned instead of Josiah his father w, which went forth out of this place x, he shall not return thither any more.

u Who this Shallum was, is a little doubted: Some think it was Jehoahaz the Son of Josiah, 1 Chron. 3. 15. called Jehoiachin: there is also mentioned one Shallum, but he is there mentioned as the fourth Son of Josiah. In the Book of Kings we read only of three Sons which Josiah had, viz. Jehoahaz, Jehoiakim, and Zedekiah. Most think that this Shallum was Jehoahaz or Johanan (as he is called 1 Chron. 3. 15.) who was indeed the second Son of Josiah; for it is plain from 2 Kings 23. 31, 36. that Jehoiakim was two Years older, otherwise he could not have been 25 Years old when he began to reign, after Jehoahaz, who began to reign at 23 Years of Age, and reigned but three Months: but 1 Chron. 3. 15. he is called Josiah's first-born, because he was first made King; and here he is called Shallum for the shortness of his Reign, in Derision to the Jews, who so called him, upon the account of their good hopes of Prosperity under him; and in Allusion to Shallum the Son of Jabesh, one of the last Kings of the Ten Tribes, mentioned 2 Kings 15. 13. who reigned but a Month; for this, as some think, could not be that Shallum mentioned after Zedekiah, as the fourth Son of Josiah, 1 Chron. 3. 15. for that Shallum, they say, never reigned, this, as the Text saith, did reign three Months w instead of Josiah his Father; which Phrase seemeth also to conclude, that he immediately succeeded his Father Josiah. x He was carried away from Jerusalem presently after he was set up, 2 Kings 23 31, 32. imprisoned at Riblah, and Verse 34. died in Egypt.

12 But he shall die in the place whither they have led him captive, and shall see this land no more y.

y So as he returned no more to see his native Country, as is here said. But others think this Shallum was Josiah's fourth Son, that Johanan died before his Father, and the People made Shallum his youngest Son King, calling him Jehoahaz, so as he reigned immediately after Josiah.

* Micah 3. 10. Hab. 2. 9. 13 ¶ Wo unto him that * buildeth his house by unrighteousness, and his chambers by wrong; z, that useth his neighbours service without wages, and giveth him not for his work a.

z We have not here any certain Guidance, to let us know whether the Prophet intended Jehoahaz or Jehoiakim; both of them did evil in the sight of the Lord, as we read in their Story. The Sin here reflected upon is manifestly Injustice and Oppression, but possibly in the former part of the Verse, all unjust and oppressive Acts, by which either of these Princes endeavoured to promote their Grandeur, may be understood: for we need not take building his house in a strict literal Sence, but signifying the promotion of his Family, or eftablishing his State and Dignity. a In the latter part, a special Oppression, withholding Workmens Wages, is the Sin upon which the Woe is denounced, a Sin contrary to the Law, Lev. 19. 13. Deut. 24. 14, 15. and against which the Judgment of God is also denounced under the New Testament, James 5. 4. An evident Demonstration of God's Love to Mankind, securing by his Law just Dealings between Man and Man, and revenging Acts of Injustice, and particularly where Men take Advantage of their Greatness above, and Superiority over others, to trample them under their feet, and to withhold their just Rights from them: Though such Persons may be out of the reach of humane Justice, yet God hath denounced a Woe against them.

14 That saith, I will build me a wide house, and † large chambers, and cutteth him out ‖ windows, † Heb. through aired and it is cieled with cedar, and painted with vermilion b. ‖ Or, my windows.

b That is Woe to that Man, who suffering Oppression in his Government, or making it his Business himself to oppress, yet buildeth himself great Houses and large Chambers, cieling them with Cedar, promising himself Prosperity and Splendour notwithstanding his wicked Courses; for otherwise, it is lawful enough for Princes to build themselves stately Houses, &c. Yet some think that Jehoiakim's Pride, and Luxury, and Magnificence, is here blamed, which also may be, considering what Fate he was under for Judah was reprieved only during Josiah's Life, 2 Chron. 34. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28. And this Prince had seen Shallum or Jehoahaz his Brother carried into Captivity, and he still walked in the same wicked Courses his Brother had done, yet in contempt of the Word of the Lord by Huldah in his Father's time, he promiseth himself all Prosperity and Splendour, and accordingly was building himself stately Houses, and adorning them, for this the Woe is here denounced.

15 Shalt thou reign because thou closest thy self in Cedar c? did not thy father eat and drink, and do judgment and justice, and then it was well with him d?

c Art thou so vain, as to think that brave Houses will continue thy Kingdom? Thou art mistaken; magnificent Buildings are not those things which establish a Prince's Throne. d How was it with thy Father? He lived prosperously, yet had no such stately Edifices; his Throne was established by Justice and Judgment; that were the right way for thee to fit sure upon thy Throne.

16 He judged the cause of the poor and needy e, then it was well with him: was not this to know me, saith the LORD f?

e By himself in person; for the Kings of Israel and Judah often fate personally to judge Causes; or by setting such Judges as did it, administring Justice impartially, particularly to such as in respect of their low Condition, were most exposed to the Power of others: and doing thus he prospered. f This was for him truly to own and acknowledge me. They only truly know God who obey him; and Men vainly pretend to Piety who are notoriously defective in Duties of Justice and Charity.

17 But thine eyes and thy heart are not but for thy covetousness g, and for to shed innocent blood, and for oppression, and for ‖ violence to do it h. ‖ Or, in-cursion.

g All that thou lookest after, and that thy Heart is set upon, is thy own Grandeur and Riches. h And to make thy self great, thou makest no Difficulty to destroy thy Subjects that are innocent, and have not deserved Death, and to oppress others, using all manner of Violence against them. It is not to be thought that Jehoiakim did all this in person, but by such corrupt and unjust Judges as he set up; so God accounted that Ahab had killed and taken possession, 1 Kings 21. 19. Though the Elders and Nobles were those that did it, Verse 11, 12, 13. Princes are responsible to God for the sins of their Ministers and Judges.

18 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah i: They shall not lament for him, saying, Ah my brother, or ah my sister: they shall not lament for him, saying, Ah Lord! or, ah his glory k.

i A very bad son of a good Father, whose Name was Eliakim, by Pharaoh Necho turned to Jehoiakim, 2 Kings 23. 34. and by him set up. He reigned wickedly, and infinitely oppressed the People for Money for Pharaoh Necho that made him King, Verse 35. He reigned but eleven Years; but rebelling against Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon, as we read, 2 Kings 24. 1, 2. he was carried by him into Babylon in fetters, 2 Chron. 36. 6. where, for ought we read, he died. Jehoiakim, or Jeconiah, his Son, succeeded him, Verse 9. reigning only three Months, and ten Days. k He died not lamented; for, as it is not probable his Enemies would lament him, so he had disobliged his own People by Violence and Oppression to that degree, that it is not likely that those of them that were in Babylon made any great Lamentation for him.

19 * He shall be buried with the burial of an ass l, drawn and cast forth beyond the gates of Jerusalem m. * Chap. 36. 30.

l That is, he shall not be buried at all, or he shall be buried in an indecent and contemptible manner, none attending him to his Grave, none mourning for him. m The last Words of this Verse incline some to think that Jehoiakim was buried near to Jerusalem; but the Scripture, which mentioneth his being carried into Babylon, saith nothing of his being brought back; nor is that very probable which some say, that the King of Babylon thought to have carried him to Babylon, but upon second Thoughts altered his Purposes, and caused him to be slain at Jerusalem, and his Body to be ignominiously dragged out of the Gates. The Scripture saith expressly, he was carried to Babylon, 2 Kings 24. 15. and if he died there, yet this Text remaineth true, the Scope of which seemeth to be, to shew the Vanity of this Prince in his great and stately Buildings, which he was not like long to enjoy, nor to be buried nigh to them, nor in any degree of Honour proportionate to the splendour of them.

20 Go up to Lebanon n, and cry, and lift up thy voice in Bashan o, and cry from the passages p: for all thy lovers are destroyed q.

n The Hebrew Verb being feminine, lets us know, that Jerusalem was the Place to which this Speech is directed: to the Inhabitants of which the Prophet here calleth to go up to Lebanon. o And to Bashan. Both Lebanon and Bashan were Hills or Places that looked towards Assyria, from whence the Jews looked for help, and had it sometimes, as 2 Kings 16. 7. he calls to them ironically to go up to the mountainous parts of them; where standing and crying, they might be sooneſt and beſt heard. p What we Translate from the passages, others Translate from the borders, or from the sides. Others from Abarim, which is the Name of a Mountain, as well as Lebanon and Bashan. Vide Numb. 27. 12. and 33. 47. which seemeth to me the beſt Interpretation: The Meaning is, Go and cry for Help from all Places, but it will be in vain; for q the Egyptians and Assyrians to whom thou wert wont heretofore to fly, chuſing rather to truſt to them than in me, are themſelves in the Power or Danger of the Chaldeans, who ſhall alſo deſtroy them.

† Heb. proſperities. 21 I ſpake to thee in thy † proſperity r, but thou ſaidſt I will not hear ſ: * this hath been thy manner from thy youth, that thou obeyedſt not my voice t.

* Chap. 7. 23, &c.

r I, by my Prophets, ſpake to thee while all things went well with thee, ſo as thou haſt not ſinned ignorantly or without warning, I have not ſurprized thee with my Judgments, but thou refuſedſt to hearken, and obey my Admonitions and Precepts. s From the time that I brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, thou haſt been thus a rebellious People.

22 The wind ſhall eat up all thy paſtures, u and thy lovers ſhall go into captivity w, ſurely then ſhalt thou be aſhamed, and confounded for all *thy wickedneſs x.

u Either a vain Hope and Preſumption ſhall deſtroy thy Rulers and Governours, who flatter thee with Promiſes of Proſperity, or a Judgment ſhall ſeize them, that ſhall be like a violent Wind, which preſently ſcattereth the Clouds and the Smoak; or they ſhall be blaſted by my Judgments, as Plants are blaſted and eaten up by Winds. w And thoſe that have been thy Friends and Allies, Syria and Egypt, in whom thou haſt truſted, ſhall themſelves be made Captive. x Surely when thou ſeeſt this, thou wilt be convinced, and aſhamed of thy wicked Courſes.

† Heb. inhabiteſs. 23 O † inhabitant of Lebanon y that makeſt thy neſt in the cedars z, how gracious ſhalt thou be a when pangs come upon thee, the pain as of a woman in travail b.

y Hieruſalem, which is called an Inhabitant of Lebanon, either becauſe their Houſes were built of Wood cut down out of the Foreſt of Lebanon, or becauſe they lived in as great Plenty and Delight as if they lived in Lebanon; or, becauſe they thought the Mountain of Lebanon was a certain Refuge to them. z They are ſaid to make their Neſt in the Cedars; either becauſe their Houſes were built of the Cedars of Lebanon, or becauſe of the Security they promiſed themſelves from that Foreſt and Mountain, ſo full of and famous for Cedars. a What Favour wilt thou find b when my Judgments ſhall come upon thee as ſuddenly and as ſmartly as the pains of a Woman in Travail come upon her: a Similitude often made uſe of by this Prophet, to expreſs the Suddenneſs, Unavoidableneſs, and Greatneſs of Judgments, Chap. 4. 31. and 6. 24 and 13. 21. and 30. 6. and 49. 24. and 50. 43. and ſo in other Scriptures, Pſal. 48. 6. Micah 4. 9. 1 Theſſ. 5. 3.

24 As I live ſaith the LORD, though Coniah the ſon of Jehoiakim King of Judah c were the ſignet upon my right hand d, yet would I pluck thee thence.

c By Coniah he meaneth Jehoiakin, 2 Kings 24. 8. whoſe name was Jeconiah, 1 Chron. 3. 16. (for all Joſiah's Sons had two Names, and ſo had his Grandchild Jeconiah,) here in contempt called Coniah. d He ſaith, that though this Coniah were as dear to him as his Signet, which every Man keepeth ſafe, yet this ſhould not ſecure him from divine Vengeance.

25 And I will give thee into the hand of them that ſeek thy life e, of them whoſe face thou feareſt, even into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of the Chaldeans.

e That is, into the power of the Chaldeans and Babylonians, whom they were afraid of, and juſtly, for they thirſted after their Blood and Ruin.

26 And I will caſt thee out, and thy mother that bare thee, into another country where ye were not born, and there ye ſhall die f.

f Jeconiah's Mother was Nehuſhtan, the Daughter of Elnathan of Hieruſalem, 2 Kings 24. 8. Verſe 12. the fulfilling of this Prophecy is recorded; and it is ſaid, that Jehoiachim the King of Judah went out to the King of Babylon, he and his Mother, and his Servants, &c. ſo Verſe 15. together with eight thouſand Priſoners of the meaner ſort, beſides Princes and Nobles.

† Heb. lift up their mind. 27 But to the land whereunto they † deſire to return, thither they ſhall not return g.

g That is, they ſhall never come again to Jeruſalem, though they be fond of it as their Native Country, and may promiſe themſelves ſuch Favours from the King of Babylon, yet there ſhall no ſuch thing be their portion.

28 Is this man Coniah a deſpiſed broken idol h? is he a veſſel wherein is no pleaſure i? wherefore are they caſt out, he and his ſeed k? and are caſt into a land which they know not?

h The Prophet either ſpeaketh this in the perſon of God, or of the People, who are here brought in, affirming that this Prince who was the Idol of the People, was now through the juſt Judgment of God become like a broken Idol. i Or like a Veſſel which Men care not for, being either ſo crack'd, or ſo tainted, that they can make no uſe of it, and admiring at this Cataſtrophe, and enquiring the Cauſe why it ſo came to paſs. k He, and his ſeed. It is ſaid Ver. 30. that no Man of his Seed ſhould proſper ſitting upon the Throne of David, and ruling any more in Judah; nor is there any mention made of any of his Children where his carrying into Captivity is recorded, 2 Kings 24. 12. which makes ſome think, that by his Seed here is meant the Poſterity of his Grandfather Joſiah; but others think, that he had Children, either before he went into Captivity, or born while he was in Babylon: And Matth. 1. 12. it is ſaid, that after they were brought to Babylon, Jeconiah begat Salathiel.

29 O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the LORD l.

l By Earth he either means the Land of Judah, to which he calls thrice, to ſignifie the Deafneſs of this People, and unwillingneſs to hear, and believe what God ſpake by him; or elſe he calls to the whole Earth, as he calls Heaven and Earth to witneſs, Deuteronomy 30. 19. and 32. 1. Iſaiah 1. 2. and 34. 1. Jer. 6. 19.

30 Thus ſaith the LORD, Write ye this man childleſs m, a man that ſhall not proſper in his days: for no man of his ſeed ſhall proſper, ſitting upon the throne of David, and ruling any more in Judah.

m The Word tranſlated Childleſs is but thrice read in Holy Writ, and by various Interpreters tranſlated barren, not encreaſing, empty, full of ſorrow, wanting Children, &c. It is thought to be interpreted, by the next Words, No Man of his ſeed ſhall proſper ſitting upon the Throne of David, and ruling any more in Judah; for there are ſeven of his Sons named 1 Chron. 3. 17. So that he is ſaid to be Childleſs, either becauſe all his Children died before their Father; or (which is moſt probable) becauſe he had no Child that ſate upon the Throne, or ever had any Rulers place in Judah, but only ſome that lived in a mean condition in Captivity, amongſt whom Salathiel is named, Matth. 1. 12. as a Progenitor of Chriſt.

CHAP. XXIII.

Wo againſt wicked Paſtors, the ſcattered Flock ſhall be gathered, Chriſt ſhall rule and ſave them, 1.—8. Againſt falſe Prophets, 9.—32. and mockers of the true, 33.—40

1 * WO be unto the paſtors that deſtroy and ſcatter the ſheep of my paſture, ſaith the LORD a. * Chap. 10. 21.

a There is the like Wo againſt the Paſtors denounced, Ezek. 34. 2. Interpreters judge, that by the Paſtors are to be underſtood the Civil Magiſtrates, for Verſe 9. he denounceth the Judgments of God againſt their Eccleſiaſtical Officers: The Civil Magiſtrates at this time in Judah were great Tyrants; and whereas God had committed his People (whom he calls the Sheep of his Paſture) to them in truſt, that they ſhould protect and govern them, and that they might live under them godly and peaceable Lives, in all Proſperity, they had acted quite contrary to their Truſt, and worried the People like Wolves, inſtead of feeding them like Shepherds. God took notice of their Oppreſſions, and by the Prophet denounceth this Woe againſt them, to verifie that of Solomon, Eccleſ. 5. 8.

2 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael againſt the paſtors that feed my people b, Ye have ſcattered my flock, and driven them away, and have not viſited them c; Behold, I will viſit upon you the evil of your doings, ſaith the LORD d.

b God calleth them his People, his Flock, the Sheep of his Paſture, with reſpect to the ancient Covenant which God had made with their Fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob. They are ſaid to have fed this People, becauſe it was their Duty, and the Buſineſs of their Office, ſo to have done, though they had failed in it. c And had done the quite contrary, ſcattering them by their Acts of Violence and Oppreſſion, and driving them from their places to ſeek ſome more ſafe and quiet places of abode; or by their prodigious Wickedneſſes, having been the cauſe of their being carried into Captivity, not viſiting them, that is, taking any due care of their Good and Welfare, ſeeing what they wanted, and ſupplying them, as good Rulers ought to have done. d For which Neglect God threatneth to viſit upon them the Evil of their Doings. The Hebrew Word ſignifieth to viſit with a Viſitation of Care and Love, and alſo with a Viſitation of Juſtice and Severity, and is often ſo uſed in Holy Writ.

3 And I will gather the remnant of my flock out of all countries whither I have driven them e, and will will bring them again to their folds f, and they ſhall be fruitful, and increaſe g.

e God puts a difference between thoſe that were miſled by the examples of others, and the Rulers who ſet them ſuch an ill example; he threatned Jehoiakim and Jehoiakin or Jeconiah, that they ſhould return no more, but for the people, he here promiſeth them a return, at leaſt a remnant of them, when he ſhould have puniſhed the Goats as he ſpeaketh, Zech. 10. 3. f By their Folds, he meaneth Jeruſalem, and other Cities the Towns of Judah which they had formerly inhabited. g Where they ſhould once more be in proſperity. He ſpeaks here concerning the return of this people out of the Captivity of Babylon, tho there be ſome that think this Text is primarily to be underſtood, of the gathering together in one, the people of God ſcattered abroad, in and by Chriſt according to the Prophecy of Caiaphas, John 11. 52.

* Chap. 2. 15. Ezek. 34. 11, &c. 4 And I will ſet up * ſhepherds over them which ſhall feed them h, and they ſhall fear no more, nor be diſmayed i, neither ſhall they be lacking ſaith the LORD k.

h Some think this Prophecy was fulfilled in Nehemiah and Zorobabel, who were pious and good Governours, and conſulted in their Government the good of the people committed to their truſt, Neh. 2. 10. and 5. 14. Others rather underſtand it of Chriſtian Princes and Governours under the Goſpel. i Under whom they ſhall live peaceably and ſecurely. k And none of them ſhall periſh. The two laſt paſſages of this Verſe incline Interpreters to think, that this promiſe doth not ſo much refer to their coming out of Babylon, as to their ſpiritual deliverance by Chriſt, for after their return out of Babylon they were not ſecure long, but feared Sanballat and Tobiah, the Gracians and Romans and other Enemies; beſides that the laſt words exactly agree with, John 10. 28. when Chriſt ſaith his Sheep ſhould not periſh, and it appears Verſe 6. that the Prophet is ſpeaking of a time, when not Judah only, but Iſrael alſo ſhould be ſaved, and the next Verſe doth manifeſtly refer unto Chriſt.

* Iſa. 11. 1. & 40. 11. Chap. 33. 14, 15. Dan. 9. 24. Joh. 1. 45. 5 ¶ Behold, * the days come, ſaith the LORD, that I will raiſe unto David, a righteous branch l, and a king ſhall reign, and proſper, and ſhall execute juſtice, and judgment in the earth m.

l Though ſome Interpreters think that Zorobabel may be here intended, who was deſcended from David, and ruled the people when they came out of Babylon, yet, even the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves, as well as the Chriſtian Interpreters, underſtand this as a Prophecy, and promiſe of the Meſſiah; the Prophecies and Promiſes of whom are uſually uſhered in with this Particle Behold, to ſtir up Peoples attention, and who alſo was the Son of David, and who is called the branch, Iſa. 4. 2. and 53. 2. Zech. 3. 8. Iſa. 11. 1. where the reaſon is alſo given, he being there called a rod out of the ſtem of Jeſſe, a branch out of his root, beſides that the application to him of the Name King, ordinarily applyed to Chriſt, never given to Zorobabel, and the term Righteous make it evident. Chap. 33. 15. he is called a branch of Righteouſneſs, which is the ſame with the Righteous Branch, here mentioned. He is called the Righteous Branch, not only becauſe himſelf was Righteous, therefore called the Righteous One, Acts 3. 14. & 13. 35. but becauſe he maketh his people Righteous, Iſa. 53. 11. and 60. 21. m Jeſus Chriſt anſwering the Type of Melchiſedeck the King of Salem, and who is the King of Kings, 1 Tim. 6. 15. ſhall reign ſpiritually and ſhall not be like Jeconiah of whom God ſaid he ſhould not proſper, but he ſhall proſper and ſhall execute Juſtice and Judgment, protecting the innocent, and defending his people throughout the World, judging the Prince of the World, and by his Spirit governing his People. So as the Prophet relieveth the People of God under their Oppreſſions, by theſe latter Kings of Judah, with the promiſe of the Kingdom of Chriſt, an uſual argument made uſe of by the Prophets to comfort the people of God in thoſe days againſt any evils come, or coming upon them.

* Deut 33. 28. * Chap. 33. 16. † Heb. Jehovah-tſidkenu. 6 In his days Judah ſhall be * ſaved, and Iſrael ſhall dwell ſafely u: and * this is his name whereby he ſhall be called † THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS w.

u During the Reign and Kingdom of the Meſſias (whoſe Kingdom is an everlaſting Kingdom) the people of God typified by Judah and Iſrael, the true Iſrael of God, thoſe that are Jews indeed, ſhall be ſaved with a ſpiritual Salvation, for he was therefore called Jeſus becauſe he was to ſave his people from their ſins, Matth. 1. 21. and God will be a ſpecial protection to them. w The Name wherewith this branch ſhall be called, ſhall be, The Lord our Righteouſneſs. Some have applied this to the people, as if the people ſhould be ſo called, or ſhould ſay the Lord hath dealt graciouſly with us; or in the Lord we have Righteouſneſs. But this will appear but the new invention of ſome who either cannot, or will not underſtand, how Chriſt ſhould be his peoples Righteouſneſs, thoſe who conſider not, that it is the branch which was before ſpoken of, and that the word people is not to be found going before, there is indeed a mention of Judah and Iſrael, but ſurely they were not to be other Mens Righteouſneſs, and if that had been the Prophet's meaning, he would not have ſaid the Lord Our, but the Lord Their Righteouſneſs. Nor is this the only place where Chriſt is called Our Righteouſneſs, 1 Cor. 1. 30. This place is an eminent proof of the Godhead of Chriſt, he is here called Jehovah, and what is proper to God alone, viz. to juſtifie is here applied to Chriſt. The Prophet, ſaith Chriſt, ſhall be ſo called, that is, by his people, who ſhould believe in him and truſt in him alone for that Righteouſneſs, wherein they ſhould at the laſt day ſtand before God, thus he was to bring in Everlaſting Righteouſneſs, Dan. 9. 24. He who knew no ſin, was made ſin (that is, a Sacrifice for ſin) for us, that we might be made, the Righteouſneſs of God in him.

7 Therefore behold, the days come, ſaith the LORD, that they ſhall no more ſay, The LORD liveth, which brought up the children of Iſrael out of Egypt.

8 But the LORD liveth, which brought up, and which led the ſeed of the houſe of Iſrael out of the north-country, and from all countreys whether I had driven them, and they ſhall dwell in their own land x.

x See the Notes on Chap. 16. 14, 15. Where much the ſame words are to be found. The Prophet aggravateth the greatneſs of that Salvation, which ſhould be brought by Chriſt to all the true Iſrael of God, by comparing it with the deliverance of the ancient Iſrael of God out of the Land of Egypt; which he ſaith it ſhould ſo far tranſcend and excel, that the Deliverance out of Egypt ſhould not be named, when this Salvation ſhould appear, which ſhould be after their return from Babylon, and when God ſhould gather them from all Countries, which was fulfilled, when by the preaching of the Goſpel, not the Gentiles only were converted, but many of the Jews alſo which were ſcattered abroad, James 1. 1, 1 Pet. 1. 1. Poſſibly part of this promiſe or prophecy remains yet to be accompliſhed, for the Jews are not yet come to dwell in their own Land, unleſs that term be to be expounded of Chriſtians, who during the times of Perſecution in the primitive Church, were ſcattered abroad, but upon the ceaſing of thoſe Perſecutions, when Chriſtian Emperours came to have the Government, returned to their own Countries, where they enjoyed a more ſtill and quiet Habitation.

9 ¶ Mine heart within me is broken, becauſe of the prophets; all my bones ſhake y: I am like a drunken man, and like a man whom wine hath overcome; becauſe of the LORD z, and becauſe of the words of his holineſs a.

y The Prophet having denounced the Wrath of God againſt the wicked Rulers of Judah under the Notion of Paſtors, cometh here to diſcharge the like truſt with reference to thoſe orders of perſons amongſt the Jews, whoſe Office it was, or at leaſt who took upon them to reveal the Mind and Will of God to people, and who were upon that account called Prophets, for theſe he declares a great paſſion and trouble; either for their ſake in proſpect of that Vengeance of God which he ſaw was like to be poured out upon them, or for the peoples ſake who had been deceived by their unfaithful Revelations of the Divine Will, and led into wickedneſs by their vile Examples. For this he ſaith his heart was broken, his bones ſhaked. z And he was even aſtoniſhed and ſtupified, and like a drunken Man he knew not what he did; he was ſo ſtricken at the apprehenſions of the Wrath of the Lord ready to be revealed againſt them. a And to conſider what words the holy God had put into his Mouth, to ſpeak againſt them.

* Chap. 5. 7, 8. & 9. 2. || Or, curſing. 10 For * the land is full of Adulterers b, for becauſe of || ſwearing the land mourneth c *: the pleaſant places of the wilderneſs are dried up d, and their || courſe is evil, and their force is not right e.

* Chap. 9. 10 & 12. 4 || Or, vio-lence.

b Under that term Adulterers, all Species of uncleanneſs are comprehended. c By falſe-ſwearing, or by idle and profane ſwearing, the Land is brought to ruine. The word ſignifies alſo a Curſe or curſing. Many good Interpreters judge, that the more genuine ſence and true Tranſlation of this Text were, for becauſe of the Curſe (that is, the Curſe of God) the Land is brought to that Miſery which is coming upon it. d The Paſtures of the Wilderneſs or of the Plain, for ſo the word is rendred, Iſa. 63. 13. Lam. 4. 19 The Wrath of God was extended to all places whether more or leſs inhabited. e The Prophets did not only err in ſingle Acts, but the whole courſe of their actions was naught, and particularly their Power, Rule and Government was not right. If any ſay what were the Prophets concerned in the Peoples wickedneſs? Anſw. They were profane as well as the people, as we ſhall find, Ver. 11. but beſides this, the people were thus vile through their connivance, they did not warn the people of their ſins, but ſoothed them up in their wicked courſes, and ſo were the cauſe of the peoples wickedneſs, who had not been ſo vile but for them.

* Chap. 6. 13. & 8. 10. Zeph. 3. 4. 11 For both * prophet f and prieſt are profane g, yea, * in my houſe have I found their wickedneſs h, ſaith the LORD.

f Thoſe, whoſe Work was to reveal the Mind of God to the people, and who pretended to that Office. g And thoſe that were employed in offering Sacrifices, and other works which belonged to the Prieſtly Office, according to the Law. The whole Eccleſiaſtical Order, all their Miniſtry were profane, not merely hypocritical, but lewd, immoral and debauched. h Yea, they were grown to that impudence that they made the Temple, which was the Lord's Houſe, e Den of Thieves; a place where they committed wickedneſs. Thus it was in the time of Eli, 1 Sam. 2. 22. and more generally afterward, 2 Chron. 36. 14. See Chap. 7. 10, 11. and Ver. 14. of this Chapter. There is no more certain ſign of a ruining Nation, than when God ſuffereth in it a lewd and corrupt Miniſtry.

* Pſal. 35. Chap. 13. 16. 12 Wherefore * their way ſhall be unto them, as ſlippery ways in the darkneſs: they ſhall be driven on i, and fall therein i: for I will bring evil upon them, even the year of their viſitation, ſaith the LORD k.

i As their ordinary courſe is wicked and ſinful, ſo they ſhall find that it will in the event be to them pernicious, perilous and full of danger, as a ſlippery path is to them that walk in a dark Night, they shall be driven on till they fall therein. Courses of Sin may look smooth, but they always prove slippery. p For I am resolved to punish their wicked courses; and to visit them with my Judgments.

‖ Or, an ill-favoured thing. † Heb. unsavoury.

13 And I have seen ‖ † folly in the prophets of Samaria q; they prophesied in Baal, and caused my people Israel to err r.

q There was a time, when I saw folly in the Prophets that belonged to the Ten Tribes, whose chief City was Samaria. The word translated folly signifies unsavory, or an abfurd thing. Our Saviour compareth wicked Miniſters to unſavory Salt, Matth. 5. 13. Salt that is turned foolish (as the Greek word ſignifies.) The Miniſters of God's word are, or ought to be, the Salt of the Earth, to ſeaſon People with ſound Doctrine, and by the good Example of an Holy Life; if they be corrupt in Doctrine, or Manners, they become unſavoury, and the very worſt of Men. Such God ſays the Prophets of the Ten Tribes were, before they were carried away Captive. r They propheſied, pretending they had their Inſtructions and Revelations from Baal, and ſo cauſed the Ten Tribes to err, which after the diviſion of the Kingdom in Jeroboam's time were called Iſrael in contra-diſtinction to the two Tribes and half cleaving to the Houſe of David, which were called Judah after the Name of their principal Tribe.

‖ Or, ſtubbineſs. * Chap. 20. 23. * Deut. 32. 32.

14 I have ſeen alſo in the prophets of Jeruſalem ‖ an horrible thing ſ: * they commit adultery t, and walk in lyes u: they ſtrengthen alſo the hands of evil doers, that none doth return from his wickedneſs w, they are all of them unto me * as Sodom, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorrha x.

ſ The word ſignifies ſlitbineſs, ſtench, or an abominable thing, things every whit as bad. in ſome kind worſe than what I ſaw in the Prophets of the Ten Tribes. t They commit not Spiritual Adultery only, but Carnal Adultery, they are Whoremongers. u And they make it their buſineſs to inſtill falſhoods into people, and entitle me to them, and this is their Trade; not a ſingle act, but their ordinary practice. w This is the great aggravation of the ſin of thoſe that occupy the place of Spiritual Guides, that they encourage profane Men, either by their falſe Doctrine, extenuating ſin, and putting a fair gloſs upon them; or at leaſt by their mealy Mouths fearing or forbearing to tell Sinners of their wicked Courſes; or by their wicked Examples, the moſt of people thinking they may do what their Teachers do, by which means Sinners, inſtead of being brought to a ſenſe of their ſins and a repentance for them, are hardened in their wicked Courſes. x By this means all of them, either of their Prophets and Prieſts, or all of the People, (the firſt ſeemeth chiefly here intended) are become to me as contemptible and abominable as the people of Sodom and Gomorrha, though they were the Sons of Aaron, and of the Prieſtly Order, yet living lewd lives, and acting quite contrary to the end of their Holy Calling, God declares himſelf to value them no more than as the vileſt of Men, ſuch were the Sodomites. Or by thoſe words God threatens that he would deſtroy them with as notorious a deſtruction, as he deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrha. Thus the compariſon is uſed, Iſa. 1. 9. and conſonant to this are the words in the next Verſe.

* Chap. 8. 14 & 9. 15. ‖ Or, Hypocriſie.

15 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts concerning the prophets y, Behold, I will feed them * with wormwood z, and make them drink the water of gall: for from the prophets of Jeruſalem is ‖ profaneneſs gone forth into all the land a.

y Under the term Prophets, he comprehendeth all the Eccleſiaſtical Guides of Jeruſalem at this time, whether Prieſts or Prophets. z He threatens to feed them with wormwood, ſome think the word is better tranſlated Poyſon; by Wormwood, or poyſon, and the water of Gall, he threatens great and fatal Judgments that he would bring upon them. a And he giveth the reaſon why God would deal ſo ſeverely with that Order of Men, who ſeemed by their Office and Imployment to have the neareſt Relation to himſelf, becauſe they were the Fountain of wickedneſs, thoſe from whom wickedneſs flowed out over the whole Land. This was either by their conniving at wicked Mens ſins, for fear of diſpleaſing them; or by teaching them Licentious Doctrine, that gave a liberty to the Fleſh; or by their vile Lives ſetting the people patterns of ſin. And indeed this it is generally, when Miniſters, and ſuch as are to teach others, are wicked, either in their Doctrine or Practice, they are a fountain of Wickedneſs; Wickedneſs floweth from them to the whole City, Town, Pariſh where they are imployed: And on the contrary it is obſerved, that where God gives a place a good Miniſtry, Goodneſs in one degree or other floweth from them to the whole City, Town or Pariſh. Though all are not Converted, yet the generality are civilized and reſtrained from thoſe groſs and brutiſh Immoralities which other places abound with. Ill Miniſters muſt look for the ſevereſt indignation of God, Others ſin, and ſhall die in their ſins; but they teach others to break God's Commandments, and have the ſins of many to anſwer for, who periſh either by their Flatteries, or looſe Doctrine, or looſer Lives and Examples.

* Chap. 14. 14.

16 Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, Hearken not unto the words of the prophets, that propheſie unto you b, they make you vain c, * they ſpeak a viſion of their own heart, and not out of the mouth of the LORD d.

b People are under no Religious Obligation to hear any thing but the revealed Will of God, and are not to obey thoſe that call to them for what that doth not call to them. c Nor to liſten to them, the Scope of whoſe teaching is but to make them vain, ſinfully vain; or to deceive their Souls; no Man is under an Obligation to deceive himſelf. d They pretend to Viſions, that God hath revealed his Mind to them, in the ſame way as he uſeth to reveal himſelf to true Prophets; but there is no ſuch thing; it is but a fiction of their own; our Lord, Mat. 7. 15. gives us the ſame way to know falſe Prophets, Ver. 20. By their fruits you ſhall know them. Let their external Miſſion be what, and which way it will, if what they teach agree not with the revealed Will of God, they are falſe Prophets. Many of theſe Prieſts were regularly enough deſcended, and the Prophets regularly enough educated and conſtituted, yet by this ſhewed themſelves falſe Prophets, that what they publiſhed was not from God, nor agreed with his revealed Will; therefore the people were under no Religious Obligation to hearken to them.

* Chap. 6. 14 & 8. 11. Ezek. 13. 10. Zech. 10. 2.

17 They ſay ſtill unto them that deſpiſe me, The LORD hath ſaid, * Ye ſhall have peace e; and they ſay unto every one that walketh after the ‖ imagination of his own heart f, No evil ſhall come upon you.

e Lewd and corrupt Miniſters, are an hatred and abomination in the houſe of the Lord, to all ſerious good People, and therefore obliged to make themſelves a Party of thoſe that are like themſelves, whoſe favour they cannot have without indulging them in their Luſts. Hence they propheſie Peace to the vileſt and worſt of Men, who have no patience of being daily alarm'd with hearing of the Wrath of God due, and like to come upon them for their ſins. f Hence they promiſe evil to thoſe that walk according to the Counſels of their own heart, that is ſinfully, for Gen. 6. 5. Every imagination of the thoughts of mans heart, is only evil, and that continually: Hence a ſinful courſe is very often expreſſed in Scripture, under this Notion of walking after the Imaginations of our own heart; as Deut. 29. 19. but it is moſt in prophecy; Vid. Chap. 3. 17. and 7. 24. and 9. 14. and 13. 10. and 16. 12. and 18. 12. Hence a Religious walking is called a Self-denying. None have a worſe guide of their actions in their lapſed ſtate, before Regeneration, than their own hearts.

† Job 15 8. ‖ Or, ſecret.

18 For * who hath ſtood in the ‖ counſel of the LORD, and hath perceived and heard his word? who hath marked his word, and heard it g?

g Who beſides us hath known the counſel of the Lord? Arrogating to themſelves a fellowſhip, and acquaintance with the Mind and Will of God. Or (which I ſhould rather judge the ſence) which of thoſe Prophets, that propheſie ſuch terrible things againſt this City is a Privy-Counſellor to God? The words ſeem rather to be the words of the falſe Prophets, either arrogating to themſelves a peculiar acquaintance with God and Fellowſhip with him, from whence they knew his Mind, or mocking at Jeremy, and other true Prophets, as arrogating to themſelves ſuch a knowledge of the Mind and Counſels of God, as indeed they had not, then (as ſome think) the words of Jeremiah denying them to have ſtood in God's Counſels, or to have known his Mind and Will. This in all Ages hath been the practice of corrupt Prophets and Miniſters to charge thoſe Servants of God, who have faithfully publiſhed the Will of God againſt Sinners, as making too bold with God's ſecret Counſels, though they publiſh nothing but God's revealed Will.

* Chap. 25. 32.

19 Behold, * a whirlwind of the LORD is gone forth in fury h, even a grievous whirlwind, it ſhall fall grievouſly upon the head of the wicked i.

h A ſevere Judgment of God, that ſhould reſemble a Whirlwind, for the ſudden and utter deſtruction, that it ſhall bring. See Chap. 30. 23, 24. The ſame word is elſewhere tranſlated a ſtorm, Pſal. 83. 15. Amos 1. 14. Jonah 1. 4. It is called a whirlwind of the Lord; either to denote the greatneſs of it, as Pſal. 36. 6. or to let us know that the Judgment came forth from God and was of his ſending. i And whatever theſe flattering Teachers ſaid, it ſhould fall upon wicked Men, ſo as they ſhould have no peace, but evil ſhould moſt certainly come upon them.

* Chap. 30. 24.

20 The * Anger of the LORD ſhall not return, until he have executed, and till he have performed the thoughts of his heart k: in the latter days ye ſhall conſider it perfectly l.

k It is therefore called a continuing whirlwind, Chap. 30. 23. The Prophet ſpeaks of the judgment as of a Meſſenger, which coming from God, ſhould not return till it had done its Errand, and executed what it came for, even whatever God had reſolved it ſhould effect. Men are ready to flatter themſelves, that they ſhall either out-ride or out-live the ſtorms of Divine Vengeance; no, (ſaith the Prophet) the Anger of the Lord ſhall bring to paſs whatſoever the juſt Will of God is. l And though you will not now believe it, but flatter your ſelves with idle vain hopes, yet hereafter when it ſhall be too late (which is the uſual folly of Sinners) then you ſhall conſider it perfectly.

* Chap. 14. 14. & 27. 15. & 29. 9.

21 * I have not ſent theſe prophets, yet they ran: I have not ſpoken unto them, yet they propheſied.

22 But if they had ſtood in my counſel, and had cauſed my people to hear my words m, then they ſhould have turned them from their evil way, and from the evil of their doings n.

m Theſe falſe Prophets did not propheſie without the Approbation of the Rulers of the Eccleſiaſtical State amongſt the Jews in their corrupt eſtate, but ſo they might, and yet not be ſent of God. The Judgment of a Divine Miſſion for the Revelation of God's Mind unto People, muſt not be meerly from their external Miſſion (which yet they ought to have in a Church that is in order) but from the faithful diſcharge of their Miniſtry. Thoſe whom God ſends, and who are truly acquainted with his Counſels, will cauſe his people to hear, not their own conceits and inventions, but the Word of the Lord. God ſendeth none upon any other Errand, but to reveal his Will, and tell his Mind unto people. n Then, ſaith the Prophet, they ſhould have turned them from their evil way, that is, they would have made this their ſcope, buſineſs and end, to turn Sinners from their ſinful ways, and though poſſibly their labour would not have had ſo good an effect upon all, yet they would have had an effect upon ſome to turn them from their evil doings.

23 Am I a God at hand, ſaith the LORD, and not a God afar off o?

o Atheiſm is generally the foundation of ill Life: Men ſay, God ſees them not, the Almighty doth not regard them. By a God at hand many underſtand Heaven; Do you think that my Eyes are limited like yours, that I cannot ſee their Practices though I am ſo far off from me? that is, from the place of my glorious Reſidence? Others interpret the Particle with reſpect to time; Am I a God of Yeſterday, like the Idols? Am not I the Ancient of Days? The Eternal God, whoſe Majeſty and Omniſcience you ought to have taken notice of?

pſal. 139. 7, &c. Amos 9. 2, 3. * 1 Kings 8. 27. Pſal. 139. 7 p What do theſe Atheiſtical Prieſts, and Prophets, and People, think? Do they think that I, who am a God of purer eyes than to behold Iniquity, ſee and take notice of what Doctrine they preach, and what Lives they live? If they did, ſurely they would not dare to do as they do. Do they think that I do not ſee, or take notice of them? Can any hide themſelves out of my ſight? I fill Heaven and Earth, not only with my Influence, but with my Eſſence; with the Immenſity of my Being; which, as it cannot be circumſcribed by any, ſo it is ſhut out of no place.

24 Can any * hide himſelf in ſecret places that I ſhall not ſee him, ſaith the LORD? * do not I fill heaven and earth, ſaith the LORD p?

25 I have heard what the prophets ſaid, that propheſie lyes in my name, ſaying, I have dreamed, I have dreamed q.

q Viſions and Dreams, were two uſual ways by which under the Law God made himſelf known of old to his Prophets, making them ſometimes, being awake, to hear a Voice; ſometimes attended with, and proceeding upon, ſome viſible Appearance, ſometimes not: at other times cauſing them, being aſleep, to dream; and in their ſleep revealing to them; as in a dream, what his Will was they ſhould declare and publiſh to his People. Theſe falſe Prophets ſpeaking what came into their own Heads, and ſuited their own Luſts, or the Luſts of a debauched People to whom they ſpake, would pretend, that God had revealed to them what they ſo publiſhed, in a Dream; not in the mean time conſidering God took notice of theſe their little Arts by which they cheated the People. But ſaith God, I am a God that know afar off as well as at hand, and I have heard what they ſay, propheſying Lyes as from me, and pretending that I had in Dreams revealed them to them.

26 How long ſhall this be in the heart of the prophets that propheſie lyes? yea, they are prophets of the deceits of their own heart r.

r Will theſe Prophets never have done? Have they not deceived People long enough with their Lyes, and the Deceit of their own hearts; and that not unwarily, and by involuntary Miſtake, but of ſet purpoſe, it being in their Heart, their Purpoſe and Deſign, to do it. Some join it to the following Verſe, and make the Sence this; Do theſe Prophets, that publiſh Lyes, and the Deceits of their Hearts, for my revealed Will, think to cheat my People always, and to cauſe my People to forget my Name? as it followeth in the next Verſe.

* Judg. 3. 7. and 8. 33, 34.

27 Which think to cauſe my people to forget my name ſ by their dreams which they tell every man to his neighbour t, * as their fathers have forgotten my name for Baal u.

ſ That is, to forget me, and thoſe things by which I have made my ſelf known unto them, my Word, and my Works. t By their Dreams which they tell abroad every one to his Neighbour, as if they were Revelations which I had in their ſleep made unto them: but they are indeed Lyes, and nothing but the Deceits of their own Hearts. u So that in effect they are Baal's Prieſts; for as Baal's Prophets, by publiſhing their pretended Revelations from Baal, ſeduced the People from the Service and Obedience of the true God; ſo theſe, by telling their pretended Dreams, ſeduced Men from their Obedience to God in what he revealed to them by the true Prophets: they agree'd in the End, the Seducing of the People from God, though they differed in the Mean, the one pretending Revelations from Baal, the other from the true God by their Dreams.

28 The prophet that † hath a dream w, let him tell a dream; and he that hath my word, let him ſpeak my word faithfully x: what is the chaff to the wheat, ſaith the LORD y?

w Not a Divine Dream; a Revelation which I have made to him in his ſleep, (as appeareth by the following Oppoſition, betwixt a Dream, and the Word of the Lord,) but if any Man hath dreamed an ordinary Dream, let him tell it as a Dream; let him not entitle God to it. x And let him to whom I have revealed my Will, publiſh and declare That in all Truth and Faithfulneſs, not adding his own Fancies or Dreams to it, 2 Cor. 2. 17. 1 Pet. 2. 2. not corrupting my Word. y There is as much Difference betwixt my Will and their Dreams, as there is betwixt the Chaff and the Wheat; the one is of value to make Food for the Soul, as Wheat doth for the Body; the other is of no value: the one (viz. my Word) is of a ſolid, abiding Subſtance; the other is light and airy, and eaſily ſcattered by every Wind.

29 Is not my word like a fire z, ſaith the LORD? and like an hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces a?

z Full of Life and Efficacy, John 6. 63. Heb. 4. 12. like a Fire that warmeth, and healeth, and melteth, and conſumeth the Droſs. a And like an Hammer that breaketh the Flints, ſo my Word breaketh hard Hearts. Others think, that the Word is here compared to Fire, and to an Hammer, becauſe of the certain effect that it ſhould have upon thoſe that would not obey it, to burn them up like fire, and break them in piece like an Hammer, and ſo think this Text well expounded by the Apoſtle, 2 Cor. 2. 16. Certain it is, that God's Word is like fire in both Senſes; no Words of Men have an effect and efficacy like God's Words; nothing but that taketh hold upon the Conſcience, and hath ſuch an effect upon the hearts of Men. No Words ſhall ſo certainly and infallibly be juſtified and made good.

* Deut. 18. 20. Chap. 14. 14, 15.

30 Therefore behold, * I am againſt the prophets, ſaith the LORD, that ſteal my words, every one from his neighbour.

There are various Opinions, as to what the Prophet meaneth here by thoſe Prophets that ſtole the Lord's Words from their Neighbours; ſome, by their Neighbour, underſtanding the true Prophets, from whom they ſtole thoſe forms of Speech, Thus ſaith the Lord, or, the word of the Lord, or, The burden of the Lord. Or ſome of the matter which they propheſied, though they mixed it with their own Lyes and Deceits. Others by Neighbours underſtanding their Aſſociates, think that theſe Falſe Prophets conſpired together what to ſay to deceive the People, and ſo ſtole what they ſaid one from another. Or, the generality of the People from whom they are ſaid to ſteal the Lord's Word, becauſe they withheld it from them inpriviſoly. Or by their Arts and Flatteries brought Men out of love with, or fear of the Words of the Lord, which had by the true Prophets been delivered to them.

31 Behold, I am againſt the prophets, ſaith the LORD, that ‖ uſe their tongues b, and ſay, He ſaith c.

b Some think the Heb. Words were more properly tranſlated ſmooth their tongues: Vid. The Engliſh Annotations. c But the next Words ſeem to aſſure us, that the Crime for which God here by the Prophet reflecteth upon the Falſe Prophets, was not ſo much their flattering People, and ſpeaking to them ſuch ſmooth things as pleaſed them, as their entitling of God to their Lyes, ſaying, He, that is, The Lord ſaith. So it may be, though the Word might be tranſlated ſmooth, yet it is here better tranſlated Ufe.

* Zeph 3. 4.

32 Behold, I am againſt them that propheſie falſe dreams d, ſaith the LORD, and do tell them, and cauſe my people to err by their lyes, and by their * lightneſs e, yet I ſent them not, nor commanded them: therefore they ſhall not profit this people at all, ſaith the LORD f.

d That is, Falſe things under the notion of things which I have revealed unto them in their ſleep. e By Lightneſs, here ſome underſtand Volubility, and Smoothneſs of Tongue and Speech: Others, Raſcalouſneſs: Others, Levity and Inconſtancy: The laſt ſeemeth moſt probably the Sence. f I ſent them not (ſaith God) therefore they ſhall not profit: None can expect God's Bleſſing upon their Miniſtry, that are not called and ſent of God into the Miniſtry.

33 ¶ And when this people, or the prophet, or a prieſt ſhall aſk thee, ſaying, What is the burden of the LORD g? thou ſhalt then ſay unto them, What burden? I will even forſake you, ſaith the LORD h.

g The true Prophets, to let the People know how little pleaſing it was to them to be the Meſſengers of God's Threatnings, to denounce his Judgments, uſually thus began their Propheties of that nature, calling them, The burden of the Lord, as may be ſeen Iſa. 13. 1. and 15. 1. and 22. 1. Hab. 1. 1. Zech. 9. 1. Mal. 1. 1. The profane People, and falſe Prophets, and corrupt Prieſts, not loving to hear their doom, would ordinarily mock at the true Prophets; and in deriſion aſk them, what is the burden of the Lord? what ill News they had for them? h God bids the Prophet tell them, That God would forſake them, either as to the Spirit of Prophecy, they ſhould have no more Prophets, or (which is more probable) as to his ſpecial Providence, by which he had watched over, protected, and hitherto defended them; a Burden heavy enough, Hoſ. 9. 12.

† Heb viſit upon.

34 And as for the prophet, and the prieſt, and the people that ſhall ſay, The burden of the LORD, I will even † puniſh that man and his houſe i.

i That is, That ſhall in deriſion ſay thus, mocking at my ſit upon. Threatnings and Judgments. k I will not only puniſh him, but his whole Family.

35 Thus ſhall ye ſay every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What hath the LORD anſwered? and, What hath the LORD ſpoken l?

l I will have you ſpeak more reverently of me and my Word to my Prophets.

36 And the burden of the LORD ſhall ye mention no more m: for every mans word ſhall be his burden n: for ye have perverted the words of the living God o, of the LORD of hoſts our God p.

m Not in Scorn and Deriſion, as not believing there were any ſuch Judgments as they threaten, nor hardly as if I ſent you no other Meſſages but Burdens. n Theſe falſe and irreverent Speeches which are in every man's mouth, ſhall be burdenſom to them, being ſuch, as ſhall bring down divine Vengeance upon them. o Becauſe

o Because you have derided, or misinterpreted the words of God, the living God. p The sin of which is the more aggravated against you, because he is the living, mighty God, and because he hath been our God.

37 Thus shalt thou say to the prophet q, What hath the LORD answered thee? and what hath the LORD spoken.

q To my true Prophet. You shall speak to them reverently, and as becometh you.

38 But sith ye say, The burden of the LORD; therefore thus saith the LORD; Because you say this word, the burden of the LORD r, and I have sent unto you, saying, ye shall not say, The burden of the LORD s.

r Because you go on in your scoffing, and deriding my Word and my Prophets. s And that when I have expreſly forbidden you thoſe profane Speeches, or that deriding form of Speech; adding further contempt to your former profaneneſs.

39 Therefore behold, I, even I, will utterly forget you t, and I will forſake you u, and the city that I gave you and your fathers w, and caſt you out of my preſence x.

t I will forget you as to my Affection, and that is more than if all your friends forgat you. There is a great Emphaſis in the doubling of the Pronoun, I, even I. u I will forſake you as to the preſence of my ſpecial gracious Providence. w And do not flatter your ſelves that I will not do it, becauſe of your Fathers, or becauſe I gave this City to your Fathers, for that very City I will withdraw my ſpecial Providence from, and that Land, which heretofore was called, The Land which the Lord thy God careth for, upon which the eyes of the Lord are always from the beginning of the year, even to the end of the year, Deut. 11. 12. x And I will caſt both City and People out of my gracious preſence. So as I will no longer do them good as I have done.

40 And I will bring an everlaſting Reproach upon you y, and a perpetual ſhame which ſhall not be forgotten z.

y And you ſhall be a reproach, and that not for a few days but for ever. z And a penal ſhame, which neither you nor thoſe that ſee or hear of it ſhall forget. See ſuch expreſſions, Chap. 20. 11.

CHAP. XXIV.

Under the Type of good and bad Figs, 1, —3. He foreſheweth the Return of ſome from Captivity, 4, —7. and the Ruine of Zedekiah and the reſt, 8, —10.

THE ſum of what God by his Prophet revealeth in this Chapter is, that he would deal more graciouſly with thoſe carried into Captivity, with Jeconiah the Son of Jehoiakim; of which read, 2 Kings 24. 12. 2 Chron. 36. 20. than with thoſe that ſhould afterward be carried into Captivity with Zedekiah. This the Prophet hath revealed to him in a Viſion of two Baskets of Figs, as followeth.

1 The LORD ſhewed me, and behold, two baſkets of figs were ſet before the temple of the LORD a, after that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon had carried away captive Jeconiah the ſon of Jehoiakim the king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, with the carpenters and ſmiths from Jeruſalem, and had brought them to Babylon b.

a Some think theſe two Baskets of Figs were ſuch as the people had brought for their firſt-fruits, becauſe they are mentioned as ſet before the Temple. But this might be no more than a Viſion, or an appearance of two Baskets. b The time of this Viſion was ſometime betwixt the carrying away of Jeconiah, of which we read, 2 Kings 24. 12, &c. and 2 Chron. 36. 10. and the carrying away of Zedekiah his Uncle, which was 11 Years after: In 2 Kings 24. 16. there is a particular mention of the King of Babylon's carrying away the Craftſmen and the Smiths a thouſand.

2 One basket had very good figs, even like the figs that are firſt ripe c: and the other basket had very naughty figs, which could not be eaten, † they were ſo bad d.

† Heb. for badneſs.

c God afterwards explaineth to the Prophet, and he to the King's Houſe, the ſignificancy of this Viſion. The Figs firſt ripe are uſually beſt: By theſe good Figs, as will appear by the following Verſes are intended, Jeconiah or Jehoiakin, with the 10000 mentioned, 2 Kings 24. 14. and the 7000 mentioned, Ver. 16. which went with him into Captivity. d By the other Figs which were very bad, not to be eaten, are ſignified Zedekiah and the reſidue of the people carried with him into Captivity. Some may object, that Jeconiah, and the people then carried away, were wicked enough, why elſe were they carried away, and being ſo, how are they compared to good Figs? Anſw. Though they were bad, yet they might be comparatively good, this people for the 11 Years they continued in their own Land, after that their Brethren were carried away, not only continuing in their former courſes, but ſtill growing worſe and worſe. 2. They ſeem not to be called good or bad Figs with reſpect to their Manners or Quality, but in reſpect to what God intended to do to them, viz. to uſe them as bad Figs are uſed, not fit to be eaten.

3 Then ſaid the LORD unto me, What ſeeſt thou Jeremiah e? and I ſaid, Figs: the good figs, very good; and the evil, very evil, that cannot be eaten, they are ſo evil.

e God having cauſed the Prophet to have ſuch a viſible object appear to him, aſk'd him, what he ſaw? as Jer. 1. 11.

4 Again the word of the LORD came unto me, ſaying:

5 Thus ſaith the LORD, the God of Iſrael g, Like theſe good figs: ſo will I acknowledge ‖ them that are carried captive of Judah h, whom I have ſent out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans for their good i.

‖ Or, The Captivity.

g Who have power to do what I pleaſe, and who yet am in Covenant with Iſrael, and have a kindneſs for the Seed of my Servant Jacob. h Look as thou approveſt of one of theſe Baskets of Figs, ſo I do approve of thoſe that were carried away Captive with Jeconiah, repenting of their ſinful Courſes; and accepting of that puniſhment of their iniquity. i Though Nebuchadnezzar carried them away, it was by Commiſſion from me; ſo that though he carried, yet I ſent them. For their good, which words may either refer to the laſt mentioned words, intimating that God in ſending them away aimed at either their Spiritual good, to bring them to Repentance, and an acknowledgment of their ſins: or their temporal good, they being only quietly led away, without the Miſeries of Famine, Fire and Sword, beſides carrying away; which thoſe who remained, and were afterwards carried away with Zedekiah, experienced: Or elſe they may be referred to the former words. I will acknowledge them for their good, that is, I will ſhew them favour, being of the number of thoſe who were not leaders to ſin, but led away by the ill Example of others, and who being carried away grew enſible of their ſins by which they provoked me, and ſo accepted of the puniſhment of their Iniquities.

6 For I will ſet mine eyes upon them for good k, and I will bring them again to this land l, and * I will build them, and not pull them down; and I will plant them, and not pluck them up m.

* Chap. 33. 7 & 42. 10.

k The Soul looking out at the Eye, diſcovereth its Inclinations, and affection, whether of Love, or Wrath. Hence we read of God's ſetting his Eyes upon people for evil, Amos 9. 4. as here of his ſetting his Eyes upon them for good. Or elſe it may ſignifie God's ſetting himſelf to do them good, as a Man when he ſets upon doing a thing, ſets his Eyes upon it in order thereunto. l Some of them probably returned before the end of the Captivity, ſome at the end of the 70 Years. m The meaning of theſe metaphorical expreſſions is, I will proſper them, and provide for them. We read 2 Kings 25. 27. that Evil-merodach, King of Babylon, in the 37th. Year of the Captivity of Jehoiakin, lifted his Head up out of Priſon, ſpake kindly to him, &c. but this Prophecy was alſo fulfilled in Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, Mordecai, and others, who are thought to be carried away with Jeconiah; or the Prophecy may be underſtood of the Poſterity of thoſe who were at this time carried away.

7 And I will give them an heart * to know me, that I am the LORD n, and they ſhall be * my people, and I will be their God o: for they ſhall return unto me with their whole heart p.

* Deut 30. 6. Chap. 32. 39. Ezek. 11. 19. & 36. 26, 27.

n Under the term know me, is here (as in many other Texts) comprehended Faith, Love, Obedience, all thoſe motions of the Soul which rationally ſhould follow a right comprehending of God in Mens knowledge. o I will be a God in Covenant with them, as I will fulfil what I have promiſed them, ſo they ſhall do what is their duty to me. p For or when, or after that they ſhall return to me, not feignedly, but with their heart, not partially, but with their whole heart. This is promiſed as an effect of ſpecial grace, not of the meer good inclination of their natural Wills, for ſo the words I will give, in the beginning of the Verſe, muſt be underſtood, otherwiſe God gives ſuch an heart no more to one Man than another.

8 ¶ And as the evil * figs, which cannot be eaten, they are ſo evil: (ſurely thus ſaith the LORD) So will I give Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his princes, and the reſidue of Jeruſalem that remain in this land, and * them that dwell in the land of Egypt q.

* Chap. 29. 17.

q Whither it is probable many of the Jews had fled, upon the coming or noiſe of the coming of the King of Babylon, as they had done before, Iſa. 30. 2. and 31. 1.

9 And I will deliver them † to * be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth, for their hurt, to be a reproach, and a proverb, a taunt, and a curſe in all places whither I ſhall drive them r.

† Heb. for removing, or Vexation. * Deut. 28. 25.

r The Lord by his Prophet expreſſeth thoſe tremendous Judgments which he had deſigned to bring upon this wicked Prince and People in the words of Moſes the Man of God, as well becauſe the Jews had a great Reverence (pretendedly at leaſt) for Moſes, how little ſoever they had for Jeremiah: as to let them ſee, that what the Lord here threatned, and ſuddenly would bring to paſs, was but in a juſt accompliſhment of what he before had threatned in his Law, by which they ought to have taken warning. The ſum is, he would make them a common Scoff, and By-word, that their Miſery ſhould be a common Proverb, and when Men would Curſe one another, they ſhould with them like Zedekiah and the Jews.

10 And I will ſend the ſword, the famine, and the peſtilence amongſt them, till they be conſumed from off the land, that I gave unto them and to their fa-ſ Many of them ſhall not live to be carried into Captivity, but ſhall die miſerably in their own Land, if not by the Enemies Sword, yet by the Famine and the Peſtilence, which two things ordinarily attend long Sieges. By one of theſe three fore Judgments of God they ſhall be conſumed out of the Land, and ſhall not hold it by the Title of God's gift of it to their Fathers. No gifts of God, except thoſe of ſpecial Grace, are perpetuities; but either given, Quam diu bene ſe geſſerint, ſo long as Men behave themſelves well in the uſe of them; or, Durante bene placito, during God's good Will and Pleaſure.

CHAP. XXV.

Their Diſobedience to the Prophets reproved, 1, —7. The Seventy Years of Captivity foretold, 8, —11. and after that the Deſtruction of Babylon, 12, —14. By a Cup of Wine is foreſhewn the Deſtruction of all Nations, 15, —33. The howling of the Shepherds, 34, —38.

1 THE word that came to Jeremiah the Prophet concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehojakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah a, that was the firſt year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon b.

a The fourth Year of Jehojakim, was ſeven Years and odd Months before Jeconiah or Jehojakin his Son was carried into Captivity, as appears from 2 Kings 23. 36. and Chap. 24. 8, 15. and 18 Years before the taking of the City, and the more general Captivity; which argueth that this Prophecy is miſplaced, and ſet after the former, whereas in order of time it was 16 or 17 Years before it. b This is ſaid to be the firſt Year of Nebuchadnezzar (called by Ptolomy, Nabopollaſſar.) It is ſaid Dan. 1. 1. that this Nebuchadnezzar came up in the third Year of Jehojakim; to which is anſwered. That the firſt Year of Nebuchadnezzar's Reign muſt be underſtood of his abſolute Reign, which concurred partly with the third, partly with the fourth Year of Jehojakim; they ſay he was before a ſharer in the Kingly Government with his Father, but this was the firſt Year, that he had the Name of King intirely given unto him.

2 The which Jeremiah the prophet ſpake to all the people of Judah, and to all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, ſaying, c.

c That is the word concerned them all, and he ſpake it to ſo many of them, as he met with in any publick aſſembly at Hieruſalem or elſewhere.

3 From the thirteenth year of Joſiah the ſon of Amon king of Judah, even unto this day, that is the three and twentieth year, d the word of the LORD hath come unto me, and I have ſpoken unto you riſing early, and ſpeaking * but ye have not hearkned e.

* Chap. 11. 7, 8, 10. & 13. 10. 11. & 16. 12. & 17. 23. & 18. 11. & 19. 15. & 22. 21.

d We read Chap. 1. 2. that Jeremiah began to propheſie in the thirteenth Year of Joſiah. Joſiah reigned thirty one Years, 2 Kings 22. 1. ſo that taking in the thirteenth Year, Jeremiah propheſied nineteen Years during the Life of Joſiah, to which adding the four of Jehojakim's Reign it maketh twenty three. e Theſe twenty three Years ſaith the Prophet I have been a Preacher to you, and I have not been negligent in my Work, but like Men, that get up early in the Morning to diſpatch their buſineſs, ſo have I been in the diſcharge of my Prophetical Office.

4 And the LORD hath ſent unto you all his ſervants the prophets, * riſing early, and ſending them, but ye have not hearkned, nor inclined your ear to hear f.

* Chap. 7. 13, 25. & 29. 19.

f Nor am I the only Prophet whom the Lord hath ſent you, and whom you have neglected and deſpiſed, God hath ſent you many more, and you have deſpiſed as many as he hath ſent, though the Lord hath made it his buſineſs to ſend you one after another from time to time. This contempt of the Lord's Meſſengers is made the proximate cauſe of God's Wrath coming upon this people, till there was no remedy, 2 Chron. 36. 16.

5 They ſaid, * Turn ye again now every one, from his evil way, and from the evil of your doings, and dwell in the land that the LORD hath given unto you and to your fathers, for ever and ever g:

* 2 Kings 17. 13. Chap. 18. 11. & 35. 15. Jonah 3. 8.

g The ſubſtance both of their, and my Sermons hath been to perſwade you to leave off thoſe ſinful courſes wherein you have lived, and which you might have amended by vertue of that common Grace which I did not deny you. We have not differed in our Doctrine, to the practice of which you have alſo been incouraged both by them and me, with an aſſurance from God that if you did it, you ſhould injoy this good Land, which the Lord promiſed, and gave to you and your Fathers, and you have now poſſeſſed from Age to Age.

6 And go not after other gods h to ſerve them, and to worſhip them i, and provoke me not to anger with the works of your hands k, and I will do you no hurt l.

h Idols which indeed are no Gods, but ſo called by Idolaters. i To pay any divine homage unto them. k And provoke me not to anger by Idols, which are the Work of Mens hands, (no uncreated Beings.) Or more generally any Works which are contrary to the Law of God. l If you do this I will by my Providence do you no harm, you ſhall yet enjoy your own Land and proſper.

7 Yet he have not hearkned unto me m, ſaith the LORD, that ye might provoke me to anger with the works of your hands n to your own hurt o.

m Ye heard me, and other the Lord's Prophets thus ſpeaking to you, but you did not obey, and hearken. n As if you had done it on purpoſe to inceniſe me againſt you, who am of my ſelf ſlow to wrath, and muſt be provoked to execute vindicative Juſtice by Mens own wicked Works. o Which do not otherwiſe affect or hurt me, but are to their hurt who do them.

8 ¶ Therefore thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, Becauſe you have not heard my words p.

p That is becauſe you have not hearkned to, and obeyed my words; for it is manifeſt they had heard Jeremiah and the other Prophets.

9 Behold, I will ſend and take * all the families of the north, ſaith the LORD, and Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon my ſervant q, and will bring them againſt this land, and againſt the inhabitants thereof r, and againſt all theſe nations round about ſ, and will utterly deſtroy them, and * make them an aſtoniſhment, and an hiſſing, and a perpetual deſolation s.

* Chap. 1. 15.

* Chap. 18. 16.

q I will put it into the heart of all thoſe Kings, whoſe Territories lie Northward of Judea, and particularly into the Heart of Nebuchadrezzar the King of Babylon, who in this Work ſhall be my Servant; though you will not be my Servants in obeying my Commands, yet he ſhall ſerve me, Chap. 27. 6. and 43. 10. r I will bring them and their Armies up againſt this people, and I will put you out of hopes from your Alliances with other Nations, for he ſhall firſt bring them under his Command, thus we read, 2 Kings 24. 7. that the King of Babylon had invaded the Egyptian Dominions, and taken from the River of Egypt, unto the River Euphrates, all that pertained to the King of Egypt. ſ And I will make the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, not only a deſolation, but a ſcorn, and reproach, and wonderment to the World. Vid. Chap. 19. 8.

10 Moreover, I will † take from them the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladneſs, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride t, the ſound of the milſtones, and the light of the candle u.

† Heb. I will cauſe to periſh from them

* Chap.

t I will take away all your mirth and jollity, whether uſed at Weddings, or at any of your merry Meetings; I will leave you nothing to rejoyce in; your very Wedding times, ſhall be times of mourning and lamentation. u Nay, I will not only deprive you of your mirth, but of thoſe things that are neceſſary for you, as neceſſary as Bread and Light, the Milſtone ſhall not move, you ſhall not have the light ſo much as of a Candle. See the like Expreſſions, Rev. 18. 22. 1. God here threatens not only to take away their Superfluities, and what he had hitherto lent them for their pleaſure and delight, but alſo what they had for their neceſſary ſuſtenance, and to capacitate them to do their ordinary Works.

11 And this whole land ſhall be a deſolation, and an aſtoniſhment, and theſe nations ſhall ſerve the king of Babylon ſeventy years w.

w This Prophecy is a famous Prophecy in regard of its fixing the particular ſpace of time in which the Jews abode in the Captivity of Babylon, viz. ſeventy Years. When they determined we are plainly enough told, Ezra 1. 1. in the firſt Year of Cyrus the King of Perſia, but when they commenced is more diſputed; for we read of three carryings into that Captivity, the one in the third and fourth Year of Jehojachim, when it ſhould ſeem that Nebuchadrezzar, only carried away ſome few perſons to be bred in his Court, amongſt whom were Daniel and the Three Children, Dan. 1. 1, 2, &c. A ſecond ſeven Years after in Jeconiah's time, 2 Kings 24. 15, 16. The laſt and moſt general eleven Years after, in the 11th. Year of Zedekiah, it ſeemeth moſt probable that the ſeventy Years muſt be reckoned from the ſecond, for Jeremiah, Chap. 29. 1, 2, 3. writing to thoſe then in Captivity, tells them, That when ſeventy Years ſhould be accompliſhed, God would bring them back. This is confirmed by Ezekiel, Chap. 40. 1. where the fourteenth Year after the taking of the City is expreſly ſaid to be the twenty fifth Year of their Captivity.

Chap. 29.

12 And it ſhall come to paſs * when the ſeventy years are accompliſhed x, that I will † puniſh the king of Babylon, and that nation, ſaith the LORD, for their iniquity, and the land of the Chaldeans, and * will make it perpetual deſolations y.

* 2 Chron. 36. 21, 22. Ezr. 1. 1. 10. Dan. 9. 2.

† Heb. viſit upon

x Seven Years accounted from the time that the Jews were carried away in the time of Jeconiah or Jehojakin, 2 Kings 24. 15, 16. y This was fulfilled by Darius the King of Perſia, Dan. 4. 31. of * Iſa. 13. thoſe 70 Nebuchadnezzar Reigned 36. 1 Kings 15. 27. Evil Me- 19. & 14. rodach 32. and Belſhazzar at leaſt two, Dan. 8. 1. Tho' God, 23 & 21. 1 whoſe all the Creation is, and who is the Lord of all the Hoſts of & 47. 1. his Creatures, doth often make uſe of Heathens, and other wicked Ch. 50. 40. Men to puniſh his own people, yet he will at laſt puniſh them too, & 51. 25. and ordinarily when he doth puniſh them, it is with a more ſevere, and grievous deſtruction than that by which he puniſheth his people, Iſa. 27. 7. thus he threatens to make the Chaldeans a perpetual deſolation.

13 And I will bring upon that land z all my words that I have pronounced againſt it, even all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah hath propheſied againſt all the nations.

z The Land of the Babylonians and Chaldeans.

14 For

14 For many nations and great kings shall * serve themselves of them also: and I will recompence them according to their deeds, and according to the works of their own hands a.

* Chap. 27. 7.

a God threatneth the destruction of that Monarchy by the Persians, according to the Prophecy of this Prophet, and declareth that their destruction was of themselves, God did but recompence unto them their own Deeds, and the Works of their hands, which is not to be restrained to their excesses in executing Divine Vengeance, and the Cruelty they used to the Israelites, but more generally interpreted of all their wicked Courses.

15 ¶ For thus saith the LORD God of Israel unto me, Take the wine-cup of this fury at my hand b, and cause all the nations, to whom I send thee, to drink it c.

b God's Judgments are often in Scripture expressed under the notion of a Cup of hot and intoxicating Drink, and their Suffering is set out under the notion of drinking such a Cup as Psal. 75. 8. Job 21. 20. Isa. 51. 17. Psal. 11. 6. and 60. 3. Lam. 4. 21. Ezek. 23. 32, 34. God made Jeremiah to see the appearance of such a Cup in a Vision. c And bad him to carry it to the Nations to whom he sent him, to signifie to them that his Wrath should be poured out on them, and they should drink of it.

16 And * they shall drink and be moved, and be mad, because of the sword that I will send among them d.

* Ezek. 23. 34. Nah. 3. 11.

d Whether they will or no, they shall drink it, and be disturbed, and be mad, and rage like Men overcome with Wine, because of those dreadful Judgments which I shall send amongst them.

17 Then took I the Cup at the LORD's hand, and made all the nations to drink, unto whom the LORD had sent me e.

e That is in the Vision; for it cannot be thought that the Lord made the Prophet to travel up and down to all the Nations afterward named, with a Cup of Wine in his Hand.

18 To wit Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, and the kings thereof, and the princes thereof, to make them a desolation, an astonishment, an hissing and a curse, as it is this day f.

f Judgment usually beginneth at the House of God, 1 Pet. 4. 17. God hath more known them and done them more good than other people, therefore their sins are higher provocations, and they are less excusable. By the Kings here mentioned are to be understood Jehoiakim, Jehoiakin and Zedekiah, these Princes with their People, God threatens to punish to astonishment, and so as Men should mock at them, and curse them, which expressions we have before met with in the same cause. But here ariseth a doubt how the Prophet saith (as it is this day) whereas this Prophecy, Ver. 1. was in the fourth Year of Jehoiakim, but Jerusalem was not made such a desolation, till the eleventh Year of Zedekiah, which was 18 Years after. Some think that though the thing were yet to come, yet the Prophet speaketh of it as past, because of the certainty of it, which is but what is ordinary in the Prophetical Writings. Others think that these words were added after the Captivity of Jeremiah, writing over his former Prophecies. Others from these words judge that this part of the Chapter, was a Prophecy at some other time following what was in the beginning of this Chapter. Others think that he adds these words because the carrying into Captivity was at this time begun, though not compleated until the eleventh Year of Zedekiah.

19 * Pharaoh king of Egypt, and his servants, and his princes, and all his people g.

* Chap. 46.

g The Egyptians being that people whom the Jews most trusted to for help, are named as the first to whom the Prophet was sent with the Wine cup of God's Fury, to let the Jews know, that if they trusted to them, their confidence was vain; for they should themselves be destroyed, which was fulfilled within the 12 Years after the Death of Josiah, unto the time of Jehoiakim, as appears from 2 Kings 24. 5. for the King of Egypt made Jehoiakim King, 2 Kings 23. 34.

20 And all the mingled people h, and * all the kings of the land of Uz i, and all the kings of the land of the Philistines k, and Ashkelon, and Azzah, and Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod l.

* Chap. 47.

h It is of no great moment to determine, whether God by the mingled People, here mentioned, intended the various Nations afterwards particularly expressed by their Names, or some people that were not native Egyptians, but lived mingled with them, or some other people of several Nations, who lived near Judea or the Arabians. i By the Kings of the Land of Uz, it is most probably judged are to be understood those Kings who ruled over that people who descended from Dishan, Gen 36. 28. and are judged to have inhabited some part of Arabia Petræa, near to Idumæa. k The Cities of the Philistines are reckoned afterward. l Azzah, Ekron, Ashdod, and Ashkelon, were four of them, the fifth which was Gath is not here named. Vid. 1 Sam. 6. 17. it had a King in former times to whom David fled, 1 Sam. 21. 10. but before this time it was destroyed, either by Psammeticus Father to Pharaoh Necho, or by Tartan Captain General to Sargon King of Assyria, of whom read Isa. 20. 1. that he took Ashdod. which may be the reason that here mention is made of no more than the Remnant of Ashdod.

21 Edom m, and Moab, and the children of Ammon n.

m The Edomites were the Posterity of Esau the Son of Isaac, to whom God had given a Land which they inherited, and he would not suffer the Israelites to make their way through them by force, when they denied them a passage through their Country 1 now he threatens their ruine, as also Chap. 49. 7. and Obadiah's prophecy was against them, where their triumphing in the Captivity of the Jews, is mentioned as one thing that had provoked God against them. n The Moabites and Ammonites were descended from Lot. Chap. 48. is an entire prophecy against Moab, they had lived in long prosperity as appears there, Ver. 12. so had the Ammonites against whom also Jeremiah prophesied particularly. Chap. 49. 1. to the 7th.

22 And all the kings of * Tyrus o, and all the kings of Zidon p, and the kings of the ‖ Iles which are beyond the * sea q.

‖ Or, regions by the sea-side.

o Tyrus was a strong City upon the Borders of the Tribe of Asher, Josh. 19. 29. 2 Sam. 24. 7. a very rich City, and a Kingdom, with the King of which (who was Hyram) Solomon in his time traded much, 2 Chron. 2. 3. Isaiah prophesied its ruine, Isa. 23. 1. So did Ezek. Chap. 27. 28, 29. it was destroyed by Nebuchadrezzar, Ezek. 29. 18. p Zidon was nigh to it, therefore we shall ordinarily find Tyre and Zidon joyned together in Scripture, both Isaiah and Ezekiel, as well as this Prophet prophesied their ruine. q By the Isles beyond the Seas, some understand Greece and Italy, others Rhodes, Cyprus and Creta, but others think Nebuchadnezzar never conquered these, and rather understand those parts of Syria that coasted upon the Midland Sea.

* Chap. 49. 23.

23. Dedan, and Tema s, and Buz t, and all † that are in the utmost corners u.

† Heb. or cut off in the corners, or, having the corners of the hair polled. Chap. 9. 26. Chap. 49. 8, 28. Chap. 49. 31, 34.

r We read of a Dedan the issue of Cham, Gen. 10. 7. Another the Posterity of Abraham by Jokshan, Gen. 25. 3. It seemeth to be a City of Idumea, Chap. 49. 8. s Tema descended from Ishmael, Gen. 25. 15. his Posterity inhabited in Arabia, Isa. 21. 14. where they are joyned with those of Dedan. t Buz was one of the Posterity of Nahor, Gen. 22, 21. These were people mixed with the Saracens or Arabians. u That dwell in the corners or furthest parts of the World. Some interpret it of the fashion of their cutting their Beards, as the Saracens did. Vid. Lev. 19. 27.

24 And all the kings of Arabia w, and all the kings of the * mingled people that dwell in the desert x.

*Chap. 49. 31. See Ver. 20.

w There were several Kings in Arabia, 2 Chron. 9. 14.

x People of several Nations that were got together in the Desart, and had made to themselves several Kings or Chief Rulers.

25 And all the kings of Zimri y, and all the kings of Elam z, and all the kings of the Medes a.

y Those descended from Zimran, Abraham's Son by Keturah, Gen. 25. 2. (the Zamarens as some think mentioned by Pliny.)

z By the Elamites are meant the Persians descended from Sem, Gen. 10. 22. Elam is also mentioned Isa. 22 6. See also Chap. 49. 34. a The Medes came from Madai the Son of Japhet, Gen. 10. 2. they are usually joyned with the Persians, Dan. 5. 28.

26 And all the kings of the north, far and near b, one with another, and all the kingdoms of the world, which are upon the face of the earth c, and the king of Sheshach shall drink after them d.

b All under the Government of the Chaldeans, or (as others) all those Princes that have Dominions between the North and East. c That is, in those parts of the World which were at that time known, with whom there was ordinary commerce. d And the King of Babylon, who was last of all to drink of this Cup of the Lord's Fury. That he is here meant is plain from Chap. 51. 41. where Sheshach is thus interpreted. But why Babylon is called Sheshach is an harder question and not easily resolved. Those who think the Prophet gives Babylon here another Name to avoid an Odium from the King of Babylon, at this time their Enemy, neither consider the usual Courage of this Prophet, nor that he speaks plainly enough, Chap. 51. 14. where he mentioneth both Babylon and Sheshach, and expoundeth the latter by the former. It is thought that Babylon is called Sheshach from the Name of an Idol called Shach which they worshipped, to whose honour they yearly kept a Festival for five Days together, which they called Shace, and they say that during this Festival Cyrus took Babylon. But these are all incertain guesses, it is enough for us to know that by the King of Sheshach is meant the King of Babel, as the Prophet expounds himself, Chap. 51. 41.

27 Therefore thou shalt say unto them, Thus * saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel *, Drink ye and be drunken, and spue, and fall, and rise no more, because of the sword which I will send amongst you.

* Heb. 2. 16.

28 And it shall be if they refuse to take the cup at thine hand to drink, then shalt thou say unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, Ye shall certainly drink e.

e The meaning of these two Verses is no more than this; God let Jeremiah in a Vision know that it was his Will, that he should prophesie a certain, and inavoidable ruine to all these Nations, which was brought upon all the rest by the King of Babylon, whom God made his instrument to execute his Vengeance upon them; And last of all upon the King of Babylon himself by Cyrus the King of Persia. This judgment which he telleth them should be by the Sword, he expresseth by the effects, falling and rising no more, more, and commands them to drink it, to comport with the Metaphor of the Wine cup of God's Fury, mentioned Ver. 15. The drinking of Cups of deadly intoxicating Wine ordinarily producing such effects, as spuing and falling, &c. This Cup of the Lord's Fury he assures them, they should not turn by, but should most certainly drink it.

* Prov. 11. 31. Chap 49. 12. Ezek. 9. 6. Obad. 16. Luke 23. 31.

29 For lo, I begin to bring evil * on the city which is † called by my name, and should ye be utterly unpunished? ye shall not be unpunished: for I will call for a sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth g, saith the LORD of hosts.

† Heb. upon which my name is called.

f By the City called by his Name, or upon which his Name was called, he means Jerusalem, elsewhere called the Holy City. The Apostle, 1 Pet. 4. 17. Speaketh much to this purpose, The time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God, and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the Gospel of God. If God spareth not the green Tree, how shall he spare those that are dry and withered? Atheists, and lewd and profane Persons have little reason to promise themselves an escape from God's righteous Judgment, when they see God not sparing those that make the highest profession of him, and stand in some relation to him. g It is in vain for you to promise your selves an escape, for God is about to punish all your Neighbours.

30 Therefore prophesie thou against them all these words, and say unto them h, The LORD shall roar from on high, and utter his voice from his holy habitation i, he shall mightily rore upon his habitation k, he shall give a shout, as they that tread the grapes, against all the inhabitants of the earth l.

h Reveal my Will, unto them presently, to revenge my self upon them, in words to this sence or purpose; tell them, that I who hitherto have been toward them as a Lamb will now be to them as a Lion, so Joel 3. 16. Amos 1. 2. and 3. 8. and, as a Lion, will rore from Heaven; for though the Temple be sometimes so called, yet the foregoing words from on high expound this term in this place otherwise. i Or in his habitation, which is more likely to be understood in Heaven, (as the former) than in Jerusalem as divers would have it, for God is here revealing his Wrath against foreign Nations, upon some of which these Judgments came after God had done roring in or upon Jerusalem. l A shout, such as Soldiers use to give when they storm a City, or assault their Enemies to incourage their Fellows, and to dishearten their Enemies; like the shout of those that tread the Grapes, singing one to another, or rejoycing and triumphing in the Vintage.

31 A noise shall come even to the ends of the earth, for the LORD hath a controverse with the nations m: he will plead with all flesh n, he will give them that are wicked to the sword o, saith the LORD.

m There shall be such Confusions and Noises, as shall ring over all the World, for God's Quarrel is not against the Jews only, but other Nations also. n Nor will he in any thing he doth, act injustly, if they will joyn Issue with him, he will plead with them, and make it appear to all that he acteth righteously. o He will give up many to the Sword, but they shall be such only as by their wickedness have deserved it, recompensing to them their own Works and evil Doings.

32 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, Behold, evil shall go forth from nation to nation, and a great whirlwind shall be raised up, from the coasts of the earth p.

p It is much the same thing which was said before, only repeated for the greater terror in a variety of expressions. He tells them that the Judgment should be like a Contagion, going from one Nation to another, or like a fire catching hold of another House before the first is burned down, like a Whirlwind that blows from all sides, cometh suddenly, and devoureth dreadfully.

33 And the slain of the LORD shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth: they shall not be * lamented, neither gathered nor buried, they shall be dung upon the ground q.

q That those who should be slain by Commission from the Lord in this time of his Judgments, should be in all places, and so numerous, that there should be none left to lament for, or to bury the Dead, but the dead Bodies should lie and rot upon the surface of the Earth, and be as Muck to it. See the like Phrases, Chap. 16. 4.

34 ¶ * Howl ye shepherds and cry, and wallow your selves in the ashes, ye principal of the flock r: for † the days of your slaughter, and of your dispersions are accomplished s, and ye shall fall like † a pleasant vessel t.

* Chap. 4. 8. & 25. † Heb. your days for slaughter. † Heb. Vessel of desire.

r Shepherds and the principal of the Flock, are in this place of the same significancy, by both he means the civil Rulers; so the word is used, Chap. 22. 22. and 23. 1. These he calls aforehand to bewail their fate. s For the Days were now come, when they should be slain and scattered. t And he tells them their fall should be like the fall of a Chrystal Glass, or some delicate tender Vessel, which when it falleth breaketh in pieces and cannot again be set together.

† Heb. flight shall perish from the shepherds and escaping from, &c.

35 And † the shepherds shall have no way to flee, nor the principal of the flock to escape u.

u In ordinary dispensations of Judgment, there is some way left to escape, and if there be any way of escape, great Men are likeliest to find it, but he telleth them that the greatest Men should find no way to flee from or escape this terrible Dispensation of God.

36 A voice of the cry of the shepherds, and an howling of the principal of the flock shall be heard w: for the LORD hath spoiled their pasture x.

w That is, there shall be heard a great outcry of the Princes and Rulers. x When they shall see how the Lord hath spoiled the Cities in which, and their people upon which they have lived, and amongst whom they were wont to feed securely.

37 And the peaceable habitations are cut down because of the fiere anger of the LORD y.

y That is, the places where these great Men were wont to live splendidly, and dwell peaceably and securely, shall be as surely destroyed through the Lord's Anger, as if it were already done.

38 He hath forsaken * his covert as the lion z: for their land is † desolate, because of the fierceness of the oppressor, and because of his fierce anger a.

* Chap. 4. 7. † Heb. a desolation.

z God had before compared himself to a Lion, Ver. 30. here he declares himself to be about to move like a Lion, who when he goeth out to seek his Prey, leaveth his Covert. Vid. Chap. 50. 44.

a The effects of this rising up of God out of his Covert is the desolation of the Land through the fierceneſs of the Enemy, caused from the fierce anger of God now ready to be poured out upon this People.

CHAP. XXVI.

The Prophet, by God's Command, in the Court of the Temple, threatneth that the Temple shall be as Shiloh, and the Land a Curse: Exhorteth to Repentance, 1, —— 7. He is apprehended and arraigned, 8, —— 11. His Apology, 12, —— 15. The Princes clear him by the Example of Micah, 16, —— 19. and of Urijah, 20, —— 23. and by the care of Ahikam, 24.

1 IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, came this word from the LORD, saying a, a The Prophecy, Chap. 25. is said to have been revealed in the fourth Year of Jehoiakim, this in the beginning of his Reign, which makes learned Men think, it ought to have been placed before that. The affairs of the Jews were then in a very desperate condition, Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, had overcome Josiah and killed him in Battle, Jehoahaz or Shallum, being made King in his stead, 2 Kings 23. 30. he had reigned but three Months, and Pharaoh Necho taketh him and imprisoneth him, and layes a Tribute upon the Land of 300 Talents of Silver, and a Talent of Gold, and makes Eliakim King, changing his Name to Jehoiakim, Ver. 33, 34. Now in the beginning of this King's Reign cometh this Word of God to Jeremiah, the People being still hardened and going on in their sinful practices.

2 Thus saith the LORD, Stand in the court of the LORD's house, and speak unto all the cities of Judah, which come to worship in the LORD's house, all the words that I command thee to speak unto them b; diminish not a word c.

b In the largest Court of the Temple, where the most may hear what thou sayest, and there speak to all those that dwell in any of the Cities of Judah, (from whence they were wont to come up, more especially thrice in a Year to the Temple to worship, Psal. 122. 4.) In the Gate or Court of that House wherein they have such a Confidence, do thou stand. (So Chap. 7. 2.) and declare unto them what I command thee. c Neither smoothing what may appear rough, nor suppressing what may offend them, intirely delivering my Will unto them, not shunning to declare unto them the whole Counsel of God, as Paul, Acts 20. 27.

3 If so be they will hearken, and turn every man from his evil way d, that I may * repent me of the evil which I purpose to do unto them, because of the evil of their doings e.

* Chap. 18. 8.

d Not that God was ignorant of their obstinacy and the hardening of their hearts, which was the future event; but to let us know that their destruction would be of themselves, he would give them both a time and space, and also means for Repentance, and the prevention of the Judgments of God coming on them: He did give them time, for it was after this eleven Years before the Captivity of Jehoiakim, and two and twenty before that of Zedekiah: and for Means, God afforded them the Ministry of this Prophet. e Repentance applyed to Man, signifieth a change of Heart and Counsels, as well as of his course of Actions: In the unchangeable God it only signifieth the turning of the course of his Providence, not bringing that evil up on them for the evil of their doings, which supposing their progress and obstinacy in their sinful courses, he had fully resolved to bring upon them.

4 And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the LORD, If ye will not hearken to me to walk in my law f, which I have set before you g.

f A course of Actions in Scripture, is ordinarily call'd a way; in which sence we often read of the way of the Lord, the way of the wicked, the way of the Righteous, &c. and a motion in this course is usually called walking. Psal. 1. 1. Ezek. 18. 9. and applyed both to God and Men. To walk in God's Laws is expounded by hearkening unto them, or (as in other places) by observing, keeping and doing them. g God is said to have set his Laws before them, both in respect of their first promulgation to them at Sinai, and writing them in Tables; and the daily Expositions and urging of them upon their practice by his Servants the Prophets, as it followeth.

5 To hearken to the words of my servants the prophets b, * whom I sent unto you, both rising up early, and sending them i, (but ye have not hearkened.)

* Chap. 7. 13. 25 & 11. 7. & 25. 3.

b Those Prophets who in prophesying were my Servants, revealing my Will unto you. Hearkening here is the same with hearkening unto God's Laws mentioned, Ver. 4. i Whom, I have made my business to send unto you; and to whom you ought therefore to have hearkened, as unto me, but you have not done it hitherto, 2 Chron. 36. 12. 16.

6 Then will I make this house like * Shiloh k, and will make this city a curse to all the Nations of the earth l.

* 1 Sam. 4. 12. Psal. 78. 60. Chap. 7. 12, 14.

k Shiloh was the City where the Tabernacle was pitched, and the Ark, the Symbol of God's presence, was, Judg. 18. 31. & 21. 19 1 Sam. 1. 3. 9. 24. and 3. 21. Out of it the Ark was carried, 1 Sam. 4. 3. when it was taken by the Philistines, and was carried no more thither, but rested in Kirjath-jearim, 1 Sam. 7. 2. where it rested 20 Years. David fetched it from thence, 2 Sam. 6. 2. So that as the Psalmist tells us, Psal. 78. 60, 61. God forsook the Tabernacle of Shiloh; here he threateneth to do the like as to the Temple, becaufe of which they had fuch a confidence. Jeremiah, Chap. 7. 12. had fpoken much the fame thing; it is a threatning that God would deprive them of his Ordinances. l To which he addeth a threatning of deftruction to the City, to that degree, that when Men fhould curfe any place, they fhould fay, God do unto thee as he did to Jerufalem. We had the like Phrafe, Chap. 24. 9. and have it again, Chap. 29. 18, 22, &c.

7 So the priefts, and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah fpeaking thefe words in the houfe of the LORD m.

m All the People prefent at that time heard the Prophet, who according to the Command of God, came into the Court of the Lord's Houfe, and difcharged his Office, fpeaking thefe words.

8 ¶ Now it came to paſs, that when Jeremiah had made an end of ſpeaking all that the LORD had commanded him to ſpeak n unto all the people, that the prieſts, and the prophets, and all the people took him, ſaying, Thou ſhalt ſurely die o.

n Either they had a reverence for the Prophet, or the terror of God fell upon them, ſo as they did not interrupt him till he had fully diſpatched his Errand. o Then the chief of the Prieſts with the aſſiſtance of the People apprehend him, and tell him he ſhould be put to Death.

9 Why haſt thou propheſied in the name of the LORD p, ſaying, This houſe ſhall be like Shiloh, and this city ſhall be deſolate without an inhabitant? and all the people were gathered againſt Jeremiah in the houſe of the LORD q.

p They charge him with being a falſe Prophet, ſpeaking falſe things in the Name of God; their pretence ſeemeth to have been from the Promiſes of God; ſuch as that, Pſal. 132. 13, 14. For the Lord hath choſen Zion, he hath deſired it for his habitation. This is my reſt for ever, here will I dwell, for I have deſired it. Which they interpreted into ſuch a ſenſe, as if they could not by their ſin drive God away from them, and therefore Jeremiah muſt propheſie falſly againſt the Will of God before revealed. p This cauſed a feditious Tumult of the People in the Temple, which alarm'd the Civil Magiſtrates.

10 ¶ When the princes of Judah heard theſe things r, then they came up from the kings houſe, unto the houſe of the LORD ſ, and ſat down ‖ at the entry of the new gate of the LORD's houſe t.

r When the Nobles, and other Civil Magiſtrates, heard of the Tumult, occaſioned by Jeremiah's unpleaſing prophecy. ſ They came from the King's Court, where the Nobles and great Officers in Nations uſually are, to the Temple. t And ſat down at the entry of the new gate in the Lord's Houſe; ſome think it was called the New Gate becauſe repaired by Jotham, 2 King. 15. 35. 2 Chron. 27. 3. Some ſay it was the Eaſtern, others, that it was the Weſtern Gate. It was certainly the place where their Sanhedrim, who were to judge of falſe Prophets were wont to ſit.

11 Then ſpake the prieſts, and the prophets u unto the princes, and to all the people w, ſaying, † This man is worthy to die, for he hath propheſied againſt this city, as ye have heard with your ears x.

† Heb. the judgment of death is for this man.

u In the corrupt ſtate of all Kingdoms, and Cities, the Eccleſiaſtical Officers always were the greateſt Enemies to the Faithful Miniſters of God, as we ſhall find in the whole ſtory both of the Old and New Teſtament. x They ſpeak to the Members of the great Court who are called Princes, and alſo to the people who were in the Court charging Jeremy with Sedition, by propheſying falſly, which was a capital Crime. It was the charge againſt Stephen, Acts 6. 13. that he ſpake blaſphemous words againſt the holy place; to prove this they appeal to thoſe of the people that had heard him.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Jeremiah unto all the princes, and to all the people, ſaying y, The LORD ſent me to propheſie againſt this houſe, and againſt this city all the words that you have heard z.

y The Prieſts having given Jeremiah his Charge, he makes his Defence. z The ſum of which was, he acknowledgeth that he had propheſied againſt the Temple, and againſt the City, and tacitly acknowledgeth their power to take cognizance of ſeditious Perſons, and falſe Prophets, and doth not deny but ſuch Perſons deſerved to die; but denieth that he was a falſe Prophet, or guilty of any deſign to ſtir up ſedition, for he had ſaid nothing but what God had ſent him to ſpeak; and therefore could not propheſie what was falſe, nor was to be charged with any ſeditious deſign.

13 Therefore now * amend your ways and your doings a, and obey the voice of the LORD your God b, and the LORD will * repent him c of the evil that he hath pronounced againſt you.

* Chap. 7. 3. * Ver. 19.

a It is not I that have pronounced Evil againſt you, but the Lord who made both you and me: You rage againſt me, who am but God's Inſtrument, by whom he lets you know his Mind and Will; it were more advifable for you to reform your wicked Lives and Practices. b And that by a full obedience to what the Lord hath commanded you in his Law, and by me ſpeaketh to you. c If you will do this, the Lord will change the courſe of his Providence, and do that which in Men is called a repenting, and not bring thoſe evil things upon you, which he, by me his Servant, hath pronounced againſt you.

14 As for me, behold, I am in your hand d: do with me † as ſeemeth good and meet unto you e.

d That is, I am in your power (as hands often ſignifieth in Scripture.) Jeremiah doth not by this acknowledge any power good and they had juſtly, thus to reſtrain, and queſtion him. e Nor doth he dare them, to do what they had a natural power to do, by ſaying, Do with me what ſeemeth good unto you; the phraſe imports no more than that he could not hinder their doing with him what they pleaſed. The hands in which he was, were the hands of Violence, not of Juſtice, for though they had a juſt power againſt falſe Prophets, yet they had no ſuch power againſt any Prophet ſent by God, let the matter of his Prophecy be never ſo threatening and ungrateful to them. Therefore he addeth, 15 But know ye for certain, that if ye put me to death, ye ſhall ſurely bring innocent blood upon your ſelves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof: for of a truth the LORD hath ſent me unto you, to ſpeak all theſe words in your ears f.

∴ If you make this Sedition, and put me to Death for it, you have a natural power to do it, but you will get nothing by it, but further bring down the Vengeance of God upon you by ſhedding my Blood without a cauſe, the guilt of which will be added to your other guilt, and lie upon you, and upon your City. f For you may think, and talk what you pleaſe, it is a certain truth, that I ſpake nothing out of any evil deſign, nor of my own head; but only what the Lord ſent me to ſpeak.

16 ¶ Then ſaid the princes, and all the people unto the prieſts, and to the prophets g, This man is not worthy to die: for he hath ſpoken to us in the name of the LORD our God h.

g The Judges in this caſe with the aſſent of the People acquit the Prophet, and vindicate him from the Charge of Sedition given againſt him by the corrupt Prieſts, and falſe Prophets, diſtinguiſhing h betwixt one who of his own Head ſpreadeth falſe News, and threateneth evil to a place, and one who doth it by Authority from God, or by Divine Revelation, which is here meant by in the Name of our Lord God. Thus the Civil Magiſtrates taught the Prieſts and Prophets a point of Divinity, which they ought not to have been ignorant of. Some may enquire how the Princes knew that Jeremy ſpake what he ſpake in the Name of the Lord? To which it may be replyed, That Jeremy had been a Prophet now about 20 Years, for he began in the 13th of Joſiah, Chap. 1. 1, 2. Joſiah reigned 31 Years, 2 Kings 22. 1. Then Shallum or Jehoahaz reigned three Months, this was in the beginning of Jehoiakim's Reign, in which time they had had a large Experience both of his Doctrine, and Converſation; and though the Prieſts and Prophets who had had the like experience, were filled with Malice and Prejudice, yet the Princes, and a part of the People were more equal, and though the People were many of them led away with the Prieſts, yet hearing the Prophet's defence, and the Princes judgment upon it, they concur with them to acquit the Prophet.

17 Then roſe up certain of the elders of the land, and ſpake to all the aſſembly of the people, ſaying i, i Probably theſe Elders were ſome of the Court, or elſe Advocates, for they were wont to riſe up, either to plead or to judge, Iſa. 3. 13. Acts 5. 34. They riſe up and apply themſelves to the People to juſtifie their abſolutory ſentence.

18 Micah the Moraſhite k propheſied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and ſpake to all the people of Judah, ſaying l, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts: Zion ſhall be plowed like a field, and Jeruſalem ſhall become heaps, and the mountain of the houſe, as the high places of the foreſt m.

k This was that Micah, whoſe Prophecies are part of holy Writ as appeareth by Micah 1. 1. and 3. 12. where are the very words of the Prophecy here mentioned. l The ſubſtance of that Prophecy was the ſame with this of Jeremiah, that Zion ſhould be plowed plowed up, and the place where the Temple ſtood, ſhould become ſo deſolate that Trees ſhould grow there, as in a Wood or Foreſt.

19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah put him at all to death m? did he not fear the LORD, and beſought the ‖ LORD n? and the LORD repented him of the evil which he had pronounced againſt them? Thus might we procure great evil againſt our ſouls p.

m The Interrogation here hath the force of a Negation; that is, Hezekiah, and the Sanhedrim in his time did not go about to call him in queſtion for his Life, nor put him to death. His Prophecy had a quite contrary effect on him. n It begat in him an awe and dread of that God, in whoſe Name the Prophet ſpake, and quickened him to apply himſelf to God by earneſt Prayer, and the courſe he took had a very good iſſue. o The Lord did not do what he threatned to do. p Now, if we ſhould take a quite contrary courſe, and put this Man to death, we ſhould do contrary to what that good Prince did, (and that with good ſucceſs) do our ſelves no good, but procure great evil againſt our Souls; that is againſt our ſelves both Bodies and Souls ſtrictly taken.

20 And there was alſo a Man that propheſied in the name of the LORD, Urijah the ſon of Shemaiah of Kirjath-jearim, who propheſied againſt this city, and againſt this land, according to all the words of Jeremiah q.

q This is a piece of Story which we have recorded in no other part of Scripture. Some judge theſe words were the words of the ſame that ſpake before, but this is not likely, for then they had brought one inſtance for acquitting him, another for the condemning of him. They are therefore rather to be interpreted as the words of ſome others, either of the Court who were Enemies to Jeremiah, or of his Accuſers, or their Council, urging a later preſident, in the time of Jehoiakim the King that at this time reigned, who alſo pretended to ſpeak in the Name of the Lord, and whoſe Prophecy was the ſame in ſubſtance with this of Jeremiah.

21 And when Jehoiakim the king, with all his mighty men, and all the princes heard his words, the king ſought to put him to death; but when Urijah heard it he was afraid and fled, and went into Egypt r.

r When Jehoiakim our preſent King, and all his great Men heard of it, (probably by the information of others) they judged it a capital crime, and uſed means to apprehend him, in order to the putting him to death, upon which the Prophet being advertiſed of it, and fearing the iſſue, fled into Egypt.

22 And Jehoiakim the king ſent men into Egypt ſ, namely Elnathan the ſon of Achbor t, and certain men with him into Egypt.

ſ The innocent Prophet confidered not the King of Judah's Alliance with the King of Egypt, (obliging him upon demand to deliver up any of his Subjects, who being charged with capital Crimes, ſhould flee into his Country for Sanctuary) and fled thither, but the King t ſent after him one of his great Men (mentioned alſo Chap. 36. 12.) with ſome others to his aſſiſtance.

23 And they fet forth Urijah out of Egypt, and brought him unto Jehoiakim the king, who ſlew him with the ſword, and caſt his dead body into the graves of the † common people u.

† Heb. Sons of the people.

u Theſe Perſons ſent by Jehoiakim, brought back the Prophet by force, he was tried and caſt, judged worthy to die, and put to death, and ignominiouſly buried, not in the Sepulchers of the Prophets, or any Men of Repute and Faſhion, but amongſt the vulgar People. Which, as alſo his diligence to ſend for Urijah (fled into a foreign Country to ſave his life) ſhewed the great Malice of this Prince againſt the Lord's true Prophets; though it had but very ill effects. The future is (if we take theſe words as the Speech of Jeremiah's Enemies) what do you tell us of what Hezekiah did, you have a later inſtance of it in our preſent King's time, the caſes of Urijah and of Jer. miah are fully paralleled. So as the caſe is a judged caſe.

24 Neverthelefs w, the hand of Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, was with Jeremiah, that they ſhould not give him into the hand of the people, to put him to death x.

w Though Jeremiah's Enemies pleaded this inſtance of Urijah, which had this advantage of the other, becauſe it was matter of fact done lately, and a caſe judged in this very King's Reign; yet the hand, that is, the power and intereſt of one Ahikam, who as appears from 2 Kings 22. 12. was one of Joſiah's Counſellors, and the Father of Gedaliah, Chap. 39 14. who upon the taking of the City was made Governour, Chap. 40. 5. was with Jeremiah. x So as through the good Providence of God, Jeremiah was not delivered into the hands of the People, ſome of whom were mutable, and malicious enough, ready to do any thing the Prieſts put them upon. And the after advancement of the Son of this Ahikam to be Governour of Judah, may juſtly be interpreted a Reward in this Life, which God gave him for his kindneſs to his Prophet.

CHAP. XXVII.

The Prophet ſendeth Yokes to five neighbour Kings, thereby foreſhewing their Subjection to Nebuchadnezzar. 1.—7. He exhorteth them to yield, and not to believe falſe Prophets, 8.—11. The like he doth to Zedekiah, 12.—18. The Remnant of the Veſſels ſhall be carried to Babylon, and continue there till the appointed time, 19.—22.

1 IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah from the LORD, ſaying a, a Here is a difficulty ariſeth from this Verſe, which there have been various attempts to reſolve, and whether any hath been fully ſatisfactory I doubt. It is ſaid this word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in the beginning of the Reign of Jehoiakim, and Ver. 3. the Prophet is bid to ſend the Bonds and Yokes, by the hand of the Meſſengers which came to Hieruſalem unto Zedekiah King of Judah, who began not to reign till about 11 Years after the beginning of the Reign of Jehoiachim. To ſolve this difficulty; 1. Some think Jehoiakim was a common Name to all the Sons of Joſiah, and that Zedekiah is here called Jehoiakim, but I ſee no foundation for that conjecture from Holy Writ. 2 Others think it is an error in thoſe that copied out the Prophecies, but it is dangerous to admit that. 3. Others think, that the Prophecy came in the beginning of the Reign of Jehoiakim, but was to be concealed until the Reign of Zedekiah. 4. I had rather agree with thoſe who think that this Command came to the Prophet firſt in the time of Jehoiakim, but was to be repeated by the Prophet often, and accordingly was ſo until, and in the time of Zedekiah; not that he always went about with Bonds and Yokes about his Neck, but that by times, he put them on, and went about with them, as a Type of that Bondage, which the Jews were ſuddenly to indure.

2 Thus ſaith the LORD to me, Make thee bonds and yokes, and put them upon thy neck b;

b God commandeth the Prophet to procure, either by his own labour, or with his Money, ſome Yokes with Bonds to make them more faſt; and to put ſome one of them upon his own Neck, that therein he might be a Type both to his own People, and alſo the People afterward mentioned, that they ſhould be in Bondage to the King of Babylon, and their Yoke ſhould be ſo faſtned with Bonds, that they ſhould not be able to ſlip them, or get them from off their Necks.

3 And ſend them to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the Ammonites, and to the king of Tyrus, and to the king of Zidon, by the hand of the meſſengers, which come to Jeruſalem unto Zedekiah king of Judah c.

c It was and is the cuſtom of neighbour Princes, to ſend Ambaſſadors into each others Countries to reſide there, and maintain correſpondence on the behalf of their Maſters. Theſe Nations were Neighbours to the Jews, and their Princes had their Ambaſſadors Reſident at Hieruſalem. Jeremiah is directed to carry each of theſe Ambaſſadors a Yoke with a Bond, as a preſent from God to their Maſters; the meaning he is alſo ordered to tell them in the following words.

4 And command them ‖ to ſay unto their maſters, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts the God of Iſrael d; Thus ſhall ye ſay unto your maſters.

d The Lord of Hoſts, who hath therefore a power over all the Creatures; who though he be in a ſpecial ſenſe the God of Iſrael, yet his Dominion is extended to your Maſters Countries, as well as unto Iſrael.

5 I have made the earth, the man and the beaſt that are upon the ground by my great power, and by my out-ſtretched arm, and * have given it unto whom it ſeemed meet unto me e.

* Dan. 4. 17, 25, 32.

e To evince to them that his Dominion extendeth to them, he mindeth them, that he was the firſt efficient cauſe of all the Creatures, and made both all Men, and all Beaſts that are upon the Earth, and therefore had a ſpecial propriety in them, and an univerſal power over them, it being in his power to diſpoſe of what was at firſt the work of his hands, and accordingly in the methods and workings of his Providence he did daily diſpoſe of Kingdoms, and Nations according to his pleaſure without being for ſuch diſpoſal of them accountable unto any Perſon.

6 And now have I given all theſe lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon my ſervant f, and the * beaſts of the field have I given him alſo to ſerve him g.

* Chap. 28. 14. Dan. 2. 38.

f By the former words God gave the Prophet Authority to aſſert his Dominion, and right to diſpoſe of all Creatures. By theſe he authorizeth him to reveal his Will, concerning the diſpoſal of the Lands of Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Sidon, viz. that he had diſpoſed of them to Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon, whom he calleth his Servant. Becauſe he did the work which he would have him to do; though as God faid of the Aſſyrian, Iſa. 10. 7. he meaned not ſo; he had nothing leſs in his thoughts than to obey any command of God. Wicked Men being God's Servants, as the Hawk is the prudent Faulconers Servant, who maketh uſe of the Ravenous quality of the Hawk to get Game for him. *Twice more at leaſt we find Nebuchadnezzar thus called, Chap. 25. 9. and 43. 10. g God further adds that the Beaſts ſhould ſerve him, by which he either means that the Cattel which were in the poſſeſſion of the Men of thoſe Nations ſhould alſo come into his power; or that God had also given the Horses and Oxen and other Beasts which he should use in his Wars for Carriages, or conveniency, to him, so as they should be really serviceable to him in his Conquests of those Countries.

7 And all nations shall serve him b and his son and his sons son i, * until the very time of his land come k: and then many nations and great kings shall serve themselves of him l.

* Chap. 25. 12.

b That is, all these Nations; and some think that is expressed in the Article used here demonstratively, though not so taken notice of by our Translators. i And Evil-Merodach his Son, who succeeded him, Chap. 52. 31. and Belshazzar his Grandchild, Dan. 5. 1, 11. k Until the period of his Kingdom shall come, (for Nations have their periods) which was after seventy Years, according to Chap. 29. 10. during which Years some say four Princes ruled in Babylon, the Scripture mentions but three. l After that he shall himself be Conquered, as it came to pass in Belshazzar's time. Dan. 5. 30. Darius the Emperour of the Medes taking his Kingdom.

8 And it shall come to pass, that the nation and kingdom which will not serve the same Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon m, and that will not put their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, that nation will I punish, saith the LORD, with the sword, and with the famine, and with the pestilence, until I have consumed them by his hand n.

m That is, that will not upon Nebuchadnezzar's coming against them, freely submit to his power, and yield themselves to his Subjection. n I will humble them by my fore Judgments of Sword, Pestilence, and Famine; and make them yield, and they shall not avoid what through their stubbornness they study to avoid, but shall at last be brought under by his Power.

9 Therefore hearken not ye to your prophets o, † Heb. Dreams. nor to your diviners p, nor to your ‖ dreamers q, nor to your enchanters, nor to your sorcerers r, which speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon s.

o It is uncertain whether these words were part of the Message which Jeremiah by Command from God, sent to the Kings above mentioned, or the Prophets words to the Jews, for as those Pagan Nations, had Diviners, Dreamers, Enchanters and Sorcerers; so the Jews had them also, Isa 47. 12, 13. the meaning is, hearken to none of them that pretend as from God to foretell your escape from this Judgment, and not being brought into Servitude to the King of Babylon, for you shall serve the King of Babylon. By Prophets he means such as pretended to some Divine Revelations. p By Diviners, he means Southsayers, of which were several sorts. q By Dreamers, such as pretend to Revelations in their sleep. r By Inchanters and Sorcerers, he means their Astrologers, and such as used Necromancy, or by any unlawful ways and means, pretended to know the Mind and Will of God.

10 For they prophesie a lye unto you t, to remove you far from your land, and that I should drive you out, and ye should perish u.

t Let them come by their pretended knowledge which way they will, what they say is false. u And the issue of your belief of what they say, will be nothing but your carrying into Captivity out of your own Country, and your ruine and destruction.

11 But the nations that bring their neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, those will I let remain still in their own land, saith the LORD, and they shall till it, and dwell therein w.

w Those that upon the first Summons, or without making any hostile opposition, shall yield themselves Servants to the King of Babylon, they shall remain still, and be left in the Land to till the ground, and shall dwell therein. It is the time when God is resolved to put an end to the Kingdom of Judah for a time, and to the other Nations mentioned for ever: There is therefore no resisting of God's Counsels; those that most quietly yield will be in the best Condition.

12 ¶ I spake also to Zedekiah king of Judah according to all these words, saying, Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him, and his people, and live x.

x Some think this was at another time, but it is most probable it was the same time.

13 Why will ye die, thou, and thy people, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, as the LORD hath spoken against the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon y.

y That is, why will thou wilfully not only ruine thy self, but thy innocent People by the Sword, the Famine, and the Pestilence? the word is spoken by the Lord, that all Nations who will not willingly yield to the King of Babylon, shall be thus destroyed.

14 Therefore hearken not unto the words of the prophets that speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the King of Babylon: for they prophesie * a lye unto you z.

* Chap. 14. 14. & 23. 21. & 29. 8.

z We shall find throughout all the Jewish Story, that wicked Princes never wanted false Prophets, Ecclesiastical Ministers who would entitle God to what they spake in humour to their Governours. Such Ministers they would have, and usually they proved fatal to them, so did Ahab's Prophets, that incouraged him to go up to Ramoth-Gilead, and Zedekiah's Prophets, who perswaded him not to submit to the King of Babylon; Jeremy perswades Zedekiah, not to hearken to them; that is, not to believe them, nor follow their advice; and he giveth him a good reason, because what they said was false.

15 For I have not sent them saith the LORD, yet they prophesie † a lye in my name a, that I might drive you out, and that ye might perish b, ye, and the prophets that prophesie unto you c.

a They make use of my Name, and pretend to say what they say by Commission from me, saith the Lord, but there is no such thing, I never gave them authority to speak any such things. b And though possibly they do not design your ruine by these practices, for none can be thought to design their own Ruine, yet that will be the end of it, for by this means your hearts are hardened against the Revelations of my Will, by which I shall be provoked to give you up to Ruine, not shall they escape, for they shall be ruined with you.

16 Also I spake to the priests, and to all this people, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hearken not to the words of your Prophets that prophesie unto you, saying, Behold the * vessels of the LORD's house shall now shortly be brought again from Babylon; for they prophesie a lye unto you d.

* Chap. 28. 3.

d The Prophet, like God's faithful Servant, spared none, but faithfully gave warning to all sorts, to take heed of the false Prophets, that undertook to foretel that the Vessels of the Temple carried away in the time of Jehoiakim, and his Son Jehoiakin or Jeconiah, of which we read, 2 Chron. 36.7, 10. should be brought back again to Hierusalem, in a short time.

17 Hearken not unto them, serve the king of Babylon and live: wherefore should this city be laid waste e?

e Believe them not, but satisfie your selves as to God's Providence with respect to you, and be content to be subject to the king of Babylon, so may you have your lives for a prey; though you be straitned as to your Accommodations and plenteous and splendid way of life, if you do not, your City will certainly be laid waste, and why should you pull such a Judgment upon your own Heads?

18 But if they be prophets, and if the word of the LORD be with them f, let them now make intercession to the LORD of hosts, that the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem go not to Babylon g.

f If they be true Prophets, and have any Communion with God, instead of foretelling the bringing back of the Vessels carried away. g Let them apply themselves to hinder the carrying away of what Vessels yet remain, and that either in the House of the Lord, or the King's House, or in Hierusalem, which is to be done no other way, than by pleading with God to turn away his Wrath, and not to bring those fore Judgments which he is most certainly bringing upon you.

19 ¶ For thus saith the LORD of hosts concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the bases, and concerning the residue of the vessels that remain in this city h.

h These were all parts of the Temple or Vessels used in it. Vide 1 Kings 7.

20 Which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took not, when he carried away * captive Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem i.

* Chap. 24 1.

i Concerning the persons and things which the King of Babylon then carried away. See 2 Kings 24. 13, 14, 15.

21 Yea, thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels that remain in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah, and of Jerusalem k.

k The Prophet inlargeth his prophetical Threatning, and makes it extend to all other Vessels of price, in the Houses of the King, the Nobles, or more wealthy Citizens.

22 They shall be carried to Babylon, and there shall they be l until the day that * I visit them, saith the LORD m, then will I bring them up, and restore them to this place n.

* 2 Chron. 36. 21. Chap. 29. 10.

l See the fulfilling of this Prophecy, 2 Kings 25. 13, 14, 15. 2 Chron. 36. 18. and that they abode in Babylon till the end of the Captivity, appeareth from Dan 5 2. where we read of Belshazzar's sending for them to drink Wine in, at his fatal Feast. m That is until the expiration of the time of the Jewish Captivity, which was 70 Years. n The fulfilling of that part of the Prophecy, we have Ezra 1. 7, 8, 9. in these words, Also Cyrus the King brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Hierusalem; and had put them in the house of his Gods. Even those did Cyrus King of Persia bring forth forth by the hand of Mithredath the Treasurer, and numbred them unto Sheshbazzar, the Prince of Judah. And this is the number of them, thirty chargers of gold, a thousand chargers of silver, nine and twenty knives, thirty basons of gold, silver basons of a second sort four hundred and ten, and other vessels a thousand. All the vessels of gold and of silver were five thousand and four hundred. All these did Sheshbazzar bring up with them of the captivity, that were brought up from Babylon to Hierusalem. So punctually was Jeremiah's Prophecy in this place fulfilled, and so exactly doth one part of Holy Writ agree with another, which are great Arguments to prove the Divine Authority of the Holy Scriptures.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Hananiah's false Prophecy: Jeremiah's Answer, 1,——9. Hananiah breaketh Jeremiah's Yoke: He foretelleth an Iron Yoke, and Hananiah's Death, 10,——17.

1 AND it came to pass the same year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year a, and in the fifth month, that Hananiah the son of Azur the prophet, which was of Gibeon b, spake unto me, in the house of the LORD, in the presence of the priests, and of all the people, saying c, a Here is a great appearing difficulty, viz. how the fourth Year, could be called the beginning of Zedekiah's Reign, who reigned in all but 11 Years, which if they be divided into three parts, the fourth Year can hardly be in any propriety called the beginning of his Reign. Many things are said to untie this knot, which by such as are curious, may be read both in the English Annotations, and in Mr. Pool's Synopsis, I shall only repeat what seemed to both them, and seemeth also to me the best solution. Though it be said in the fourth Year, yet it is not said, in the fourth Year of Zedekiah's Reign; they therefore think, that the fourth Year of the Sabbatical course is here intended. The Jews had a kind of Jubilee every seventh Year, it was a Year when the Land was to rest, and not be Tilled, Lev. 25. 1, 2, 3, 4. and in that Year they were to release their Debtors and Servants, Deut. 15. 1. which notion of this fourth Year is very probable, if the Year wherein the City was besieged, was a Sabbatical Year, or Year of rest. For if Zedekiah's first Year were the fourth of the seven that made the Sabbatical Circle, his third Year was another Sabbatical Year, and his tenth another, presently after which the City was taken. b Of this Hananiah we read no more in Scripture, it is probable from the place where he lived, which was one of the Cities of the Priests; that he was a Priest, but no more than a pretended Prophet. c He comes to Jeremy in the Temple, where he was wont to deliver his Prophecies, to confront him in the presence both of the Priests and the People, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon d.

d The false Prophet counterfeiteth the stile of the true Prophets, both in the Names which he gives unto God, and in speaking of what God would do, as if already done.

† Heb. two years of days.

3 Within two † full years will I bring again into this place all the vessels of the LORD's house, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took away from this place, and carried them to Babylon e.

e It appeareth by what we met with, Chap. 27. 16. that this was the constant Song of the City Prophets at that time, but we read not of any but this Hananiah, who was so confident as to limit a time, nor doth he mention any long time, he saith within two full Years, but he spake falsly, for it appeareth from Chap. 52. 31. that Jeconiah was there 37 Years.

4 And I will bring again to this place, Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, with all the † captives of Judah, that went into Babylon, saith the LORD; for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon f.

f Only it is admirable, that being so nigh the King's Court he should mention the return of Jehoiakim, or Jeconiah, which had it been true; must have been to the prejudice of Zedekiah, for Jeconiah was the right Heir to the Crown, being the Son of Jehoiakim, Zedekiah his Uncle was put in by the Conquerour, but it is probable, he saw Jehoiakim was more acceptable to the People, and that the Faction for the Nephew was greater than for the Uncle. False Teachers are always on the greatest side, either for number, or for power.

5 Then the prophet Jeremiah said unto the prophet Hananiah in the presence of the priests, and in the presence of all the people that stood in the house of the LORD.

6 Even the prophet Jeremiah said, Amen g: the LORD do so, the LORD perform thy words, which thou hast prophesied, to bring again the vessels of the LORD's house, and all that is carried away captive from Babylon into this place.

g The true Prophet Jeremiah, speaks to this false Prophet with as much boldness as he had spoke to him with impudence, and in the same presence of the Priests, and of the People, but with a presence of great Charity and Modesty. Amen (saith he) which Particle is used in Holy Writ, either as a Particle of Assertion, as it is most ordinarily used both in this single form, and doubled by our Saviour in the Gospel. Or, as a Particle of wishing and praying, upon which account it is used in the Lords Prayer, though there it signifieth more than here, viz. a Faith or Belief, that God will grant the Petitions, as well as a desire that he would grant them; here it signifieth no more than the latter, and is expounded by the next words: Nor indeed doth it, or can it here signifie so much as an absolute hearty desire, for Jeremiah could not heartily pray for that which God had told him he would not do. Jeremy therefore must be understood here, either to have spoken only as a Man, testifying the kindness he had for his Country, then the sence is; If it be the Will of God, or may it be the Will of God; I wish what thou hast said might come to pass; or else in sensu composito, q d. The Lord give unto this People an heart to reform and amend their ways, that the words which thou hast spoken may come to pass.

7 Nevertheless, hear thou now this word that I speak in thine ears, and in the ears of all the people h.

h The word which I am now about to speak concerneth thee, and not thee alone, but all the people, therefore do thou mark it well, and let them mark it also.

8 The Prophets that have been before me, and before thee of old, prophesied both against many countries, and against great kingdoms, of war, and of evil, and of pestilence i.

i That is, thou and I are not the first Prophets that have foretold to Countries and Nations the great Judgments of God coming upon them, War, Evil, Pestilence, by evil, some think is to be underftood Famine, but it is not much material.

9 The prophet which prophesyeth of peace k, when the word of the prophet shall come to pass, then shall the prophet be known that the LORD hath truly sent him l.

k By Peace is here meant Prosperity, all good, being by the Hebrews usually underftood under the notion of Peace. The Prophets either prophefied evil or good, according as God revealed his Will unto them; what way was for them to discover whether the Prophets were truly sent of God, yea, or no? 1 It was known by the Event; this was the Rule God set, Deut. 18. 22. When a Prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken. But this was not true on the contrary part, for a Prophet might speak a thing, which thing might come to pass, and yet be be none of the Lord's Prophets, nor to be hearkned to, as appeareth from Deut. 13. 1, 2. Some have thought, that Prophecies concerning good things always were brought to pass if the Prophet were a true Prophet, but it appeareth otherwise from Chap. 18.9, 10. Prophecies both concerning good and evil, might not come to pass, and yet the Prophet be a true Prophet, in case the Manners of the People altered; for in all Promises or Threatnings of temporal good or evil, there is a Condition to be underftood; God neither by his Promises bindeth himself to do good to wicked Men, nor by his Threatnings tieth up his own hands from shewing mercy to such as turn good; but some observe yet this difference, that good things are in Scripture never absolutely promised, but they come certainly to pass, and are fulfilled, but God for terrour often threatneth evil things, without expreiling any condition, when notwithstanding a Condition is underftood, upon the fulfilling of which, the threatning cometh not to pass, as it was in the case of Nineveh, upon the Prophecy of Jonah. But the greater difficulty is to determine by what rule they could judge one a true or false Prophet, if they might not always judge by the event, the coming, or not coming to pass of what he prophefied. 1 answer, they were to judge from the Word of God, as well as from the Event, Isa. 8. 20. therefore Deut. 13. 1, 2. the People were commanded not to hearken to that Prophet, which should confirm what he said by a Sign or Wonder, if his scope were by it to perswade People to Idolatry. So that if a Prophet prophefied good, and prosperity to any People, the People were to consider what his scope was, and whether what he prophefied was according to the Law of God, which speaketh no good to a wicked impenitent People; and tho what he said came to pass, yet he was to be determined no true Prophet, if what he said were contrary to God's revealed Will, or his scope in speaking of it was to harden People in sinful courses, or to seduce them from the right ways of God. Jeremiah here, as to the tryal of the truth of his, and Hananiah's contrary Prophecies appealeth to the Event, telling him, that he as a Man, heartily wished that his words might prove true.

10 Then Hananiah the prophet took the * yoke from off the Prophet Jeremiah's neck, and brake it m.

* Chap. 27. 2.

m The Prophet Jeremy's coming into the Temple, with a Yoke upon his Neck, as a Type of the Yoke of the King of Babylon, under which the Jews were to come, gave occasion to the affront given him by the false Prophet; in a further degree of impudence, being thus confronted by Jeremiah, he pulls the Yoke off Jeremiah's Neck, and breaketh it in an high and impudent contempt of God, and his Will revealed by this Prophet, and confirmed by this Yoke as a Sign, adding also the following words.

11 And Hananiah spake in the presence of all the people, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon * from the neck of all nations within the space of two full years n. And the prophet Jeremiah went his way o.

* Chap.

n As

as God hath his Sacraments to confirm the truth of his Word, of which his Ministers are the Stewards and Administrators; so the Devil hath his Sacraments, of which his Prophets are the Administrators. God by his Prophet Jeremy had revealed his Will, as to the King of Babylon's success against many Nations, and bringing them into his Servitude; as a Sacrament or Sign of this, he had commanded Jeremiah to put on a Yoke with Bonds; Hananiah the false Prophet, cometh in the Name of God, and declares the contrary, that within two Years God would break the King of Babylon, and free the Nations in subjection to him; and as a Sacrament or Sign to gain credit to his falshood, he plucks off Jeremiah's Yoke, and breaks it, and expounds himself, that God should so break the King of Babylon's Yoke from the Neck of all Nations, and pretends he had a Commission from God to say this. o Jeremiah not able to indure to hear such Lyes, goeth away in Testimony of his dissent from him, and adherence to what he had said.

12 Then the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah the prophet after that Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from off the neck of the prophet Jeremiah saying p.

p Some time after this, God taking notice of the affront, put upon his Prophet Jeremy, for faithfully discharging the Message with which he had entrusted him, revealeth his Mind unto Jeremiah, that he might declare it unto the People, and particularly to this false Prophet.

13 Go and tell Hananiah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Thou hast broken the yokes of wood, but thou shalt make for them yokes of iron q.

q Jeremiah seeing the impudence of Hananiah, and that his further discourse with him would do no good, but it may be have caused more danger to himself, prophesying what was more ingrateful to the People, than what the false Prophet prophesied, and possibly desirous further to know the Will of God withdrew himself. Soon after God sends him back to the People, and to Hananiah with this Message; That he by his false Prophecy had done the People no good, but much hurt, further incensed God against them, and provoked him to make their Judgment heavier, giving them iron yokes, instead of those of wood.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, * I have put a yoke of iron upon the neck of all these nations, that they may serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him, and * I have given him the beasts of the field also r.

* Deut 28. 48.

r For notwithstanding all he had said, God was resolved to justifie his word, and to bring them under subjection to Nebuchadnezzar, and to give all they had also into his power.

15 Then said the prophet Jeremiah unto Hananiah the Prophet, Hear now Hananiah, The Lord hath not sent thee, but thou makest this people to trust in a lye s.

s Jeremiah being a second time confirmed in the truth of his Revelation, and having likewise a special Revelation relating to this false Prophet, comes now and tells him his doom, viz. that he should die within a year, because he had taught people to believe, and to hope for, and trust to what was false, and they were never like to see.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will cast thee from off the face of the earth: this year shalt thou die, because thou hast taught * ‖ rebellion against the LORD t.

* Deut. 13. 5. Chap. 29. 32. ‖ Heb. Revolt.

t And because by this his Doctrine he had made God a Lyar, contradicting his Will revealed by Jeremy, and by it taught People to hold out against Nebuchadnezzar, and not quietly to yield to him.

17 So Hananiah the prophet died the same year, in the seventh month u.

u That is, within the compass of a year after that Jeremiah had spoken these words, within two Months after that Jeremy had thus prophesied, as appeareth from Ver. 1. so dangerous a thing it is for Ministers to teach People contrary to the revealed Will of God.

CHAP. XXIX.

Jeremiah's Letter to the Captives in Babylon, to be quiet there, 1,——7. Not to believe false Prophets; nor expect to return till after 70 Years, 8,——14. The Destruction of those who remained in Judah for their Disobedience, 15,——19. The fearful end of two Lying Prophets, 20,——23. Shemaiah's Letter against Jeremiah, 24,——29. who readeth his Doom, 30,——32.

NOW these are the words of the letter, that Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem unto the residue of the elders, which were carried away captives, and to the priests, and to the prophets, and to all the people whom Nebuchadnezzar had carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon a.

a There were two carryings into the captivity of Babylon, the latter about 11 or 12 Years after the former, the first was in the time of Jehoiakim, of which we read in 2 Kings 24. 14. When the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths were carried away, as we read there, amongst whom were some Priests and Prophets.

2 After that Jeconiah the king, and the queen, and ‖ the eunuchs, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, and the carpenters, and the smiths were departed from Jerusalem b.

* 2 Kings 24. 12. &c. ‖ Or, Chamberlains.

b After this Captivity.

3 By the hand of Elasah the son of Shaphan, and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent unto Babylon to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, saying c, c Zedekiah the King of Judah having some occasion to send two Messengers, named Elasa and Gemariah to Babylon, whether to carry his Tribute Money, or upon what other Errand is not expressed. Jeremiah knowing that as there were some false Prophets at Jerusalem, who fed People with hopes of a speedy return, so there were some with them in Babylon, who did the like, (two of which he afterwards in this Chapter reflecteth upon) writeth the following Letter, and sends it by these two Messengers, to quiet the Peoples Minds, and to help to compose their Spirits, disturb'd by these false Prophets, and raised up to vain and idle hopes for which there was no ground at all.

4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, unto all that are carried away captives, whom I have caused to be carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon d.

d So as this Letter was not wrote from himself advising them charitably, but he had commission from God, by whom he mindeth them, as the principal efficient cause they were ordered to be carried away by, though their own sins were the meritorious cause, and Nebuchadnezzar with his Captains and Soldiers were the instrumental cause.

5 * Build ye houses, and dwell in them, and plant gardens, and eat the fruit of them. * Ver. 28.

6 Take ye wives, and beget sons and daughters, and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may bear sons and daughters, that ye may be increased there, and not diminished e.

e That is, be not uneasie in your minds, not resolving what to do, through the Prophecies of the false Prophets, that tell you the Captivity shall be but two Years, or at least very short; but do all things which you would do, if Babylon were to be your fixed habitation, (as it is like to be for seventy Years, say the Prophets, what they please) Marry, and give, and take in Marriage, do whatsoever it becometh prudent Men to do, who would accommodate themselves in a place, where they are like to abide, and preserve their Families, that they might not be utterly extinguished. The words must not be understood as a Precept, obliging all in the Captivity to do every of these things, which it may be they were not all able to do, but as a counsel and advice not to forbear any thing of this nature, which they would do, if they did fully believe they were to abide in a place seventy Years.

7 And seek the peace of the city, whither I have caused you to be carried away captives f, and pray unto the LORD for it g, for in the peace thereof shall ye have peace h.

f That is, seek to God for it, or rather live peaceably in it, and by all lawful means seek the welfare of it, do not raise any Tumults or Seditions, nor take part with those that do. g And while your Captivity lasts do you pray for it, (from whence those who think that Christ hath added new Moral Precepts, and reckon this Precept of praying for Enemies, as one may understand, that praying for Enemies was but a branch of that Love to our Neighbour, which God required under the Old Testament) for it was lawful for them to pray against Babylon at other times, Psal. 137. 8. Jer. 51. 35. but when God hath put a Yoke upon our Necks, we must patiently wait until he takes it off. The Lawyers say, that Protection requireth Allegiance to Governours; This Text lets us know also that it requireth our Prayers for them, though they be Conquerours and Tyrants. h For God having by his Providence, cast us under their power, our Peace dependeth upon theirs.

8 ¶ For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Let not your prophets, and your diviners that be in the midst of you, * deceive you, neither hearken to your dreams which ye cause to be dreamed i. * Chap. 14. 14. & 23. 21. & 27. 15.

i The Lord knows that you have a Company of false Prophets, that tell you other things, and promise you a sudden return out of your Captivity, pretending to know it by Revelation from God, or by divination, &c. or to have it discovered to them in Dreams. It is the Will of God that you should not hearken to them, for they do but deceive you, and ye are accessary to your own ruine; they see you are pleased to hear such Stories, and that causeth them to dream, as Chap. 5. 31. The prophets prophesie falsly, and the priests bear rule by their means, and my people love to have it so, thus Isa. 30. 10. They said to the seers, see not, and to the prophets, prophesie not to us right things, speak unto us smooth things, prophesie deceits. False Teachers and Guides of Peoples Souls, are the greatest Plague can befal a Nation, People from them expecting to hear the Mind of God, and for the most part, People are accessary to their own ruine in them: It can indeed hardly be imagined, what other Temptation, perhaps whose office it is to reveal the Mind of God, should have to do otherwise, but the humouring and pleasing of a corrupt People, who through their fondness of their Lusts are not patient of found Doctrine, so as though the Church of God hath in all Ages been troubled with Dreamers, yet it is a wicked People that causeth them to dream.

† Heb. in a Lye.

9 For they prophesie † falsly unto you in my name; I have not sent them, saith the LORD.

10 For thus saith the LORD, that after seventy years be accomplished at Babylon, I will visit you, and perform my good word towards you, in causing you to return to this place k.

k From this Text appears that the seventy Years Captivity were to be accounted from the first carrying into Captivity in the time of Jehoiakim, so that 11 Years of it were elapsed, before Zedekiah was carried away. Whatever, faith the Prophet, these Dreamers tell you, you must abide 70 Years in Babylon accounted from your first going thither, it is therefore your Wisdom to acquiesce in the Will of God, and to compose your selves, and to incourage you, the Lord by me assureth you, that after those 70 Years shall be expired, as he hath now visited you with evil, so he will visit you for good, and fulfil the promise he hath made to you, and you shall return again to Jerusalem: we have the fulfilling of this recorded in 2 Chron. 36. 21, 22. Ezra 1. 1. The Promise was before, Chap. 25. 12. and 27. 22. Daniel understood it from the words of this Prophecy, Dan. 9. 2. which put him upon Prayer, at the expiration of that time.

11 For I know the thoughts that I think towards you, saith the LORD, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an † expected end l.

† Heb. end and expectation.

l This Deliverance will not depend upon your Merits, but upon my own Mercy, and kind thoughts and purposes I have for the Seed of Abraham my Servant, and I am resolved in my own thoughts what to do, I intend not the blotting out of the Name of Israel from the Earth, but to give such an end to their trouble as themselves expect and desire, though not so soon as they may expect it, being deceived by their Prophets. There shall be an end of your Captivity in my time, and that is after you shall have fulfilled 70 Years in that Captivity.

* Dan. 9. 3. &c.

12 Then shall ye * call upon me, and ye shall go and pray unto me, and I will hearken unto you m.

m I will not only give you a temporal Salvation and Deliverance, and bring you into your own Land, but you shall go thither with new Hearts, you shall worship Idols no more, but you shall worship me, and be serious and diligent in your Addresses and Applications to me, and I will listen to you in those Applications.

* Lev. 26. 40. Deut 30. 1

13 And * ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart n.

n That is, sincerely; as Psal. 119. 2.

* Deut 4 7. Psal. 32. 6. and 46. 2. Isa. 55. 6. * Chap. 23. 3.

14 And * I will be found of you, saith the LORD, and I will turn away your captivity, and * I will gather you from all the nations, and from all the places, whither I have driven you, saith the LORD, and I will bring you again into the place, whence I caused you to be carried away captive w.

w This Verse containeth no more than was said before, only it is repeated in a little different Phrase, for the further confirmation of their Faith, and the promise is a little inlarged. God saith, he will be found of them; that is, he will answer them. It is expressed in this notion to correspond with the term seeking, by which Prayer is expressed, and to let us know, that those that will have God's favour must find it; which implyeth a seeking, and inquiry after it. The promise which before mentioned only their return from Babylon, is inlarged, and made here to extend to all places whither they were driven, for though the Body of the People were carried to Babylon, yet it is more than probable, that many of them shifted for themselves into other Countries, and were in Exile, but not in Captivity. Cyrus his Proclamation, 2 Chron. 36. 22, 23. extended to his whole Empire.

15 ¶ Because ye have said, The LORD hath raised us up prophets in Babylon x.

x The Prophet here turneth his Speech to some wicked Jews, that were in Babylon, or in Judæa, and more believed some false Prophets, who told them of a much quicker return, than Jeremy telling them the truth from the Mouth of God.

16 Know, that thus saith the LORD, of the king that sitteth upon the throne of David y, and of all the people that dwell in this city, and of your brethren that are not gone forth with you into captivity.

y The word know is, as some think, needlessly supplied, for the following Particle might be as well translated, for, or because, or therefore. By the King he meaneth Zedekiah, whom he chuseth to express under the notion of him that sitteth upon the Throne of David, to take away the vain hopes which the Jews conceived from the promises which God had made to David and to his Seed.

17 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, Behold I will send upon them the * sword, the famine and the pestilence, and will make them like * vile figs that cannot be eaten, they are so evil.

* Chap. 24. 10. * Chap. 24. 8.

18 And I will persecute them with the sword, and with the famine, and with the pestilence, and * will deliver them to be removed to all the kingdoms of earth, † * to be a curse, and an astonishment, and an hissing, and a reproach among all the Nations whither I have driven them z.

* Deut. 28. 25. Chap. 15. 4 & 34. 17. † Heb. for a Curse.

z These Verses contain no more than the threatning which we have had more than once before. He had compared them to vile Figs, Chap. 24. 8. and Ver. 9. and 10. there threatned them with being made a Reproach, a Proverb, a Taunt, and a Curse; and consuming them with the Sword, Famine, and Pestilence; the same thing before delivered by word of Mouth to those in Judæa, is here repeated in a Letter to that part of the Jews in Babylon, to take them off from giving credit to their false Prophets whether in Judæa or in Babylon, who deluded them with the Promises of a speedy return. Believe it (saith the Prophet) you shall be so far from returning whatever your idle Prophets tell you, that your Brethren that are here shall be brought to you, or destroyed with the Sword, the Famine, and the Pestilence, or scattered into other Kingdoms, where they shall be made, a Curse and an astonishment, and an hissing and a reproach.

* Chap. 42. 18.

19 Because they have not hearkned to my words, saith the LORD a, which * I sent unto them by my servants the prophets, rising up early, and sending them b, but ye would not hear saith the LORD c.

* Chap. 25. 4. & 30. 33.

a A contempt of the Word of the Lord was the cause of this Peoples ruine, and will be the cause of ruine to any people. See Chap. 7. 25. and 11. 7, 8. and 17. 23. b Left they should say that they only disobeyed the Prophets, God mindeth them, that in not hearkning to them, they did not hearken to him. The same thing Christ saith of the Gospel Ministers, Luk. 10. 16. The not believing, or not obeying, what Ministers teach not in a due discharge of their Office of revealing the Will of God, is no contempt of God, but of them who for that cause deserve to be contemned; but supposing that what Ministers deliver be the Mind and Will of God revealed in holy Writ, and but a true explication, and application of that, not to hearken to God, and not to hearken to them is the same thing. c Ye wilfully refused to believe them, speaking the Truth to you in my Name, and to obey those monitions they gave you by my direction. All this was a not hearing God.

20 ¶ Hear ye therefore the word of the LORD, all ye of the captivity whom I have sent from Jerusalem to Babylon d.

d Those Phrases I have sent, and I have driven, &c. are diligently to be observed by us. There is no evil in Cities or Nations, which is an evil of punishment, but whoever be the instruments to bring it, God is the Author of it. These Phrases also signified to those Jews, that God was likeliest to know best how long they should stay there, because he sent them thither.

21 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, of Ahab the son of Kolaiah, and of Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, which prophesie a lye unto you in my name, Behold I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he shall slay them before your eyes e.

e Of these two Persons we read no more in Holy Writ; that they pretended to be Prophets, that they abused the Name of God, pretending to reveal his Will, when as what they said was not the Will of God, but a falshood, we learn out of this Verse, and that they were both of them burnt by the King of Babylon, we find in Ver. 22. what the falshoods they published were, is not expressed, but it is most probable they were some of those that pretended that God had revealed to them, that within two Years, or a short time, the Captives carried away with Jehoiakim, should return out of Babylon. God here tells those that were of the Captivity, that those two Wretches should themselves be slain by the King of Babylon.

22 * And of them shall be taken up a curse by all the captivity of Judah, which are in Babylon, saying, The LORD make thee like Zedekiah, and like Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire f.

* See Gen. 48. 20.

f As false Teachers are of the highest sort of Transgressors, speaking lyes in the Name and under pretence of the Authority of the God of Truth: So God in his providence ordinarily makes them the greatest Examples of his Vengeance. God threatneth to bring them to an end that should turn into a Proverb, that when Men had a mind to curse others, wishing them the greatest evils, they should pray to God to make them like Ahab and Zedekiah, whom the King of Babylon burnt, or roasted in the fire, the word קלה signifieth both, Levit. 2. 14. and roasting signifieth only to burn by degrees, which probably was the spectical punishment of these two false Prophets, for we learn from the instance of the three Children, Dan. 3. 19. that the consuming of Persons slowly in a fiery Furnace, was a kind of punishment in use amongst the Chaldeans.

23 Because * they have committed villainy in Israel g, and have committed adultery with their neighbours wives h, and have spoken lying words in my name, which I have not commanded them i, even I know, and am a witness, saith the LORD k.

* Chap. 23. 14.

g The reason here given must not be understood as the reason of the King of Babylon's punishment of them, but why God gave them up into his hands, because they had committed villainy or folly in Israel. h Which is expounded by the next words, they had committed adultery with their neighbours wives. All this is false, and an] so called in Scripture, uncleanness particularly, Gen. 34.7. here it is called villainy, to denote the heinousness of it, especially in those whose Office it was to teach others that they ought not to do it, Rom. 2. 22. Falshood in discharge of a trust is ordinarily attended with debauchery of Life, nor indeed can it be reasonably imagined, that those, who to humour Men, have debauched their Consciences, and declared things as the Will of God, which they know are not so, should be more true and honest in their Conversation towards Men. i The second Crime of these false Prophets was, what gave them their denomination, teaching People what God never bid them speak. k Now this, saith the Lord, I know, and am a witness to, their Adulteries are in secret, but I am a Witness to them; the poor People do not know that they teach them lyes, but I know it. God will deal with Men not according to what Men like themselves know of them, and can prove against them, but according to what he knows, and can witness against them.

24 ¶ Thus shalt thou also speak to Shemaiah the
‖ Or, the Dreamer. ‖ Nehelamite, saying l.

25 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, saying, Because thou hast sent letters in thy name to all the people that are at Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the priest, and to all the priests, saying,

26 The LORD hath made thee priest m in the stead of Jehoiada the priest n, that ye should be Officers in the house of the LORD, * for every man that
* 2 Kings 9.11. Acts 26.24. is mad, o and maketh himself a prophet, that thou shouldst * put him in prison, and in the stocks p.
* Chap. 20. 2. m That is High Priest, as some have thought, but it appears from 2 Kings 25. 18. that Seraiah was at this time the High Priest, and this Zephaniah was the second Priest, as he is there stiled; as also Chap. 52. 24. nor must any think, that the Jehoiada here meant, was the immediate Predecessor of Zephaniah, for besides that Jehoiada was High Priest, which Zephaniah never was; there were near 200 Years betwixt the Death of Jehoiada, and this time, in the stead therefore here signifieth, that thou shouldst be like the good High Priest Jehoiada, unless some other Jehoiada was meant, who was turned out, and this Zephaniah put in his room. o That thou mightest have a care of Religion, and particularly take care of Persons, who being mad or phrenetick make themselves Prophets. p The Priests had a power to restrain such Persons by imprisoning them, or putting them in the Stocks, by which most agree a particular punishment is expressed, but for the nature and way of it, it is not determined. Those who in so incertain a thing, have a mind to read what hath been said, may find it both in Mr. Pool's Synopsis Criticorum, and the English Annotations upon this Verse, but the Learned Author of them reciting what Authors have said, concludes it at last not with any certainty to be determined.

27 Now therefore, why hast thou not reproved Jeremiah of Anathoth, which maketh himself a prophet to you q.

q He means it of an active real reproof, as appears by what went before, he would have had Jeremiah imprisoned, or put to that punishment which they called the Stocks, the nature of which we cannot determine, concluding him to be but a mad Man, and one who was not made a Prophet by any immediate mission from God, but had only made himself a Prophet.

28 For therefore he sent unto us in Babylon, saying, This captivity is long, build ye houses, and dwell in them, and plant gardens, and eat the fruit of them r.

r The matter of fact was true, as appeared Ver. 5, 6. but it was false that this was the effect of Phrenzy, or that he spake this of his own Head, without commission from God; for he wrote nothing of this nature, but by order from God, as appeareth from Ver. 4. where he began his Letter with; Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel.

29 And Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet s.

s It is uncertain whether Zephaniah did this out of kindness to Jeremiah, for we read he was sent to Jeremiah upon Messages, Chap. 21. 1. and 37. 3. from the King, or because he would not apprehend him, before he heard him, and let him know that he did nothing against him, but upon information, &c.

30 Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah, saying,

31 Send to all them of the captivity, saying, Thus saith the LORD, concerning Shemaiah the Nehelamite, because that Shemaiah hath prophesied unto you, and I sent him not, and he caused you to trust in a lye t.

t This is the great mischief of false Teachers, they are the causes of Peoples trusting in lyes, and from hence the sins of false Prophets are ordinarily aggravated.

32 Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold I will punish Shemaiah the Nehelamite, and his seed u: he shall not have a man to dwell among this people w, neither shall he behold the good that I will do for my people, saith the LORD x; because he hath taught rebellion against the LORD y.

u Punishments of this life ordinarily are extended to the Children of sinful Parents, for the Parents sake, who are punished in their Children, being Res parentum, a considerable part of their Parents Goods and Portion. w He and his whole Posterity shall be rooted out; x And neither he nor they shall live to the time of my Peoples return from the Captivity of Babylon. y Because by the falshoods which he hath taught, he hath been an instrument to make people disobey the Commands of God. We had the same clause, Chap. 28. 16. and such a kind of threatning we find Amos 7. 17. denounced by that Prophet against Amaziah the Priest of Bethel, forbidding him to prophesie at Bethel, because it was the King's Court and Chapel. To obstruct the Revelation of God's Will to People, or to publish what is contrary to it, to seduce People from believing it, or yielding obedience, are both Crimes that have been, and will be of fatal consequence to them, and their Families, who are so hardy as to incur the guilt of them.

CHAP. XXX.

God sheweth Jeremiah the Deliverance and Return of the Jews, 1,—9. He comforteth Jacob, 10, —17. Their return shall be gracious. Wrath on the Wicked, 18, —24.

1 THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying a, a This Title is thought to extend to all we have, both in this and the next Chapter, both which mostly consist of comfortable Promises of the restauration of this people, and teacheth us what ought to be the matter of our Sermons; we ought to speak nothing for substance, but what we can justifie to come from the Lord, which all Doctrine doth, that is bottomed on Scripture, though opened, and made more plain and intelligible by words formed in our own minds.

2 Thus speaketh the LORD God of Israel, saying, Write thee all the words that I have spoken unto thee in a book b.

b It is uncertain whether this was a Command from God to Jeremiah, to record all the Revelations which God had made to him, or only the Revelation contained in this, and the following Chapter, which consists chiefly of Promises of the Peoples restauration, and so God might command them to be written, that they might not be forgotten, but be at hand for the People to read during their Captivity, to keep up their faith and hope in God. A Book in the Hebrew Dialect, signifieth any Parchment or Roll; God would have them recorded to testifie his Truth, and the Truth of the Prophet when they should see the things accomplished.

3 For lo, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will bring again the captivity of my people Israel and Judah c, saith the LORD, and I will cause them to return to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it d.

c The reason why God would have the Prophecy written, was for a memorial of God's Truth in his Promises. Israel never returned as to the Body of the People, but those of the Ten Tribes which were God's People did return; we read Luke 2. 36. of one Anna who was of the Tribe of Asher, and many more doubtless did return according to the Promises. Chap. 3. 12. 14. & 23. 6. & 31. 1, 6. Ezek. 37. 21, 22. d It is uncertain whether this promise of returning to their own Land, were fulfilled in those few of the Ten Tribes who joined themselves with those of Judah, after they were returned from Babylon, or remaineth yet in part to be fulfilled. The former is most probable, and that there shall be no such time when the Jews shall return again to Jerusalem, and possess their own Land, for it is hard now to give an account where the Posterity of the Ten Tribes be, by whose return, the Promise should be justified. Besides that the Phrase in the beginning of this Verse, For lo, the days come, seem to import a more speedy fulfilling of the Promise, than after some thousands of Years, tho it is certain the Jews feed themselves with some such expectations.

4 ¶ And these are the words, that the LORD spake, concerning Israel, and concerning Judah.

5 For thus saith the LORD, We have heard a voice of trembling, ‖ of fear, and not of peace e.
‖ Or, there is fear, and not peace.

e God here speaketh, but whether personating other Nations, or the Jewish Nation, is not agreed, nor yet whether this Text refers to the Times of the Messiah, when the Nations should tremble, or the time when Darius invaded Babylon, or the times of Gog and Magog (of which read Ezek. 38) Or the time when the Chaldeans invaded Judah; this last seemeth most probable, and that God by this intended only to rowse the Jews out of their security, and put them off from expecting peace according to the flatteries of the false Prophets, assuring them that the Times that were coming next were not times of Peace, but such as should make them tremble.

† Heb. A Male. * Chap. 4. 31. and 6. 24.

6 Ask ye now, and see whether † a man doth travail with child? wherefore do I see every man with his hands on his loins, * as a woman in travail f, and all faces are turned into paleness g?

f The Voice which I hear, is not the Voice of Women, but of Men, and those the strongest and stoutest Men, yet it is a Voice like the Voice of Women in Travail, roaring out through their pains, and the posture I see the generality of Men are in, is like the posture of Women in Travail, who hold their hands upon their Loins, hoping thereby to abate their pain. Was it ever heard that Males had the pains that use to attend Child-bearing Women? g And all Mens Faces look as if they had the Yellow Jaundice; or are of the colour of blasted Corn as the word signifieth, Deut. 28. 22.

* Amos 5. 18. 7 * Alas, for that day is great, so that none is like it h: It is even the time of Jacob's trouble i, but he shall be saved out of it k.

h It is no wonder that there is such a trembling upon all hearts, such a consternation and great complaining; for it will be a Time of no ordinary Calamity, but of great evil and misery, in the same sence as it is called a great day, Joel 2. 11. great and terrible; and Zeph. 1. 14, &c. i there never was such a Day before. k It will be a day of trouble to those that are the Posterity of Jacob, both good and bad, they shall not be delivered from it, but they shall be delivered out of it.

8 For it shall come to pass in that day l, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will break his yoke from off thy neck m, and will burst thy bonds n, and strangers shall no more serve themselves of him o.

l Not in that great day before mentioned, but in the day when God should deliver the Seed of Jacob out of trouble. m God threatens to break the Yoke of the King of Babylon, that is, to break that power of his which for 70 Years he should exercise in keeping the Jews under. n And he would break the bonds in which they should be kept. o And foreign Nations should no more serve themselves upon the Jews.

9 But they shall serve the LORD their God, and David their king p, whom I will raise up unto them p.

p Who is here meant by David is not well agreed. Some think this Promise was fulfilled in the Rule of Zorobabel, and those after the Captivity of Babylon, of the Family of David, who ruled over the Jews, though not under the stile of Kings; others think that Christ is intended as in the other Parallel Prophecies, Ezek. 34. 23. and 37. 22. Hos. 3. 5. and that the deliverance here promised was spiritual; and indeed unless we so understand it, it will be hard to assign a time when the Promise of the former and this Verse was made good, for upon the return from the Captivity to the coming of Christ, and from his time to this day, other Nations have served themselves upon the Jews, and they have been in perpetual Servitude, first to the Persians, then to the Grecians, then to the Romans, in Servitude to whom they were at the coming of Christ, and soon after miserably subdued by them, and since that time almost all Nations have served themselves of the Jews. Either therefore this Prophecy must be understood in a spiritual sence of the Kingdom of Christ, under which the Jews that received him were made spiritually free: Or else there is a time yet to come, when this ancient People of God shall be restored to a further Civil Liberty, than they have enjoyed ever since the Captivity of Babylon, and be more fully converted to Christ, than they yet are; towards which sence many Texts of Scripture, besides this, look; particularly Rom. 11. 25, 26.

* Isa. 41. 13. & 43. 5. & 44. 2. Chap. 46. 28. 10 ¶ Therefore * fear thou not, O my servant Jacob r, saith the LORD, neither be dismayed, O Israel: for lo, I will save thee from afar, and thy seed from the land of their captivity s, and Jacob shall return, and shall be in rest and quiet, and none shall make him afraid t.

r You that are my Servants, and the Posterity of Jacob, tho your Captivity be Threefcore and Ten Years, yet be not afraid that I have quite forgotten you, or my promise made to your Fathers. s For I will assure you that though I have for your sins sent you afar off, yet you are not beyond the reach of my saving Arm. t You shall return out of the Captivity of Babylon, and be at rest, as they were for 130 Years during the time of the Persian Monarchy. A short History of which we have in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah.

* Amos 9. 8. 11 For I am with thee saith the LORD, to save thee u: * though I make a full end of all nations whither I have scattered thee, yet will I not make a full end of thee w: but I will correct thee * in measure x, and will not leave thee altogether unpunished y.

* Psal. 6. 1. Chap. 10. 24. & 46. 28. u To save thee, with a Temporal Salvation, and deliverance, and those of thee who are Israelites indeed, with a Spiritual, and eternal Salvation; but the first is what is here principally intended. w God puts a difference betwixt the Chastisements of his People, and the Punishment of their Enemies; the latter be destroyed with an utter, and total destruction, to make an end of them; but he chastens his People like a Father for their profit, and will not bring them to utter ruine. x He corrects them in measure; the Hebrew word signifieth in judgment; that is, not in Equity only, but in Wisdom, or with Moderation, wherein he is said to punish his Enemies in fury. There are many Texts of Scripture that mention this difference which God puts betwixt his punishing his People, and his punishing their Enemies, Isa. 26. 14, 15. & 27. 7, 8. y: But yet God will not let his own People go altogether unpunished, that by it they may be reclaimed, and the World may take notice that God is of purer Eyes than that he can, in any Person, behold iniquity.

12 For thus saith the LORD, Thy * bruise is incurable, and thy wound is grievous z. * Chap. 15. 18.

z Interpreters generally understand by bruise or wound here, the state that the Jews should be in, in the Captivity of Babylon, which would be miserable, and so miserable that it would be incurable from any hand, except the Hand of God. But I do not understand why it may not as well be interpreted of their sinful state, with reference to God's purpose, and interpreted by 2 Chron. 36. 16. where it is said, The Wrath of God arose against them till there was no remedy. They had sinned to that degree that God had resolved into Captivity they should go, and there should abide till the determination of 70 Years.

13 There is none to plead thy cause † that thou † Heb. *for bindmayest be bound up: * thou hast no healing medi- cines a.* ing up or pressing.

a Concerning the general design of the Prophet in these words, all Interpreters seem agreed that the Prophet's Scope is to bring their uneasie thoughts to a rest, and make them rest satisfied with the Providence of God; for there was no resistance of the Will of God, which he metaphorically expresseth under the notion of one miserably and incurably wounded, whom no Physician or Chirurgeon could heal; and for whom there was no effectual Plaister; but concerning the particular sence of the Hebrew words, much is critically said, which I conceive not my work to repeat, nor is it of much moment to us to know, whether the word more properly signifies healing Medicines, or courses of cure, or plaisters; those who are curious may read sufficiently about it in the English Annotations upon the Text. It may be more material to consider whether the Prophet's meaning be, there was none would do it, or there was none could do it, or there was none should do it, that is, whom God would admit at present to do it, as he elsewhere saith, though Noah, Daniel and Job, and though Moses and Samuel stood before him, they should save none but their own Souls: The Prophet's design doubtless was to satisfie this People, that there was no present remedy for them but Patience, though some would in charity plead for them, and though their false Prophets might promise a Cure; yet in very deed God would admit now of no Plea for them, and all means that could be used, for their more speedy restauration, would prove no healing Medicines, but like Medicines that make the Patients worse, and irritate, instead of allaying the Distemper.

14 All thy lovers have forgotten thee b; they seek thee not, for I have wounded thee with the wound * Job 13. of an enemy, with the chastisement of a * cruel one c, 24. & 16. for the multitude of thine iniquity, * because thy sins 9. & 19. were increased d. 11. * Job 30. 21.

b In the time of thy prosperity thou hadst many Friends, but now they have forgotten thee: Very probably the Egyptians and Assyrians, who help the Jews made often use of, are the Lovers here intended, 2 Chron. 28. 21. Hos. 12. 1. indeed the Egyptians were before conquered, or very much brought low, by the King of Babylon. c They see the miserable case they are in, and now do not covet thee as formerly, they discern that I have wounded thee with such a wound, as cruel Men use to give their Enemies. d Though it be in me no act of Cruelty, for it is but in a just punishment of your iniquities, which were increased to a very great multitude. * Chap. 15. 5. 6.

15 Why criest thou for thine affliction? thy sorrow is incurable e, for the multitude of thine iniquity: because thy sins were increased, I have done these things unto thee f.

e Why complainest thou of my dealings with thee? Or as Chap. 15. 18. The cause of thy sorrow is incurable, or as others, Why complainest thou that thy sorrow is incurable. f Though it be so, yet thou hast no reason to complain of my dealings, for thy destruction is of thy self; I am just in what I have done, for I have but given thee that Death which is the wages of thy work of sin, nor was I suddenly provoked, it is for the multitude of thine iniquities, and in that case the living Man hath no just reason to complain, Lam. 3. 39.

16 Therefore g all they that devour thee * shall * Exod. be devoured, and all thine adversaries, every one of 23. 22. them shall go into captivity, and they that spoil thee shall be a spoil, and all that prey upon thee will I give for a prey h.

g The Particle כן is thought here to be ill Translated therefore, for manifestly it is not a cause or illative, and those who interpret it wherefore, refer it to what went before, Verse 10, 11. It were better Translated nevertheless, or notwithstanding yet, so the learned Author of the English Annotations thinks it should be Translated, Isa. 7. 14 and 30. 18. and in many other Texts. So this Text is a declaration of God's free mercy, though this People had justly provoked the Lord by their iniquities to punish them, yet he would at length revenge them of their Enemies, and those that spoiled them should feel his justice, and be themselves spoiled, so Isa. 10. 12. and 33. 1. God ordinarily punisheth those that have been Enemies to his People more severely than his People have been punished by them, the Reasons are, because though they serve God in chastising his People, yet they do it not designedly; Isa. 10. 7. and commonly they exceed a measure in their executing God's Vengeance.

17 For I will restore health i unto thee, and I will heal thee of thy wounds, saith the LORD, because they called thee an Outcast, saying, This is Zion, whom no man seeketh after k.

i As the miserable state of this People was by the Prophet, Verse 12, 13. described under the similitude of a Man wounded, and bruised, and sick, so their more prosperous state is described under the notion of health, and God's action in restoring them, expressed under the notion of healing, both here, and in many other Texts, Isa. 6. 10, and 19. 22. and 57. 18, 19. k The Particle here Translated because may so signifie here, for often the scorn and contempt of God's Peoples Enemies, causeth God to make haste to their Salvation, and Deliverance, but many think that it were better Translated although, as it is, Jos. 17. 18. though the Heathens call thee one that I have cast off, as a Man doth his Wife; yet they shall see the contrary, for I will heal thee of thy wounds.

k Though they deridingly say, this Zion whom none cares for: Some think that in this they alluded to the original signification of the word Tzion, which is a dry or wast place.

18 ¶ Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will bring again the captivity of Jacob's tents, and have mercy on his dwelling places l, and the city shall be builded upon her own ‖ heap, and the palace shall remain after the manner thereof m.

l This Verse manifestly is a promise of the rebuilding of the City, and was fulfilled in the times of Ezra, and the Term Captivity, which in its proper sence relates to Persons, not to Places, being here applyed to places, signifies the miserable state of Jerusalem, upon the taking it by Nebuchadnezzar, which God promiseth to change or alter under the notion of bringing again: So we read of the Captivity of Job, who yet strictly was never a Captive, Job 42. 10. m Whether by the term heap be meant the heap of Rubbish, into which the City was turned, upon the taking of it by the King of Babylon, or the hill upon which the City was builded, is not much material; by the Palace is meant either the King's House, or the Temple; so the Verse is a Promise of the building again of the City, the Temple, and the chief Governours House, all which was fulfilled by Ezra; Nehemiah and Zorobabel, the History of which we read in the Books wrote by Ezra and Nehemiah.

19 And * out of them shall proceed thanksgiving n, and the voice of them that make merry o, and I will multiply them, and they shall not be few p; I will also glorifie them, and they shall not be small q.

* Isa. 35. 10. & 51. 11.

n Thanksgiving to God, as Chap. 17. 26. either Thank-Offerings, Lev. 7. 12, 13. or vocal Thanksgivings. o Either in a religious sence, or in a civil sence; if it be taken in the former it signifieth their Mirth at their Religious Festivals, of which we read much in Scripture, Psal. 42. 4. and 118. 15. &c. if in the latter, it signifieth their happy and joyful state after their restauration. p Though they be diminished in the Captivity, yet I will return to them in my wonted Providences, and multiply them according to my promise to Abraham, so as they shall be for number many. q And as to their quality it shall be honourable; though during those 70 Years they shall be a People of mean, or no reputation, yet after that time they shall recover their ancient reputation, and again be a People great for Honour and Glory.

20 Their children also shall be as aforetime r, and their congregation shall be established before me s, and I will punish all that oppress them t.

r Their Posterity also shall be as happy, and in as much repute, as they were before this carrying into Babylon. s Their Church, or the Body of the People of the Jews, shall from Generation to Generation be established. t And though in those times there will be some that will oppress them, yet they shall not escape my Vengeance that do it, for I will protect and defend them.

21 And their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governour shall proceed from the midst of them u, and I will cause him to draw near, and he shall approach unto me o: for who is this that engaged his heart to approach unto me? saith the LORD p.

u This Promise was made good in Zorobabel, and other Governours of the Jews after their return out of Captivity, till they came to be subdued by the Romans. Some set frain this unto Christ, and make it a Prophecy of Christ, being born of the Jewish Nation; it is he they say that was meant by David, Verse 9. and it is not improbable that the sence of the Text may reach unto Christ, but it seems literally to be understood of Zorobabel, and to be opposed to strangers ruling over them, which was no small piece of their Calamity, while they were in Captivity. o That is, he shall serve me, and I will favour him, or this People shall serve me, and I will favour them, and not be as one at distance, or far off from them. Some understand this of the Civil Governour that should be after the Captivity, some understand it of the People, some understand it of Christ; those that understand it of the Governour, make it to signifie the special favour that Governour should be in with God, and his Religion. Those that understand it of the People, make it to signifie the Religion of the People, and the favour they should be in with God. Those who understand it of Christ, interpret it of his favour with God, by whom also the Saints have their access. p Interpreters are yet more divided about this Phrase; some apply it to Christ, either in admiration of his Excellency, or as denoting that none but he could draw near to God in that manner as he did, now had any such a Delight in the Sons of Men as he; so as for him to be a Mediator betwixt Offenders, and an offended God: None but he durst look in the Face of an angry God. Others understand it of God's People, intimating that in the Day when they should return out of Captivity there would be but few, that with any serious purpose of heart would apply themselves unto God, or signifying the impotency that is in Man heartily to draw nigh to God, till (as it is before said) God causeth him so to do; and some think the words have a reference to the Covenant mentioned in the next Verse.

22 And ye shall be * my people, and I will be your God q.

* Chap. 24. 7. & 31. 1, 33. & 32. 38.

q God in these words declares, That in that Day he would renew his Covenant with Israel, (at least the true Israelites) and they should be his People to serve, and to obey him, and he would be their God, to protect and bless them, with all temporal, and all spiritual Blessings.

23 Behold * the whirlwind of the LORD goeth forth with fury r, a † continuing whirlwind s, it shall ‖ fall with pain upon the head of the wicked t.

* Chap. 23. 19, 20. & 25. 32.
† Heb. curling.
‖ Or, remain.

r The Vengeance of God compared to a whirlwind, for the suddenness of it, and because it should incompass them to their ruine, a terrible whirlwind. s Or, a continuing whirling, not a sudden blaft of Wind, that shall presently go over, but a Vengeance that shall abide. t The miserable effects of which, in destroying, shall be either upon the Heathen, or upon the wicked Jews that shall continue in their disobedience and stubbornness.

24 The fierce anger of the LORD shall not return, until he have done it, and until he have performed the intents of his heart u: in the latter days ye shall consider it w.

u He empoundeth in these words the continuing Whirlwind, spoken of, Ver. 23. and withal lets them know, that what the false Prophets faid of a speedy return out of Babylon of those already there, or of the not going of those which as yet were in Judea was all but fallhood; for the Lord was angry, and was resolved to fulfil the purpose of his heart in punishing them. w And though at present they would not consider, nor believe it, yet afterward, when they should see things come to pass according as he had said, then they should consider what he had told them.

CHAP. XXXI.

The Restauration of Israel published. 1, ——14. Rachel mourning is comforted. 15, ——17. Ephraim repenting is brought home. 18, ——21. Christ promised. 22, ——26. His Care over the Church. 27, ——30. His New Covenant. 31, ——34. The Stability and Enlargement of the Church. 35, ——40.

AT the same time, saith the LORD, will I be the God of all the families of Israel, and they shall be my people a.

a When the Lord's Anger shall turn, he having performed all the thoughts of his heart upon the wicked Israelites, he will declare himself not unmindful of the Covenant which he made with Abraham and his Seed, but will be their God, and they shall be the People of his Favour whom he will protect and bless. It is uncertain whether Israel here is to be taken in a more large sence as it signifieth the whole Twelve Tribes, or only Judah, being that part of Israel which was before spoken of.

2 Thus saith the LORD, The people which were left of the sword, found grace in the wilderness; even Israel, when I went to cause him to rest b.

b God confirmeth the afore-mentioned Promises, and his Peoples hope and faith in them, by minding them of what he had anciently done for this very People. Though God did in the Journey which the Israelites had from Egypt to Canaan, cut off many of them by the Sword for their iniquities, some by the Amalekites, Exod. 17. 8. some by the Swords of their Brethren for the Idolatry they committed about the Golden Calf, Exod. 32. 28. yet, those that survived that, and other Judgments, found favour in God's Eyes, while they were going to Canaan the Land of Rest, or while God going before them, brought them into Canaan. God parralleleth his future Providences, and gracious Purposes with his past gracious Providences.

3 The LORD hath appeared † of old unto me, saying c, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love d, therefore with loving kindness have ‖ I drawn thee e.

c The word saying being not in the original, hath given advantage to some to think, that the first words, are either the words of some of the People owning that the Lord indeed had of old appeared to and for them, but doubting whether the kindness of God still held toward them. Or else complaining that these were old Stories. To which the Prophet replies by assuring them that God's Love was not a temporary Love, manifested to a single Generation, but it was an everlasting Love, therefore he had drawn them with loving kindness, he had all along dealt graciously with them, that way attempting to oblige them to that Duty which they owed to him, this drawing with loving-kindness he calleth a drawing with the cords of man, Hos. 11. 4. who ordinarily are little wrought upon by force, but won by Love.

4 Again * I will build thee, and thou shalt be built f, O virgin of Israel g, thou shalt again be adorned with thy tabrets, and shalt go forth in the dances of them that make merry h.

* Chap. 33. 7. ‖ Or, Timbrels.

f As upon their being carried into Captivity, both their Civil State and Church, which either of them were as a Building framed together, were broken and pulled down, and they were scattered here and there, like the Stones of a Building pulled down: So God's bringing them again together, and cementing them by a Political and Ecclesiastical Government, is fitly compared to a Building. g The calling them the Virgin Israel, doth not signifie that the Body of that People had not been destowred by Idolatry, but either signifies that this Promise only concerned such as had kept their Virginity: Or else (which it may be is more probable) Israel is here called a Virgin with relation to the following words, they being Virgins which were wont to go out with Tabrets, 1 Sam. 18. 6. and to Dance in the time of their mirth and jollity, Exod. 15. 20. Jud. 11. 34. h The Virgins are said to be adorned, with their Tabrets, or Timbrels, either (as some think) because they were wont to tie Scarfs, or Ribbons about them, or because they looked comelily with these Instruments of Musick in their hands, or should use them in a more handsome and comely manner than they had done before, when they used them at unseasonable times. That which is here prophesied is, a merry, joyful, pleasant time to this People when their Mirth should become them; or the Restauration of their Religious Festivals, at which they used Instruments of Musick to express their inward spiritual joy and gladness. The Prophets, 1 Sam. 10. 5. came from the High-place with a Tabret, &c.

* Isa. 65. 2. † Heb. profane them.

5 * Thou shalt yet plant vines upon the mountains of Samaria i, the planters shall plant, and shall † eat them as common things k.

i Samaria was the Metropolis of the Ten Tribes, called so from Shomer who owned the Hill, Omri King of Israel bought it, and built Samaria upon it. Mountains in many places are judged the most convenient places for Vineyards, being free from Shades and most exposed to the Sun. k God promiseth them a Liberty to plant, and that they should enjoy their Plantations, eating them as common things, which they could not do till the fifth Year, as appears from Lev. 19. 23. The three first Years it was to be accounted by them, as uncircumcised, that is unclean. In the fourth Year it was to be holy to the Lord. In the fifth Year they might eat the fruit of it, as any common thing that was not unclean, nor yet devoted and consecrated to the Lord.

6 For there shall be a day, that the watchmen upon the mount Ephraim shall cry l, Arise ye, * and let us go up to Zion unto the LORD our God m.

* Isa 2. 3. Mich. 4. 2.

l That Mount Ephraim was a part of the Lot of the Ten Tribes is out of question. Whether by Watchmen, be to be understood State Centinels set to give warning of dangers approaching, or Keepers of Vineyards, seemeth not much material. m It is faid they should call upon Men to go up to Zion, that is, to the Temple of the Lord at Jerusalem to worship the Lord. The only question is, what time this Prophecy was fulfilled? For though Judah returned from the Captivity of Babylon, yet the Ten Tribes (that we read of) never returned. Some think that it was fulfilled in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah, when though the Body of the Ten Tribes returned not, yet many particular Persons of those Tribes, did return and joyn themselves with those who returned out of the Captivity of Babylon, and rebuilt both the City and the Temple. Besides it appareth from Josephus l. 13. cap. 5. 8. That the Demetrii gave Samaria, Galilee and Perea to the Jews. But the best Interpreters judge that this Prophecy was fulfilled under the Gospel; for both Galilee and Samaria received the Gospel as appeareth from Acts 8. 1. 5. 9. 14. and 9. 31.

7 For thus saith the LORD, Sing with gladness for Jacob, and shout amongst the chief of the nations, publish ye, praise ye, and say n, O LORD, save thy people, the remnant of Israel o.

n This grave, authoritative Preface, Thus saith the Lord, seemeth to be prefixed to put the People of God out of fear of the accomplishment of the good things he had before promised, and prophesied of. The Verse in it self is either an Exhortation to those amongst the Jews, who feared God, or to the Heathen, to sing and rejoyce on the behalf of the Jews, to whom God would certainly shew such mercy as they might sing for, before they had it in their hands, they might both publish the thing that it should certainly be, and also bless God for it. o But withal he minds them, that there would be occasion for Prayer as well as praise, there would be a Remnant of Israel, that would have at least no present share in these Mercies, through their Impenitency, Unbelief, and hardness of Heart. Hereby minding us that we ought not so to rejoice in our good things, as to forget those who are no sharers with us: The best of God's Peoples Lot, while they are in this Life, is such as will shew them a need of Prayer as well as Praise.

8 Behold, I will bring them * from the north-country p, and gather them from the coasts of the earth q, and with them, the blind, and the lame, the woman with child, and her that travaileth with child together, a great company shall return hither r.

p By the North-Country, is unquestionably meant Babylon, and the Land of the Chaldeans, and those places which were Northward of Hierusalem; and by the Coasts of the Earth, all other parts into which any of the Jews had been driven. r The meaning of this is, that nothing should hinder such from returning, as had a mind to return; blind Men that could not see their way, and lame Persons, who had no strength to walk in it, though they saw it, and Women with Child, in regard of their heavineſs, and Women Travelling, in regard of their pain, are Persons more unfit to travel long Journeys than any others; but saith God, I will make such provision, that some under those Circumstances shall come. That these Phrases must be interpreted only into this general sense, appears, because such Person in a literal sense could not come. And though some worthy Interpreters, understand it in a spiritual sense of ignorant and impotent Persons, and such as are laden with the burden of their sins, and of coming to Christ, it seems not to be the primary sense of the Text.

9 They shall come with weeping, and ‖ with supplications will I lead them s: I will cause them to walk by the rivers of waters t, in a straight way wherein they shall not stumble u: for I am a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my first-born w.

s Some think that it had been better Translated, they went weeping, for though the Verb be the future Tense in the Hebrew, yet that Tense hath often the signification of the Preterperfect Tense, thus it answereth, Psal. 126. 5, 6. He that goeth forth weeping, bearing precious seed, shall doubtleſs come again rejoycing, &c. but there is no need of it here, for there is a weeping for Joy, as well as for sorrow, as we have it in the instances both of Jacob and Joseph, Gen. 29. 11. and 43. 30. and thus the Text correspondeth with that, Zech. 12. 10. I will pour upon them the Spirit of grace and supplications, and they shall look upon him whom they have pierced, and mourn. Weeping also here may be understood for their past sins. t And they shall have no want as they had when they came out of Egypt, through the Wilderness, where they often wanted water. u Neither shall they have any rough Ways, nor turn backward and forward, as God made them to do in their Passage through the Wilderness. w For as I have the affection of a Father for all Israel, so will I shew the care and kindness of a Father to them, and use them as a Man useth his first-born; so God anciently called the Jews, Exod. 4. 22. they being the first of all Nations, whom God owned, and took into Covenant, and who owned God, and Worshipped the true and living God only.

10 ¶ Hear the word of the LORD, O ye nations, and declare it in the isles afar off, and say x, He that scattered Israel will gather him y, and keep him, as a shepherd doth his flock z.

x God willeth his Promises of good to his People, to be published and declared before hand, and that not to them only, but to other People, that the hand of his Providence when he brings them to pass may be more conspicuous, and it may be undeniably owned to be the Work of God, being no more than what he had foretold long before. y God is not only the Author of those Judgments which come upon his People, but of their Mercies, and his Power in scattering them is enough to confirm us in a belief of his Power to gather them. z He will not only gather them, but keep and protect them when gathered, and thus God sheweth himself their Shepherd; it is the Work of a Shepherd not only to call, and gather his Sheep together, but to watch over them, protect and keep them, when they are so gathered together.

11 * For the LORD hath redeemed Jacob a, and ransomed him from the hand of him that was stronger than he b.

* Isa. 49. 24, 25.

a Because of the certainty of Divine Prophecies and Promises, things in them are often said to be already done, which are not to be fulfilled of many Years after: The sense is, God will as certainly do it, as if he had already done it; for whether it be understood of a Deliverance from Babylon, or of the Salvation of the Gospel by Christ, which by a Metaphor is often also called redeeming and ransoming, it was to be accomplished long after this time. b By him that was stronger than he, some understand the Chaldeans, others understand the Devil, (interpreting the Text of the Spiritual Redemption of God's People by the Blood of Christ, being the Ransom given for them) but undoubtedly the Text is literally to be understood of their Deliverance from Babylon, though (as the Apostle saith) all these things happened to them in a figure. In their Deliverance as well from Babylon as Egypt, they were Types of the Deliverance of God's People from spiritual Babylon, and Egypt by Christ, as well as in their entring into Canaan, they were (as the Apostle proveth, Heb. 3. and 4.) Types of the Saints entring into Heaven, of which Canaan was a Type.

12 Therefore they shall come and sing in the height of Zion c, and shall flow together to the goodness of the LORD d, for wheat, and for wine, and for oyl, and for the young of the flock, and of the herd e: and their soul shall be as a * watered garden f, and they shall not sorrow any more at all g.

c The particular Phrases in this Verse must not be strained, nor do they need a particular explication, all signifying but one thing, viz. the happy and prosperous State the Jews should be in, after their return from the Captivity, both as to their Religious and Civil State; The height of Zion may either signifie Hierusalem, or the Temple more especially where those that returned, as well those of the Ten Tribes, as those strictly of Judah, should come and sing Praises to God; d And should there come to beg of God good things upon the account of his Goodness, owning him as the God of their Mercies, whether of a Spiritual or Temporal Nature. e Such as Corn Wine, Oyl, and an increase of their Cattel, both Flocks and Herds. f And they should be a beautiful, flourishing, growing People, like a watered Garden that looks chearly, and in which things grow and thrive (for Soul doth not seem here to be taken for Mens spiritual and immortal part, but for the whole Man.) g And they shall be sorrowful no more in that manner as they have been, and for that Age and Generation were; or many years, vide Isa. 35. 10. Some think that under these Expressions, is also promised the spiritual Joy which the true Israel of God should have under the Gospel, and the eternal Joy they shall have in Heaven, when, and not before, all Tears shall be wiped from their Eyes; for in a strict sence it was not fulfilled to the Jews, who at the taking of their City by the Romans, sixty years after Christ, met with more Sorrow, than they had ever before met with.

13 Then shall the virgin rejoyce in the dance, both young men and old men together: for I will turn their mourning into joy, and will comfort them, and make them to rejoyce from their sorrow h.

h This Verse containeth only a farther variety of Expressions, all signifying the same thing, viz. their happy State, for some time after the Captivity. We may understand the Dancings here of all sorts of People, either of their religious rejoicing in their Holy Festivals, (for under the Old Testament in their religious rejoicing they used these external Expressions of Joy, as appears from Psal. 150. 4. and from David's dancing before the Ark) or of their civil Joy, where Dancing was more usual: the last words of the Verse expound all the former.

14 And I will satiate the soul of the priests with fatness i, and my people shall be satisfied with my goodness, saith the LORD k.

i By Priests some understand the Ministers of the Gospel, whom God here promiseth liberally to provide for; or rather by giving a success to their Ministery, and letting them see the fruit of their labours, make to rejoice: In which metaphorical sence I should rather interpret it, applying it first to the Priests of the Jews after the Captivity, of whom it is said, Ezra 6. 16. that they kept the feast of the dedication of the second Temple with joy; and verse 22. the Lord had made the people joyful. k Nor were the people for a short time only satisied with the Lord's goodness. In a second duty typical sence it may also signifie the spiritual success, and rejoicing of good Ministers under the Gospel, and the spiritual joy of Believers. This rejoicing is metaphorically expressed by fatness, with allusion to the fat of the Sacrifices under the Law. It is an usual thing for God by his Prophets to express New Testament Duties and Privileges by Phrases borrowed from the Worship of God under the Old Testament. Vide Isa. 66. 22, 23.

15 ¶ Thus saith the LORD, A voice was heard in Ramah l, lamentation and bitter weeping: * Rachel weeping for her children m, refused to be comforted for her children, because they were not n. * Matth 2. 17, 18.

l Interpreters are much divided in the sence of these words, whether they should refer to the slaughter of the Jews belonging to the ten Tribes, upon their being captivated by the Assyrians, or to the slaughter of the Jews, upon the Siege and taking of the City by the King of Babylon, or to Herod's killing the Infants in Bethlehem? Certain it is, the Evangelist, Mat. 2. 8. applieth them unto the latter; but whether the Evangelists application of it be as a literal fulfilling of the Prophecy, or by way of allusion, or no, is the question. Those that think that it is primarily to be understood of the slaughter of the Infants, urge, 1. That Matthew, chap. 2. 18. so applies it. 2. That womens mourning for children seems rather to be for the loss of infants, (as was there) than expressive of the mourning of all sorts of people, in a general desolation. 3 That the place of the mourning seems to hint it; for Ramah was near to Bethlehem, and contained under the Coasts about Bethlehem, mentioned by the Evangelist. 4. The words because they were not, they think make for them; for by being carried into Captivity, they did not cease to be, though they ceased to be in that happy Estate they were in before. 5. Because they think that this is here propounded as a Sign of his Coming, upon whose Coming these Promises of Felicity to the Jews should be fulfilled. These Reasons are not unanswerable; for Matthew may apply it only by way of allusion, speaking of such a Providence, when such a thing should happen as happened before: In which Sence particular Texts of Scripture, are in Scripture often said to be fulfilled, though they had their fulfilling before. 2. Rachel here doth not signifie a single Person, no, nor a particular Sex, but is brought in as a common Parent, lamenting the loss of her Off-spring. 3. Ramah was indeed near Bethlehem, but it was a City in the Tribe of Benjamin, Jos. 18. 25. 1 Kings 15. 17. Rachel was buried betwixt it and Bethlehem, Gen. 35. 19. 1 Sam. 10. 2. and it was also the place where Nebuzaradan, after he had taken Hierusalem, disposed of his Prisoners, as we read, chap. 40. 1 4. Though the greater part of the Jews were not slain, but carried into Captivity; yet doubtless many were slain, and those left alive were not as to her, being now carried out of Canaan into a strange Land 5. Although the Promises in this Chapter, made to the Jews, were more eminently and fully made good under the Kingdom of Christ; yet it may be doubted whether any of these Promises were primarily, and solely fulfilled to them under the Kingdom of Christ, but literally, before that time, though more fully and largely then. In Ramah therefore a Voice was heard, that is in Canaan, and particularly in Ramah, where Nebuzaradan, chap. 40. 1. disposed of the Prisoners he had taken, setting some at liberty (as Jeremiah in particular) ordering others to Death, and carrying the rest away to Babylon, which caused a bitter weeping and lamentation. m Rachel is here brought in, having been buried near that place, as if she were risen up from the Grave, and lamented the Jewish Nation which came out of her Loins (for so Benjamin did, which was one of the two Tribes that made the Kingdom of Judah) all the people of which Tribe are properly enough called her Children. Rachel here signifieth all the Benjamitish Women who descended from Rachel. n And, like a passionate Woman she refused all Arguments of Comfort, because her Children either were not absolutely, being slain by the Pestilence, the Famine, and the Sword of the King of Babylon, or were no longer her Children, being transplanted and removed into Babylon. So as I take this Text literally and primarily to referr to the lamentation for the Miseries the People suffered, upon the King of Babylon's taking the City: To which Mourning Matthew alludeth, there being a lamentation like this, when Herod caused the Infants of two years old to be slain in Bethlehem, and in the Coasts about Bethlehem, of which Ramah was one.

16 Thus saith the LORD, Refrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from tears: for thy work shall be rewarded, saith the LORD o, and they shall come again from the land of the enemy.

o The Prophet in this, and the following Verses, is brought in as one appointed of God to quiet and comfort the Rachel before-mentioned, calling to her to quiet her self, and not to mourn so excessively, for God would recompense her for her Afflictions, which are here understood by the Term Work; (as some think) but the Heb. Word פְּעֻלָּה is hardly found in Scripture taken for Affliction: Others therefore apply it to Rachel, for whose Piety-sake God would shew Mercy to her Children, as a Reward of Grace, though not of Debt. The best Interpreters think that the Terms of Work and Reward are here used only to express the succession of a comfortable State, to their miserable State in Captivity, (as the Wages use to follow the Work) which should make them amends for their long time of Affliction; and so it is expounded by the last Words of the Verse.

17 And there is hope in thine end, saith the LORD, that thy children shall come again to their own border p.

p And again here, where, by end, is meant the end of the seventy years, and the words are but a repetition of the promise of the return of the Jews out of the Captivity of Babylon, of which the Prophet had often before assured them, and here only repeats it as an Argument why they should not be immoderately afflicted; for their Affliction was not endless, nor their Captivity for ever; they should return again into their own Land.

18 I have surely heard Ephraim q bemoaning himself thus, r Thou hast chastised me, and I was chastised as a bullock unaccustomed to the yoke s: *turn thou me, and I shall be turned t, for thou art the LORD my God u. * Lam. 5. 21.

q The Prophet in this Verse sheweth the change that should be wrought in the hearts of the Israelites preceding this turn out of their Captivity. God had made an ancient Promise to this People in their Enemies hands, Levit. 26. 40, 41. If they shall confess their Iniquity, and the Iniquity of their Fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that they also have walked contrary unto me. 41. And that also I have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their Enemies; if then their uncircumcised hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their Iniquity. 42. Then will I remember my Covenant with Jacob, and also my Covenant with Isaac, and also my Covenant with Abraham, will I remember, and I will remember the land The Lord to shew his Faithfulness to his Word, and also to mind them of what must first be done before the aforementioned Promises could be fulfilled, and made good to them; and to quicken them to their Duty, speaks of a thing yet to come as of a thing past, foretelling that before their Deliverance should come he should hear Ephraim, that is, the Ten Tribes, or rather, those of all the Twelve Tribes that feared the Lord, r bemoaning, or bewailing their miserable State or Themselves, both for That and their Sins which had brought them into such a State, and acknowledging not only what God had done unto them, that it was he who had chastised them, and that justly. For s they were as wanton Bullocks not used to the Yoke, which ordinarily are very unruly when they are first put into it, but by use are more quiet under it. t And praying to God, that he would both change their Hearts, and also their State; for without him it could never be done, and by him it would be done easily. u And to this purpose laying a claim to God as their God, and owning him as their God, promising him that though other Lords had ruled over them, yet hereafter he alone should be owned, acknowledged, worshipped, and obeyed by them.

19 Surely after that I was turned I repented w, and after that I was instructed, I smote upon my thigh x: I was ashamed, yea, even confounded, because I did bear the reproach of my youth y.

w We must consider that we are not in an History or a Narration of things done, but in a Prophecy foretelling what should come to pass. The Prophet foretelleth, that before this promised Deliverance should come, the Israelites should be in another Temper, that their uncircumcised hearts should be humbled, they should accept of the Punishment of their Sins, confess God's Justice, and Righteousness, and their own Wantonness and Unruliness, pray unto God to change their hearts which would never else be changed, and change their conditions, which would depend upon that change of their hearts, laying claim to God as their God, who had promised, Deut. 30. 1, 2. That when the Blessings and the Curses spoken of chap. 28, and 29 should come upon them, and They should call them to mind among all the Nations, whither the Lord had driven them; if they returned unto the Lord their God, and obeyed his voice, according to all that he commanded them, they and their children, with all their heart, and all their soul, That then the Lord their God would turn their Captivity, and have compassion on them, &c. Now saith Ephraim after I was turned, after God had changed our hearts, we repented and changed our Practices. x After that God had instructed us, either by his Prophets, or by Briers and Thorns, by our Afflictions, or by his Holy Spirit, we smote upon our Thighs in testimony of our Sorrow and Affliction;

Affliction, Ezek. 21. 12. y Then I was ashamed and confounded for my Sins, understanding that I did but bear the just Punishment of the Sins which I had long ago committed, in the Time of my Wantonness, Rebellion, and Disobedience to God: This is expressed by the Term Youth, because ordinarily Men and Women's Youth is their Time of Wantonness; Persons ordinarily growing more confirmate and sober as years increase upon them. Thus the Prophet foretelleth that God would prepare this people for Mercy: In the next Verses he sheweth how ready God's ear would be to hear

20 Is Ephraim my dear son? is he a pleasant child z, for since I spake against him, I do earnestly remember him still a: *therefore my bowels are † troubled for him, I will surely have mercy upon him, saith the LORD. *Deut. 32. 36. Isa. 63 15. Hos. 11. 8. † Heb. sound.

z Interpreters run into a very great variety in their Explications of this Text, that which seemeth to be the cause of it, is that amongst the Hebrews, affirmative Interrogations are notes of the vehement denial of the thing, as to which the question is propounded, which leads some to interpret these words into a denial, that Ephraim was his dear Son, or a pleasant Child, and denying the truth of his protested Repentance. But certainly this is quite contrary to the whole scope of the Prophet. The Reverend Author of the English Annotations hath observed, that the affirmative Interrogation some times in Scripture doth imply a Negative, or the negative Particle is suppressed and הֲ is put for הֲלֹא; so that is Ephraim my dear Son here, is the same with, Is not Ephraim my dear Son? He gives for Instances, 1 Sam. 2. 27, 28. Where did I? Plainly is the same with did I not? So, Job 20. 4. where we have supplied Not, Knowest thou not? &c. So chap. 3. 6. Where Hast thou seen? Is the same with, Hast thou not seen. So, Ezek. 20. 30. Amos 6. 2. So that though the Particle prefixed הֲ, be an affirmative Particle, yet it is often put for הֲלֹא, and signifieth Negatively, the Negative being suppressed and to be understood. I have also sometimes thought that even here it may be fairly enough interpreted, Is Ephraim now become my dear Son? Is he a pleasant Child? Is his heart turned? So is mine. a For since I spake against him, or with him, or of him, I do earnestly remember him, מִדֵּי דַבְּרִי Ar. Montanus translateth it, from the sufficiency of my speaking with him; the reason of the difference is, דֵּי signifies to suffice, and it signifies time. I see no reason to vary from our Translation, since or from the time as the same Particle signifieth, 1 Sam. 18. 20. 1 Kings 14. 28. Isai. 28. 19. I spake against him by my Threatnings, I do remember him with the affection and compassion of a Father. b My bowels are troubled for him, is as much as I have pitied him; as the Bowels of Parents are turned and troubled for their Children in Calamities; therefore saith God. c I will certainly shew him Favour.

21 Set thee up way-marks d, make thee high heaps e: set thine heart towards the high-way, even the way which thou wentest f: turn again, O virgin of Israel, turn again to these thy cities g.

d The latter part of this Verse expounds the former. Thou shalt (saith God) return again to these Cities which thou now leavest, therefore take good notice of the way thou goest, set up some marks by which thou mayest know it again. e Make thee Pillars or some high heaps of Stone in the way, which thou mayest know again when thou comest at them. f Mind well the way that the Assyrians and the Babylonians carried thee, for thou shalt come back the same way. g Farther to assure them they should return, he calls to them to turn again, and doubleth his words, for the farther confirmation of the thing.

22 ¶ How long wilt thou go about, O thou backsliding daughter h? for the LORD hath created a new thing in the earth, a woman shall compass a man i.

h That the Jews are here meant by the backsliding daughter is out of question; but what going about is here intended, is not so plain. Some interpret it of their running after Idols; some of their seeking help from foreign Nations, instead of applying themselves unto God. Others of their wandring up and down in Captivity. i But the greater difficulty is about this new thing, which the Lord saith he will create in the new Earth. a Woman compassing a Man. Some by Women understanding feeble Persons that should prevail against strong Men. But the two Interpretations of this difficult Passage, which seem most reasonably to contend for preference, are, 1. The Interpretation of those who think it contains a Promise both of the Jewish Church in its time, and of the Gospel-Church, after the Jewish Church's period, prevailing over all its Enemies, whether Temporal or Spiritual; though, considering the paucity of the Church's Members, with the multitude of its Enemies, and their power, it seemed as strange a thing, as for a Woman to prevail against a strong and mighty Man. This the learned Author of the English Annotations, judgeth the true and genuine sence of these Words. Others interpret this Woman to be the Virgin Mary, who was to inclose in her Womb the Lord Jesus Christ, to whom the converted Jews were to adhere; which sence neither Mr. Calvin, nor our learned English Annotator approve of. But it being the receiv'd sence of very many Interpreters, it is fit we should hear their Reasons, which are, 1. They urge the Particle כִּי, for God, they say, here gives the Reason why the Jews should desire to return into the Country of Judea, because the Messias was to be born there. 2. They urge the Term created, the Body of Christ being not begotten by Man, but created by God, though of the Flesh of the Virgin. 3. They say this indeed was a new thing. It was a new thing for a Virgin to become a Mother, still remaining a Virgin, and to be the Mother of him who was God blessed forever, though not the Mother of the Divine Nature; for so Christ answered the Type of Melchisedeck, without Father as Man, without Mother as God. 4. All other incompassings of a Man they say were as well out of Judea as in it, this was in Judea only. 5. The Word translated Woman in Scripture, they say always signifies a particular individual Woman, which could be no other than the Virgin. 6. They say the whole Context referrs to benefits coming by Christ, therefore he must certainly be the Man here intended. 7. They urge that this Prophecy follows, ver. 15. which Matth. 2. 8. is applied by the Evangelist to Herod's Murder of the Infants upon the Birth of Christ. But on the other side it is objected that the Verb סָבַב is never used in Scripture to signifie such an incompassing. 2. That the Word translated a man, signifying a strong Man, doth not properly agree to an Infant in the Mother's Belly. But it is again replied, that this is not the only Word in Scripture, that is but once read in the same sence. 2. That the Word signifieth any incompassing, and may be properly applied to the Virgin's Womb incompassing an Infant. And for the Word translated Man they say it is applied to a new-born Infant, Job 3. 3. Isa. 9. 6. That it is applied to God, Deut. 10. 17. and to Christ, Zech 13. 7. compared with Matth. 26. 31. In a Matter wherein so many learned Men are divided, it is enough for me to give their Opinions and Reasons, leaving my Reader to his own Judgment, in a Matter wherein neither his Faith nor Holiness are much concerned; for the Question is not concerning the thing, whether Christ was incompassed in the Womb of a Woman, which is plain enough from other Scriptures, but only whether that be the sence of the Phrase here

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel k, As yet I they shall use this speech in the land of Judah, and in the cities thereof, when I shall bring again their captivity, The LORD bless thee, O habitation of justice, and mountain of holiness m.

k These Prophecies of the Restauration of the Jews, are very ordinarily prefaced with these two Attributes of God, the one of which asserts his Power to do the thing promised; for what cannot be done by the Lord of Hosts? The other asserting his Goodness or Good Will to this People, because he is their God, related to them, in Covenant with them: Ability and Love, or Good Will to us, being the two Pillars of our Faith and Confidence in God, which requireth no more than that we should be assured that the Person whom we trust is able and willing to do what we trust to him for. l. The Particle עוֹד seemeth better translated, ver. 5. yet again they shall use, &c. m Three things the Prophet here foretelleth. 1. That the Cities which had formerly been the Habitations of bloody, unjust, cruel Men, should become the Habitations of Men who should do justice to all. 2. That the City which stood upon Mount Zion, and had formerly been an Habitation of Idolaters, and other unholy Persons, should become a Place, in which Men should in a due and holy manner serve and worship the true God. 3. That they should be so famous both for Justice and Holiness, that Men should take notice of it, and with them well under that notion; and upon that account, as they had for their sins been made a Curse and a Proverb, so upon their Reformation they should be for a Blessing. By this we may observe that those who would be blessed by God and Men, must be just towards Men, and holy towards God.

24 And there shall dwell in Judah it self, and in all the cities thereof together husbandmen, and they that go forth with flocks n.

n This whole Verse is but an Expression of their peaceable State after their return, they should live innocently and peaceably. So chap. 33. 12.

25 For I have satiated the weary soul, and I have replenished every sorrowful soul n.

n I have here is of the same significancy with I will, as ordinarily in prophetical Promises, which are the words of him who calleth the things that are not as if they were, and would have his People look upon the things which he hath promised to do as certain as if they were already done. The Words are only a promise to the same fence as before, that God would give his people abundance of ease and plenty, and wipe all tears from their eyes.

26 Upon this I awaked, and beheld; and my sleep was sweet unto me o.

o Either this Revelation was made to Jeremiah in a dream, from whence he awaking, look'd about him, and he was very well pleased with his sleep at that time, because of the gracious Promises concerning Judah which the Lord had in that Dream revealed to him. Or else in a Vision, upon the sight and hearing of which he was as well pleased, as a Man that had slept quietly, and had had no ill and unpleasing, but sweet and delightful Dreams while he slept.

27 ¶ Behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that * I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of man and with the seed of beast. * Hos. 2. 23.

o That is, I will exceedingly multiply them, both with Men and with Cattel, they are now laid waste, their Men are destroyed, or gone into other lands, their profitable Beasts are destroyed, and kill'd up, but it shall not be so always. I will again plant them, and there shall be as great plenty of either, as if they were sown: The multiplying both of Men and of Beasts in Nations is God's Blessing.

28 And it shall come to pass, that like as I have watched over them to * pluck up, and to break down and to throw down, and to destroy, and to afflict; so will I watch over them to build and to plant, saith the LORD. * Chap. 1. 10.

‡ Nothing

p Nothing can produce in God a change of Counſeh, Purpoſes and Decrees, for he is not as Man that he ſhould lye or repent, he is the God that changeth not, but Men's Reformation may produce in him a change of Providential Diſpenſations. God is here ſet out as a Man that is vindicative, and his vindicative Nature prompts him to watch all opportunities of doing hurt to the Perſon againſt whom he is ſet. There is no Fury nor Revenge in God; but what he doth is Juſtice; but here an angry God is ſet out, as taking all opportunities to puniſh ſinners, as if he had watched for them, whereas he never ſlumbreth nor ſleepeth: But the time of their Reformation, and his Favour being come, God promiſeth to be as diligent to do them good, which is here expreſt by the metaphorical notions of planting and building them, as he was before to execute his Juſtice upon them.

29 In thoſe days they ſhall ſay no more; The fathers have eaten a ſowre grape, and the childrens teeth are ſet on edge q.

q That is, we are puniſhed for our Fathers Sins, which yet God may juſtly do; and none queſtioneth the Juſtice of Man in the caſe, depriving Children of their patrimonial Eſtates for their Parents Treaſons, nor more than God threateth in the Second Commandment. God indeed, Ezek. 18. 2. ſeemeth diſpleaſed at their uſe of this Proverb; but the reaſon is, becauſe they ſo uſed it, as to acquit themſelves, in imating they were guiltleſs, and ſuffered only for the Sins of their Parents, whereas that was falſe, otherwiſe the puniſhment of Children for the Sins of their Parents, was no more than God had threatned, Exod. 20. 5. and 34. 7. Chap. 15. 4. But, ſaith God, your Captivity ſhall, as to you, expiate your Parents Guilt paſt, and you ſhall no more ſay ſo.

30 But every one ſhall dye for his own iniquity, every man that eateth the ſowre grape, his teeth ſhall be ſet on edge r.

r But yet (ſaith God) you muſt not think that Sinners ſhall eſcape my Vengeance, but if Men commit Iniquity they ſhall die, no Man's Teeth ſhall be ſet on edge, but his only, who hath eaten the ſowre Grape.

* Chap. 32. 40. Heb. 10. 16.

31 ¶ Behold, * the days come, ſaith the LORD, that I will make a new covenant with the houſe of Iſrael, and with the houſe of Judah ſ.

ſ The Apoſtle's application of this, Heb. 8. 8, 9, 10. puts us out of doubt, that this Promiſe referred to the Goſpel-times. It was not only made with the Jews, but all thoſe who ſhould be ingrafted into that Olive; but it is ſaid to be made with them, either as thoſe two Terms ſignifie the whole Church, with whom that Covenant was made, (they being the whole Church which God had upon the Earth at that time) or becauſe they were the only people that had broken the firſt Covenant, the Gentiles being Strangers at that time to the Covenant of Promiſe, Eph. 2. 12. Covenants being uſually renewed upon one Parties violation of them, or becauſe it was at firſt made with the Jews, though it concerned alſo thoſe that were afar off, even as many as the Lord ſhould call, Act 2. 39. Neither is it called the new Covenant, becauſe it was as to the Subſtance new, for it was made with Abraham, Gen. 17. 7. and with the Jews, Deut. 26. 17, 18. And it was then confirmed by the Blood of Chriſt, though not actually ſhed, yet as he was the Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the World whoſe Blood was typified by the Blood of the Paſchal Lamb, and of all thoſe living Creatures killed for Sacrifice, but upon many other Accounts, thus enumerated by Divines. 1. Becauſe it was new in the Notion of a Teſtament, not confirmed by the actual Death of Chriſt till Goſpel-Times. 2. Becauſe it was revealed and preached after a new manner, more fully and particularly, plainly and clearly. 3. Becauſe it had no ſuch mixture of Promiſes of temporal Bleſſings, as it had when firſt made with the Jews. 4. Nor was the Ceremonial Law any part of it, as it was to the Jews, who were obliged to approve themſelves God's People by a ſtrict obſervance of that. 5. It was in the Publication extended both to Jews and Genviles, which the former was not. 6. In regard of the efficacy of the Spirit attending the Publication of it, in a much fuller and larger manner, with the diſtribution of its Gifts and Graces, mabling Souls to fulfill it. See more in the Engliſh Annotations upon this Subject.

32 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt t, which my covenant they brake u, ‖ although I was an husband to them, ſaith the LORD w.

t Not in ſubſtance differing from it, but in circumſtances vaſtly differing, as was ſhewed before, and is farther declared afterward. The Covenant which God made with the Jews when they came out of the Land of Egypt, was on God's part the Law which he gave them, with the Promiſes annexed to their obſervation of it; on their part (which made it a formal Covenant) their Promiſe of Obedience to it, of which ſee Exod. 24. 7, 8. Deut. 26. 17, 18. This Covenant God ſaith he made with them, when they were an impotent weak People, the care of whom he took upon him, and led them as a Parent leadeth the feeble child by his hand. None muſt imagine that this Covenant did not contain the Promiſe of Pardon, through the Blood of the Meſſiah, upon their application to him, for to what purpoſe elſe was it confirmed by Blood, Exod. 24. 8. u Which Covenant they are ſaid to have broken, not becauſe of every Diſobedience to the Law of God, for ſo every one daily breaketh it, but by their groſs and eminent ſinnings, ſo oft repeated, and continued in without Repentance, and more particularly by their Idolatry, which is compared to Whoredom, which breaketh the Covenant, and Bond of Marriage, and cauſeth God to ſay unto a People, Lo Ammi, you are not my People. w And this Covenant breaking is aggravated from God's Kindneſs to them, and Care of them; who had for them the Love, and declared the Care of an Husband, and gave them no temptation to go a whoring from him.

33 But this ſhall be the covenant that I will make with the houſe of Iſrael w, After thoſe days, ſaith the LORD, * I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts x, and will be their God, and they ſhall be my people y.

* Ezek. 11. 19. 20. & 36. 26, 27. 2 Cor. 3. 3.

w That is, with thoſe Iſraelites indeed who ſhall be without Guile, (as Chriſt ſaith of Nathanael, John 1. 47.) with thoſe who are (as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Rom. 2. 29.) Jews inwardly, by the Circumciſion of the Heart and Spirit, ſpoken of, and promiſed by God, Deut. 30. 6. x In the Times of the Goſpel, God's Law is not abrogated and made void. Chriſt himſelf came not to deſtroy the Law, but to fulfil it; but it is written in the hearts of God's true Iſrael, by the finger of the Spirit, not in Tables of Stone only; and they become obedient to it, not from compulſion and force, but from their ſecret approbation of it, and acknowledgment of it, as holy, juſt and good, the delight they take in it, after the inward man, Rom. 7. 22. but ſome may object, How was this a New Covenant? Did not God of old write his Law in the Hearts of his People? Did not David, and other the Servants of God, (of whom we read in the Old Teſtament) ſerve God out of a principle of Love, and delight in his Law? Anſw. Undoubtedly David and others did ſo, and the Law of God was wrote in their hearts, but it was by vertue of this New Covenant, from the free and efficacious Grace of God. Mr. Calvin I think judgeth right, that the Prophet's deſign here is to expreſs the difference betwixt the Law and the Goſpel. The firſt ſheweth Duty, the latter bringeth along with it the grace of Regeneration, by which the Heart is changed, fitted, and inabled for, and unto Duty. All under the time of the Law that came to Salvation were ſaved, not from the Law, or by that, but by the Goſpel, and this new Covenant; but this was not evidently exhibited, neither was the regenerating Grace of God ſo common under the time of the Law, as it hath been under the Goſpel, which maketh it look like a new Covenant with Men, though it was the ſame Covenant which God was always in with his People; for what difference is there between the terms of the Covenant as recited here, Chap. 24. 7. and 30. 22. and as made with Abraham, Gen. 17. 7. Deut. 30. 6. It is further obſervable, that God maketh the writing the Law in Peoples Hearts his own Work. There were no need of God's putting his Law into Mens inward parts, if they had ſuch an inward power (as ſome talk of) of themſelves to do it, and could write it there with a Pen of their own making. The Papiſts allow God a ſhare in this Work, only give Man himſelf the greateſt ſhare. Others indeed give God nothing but the Honour of giving Man a reſonable ſoul, furniſhed with ſuch a power, and that he hath done to Heathens, as well as thoſe within the Pale of the Church, and the Preaching of the Goſpel; and to thoſe within the Church, a further aid and aſſiſtance to them than Heathens have, to uſe their natural power well. But let any underſtanding perſon judge whether this be probably the ſenſe of this Text, or comprehenſive of all within the Covenant which God hath made with his People; or ſuppoſing this were true, what that is which differeth, one Man living under the Goſpel from another, but himſelf, and whether by this Doctrine Man be not made a God to himſelf, that is the principal cauſe of all ſpiritual and eternal good, which how it comporteth with the Honour and Glory of God, or with this Text, and many others of like nature, I do not underſtand.

34 And they ſhall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, ſaying, Know the LORD z; for * they ſhall all know me, from the leaſt of them unto the greateſt of them, ſaith the LORD a, for * I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their ſin no more b.

* Iſa. 54. 13. John 6. 45. 1 Cor. 2. 10. 1 Joh. 2. 20. * Chap. 33. 8. Micah 7. 18. Acts 10. 43.

z This muſt not be ſo interpreted as if under the Goſpel, there ſhould be no more need of miniſterial teaching, for Chriſt himſelf ſent out his Apoſtles to preach; nor yet as if there ſhould be no more need of Brotherly Teachings, by Inſtruction or Correption; the contrary is commanded, Col. 3. 16. It is only an expreſſion ſignifying the increaſe of knowledge, and of the fear of the Lord, that ſhould be after the pouring out of the Spirit; we have ſuch expreſſions, 1 John 2. 27. The Learned Author of our Engliſh Annotations thinks this Phraſe ſignifies, that under the Goſpel there ſhould be a greater meaſure of means of knowledge, and of knowledge got by that means, and of clearneſs of underſtanding in Perſons, or ability to conceive things revealed, and a greater number of Perſons, that ſhould be enlightned with the ſaving knowledge of God: Others ſay, that by knowing the Lord, is to be underſtood the firſt knowledge of God; Chriſtians ſhould not need to be taught the firſt Rudiments; but the Apoſtle ſpeaks otherwiſe, Heb. 5. 12. Others by knowledge underſtand the fear of the Lord. a God ſaith, They ſhould all know him; but it muſt not be underſtood of the ſame degree, and meaſure, but in a degree of ſufficiency for the Duties which God expected from them upon their notion and apprehenſion of God. b God makes the root of all this Grace to be the free pardon, and remiſſion of their ſins.

35 ¶ Thus ſaith the LORD, which giveth the ſun * for a light by day, and the ordinances of the moon and of the ſtars for a light by night, which divideth the * ſea c when the waves thereof roar, the LORD of hoſts is his Name.

* Gen. 1. 16. * Iſa. 51. 15.

c The Word רגע it here ill tranſlated divide, which hath led ſome Interpreters to think that God here hath a reſpect to his dividing the Red Sea, that the Iſraelites might paſs over, which ſeemeth not at all here to be intended. The word indeed ſignifieth to divide, but it alſo ſignifieth to quiet and bring to reſt, and is ſo interpreted, Chap. 50. 34. Iſa. 34. 14. and in this very Chap. Ver. 2. and doubtleſs were better tranſlated, which quieteth the Sea when the Waves thereof roar. All the acts mentioned, are acts ſpeaking the Divine Almighty power, of him who is the Lord of all the Regiments in the Hoſts of the Creation.

36 * If thoſe ordinances d depart from before me, ſaith the LORD, then the ſeed of Iſrael ſhall alſo ceaſe, from being a nation before me for ever.

* Iſa. 54. 9. Chap. 33. 20.

d There are Ordinances of Worſhip, which are God's Laws relating to his Worſhip, and Ordinances of Juſtice, which are God's Laws, for the executing civil Juſtice, and Ordinances of Nature, which are God's Eſtabliſhments for the working of natural cauſes in their order; theſe are thoſe here ſpoken of. e Which ſhall hold and continue to the diſſolution of the World, the continuance of which God pawneth as a Pledge of the continuance of Iſrael as a Nation all the days (ſo it is in the Hebrew) that is many days, or all the days they ſhall keep cloſe with him, or which he hath appointed. If we interpret it (as in our Verſion) for ever it muſt be underſtood not of Iſrael according to the fleſh, but, of the Church, the true Iſrael of God, which ſhall never fail.

37 Thus ſaith the LORD *, If heaven above can be meaſured, and the foundations of the earth ſearched out beneath, I will alſo caſt off all the ſeed of Iſrael for all that they have done, ſaith the LORD f.

* Chap. 33. 22.

f That is, I will never caſt off all the Seed of Iſrael, (which promiſe the Apoſtle, Rom. 11. 1, 2. proveth to have been by God made good, notwithſtanding the rejection of the great Body of that People) for none but God can either meaſure the Heavens, or pierce to the center of the Earth.

38 ¶ Behold the days come, ſaith the LORD, that the city ſhall be built to the LORD from the tower of Hananeel, unto the gate of the corner g.

g That is, it ſhall be built round, as largely as ever, we read of this Tower of Hananeel, Neh. 3. 1. and 12. 39. Zech. 14. 10. it was in the South, or rather the Eaſtern part of the City. We read of the Gate of the corner, 2 Kings 14. 13. Zech. 14. 10. moſt agree that it is in the North-Eaſt part of the City.

39 And the meaſuring line ſhall yet go forth, over againſt it, upon the hill Gareb, and ſhall compaſs about to Goah h.

h That is, it ſhall be built round about upon its old foundations, Vid. Neh. 3. We are ignorant of the Ancient Situation of the City, ſo are the Jews themſelves, therefore it is vain to pretend to an exact skill in theſe names of places; ſome ſay, Gareb ſignifies a Scab, and the Hill had its Name from Leprous Perſons lying there.

40 And the whole valley of the dead bodies i, and of the aſhes k, and all the fields unto the brook of Kidron, unto the corner of the * horſe-gate towards the eaſt l, ſhall be holy unto the LORD m; it ſhall not be plucked up, nor thrown down any more for ever n.

* Nehem. 3. 28.

i A Valley ſo called (as ſome think) from the Multitude of Sennacherib's Army ſlain there; or, (as others think) from the Bodies of Malefactors put to Death at Golgotha (which was near) caſt, or buried there. k So called (as is thought) from the aſhes of the Sacrifices carried thither. l Some think that the Horſe-gate had its Name from the King's Horſes led out at it. The ſum is, the whole City ſhall be built. m All theſe places ſhall be parts of the Holy City, and God's Name ſhall be ſanctified, and he ſhall be worſhipped in them all. n And the City for a long time ſhall abide, and not be plucked up, nor thrown down: for we know after many Years it was plucked up by the Romans. If we interpret the word for ever of a perpetuity, the Church of God muſt here be underſtood, againſt which the Gates of Hell ſhall never prevail, as Chriſt hath promiſed.

CHAP. XXXII.

Jeremiah in the Siege of Jeruſalem being impriſoned by Zedekiah, buyeth a Field, taketh Witneſſes, draweth a Writing, ſealeth and delivereth it to Baruch to preſerve, as Tokens of the Peoples Return, 1,—15. He prayeth with admiration of God's Majeſty and Works; and repreſenteth his own Conflict, 16, —25. God confirmeth the Capeivity for their ſins, 26, —35; but promiſeth a gracious Return, 36,—44.

1 THE word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar a.

a That is ſomething more than a Year before the City was taken, for it was taken in the fourth Month of the eleventh Year of the Kings Reign, Chap. 39. 2. This tenth Year concurred with the eighteenth Year of the King of Babylon's abſolute Reign, who began ſo to Reign in the third and fourth Year of Jehoiakim, Dan. 1. 1. for in Jehoiakim's laſt Year was the ſeventh and eighth of Nebuchadrezzar, who is alſo ſometimes called Nebuchadnezzar and Nebuchodonoſor.

2 For then the king of Babylon's army beſieged Jeruſalem b; and Jeremiah the prophet was ſhut up in the * court of the priſon, which was in the King of Judah's houſe c.

b The King of Babylon (as appears from 2 Kings 25. 1. and Chap. 39. 1.) beſieged Hieruſalem in the tenth Month of the ninth Year of Zedekiah, ſo as he had beſieged it ſome time before the Revelation of this Prophecy came to Jeremiah. c Jeremiah was at that time a Priſoner, in a Priſon within the King's Houſe. The King could keep him from revealing God's Will to the People, but he could not keep God from revealing himſelf to him. Priſons hinder us from Communion with Men, but often contribute to God's People, freer and ſweeter communion with him. In the mean time the deſperate hardneſs of this Prince, and theſe Peoples Hearts appear, in that the fear of an Enemy beſieging them could not awe them from ſuch outrageous acts of Perſecution.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah, had ſhut him up, ſaying d, Wherefore doſt thou propheſie, and ſay, Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he ſhall take it.

d We no where read that Zedekiah immediately commanded Jeremiah to be impriſoned, he ſeemeth rather to have been favourable to Jeremiah, and judicious Interpreters think his preſent Priſon was a favourable Priſon; but God accounteth Princes to do that which their Miniſters or ſubordinate Magiſtrates do with their connivance, and without their hinderance. Though it be wild Divinity for any to ſay, that inferiour Miniſters or Subjects are excuſed by the command of the ſuperiour, and the guilt lyeth only on them; yet it is as wild to ſay, they contract no guilt by the extravagant acts of ſubordinate Magiſtrates whom they put in place, and can puniſh, and remove from their places.

4 And Zedekiah king of Judah ſhall not eſcape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but ſhall ſurely be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, and ſhall ſpeak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes ſhall behold his eyes.

5 And he ſhall lead Zedekiah to Babylon e, and there ſhall he be until I viſit him, ſaith the LORD f, Though ye fight with the Chaldeans, ye ſhall not proſper g.

e Here the cauſe of the Prophet's impriſonment is expreſſed. The things were true which Jeremy propheſied, and fulfilled, Chap. 39. 5, 6, 7. and Jeremy could not forbear ſpeaking them, becauſe he was ſent of God upon the Errand, Chap. 34. 2, 3. yet the King and Court could not bear his words. f Interpreters are divided, whether the viſitation here mentioned were a viſitation of Judgment, and the ſame with until he die; or of mercy; it is certain Zedekiah was not put to Death, only his eyes put out, and he carried into Babylon, Chap. 39. 7. where ſome think he afterward found favour with the King of Babylon; certain it is that he died in Babylon, and had an honourable Burial, but whether he met with any other favour, or no, the Scripture ſaith not; Some will have the words read, until I viſit this People, and think that Zedekiah lived in Priſon in Babylon till the Reſtauration; but he was 21 Years old when he began to Reign, and reigned 11 Years, ſo as he was 32 Years old when he was carried to Babylon, 2 Chron. 36. 11. and muſt be then 92 Years old when he died, which is hardly probable, conſidering the delicate Education, and Life of Princes, that he having loſt his Eyes, and ſeen ſo much miſery, ſhould continue 60 Years longer. g Though you make many Sallies out upon the Chaldeans, that are now beſieging you, yet you ſhall be beaten in all, and not be able to drive them from your Walls. Hitherto hath been but the Preface to the Prophetical Type, and Diſcourſe in this Chapter, which now followeth.

6 ¶ And Jeremiah ſaid, The word of the LORD came unto me, ſaying,

7 Behold Hanameel the ſon of Shallum thine uncle, ſhall come unto thee, ſaying, Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth i, for the right of redemption is thine to buy it k.

i From hence may be concluded the certainty of future contingency in God's Eye; the coming of Hanameel, was a future contingency, yet certainly known to God, ſo as he could tell the Prophet he would come. i Anathoth (as appears from Joſh. 21. 18.) was one of the Cities of the Levites; hence ariſeth a queſtion, how it could be ſold to Jeremiah, who by the Law might not poſſeſs it, Numb. 18 20. being a Levite. Some excuſe it from the Command of God, who might diſpenſe with his own Law, but this ſeemeth not enough, becauſe it is ſaid afterward, The Right of Redemption is thine. 2. Others therefore ſay the Levites might have ſome ſmall Poſſeſſions, though no plowed Land: They might have Houſes and Orchards, and Gardens, in Cities and Suburbs. But that theſe might be ſold ſeemeth contrary to the Law, Levit. 25. 34. It is therefore rather thought to be meant of ſome ſmall Eſtate left to Hanameel from his Anceſtors k The right of Redemption beloriged to the next of Kin, Lev. 25. 25. Ruth 4. 4.

8 So Hanameel my uncles ſon came to me in the court of the priſon, according to the word of the LORD l, and ſaid unto me, Buy my field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin, for the right of inheritance is thine, and the redemption is thine, buy it for thy ſelf: then I knew that this was the word of the LORD m.

l Hanameel came freely, none drave, or forced him, yet he came necessarily as to the event, he could not but go, else God had not told the Prophet truth. m When I saw it came to pass, knowing that God alone knew what was in Mens hearts, and what they would do, I knew my former mentioned Revelation was from God.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel my uncles son, that was in Anathoth, and weighed him the money, even ‖ seventeen shekels of silver n.

‖ Or, seven shekels, and ten pieces of silver.

n That is, about 2 l. 3 s. 6 d. a small Purchase, which argues the Field here mentioned to be but some Orchard or Garden; tho we muſt allow the price of Land ſtrangely fallen at this time, when the Enemy was beſieging the chief City of the Country. It ſhould ſeem they were wont there to make their Payments, more by Weight than by Tale.

†Heb. wrote in the book.

10 And I † ſubſcribed the evidence, and ſealed it, and took witneſſes, and weighed him the money in the balances o.

o I went through with the Purchaſe, ſetting my hand to, and ſealing the Deed, and taking Witneſſes to it, (as is uſual.)

11 So I took the evidence of the purchaſe, both that which was ſealed according to the law and cuſtom, and that which was open p.

p It is moſt probable, that upon ſuch Bargains and Sales amongſt the Jews, two inſtruments were made, the one ſealed up, to be kept by the Purchaſer, the other open, to be ſhewed to the Judges, and by them ratified, and that this was the Law and Cuſtom ordinarily amongſt the Jews upon Purchaſes; both which Jeremy kept, the one for his uſe, the other to produce in Court for Ratification. There is no certainty in the gueſſes that ſome others make, why there were two Copies: Nothing appeareth but that the Prophet bought this little Purchaſe with the ſame Rites and Circumſtances that Men ordinarily in that Country made Purchaſes in times of Peace, and civil order.

12 And I gave the evidence of the purchaſe unto Baruch the ſon of Neriah, the ſon of Maaſeiah q, in the ſight of Hanameel my uncles ſon, and in the preſence of the * witneſſes, that ſubſcribed the book of the purchaſe, before all the Jews that ſate in the court of the priſon r.

* See Iſa. 8. 2.

q This Baruch (as appereth from Chap. 36. 4. 16.) was a Scribe, and an attendant upon Jeremiah, and one who wrote things for him, and from his Mouth. r He made this Purchaſe with all the uſual Formalities; to make it publick, he ſigned and ſealed it before Witneſſes, and delivered it to Baruch, to keep in the preſence of them all, and in the preſence of the Jews, who caſually were in the place when the thing was done.

13 ¶ And I charged Baruch before them, ſaying,

14 Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Take theſe evidences, this evidence of the purchaſe, both which is ſealed, and this evidence which is open, and put them in an earthen veſſel, that they may continue many days.

15 For thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Houſes and fields, and vineyards ſhall be poſſeſſed again in this land ſ.

ſ Here is nothing of any ſeeming difficulty in theſe Verſes, but only why the Prophet commandeth Baruch to put the Evidences in an Earthen Veſſel, which himſelf alſo expounds, that they might continue many days, that is, not defaced; had they been had many days in the Earth, they would have been rotten; had they been above ground in a Box or Cheſt, they might have been loſt, or taken away by the Soldier's plundering houſes, or at leaſt burnt with fire. Verſe 15. The Prophet expounds God's Meaning in this Command to him, and his own Deſign, in ſo formal a buying of ſo ſmall a Purchaſe, eſpecially conſidering, that, very probably, Jeremiah was no great Purchaſer, nor very greedy of Purchaſes: He lets them know that all this was for a ſign of the Truth of what God had revealed to him concerning the People's Return, though after many days (ſixty years from this time) and alſo of the firm aſſent he gave to that divine Revelation, That Purchaſes ſhould one day be enjoyed again in Judea, and Houſes, Fields, and Vineyards in it, ſhould be again poſſeſſed.

16 ¶ Now when I had delivered the evidence of the purchaſe unto Baruch the ſon of Neriah, I prayed unto the LORD, ſaying t, t What he prayed for, the Matter of his Prayer in the following Verſes will inform us; but it ſhould ſeem by it, that he was not without his perplexities; though he yielded an abſolute Obedience to God's Command, yet he prayeth for a clearer Revelation of his meaning in this thing.

17 Ah Lord GOD, behold, thou haſt made the heaven and the earth by thy great power and ſtretched out arm, and there is * nothing ‖ too hard for thee u.

* Gen. 18. 14. ver. 27. Luk 1. 37.

u He beginneth his Prayer with a Recognition of God's Omnipotency, and the infiniteneſs of his Power, which was ſhewed in his firſt making the Heaven and the Earth, as we read, Gen. 1. Pſal. 146. 6. God himſelf uſed this inſtance to confirm his Peoples Faith in his ability to do what he pleaſed, Chap. 27. 5. It is obſervable that the Servants of God in Holy Writ, uſed in their Prayers to give God ſuch Names, as might help to confirm their Faith as to what they asked. Nothing can further be neceſſary to confirm our Faith that we ſhall have what we ask, than for us to be perſwaded that the Perſon is able to do it, and alſo willing. The Prophet beginneth with a Declaration of his Faith in God as to the firſt, then goes on to the ſecond.

18 Thou ſheweſt loving kindneſs unto thouſands, and recompenſeſt the iniquity of the fathers into the boſom of their children after them w, the great, the mighty God, the LORD of hoſts is his name, w This is the Name which God gave himſelf, Exod. 34. 7. Deut. 5. 9, 10. and of this latter clauſe declarative of the Vengeance of God in puniſhing Children for their Parents ſins, are many inſtances in Scripture, Joſ. 7. 24. 1 Sam. 2. 33, 34. 1 Kings 14. 10, 11. and 21. 24.

19 Great in counſel x, and mighty in work y, (for thine * eyes are open upon all the ways of the ſons of men *, to give every one according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings z.)

x Who doſt nothing but in infinite Wiſdom, as if thou hadſt taken counſel upon it, and art mighty in thy Works of Providence, by which thou governeſt the World. y Whoſe Eyes run to and fro the Earth, beholding the evil and the good; ſo that all things are naked before thee, and thou art not a meer curious and idle ſpectator of Mens Actions, but lookeſt upon them for that end, that thou mighteſt reward or puniſh them, according as thou ſeeſt their actions good or bad in thy ſight.

20 Which haſt ſet ſigns and wonders in the land of Egypt, even unto this day a, and in Iſrael b, and amongſt other men c, and haſt made thee a name as at this day.

a Who didſt Wonders of Juſtice in the Land of Egypt, ſuch as are remembred and made matters of aſtoniſhing Diſcourſe even to this day, b and wroughteſt Wonders of Mercy in Iſrael, bringing them out of Egypt through the Red Sea, raining them down Manna and Quails from Heaven, and fetching Water out of the Rock for them, &c. c And haſt done alſo many wondrous Works in other places, by which thou haſt made thy ſelf a Glorious Name.

21 And haſt brought forth thy people Iſrael, * out of the land of Egypt with ſigns, and with wonders, and with a ſtrong hand, and with a ſtretched out arm, and with great terror d.

* Exod. 6. 6. 2 Sam. 7. 23. 1 Chron. 17. 21.

d The Hiſtory of this we have in the 11 or 12 firſt Chapters of Exodus. God ſent 10 Plagues upon Egypt one after another, before Pharaoh would let them go, and when he purſued after them, divided the Red Sea for them, that they might paſs through, and then brought the Waters back upon the Egyptians, purſuing after them through the Sea.

22 And haſt given them this land which thou didſt ſwear unto their Fathers to give them l a land flowing with milk and honey m.

l God owneth this Oath, Exod. 6. 8. m That is, abounding with all neceſſary things, and all pleaſant things. Canaan is often thus deſcribed, Exod. 3. 8, 17. and 13. 5. and 33. 3. Lev. 20. 24. Numb. 14. 8. and 16. 13, 14. Deut. 6. 3. and 11. 9, &c.

23 And they came in and poſſeſſed it n, but they obeyed not thy voice, neither walked in thy law o, they have done nothing at all that thou commandeſt them to do p: therefore thou haſt cauſed all this evil to come upon them q.

n In the former paſſage he acknowledged God's Goodneſs, here he owns his Truth and Faithfulneſs, in ſo conducting this People by his Providence, that they came into the promiſed Land and poſſeſſed it. o Having acknowledged God's Power, Omniſcience, Goodneſs, Truth and Faithfulneſs, he comes to own his Juſtice, confeſſing that this People for whom God had done ſo much, had very ill requited him, not obeying his voice, which he expounds by not walking in his Law; for the Law was God's Voice to them. p This he aggravateth by ſaying they had done nothing of what he had commanded, not breaking ſome particular Law, but the whole Law of God. q Therefore God was righteous in bringing this Sword, Peſtilence and Famine upon them.

24 Behold the ‖ mounts r, they are come unto the city to take it s, and the city is given into the hand of the Chaldeans, that fight againſt it t, becauſe of the ſword, and of the famine, and of the peſtilence u, and what thou haſt ſpoken is come to paſs w, and behold, thou ſeeſt it.

r The word ſignifies Ramparts, or rather Battering Rams, Engines of War which thoſe Nations uſed to batter Walls, or to ſhoot great Stones into places beſieged. s They are already Beſieging Hieruſalem, and have been for ſome time. t And the City is even ready to be taken and cannot hold out. u So many daily are killed, either with the Sword of the Enemy, or by Famine for want of Proviſion, or by the Peſtilence. w Thou art juſt, and righteous in all this, and haſt done but according to what thou threatneſt to do, to a ſinful People that would not obey thy Voice.

25 And thou haſt ſaid unto me, O Lord GOD, Buy thee the field for money, and take witneſſes: ‖ for the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans x.

‖ Or, though.

x In this Verſe again the Particle it ill tranſlated And and For in the latter Clauſe. The Learned Author of the Engliſh Annotations judgeth well, that it had been better tranſlated when as in the ſecond place, as Gen. 4. 11. Pſal. 102. 5. or albeit, or tho' as it is tranſlated, Joſ 17. 18. Pſal. 23. 4. and Yet inſtead of And in the beginning, as it is Chap. 23. 21. Lord! ſaith the Prophet, expound thy meaning to me, why, when the City is upon the matter ready to be yielded up to the Chaldeans, and cannot poſſibly hold out long, thou ſhouldſt ſet me to make Purchaſes for thine Enemies to poſſeſs.

26 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah, ſaying,

* Ver. 17. 27 Behold, I am the LORD, the * God of all fleſh: Is there any thing too hard for me y?

y The Lord beginneth this Revelation for the Prophet's ſatisfaction, with the Preface expreſſive of his power, and univerſal dominion, from which Jeremiah might underſtand that he could do whatſoever he pleaſed, and Man that was but fleſh, Gen. 6. 3. could not hinder his effecting what he deſigned to do. God is alſo the God of the Spirits of all fleſh, Numb. 16. 22. but he expreſſeth Man here only under the notion of fleſh, as Gen. 6. 3. to denote his vileneſs and inconſiderableneſs as to any grapling with God, and incountring his Purpoſes.

28 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he ſhall take it.

29 And the Chaldeans that fight againſt this city, ſhall come and * ſet fire on this city and burn it with the houſes z, * upon whoſe roofs they have offered incenſe unto Baal, and poured out drink-offerings unto other Gods to provoke me to anger a.

* Chap. 21. 10. * Chap. 19. 13.

z Thou judgeſt right, this City ſhall be taken, and that by this very Army of Chaldeans which now beſiegeth it, they ſhall ſet fire on it, and burn the Houſes; I have made all fleſh, and I have power to diſpoſe of it, I will give this City into their hands. a But in this execution of my Vengeance I ſhall not act by Prerogative, but as a juſt and righteous Judge, vindicating the violation of my Laws, they have polluted their Houſes, by Idolatry upon the Roofs of them, they have offered incenſe, paid a Divine Homage to the Idol Baal, and in them they have worſhipped other Gods, therefore I will watch over, and protect them no longer, but ſend the Chaldeans by their Fires to purge them.

30 For the children of Iſrael, and the children of Judah have only done evil before me from their youth: for the children of Iſrael, have only provoked me to anger with the works of their hands, ſaith the LORD b.

b If they had offended me only by ſome particular ſingle acts, or by ſome few Omiſſions, or but for a ſmall time; I might have been judged too ſevere upon them, but from the time they firſt began to be a Nation, they have made it their Buſineſs, Courſe, and Trade, paſſing from one Idolatry to another, &c.

† Heb. for anger: 31 For this city hath been to me as † a provocation of mine anger, and of my fury, from the day that they built it, even to this day c, that I ſhould remove it from before my face d.

c Solomon finiſhed the Building of Hieruſalem, and he at leaſt ſuffered Idolatry in it, 1 King. 11. 4. 8. People have always been ſo fond of worſhipping God according to their own Fancies and Inventions, that even in Judah (except in David's time) the Worſhip of God could hardly be preſerved pure, during the entire Reign of one King. d As if they had done it on purpoſe to provoke me to deſtroy the City, and caſt the People of it out. Nothing more eaſie than for People to keep cloſe to the Divine Rule, as to External Acts in Worſhip; nothing is more provocative of God than their doing the contrary. Yet nothing hath been more rarely done in any Nation, as if Men had ſet themſelves to dare a Jealous God.

32 Becauſe of all the evil of the children of Iſrael, and of the children of Judah which they have done, to provoke me to anger, they, their kings, their princes, their prieſts, and their prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem e.

e Still God maketh their deſtruction to be of themſelves, as the meritorious cauſe, provoking him to that Wrath he executed upon them. The whole Head was ſick, the whole Heart faint. All orders of Men were corrupted, ſo as there was no hope of their Reformation, or growing better.

† Heb. neck. * Chap. 2. 27. and 7. 24. 33 And they have turned unto me the † * back, and not the face, f though I taught them, riſing up early, and teaching them, yet they have not hearkned to receive inſtruction g.

f They have behaved themſelves againſt me contemptuouſly, like Men, who when they are ſpoken to, admoniſhed, or inſtructed inſtead of looking towards thoſe who inſtruct, or admoniſh them, turn their back upon them. g Yet their ſin had not been ſo great and hainous, if I by my Prophets had not diligently inſtructed them, and they as ſtubbornly refuſed to be taught, or amended by their inſtruction.

* Chap. 7. 30. and 23. 11. Ezek. 8. 5, 16. 34 But they * ſet their abominations h in the houſe which is called by my name to defile it i.

h Their Idols, which above all things the Jealous God abhorreth, and therefore he calleth them abominations in the abſtract for abominable things, Deut. 32. 16. 1 Kings 11. 5. 2 Kings 23. 13. i That is, in the Temple, which was ordinarily called the Houſe of the Lord, and the Temple of the Lord.

35 And they built the high places of Baal which are in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, to * cauſe their ſons and their daughters to paſs through the fire unto * Molech, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind that they ſhould do this abomination to cauſe Judah to ſin k.

* Chap. 7. 31. 19. 5. * Lev. 18. 21.

k See the notes on Chap. 19. 5, 6. where all paſſages we meet with here are fully opened.

36 ¶ And now therefore thus ſaith the LORD the God of Iſrael, concerning this city, whereof ye ſay, It ſhall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, by the ſword, and by the famine, and by the peſtilence l.

l The Jews now began to ſee that the Chaldeans would take the City, and to be as dead hearted as before they were full of courage, and to give over themſelves for ever as loſt.

37 Behold, I will * gather them out of all countreys, whither I have driven them in mine anger, and in my fury, and in great wrath: and I will bring them again unto this place, and I will cauſe them to dwell ſafely o.

* Deut. 30. 3 Chap. 23. 3. and 29 14. and 31. 10.

o Though the City ſhall be taken, and you ſhall go into Captivity, yet you ſhall not be utterly loſt, I will gather you again, and you ſhall have as quiet an habitation as ever.

38 And they ſhall be * my people, and I will be their God p.

* Chap. 24. 7. and 30. 22. and 31. 33.

p I will renew my Covenant with them, and keep my Covenant towards them, they ſhall ſerve me more faithfully, and I will own them, and take care of them, and bleſs them.

39 And I will give them * one heart q, and one way r, that they may fear me for † ever ſ, for the good of them, and of their children after them t.

q I will give them union and concord, or an oneneſs of mind and judgment; as to the things of God, they ſhall not be for ſuperſtitious and idolatrous Worſhip, and ſome for my true Worſhip. r They ſhall all Worſhip me according to the rule I have given them. ſ That they may worſhip me in Truth, as a People that have a dread of me upon their hearts. t This will be for the profit both of them, and their Poſterity, many days, even ſo long as they ſhall continue ſo to do.

40 And * I will make an everlaſting covenant with them, that I will not turn away † from them to do them good u, but I will put my fear into their hearts, that they ſhall not depart from me w.

u This Promiſe manifeſtly relateth to thoſe Jews that ſhould receive the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, or that were Iſraelites indeed; for as to others, God did turn away from doing them good, when their City was taken by Titus; unleſs it be to be underſtood of a national Converſion of the Jews, not yet effected. w My ſpirit which ſhall beget in them a dread of me, ſo as they ſhall not depart from me: Hence ſome conclude well, that when once the Body of the Jews ſhall be converted, they ſhall never again apoſtatize from God. It may well from hence be concluded, that both Converſion unto God, and perſeverance in the ways of God are the gifts of God, we are kept by the power of God, through faith unto Salvation.

41 Yea, * I will rejoice over them, to do them good x, and * I will plant them in this land † aſſuredly, with my whole heart and with my whole ſoul y.

* Zeph. 3. 17. * Chap. 24. 6. Amos 9. 15. † Heb. in truth or ſtability.

x I will not only do them good, but I will take pleaſure, and delight in doing them good, and I will y certainly bring them to this Land, and conſtantly and freely do them good when they ſhall be there.

42 For Thus ſaith the LORD, Like as I have brought all this great evil upon this people, ſo will I bring upon them all the good that I have promiſed them z.

z You ſhall find me as true to my Promiſes, as you have found me to my Threatnings.

43 And fields ſhall be bought in this land, whereof ye ſay, It is deſolate without man and beaſt.

44 Men ſhall buy fields for money, and ſubſcribe evidences and ſeal them, and take witneſſes * in the land of Benjamin, and in the places about Jeruſalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the mountains, and in the cities of the valley, and in the cities of the ſouth, for * I will cauſe their captivity to return, ſaith the LORD a.

* Chap. 17. 26. * Chap. 33. 7. 11. 26.

a Now, Jeremiah, thou underſtandeſt wherefore I commanded thee to buy the Field offered thee by Hanameel in Anathoth in the Lot of Benjamin; it was to aſſure thee, that though at preſent the Chaldeans ſhall prevail againſt Jeruſalem, and the Jews ſhall be carried into Captivity, and the Jews ſhall neither buy nor ſell here at preſent, yet Fields ſhall here be bought again; Men ſhall buy and sell. and seal Evidences in all parts of Judæa, as they were wont to do in former times, for they shall return again out of the Captivity of Babylon into their own Land, and have Commerce one with another as formerly.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The taking of Jerusalem, carrying away the People, their Return, 1,——8. Joyful State and settled Government, 9,——14. Christ the Branch of Righteousness: His everlasting Kingdom and Priesthood: And Blessed Seed, 15,——26.

1 MOreover the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah the second time (while he was a See the Notes on Chap. 32. 2. Jeremiah was forced out of the Temple, God followeth him to the Prison, and there revealeth his mind to him once and again. The wickedness of the Jews in persecuting the Prophet, could not make God's Promises of no effect for mercy to be shewed to the People, after the Captivity, which though made before, are again confirmed a second time, for this Chapter for substance contains no more than Promises of the like nature with those in the foregoing Chapters.
* Chap. 32. 2, 3. yet * shut up in the court of the prison) saying a.

* Isa. 37. 26. 2 Thus saith the LORD the * maker thereof, the LORD that formed it, to establish it, the LORD is his name b.

b The maker thereof, that is say some of Jerusalem (so Mr. Calvin) or the maker of these Promises (so others interpret it) his Name is Jehovah, so as he hath a sufficiency in himself to make good his word to establish Jerusalem, or to establish the word spoken by him for the establishment of it.

‖ Or, hidden. 3 Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee, great and ‖ mighty things which thou knowest not c.

c God either speaketh to the People to pray unto him, or to the Prophet on the behalf of the People to pray, promising him he would shew him great things. Object. But how doth God say that Jeremiah did not know them, when God before this time had revealed them to the Prophet, and the Prophet had revealed them. Sol. He did not know them before God had revealed them, and though God had revealed them, yet by his Prayer in the former Chapter it appears, he did not fully understand them, or firmly believe them as he ought to have done.

4 For thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah, which are thrown down by the mounts, and by the sword d.

d That is which in part are thrown down, and shall yet further be thrown down, by the Engines of War which the Chaldeans use to batter down the City. See before Chap. 32. 24. some read for the mounts, as if they were thrown down by the Citizens to make room for the Citizens to cast up defensive Mounts, the word translated Sword may be as well translated Hammers or Mattocks, as it is 2 Chron. 34. 6. It is translated Axes, Ezek. 26. 9.

5 They come to fight with the Chaldeans e, but it is to fill them with the dead bodies of men, whom I have slain in my anger, and in my fury f, and for all whose wickedness I have hid my face from this city g.

e It is very difficult to determine whether these words contain an entire sense in themselves, or what connexion they have with the foregoing words; not to repeat Mens diverse apprehensions, of which a large account is given by the Author of the English Annotations, I think they judge best who think they have an entire sense in themselves, and judge that the They here mentioned, are the Jews of whom the Prophet saith they come, because he knew they would sally out and fight with their Enemies, but to no purpose, but to fill their Houses with their own dead Bodies, whom he would cause in his anger to be slain. g For their wickedness which they had provoked God by, and caused him to hide his face from that City which had so much of his countenance formerly.

6 Behold, I will bring it health, and cure, and I will cure them h, and will reveal unto them the abundance of peace and truth i.

h The latter part of this Verse expoundeth the former, for by health and cure, the Prophet meaneth peace, and truth; we met with the like metaphorical expression, Chap. 30. 17. See the notes on that place. The miserable disturbed state of a Nation being compared to Wounds, and Sickness, the restoring of it to a peaceable prosperous state is fitly called its Health and Cure. i By truth here seems to be meant faithfulness, or stability, not truth of propositions; q. d. I will after this great wound which I have given this People, bring them again into a quiet and peaceable state in which they shall abide many days.

7 And I will cause the captivity of Judah, and the
* Chap. 24. 6. and 31. 4. and 42. 10. captivity of Israel to return, * and will build them as at the first k.

k In this Verse the latter part is expounded by the former: the restoring of them is called building them, in opposition to the throwing them down, by the Mounts mentioned, Ver. 4. unless by building be to be understood not laying the foundation of their new State, but the further pro-pering of them in that State.

8 And I will cleanse them from all their iniquity, whereby they have sinned against me, and I will
* Chap. 31. 34. Micah 7. 18. * pardon all their iniquities, whereby they have sinned, and whereby they have transgressed against me m.

m Here is but one thing expressed by two Phrases; the word by us translated cleanse signifies to expiate or pursie with allusion to the legal purifications, so as cleaning must not be understood of Regeneration, but of that pardon which is mentioned in the latter part of the Verse.

9 ¶ And it shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and an honour before all the nations of the earth, which shall hear all the good that I do unto them: n and they shall fear, and tremble, for all the goodness, and for all the prosperity that I procure unto it o.

n I will do so well by this People, that other Nations shall honour and praise me for my goodness to them. o And not only so, but shall fear to ingage against a Nation so beloved and favoured by me, Exod. 15. 14, 16. others interpret it of a Religious fear, and trembling to which God's Mercy to the Israelites should invite those People that should see, and hear of it; but I think the former is the most probable sense of the Prophet here.

10 Thus saith the LORD, Again there shall be heard in this place, which ye say p shall be desolate without man, and without beast, even in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, that are desolate without man, and without inhabitant, and without beast.

p Those of you who though you find no great difficulty to believe what I have prophesied concerning the Chaldeans taking this City, seeing it upon the matter already taken, yet find a difficulty to believe what I tell you about the Peoples returning, and the rebuilding of it. The Lord speaketh the one as well as the other, there shall be heard again in it, &c.

11 The * voice of joy, and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride, the voice of them that shall say *, Praise the LORD of hosts, for the LORD is good, for his mercy endureth for ever, and of them that shall bring the sacrifices of praise into the house of the LORD; for I will cause to return the captivity of the Land, as at the first saith the LORD q.
* Chap. 7. 34. & 16. 9.
* 2 Chron. 7. 3.

q The sum of this Verse is, that those that should be carried into captivity should return, and upon their return they should be in their former States, both as to Civil Transactions, they should again Marry, and give in Marriage, and as to Civil and Spiritual Joy, they should publickly praise the Lord as they were wont to do in the words of David, Psal. 106. 1. and 107. 1. and 118. 1. and 136. 1. (we have a Record in Holy Writ of the fulfilling of this Prophecy upon the laying the foundations of the second Temple, Ezra 3. 11.) and offer Sacrifices of Thanksgiving. See Nehem. 12. 27.

12 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Again in this place which is desolate r without man, and without beast, and in all the cities thereof, shall be an habitation of shepherds, causing their flocks to lie down.

r That is a great part of which is, and the other part shall soon be desolate. In all these places there shall be Flocks and Herds of Sheep, and Goats, which the Shepherd shall take care of as in former times.

13 * In the cities of the mountains, in the cities of the vale, and in the cities of the south, and in the land of Benjamin, and in the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, shall the flocks pass again under the hands of s him that telleth them, saith the LORD.
* Chap. 17. 26. & 32. 44.

s So as to keep tale of them, as it is said they were wont to do both Morning and Evening in those Countries.

14 Behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will perform that good thing which I have promised unto the house of Israel, and to the house of Judah t.

t The Lord is not yea, and nay, he cannot lye nor repent. I speak not of the present time, but there shall be a time when God will justifie every good word of this nature, which he hath spoken to his ancient People.

15 ¶ In those days, and at that time will I cause the Branch of righteousness to grow up unto David u, and he shall execute judgment and righteousness in the land.

u Whatsoever the Jews and some others say, the Branch of Righteousness here spoken of, can be meant of no other but Christ, who is called a Branch out of the Stem of Jesse, Isa. 11. 1. The Branch of the Lord, Isa. 4. 2. A Righteous Branch, Chap. 23. 5. (See the Notes on those places) Zorobabel though descended from David cannot be meant here, but the same who is thus called in all those parallel Texts, of whom yet Zorobabel (being a good Man, and descended from the Family of David) may be allowed to have been a Type, but this Text far more concerneth Christ, as he in whom all the Promises are founded, and in whom they are all Yea, and Amen. The Kings they had hitherto had of the line of David, were most of them unrighteous Men, but God propromiseth that after the Captivity, they should have a Branch of David that should execute Judgment and Righteousness in the Land, for the protection and government of those that feared him.

16 In those days, shall Judah be saved, and Jerusalem shall dwell safely w: and this is the name wherewith she shall be called †, The LORD our righteousness x.
† Heb. Jehovah Tsidkenu.

w It is the Opinion of some that a spiritual Salvation and security is promised under these expressions, but the most and best Interpreters rather understand it of a temporal Salvation as primarily intended though typical of that Spiritual and Eternal Salvation which is often promised to the true Israel of God; as their rest in Canaan typified that Rest which remaineth for the People of God. x Our Translation of this Phrase is something strange, the words in the Hebrew are וְזֶה אֲשֶׁר יִקְרְאוֹ לָהּ יְהוָה צִדְקֵנוּ: Paginine Translateth them. And he who shall call it the Lord our Righteousness, supplying the Verb substantive, is. He who shall call it is the Lord our Righteousness. We Translate it, This is the name wherewith it shall be called, &c. that which causes the difficulty is, that the Pronoun זֶה which signifieth he, is applied both to persons and things, and translated he or it, and the relative אֲשֶׁר is of all cases, so may be translated who, or which, or with which, those words which our Translators have supplied, is the name, are not in the Hebrew. This hath made a great doubt amongst Interpreters whether, The Lord our Righteousness be the name of Christ, or the name of the City. I do incline to their opinion, who think that it is here mentioned as the name of Christ. In that sence there is nothing to be understood but the Verb substantive, is, which is ordinarily understood; so the words are thus. And, he who shall call it, is, the Lord our Righteousness. The context seemeth to favour this, Christ being that Ruler mentioned, v. 15. as he who shall execute Justice, and Judgment in the Land, besides that there is no such Name any where given, either to the Jewish or Christian Church, as the Lord our Righteousness, but the full import of that Name is spoken of Christ, Isaiah 45. 23. which Text is applied to Christ, Rom. 14. 11. Phil. 2. 10. he is called the Just King, Zech. 9. 9. and our Righteousness, 1 Cor. 1. 30.

17 ¶ For thus saith the LORD, † David shall never * want a man to sit upon the throne of the house

y This is apparently a promise relating to Christ, for David's Line had failed long since, had it not been continued in Christ, whose Kingdom is and shall be an everlasting Kingdom. So long as Israel remained a Kingdom, those of the Line of David ruled over it, when that failed; Christ came in the flesh, who ruleth, and shall rule over the Israel of God for ever.

18 Neither shall the priests the Levites want a man before me, to offer burnt-offerings, and to kindle meat-offerings, and to do sacrifice continually z.

z The best Interpreters understand this of a Ministry to abide in the Church to the end of the World, according to Matth. 28. 20. nor is it unusual for God in the Old Testament to express Promises relating to, and to be fulfilled under the Gospel by expressions, and terms proper to the Old Testament, as Isa 66. 23. and in this sence it must be expounded, or restrained to the times immediately following the Captivity, but it is generally understood, as a Promise for a Gospel Ministry to succeed the Ministry in the Jewish Church, and to abide to the end of the World.

19 And the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah, saying,

* Isa. 54. 9. 20 Thus saith the LORD, * If you can break my covenant of the day, and my covenant of the night a, and that there should not be day, and night in their season.

a By the Covenant of Day and Night here is meant the same with the Ordinances mentioned, Chap. 31. 35. God's Law established in the course of natural causes, by vertue of which the Day and Night orderly succeed one another. These Verses are but a further confirmation of what was said before, and the sence of them no more than this. That the succession of the Gospel Ministry in the Church of God to abide for ever, should be as certain as the succession of darkness and light, God had established the latter in a necessary course of natural causes, and he would by his Providence take care for the other, that the effect should be every whit as certain. Though the second causes are widely different, yet God who is the first cause of both is the same, and would as certainly bring the one to pass as the other.

21 Then may also my covenant be broken with David my servant, that he should not have a son to reign upon his throne, and with the Levites the priests, my ministers.

* Gen. 13. 16 & 15. 5. & 22. 17. Chap. 31. 37. 22 As the * host of heaven cannot be numbred, neither the sand of the sea measured, so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites that minister unto me b.

b The former promise was for the stability, this for the multiplication of the Church, which is here expressed under the notion of the Seed of David, that is the Members of Christ, the Jews were ordinarily called the Seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, but I do not remember they are any where called the Seed of David, unless it be 1 Kings 11. 39. where it seems also to be understood only of the Princes that came from David, nor indeed could they be so called in any proper sence; David being no common Head to the whole Jewish Nation, as both Abraham, Isaac and Jacob were, but Christ is often called the Seed of David, John 7. 42. Acts 13. 23. Rom. 1. 3. 2 Tim. 2. 8. and Christ is himself called David, whose Seed and whose Levites are multiplied in the multiplying of Christians and of faithful Ministers under the Gospel, which certainly are the things here promised.

23 Moreover the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying,

24. Considerest thou not what this people have spoken, saying c, The two families which the LORD hath chosen, he hath even cast them off d? thus they have despised my people, that they should be no more a nation before them e.

c This People, that is (say some) the Enemies of the Jews, but it may as well be interpreted either of the wicked Jews, wicked Men being always full of groundless presumptuous hopes, or sunk in despair. Or of such amongst them as were better, but weak in Faith, that knew not how to give any firm assent to Promises, the fulfilling of which seemed to the Eyes of sense and reason so improbable. d By the two Families here mentioned, the Prophet either meaneth the Kingdoms of Israel and Judah or, which seemeth to me much more probable, the Families of David and Aaron, mentioned before. e This saith God they have spoken scornfully of my People, as if they should never be a Nation more having Rulers of themselves, and a Ministry.

25 Thus saith the LORD, If my covenant be not with day, and night, and if I have not appointed the ordinances of heaven and earth,

26 Then will I cast away the seed of Jacob f, and David my servant g, so that I will not take any of his seed to be rulers over the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; for * I will cause their captivity to return, and have mercy on them.
* Verse 7, 11.

f By the Seed of Jacob, and of Abraham and Isaac are meant the Body of the Jews, to whom these three Patriarchs were common heads. g By the Seed of David Persons lineally descended from David, who should rule over the Israel of God. The sum of these two Verses is plainly no more than God had said before, that a restauration of them to their own Land should as certainly succeed their Captivity, as the Night succeedeth the Day, or the Day succeedeth the Night, God had as certainly established, and ordained the one as the other, though not as yet so established the one in the order of natural causes as the other, God would certainly have mercy on them, and in shewing his mercy would take care that one of the Seed of David should be their Ruler which was fulfilled in the Messiah.

CHAP. XXXIV.

The Captivity of King Zedekiah, and the City, 1,——7. The Princes and People by Solemn Covenant, according to the Law, dismiss their Bond-Servants, but the Babylonians leaving the Siege, they reassume them, 8,——11. For this God threatneth a Return of the Enemy, and Destruction of Jerusalem, 11,——22.

1 THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD a, * when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and all his army, and all the kingdoms of the earth † of his dominion, and all the people fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities thereof, saying, a The Revelation of the Will of God to Jeremiah to be published to the People, during the time of the Siege. The seven first Verses are plainly a distinct Prophecy from that in the latter part of the Chapter. It was (as some think) for this Sermon that the Prophet was imprisoned (for in this Prophecy the Sermons are much disordered in the placing of them) so as this shewing the cause for which the King imprisoned him, is set after others, Chap. 32. which were during the time of his imprisonment.

2 Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, Go, and speak to Zedekiah king of Judah, and tell him, Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and * he shall burn it with fire.
* Chap. 32. 29.

3 And thou shalt not escape out of his hands, but shalt surely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes shall behold the eyes of the king of Babylon, † and he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt go to Babylon b.
† Heb. his mouth shall speak to thy mouth.

b Behold all this Chap. 32. 3, 4. See the Notes there.

4 Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah king of Judah, Thus saith the LORD of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword;

5 But thou shalt die in peace c, and with the burnings of thy fathers the former kings which were before thee: so shall they burn odours for thee, and they will lament thee, saying, Ah Lord! for I have pronounced the word, saith the LORD d.

c This only place informeth us concerning the manner of Zedekiah's Death, and that both negatively and positively. Negatively, That he did not die by the Sword, the King of Babylon took him, killed his Sons before his Eyes, then put out his Eyes, and bound him in Chains, Chap. 39. 7. but killed him not, as we learn from this Text, but he died a natural Death, which is here meant by dying in peace, d and had an honourable Burial, which the King of Babylon would not allow Jehoiachim, as we read Chap. 22. 18. he was buried with the Burial of an Ass, and his Body was cast out of the gates of Jerusalem, and no Man lamented for him; but as to Zedekiah they burned sweet odours for him, (after the manner of the Burial of Kings, 2 Chron. 16. 14.) and made solemn Lamentation for him. The Jews in their Chronology, called by them Seder Olam, give us the form of their Lamentation thus. Alas! Zedekiah is dead, who drank the dregs of all Ages: That is, who was punished for the sins of all former Ages.

6 Then Jeremiah the prophet spake all these words unto Zedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem.

7 When the king of Babylons army fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah that were left, against Lachish, and against Azekah; for these defenced cities remained of the cities of Judah e.

e The Prophet was not afraid to go and do the Message God had intrusted him with to the King, upon which he was imprisoned as we read before, Chap. 32. 3. the time it should seem was after that the King of Babylon had invaded the Country, and taken the greatest part of it; only three fortified places remained, which he was Besieging, viz. Jerusalem, which was the chief City of that Country, and Lachish, of the Conquest of which we read, Jos. 10. 31. disposed of to the Tribe of Judah, Josh. 15. 39. and Azekah, which was a City of Judah, of which we read in the same Chapters.

8 ¶ This is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, after that the king Zedekiah, had made a covenant with all the people which were at Jerusalem to proclaim liberty unto them f.

f This Verse plainly beginneth a new Prophecy, but at what particular time, this Revelation, or the publication of it was, we are not told, only the occasion of it is recorded. God had made a particular Law respecting the Jewish Nation. That if any had bought an Hebrew servant, he should serve but six years, and in the seventh should go out free, Exod. 21. 2. Deut 15. 12. It came into Zedekiah's Mind to make a Proclamation for the execution of this Law; what moved him to it we have not recorded. The learned Author of the English Annotations, observeth well that it was their usual course when they were in some great straits to make some partial Reformation, Jud. 10. 15, 16. Psal. 78. 34, 35. Hos. 6. 1.

* Neh. 5. 11. 9 * That every man should let his man-servant, and every man his maid-servant being an Hebrew, or an Hebrewess go free, that none should serve himself of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother g.

g This was the tenour of God's Law mentioned in the above-named Texts; and it seemeth Zedekiah taking notice of the common violation of this Law, and the Jews ordinary oppressing those of their own Nation this way; judging that this might be one of those sins for which the Wrath of God was at this time kindled against them, he caused the People to make a Covenant, that they would give that liberty to their Servants of either Sex, which the Law of God required, of which he made Proclamation.

10 Now when all the princes, and all the people which had entred into the covenant heard that every one should let his man-servant, and every one his maid-servant go free, that none should serve themselves of them any more, then they obeyed and let them go h.

h The Princes and the People, having first with the King agreed to the thing, upon the issuing out of his Proclamation, they at first yielded obedience to it.

11 But afterwards they turned, and caused the servants, and the handmaids, whom they had let go free, to return, and brought them into subjection for servants and for hand-maids i.

i Like a company of wretched Hypocrites, they reformed this abuse, only to serve a turn, which when it was served, they returned again to their old oppression, and in this thing not the People alone, but the Government was to be blamed for their Judges in their Courts of Justice, ought to have executed the Law of the Lord, and to have restrained the covetous and oppressive humour of the People. The learned Author of the English Annotations thinketh that that which altered their minds, was a little alteration of their State, during the Siege; for Chap. 37. 5. we read that the Babylonians and Chaldeans hearing of an Army coming out of Egypt, to relieve the City, left the Siege for a time, and that the Prophet, Ver. 21. of this Chapter relates to that, when he prophesied, That the King of Babylon's Army should return. But these wretched Men, seeing the Babylonian Army raised from the Siege, concluded they were now out of God's hands, and repented of their Repentance in this particular, and would make all their Servants return into their former Servitude.

12 ¶ Therefore the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying,

13 Thus saith the LORD the God of Israel, I made a covenant k with your fathers, in the day that I brought them fourth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondmen l, saying, k The Law of God is called often a Covenant, because it containeth the Will of God which he would have them do, to which (whether they express their consent or no) they are bound to consent, and agree. But to the Jews all Gods Laws given on Mount Sinai were a formal explicit Covenant, God explicitly telling them what he would have them to do, and they as explicitly promising they would do it, Exod 24. 3. l Here was a double aggravation of their sin, in breaking this Covenant made between God and them, 1. From the consideration of God's kindness, in bringing them out of Egypt. 2. From the consideration of their having been Bond men in Egypt, which should have taught them to know the Hearts of Bondmen, so as to have compassionated them whom they kept in the like distress in which they had been themselves, and from which God had delivered them. We stand concerned to remember the Vows we make to God in our distress, for God will not forget them, Gen. 35. 1. as also to compassionate them, who fall into the same Distresses that we have been in, and out of which God hath saved us. God expecteth that we should shew the same compassion to others, Matth. 18. 33.

14 At the end of seven years, let ye go every man his brother an Hebrew, which hath been sold ‖ unto thee; and when he hath served thee six years, thou shalt let him go free from thee m: but your fathers hearkned not unto me, neither inclined their ear n.

m This is but a Repetition of the Law, Exod. 21. 2. Deut. 15. 12. which concerned such Persons as were sold by others, or had sold themselves. God would not have his People take advantage of the sudden and rash acts of their Brethren, which were the effects of Passion. n Notwithstanding this Law the Jews who were always a very covetous griping People, did otherwise.

15 And ye were † now turned o, and had done right in my sight, in proclaiming liberty every man to his neighbour p, and ye had made a covenant before me in the house † which is called by my name q.

† Heb. to day.

† Heb. whereupon my name is called.

o That is, reformed in this particular, in which you had done the thing which I commanded you, p proclaiming a liberty to your Servants. q And you made a Covenant in my Presence to that purpose, and that in the Temple, where it seemeth this Covenant was made.

16 But ye turned, and polluted my name r, and caused every man his servant and every man his handmaid, whom he had set at liberty at their pleasure to return, and brought them into subjection, to be unto you for servants and for handmaids s.

r You again licked up your Vomit, and profaned my Name, swearing by it to do that which you have not done, and s forced your Servants, though dismissed, to return again unto their former Bondage and subjection to you.

17 Therefore thus saith the LORD, Ye have not hearkened unto me in proclaiming liberty every one to his brother, and every man to his neighbour t: behold, I proclaim a liberty for you, saith the LORD, to the sword, and to the pestilence, and to the famine, and I will make you † to be * removed, into all the kingdoms of the earth u.

t They had turned and given a liberty, Ver. 20. how doth God say here they had not? So God accounteth none to have done those good acts, which they do in a fit, or meerly to serve themselves of God; he saith, they had not done it, because they did not persist to do it, in such a case Mens Righteousness shall by God never be remembred, but they shall die in the sins they have committed. u Seeing you have refused to manumise your Servants at my command, I will manumise you, and set you free from my protection and Care. You shall perish by the Sword, Famine and pestilence, and those of you who escape them, shall see how pleasant a thing it is to be Slaves, and in Servitude, for you shall be dispersed in many Nations; and be Servants to the Rulers of them.

18 And I will give the men that have transgressed my covenant, which have not performed the words of the covenant, which they had made before me, when they cut the calf in twain, and passed between the parts thereof w, w This was a Ceremony which they used in making of Covenants, not without something of a Warrant from a Divine President, Gen. 15. 9, 10. it is said Ver. 19. That same Day the Lord made a Covenant with Abraham (that Covenant was a Promise that Abraham's Seed should possess the Land of Canaan) Ver. 8. Abraham said unto God, Whereby shall I know that I shall inherit it, Ver. 9. God bids him take an heifer of three years old, and a she goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, &c. Ver. 10. it is said, that he took them, and divided them in the midst, and laid each piece one against another. Indeed we read nothing there of the Parties covenanting, passing betwixt the parts of the Beasts so divided, but this was afterwards used in making Covenants betwixt Men, which had in it a secret imprecation or wishing that they might be cut in pieces like those Beasts, if they did not keep the Covenants which they made. It should seem that these Jews in the making of their solemn Promise or Covenant with God about releasing their Servants used this Rite; they caused a Calf, or Heifer to be cut in pieces, and the parts to be laid in the Temple right over-against one another, then they recited this Covenant, venant, and in the way of a solemn Promise, or confirmation of their Resolution to make their promise good, they passed betwixt the parts of the Calf, or Heifer so cut; silently agreeing that God should cut them in pieces like that Beast if they did not make their words good. Hence is the Hebrew phrase of cutting a Covenant, for making it. This was a Ceremony ordinarily used also amongst the Heathens, as we are informed by Cicero, Livy, and others.

19 The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, and the Priests, and all the people of the land, which passed betwixt the parts of the calf.

20 I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life, and their * dead bodies shall be for meat unto the fowls of the heaven, and to the beasts of the earth x.

* Chap. 7. 33. and 16. 4.

x God doth not threaten all the Jews, but those only, who had made this Covenant, and formally confirmed it, by killing a Beast, and passing through the parts of it thus divided, and laid opposite one to another. Of these he spareth none but threatens both the King and Nobles and great Courtiers, as well as the People. That he would give them into the hand of their Enemies that thirsted after their Blood, they should be slain, and their dead Bodies should not be buried. Herein the Righteousness of God appeared, by doing to them as they desired (by passing betwixt the Calf) that God would do in case they did not keep to the promise they had made, and called God to witness, and challenging him to destroy them if they did not fulfil what they covenanted for.

21 And Zedekiah king of Judah, and his princes will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seek their life; and into the hand of the king of Babylon's army * which are gone from you y.

* Chap. 37. 11.

y Here is nothing in this Verse, but what was said before, save only in the last clause, where mention is made of the King of Babylon's Army which was gone up from them, the occasion of which we shall meet with Chap. 37. 5. because there was an Army came out of Egypt to assist the Jews.

22 Behold, I will command, saith the LORD, and cause them to return to this city z, and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burn it with fire, and I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without an inhabitant.

z I will put it into their hearts to return saith the Lord, and they shall come back again to the Siege, and shall rise up no more till they have taken the City and burned it with fire, and made the whole Country desolate. The motions of Armies are under the Government of Divine Providence, they are at God's Command; when he bids them come they come, what he bids them do they do, and shall certainly effect what God hath determined. When we come to Chap. 39. we shall read of the fulfilling of this Prophecy.

CHAP. XXXV.

By the Obedience of the Rechabites, 1,——11. God condemneth the Jews Obedience, 12,——17. The Rechabites are blessed, 18, 19.

THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, in the days of Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, saying a, a This is another evidence that the Prophecies of this Book are not left us in that order wherein they were delivered, for those which we had in the two or three foregoing Chapters being in the time of Zedekiah must needs be ten or eleven Years after this.

2 Go unto the house of the Rechabites, and speak unto them, and bring them into the house of the LORD, into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drink b.

b These Rechabites had their Name from Rechab their Father, who as appears from 1 Chron. 2. 55. descended from Hemath, who was a Kenite, who is also called Hobab, Jud. 4. 11. (unless it may be Hamath who was the Son of Hobab.) This Hobab was Jethro the Father-in Law of Moses, as appears from Jud. 4. 11. we read Jud. 1. 16. That his children went up out of the City of Palm-trees, with the children of Judah, which lieth in the South of Arad, and they went, and dwelt among the people. The Rechabites here mentioned descended from this Stock. Jehonadab mentioned, 2 King. 10. 15. was of this Family, a Man of some note, as appeareth by Jehu his taking him there into his Chariot. God commandeth the Prophet to bring some of this Family into the Temple, into some of the Chambers (for in and about the Temple were several Chambers, for the Priests, and where they disposed of the Holy Garments and several Oblations, 1 King. 6. 5, 6, 10. 1 Chron. 28. 11, 12.) God commands Jeremiah to bring these Rechabites into some of these Chambers and to set wine before them. This was either for the more publickness of the thing, or it may be for the reproof of the Priests who drank too much Wine.

3 Then I took Jaazaniah, the son of Jeremiah, the son of Habaziniah, and his brethren, and all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites,

4 And I brought them into the house of the LORD, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the son of Igdaliah a man of God c, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah the son of Shallum, the keeper of the † door d.

† Heb. threshold or vessel.

c This term, the man of God, doth in Scripture signifie a Prophet sometimes, but whether it so signifieth here, and if it doth, whether it relateth to Igdaliah or Hanan is a question. d Probably by the Chamber of the Princes is meant some Chamber where the Princes were wont to meet in a Court, or for Counsel. Thither Jeremiah brings these Rechabites, and sets Vessels of Wine before them, not commanding them to drink it, but only inviting them.

5 And I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites pots full of wine, and cups, and I said unto them, Drink ye wine.

6 But they said, We will drink no wine: for Jonadab the son of Rechab our father e commanded us, saying, Ye shall drink no wine, neither ye, nor your sons for ever f.

e It is uncertain whether Father here signifies their immediate Parent, or (which is more probable) their Progenitor; it is most likely it referreth to that Jonadab of whom we read 2 King. 10. 15. who was the Father (that is the Progenitor of this Family of the Rechabites, at 300 Years distance.) f The reason why he left his Posterity this charge is uncertain, probably to warn them against the Luxury which he saw began to abound in Israel, and being desirous, that they should inure themselves to a more hardy and laborious Life; being originally Kenites, and used to Husbandry, and keeping of Sheep and other Cattel, he desired they should live according to their Quality.

7 Neither shall ye build house, nor sow seed, nor plant vineyard, nor have any: but all your days ye shall dwell in tents, that ye may live many days in the land where ye be strangers g.

g The last words of the Verse probably give us a reason of the former, they were no Native Jews, but Strangers amongst them, who commonly are envied, when they are observed to thrive too much, or to live splendidly; and that envy of the Natives of the place where they sojourn, exposeth them to their Hatred and Malice, so as their Lives are made uneasie to them, Jonadab therefore cautions his Sons to avoid these inconveniencies by a thrifty, sober, laborious life, to which they had been bred, in keeping Flocks, and to avoid any thing might expose them to Envy or Hatred or Malice of the People amongst whom they were come to sojourn.

8 Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab our father, in all that he hath charged us, to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, nor our sons, nor our daughters.

9 Nor to build houses for us to dwell in: neither have we vineyard, nor field, nor seed.

10 But we have dwelt in tents h, and have obeyed, and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us.

h Moveable Habitations, which they could with little labour remove from place to place, as they had convenience to feed their Flocks, this was their ordinary way of living until necessity compelled them to come and live in Jerusalem.

11 But it came to pass when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, came up into the land i, that we said, Come, and let us go to Jerusalem, for fear of the army of the Chaldeans, and for fear of the army of the Syrians; So we dwell at Jerusalem.

i When the Chaldean Army came into the Land, they saw there would be no quiet abode for them any where but in some fortified place. The Syrians joyned with the Chaldeans in this War, as we read 2 King. 24. 2. This they tell the Prophet was the reason why they who never used to dwell in Cities, nor fixed Houses, came to dwell at Jerusalem, to prevent being destroyed by the Foragers for these Armies.

12 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Go, and tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ye not receive instruction to hearken to my words? saith the LORD.

14 The words of Jonadab the son of Rechab, that he commanded his sons not to drink wine, are performed; for unto this day they drink none, but obey their fathers commandment: notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, * rising early, and speaking, but ye hearkned not unto me.

* Chap. 7. 13. 25.

15 I have sent also unto you all my servants the prophets, rising up early and sending them, saying, * Return ye now every man from his evil way, and amend your doings, and go not after other gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell in the land, which I have

have given to you, and to your fathers: but ye have not inclined your ear, nor hearkned to me k.

k God in this Revelation of his Mind to the Prophet expoundeth to him, why he had fet him to bring the Rechabites into the Temple, and commanded him to fet Wine before them, and invite them to drink of it, viz. that by their refufal of doing according to the invitation, in obedience to their Father Jonadab; he might convince the Jews of their Difobedience to his Commands, though God's Commands were more advantaged, than the Commands of Jonadab in that. 1. Jonadab was but an earthly Parent, and fo had no abfolute univerfal Soveraignty over his Children, but God was the Lord of hofts, the God of Ifrael. 2. Jonadab's Command was not for the performance of a moral Duty, but the doing of a thing which they might do, or leave undone. God required of them what was but the moral Duty, and for which was the higheft reafon. 3. Jonadab's Command had no promife annexed, God's Precept had a promife annexed, yet they had not yielded him that obedience which the Sons of Jonadab had yielded him: He was their Father, but where was his Honour?

16 Becaufe the fons of Jonadab the fon of Rechab have performed the commandment of their Father, which he commanded them, but this people hath not hearkned unto me;

17 Therefore thus faith the LORD God of hofts, theGod of Ifrael, Behold, I will bring upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerufalem, all the evil that I have pronounced againft them: becaufe I have fpoken unto them, and they have not heard, I have called unto them, and they have not anfwered l.

l This is but the fame Threatning confirmed, which we have often met with before, concerning the ruine of this People, only the meritorious caufe of it is further amplified, their not paying that Homage to God which thefe Rechabites paid to an Earthly Parent, and had been fteady in the Payment of, now for three hundred Years together.

18 And Jeremiah faid to the houfe of the Rechabites, Thus faith the LORD of hofts, the God of Ifrael, Becaufe you have obeyed the command of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according to all that he hath commanded you.

19 Therefore thus faith the LORD of hofts, the God of Ifrael, † Jonadab the fon of Rechab fhall not want a man to ftand before me for ever m.

† Heb. There fhall not a man be cut off from Jonadab the fon of Rechab to ſtand, &c.

m For ever here fignifies the ever of the Jewiſh State, or Church; whether the Promife relates to the abiding of Jonadab's Family, when many Families of the Jews were quite rooted out, cut off, and extinct, or to fome fpecial favour that God would fhew them, or to fome place of Office, they fhould have in, or about the Temple (as fome judge becaufe, 1 Chron. 2. 55. it appears they were Scribes) is uncertain: But it is a queſtion of more moment. How God promiſeth a Reward to thefe Sons of Jonadab for obeying the Command of their Father, and whether they had finned if they had not obeyed this Command of Jonadab, which brings in another Queſtion: Whether Parents have a power to oblige their children in matters which God hath left at liberty. To which, I anſwer, 1 God might reward thefe Rechabites, for their Reverence and Obedience to Jonadab their Father, though they were not ſtrictly by the Divine Law, obliged thus far to have obeyed him: as he rewarded David for his thoughts in his heart to build him an Houſe, though it was not God's Will that he ſhould do it, ſo as God's Promiſe of the Reward doth not prove their Obedience in this particular to have been their Duty. Admit that it remained ſtill a matter of Liberty, yet the General Honour, and Reverence they teſtified might be rewarded by God. 2. Unqueſtionably Parents have not a power to determine Children in all things as to which God hath left them a liberty, for then they have a power to make their Children Slaves, and to take away all their natural Liberty. To Marry or not, and to this, or that Perſon, is matter of Liberty. Parents cannot in this caſe determine their Children. Bethuel Gen. 24. 58. aſketh Rebeccah if ſhe would go with Abraham's Servant before he would ſend her. 3. In matters of civil concernment they have a far greater power than in matters of Religion. All Souls are God's, and Conſcience can be under no other Dominion than that of God. 4. In civil things Parents have a great power, during the Nonage of Children, and after alſo in matters which concern their Parents good, as to command them to aſſiſt them, to help to ſupply their Neceſſities, &c. 5. Parents being ſet over Children, and inſtead of God to them, as it is their Duty to adviſe their Children to the beſt of their ability for their good: So it is the Duty of Children to receive their advice, and not to depart from it, unleſs they ſee circumſtances ſo miſtaken by Parents, or ſo altered by the Providence of God, as they may reaſonably judge, their Parents, had they known or foreſeen it, would not have ſo adviſed. But that Parents have an abſolute power to determine Children in all things as to which God hath not forbidden them, and that Children by the Law of God are obliged to an Obedience to all ſuch Commands, however, they may ſee their Parents miſtaken, or God by his Providence may have altered Circumſtances, I ſee no reaſon to conclude. Jonadab had prudently adviſed his Sons as before mentioned; they were things they might do, and which by experience they found not hurtful to them, but of great profit and advantage, and that with reference to all the ends of Man's Life: Herein they yield Obedience, and pay a Reverence to their Parent; this pleaſeth God, he promiſeth to reward them with the continuance of their Family, according to what he had ſaid, Exod 20. 12. in the Fifth Commandment, which the Apoſtle calleth the Firſt Commandment with Promiſe.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Jeremiah cauſeth Baruch to write his Prophecy; and publickly to read it, 1,——10. The Princes ſend to fetch the Roll and read it, 11,——18. They adviſe Baruch and Jeremiah to hide themſelves, 19. The King Jehoiakim rearcth part of the Roll, and burneth it, 20,——26. Jeremiah denounceth his Judgment, 27,——31. Baruch writeth a new Copy, 32.

1 AND it came to paſs in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, that this word came unto Jeremiah from the LORD, ſaying a, a Jehoiakim was three Years a Tributary to Nebuchadnezzar, as we read, 2 Kings 24 1. then he rebelled, which three Years are judged to be the 6, 7, and 8th Years of his Reign, for Pharaoh Necho fet him up, to whom he was firſt a Tributary as we read, 2 King. 23. 35. Pharaoh Necho having conquered him, Jehoiakim became Servant to the Conqueror three Years, then rebelled upon which the Armies of the Chaldæans with the Syrians, &c. came up againſt him; and carried him away. This word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the firſt Year that he was Tributary to the King of Babylon, which was the fourth Year of his Reign.

2 Take thee a * roll of a book band * write therein all the words that I have ſpoken unto thee, againſt Iſrael, and againſt Judah, and againſt all the nations from the day I ſpake unto thee, from the days of * Joſiah even unto this day c.

* Iſa 8 1.
* Chap. 30. 2.
* Chap. 25. 3.

b By a Roll of a Book is to be underſtood Parchments, which anciently were their Books, the Art of binding Books being not then known. c The Precept is for recording all the Revelations he had from God for 22 Years laſt paſt; for he began to propheſie in the thirteenth Year of Joſiah, who reigned one and thirty Years; ſo as he propheſied 18 Years, during Joſiah's Life, and this was the fourth Year of the Reign of Jehoiakim. God would have them recorded, that there might be a Memorial of them, that ſo the truth of them might appear, when God ſhould bring them to paſs, the time of which now drew very near.

3 It may be that the houſe of Judah will hear all the evil d which I purpoſe to do unto them, that they may return every man from his evil way, that I may forgive their iniquity, and their ſin e.

d What we tranſlate it may be יוּלַי others tranſlate if perhaps, which better expreſſeth the ſence. God knew what would be, but yet he would not be wanting in means by which they might be informed in his Will, and ſo believe the thing, for believing and reforming are here meant by hearing, as the next words in part expound this term here. e Forgiveneſs of ſin in Scripture ſometimes ſignifieth the acquitting of a ſinner from the obligation ſin layeth the ſinner under to Eternal Death, ſometimes the remiſſion of a temporal puniſhment; it may here well be underſtood as comprehending both, though I think the latter to be what is here principally intended.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the ſon of Neriah, and * Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah, all the words of the LORD, which he had ſpoken unto him, upon a roll of a book f.

* Chap. 45. 1.

f We ſhall find this Baruch, being one of Jeremiah's Diſciples, more than once thus imployed as Jeremiah's Secretary or Amanuenſis. None ſhall need ask how Jeremiah could remember all the Prophecies he had propheſied for 22 Years before paſt, that conſidereth who it was that commanded him to do this God undoubtedly revived the Prophet's Memory, or he could not have called all to mind.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, ſaying, I am ſhut up, I cannot go into the houſe of the LORD.

6 Therefore go thou and read in the roll which thou haſt written from my mouth, the words of the LORD in the ears of the people in the LORD's houſe upon the faſting day g: and alſo thou ſhalt read them in the ears of all Judah, that come out of their Cities.

g We do not read that Jeremiah was a Priſoner in the fourth Year of Jehoiakim, and therefore it is very uncertainly gueſſed in what ſence he here ſaith he was ſhut up. Some think Jehoiakim had impriſoned him, or at leaſt reſtrained him to his Houſe, tho' we do not read of it. Others think he reſtrained himſelf, but in what ſence he was ſhut up, is not certain; that he was ſo, is certain; he knew that God had not commanded his Prophecies to be written for any other end, but that the People might have them recalled to their Memories; he being not in a capacity himſelf at preſent to ſpeak any thing to the People in ſo publick a place, ſendeth Baruch to do it in his ſtead, chuſing for it a Day of publick Faſt, not the Day of the Yearly Faſt mentioned Levit. 23. 27. but on a Faſt Day (of which we ſhall read more, Ver. 9.) proclaimed by Jehoiakim, probably to avert the Vengeance hanging over them from the Chaldæans, or rather from the drought. It was undoubtedly, becauſe of the Conconrſe of People which the Prophet knew would that Day be in the Temple, that he choſe that Day, when ſome would be preſent from all parts of Judah.

7 It may be † they will preſent their ſupplication before the LORD, and will return every one from his evil way, for great is the anger, and the fury, that the LORD hath pronounced againſt this people h.

h We had an expreſſion like this, Ver. 3. it teacheth us that the only means to turn away God's fierce anger ready to fall upon People, is Prayer and Reformation.

8 And Baruch the ſon of Neriah, did according to all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the LORD, in the LORD's houſe.

9 And it came to paſs in the fifth year of Jehoiachim, the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, that they proclaimed a faſt before the LORD to all the people in Jeruſalem, and to all the people that came from the Cities of Judah unto Jeruſalem.

i This Faſt was appointed upon a particular emergency, whether it was for a Famine which was then in the Land, or to avert the ruine which they juſtly feared from the king of Babylon, who had lately brought them under his Servitude, is not certain; the yearly Faſt, Levit. 23. 27. was to be kept in the ſeventh Month, nor did God ever ordain any Faſt to be kept in the ninth Month.

10 Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the houſe of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah, the ſon of Shaphan the ſcribe, in the higher court, at the * || entry of the new gate, of the LORD's houſe in the ears of all the people k.

* Chap. 26. 10.
|| Or, door.

k This Verſe only atteſteth Baruch's Obedience to the Command of the Prophet Jeremy, not only as to the thing, his reading it in the Temple, but as to the circumſtance in as publick a manner as he could in the Chamber of Gemariah, &c. moſt likely out of ſome Window, or in ſome Balcony, the People being below, and hearing it.

11 When Micaiah the ſon of Gemariah, the ſon of Shaphan had heard out of the book all the words of the LORD,

12 Then he went down into the king's houſe, into the ſcribes chamber, and lo all the princes ſate there, even Eliſhama the ſcribe, and Delaiah the ſon of Shemaiah, and Elnathan the ſon of Achbor, and Gemariah the ſon of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the ſon of Hananiah, and all the princes l.

l It is uncertain whether this Micaiah went to make this Relation to the Princes who ſate in the Secretaries Chamber, as a piece of News only, or out of a malicious deſign to accuſe the Prophet, and Baruch for what was done as a ſeditious practice.

13 Then Micaiah declared unto them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read the book in the ears of the people m.

m That is, the ſubſtance of all the words, for none can imagine that an hearer could remember every word, which ſhews the vanity of thoſe who overſtrain ſuch univerſal Particles to ſignifie every particular word or perſon.

14 Therefore all the princes n ſent Jehudi the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Shelemiah the ſon of Cuſhi unto Baruch, ſaying, Take in thy hand the roll wherein thou haſt read in the ears of the people, and come. So Baruch the ſon of Neriah, took the roll in his hand, and came unto them.

n That is, all the Princes that at that time ſate there in Council, ſent a Meſſenger with a Command to Baruch to appear before them, and to bring the Roll which he had read in the Ears of the People.

15 And they ſaid unto him, Sit down now, and read it in our ears, So Baruch read it in their ears p.

p The courage of Baruch is admirable, he was now before the Council, in the King's Houſe, the ſubſtance of the Prophecies, were threatning both to the King, and Court, and to all the People. The King as appears by all Hiſtory, was of no good Temper, we read Chap. 26. Ver. 23. of his ſending for Uriah the Prophet out of Egypt, when he had fled thither for fear of the King, and ſlaying him, and we ſhall find that at this time, the Princes adviſed both Jeremy and Baruch to hide themſelves, yet Baruch is not afraid, but reads the Prophecy in their Ears.

16 Now it came to paſs, when they had heard all the words, they were afraid both one and other q, and ſaid to Baruch, we will ſurely tell the king of all theſe words r.

q It is hardly to be imagined that all theſe Counſellors ſhould ſit ſtill till they had heard all Jeremiah's Prophecies for 22 Years read, but all ſignifies many, or the ſence and ſubſtance of all the Prophecies. r They were all of them afraid, Jeremiah had now been above twenty Years a Prophet to this People, and doubtleſs in great eſteem for 18 Years of it, while Joſiah was alive, and one whoſe Prophecies they could not but obſerve had been oft accompliſhed, therefore they could not but be afraid that they ſhould ſee theſe words alſo fulfilled, and took themſelves bound in Duty to acquaint the King with them. Some, if not all of theſe, probably had been great Men in Joſiah's time, which was but four or five Years before, and from him ſucked in ſome good and Religious Principles, which beget ſome awe of God in them.

17 And they asked Baruch, ſaying, Tell us now, How didſt thou write all theſe words at his mouth s?

s This now ſeemed but a reaſonable Queſtion, conſidering they were the ſubſtance of what he had been propheſying for ſo many Years. The thing ſeemed ſtrange to the Princes, Prophets being not uſed to ſtudy and pen their Diſcourſes, but to ſpeak them extempore.

18 Then Baruch anſwered them, He pronounced all theſe words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with ink in the book t.

t This could not but add to the Princes fear and amazement. They muſt needs conceive that the thing was done from God, for without a ſpecial influence of God, it had been a thing impoſſible, that Jeremiah ſhould have called to mind all that he had ſpoken at ſeveral times in ſo many Years; and proceeding from the God of Truth, they muſt needs fear, that they would have their certain and juſt accompliſhment in their ſeaſon.

19 Then ſaid the Princes unto Baruch, Go, hide thee, thou, and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye be u.

u This ſpeaketh theſe Princes to have been Men of a much gentler Temper, and better Diſpoſition, than thoſe who ſucceeded them in Zedekiah's time; they were not willing that any harm ſhould come to the Prophet, nor to Baruch, and knew the fierce Temper of Jehoiachim, and therefore adviſed Baruch, that both he, and the Prophet ſhould hide themſelves.

20 And they went in to the king, into the court, but they laid up the roll in the chamber of Eliſhama the ſcribe, and told all the words in the ears of the king w.

w They were obliged by their Office as Councellors to the King, to acquaint him with what they heard, which might be prejudicial to him, and his Nation; and indeed this was the very end, why God had commanded the enrolling of theſe Prophecies, that both the King, and Princes, and People might take notice of them, but they did not carry the Book with them, but laid it up in the Secretaries Chamber.

21 So the king ſent Jehudi to fet the roll, And he took it out of Eliſhama the ſcribes chamber, And Jehudi read it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes which ſtood beſide the king x.

x It appeareth by V. 14. that this Jehudi was a Meſſenger commonly imployed by the King and Council; him the King ſends to fetch the roll (before called a Book) then he imployeth him to read it.

22 Now the king ſate in the winter-houſe in the ninth month, and there was a fire on the hearth burning before him y.

y The ninth Month with them, anſwered part of our November and December, which was a time of the Year called for Fires.

23 And it came to paſs that when Jehudi had read three or four leaves, he z cut it with the pen-knife, and caſt it into the fire, that was on the hearth, until all the roll was conſumed in the fire that was on the hearth.

z That is, the King not having patience to hear above three or four Columns, or Periods, or Titles, took the Pen knife, that (it is like) Jehudi had, and cut it in pieces, and burned it in the fire that was before him, not conſidering that it was the Revelation of the Will of God, but exalting himſelf above all that was called God. This ſhewed both the wickedneſs, and paſſionate Temper of this Prince, and his high contempt of God and his Prophets.

24 Yet they were not afraid, nor * rent their garments, neither the king nor any of his ſervants that heard all theſe words a.

* 2 Kings 22. 11.

a So hardned were this Peoples Hearts, that though they knew that Jeremiah was a Prophet of the Lord, upon the experience now of more than 20 Years, and the whole ſcope of his Prophecies had been to denounce the juſt Judgments of God that now were coming upon this People, and they could not but underſtand, that God muſt be greatly affiſtant to Jeremiah in writing this Roll, all the matter of which he could not otherwiſe have kept in mind ſo many Years, yet they had no ſerious fear of God upon their hearts, working upon the hearing the dreadful matter of theſe Prophecies, nor ſhewed any ſign of remorſe, or fence of their ſins, or God's Judgments coming upon them as indications of his Wrath.

25 Neverthelefs Elnathan, and Delaiah, and Gemariah, had made interceſſion to the king, that he would not burn the roll, but he would not hear them b.

b Theſe three Princes ſeemed to have had a greater dread of God upon their hearts than the reſt, for ſo far as they durſt, they interpoſed, and beſought the King not to burn the Roll; but he would not hearken to their advice.

26 But the king commanded Jerameel the ſon of Hammelech and Seraiah the ſon of Azriel, and Shelemiah

10. of the King.

Jah the son of Abdeel, to take Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet c: But the LORD hid them d.

c The King was not satisfied with burning the Roll, but gives order to apprehend both Jeremiah and Baruch, and commandeth the three Perſons named in this Verſe to do it: d But God by his Providence kept them both out of their hands; how the Lord hid them we are not told, the Princes (as we read before) adviſed Baruch that they ſhould both hide themſelves. This Phraſe (probably) imports no more, than that God directed them to find ſuch a place of recels as the Kings Meſſengers could by no means find out, nor underſtand where they were, till the King's Paſſion was a little over.

27 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah after that the king had burnt the roll, and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah, ſaying, 28 Take thee again another roll, and write in it all the former words that were in the firſt roll which Jehoiakim the king of Judah hath burnt.

29 And thou ſhalt ſay to Jehoiakim, king of Judah, Thus ſaith the LORD, Thou haſt burnt this roll, ſaying, Why haſt thou written therein, ſaying, The king of Babylon ſhall certainly come, and deſtroy this land, and ſhall cauſe to ceaſe from thence man and beaſt o?

e It ſpeaketh nothing but the Impotency, and Paſſion, and debauchery of humane Nature, to ſwell againſt any Revelations of the Divine Will, the Counſels of the Lord ſhall ſtand, and Men only further entangle themſelves, by ſtrugling in the Lord's Net. Jehoiakim burns one Roll, God will have the ſame thing wrote in a nother. f We learn here both what was the matter of Jeremiah's Prophecy, and the cauſe of the King's anger; he had propheſied that the King of Babylon, ſhould come, take Jeruſalem, and lay the Country waſte, which as to Jehoiakim's part, was fulfilled within ſix Years after this, more fully in 18 Years, but corrupt Princes can indure nothing that ſhall make their Lives uneaſie.

30 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD of Jehoiakim the king of Judah, He ſhall have none to ſit upon the throne of David f, and his dead body ſhall be * caſt out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the froſt g.

* Chap. 22. 19.

f That is, none that ſhall be King any conſiderable time, Jeconiah, or Jehoiachin his Son was ſet up, but kept his Throne but three Months, 2 Kings 24. 8, 9, 10. g We no where read of the time, or manner of this King's Death, but that he had an ignominious Burial, Ch. 22. 19. like the Burial of an Aſs; none accompanying his Corps, none mourning for him, and it appears from this Text, that wherever he dyed, his Body lay for a time unburied.

† Heb. viſit upon.

31 And I will † puniſh him, and his ſeed, and his ſervants, for their iniquity, and I will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and upon the men of Judah, all the evil that I have pronounced againſt them, but they hearkned not h.

h As to the People God threatneth, they ſhould feel, what they were not willing to hear, even all the evil which God by his Prophet had pronounced againſt them.

32 Then took Jeremiah another roll, and gave it to Baruch, the ſcribe, the ſon of Neriah, who wrote therein from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book, which Jehoiakim the king of Judah, had burnt in the fire, and there were added beſides unto them many † like words i.

† Heb. as they.

i Wicked Men get nothing by oppoſing themſelves to the revealed Will of God, how ungrateful ſoever it be to them, but the addition of guilt to their Souls, and the increaſe of Divine Wrath. God's Counſels ſhall ſtand, and what he ſpeaks ſhall moſt certainly be accompliſhed. Here is another Roll written with additional Threatnings confirmative of what God had before ſaid.

CHAP. XXXVII.

The Egyptians raiſe the Siege of the Chaldeans: And King Zedekiah ſendeth to Jeremiah, to pray and enquire of the Lord for them, 1——5. He propheſieth the Chaldeans Return and Victory, 6——10. He is apprehended for a Fugitive, beaten, and put into Priſon, 11——15. He aſſureth Zedekiah of the Captivity; and, intreating for Liberty, obtaineth ſome Favour, 16——21.

1 AND king Zedekiah the ſon of Joſiah a, reigned in ſtead of Coniah b the ſon of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah c.

a The Hiſtory of this Succeſſion we have, 2 Kings 24. 17. 2 Chron. 36. 10. Zedekiah's Name was Mattaniah, the King of Babylon changed his Name to Zedekiah. b He reigned in ſtead of Jehoiachin, the ſon of Jehoiachim who reigned but three months, 2 Kings 24. 8. his Name was Jeconiah, 1 Chron. 3. 16. and in a way of deriſion or contempt, is here called Coniah. c The King of Babylon made this Zedekiah King, who is here called the Son of Joſiah, and 2 Kings 24. 17. Jehoiakim's Father's Brother, to diſtinguiſh him from another Zedekiah Son of Jehoiakim, as appears from 1 Chron. 3. 16.

2 But neither he, nor his ſervants, nor the people of the land, did hearken to the words of the LORD which he ſpake by † the prophet Jeremiah d.

† Heb. by the hand of the Prophet.

d This Zedekiah was little better than Jehoiakim, he ſeemeth by his Story to be of a little better Temper, not ſo cruel, and bloody; but he no more regarded God's word by his Prophet than Jehoiachim had done.

3 And Zedekiah the king ſent Jehucal, the ſon of Shelemiah, and * Zephaniah the ſon of Maaſeiah the prieſt, to the prophet Jeremiah, ſaying, Pray now unto the LORD our God for us e.

* Chap. 29. 25. and 52. 24.

e This was apparently in the time of the Siege; for v. 5. we read of Pharaoh's Army being come to relieve the Beſieged, whether it was before the Babylonians were departed, or no, is uncertain; but it is plain, if they were departed, the King was afraid they would come back again. That which is moſt obſervable for us from hence, is this, That wicked Men of all ranks are deſirous of the Prayers of thoſe Miniſters in their Diſtreſſes, whoſe Counſels and Admonitions they never regard, while they are in a time of Proſperity; which is an Evidence of their acting contrary to the convictions of their Conſciences, in obedience to their Luſts, in their contempt of their Inſtructions and Admonitions. When Affliction hath cooled their Luſts, then their Conſciences can be heard in dictating their Duty to them.

4 Now Jeremiah came in, and went out amongſt the people, for they had not put him into priſon f.

f We ſhall read afterward, ver. 15. that he was impriſoned; and we have heard, chap. 32. of two Revelations he had while he was in Priſon, but as yet he walked at liberty.

5 Then Pharaoh's army was come forth out of Egypt, and * when the Chaldeans that beſieged Jeruſalem, heard tidings of them, they departed from Jeruſalem g.

* Chap. 34. 21.

g Zedekiah was ſet up by the King of Babylon, inſtead of Jehoiakim, whom the King of Babylon had carried into Babylon, Zedekiah (as is uſual in thoſe caſes, and as is appeareth, Ezek. 17. 16.) had taken an Oath of Allegiance to the King of Babylon, but broke it, and the Covenant which he made with him, ver. 16 and ver. 15. rebelled againſt him, and ſent his Ambaſſador into Egypt for Horſes, and much people. Now the King of Egypt came in Perſon no more after the great Overthrow given him, in Carchemiſh, by the River Euphrates, of which we read chap. 46. 2. which was thirteen or fourteen years before this; yet he ſent an Army at Zedekiah's requeſt to relieve him, at this time beſieged by the Armies of the King of Babylon. The Chaldeans that were in the Siege of Jeruſalem hearing of it, raiſed the Siege for a time, during which time (probably) it was that Zedekiah ſent to the Prophet to pray for them.

6 Then came the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah, ſaying,

7 Thus ſaith the LORD, the God of Iſrael, Thus ſhall ye ſay to the king of Judah that ſent you unto me, to enquire of me h, Behold Pharaoh's army which is come forth to help you, ſhall return to Egypt, into their own land i.

h The Word Enquire let us know that Zedekiah did not ſend to the Prophet only to pray for him, but to enquire of God what the iſſue would be of this future contingency; it may be more deſirous to know that, than that Jeremiah ſhould intercede with God for them. i The Prophet tells them from God that the King of Egypt's Army ſhould do them no ſervice, it is expounded, Ezek. 17. 17. He ſhould not make for him in the war, by caſting up mounts, and building forts, to cut off many perſons. Probably the Egyptian Army upon the ſight of the ſtrength of the Chaldeans, and the weak and impotent ſtate of the Jews, were diſcouraged, and would not adventure to fight them, but by and bye returned to their own Land.

8 And the Chaldeans ſhall come again, and fight againſt this city, and take it, and burn it with fire.

9 Thus ſaith the LORD, Deceive not your † ſelves, ſaying The Chaldeans ſhall ſurely depart from us, for they ſhall not depart.

† Heb. Souls.

10 For though ye had ſmitten the whole army of the Chaldeans, that fight againſt you, and there remained † but wounded men among them: yet ſhould they riſe up every man in his tent, and burn this city with fire k.

† Heb. they thruſt through.

k The ſubſtance of the Anſwer returned by the Prophet to the King is this. That whereas they pleaſed themſelves with Fancies that the Babylonian Army now withdrawn to meet with the Army of the Egyptians would return no more to the Siege, it was a Dream. He aſſures them from God they ſhould return, beſiege the City, and take it, and burn it, and therefore they did but deceive themſelves to think otherwiſe; though they were gone, yet it was but for a very ſhort time. He farther aſſures them, that the potency or impotency of the Chaldeans was inconſiderable; for if their whole Army were made up of wounded men, or if they could prevail ſo far as to wound all their Soldiers, or thruſt them through, (as the Word is tranſlated, chap. 51. 4.) yet they ſhould do the work. When God is reſolved upon an Effect, the Inſtruments are very little to be regarded. It is not the Arm of Fleſh, but the Power of God which is in that caſe alone to be conſidered.

† Heb. made to aſcend.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when the army of the Chaldeans was † broken up from Jeruſalem for fear of Pharaoh's army.

12 Then Jeremiah went forth out of Jeruſalem to go into the land of Benjamin, ‖ to ſeparate himſelf thence in the midſt of the people l.

‖ Or, to ſlip away from thence in the midſt of the people.

l PIN The Word we tranſlate ſeparate ſignifieth to divide, ſoften, or make ſlippery, which hath made Interpreters vary in the Expoſition of it. But the general uſe of it, eſpecially in Pihel, (the conjugation in which it is here uſed) being to ſignifie a dividing or ſeparating; and the latter ſignification being ſecondary, it ſeemeth moſt reaſonably here tranſlated to ſeparate, or to withdraw: Jeremiah had no farther Revelation from God, which he has under an obligation to communicate; and knowing the City would ſuddenly be taken, and that he could be no farther uſeful to the People, taking advantage of the withdrawing of the Chaldean Army, reſolves to provide for himſelf, deſigning to go to his own Country, to Anathoth, which was in the Land of Benjamin; and becauſe he was a noted Perſon, who might probably be ſtopt (as he was) if known, he attempts to ſlip out in the crowd of People that were going out: This ſeemeth to me the moſt probable ſence.

13 And when he was in the gate of Benjamin m, a captain of the ward was there, whoſe name was Irijah, the ſon of Shelemiah, the ſon of Hananiah n, and he took Jeremiah the prophet, ſaying, Thou falleſt away to the Chaldeans.

m The Gate of Benjamin was ſome Gate that looked toward the Inheritance of that Tribe: Or where thoſe uſed to go out who went that way, we read of it, chap. 38. 7. n This Man was a Captain of the Guard that was ſet to watch at the Gates, to keep People from going out, or at leaſt ſome Perſons; for it ſhould ſeem by Jeremiah's endeavour to go out in the crowd; they ſuffered many to go out, as is uſual in Sieges, when victuals grow ſcarce; and though the Chaldeans were at preſent gone, yet they were not out of fear of their coming back. This Captain apprehends Jeremiah, as one who was about to deſert the City, and fall off to the Chaldeans. That Hananiah the Grandfather of this Irijah, was the falſe Prophet we read of, chap. 28. who died according to Jeremiah's Prophecy, and this his Grandchild apprehended Jeremiah in ſome revenge of his Grandfather, is but tincertainly gueſſed. But Jeremiah's ſo frequent propheſying that the Chaldeans ſhould take the City, expoſed him to this ſuſpicion probably.

† Heb. falſehood or a lye.

14 Then ſaid Jeremiah, It is † falſe, I fall not away to the Chaldeans o: But he hearkned not unto him, ſo Irijah took Jeremiah, and brought him to the princes.

o Though Jeremiah, as the Lord's Prophet, faithfully revealed the Will of God, that the Chaldeans ſhould take the City, to wain the people (if poſſible) to prevent it by ſolemn Addreſſes unto God, or at leaſt to prevent what miſchief might be preſented by a timely Surrender to the King of Babylon, yet he had no deſign to fly to them; he was ſo far from delighting in their company, that when the City was taken, and the Captain of the Guard offered him either to go along with him to Babylon, promiſing to look well to him, Chap. 40. 4, 5. or to go back to Gedaliah, whom the King of Babylon had ſet as Deputy Governor in Judea, he choſe rather to go and dwell under Gedaliah's Government, in a poor condition, than to mend his Commons in an Idolatrous Country, but the Captain would not believe him but carrieth him before the Princes.

15 Wherefore the princes were wroth with Jeremiah, and ſmote him, and put him in priſon, in the houſe of Jonathan the ſcribe; for they had made that the priſon p.

p Theſe Princes ſeem more fierce againſt the Prophet than thoſe that were in the time of Jehoiachim, for they proceed here upon the Captain's Information, cauſe the Prophet to be beaten, and ſend him to Priſon, a Priſon within the compaſs of the Court, bad enough, as appeareth by Jeremiah's Complaint of his Condition there to the King, Ver. 20. and by what followeth in the next Verſe.

16 ¶ When Jeremiah was entred into the dungeon, and into the ‖ cabins, and Jeremiah had remained there many days q.

q The Hebrew words which we Tranſlate Dungeon, ſignifie the houſe of the locks; they certainly ſignifie ſome Pit, or deep hole, or place in the Priſon, where were ſome Cells or Apartments, in which they were wont to keep thoſe whom they judged great Malefactors, or againſt whom they had ſome ſpecial anger, how many days the Prophet was forced to abide in the miſerable place it is not ſaid, but it ſhould ſeem by Verſe 19. that it was until the Chaldean Army was returned to the Siege.

17 Then Zedekiah the king ſent, and took him out, and the king asked him ſecretly in his houſe, and ſaid, Is there any word from the LORD? and Jeremiah ſaid, There is: for, ſaid he, thou ſhalt be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon r.

r That is, hath God revealed any thing to thee, concerning what will be the iſſue of the return of the Chaldean Army to the Siege of the City? What needed Zedekiah to have asked this, to whom God by this Prophet had ſo often revealed his Will in this caſe? wicked Men are always more curious to know, than careful to believe, obſerve, and obey the Will of God. But God seldom or never ſpeaketh good unto them; Jeremiah tells him there, was, but it was a ſad word, viz. That God would certainly deliver him into the hand or power of the King of Babylon.

18 Moreover, Jeremiah ſaid unto king Zedekiah, What have I offended againſt thee, or againſt thy ſervants, or againſt this people, that ye have put me in priſon?

s That is, what have I done worthy of Bonds? I have faithfully heretofore revealed to you the Mind and Will of God, if this hath offended you, I am not to be blamed, I could not but execute God's Commands.

19 Where are now your prophets, which propheſied unto you, ſaying, The king of Babylon ſhall not come againſt you, nor againſt this land?

t You now ſee what kind of Prophets they are, who fed you with hopes, that the King of Babylon's Army ſhould return no more to the Siege of the City. I told you they would return, you had other Prophets that told you they ſhould not, judge, now who were the true Prophets. The Devil in all Ages had ſome that contradicted the true Prophets of the Lord: Three hundred falſe Prophets contradicted one Micaiah, as to Ahab's going up to Ramoth Gilead, and proſpering in that Expedition. There were many that contradicted Iſaiah and Jeremiah, and other true Prophets, as to the King of Babylon's coming to beſiege Hieruſalem, and his return again to the Siege when he had riſen up from it, to meet the Egyptian Army; and as to the length of time in which the Jews ſhould be in Captivity; yet, (to let us ſee Mens madneſs upon their Luſts) as there ſtill have riſen up in other Generations, falſe Teachers, and Flatterers, ſo they have always found more favour than thoſe that have dared more faithfully in revealing God's Will.

20 Therefore hear now I pray thee, O my lord the king u, † let my ſupplication, I pray thee be accepted before thee; that thou cauſe me not to return to the houſe of Jonathan the ſcribe, leſt I die there x.

† Heb. let my ſupplication fall.

u Though Jeremiah had dealt very faithfully with the King and Princes, and they had dealt very hardly and cruelly with him, caſting him for no juſt cauſe into a naſty Priſon, and Jeremiah knew well enough, that Zedekiah was very ſoon to be diſarmed of his power, yet (to learn us our duty) he ſpeaks with all due reſpect and reverence to his Soveraign, though a very bad Man, and one who had dealt very ill with him. x This Petition of Jeremiah, ſpeaks the Priſon he was in, was in a very inconvenient place, where he was in danger of his life.

21 Then Zedekiah the king commanded that they ſhould commit Jeremiah into * the court of the priſon, and that they ſhould give him daily a piece of bread out of the bakers ſtreet, until all the bread in the city were ſpent. Thus Jeremiah remained in the court of the priſon y.

* Chap. 32. 2.

y So as he was a Priſoner ſtill, but in a freer Air, where he did not ſuffer thoſe inconveniences, or, which he indured in the Hole or Dungeon. z It is of no great moment to know whether the portion of Bread, allowed the Prophet by the King, were a Loaf (as ſome think) or a piece of a Loaf; it was ſuch a proportion as could be allowed according to the proportion which others had, and the ſtraits which the City was in, and ſo much as ſerved to keep him alive. Jeremiah remained here ſtill upon the ſuggeſtion of the Princes, 'till he was removed to a worſe place, as we ſhall read in the fifth Verſe of the next Chapter; where he ſtaid not long, but was again remanded to the Court of the Priſon, as we ſhall read there, Verſe 13. where (as it followeth there Verſe 28.) he continued until the City was taken.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Jeremiah propheſieth, to the Princes, with the King's Permiſſion, caſt into a Dungeon; from [illegible] by Ebed-melech, with the King's Conſent, taken out again, 1——13. He hath a ſecret Conference with the King, in which he confeſſeth him by yielding to ſave his Life, 14.——23. By the King's Command he conceleth the Conference from the Princes, 24.——27. He abideth in Priſon till Jeruſalem is taken, 28.

1 THEN Shephatiah the ſon of Mattan, and Gedaliah the ſon of Paſhur, and Jucal the ſon of Shelemiah, and Paſhur the ſon of Malchiah, heard the words that Jeremiah had ſpoken to all the people, ſaying a:

a Here are four of the great Men, Counſellors, or great Officers to Zedekiah named, of whom we have no further mention in holy Writ, nor are they worthy of much inquiry after. Jeremiah being now removed into a little freer Air, where his Friends, or ſuch as had a deſire to ſee him, came to him, and it is very likely were inquiſitive to know what God would do with the City, he could not but tell them what he knew of the Mind of God in the caſe, and adviſe them the beſt he could. Some of them go to theſe Princes, and inform them of what they had heard from the Prophet.

2 Thus saith the LORD, He that remaineth in this City shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, but he that goeth forth to the Chaldeans shall live: for he shall have his life for a prey, and shall live. h.

h As to what in Verse 3. it is no more than had for some time been the constant tenour of this Prophet's Prophecies. The Crime herein he is to tax this, that in such a time of extream danger, he should repeat this Prophecy, and also advise the People to leave the City, and shift for themselves, by going out to the Chaldeans, telling them that if they did so, though the City would be lost, and their Estates in it lost, yet they should save their Lives, which words might incourage many of low and cowardly Spirits to desert their Posts; which indeed had been Crime sufficient in an ordinary time, and under ordinary Circumstances, but was no Crime now that God had revealed his Will to the King. Princes and People, that the City should be lost; there lay now no further Duty upon any to contribute to its defence, but they were obliged to make as good provisions for themselves as they could; but these wicked Princes believed no such thing, therefore they make this a great Charge.

3 Thus saith the LORD, This city shall surely be given into the hand of the king of Babylon's army, which shall take it.

4 Therefore the princes said unto the king, We beseech thee let this man be put to death: for thus he weakneth the hands of the men of war that remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, in speaking such words unto them: for this man seeketh not the † welfare of this people, but the hurt c.

c The Prophet now seemeth under sad Circumstances, the Princes seek his Life, though for delivering no other Doctrine than he had been preaching for 20 Years; their pretence was, his discouraging and weakening the military part of the City, letting them know that they laboured in vain, for the City was not defensible. This they interpret a seeking not the welfare of the People, but their hurt, though indeed their welfare was that alone which he sought, knowing that there was no other way for any of them to save their Lives, but by submitting to the Chaldeans; though the great Men (being Persons God had determined to ruine) would not believe it, and would have the welfare and hurt of the place determined by their Opinions.

5 Then Zedekiah the king said, Behold, he is in your hand d, for the king is not he that can do any thing against you e.

d That is in your power, either by the Established Law against false Prophets, or else I yield up my power to you, I surrender him into your hands. But neither of these seemeth very probable, for here is no mention of the sitting of the Sanhedrim to judge him as a false Prophet, nor of any judicial proceedings of that nature: And it should seem by Zedekiah's relieving of him from other from the Dungeon, into which they threw him, that he had not, forasmuch as they Jeremiah to into their hands, but he referred to himself a far-perintendency upon them to correct their too severe dealings with him. The meaning seems rather to be, if you will do any such thing, I shall not oppose you, but I will not be the Author of it.

e I for I am as it were no King, I can do nothing against you, you will do what you please. I incline to this since from the consideration of the favour thewed him by Zedekiah both before, and after this.

6 Then took they Jeremiah, and cast him into the dungeon of Malchiah the son of ‖ Hammelech that was in the court of the prison f, and they let down Jeremiah with cords g. And in the dungeon there was no water, but mire: so Jeremiah sank in the mire f.

‖ Or, of the king.

d A place much of the same nature with that of which we read, Chap. 37. 16. but in another Prison. e It should seem there was no passage into it by Stairs, for as they were forced to let him down with Cords. f And in the bottom was nothing but Mire, into which the Prophet sank, in respect of which circumstances, it was a much worse place than the Dungeon in the Prison, in Jonathan's House appointed to be, though Jeremiah feared that he should die there. It is probable these Princes thrust him into this place, designing he should die in this hole miserable Death, but God otherwise provided for him.

7 ¶ Now when * Ebed-melech the Ethiopian g, one of the eunuchs which was in the king's house h, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the dungeon i, (the king then sitting in the gate of Benjamin) k;

* Chap. 39. 16.

g Ebed-melech was unquestionably the Name of the Person, though some interpret it appellatively a Servant of the King. It is particularly noted that he was an Ethiopian or a Cushite, to let us know that this Prophet of the Lord found more kindness from a stranger, that was a Native Heathen, than from his own Countrymen. h Princes were wont to keep Eunuchs in their Houses in those Countries, 2 Kings 9. 32. Dan. 1. 3. Acts 8. 27. it should seem the Princes had privately put Jeremiah into that miserable place, but yet the noise of it came to Ebed-melech's Ear, who was attending in the Court. i The Gate of the City were places where Princes were wont to sit to execute Justice, and to receive Petitions, and give answers, 2 Sam. 19. 8. Prov. 31. 23, &c.

8 Ebed-melech went forth out of the king's house, and spake to the king, saying,

9 My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom they cast into the dungeon, and † he is like to die for hunger in the place where he is, for there is no more bread in the city l.

† Heb. he will die.

l The courage of this good Eunuch was very remarkable, he did not stay till the King came in, but went to the King, as he was sitting in the gate of Benjamin, administring Justice, or receiving and answering Petitions, where doubtless he was not alone, and probably was attended there, by some of those Princes, who had thrown Jeremiah into this miserable place: Ebedmelech was not afraid of them, but openly complains of their Cruelty to the King, and tells him that Jeremiah would be starved to death, those who were alive in the City could not long subsist, for the Stores were almost all spent, and though the King had appointed the Prophet an allowance, yet being in such a hole, and there being so little Bread left in the City, it was not likely there would be much care taken of him.

10 Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, saying, Take from hence thirty men † with thee, and take up Jeremiah the prophet out of the dungeon before he die m.

m There are several guesses why the King commandeth Ebedmelech to take thirty men for the doing of that for which three or four were sufficient. I think they judge best, who think it was to guard him against any opposition. Things were now in a great disorder, the City being upon the matter taken, and the King himself was much in the Government of his Princes, and, as may easily be judged by what went before, and what we shall hereafter meet with, could not rule them, but was in some fear of them, and he did not know but some of the most boisterous of them, might oppose the execution of this Command of his. This King in his whole Story seemeth to have been of a much better humour than his Predecessors, and to have had a kindness for the Prophet, though he suffered himself to be miserably over-ruled by his Courtiers, who were of a much fiercer temper, and worse affected to the Prophet.

11 So Ebed-melech took the men with him, and went into the house of the king under the treasury, and took thence old cast clouts, and old rotten rags, and let them down by cords into the dungeon to Jeremiah.

12 And Ebed-melech the Ethiopian said unto Jeremiah, Put now these old cast clouts, and rotten rags under thine arm holes, under the cords. And Jeremiah did so.

13 So they drew up Jeremiah with cords, and took him up out of the dungeon. And Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison n.

n The sence of these Verses is obvious. Ebedmelech having received a Commission from the King presently puts it in execution, only because the Dungeon was deep, and full of mire, and the Prophet possibly not over well-cloathed, he prudently takes some old Clouts, and Rags, and lets them down with Cords, that Jeremiah to prevent the galling and macerating his flesh, might put them under the Cords, by which they drew him up: Thus he was restored to the Court of the Prison, where he was before this suggestion of the Princes, and where he did abide until the City was taken. The rest of the Chapter is spent in a private Conference between King Zedekiah and the Prophet, after he was restored to the Court of the Prison.

14 ¶ Then Zedekiah the king sent, and took Jeremiah the prophet unto him into the ‖ third entry that is in the house of the LORD: And the king said unto Jeremiah, I will ask thee a thing: hide nothing from me p.

o Some think that this were better Translated, that is, near the house of the Lord, and that this third entry or principal entry, was that entrance of the King's house into the Temple, mentioned 1 King. 7. 8. which reasons of the things the Queen of Sheba admired, for it is hardly probable, that Jeremiah being in a Prison within the compass of the King's House, the King should, especially at such a time, go out of his house to so public a place as the Temple, for a private Conference with the Prophet. p The King desires him faithfully to tell him what he knew in a business he should inquire of him.

15 Then Jeremiah said unto Zedekiah, If I declare it unto thee, wilt thou not surely put me to death? and if I give thee counsel, wilt thou not hearken unto me?

q Jeremiah had reason to suspition with the King for his Life, considering the late answer of the King to the Princes, moving for his Death, Verse 4, 5. We must imagine Jeremiah at this time under no Divine Constraint, to reveal God's Will in this case unto the King. r Wilt thou not, is here, as much as thou wilt not hearken unto me. Zedekiah had often been advised by the Prophet, but would never take his advice, and the Prophet knew it would be the same case still, that the King would be over-ruled by a corrupt Court, and his own aversion, to change his state, as a King, for the state of a Prisoner.

16 So Zedekiah the king sware secretly unto Jeremiah, saying, As the LORD liveth, * that made us this soul, I will not put thee to death, neither will I give thee into the hand of these men that seek thy life s.

* Isa 57. 16.

s Zedekiah saith nothing to the latter part of Jeremiah's Speech, promising nothing as to his hearing and obeying his Counsel: As to the former he gives him the security of his Oath, that he would neither himself slay him, by giving any immediate command from himself, nor furrender him up into the hands of those malicious Princes, who he perceived fought his Life. The form of his Oath is what was usual, as the Lord liveth, with an addition, the Lord that gave me my life, if I put thee to death, and if I deliver thee, which form carrieth with it a concealed imprecation, Let the Lord do so to me, and more also, or let the Lord that gave me this Soul take it from me, if I do either of these things. Thus he secures Jeremiah, as to any hard measure for his telling him the truth, though it should be what might be interpreted a capital crime to publish.

17 Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah, Thus saith the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel, if thou wilt assuredly go forth unto the king of Babylons princes, then thy soul shall live t, and this city shall not be burnt with fire, and thou shalt live, and thine house u.

t That is, thou shalt live. u And thou shalt save the City from being burned with fire, and thy Wives and Children from Death. God did certainly know that Zedekiah would not do this, though it was in his power to do it, yet he doth not judge it vain for him to exhort him to do it, and to annex such a promise; for thereby he was left inexcusable, in his not saving the City, and his Relations lives.

18 But if thou wilt not go forth to the king of Babylon's princes, then shall this city be given into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and thou shalt not escape out of their hand w.

w As he before had used Exhortations and Promises, so here he useth Threatnings to perswade him to that which indeed was in his power to do, but God infallibly knew that he would not do. The end of God in which could be no other than to leave him without excuse, in not obeying what God commanded.

19 And Zedekiah the king said unto Jeremiah, I am afraid of the Jews, that are fallen to the Chaldeans, lest they deliver me into their hand, and they mock me x.

x But if Zedekiah went out according to the Prophet's advice, and delivered himself, what needed he to fear his Subjects, (that had deserted the City) delivering of him? It seems rather therefore to be the fence, lest the Chaldeans when I have yielded my self to them, should deliver me into the hands of those Jews which have fallen to them, and they should mock me, so as he seems to be more concerned for his Honour than for his own Life, and his Families, and the whole City; thus often great Persons are more patient of Death, than of Reproach and Dishonour.

20 But Jeremiah said, They shall not deliver thee y: Obey, I beseech thee, the voice of the LORD, which I speak unto thee: so it shall be well unto thee, and thy soul shall live.

y The Chaldeans shall not do so base an act, but deal with thee as with a Prince. z Let not this therefore be a Temptation to thee, to disobey the Command of God, which if thou doest thou shalt live, though not in that splendor in which thou now livest, yet in a much more comfortable state, than thou wilt do if they take the City by storming.

21 But if thou refuse to go forth, this is the word that the LORD hath shewed me:

22 And behold all the women that are left in the king of Judah's house, shall be brought forth to the king of Babylon's princes z, and those women shall say, † Thy friends have set thee on, and have prevailed against thee, thy feet are sunk in the mire a, and they are turned away back b.

† Heb. men of thy peace.

z Thou that art afraid of the Insultings of Men that are thy Subjects, shalt fall under the Insultings and Taunts of the Women; either the Court Ladies who were left when Jehoiakin was carried away, or the Women belonging to thine own Court shall be taken and brought forth to the King of Babylon's Princes, to be disposed of at their pleasure, and these Women shall deride thee, a And tell thee, for this thou maist think thy hearkening to thy Priests, and false Prophets called in the Hebrew, the Men of thy peace, because they soothed up the King with the Promises of Peace. a Now they have left thee in evils out of which thou canst not escape. b And as for them whom thou believedst and trustedst to, and by whose words thou art brought into these Snares, they have forsaken thee, every one shifting for himself.

23 So they shall bring out all thy wives and thy children to the Chaldeans, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands, but shalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babylon: and † thou shalt cause this city, to be burnt with fire c.

c This is no more than what was said before, only here repeated, as an Argument to perswade his Obedience in surrendring himself, if not for the Cities sake, yet for his own sake, and for his Children sake, for he assures the King that not himself only, but his Wives and Children also would otherwise fall into the hands of the Babylonians, and their Reflections upon him for the Misery he had brought upon them, would be no small aggravation of his Affliction.

24 ¶ Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremiah, Let no man know of these words, and thou shalt not die d.

d These words sufficiently let us know that Zedekiah stood in awe of his Courtiers, and we might probably think, that had it not been for them, he would have done better. This is the righteous Judgment of God, those that will not sanctifie the Lord of Hosts, and make him their fear, shall fear Men whom to fear is much more base and ignoble.

25 But if the princes hear that I have talked with thee, and they come unto thee, and say unto thee, Declare unto us now what thou hast said unto the king, hide it not from us, and we will not put thee to death; also what the king said unto thee e.

e It could hardly be imagined that Zedekiah should have this private Discourse with Jeremiah, but some or other of his Courtiers would take notice of it, but yet it argues that this poor Prince was in a miserable subjection to them, that he could discourse with no body, but they must come and inquire what he said.

26 Then thou shalt say unto them, I presented my supplication before the king, that he would not cause me to return to Jonathan's house to die there f.

f The King instructs the Prophet in case the Princes should be inquisitive to know what discourse passed betwixt the King and him, to tell them, that he petitioned him that he might be sent no more to the Prison in the House of Jonathan, of which he complained, and petitioned the King to be freed from it, Chap. 37. 20.

27 Then came all the princes to Jeremiah g, and asked him h, and he told them according to all these words that the king had commanded i: So they left † off speaking with him, for the matter was not perceived k.

† Heb. They were silent from him.

g As the King suspected so it came to pass; the King's private Discourse with the Prophet took wind, h and all the Princes then at Court came and inquired of Jeremiah what was the substance of his Discourse. i Jeremiah answered them according as the King had directed. A Man is not bound in all cases to speak the whole truth, much less to those who have nothing to do to inquire of us which these Princes had not. k By this means the Princes never knew the matter of this Discourse.

28 So Jeremiah abode in the court of the prison, until the day that Jerusalem was taken, and he was there when Jerusalem was taken l.

l Thus God hath several ways to hide his People in an evil day; he hid Josiah from it in the Grave, he hid Noah in an Ark, Lot in Zoar, Jeremy in a Prison, which in probability was a safer place for him, than the Land of Benjamin, whither he would have gone, had not Irijah stopt him, Chap. 37. 12, 13. Conquerours have commonly the greatest kindness, for those whom they find under the frowns of the conquered, especially when that which hath made them so hath been something spoken, or done in the favour of the Conquerors.

CHAP. XXXIX.

Jerusalem is taken: Zedekiah's Sons are slain: His Eyes put out: He is sent to Babylon: All the Nobles of Judah are slain: The City is burnt, and the Chief of the People carried Captive, 1,——10. Nebuchadrezzar's Charge concerning Jeremiah, 11, ——14. God's Promise to Ebed-melech, 15,——18.

1 IN the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, came Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon a, and all his army, against Jerusalem, and they besieged it.

a This exactly agreeth with the Historical part of Scripture, 2 King. 25. 1. and with the repetition of it, Chap. 52. 4. This Month was called Tebeth, Esther 2. 16. and answers to part of our December and January. Princes are said to do that which is done by their great Officers by their Order, yet some think Nebuchadrezzar came first in Person, though he quickly left his Army, and was not there at the taking of the City.

2 And in the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, the city was broken up b.

b The Siege lasted a year and half, for it was the fourth Month of Zedekiah's eleventh year before it was taken, it is said here to be broken up, because their way of taking fortified places then, was by beating down the Walls of the Besieged with from Rams and Engines, as we now do with great Guns. This Kingdom had now held 380 Years, from Rehoboam their first King, in which they had had twenty Kings (besides Athaliah.) The Ten Tribes, had been now in Captivity 130 Years, for as the Kingdom of Israel stood but 250 years after the division, in which time they had had 18 Princes, but of several Families; all the Kings of Judah were of the House of David, lineally descended from him.

3 And all the princes of the king of Babylon came in, and sate in the middle gate c, even Nergal-sharezer, Samgar-nebo, Sar-sechim; Rab-saris, Nergal-sharezer, Rab-mag, with all the residue of the princes of the king of Babylon d.

c All the great Men of Babylon, that were imployed in the conduct of the Babylonian Army (the City being taken by Storm, or surprize) entred into it, but rested at the middle Gate. The City they say was incompassed with two Walls, before they came to the Wall of the Temple; the Gate in the inner Wall, is supposed to have been that which is called the middle Gate, they would not at first adventure in further, the City being large and well fortified, there might have been some Traps laid for them, they would therefore have their Soldiers first clear the Streets, and search all places, that they might enter further into the City without hazarding their Persons. d Some Interpreters have examined the signification of the Names of these Princes, but I know of no use it can be to us whether they were the Names of the Persons, or significative of the Offices they bare.

4 ¶ And it came to pass, that when Zedekiah the king of Judah saw them, and all the men of war e, then they fled, and went forth out of the city by night f, by the way of the king's garden, by the gate betwixt the two walls, and he went out the way of the plain g.

e It should seem that the City was taken by a Surprize, the Chaldeans battering the Walls incessantly with their Rams and Engines of War, on a sudden made such a breach as gave them a liberty to enter in. f The King either heard of it, or possibly might be in some place where he might see it, then he begins to think of escaping, but for greater privacy stayeth till he had the covert of the Night, g and then goeth out towards the plains of Jericho, for there the Chaldeans overtook him, as we read in the next Verse; he is said here to have gone by the way of the King's Garden by the Gate betwixt the two Walls. It is very hard for us at this distance of time to pretend to any certainty in determining the way by which he made his escape. They seem to judge most probably, that think that the King had prepared for himself a private passage out of his Garden betwixt two Walls, leading to the Wall of the City, which they had before so weakned, as on a sudden they might dig it thorough: possibly, these particulars are the rather let down, to shew us how God verified what he had revealed in this matter to the Prophet, Ezek. 12. where God set the Prophet, Ver. 3. To prepare stuff for removing, and to remove by day, in the sight of the People from his own place to another place, and Ver. 4. To go out at even in their sight, as they that go out into Captivity. To dig through the wall in their sight, and carry out thereby: In their sight to bear it on his shoulders, and carry it forth in the twilight; to cover his face, so as not to see the ground, and Ver. 6. he told him, that in all this he was to be a sign; and Ver. 10. tells him, This burden concerneth the Prince in Jerusalem (who was that Zedekiah) Ver. 12. And the Prince that is among them, shall bear upon his shoulder, in the twilight, and shall go forth, they shall dig through the Wall, to go out thereby he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

5 But the Chaldeans army pursued after them, and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho, and when they had taken him, they brought him up to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, to Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he † gave judgment upon him h.

† Heb. spake with him judgments.

h Thus God by his Providence fulfilled his Threatning by his Prophet Ezekiel, Chap. 17. 12. Riblah was upon the Borders of Canaan as appeareth from Numb. 34. 11. it was in the Land of Hamah of which we read, 2 King. 17. 24. being one of those Provinces in the Dominion of the King of Assyria, from whence he brought Men to place them in the Land of Israel after that he had conquered the Ten Tribes. It is not usual for Princes upon Conquests to sit in Judgment upon Princes conquered, but the reason of it in this case was because Zedekiah, was a Tributary to the King of Babylon, and so subject to his power, having made a Covenant with him, and secured his Allegiance by his Oath to him, and then rebelled against him, as we read, Ezek. 17. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18.

6 Then the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah in Riblah before his eyes: also the king of Babylon slew all the nobles of Judah i.

i Thus the stubbornness of this Prince, and his Nobles, proved the Ruine of his Family, and of themselves, and of the whole People. The Nobles were great Authors of this mischief and brought Zedekiah into that obstinacy which he shewed to the Prophets Admonitions and Exhortations upon them, therefore a more exemplary Punishment is taken. The Hebrew calls the Nobles white Men, either from their white Garments, or from that Candor of Spirit which should be found in Persons of their Quality.

7 Moreover he put out Zedekiah's eyes, and bound him † with chains to carry him to Babylon k.

† Heb. with two brazen chains or fetters.

k Thus the two Prophecies were fulfilled, that of this Prophet, Chap. 34. 4. that Zedekiah should not die by the Sword: and that of Ezekiel, that he should not see Babylon, though he should die there, Ezek. 12. 13 Riblah was at a great distance from Babylon, where the King was at this time probably to be nearer his Army, while the Siege lasted at Jerusalem, and to give orders about it, and to divert himself, the place being a pleasant place, and the King not willing to trouble himself about the Siege to go thither in Person, but the Siege being over, he now removeth to Babylon, and carrieth Zedekiah and the rest of the Prisoners along with him.

8 ¶ And the Chaldeans burnt the king's house, and the houses of the people with fire, and brake down the walls of Jerusalem l.

l Still it is observable, how punctual the Holy Ghost is in recording the fulfillings of the words of the Lord. This Prophet, had at least four times foretold, that this would be one consequent of the Kings and Nobles stubbornness, in not submitting to the King of Babylon. See Chap. 37. 8. and 38. 18. 23.

9 Then Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard, carried away captive into Babylon the remnant of the people that remained in the city, and those that fell away, that fell to him, with the rest of the people that remained m.

m This Nebuzaradan was in that place, which we call the Provost-Marshal, with them it was call'd the Captain of the Guard, men, and there are two sorts of Prisoners reckoned up, whom he carried away. 1. Such as after the Armies were come into Judea had yielded themselves. 2. Such as when they took the City, remained in it not being before consumed by the Sword, Famine, and Pestilence; and so were taken upon the storming or surprizal of the City. Both sorts were carried away Prisoners although it is probable that the Conquerour treated the former much more gently than he treated the latter, as is usual in those cases.

V. 10, 11.

10 But Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard, left of the poor of the people which had nothing, in the land of Judah, and gave them vineyards, and fields † at the same time n.

† Heb. in the same day.

n This is usual with Conquerors, for whose profit it is not that the Countries conquered by them, should lie waste, like Wildernesses, but be peopled, and manured that they may render some Tribute to them; withal the Justice of God is often seen in this, thus restoring to them oft-times with advantage by the hands of Enemies that prove Conquerors, those Estates which in corrupt times their proper Magistrates by violence and oppression took from them, or at least more than compensating their losses by acts of Violence and Injustice.

11 Now Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, gave charge concerning Jeremiah † to Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard, saying, † Heb. by the hand of.

12 Take him, and † look well to him, and do him no harm, but do unto him even as he shall say unto thee o.

† Heb. Set thine eyes upon him.

o It is more than probable, that Nebuchadnezzar had been informed by some of the chief Commanders of his Army, who had it from some of the Jews, that had escaped out of the City to the Chaldean Army, that Jeremiah had constantly told the King, and the Nobles, that the Chaldeans should take the City, and as stedily perswaded both the King and Princes and People to surrender it to them, and prevent the effusion of Blood, and that he was imprisoned for this, and had been a great sufferer that way, and that this made this Heathen Prince so kind to the Prophet, as to give this order. In the mean time the Hand of God is to be taken notice of, who undoubtedly put this into the Heart of this Pagan Prince; and we may learn, that none shall lose any thing at last by being faithful to the Commands of God, though they may be for the present losers. What we translate, look well to him, is in the Hebrew, set thine eyes upon him; and expounded by the following words, commanded him to do him no harm, and to give or grant to him, whatever he desired.

13 So Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard sent, and Nebushasban, Rab-saris and Nergal-sharezer, Rab-mag, and all the king of Babylon's princes, 14 Even they sent, and took Jeremiah out of the court of the prison, and committed him unto Gedaliah, the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, that he should carry him home: So he dwelt among the people p.

p The King of Babylon's Officers were very Religious to their Princes order, and take the Prophet out of Prison; for the latter part of the 14th Verse it seems by an anticipation of what we shall find related more fully, and particularly Chap. 40. or else so ought to be translated yet, as appeareth from the first Verse of the next Chapter, from whence it plain that the Prophet was also bound in chains, amongst them that were carried away captive; and not discharged until he came at Ramah, which probably might be in that hurry of Affairs, though the Princes at first freed him from Prison, the under Officers not so diligently observing their special charge relating to Jeremiah, the neglect of which the Captain of the Guard observing when he came as far as Ramah, himself took care in it, as we shall find Chap. 40. after which, upon his choice, he was committed to Gedaliah the Son of Ahikam, whom the King of Babylon made Governour over the Country.

15 ¶ Now the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah, while he was shut up in the court of the prison, saying q, q These words let us know that these four Verses (which contain mostly a Promise to Ebedmelech for his kindness to Jeremiah while he was in the Dungeon of Malchiah, of which we read, Chap. 38. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11.) mentions a matter that happened before the things mentioned in the foregoing Verses.

16 Go and speak to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian r, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will bring my words upon this city for evil and not for good, and they shall be accomplished in that day before thee s.

r Ebedmelech is here again called the Ethiopian to the reproach of the Jews, that a stranger should shew more kindness to a Prophet of the Lord than any of that Nation to whom he was specially sent; which was a Type of the calling of the Gentiles, and rejection of the Jews. s God assures Ebedmelech, the City should be taken and burnt, and the People carried into Captivity.

17 But I will deliver thee in that day, saith the LORD, and thou shalt not be given into the hand of the men of whom thou art afraid t.

t But promiseth Ebedmelech he should be delivered in that evil day, and, whether he feared the Chaldeans, that he should lose his Life by them when they should break up the City, or the Princes whom he had angered by complaining to the King of their hard usage of the Prophet, he should come into none of their Power.

18 For I will surely deliver thee, and thou shalt not fall by the sword u, but * thy life shall be for a prey unto thee w, because thou hast put thy trust in me, saith the LORD x.

* Chap. 21. 9. and 45. 5.

u For God would deliver him, so as he should not die by the Sword. w But how little else soever he saved, he should save his Life, x because he had put his trust in God, not fearing the wrath of Men in the doing of what was his Duty. We read no more in Holy Writ of this Man, and so cannot tell how otherwise God dealt with him; only may be assured that he was not slain by the Chaldeans. And from this we may observe, 1. How kind God hath always declared himself to those who have shewed the least kindness, to those that have been his true and faithful Ministers. 2. That the root of such good Works as God rewardeth must be Faith, a trusting in the Lord. 3. That those who do good Works out of a principle of Faith, may yet be incumbred with slavish fears.

CHAP. XL.

Jeremiah being set free by Nebuchadnezzar, goeth to Gedaliah, 1,—6. to whom the remaining Jews repair, 7,——12. Johanan revealing Ishmael's Conspiracy, is not believed, 13, ——16.

1 THE word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD a, after that Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard had let him go from Ramah b, when he had taken him being bound in ‖ chains among all that were carried away captive of Jerusalem and Judah, which were carried away captive into Babylon c.

a These words refer to the forty second Chapter, where begins the Revelation which Jeremiah had from God, for all this Chapter, and the next are no Prophecy, but only an Historical Narration of some Passages after the taking of the City, and so cannot be called a Prophecy, but are a piece of History previous to that Prophecy. b Rama was a City in the Tribe of Benjamin near Gibeon. Vide Chap. 31. 15. c Jeremiah was by mistake and expresly contrary to the King's Orders, Chap. 39. 11. manacled and carried away amongst the other Prisoners; probably the Captain of the Guard at that place call'd over his Prisoners, and amongst them he found the Prophet contrary to his Expectation.

2 And the captain of the guard took Jeremiah, and said unto him, The LORD thy God hath pronounced this evil upon this place.

3 Now the LORD hath brought it, and done according as he hath said, because ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come upon you d.

d This Pagan Commander could see that which the blind Jews would not understand; they said, wherefore is this great evil come upon us? Nebuzar-adan knew wherefore and gives God the glory of his Master's Victory, as also of his own faithfulness, saying God had but done what he said, brought the evil which he had pronounced against that City, he also acknowledgeth God's Justice, that this evil was come upon them, because of their sins. Thus, the Men of Tyre and Sidon, and of Nineveh (and according to our Saviour's words) shall rise up in Judgment, against the Jews that lived in our Saviour's time; and Nebuzar-adan another day shall rise up in Judgment against those Jews that lived in Jeremiah's time, and shall condemn them.

4 And now behold I loose thee this day from the chains which ‖ were upon thine hand: if it seemeth good unto thee, to come with me into Babylon, come, and † I will look well unto thee: but if it seem ill unto thee to come with me into Babylon, forbear: behold, all the land is before thee: whither it seemeth good and convenient for thee to go, thither go e.

‖ Or, are upon thine hands. † Heb. I will set mine eyes upon thee.

e Nebuzar-adan, like a faithful Servant, remembers his Masters orders to him about the Prophet, Chap. 39. 11. and offers Jeremiah greater favour than to any others of his Prisoners; he determined others by his right of Conquest to what they should do, but he giveth the Prophet a liberty to chuse whether he would go to Babylon, or stay at Jerusalem in his own Country; he promised him that if he would go to Babylon, he would take a particular care of him.

5 Now while he was not yet gone back f, he said, Go back also to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan g, whom the king of Babylon hath made governour over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people: or go whereſoever it seemeth convenient for thee to go. So the captain of the guard gave him victuals and a reward, and let him go h.

f It is not much material whether we interpret the He here mentioned of Jeremiah or Gedaliah: if we interpret it of Jeremiah the sence is, That before Jeremiah was gone out of the presence of Nebuzar-adan, he either by his silence or by some declaration of his Mind that is not here recorded, declaring that he was more inclined to stay in his own Country, Nebuzar-adan bid him, Go back, &c. If we understand it of Gedaliah, the sence must be, Because Gedaliah is not to come back any more to me, Go then to him, &c. g We read that the King of Babylon left Gedaliah as his Vice-Roy or Deputy in Judah. What he was, more than the son of Ahikam, and Grandchild of Shaphan, the Scripture tells us not, only that he was left by the King of Babylon as Ruler over the People he thought fit to leave. 2 King. 25. 22. probably he was one of them, who, during the Siege, had gone out to the King of Babylon, to him the Captain of the Guard directeth the Prophet, but gives him liberty, to dwell where he pleaseth. h So sends him away with Victuals and a Reward. It is more than probable that the King of Babylon had heard from some of the Jews, who, during the Siege had made an escape to his Army, that the Scope of the Prophet's Prophecies were for the delivery of the City, and the Jews submission to him as was before said.

6 Then went Jeremiah unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to Mizpah i, and dwelt with him among the people that were left in the land.

i Mizpah was built by Asa, 1 King. 15. 22. or rather enlarged or further built, for we read of it as a City belonging to the Tribe of Benjamin, Josh. 18. 26.

7 * Now when all the captains of the forces which were in the fields, even they and their men heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governour in the land, and had committed unto him, men, women and children, and of the poor of the land, of them that were not carried away captive to Babylon,

* 2 Kings 25. 23.

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the son of a Maachathite, they and their men k.

k It is most likely that these Captains with their Forces, were no newly raised and formed Companies, for to what purpose should that be when their City and whole Country was lost? But some Commanders of Parties, which either were within the City till it was taken, and then escaped out, or were about before somewhere in the Country, and were not so much regarded by the Chaldeans, who were more intent upon the Conquest of the City, than pursuing these little Parties, who they knew could do them no hurt. These hearing that the business was over, and a Deputy Governour set up, who was of their own Country, and a Man of a good ingenuous Temper, out of the love they had to their Native Country came unto him. Of these Captains we read little save Ismael, (of whom we shall afterwards read more) nor are we at all concerned to seek their Genealogy.

9 And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan, sware unto them and to their men, saying l, Fear not to serve the Chaldeans, dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you m.

l They might reasonably suspect that the Chaldeans would have a jealous Eye upon any conflux of People to Jerusalem especially Military Men, and therefore be something suspicious of him who was the Chaldean Deputy Governour, the securing of them from fears on this account was the cause of this Voluntary Oath taken by Gedaliah. m He incourageth them to be Servants to the Chaldeans, and to dwell in the Land, assuring them that if they would, they should fare well, he was well enough assured of the Chaldeans favour, that if they would live peaceably in their own Land, they should, they would not come any more to carry them away Captive.

10 As for me, Behold I will dwell at Mizpah, † to † Heb. To stand before. serve the Chaldeans, which will come unto us n: but ye, gather ye wine and summer-fruits, and oyl, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that ye have taken o.

n That is, I have made choice of Mizpah, a City upon the Frontiers, where I intend to make my residence, it being a Convenient place for me to receive orders from the King of Babylon, and to manage State matters. o But do ye live in the Country, and gather such Fruits as the Country affordeth, do not fear being stript or spoiled of them, but do as you use to do in the times of greatest Peace, and Security.

11 Likewise when all the Jews that were in Moab, and amongst the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countries, heard that the king of Babylon lon had left a remnant of Judah, and that he had set over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan.

12 Even all the Jews returned out of all places whither they were driven, and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah unto Mizpah, and gathered wine, and summer-fruits very much p.

p Probably upon the King of Babylon's first invading Judah, many fled, and more as he went on in his Conquests, over-running the Country, and it is likely at the taking of the City many escaped, and fled into several Countries as they had opportunity, or judged this or that Country would be safest, some fled to Moab, some to Ammon some to Edom, some one way, some another: But when they heard that the King of Babylon had set a Governour of their own Religion and Country over them they came back to him, and there being few People left in the Land, which was of it self wonderfully fruitful, they gathered a great plenty of Grapes, and other Summer-fruits which the Country produced.

13 ¶ Moreover, Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah q.

q They had been with him before, Ver. 8, 9. but now they come to discover a Conspiracy against his Life.

14 And said unto him, Dost thou certainly know r that Baalis the king of the Ammonites hath sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah ‖ to slay thee? s But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam believed them not t.

‖ Or, to smite thee in secret.

r Dost thou for doest thou not, for not is plainly understood as the sence makes evident. s Whether this Baalis be a proper name of the King of the Ammonites, or as some think an appellative Name, signifying the Lady or the Queen Regent, is incertain. What made the Prince of the Ammonites do this, can be but guessed, probably the old hatred they had to Israel, or hopes that they should have the better fishing in these Waters when they were troubled. t Gedaliah seems a Man of a good Humour, not too credulous, and believes not the Information.

15 Then Johanan the son of Kareah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpah secretly, saying, Let me go, I pray thee, and I will slay Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no man shall know it: wherefore should he slay thee, that all the Jews which are gathered unto thee should be scattered, and the remnant of Judah perish u.

u Discerning that Gedaliah took no great notice of his words spoken to him in the prefence of the other Captains, he goeth to him secretly, offereth him his Service to prevent the stroke, if he might have Commission from him; mindeth him that if he did not value his own Life, yet he ought to consider, in what a condition the People would be in, in case he were cut off, they were now but a small Remnant, and then that Remnant also would perish.

16 But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, said unto Johanan the son of Kareah, Thou shalt not do this thing, for thou speakest falsly of Ishmael w.

w Thus God dementates those whom he designeth to destroy. Gedaliah in this sheweth an excellent Temper, not to be over credulous and suspicious, Charity thinks no ill, but not that Prudence which became a chief Magistrate. He ought to have been watchful against one, against whom he had received such an information, which we shall in the next Chapter find he was not, but was slain by him.

CHAP. XLI.

Ishmael, under a colour of friendship killeth Gedaliah and others, both Jews and Chaldeans, 1.——9. He purposeth to carry the Residue Captive to the Ammonites, but they are rescued from him by Johanan, who intendeth to flie into Egypt, 10. ——18.

* Kings 25. 25.

1 *NOW it came to pass in the seventh month a, that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah the son of Elishama of the seed royal b, and the princes of the king, even ten men with him c, came unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam to Mizpah, and there they did eat bread together in Mizpah d.

a That is three Months after the City was taken, Chap. 39. 2. b The same Ishmael that came to Gedaliah, Vers. 8, 9. to whom he sware Protection; only here we are told that he was of the Royal Blood, which might both raise his Spirits, as having a more legal pretence to the Government, and rendred him a fitter instrument, for Baalis the King or Queen of the Ammonites to make use of. c Some of the Princes, who had escaped the Army of the King of Babylon, they and their Retinue came in pretended Complement to Gedaliah. d Who treated them kindly, they Dined or Supped with him.

2 Then arose Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and the ten men that were with him, and smote Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, with the sword, and slew him e, whom the king of Babylon had made governour over the land f.

e These ten Men with their retinue fall upon Gedaliah and barbarously murder him. f Their Quarrel against him was, that he was Deputy-Governour to the King of Babylon; so desperately hardned were these Jews, that they would not yet see that God had given their Countrey into the hand of the king of Babylon, who having now a right of Conquest over them, had authority to set whom he pleased as his Vice-Roy or Deputy Governour over them, to whom they ought to have yielded all subjection and obedience.

3 Ishmael also slew all the Jews that were with him g, even with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and the Chaldeans that were found there, and the men of war.

g It appeareth from Ver. 10. that by all the Jews here must be understood only all those who were about the Court of Gedaliah, for it is there said that he carried away many that were with him.

4 And it came to pass the second day after he had slain Gedaliah, and no man knew it h, h That is, no Man who lived at any great distance from Mizpah, for Ishmael was concerned what in him lay to keep this slaughter private for fear the News of it should have reached the ears of the King of Babylon, or the Commanders of some of his Forces, so as he should not have had time to make his escape.

5 That there came certain from Shechem, from Shilo, and from Samaria i, even fourscore men, having their beards shaven, and their clothes rent, and having cut themselves k, with offerings and incense in their hands to bring them to the house of the LORD l.

i Samaria was the Name both of a City and a Province, Shechem was a City within that Province, within the limits of the Tribe of Ephraim, Jos. 20. 7. These places were now inhabited by a mixt People, partly Jews, partly such as the King of Assyria had upon his Conquest of the Ten Tribes brought to inhabit the[m]: from thence came 80 Men, k who possibly had not heard of the Temple being burnt, at least when they came out, or if they had heard of it, yet thought, hearing some Jews were left, that they might have erected some Altar for Sacrifices, or it may be they brought no Beasts. l For the Text speaks only of incense and Offerings, they came with all indications of mourning used in those Countries, Shaven Beards. Clothes rent, and having cut themselves in a barbarous fashion used by the Heathens, and forbidden the Jews, but yet practised by many of them.

6 And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, went forth from Mizpah to meet them, † weeping all along as he went: and it came to pass as he met them, he said unto them, come to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam m.

m He cometh out weeping, the better to deceive them into his Trap, that they might believe he was as they equally affected with God's Dispensations, and inviteth them to the new Governour for Protection; as if he had been one of his Courtiers, and Friends; by those Arts he concealeth his bloody design against them.

7 And it was so when they came into the midst of the city that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah slew them, and cast them into the midst of the pit, he, and the men that were with him n.

n When he had thus enticed them into Mizpah, he, and his followers slay them, and throw their dead Bodies into a Pit, with the assistance of those bloody Men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found amongst them, that said unto Ishmael, Slay us not, for we have treasures in the field, of wheat, and of barly, and of oyl, and of honey: So he forbare, and slew them not amongst their brethren o.

o He slew 70 of them, but ten of them pleading for their Lives, urged that they had Estates in the Country, both of Corn, Oyl and Honey. His Covetousness prevailed over his Cruelty, he spared their Lives to become Master of what they had.

9 Now the pit wherein Ishmael had cast all the dead bodies of the men (whom he had slain ‖ † because of Gedaliah p) was it which Asa the king had made for fear of Baasha king of Israel, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, filled it with them that were slain q.

‖ Or, near Gedaliah. † Heb. by the hand, or by the side of Gedaliah.

p The word which we translate because of בְּיַד signifieth in the hand of Gedaliah, which hath given Criticks a scope to vary in their notion of it, and to translate it, in the power of. By occasion of, &c. But the learned Author of our English Annotations, saith the sence of the place is plain enough, Chap. 38. 10. we have the same term twice, where we have translated it, with thee, so here it doubtless signifies those who were with Gedaliah under his power or charge. q What Pit this was is not so well agreed, that is upon what occasion made, the Text telleth us it was digged by Asa King of Judah, and that it was made for fear of Baasha the King of Israel, but whether it was to receive water, or to hinder Baasha's coming near some weak part of the City, we are not told, and it is but in vain to guess. We read 1 Kings 15. 22. of Asa's fortifying Mizpah with the Stones of Ramah, but of this Pit we read nothing.

10 Then Ishmael carried away captive all the residue of the people, that were in Mizpah, even the kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, had committed to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, carried them away captive, and departed to go over to the Ammonites b.

b By this Verse appeareth that All the Jews, Ver. 3. must be understood in a restrained sence concerning all those about Gedaliah. For he carried many away as Prisoners, as also Jeremiah's Disciple, and Zedekiah's Daughters, who either had concealed themselves at the taking of the City, or were left behind by the Conquerors, as not like much to hurt them, and having done this, he knew there was no abiding for him long there, so he haitneth away to the Ammonites, who (as we had it before) imployed him in this Murder.

11 ¶ But when Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, heard of all the evil that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done.

12 Then they took all the men, and went to fight with Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and found him by the great waters that are in Gibeon i.

i These great Waters are supposed to be a Lake, or some great Pool in Gibeon, the very same that is mentioned, 2 Sam. 2. 13. where Joab and the Servants of David met, the one keeping on one side of the Pool, the other on the other side.

13 Now it came to pass, that when all the people which were with Ishmael saw Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, then they were glad k.

k To see a probability of their escape out of the hands of this bloody Man, who had slain so many of their Brethren.

14 So all the people that Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah, cast about and returned, and went unto Johanan the son of Kareah.

15 But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites l.

l When the People whom Ishmael had carried away Prisoners, saw Johanan coming with greater Forces, they contrived and wheeled about and went to him, only Ishmael and eight men escaped and went to the Land of Ammon.

16 Then took Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, all the remnant of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, from Mizpah, (after that he had slain Gedaliah the son of Ahikam) even mighty men of war, and the women and the children, and the eunuchs whom he had brought again from Gibeon.

17 And they departed, and dwelt in the habitation of Chimham, which is by Bethlehem, to go to enter into Egypt m.

m When Johanan had (as was before expressed) recovered the Jews whom Ishmael had carried away as Prisoners, he came and dwelt with them in the Habitation of Chimham. Concerning this Chimham all that we read in Scripture is, 2 Sam. 19. 37. &c. he was the Son of Barzillai, whom David would have had to have gone along with him to his Court, but he being 80 Years old excused himself, and desired that his son Chimham might be accepted in his stead. Ver. 38. David agreeth it, and promiseth to do for him whatsoever his Father should desire on his behalf; possibly David having an Estate near thereabouts might give a portion of it to him, which though it returned to the Family of David in the Year of Jubilee, yet from Chimham's House there, might remain the Name of the Habitation of Chimham; into those parts Johanan retired with a further design to go into Egypt.

18 Because of the Chaldeans; for they were afraid of them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had slain Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon made governour in the land n.

n Here was the Plea whereby the Conqueror Nebuchadnezzar had made Governour in the Land of Judah, and it was but reasonable for them to think that Nebuchadnezzar would take the Affront done to himself, he being constituted Governour by him; and though Johanan had nothing to do in that Murder, yet he did not know that that the King of Babylon being ignorant of any Practises amongst the Jews, might look upon them all as guilty who were Jews, and revenge Gedaliah's Blood upon all the remainder of that Nation; he therefore chuseth them an Habitation for the present, from whence they might in a short time go down into Egypt, which was Johanan's design, as we shall read in the next Chapter.

CHAP. XLII.

Johanan and the People desire Jeremiah to enquire of God, promising Obedience to his Will, 1.——6. Jeremiah assureth them of safety in Judea, 7.——12. and Destruction in Egypt, 13. ——18. Reproveth their Hypocrisie and Obstinacy, 19.——22.

THE three following Chapters give us an account of what happened to Johanan the Son of Kareah, and the rest) after the slaughter of Ishmael, and their going to dwell in the Habitation of Chimham, in order to their going into the Land of Egypt. Their coming to Jeremiah to to and enquire of the Lord for them, his Enquiry at God, with the Revelation of the Divine Will unto him; that they should not go into Egypt, promising God's Protection of them, if they did not go, threatning their Destruction if they did go. Their proud answer to Jeremiah, and resolution to go, which they accordingly did, and there fell in with the Idolatry of the Egyptians, for which God by his Prophet threateneth them with an utter ruine.

1 Then all the captains of the forces, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and Jezaniah the son of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least even to the greatest came near a.

a After that this Captain Johanan (who now had made himself head of the Jews) had fixed their abode in the Habitation of Chimham in the way to Egypt, with thoughts of going down to inhabit there for fear of the Chaldeans, coming to revenge the Death of Gedaliah upon all the remainder of the Jews; both these Captains and many of the People, or some of all sorts of the People, for it cannot be imagined that every particular Person came) made their Addrès to the Prophet Jeremiah, who probably was with them, carried away by Ishmael and refcued by this Captain.

2 And said unto Jeremiah the prophet, ‖ Let we beseech thee our supplication be accepted before thee b, and pray for us, unto the LORD thy God, even for all this remnant, (for we are left but a few of many as thine eyes do behold us c.)

b These Men (though wretched Hypocrites) yet come to the Prophet with great respect, and reverence, first desiring that he would allow them to make their request to him; probably the evidence they had had lately of his being a Prophet of the Lord, by the fulfilling of all that he had foretold against both the City and the Temple, might in some measure occasion this. c Their request was, that he would put up his Prayer to God for the Remnant, for now there was but a small Remnant of Jews left, a few of many.

3 That the LORD thy God may shew us the way wherein we may walk, and the thing that we may do d.

d The thing they would have him pray to God for, was Direction, what they should do in this desolate state into which God had brought them. What could be more Pious? A Practice founded upon a Divine Precept, and encouraged by a Promise, Prov. 3. 6. Acknowledge him in all thy ways, and he shall direct thy steps. But we may well apply here what God had said to their forefathers, Deut. 5. 29. when they had so freely promised their obedience to the Law of God. O that there were such an heart in them, &c.

4 Then Jeremiah the Prophet said unto them, I have heard you; behold, I will pray unto the LORD your God according to your words, and it shall come to pass that whatsoever thing the LORD shall answer you, I will declare it unto you, I will ‖ keep nothing back from you e.

‖ 1 Sam 3. 18.

d That is I will do for you according as you desire. e And I will be faithful in giving you an account of what God shall reveal to me to be his Will on your behalf. They called God Jeremiah's God, here Jeremiah calls him their God, both to mind them of God's relation to them, and their Duty towards him. Act. 20. 20.

5 Then they said to Jeremiah, The LORD be a true and faithful witness between us, if we do not according to all things, for the which the LORD thy God shall send thee to us.

6 Whether it be good, or whether it be evil f, we will obey the voice of the LORD our God to whom we send thee; † that it may be well with us, when we obey the voice of the LORD our God. * Chap. 7. 23.

f The preceding words are a perfect Oath, the form of which lies a calling of God to witness the sincerity of the heart of those that swear, for a security to them to whom the Oath is given, which also includes a secret challenging God, to take Vengeance upon the Person that gave that believing if they should not do accordingly as they promise, which speaketh the Atheism of the heart of the false Swearer, for did a Man believe that there is a God, and that the Divine Being is infinite, omniscient, and a true and faithful Witness, it were impossible that he should challenge him to be revenged on him for not doing what he never knowingly intends to do, which was the case of these wicked Men. The thing they promise is a perfect Obedience to God's Will, whether grateful or ungrateful to them, and they further declare a Conviction that if they did it, it should be well with them according to that, Chap. 29. which sheweth the mighty power of Lusts in unregenerate Hearts, and the mighty operations of the evil Spirit in the Children of Disobedience, Eph. 2. 2. That although they be convinced that if they did obey the voice of God it would be well with them; yet they will not do it in things which they have a power to do.

7 ¶ And it came to pass after ten days, that the word of the LORD came unto Jeremiah g.

g The word mentioned, Chap. 40. 7. by which all that we have met with from the beginning of Chap. 40. is but an Historical Preface.

¶ Then

8 Then called he Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces which were with him, and all the people from the least even to the greatest.

9 And said unto them, Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, unto whom ye sent me to present your supplication before him i.

i The Prophet after ten days, all which time some (but upon what ground I know not) think he spent in Prayer, receiveth an answer from God, which he presently communicates to the Princes and People, with a Preface that containeth in it many arguments to have induced this compliance with it. 1. Because it came from the Lord. 2. From that God who as he was in Covenant with Israel, so in all the course of his Providence had so carried himself to them, as they had no just reason to suspect either his kindness or his power. 3. From their imploying of him to seek God upon their behalf.

10 If ye will still abide in this land k, then will I build you and not pull you down, and I will plant you, and not pluck you up l: for I repent me of the evil that I have done unto you m.

k That is if you will not go into the Land of Egypt, as you are thinking, but abide where you are, or in any part of Judah, under subjection to the King of Babylon, into whose power I have given you. l Then I will see to your security, and prosperity, and make you an happy People. The Happiness and Prosperity of People is in Scripture often set out under the notion of building, and planting, as on the contrary their misery or destruction is expressed under the metaphorical notions of pulling down and plucking up. m For I am satisfied with the Punishment your Nation hath undergone, and as to the remainder, if they do not destroy themselves by new disobedience, I will change the course of my Providence.

11 Be not afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom ye are afraid: be not afraid of him, saith the LORD n: for I am with you to save you, and to deliver you from his hand o.

n I know whom you are afraid of; you fear that the King of Babylon will come and utterly root you out, because one of your Nation hath murdered his Vice-Roy Gedaliah, suffer not your passion of fear to rise too high in this case, and to make you fly into Egypt. o For you shall have my presence with you, to preserve and deliver you from his power; it shall not be in his power to do you any harm.

12 And I will * shew mercies unto you, that he may have mercy upon you p, and cause you to return to your own land q.

* Psal. 106. 46.

p We are beholden to God for all the pity, and compassion which we meet with from Men, God inclineth their Hearts, tho' we receive the kindness from their hands. q The mercy which God here promiseth these Men, is that the King of Babylon should give them a liberty to go every one of them to their own Inheritances, for at present they were banished by their own Land, from their own Houses, though not from their own Country.

13 But if ye say, we will not dwell in this land, neither obey the voice of the LORD your God r; r Our Translation a little darkens the sence, translating the Heb. Particle לא neither, which signifies no more than not, or by no means, Numb. 14. 16. 1 Sam. 2. 2. and 20. 26. Hos. 13. 4. and it is certain here is but one thing spoken of, for the thing wherein they disobeyed the Voice of the Lord, was not continuing in their own Land, but going into the Land of Egypt.

14 Saying, No, but we will go into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor have hunger of bread, and there will we dwell s:

s The sence of the words is obvious, they thought that their Life in the Land of Judah, would be at best an uneasie Life, where they should be continually alarm'd with the noise of War, and though they could not fear the want of Bread in a Land that flowed with Milk and Honey, yet they also considered, that Egypt was a very fruitful Country, by the overflowing of Nilus, and the product of this made them quit that usual fondness which People have of their Native Country. From whence appears that their great sin was unbelief, they would not take the Promise of God for a security to them for a quiet, and peaceable abode in Judah, but would fancy noise of Drums, and Trumpets, and fear where no fear was; the Prophet saw, that were resolved into Egypt they would go, to live a more certain Life (as they fancied) he therefore tells them, that this for their trusting him to God to inquire for them, and promising a compliance with his Will, and hearing now what the will was, this were their resolution, he had another word from God to them.

15 And now therefore hear the word of the LORD, ye remnant of Judah; Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel; If ye * wholly set your faces to enter into Egypt, and go to sojourn there t;

* Deut. 17. 16.

t That is, if you resolutely persevere in what followeth. If, saith God, all your trust be upon Egypt, and you be resolved thither you will go, 16 Then it shall come to pass, that the sword which ye feared shall overtake you there, in the land of Egypt, and the famine whereof ye were afraid † shall follow close after you there in Egypt, and there ye shall die u.

† Heb. shall cleave after you.

u In the general the Prophet threatneth them, that in Egypt they should meet with the very same evils, the fear of which made them flee out of their own Countrey, the Sword and Famine. The Sword of Nebuchadnezzar, who, after this, fully conquered Egypt; and a Famine through want of Bread; for although Egypt was a fruitful Countrey, yet we know there was a Famine there, against which Joseph provided, besides that scarcity of Victuals commonly followeth great Armies. Those who shun dangers or think to shun them by acts of Disobedience to God, ordinarily are suffered by God to take such courses as they fall into the same or worse dangers than what they labour to avoid.

17 † So shall it be with all the men that set their faces to go into Egypt to sojourn there, they shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, and * none of them shall remain, or escape from the evil, that I will bring upon them w.

† Heb. so shall all the men &c. See Chap. 44. 14. 28.

w Those words that set their faces to go may reasonably be interpreted as a limitation of the universal Particle all; for as eventually we can hardly conceive that every individual person that went into Egypt did thus perish, so it can hardly be thought that the just God should order an equal punishment to those who were the Ring-leaders in this design, and those who were forced or over-ruled by them, or perhaps knew not how to live when the rest were gone; but, saith God, for those who drive on this design, and go with their whole heart resolvedly against the contrary Revelation of my Will, there shall none of them escape, one or other of my fore Judgments, Sword, Pestilence or Famine. They shall not be the lot of one or two, but of all such Persons.

18 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, As mine anger and my fury hath been poured forth upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem; so shall my fury be * poured forth upon you, when ye shall enter into Egypt: and * ye shall be an execration, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproach, and ye shall see this place no more x.

* Chap. 7. 20. Zech. 8. 13.

x If you would see your Doom in a Glass, look upon Jerusalem, which according to my word I have dealt so fiercely with, that amongst Men it would be called fury, though in me it was but deliberate Justice, that my wrath declared against it, (like liquid things melted) diffused it self into all the parts of it: I will deal so with you soon after you shall have entred into that Land, where you promise your selves so much ease, rest, and prosperity, and as I threatned to make Jerusalem a Curse, an Astonishment, and a Reproach, Chap. 24. 9. and 29. 18. so I will deal with you, and in this I will (saith God) deal worse with you, that whereas those of your Brethren, that were carried from Jerusalem to Babylon, shall some of them come back again after 60 Years, you shall see this place no more. There was this aggravation of the Jews sin, to whom God was now by his Prophet speaking they had lately seen the words of the Lord spoken by the same Prophet verified, and yet would take no warning, but ran into the same sin of Unbelief.

19 The LORD hath said concerning you, O ye remnant of Judah, Go ye not into Egypt: know certainly that I have † admonished you this day y.

y The good Prophet knowing how much it concerned this People to listen unto him, and to believe and obey what he said, repeats again the same thing which he had said before, assuring them that it was the Lord commanded him to say this to them. Criticks note that the word which we translate admonish, in this form, signifieth to admonish before Witnesses.

20 For ‖ ye dissembled in your hearts z, when ye sent me unto the LORD your God, saying, Pray for us unto the LORD our God, and according to all that the LORD our God shall say, so declare unto us, and we will do it a.

z Or you have used deceit, either towards God, dealing falsly with him, calling him to be a witness to your Sincerity in what you never intended any Sincerity in; or towards me, sending me to enquire of God for you, and promising to do according to what I should reveal to you from God as his Will, when as you never intended it, or towards your own Souls, as every sinner doth but deceive his own Soul. You made a pretence of what was not in your hearts. a When you sent me to pray God's direction for you, and made me such a faire promise to do whatsoever I should reveal to you from God as his Will in this case.

21 And now I have this day declared it to you b, But ye have not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God, nor any thing for the which he hath sent me unto you c.

b I have been faithful to you, I went according to your desire to enquire of God for you, I had his Will revealed to me in your case, and now I have as faithfully told you what it is. c But ye have not obeyed. How did Jeremiah know this, for they had not yet declared their Minds to him? He had either learned it from their Discourses, during the ten Days which God had made him to wait for the Revelation, or he had learned it from some contemptuous Behaviour of them, when he delivered it, or (which is most probable) God had aforehand told it to him.

22 Now

Now therefore know certainly, that ye shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, in the place whither ye desire to go, and to sojourn in.

‖ Or, to go

d The Prophet ascertaineth that doom unto them, * Jer. 15. 2. 16. he had threatned them with, in case they resolved to go into Egypt; the push expect nothing but utmost vengeance upon all those who do disobedience to the revealed Will of God; the sword, Death by some kinde or other, Famine or Pestilence, but you shall be sure, and that by those very evils which by going thither you seek to avoid.

CHAP. XLIII.

1 And it came to pass, that when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking unto all the people all the words of the LORD their God, for which the LORD their God had sent him to them, even all these words,

2 Then spake Azariah the son of Hoshaiah, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the proud men, saying unto Jeremiah, Thou speakest falsely: the LORD our God hath not sent thee to say, Go not into Egypt to sojourn there e.

e Behold the Issue of all, we have before us, but not of one sort, but of different sorts, and that according to the different Principles of the Persons concerned in it. The Prophet Jeremiah (whom we consider as the Penman of the Holy Ghost) is commanded to go and tell the People, that if they would stay in the Land, God would be with them, and bless them, and build them up, and plant them, and not pull them down, and that they should not fear the King of Babylon, for God would be with them to deliver them from him, and to shew them mercy, and cause him to shew them mercy, and cause them to return to their own Land, and this upon the account of the Faithfulness of God to his Promises, and the Truth of his Word, which he had spoken by the Prophet, and which he would make good to them, if they would but stay in the Land, and trust to him for the performance of it. But if they would go into Egypt, and there dwell, then the Sword, Famine, and Pestilence, which they fled from, would follow them, and overtake them there, and destroy them, and that without Remedy, for there was no Promise of God to them, that he would be with them in Egypt, to bless them there, and to deliver them from the Evils they fled from, but on the contrary, he would be with them to bring those Evils upon them, which they fled from, and to destroy them by those Evils. Now the Prophet Jeremiah was a Person of great Piety, and Integrity, and Wisdom, and Courage, and Faithfulness to God, and to his Message, and he was a Person of great Authority among the People, and had been so for many Years, and had been found true in all his Predictions, and had been a Person of great Interest in the Prayers of the People, and had been a Person of great Interest in the Prayers of the People, and had been a Person of great Interest in the Prayers of the People the better Habits of the Egyptians. f And the Armies shall go home in Peace, as Conquerors not foiled in their undertakings.

† Heb. Statues, or standing images.

13 He shall break also † the images of ‖ Bethshemesh, that is in the land of Egypt b; and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians shall he burn with fire m.

‖ Or, the house of the Sun.

b Beth-shemesh signifies the house of the Sun, and is like the Name of a City in Egypt, so most take it here, as the Name of a City, which had its Name from a famous Temple built in it to the honour of the Sun. This idol is called Or, Gen. 41. 45. By this it appears that the Egyptians, as well as other Pagans, paid Divine Adoration to the Creatures, as God threatned not only the sacrifices of the Egyptians Themselves, but the Flocks of the Inhabitants of Egypt, by the Hand of Nebuchadnezzar, from whence their Enemies would find Provisions, and Sustenance enough, that they should not have the least of which they promised themselves in the Land of Egypt.

CHAP. XLIV.

Jeremiah reproveth the Jews in Egypt, the former Sins and Punishments of Judah, 1,—10. He Prophesieth their Destruction in Egypt, 11,—19. The certain Performance of it, 20,—28. For a Sign, the Destruction of Pharaoh-hophra foretold, 29, 30.

1 THE word which came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews, which dwell in the land of Egypt a, which dwell at Migdol, and at Tahpanhes, and at Noph, and in the country of Pathros, saying, a The Prophet in Egypt continues, God to the Remnant of his ancient People in every Generation, he knoweth them, and gives them Repentance, and Faith, personally, whom he will endow, and to prepare them, grace unto Eternal Salvation. Consider, in regard to Egypt, they would be in more than better case c. Although I deny that the generality of the Jews ran away into Egypt, but rather themselves at many other places, Deuteronomy 28. 68. Jeremiah 40. 11. and Matthew 2. 13. from which, Joseph was commanded to go with Child and Town, upon the borders of the Red-sea, to the South part of the region. Chap. 46. 14. It was a place which ought most severely to have thought of their Duty, and Obligations to God, for whom Christ himself from thence, God invited the Jews for their Instruction. Noph was another City in Egypt, of which we read, Hos. 9. 6. Chap. 2. 16. and 46. 14. Ezek. 30. 13, 16. The Greeks and Latines call it Memphis; It is thought to be that City, whereupon now called Cairo. Pathros was a Region or Province, from which it received its Name from Pathrusim the Son of Mizraim, Gen. 10. 14. It is the same (as some think) which in Isaiah called Thebais.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Ye have seen all the evil that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Judah; and, behold, this day, they are a desolation, and no man dwelleth therein b, b He referreth to the late destruction of it by the King of Babylon; this Remnant of the People, was it found placed, and of that fire, and their Eyes had been Witnesses, to the Desolations that God had wrought.

3 Because of their wickedness which they have committed to provoke me to anger, in that they went to burn incense, and to serve other Gods c, whom they knew not, neither they, you, nor your fathers d?

c As they were eye-witnesses to the effect, so it was nothing but their unbelief made those strangers to the cause; for God by his Prophets had told them that the great moving cause was their giving a Divine Homage to Idols. d The Sin of which so aggravated from this, that they were at much Strangers to the Idols, as to the People with whom they joyned in the Worship of them, seeing they nor any of their Fathers having had any experimental knowledge of what they had done, or could do for such as adored them.

4 Howbeit * I sent unto you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate.

* 2 Chron. 36. 15.

5 But they hearkened not, nor inclined their ear to turn from their wickedness, to burn no incense unto other gods f.

f These two Verses contain another aggravation of this Peoples Sin, viz. That they did this against light, and admonitions to the contrary. God had by his Prophets let them know that this was an abominable thing, a thing which he hated, and that not with an ordinary degree of hatred, yet they would not hear, so as to yield Obedience to God, but went on in their Idolatries.

6 Wherefore * my fury and my anger was poured forth, and was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, and they are wasted and desolate as at this day g.

* Chap. 42. 18.

g For their very Residence, their Idolatry, and contempt of my Word by my Prophets, the very Sins Jeremie now admonishing, I have given Judah and Jerusalem into the hand of the King of Babylon, and it is (as you see this Day) for it wasted and desolate.

7 Therefore now thus saith the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel, Wherefore commit ye this great evil against your souls h, to cut off from you man and woman, child and suckling † out of Judah, to leave you none to remain i;

h What prudence can guide you to this foolish choice? that, by which you cannot have God, but your lives cannot be? You are now but a few of many, after love have you left your Country, by Banishment Cruelty would not possibly deny to take the invitation of those few, to settle them in another land, but Women, nor Child, nor Sucking remaining of all the Seed.

8 In that ye provoke me unto wrath, with the works of your hands i, burning incense unto other gods in the land of Egypt, whither ye be gone to dwell, that ye might cut you off, and that ye might be a curse, and a reproach unto all the nations of the earth k?

i Idols are usually thus delivered; and indeed nothing can argue a greater Stupidity, Silliness they have in the Service (confidently due to the Supreme Being) to make Idols of Wood, Stone, and the like, and to worship by the Service due to the Supreme Being, of Sacrifice, Incense, &c. from which the Prophet in this Text, and Isaiah 44. 17. Words of their hands? Sol? It was before things which had not the Work of their Hands; and this certainly was the Idolatry of the generality of the Heathens, they worshipped an unknown Divine Being, before Creatures, either in representing it, or in their paying them the Worship of it. The Jews also did not escape the Contagion of Antiquity, for many of them did not believe sufficiently to raise themselves, it only Reputable the end of their Work, that their work would be the certain consequent of their Worship.

9 Have ye forgotten the wickedness of your fathers, and the wickedness of the kings of Judah, and the wickedness of their wives, and your own wickedness, which they wrought in the land of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

k God reproveth Men and Women to have forgotten they, the right way unto them from which both made so bad a progression upon them, it is to produce a practice flatulent to their Nature, according to the counsel of a reprobate Soul. Which is generally done, when people of a gross evil brought upon them, by Such or Such punishment, to avoid returning into the like Sin, if not for Conscience, yet for Interest, and for Civil Ends, and would remember their Sins, and the Judgments that followed upon them, that they might not be guilty of the like, and yet they forget all, and run into the like Sins, and worse, and more to on. Sin in the Land, &c. Judah, and in the Streets of Jerusalem.

10 They are not † humbled even to this day, neither have they feared, nor walked in my law, nor in my statutes that I set before you, and before your fathers.

m Neither they nor you are humbled; for the Prophets pulling from the lowest Person to the Throne, and by God by Promise Plenty again to the Poorest, let us know, that by Humiliation what to expect on each of them, to whom he speaks, as on them, upon whom he engages by Threats; from whence we also learn, that Repentance and Obedience is the first fruits of Conversion, or true Humiliation. God, appointeth their not humbled, but hardened who are not contrite, and become obedient to his Will in it, from pretended Repentance, Conversion, or Humiliation to an outward appearance what it will.

11 ¶ Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts the God of Israel, Behold * I will set my face against you for evil, and to cut off all Judah p.

* Lev. 17. 10 Chap. 21. 10.

p This Message was frequently given to God, by threatning Prophecies, partly to let this People know that God is able to make good his Word, and to bring the threatned Evils upon them; and partly to let them know that the dealing thus with them would not make him any relation to Israel, but he was not still would appease against the Blood of those who were in the sin of it. The meaning is, my full design against you is to bring Evil upon you; this is expounded under the notion of setting his face, and Amos 9. 4. setting his eyes against them.

12 And I will take the remnant of Judah, that have set their faces to go into the land of Egypt, to sojourn there, and they shall all be consumed, and fall in the land of Egypt, they shall even be consumed by the sword, and by the famine; they shall die from the least even unto the greatest, by the sword, and by the famine: and they shall be an execration, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproach q.

q This is no more than the Prophet had told these very Persons before they went unto Egypt, Chap. 42. 16, 17. here he doubleth his words for the confirmation of the truth of them to them now that they were there.

13 For I will punish them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

14 So

14 So that none of the remnant of Judah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, shall escape or remain, that they should return into the land of Judah, to the which they † have a desire to return, to dwell there: for none shall return but such as shall escape r.

r There is a great variety in the reading of the words, Ver. 14. some reading besides such as have a desire to return. Others, Although they have a desire to return. Others, For they have a desire to return. The words seem to hint that these Jews went into the Land of Egypt, not with a design to live there always, but to stay for a while till the heat of the Chaldeans in enquiring after the Blood of Gedaliah should be over, then thinking to return into their own Country; which one would think were true, considering it not only as their Native Soil, but also a place where was now room enough, and they might live in much greater plenty than they could in Egypt. The only difficulty is in the last words, compared with what in the same Verse went before; it is said in the beginning of the Verse that none of them should escape, and in the close, none shall return but such as shall escape. But reason will guide us to interpret the first none in a restrained sence, i.e. none of those who have been the Authors of this Counsel and Rebellion against God, and who went into Egypt willingly; for none can think that God involved Jeremiah and Baruch who were in Egypt (at least the first of them) in the same punishment with which he punished the Rebellious Jews. Or none of those who in Egypt have burnt incense to Idols, and defiled themselves with the Idolatry of Egypt, but there shall some escape, such as have been forced into Egypt against their Wills; and such as being so forced when they came here did not fall in with the Idolatry of the Egyptians (for we may gather from the next Verse, that all of them did not) these Men shall again return into the Land of Judah. This to me seemeth the fairest and most probable sence of the words.

15 ¶ Then all the men which knew that their wives had burnt incense to other Gods s, and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying t, s The burning of Incense was a Religious Rite, which God had appointed the Jews as a piece of Divine Homage to be paid to him alone, and by an ordinary figure is put for Worship. So as burning Incense to other Gods is the same with worshipping other Gods t It should seem that all the Jews had not been thus far guilty, and those that did it were mostly Women, or at least they were the Leaders in this Idolatry, and one would think the Phrase implyeth, that those who were thus culpable did it with some privacy, for as all their Husbands did not know of it, but those that did were as bad as their Wives, conniving at them, and justifying them in their Idolatry, and joyning with them in the following peremptory answer to, and contempt of the Prophet.

16 As for the word which thou hast spoken unto us in the name of the LORD, we will not hearken unto thee u.

u We read Chap. 43. 5. Johanan and the rest only denied that God had spoken such things, and told Jeremiah, he had spoken falsely; but now these Women and Men rise higher, they acknowledge Jeremiah had spoken to them in the Name of the Lord, but tell him in plain and direct terms they would not obey it. And indeed this is in the hearts of all sinners that are ruled by their Lusts, though they will sometimes pretend, that what they hear is not the Will of God, but spoken out of Malice and prejudice, yet they are pre-resolved they will not do it, let their understandings be never so well informed.

17 But we will certainly do * whatsoever thing goeth forth out of our own mouth w, to burn incense unto the ‖ queen of heaven x, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her, as we have done y, we and our fathers, our kings and our princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem z: for then had we plenty of † victuals, and were well, and saw no evil a.

* Num. 30. 12. See Ver. 25. ‖ Or, frame of heaven. * Chap. 7. 18. † Heb. bread.

w Here is the root of all sinners disobedience, their resolution to please and humour themselves, not knowing how in any thing to deny themselves; hence it is that denying our selves is by Christ made the first Law or Condition of his Disciples. x By the Queen of Heaven some here understand the Sun, which notion is favoured from the words being of the Feminine Gender, which signifieth the Sun in Heb. others reading it not the Queen, but the frame of heaven, by it understanding the Sun, Moon and Stars. y Drink offerings were a Divine Homage which God had commanded to be paid to him, Lev. 23. 13. Num. 6. 17. z Their Arguments for it were, 1. Custom and Antiquity, they and their Fathers had used to do it. 2. The Example of their Kings and Princes. a 3. The Plenty and Prosperity they had while they did so, as if their Idolatry had been the cause of it.

18 But since we left off to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her, we have wanted all things, and have been consumed by the sword, and by the famine b.

* Chap. 7. 18.

19 * And when we burnt incense to the queen of heaven, and poured out drink-offerings unto her, did we make her cakes to worship her, and pour out drink-offerings unto her without our ‖ men?

Or, Husbands.

b Their last Argument is drawn from the evils that had befallen them since they had left worshipping the Sun, Moon and Stars; thus strangely making their omission of that, the cause of their sufferings, their former doing of which was indeed the true cause; they had lost their Husbands in the Siege, and in Battels, and had suffered Famine and Hunger: and all because they had burnt Incense to other Gods, they interpret these Providences as a punishment of them for not doing it as they had formerly used to do. So bad Interpreters are those of God's Providences, who indulge their Lusts in opposition to God's Law.

20 ¶ Then Jeremiah said unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that answer, saying,

21 The incense that ye burnt in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember them, and came it not into his mind?

22 So that the LORD could no longer bear, because of the evil of your doings, and because of the abominations which ye have committed: therefore is your land a desolation, and an astonishment, and a curse without an inhabitant as at this day.

23 Because you have burnt incense, and because ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD, nor walked in his law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this evil is happened unto you, as at this day c?

c There is in these Verses nothing of difficulty, nor any new Phrases to be opened. That which is observable is, that though the Prophet was but one against many, yet he feareth not their Faces: The substance of what he saith is this; That they interpreted God's Voice in his Providences toward their Country directly contrary to the true sence of it. They concluded that their omission of late to burn Incense to the Sun, Moon and Stars was the cause why it was so ill with them: as if these were animate Beings, and the supreme Being, whereas they were but Creatures. Or as if it were the Will of the supreme Being to be adored and worshipped in them, or before Statues and Images represented by them, whereas the Will of God was directly contrary, and as he in the second Commandment had forbidden any such Worship, because he was a jealous God; so he had for the breach of that Commandment by their burning Incense to these Creatures, burned up their Houses and Temple, and brought their Nation into that misery into which they were come: From whence may be observed how ill an Argument for any Religious Worship Antiquity is, unless we by it mean what is most ancient; as also, that Prescription in that which is false, in the Worship of God justifieth none. Nor is it a good conclusion that those who lived nearest to the primitive Institution are most likely to have done best, as having the best means to know what is truly Primitive. Idolatry was as old as Laban, and the worst of Idolatry (offering Children to Moloch) was older than the Levitical Law, if not as old as Serug. In matters of Worship the Word of God is a sufficient rule, we need not plead antiquity nor the practice of our fathers. Error is not capable of being justified by Tradition or Prescription.

24 Moreover, Jeremiah said unto all the people, and to all the women, Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah that are in the land of Egypt d.

d That is, all you Men and Women that belong to Judah, and are now come to inhabit in the Land of Egypt.

25 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, * Ye and your wives have both spoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your hands, saying, We will surely perform our vows e that we have vowed, to burn incense to the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her: ye will surely accomplish your vows, and surely perform your vows f.

* Ver. 15, &c.

e Those words have spoken are in the Hebrew of the Feminine Gender which giveth good reason to some Interpreters to conclude the Women were first and principal in this Idolatry, and the Mens guilt lay in conniving at them, and suffering themselves to be seduced by them. Yea, saith the Prophet, have spoken it, and ye have been as big as your words, and for a cover you pretend the Religion of a Vow, as if a Vow could be a bond of iniquity, and it were possible by a Vow to oblige your selves to a forsaking of the true God, and a committing of Idolatry. f The latter words seem Ironical, for as to have this sence, you are resolved upon it, and there is no moving you from your resolution, God hath resolved too.

26 Therefore hear ye the word of the LORD, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt, Behold I have sworn by my great name, saith the LORD g, that my name shall no more be named in the mouth of any man of Judah, in all the land of Egypt, saying, the LORD God liveth h.

g Seeing you are so fixed and peremptory, God is as resolved as you are, and as you think you must be Religious to your wicked Vows, so he assured God will be as Religious to his Oath, because he can swear by no greater, he hath sworn by himself, Heb. 6. 13. 16. (for so Name signifieth here.) h There shall not any be left of the Jews that are in Egypt, to swear The Lord God liveth, (for it should seem, that the Jews yet retained something of the Religion of their Country, and swore by the Name of the living God, according to the Precept, Deut. 6. 13. and 10. 20.) God threatneth there should be none of them left alive to do it; he would not have his holy Name polluted by those Mouths that had been used to bless Idols.

* Chap. 1. 12. 27 Behold, *I will watch over them for evil, and not for good i, and all the men of Judah that are in the land of Egypt, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine, until there be an end of them k.

i God here either sets out himself as one who would be industrious and solicitous to bring evil upon them, as Men who are so in any business, watch opportunities to do it; or else he derides their vain confidence as to his protection of them, and care for them (saith God) I will watch over them, but not to build and to plant, as Chap. 31. 28. but as it is in the former part of that Verse, to pluck up, and to throw down, and to destroy, and to afflict. k For so it follows, they shall be consumed by the sword and by the famine.

* Ver. 14. 28 Yet *a small number that escape the sword, shall return out of the land of Egypt into the land of Judah l; and all the remnant of Judah that are gone into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, shall know whose word shall stand, † mine or theirs m.

† Heb. from me, or from them.

l This justifieth the restrained interpretation of none of the remnant, Ver. 14. for here it is plainly said, that some should escape and return. m But for the rest they should there perish, and by that it would appear whether God's Word or theirs should stand, and have its accomplishment; they promising themselves security, God threatning them with utter ruine and destruction.

29 ¶ And this shall be a sign n unto you, saith the LORD, that I will punish you in this place, that ye may know that my words shall surely stand against you for evil.

n Signs are usually antecedent to the thing signified, but the word is taken in a larger notion in this place for that which should attend the thing signified by it, as Exod. 3. 12. besides though their destruction, and the destruction of Pharaoh Hophra were things immediately following one another, yet the latter was in order before the other.

30 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will give Pharaoh-hophra king of Egypt o into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seek his life, as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon his enemy that fought his life p.

o Pharaoh was a Name common to all the Egyptian Kings, as may be learned from Gen. 12. 15. and 41. 1. Exod. 1. 8. 11. but they had besides that Name another peculiar to them. Whether this Hophra was Vaphres or Apries, is not much material, nor is there any certainty when this Prophecy was fulfilled. Whether Pharaoh Hophra were (as Herodotus saith) slain by Amasis, one of his Subjects who rebelled against him and slew him (as the aforementioned Author tells us) or Nebuchadnezzar who Josephus saith came about five Years after he had taken Jerusalem, and over-ran Egypt, and slew this Pharaoh Hophra, whose overthrow was a certain sign of the Jews Destruction, it being not like that the King of Babylon should spare these Jews who had fled to this King of Egypt for shelter; considering also that the Jews had slain Gedaliah his Deputy Governour in Judea. p How God delivered Zedekiah into the hand of the King of Babylon, we read Chap. 9. Here now ends the Story of these Jews that had fled into Egypt.

CHAP. XLV.

Jeremiah instructeth and comforteth Baruch, 1,——5.

* Chap. 36. 1, 4. 1 THE word that Jeremiah the prophet spake unto Baruch the son of Neriah, *when he had written these words in a book at the mouth of Jeremiah a, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, saying b, a This Chapter ought to to have been annexed to the 36 Chap. or immediately to have followed it, for the writing of Jeremiah's Prophecies we read of there, b it was 18 Years before this time that the Prophet thus spake to Baruch upon the writing of those Prophecies which as we read there brought both Jeremiah and Baruch into a great deal of danger, which probably gave Baruch the occasion of the Complaint we shall read of, Ver. 3.

2 Thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel unto thee, O Baruch c.

c Jeremiah had in his former Discourses revealed the Will of God, concerning Nations, here he revealeth it as to Baruch his Secretary or Clerk, upon which account some compare him to Paul writing to Philemon as well as to Churches.

3 Thou didst say, Wo is me now, for the LORD hath added grief to my sorrow, I fainted in my sighing, and I find no rest d.

d Upon Baruch's reading the Prophecies after he had wrote them from the Mouth of Jeremiah, both he and Jeremiah were sent for before the Princes, and advised to hide themselves, as we read Chap. 36. 15, 19. This probably disturb'd Baruch, and made him lament his Condition in such like expressions, of which the Prophet had heard, probably by Revelation from God.

4 ¶ Thus shalt thou say unto him, The LORD saith thus, Behold, that which I have built will I break down, and that which I have planted I will pluck up, even this whole land.

5 And seekest thou great things for thy self? seek them not e: for behold, I will bring evil upon all flesh, saith the LORD f: but thy life will I give unto thee * for a prey, in all places, whither thou goest g. * Chap. 21. 9. and 38. 2 and 39. 18.

e What great things Baruch was seeking is not expressed, and impossible to be determined with any certainty; they could not be Honour, or Riches; the time of Jehoiakim's Reign was no time for any Pious Rational Man, to expect any thing of that nature: He might expect to have been a Prophet, as Elisha was, who first was but a Servant to Elijah. Or at least he might expect rest and protection, when others met with disturbance, but it may be the meaning is no more than, Dost thou expect what none meeteth with, or is like to meet with who feareth God? Never think of it. f I am bringing Calamities, and Misery upon the whole Nation wherein thou livest. g I will preserve thy Life, that is all thou art to expect, and thou shalt live to see the time, that thou wilt judge that a great Booty, that thou shalt have lent thee, whithersoever the Wind of my Providence shall happen to drive thee. This Message of God to Baruch teacheth us that God expects from his People a Spirit fitted to his Dispensations, and that they should keep their Spirits low in a time of publick Judgments, not making to themselves any great promises of freedom from their share in the publick Calamities of that Nation or Kingdom in which they are; but contenting themselves with such allowances as God proportioneth to them at such a time without discontent or murmuring, and blessing God, for any marks of gracious Providence which he in such times will please to set upon them, being thankful for them and satisfied with them.

CHAP. XLVI.

The Overthrow of Pharaoh's Army, 1,——12. The Conquest of Egypt by Nebuchadnezzar, 13,——26. God's People comforted, 27, 28.

1 THE word of the LORD which came to Jeremiah the prophet against the Gentiles a.

a This Verse contains the Title to all the ensuing Discourses of this Prophet, for, though there be some particular Verses in these Chapters that relate to the Jews, yet they are all concerning their Restauration. The Prophecies of Judgments from the beginning of this Chapter to the 52d. Chapter are all against foreign Nations, which are called Gentiles. As to whom God revealed his Will for the punishment of them, for the relief and satisfaction of his People to whom the most of them had been bitter Enemies. The 52d. Chapter is by most concluded not to have been wrote by Jeremiah, who, it is not probable, would have repeated what he had related before Chap. 39. but it was wrote (as it is supposed) by some of the Captives in Babylon, as a Preface to the Book of Lamentations. This particular Chapter containeth the Revelation of the Will of God, concerning Egypt whither some of the Jews fled for refuge after this time, and which had been a great occasion of sin to the Jews before, not only through the Jews too many Leagues with them, and confidence in them, but from their communicating in their Idolatry with them, Jer. 2. 16. The children of Noph and Tahpanhes, brake the crown of their head.

2 Against Egypt, against the army of Pharaoh Necho king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates in Carchemish, which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon smote in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah b.

b Pharaoh Necho was King of Egypt in Josiah's time; it was by his Army that Josiah was killed at Megiddo, 2 Kings 23. 29. it was he that made Jehoiakim King of Judah taking away Jehoahaz, Ver. 34. but though he prevailed at that time, and that was one time when he came out against Carchemish, 2 Chron. 35. 20. yet he was overthrown by Nebuchadnezzar in a Battel with him afterwards as appears from 2 Kings 24. 7. and Jehoiakim was made Tributary to Nebuchadnezzar as we read 2 Kings 24. 1. and the King of Egypt was brought so low by that Victory that he stirred no more out of Egypt, for the King of Babylon had taken from him all from Nilus, the great River of Egypt to Euphrates, and this, saith this Verse was in the 4th. Year of Jehoiakim. This Prophecy must be before that time. Carchemish appeareth from Isa. 10. 9. to have been a place in Syria where the Egyptian Army had been in Josiah's time, and then went away Conquerers as appears from 2 Chron. 35. 20, &c.

3 Order ye the buckler, and the shield, and draw near to battel.

4 Harness the horses, and get up ye horsemen, and stand forth with your helmets, furbish the spears, and put on the brigandines c.

c Art hath so much improved all things, in later Ages, that it is very hard to determine of what form the several Weapons, and pieces of Armour, whether offensive or defensive in use at this time were; the most here mentioned seem to have been defensive, and the whole Speech of the Prophet directed to the Egyptians, seems to be Ironical, calling to this Army of Pharaoh Necho to get ready to defend themselves, for they were to encounter with an Enemy would would put them very hard to it, so as they had need to have their Helmets, and Bucklers, and Shields, and Brigandines, all in a readiness, and know the use of them well, the Horses for War had need be Harnessed, the Spears furbished, and the Riders got up.

5 Wherefore have I seen them dismayed, and turned away back? and their mighty ones † are beaten down, and are † fled apace, and look not back for fear was round about, saith the LORD d.

d God had either in a Vision shewed Jeremiah this Army of the Egyptians flying, or else had revealed to him that they should be put to flight, which the Prophet here publisheth. God made a fear to fall upon the Egyptians, so as when the King of Babylon came to joyn Battel with them, they were not able at all to stand, but turned their Backs, and their greatest Commanders were either kill'd, or fled away as fast as they could.

6 Let not the swift flee away, nor the mighty man escape, they shall stumble and fall toward the north by the river Euphrates e.

e That is, it is in vain for the swift to flee away, the mighty Men shall not escape, but they shall stumble, and fall at Carchemish, which was near the River Euphrates, and Northward from Egypt.

7 Who is this that cometh up as a flood, whose waters are moved as the rivers f.

f The next Verse expoundeth this.

8 Egypt riseth up like a flood, and his waters are moved like the rivers, and he saith I will go up, and will cover the earth, I will destroy the city and the inhabitants thereof g.

g The Prophet compareth the Egyptians fleshed with their former Victory obtained against Josiah at Megiddo, and now preparing to another Expedition, to a Flood (with allusion probably to the River Nilus, whose Waters used to rise to a great height) both for the multitude of their Soldiers, and for their rage; they were resolved to carry such numbers as should cover the Earth, and to take Carchemish, or some other City which their design was against. It should seem both by this Text, and that Exod. 15. 9, 10. That the Egyptians were a People much given to vaunt and boast of the great things they would do, boasting when they were putting on their Harnesse, as if they were putting it off, not considering how uncertain the events of War were, nor yet that wherein they talked proudly there was one that could be above them.

9 Come up ye horses, and rage ye chariots, and let the mighty men come forth h, † the Ethiopians, and the † Libyans that handle the shield i, and the Lydians * that handle and bend the bow k.

† Heb. Cush. † Heb. Put. * Isa. 66. 19.

h Their ancient way of fighting was with Chariots, and Bows, the Prophet calls in the Name of the Commanders of the Egyptian Armies, to the Horses and Chariots to come on, and ingage in the Fight. i The Ethiopians were the Cushites, who were Neighbours to the Egyptians, so were the Lybians both of them it should seem were famous for handling the Shield, the Lybians were descended from Put, both the Cushites and the Putites or Lybians were descended from Ham, Gen. 10. 6. k The Lydians were as famous for the use of the Bow in War, they were descended from Misraim or Shem, Gen. 10. 13. 22. the Lydians here meant are thought to be those descended from Misraim, and some think these were Ethiopians. They were all Auxiliaries to the Egyptians in this Expedition.

10 For this is the day of the Lord GOD of hosts, a day of vengeance, that he may avenge him of his adversaries l: and the sword shall devour, and it shall be satiate, and made drunk with their blood m: for the Lord GOD of hosts * hath a sacrifice in the north countrey, by the river Euphrates n.

* Zeph. 1. 7. See Ezek. 39. 17.

l Or, But this is the day of the Lord, &c. Pharaoh is mistaken in accounting this day his own, because of the multitude of his Forces, this is the day of the Lord, who as he is the Lord of all the hosts of his Creatures, so hath a particular rule and government over hosts of Men; this is further explained by the next words, a day of vengeance, which God hath set apart, in it to be avenged upon his Enemies. m These Phrases only metaphorically signifie, the great slaughter God would make that day amongst the Egyptians. n This the Prophet declares that God would do for his honour and glory, therefore he calls it a Sacrifice, by which also he declareth his Justice in this punishment of the Egyptians, and for the further repute and credit of his Prophecy, telleth them to whom he spake of the place it should be in, viz. near the River Euphrates, where Josiah was slain by him, 2 Kings 23. 29.

* Chap. 8. 22. † Heb. no cure shall be unto thee.

11 Go up into Gilead and take * balm, O virgin, the daughter of Egypt o: in vain shalt thou use many medicines: for † thou shalt not be cured p.

o Great States are ordinarily in Scripture called Virgins for their Beauty, and pleasant State; Gilead was a most famous place for Balm: The Prophet ironically calls to the Egyptians to go to Gilead for Balm. p But tells them it would be to no purpose, God was about to wound them beyond all help of Medicines.

12 The nations have heard of thy shame q, and thy cry hath filled the land, for the mighty man hath stumbled against the mighty, and they are fallen both together r.

q The Prophet keepeth to his old Prophetick Stile, speaking of things that were to come to pass some Years after, as if they were already past, because of the certainty of them; in this sence he saith other Nations had seen, because they should see the shame and confusion of the Egyptians upon their overthrow, and the cry of their slain and wounded Men would fill other Lands. r For the Egyptians should certainly be overthrown, either by the Chaldeans stumbling upon the Babylonians, or the Babylonians on them, or they (flying) for haste stumbling one upon another, so as both those that went before, and those who followed after, should both fall together.

13 ¶ The word that the LORD spake to Jeremiah the Prophet, how Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon should come and * smite the land of Egypt s. * Isa. 19. 1.

s A Revelation different from the former in this, that the former only foretold the overthrow of the King of Egypt in a particular Battel in Carchemish near Euphrates, of which we read that the thing was done, 2 Kings 24. 7. This foretells the King of Babylon's overrunning all the Land of Egypt, and was not fulfilled till some Years after Zedekiah was carried away Captive, but prophesied of Chap. 43. 10. and 44. 30. to come to pass in the time of Pharaoh Hophra as we heard before, and more largely foretold by the Prophet Ezekiel, Ezek. 29. and 30, and 32. to happen after the overthrow of Tyrus, Ezek. 29. 18, 19.

14 Declare ye in Egypt, and publish in Migdol, and publish in Noph, and in Tahpanhes t say ye, Stand fast, and prepare ye, for the sword shall devour round about thee u.

t Concerning these three Cities of Egypt, see the Notes on Chap. 44. 1. the meaning is, publish this Prophecy over all the Land of Egypt, or perhaps these three were the chief places whither the Jews that went with Johanan the Son of Kareah, &c. went, and where they should hear of them, many more places in Egypt are named by Ezekiel, Chap. 30. 14, &c. u Look to your selves and prepare your selves for Battel, for the Nations are destroyed round about you, (so it is in the Hebrew) and you have reason to expect that the Sword should come next into your Countries.

15 Why are thy valiant men swept away? they stood not, because the LORD did drive them x.

x The Prophet first propounded a Question, then returneth answer to himself. Egypt was full of valiant Men, yet saith the Prophet they shall be swept away, or broken down as boasting, or grass is beaten down with a violent Storm of Hail, (so the word is used, Prov. 28. 3.) how comes this to pass? (saith the Prophet) He answereth himself, because it was of God to destroy Egypt, who worketh and none can let him, when he strikes none can stand before him; none can stand up against him.

16 He † made many to fall, yea, one fell upon another u, and they said, Arise, let us go again to our own people, and to the land of our nativity from the oppressing sword w.

u The Prophet had before spoken of Nebuchadnezzar, as an instrument in the hand of God, who being armed with his Commission and Power, made many to fall, yea God caused such a fear to fall upon them, that in their Flight they fell upon one another. w And though they had many Soldiers that came to help them from Cush, and Put, and Lybia, yet all was too little, the Prophet foretells they should all be glad to go home again, and should speak to one another to that purpose, for the fiercels of the King of Babylon's Sword should be such, as they should quickly see there would be no standing before it.

17 They did cry there, Pharaoh king of Egypt is but a noise x, he hath passed the time appointed y.

x That is, the Ethiopians and Lubims that should come to help the King of Egypt should cry, or the Chaldeans, or the Egyptians themselves should cry, Pharaoh is but a noise, that is, hath made a great noise, but it cometh to nothing; others make the sence Pharaoh is a Man of noise, or tumult, that hath made a great deal of disturbance to himself and us. y That is, say the most, he hath passed the time himself fixed whereat he would come, and fight the Chaldeans. But these words compared with the next Verse, incline others to think, that either Pharaoh's Soldiers, or his Allies are here brought in mocking at Pharaoh, promising himself that the King of Babylon would not come, and laughing at Jeremiah's Prophecy, saying, the time appointed was past, that is, the time of his coming mentioned by Jeremiah was past. Jeremiah foretells that Pharaoh's Army and Confederates would see reason to cry out, Pharaoh, in saying so, was but a noise.

18 As I live, saith the king, whose name is the LORD of hosts, surely as Tabor is amongst the mountains, and as Carmel by the sea, so shall he come z.

z That is, he shall as certainly come and incompass you with his Armies, as Tabor is encompassed with Mountains, and as Carmel is by the Sea, or as Barak going down from Mount Tabor destroyed Sisera's Army, or as surely as the Rain came which Elijah first discovered from Mount Carmel, 1 Kings 18. 41, 42. there are other guesses at the sence of this comparison, but the sence is undoubtedly no more than that Nebuchadnezzar should certainly come against Egypt, how vainly soever the Egyptians flatter themselves to the contrary, supposing the time past which the Prophet spake of.

19 Oh thou daughter dwelling in Egypt a, † furnish thy self to go into captivity b: for Noph shall be waste and desolate without an inhabitant c.

† Heb. make thee instruments of captivity.

a That is, O you Inhabitants in the Land of Egypt. b Make ready to go into another Country as Prisoners of War, for your Cities

Cities shall be destroyed. Noph particularly shall be wholly depopulated, and laid waste and have none to dwell in it.

20 Egypt is like a very fair heifer, but destruction cometh: it cometh out of the north d.

d That is, Egypt is now in a thriving prosperous condition, having not used to be under any Yoke like an Heifer, that is fair, and fat, but she will not be so long, she is but as a Beast fatted for the Slaughter, and there are Slaughter-men, coming out of Chaldea that will kill this fair Heifer, and make her a Sacrifice to the Justice of God.

† Heb. bullocks of the stalls.

21 Also her hired men are in the midst of her, like † fatted bullocks e, for they also are turned back, and are fled away together; they did not stand f because the day of their calamity was come upon them, and the time of their visitation g.

e The mercenary Soldiers also which the Egyptians have hired from Cush and Put, and other parts are at present in a flourishing prosperous state. f We have translated ו here ill, it had been better translated but, for that is manifestly the sence. Though they at present lying in Garrisons be fat and flourishing, like Bullocks in the Stalls, yet when it cometh to it they shall not stand but turn back, and flee as well as the rest. g Because the time is come when God resolveth to punish them, and bring calamity upon them. When the time is come which God hath set in his Counsels, wherein he will punish Persons or Nations; no probabilities to the contrary are much considerable.

22 The voice thereof shall go like a serpent h, for they shall march with an army, and come against her with axes, as hewers of wood i.

h Egypt is now like an Heifer that makes a great bellowing, but the time shall come when she shall make a lesser noise like the hissing of a Serpent, when it seeth it self set upon. i For the Chaldeans shall come with a great Army, armed with Battle-Axes, as if they came to fell down some Wood in a Forest, or Wood.

23 They shall cut down her forest, saith the LORD, though it cannot be searched k, because they are more than the grasshoppers, and are innumerable l.

k Egypt is compared to a Forest either for the multitude of Cities, or of People in that Country, and to a thick Forest, because as it is an hard thing to make ones way through a Forest, so it was judged as hard for an Enemy to make his way into that Country; in humane probability Egypt could not be searched, yet (saith God) the Chaldeans shall cut down this Forest, and it shall be no more to them than for Hewers of Wood, with Tools fitted for the purpose, to make their way through a Forest. l For the Army of the Chaldeans shall be as numerous as the Inhabitants of Egypt, more than the Grasshoppers which come in such Troops, as in a short time they devour every green Herb in a place.

24 The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded, she shall be delivered into the hand of the people of the north m.

m That is, into the hand or power of the Chaldeans, it is the same thing which the Prophet had before said again and again, and repeats it so often only for the further confirmation of the truth of the Prediction, notwithstanding the appearing improbability of any such thing.

‖ Or, nourisher. † Heb. Amon. * Chap. 43.12,13. Ezek. 30. 13.

25 The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel saith n, Behold, I will punish the ‖ † multitude of No o, and Pharaoh, and Egypt, * with their gods, and their kings, even Pharaoh, and all them that trust in him p.

n These Names are often in conjunction given unto God, the first signifying his Power, or ability to do what he either promiseth or threatneth, the other speaking his kindness and near relation to the Jews. o There are great critical Disputes about this Phrase, whether the word translated multitude, signifies so (as it doth, Chap. 52. 15.) and if so whether it should not be the multitude from No. Or whether it signifies the nourisher, (as some would have it) because No (which most think is the same City with that at this time called Alexandria, being a great place of Merchandise) nourished all the adjacent parts; but it is no easie thing to resolve the Question, nor is the resolution of it of much moment to us. p By those that trusted in Pharaoh the Jews are most probably meant, who all along in their prosperity put too much confidence in Egypt, and after that Hierusalem was taken, some of them (as we before heard) fled into Egypt for Sanctuary.

26 And I will deliver them into the hand of those that seek their lives, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and into the hand of his servants: And afterwards it shall be inhabited, as in the days of old, saith the LORD q.

q The former part of this Verse is but the same which the Prophet hath often before said. The latter part is a Promise for the Restauration of Egypt to some degrees of its former prosperity, and Liberty. The determinate time for the fulfilling of this Prophecy is told us, Ezek. 29 13, 14. viz. at the end of forty Years; this we are told by Civil Historians fell out in the time of Amasis a King of Egypt co-vous with Cyrus, who was overcome by Cyrus his Son Cambyses, who brought Egypt to be a Province belonging to the Medes and Persians, by the fulfilling of which Prophecy the truth both of Jeremiah's and Ezekiel's Prophecies are justified.

27 ¶ * But fear not thou, O my servant Jacob, and be not dismayed, O Israel; for behold, I will save thee from a far off, and thy seed from the land of their captivity; and Jacob shall return, and be in rest and at ease, and none shall make him afraid.

* Isa. 41. 13. & 43. 5 & 44.2.

28 Fear thou not, O Jacob my servant, saith the LORD, for I am with thee, for I will make a full end of all the nations whither I have driven thee, but I will not make * a full end of thee, but correct thee in measure, yet will I ‖ not leave thee wholly unpunished r.

* Chap. 10. 24. ‖ Or, not utterly cut thee off. Or, in making thee empty I will not make thee empty.

r See the Notes on Chap. 30. 10, 11. where is the substance of what is said in these two Verses, and almost the very words are repeated: the great thing to be observed by us, is the difference which the just and righteous God maketh betwixt his Punishments of his Church and own People, and his Punishments of wicked Men who are their Enemies; as there is a great difference in the root of such Dispensations, God dealing them out to his People out of Love, that they might not be condemned with the wicked; so there is a great deal of difference in the measure and duration of their Punishments, the Rod of the wicked shall not always lie upon the backs of the righteous, and they are corrected in measure.

CHAP. XLVII.

The Destruction of the Philistines, Tyrians, Zidonians, and others by the Sea-side, 1,——7.

1 THE word of the LORD, that came to Jeremiah the prophet * against the Philistines, before that Pharaoh smote † Gaza a.

* Chap. 25 20. † Heb. Azzah.

a In the former Chapter the Prophet foretold the Judgments of God upon the Egyptians, who were the Jews seeming Friends, but their real Enemies, as they were occasions to them of Idolatry, and of a sinful confidence in them. He comes in this Chapter to foretell the Judgments of God upon the Philistines who were inveterate Enemies to the Jews, against whom also Isaiah, Chap. 14. 29. of his Prophecy, and Ezekiel and Amos prophesied, Ezek. 25. 15. Amos 1. 6. and also Zephaniah in Chap. 2. 4, 5. of his Prophecy. When the King of Babylon took Gaza, one of the five Cities of the Philistines the Scripture doth not tell us. Some think it was either in his way to Carchemish, or as he came back a Conquerour from the Battel at Megiddo where Josiah was slain. The time when Jeremiah had this Revelation is set down to let us know, that it was in the time of the Philistines Prosperity, when the Prophet could see no such effect existent, or probable in its causes.

2 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, * waters rise up * out of the north b, and shall be an overflowing flood, and shall overflow the land † and all that is therein, the city, and them that dwell therein c, then the men shall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howl d.

* Isa. 8. 7. * Chap. 1. 14. † Heb. the fulness therefore.

b Calamities and Afflictions are often in Scripture set out under the notion of Waters; and as the Miseries of Egypt were set out by the overflowings of their great River Nilus, so the Calamities of the Philistines are expressed by the overflowings of the great River Euphrates, these Miseries coming upon them by the Chaldeans, which were a Northern People, their Waters are said to rise up out of the North. c It is said to be an overflowing Flood that should overflow the Land, because it was to be a sweeping Judgment, which like a Flood should carry all before it, d which should produce amongst the Inhabitants of Gaza a great howling, and lamentation.

3 At the noise of the stamping of the hoofs of his strong horses, at the rushing of his chariots, and at the rumbling of his wheels, the fathers shall not look back to their children for feebleness of hands e.

e This is all but a description of the march of an Army, so terrible as should make Parents forget their natural affection, and flee away to save themselves looking upon themselves as lost, and unable to protect their Children.

4 Because of the day that cometh to spoil all the Philistines f, and to cut off from Tyrus and Zidon every helper that remaineth g: for the LORD will spoil the Philistines, the remnant of † the countrey of Caphtor.

f The day which God hath set, and appointed for the ruine of the Philistines. g Tyre and Sidon were neighbouring to the Philistines, as appears from Gen. 10. 14, 15. Joel 3. 4. and so were often called to their help. God threatneth both to destroy them, and also those that helped them; for it appeareth from Gen. 10. 14. that the Philistines and Caphtorims were related, for their first Progenitors Philistim and Caphtorim, were both the Sons of Mizraim the Son of Ham one of the Sons of Noah. It appears from Deut. 2. 23. that they expelled the Avites, and dwelt in Hazerim to Azzah, whether their Country be what was afterwards called Cappadocia or Damiata is not much material for us to know, they were a People confederate with the Philistines, whom God here threatneth to destroy with them.

5 *Baldneſs is come upon Gaza, * Aſkelon is cut off with the remnant of their valley g: how long wilt thou * cut thy ſelf h?

*Mic. 1, 16. * Chap. 25. 20. * Chap. 16 6. and 48. 37.

g Both Gaza and Aſkelon were two principal Cities belonging to the Philiſtines taken by Judah, Jud. 1. 18. we read of them, 1 Sam. 6. 17. both Amos, Zephaniah and Zechariah prophetied their ruine, Amos 1. 8. Zephaniah 2. 4. 7. Zech. 9. 5. as well as this Prophet, by the remnant of the Valley, moſt underſtand thoſe who lived in the Vallies near about Aſkelon. h Concerning the laſt clauſe in this Verſe there is ſome difference, whether the words ſhould be joyned with the next Verſe, and read how long wilt thou cut thy ſelf, O thou Sword of the Lord, or as they lie in our Bibles, and then the ſence is, why will you in ſo deſperate a caſe afflict your ſelves, when all your mourning will do you no good.

6 O thou ſword of the LORD, how long will it be ere thou be quiet, † put up thy ſelf into thy ſcabbard, reſt, and be ſtill i.

i Some make the words of the 6th. Verſe, to be the words of the Philiſtines in their mourning and cutting themſelves, crying to God to ſtop the Sword drawn againſt them, and to return it again into its Scabbard: Others make them the words of the Prophet, lamenting the havock which he by the eye of the Prophecy ſaw was like to be made amongſt the Philiſtines by the Chaldeans, (for good Men are affected with the Miſeries even of the worſt of Men.)

7 † How can it be quiet, ſeeing the LORD hath given it a charge againſt Aſhkelon, and againſt the ſea-ſhore? there hath he appointed it k.

k The latter Verſe muſt be expounded according to the former; for if the words of the former Verſe be underſtood as the words of the Philiſtines, thoſe of this Verſe muſt be underſtood as the words of the Prophet putting them out of hopes of the Swords ſtopping, becauſe what it did was by Commiſſion from God, which it muſt execute. If the words of the former Verſe be to be underſtood as the Prophet's words, the words of this Verſe are either the Prophet's words correcting himſelf, and concluding that this Sword could not be quiet, becauſe it was edged by God himſelf, who had given it his Commiſſion which it muſt execute: Or the words of God, letting the Prophet know that he had given this Sword its Commiſſion, and therefore it could not ſtop till Aſkelon and the People on the Sea-ſhore were deſtroyed by it.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The Judgment of Moab, 1,——6. for their Pride, 7,——10. for their ſecurity and humane Confidence, 11,——25. eſpecially for their Contempt of God, and Inſolence towards his People, 26,——46. Their Reſtauration, 47.

THE Prophet having Chapter 46 denounced God's Judgment againſt Egypt, and againſt the Philiſtines, Chap. 47. in this Chapter he cometh to do the like againſt the Moabites. Moab the Father of theſe Moabites was the Son of Lot, Gen. 19. 37. The Moabites Countrey lay in the way the Iſraelites went to Canaan, Numb. 21. 11, 13. near the Countrey of the Ammonites. Balak was King of it when the Iſraelites paſſed by it, who ſent for the Sorcerer Balaam as may be read there, Numb. 22. 4. who Chap. 24. 5, &c. bleſſed them. They ſeduced the Iſraelites to Adultery and Idolatry, Chap. 25. 1.

1 Againſt * Moab, thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Wo unto Nebo a, for it is ſpoiled: Kiriathaim is confounded, and taken, ‖ Miſgab is confounded and diſmayed.

* Iſa. 15. and 16. chap. 25. 21. and 27. 3. Ezek. 25. 9. Amos 2. 1. ‖ Or, the high place.

a Moab was a large Countrey and had many Cities; we ſhall have divers of them named in this Chapter; the firſt that we read of Nebo in Holy Writ is, Numb. 32. 3, 38. Reuben built both that and Kiriathaim as may be read there, Ver. 38, 39. It was alſo the Name of a Mountain, Deut. 34. 1. It ſhould ſeem that in Jeremiah's time, the Moabites had got both the poſſeſſion of Nebo, and Kiriathaim and Miſgab, of which we read no more in Scripture. It ſeems to be a City built upon ſome Hill or High place. The Prophet threatneth ruine to all theſe three Cities.

2 There ſhall be no more praiſe of Moab: In Heſhbon they have deviſed evil againſt it b; Come, and let us cut it off from being a nation c; Alſo thou ‖ ſhalt be cut down, O Madmen, the ſword ſhall † purſue thee d.

‖ Or, be brought to ſilence. † Heb. go after thee.

b Heſhbon was formerly the City of Sihon, Numb. 21. 26. it became afterward one of the principal Cities of the Moabites, as appeareth from Iſa. 15. 4. which maketh the learned Author of our Engliſh Annotations, think our Tranſlation not ſo good, for why ſhould they deviſe evil in Heſhbon againſt Moab, unleſs the Enemies ſate there in Counſel, when they had taken it, againſt the other parts of the Country? But poſſibly the ſence is, they ſhall no more in Heſhbon magnifie Moab, or Moab ſhall no more Glory of Heſhbon, for the Enemies had contrived the ruine of it. d Madmen was another City in the Country of Moab. Some think the ſame with Ptolomy's Madiama. To that City alſo the Prophet threatneth ruine, and deſtruction by the Sword.

3 A voice of crying ſhall be from Horonaim e, ſpoiling and great deſtruction.

e Another City of Moab, mentioned only in this place, and in Iſa. 15. 5. Some think it the ſame with Horon, where Sanballat was born, Neh. 2. 10. and 13. 28. The Prophet threatens alſo ruine and deſtruction to this City.

4 Moab is deſtroyed, her little ones have cauſed a cry to be heard f.

f Moab was both the Name of the whole Country, and of a principal City in it. Some by it here underſtand the City; by her little ones, ſome underſtand little Children; others, inferior Magiſtrates, or the common People.

5 For in the going up of Luhith, † continual weeping ſhall go up; for in the going down of Horonaim the enemies have heard a cry of deſtruction g.

† Heb. weeping with weeping.

g Of Luhith we read only in this place, and Iſa. 15. 5. It was a City of Moab, and ſituated upon an Hill, as appears both here and where it is mentioned in Iſaiah; ſome think that to this City the Moabites fled for Sanctuary from the Chaldeans, and flying made ſo great an out-cry that their Enemies who purſued them heard their cry.

6 Flee, ſave your lives, and be like ‖ the * heath in the wilderneſs h.

‖ Or, a naked tree. * Chap. 17. 6.

h It is of no great moment whether we underſtand theſe as the words of the Moabites, calling one to another to flee, and ſave their lives, though they loſt all they had, and left themſelves as bare as a naked Tree, or as the words of the Prophets ſpeaking to the Moabites to the ſame ſence.

7 ¶ For becauſe thou haſt truſted in thy works and in thy treaſures, thou ſhalt alſo be taken, and Chemoſh ſhall go forth into captivity with his * prieſts and his princes together k.

* Chap. 49. 3.

i Whether by works in this place be meant their Riches got by the labour of their hands; or their Idols which often are called by way of Defamation, the Works of their own hands, or their fortifications, is not much conſiderable; a confidence in Creatures, oppoſed to a confidence in God is doubtleſs the ſin here intended, whatever the ground of it was, whether their Idols, or Riches or fortified places. k Chemoſh was their principal Idol as appears by Numb. 21. 29. Jud. 11. 24. 1 King. 11. 7. 33. 2 King. 23. 13. God ſheweth them the vanity of this Idolatry, by telling them, that this Idol ſhould go into Captivity, and be ſo far from being able to protect them, that he ſhould not be able to protect himſelf or his own Prieſts, or the Princes that favoured him.

8 And the ſpoiler ſhall come upon every city, and no city ſhall eſcape; the valley alſo ſhall periſh, and the plain ſhall be deſtroyed, as the LORD hath ſpoken l.

l That is, all the parts of the Country of Moab, and all the Cities, as well thoſe that ſtood upon Hills, and mountainous places, as thoſe that ſtood in Valleys; becauſe or for the Lord had ſaid it, (for ſo the Paſſive we tranſlate as is better tranſlated.)

9 Give wings unto Moab, that it may flee, and get away m: for the cities thereof ſhall be deſolate, without any to dwell therein n.

m That is, the Moabites had need of Wings like a Bird to eſcape that ruine which is coming upon them. n Yea, if they had wings they ſhould not eſcape, for the Lord is reſolved that the Cities of Moab ſhall be all brought to deſolation, ſo as no Inhabitants ſhall be left in them.

10 * Curſed be he that doth the work of the LORD ‖ deceitfully o, and curſed be he that keepeth back his ſword from blood p.

* See Judg. 5. 23. ‖ Or, negligently.

o Theſe words ſeem like the words of the Prophet to the Chaldeans, inciting them to go on valiantly againſt the Moabites, calling it the work of the Lord, which he would have done, and to which he had called them. p There is a time to withhold our hands from ſhedding Blood, and that is always when we have not a ſpecial Authority, and call from God to it; and there is a time when God will curſe thoſe that do ſo withhold their hands, that time is, when God doth require the ſhedding of it.

11 ¶ Moab hath been at eaſe from his youth q, and he hath * ſettled on his lees r, and hath not been emptied from veſſel to veſſel, neither hath he gone into captivity s: therefore his taſte † remained in him, and his ſcent is not changed t.

q The Moabites ever ſince they began to be a People, have been a quiet People, not exerciſed with Wars, and Enemies making Inroads upon them. r Like to a Cask of Wine, that hath not been Rack'd, but hath continued in the ſame ſtate. s He follows the Metaphor of Wine which is drawn out from Veſſel to Veſſel, when it is drawn off the Lees. It is expounded by the next words, Neither hath he gone into Captivity. t And this is the reaſon why they retain their old ſins, Pride, Preſumption, Luxury, and old wickedneſſes, as Wine while it remaineth in the Lees retains more its nature, ſtrength, and colour, than when it is once rackt.

12 Therefore behold, the days come, ſaith the LORD, that I will ſend unto him wanderers, that ſhall cauſe him to wander n, and ſhall empty his veſſels, and break his bottles o.

n By the wanderers here mentioned, the Chaldeans are moſt certainly underſtood, who wandered from their own Country to conquer other People, the word is variouſly tranſlated, Vagrants, Travellers, Removers, &c. who ſhall conquer the Moabites, and carry them into captivity. o He had before compared the Moabites, to Wine ſettled upon the Lees, here he ſaith, that God would ſend thoſe that ſhould not only diſturb and rowl them, but ruine and deſtroy them.

13 And

13 And Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh p, as
* 1 Kings 12. 29. the house of Israel was ashamed of * Bethel their confidence q.

p It is a natural, and a penal shame which is here spoken of, we are naturally ashamed when we have reposed a great confidence in, and made great boasts of a thing, which when it comes to be tried, proveth of no use, but mischievous to us. Chemosh was their great Idol, in which the Moabites had great confidence, and of which they boasted, the Prophet tells them they should be ashamed of this Idol, or for this Idol; q as the Israelites, that is the Ten Tribes were ashamed of, or for the golden Calves which Jeroboam set up at Dan and Bethel, which were the cause of ruine to those Tribes. Confidences in any thing but in God alone in a time of danger will bring both natural and penal shame.

* Isa. 16. 6. 14 ¶ How say ye, * We are mighty and strong men for the war r.

r How can ye justifie what you say, or why say you so, or to what purpose do you brag of your valour.

15 Moab is spoiled s, and gone up out of her cities t, and † his chosen young men are gone down to † Heb. the choice of. the slaughter u, saith the king whose name is the LORD of hosts w.

s Your Country will be wasted, and spoiled. t The Inhabitants of it shall be all driven out of their Cities. The Heb. is and her cities, it or he is gone up. So the sence may be Moab and her Cities are all spoiled, and he (that is) the Enemy is gone up. u And the strong, and mighty Men she boasted of, and gloried in, are gone to the Battel, as Oxen or Sheep to a Slaughter-house. w I do not speak this of my self, I cannot of my self tell things that shall come to pass hereafter, but the words I say are the words of him who is the Lord of all the Armies of Heaven and Earth, who both knoweth what shall be, and is able to effect what he saith.

16 The calamity of Moab is near to come, and his affliction hasteth fast x.

x Josephus tells us this destruction came upon the Moabites five Years after the Siege of Jerusalem; but in this reckoning we must consider that he who speaketh is that God to whom a thousand Years is but as one day.

17 All ye that are about him bemoan him y, and all ye that know his name, say, How is the strong staff broken, and the beautiful rod z?

y The Prophet having spoken of Moab's Calamity, as already come upon him, or at least very near, calls to his Friends to come and condole with him, as is usually done in case of some Calamity befallen to a Friend. z All ye that know how terrible Moab hath been to others, and how famous for mighty and strong Men, say, how is this potent Nation, and this People that hath been such a Rod against others, or hath ruled over so many others, broken; for both a Staff and a Rod are as well Ensigns of Power and Government, as Instruments to punish Offenders.

18 Thou daughter that dost inhabit Dibon, come down from thy glory a, and sit in thirst; for the spoiler of Moab shall come upon thee c, and he shall destroy thy strong holds.

a Of this Dibon we read, Numb. 21. 30. It was a Land for Cattle, Numb. 32. 3. both Dibon and Aroer, and Ataroth were built by the Children of Gad, to whose Lot it fell, Vers. 34. it also to the Reubenites in part, Josh. 13, 17. It should seem that the Moabites, were now come into the possession of it, either by conquest, or upon the Assyrians taking the Ten Tribes. b It was a place well watered, otherwise it had not been fit for Cattel) God threatneth that she should be in thirst, that is driven into some dry, barren Countries. c For the King of Babylon whom God had appointed to spoil all Moab, and shall destroy thee also, and thy strong holds shall not secure thee.

† Heb. inhabiteress. 19 O † inhabitant of Aroer d, stand by the way and espy, ask him that fleeth, and her that escapeth, and say, What is done e?

d Aroer was a City in the Lot of Gad and Reuben, Numb. 32. 34. In David's time it was in the hand of the Jews, 1 Sam. 30. 28. but in Isaiah's time, it belonged to Syria, Isa. 17. 2. and here it is reckoned to the Moabites. e The Inhabitants of it, are call'd to stand by the way, and seeing the Moabites flying, to ask what News? Others think that Aroer was at this time a City of the Ammonites; and here called unto to see their Neighbours the Moabites fleeing before their Enemies.

20 Moab is confounded, for it is broken down: * howl and cry, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is
* Isa. 16. 7. spoiled f.

f Arnon was the Name of a River, Numb. 21. 14. Deut. 2 36. Jos. 12. 1. It was the border of Moab whither Balak went to meet Balaam, Numb. 22. 36. probably the adjacent Country or City might take its Name from the River.

21 And judgment is come upon the plain country; upon Holon, and upon Jahazah, and upon Mephaath.

22 And upon Dibon, and upon Nebo, and upon Beth-diblathaim.

23 And upon Kiriathaim, and upon Beth-gamul, and upon Beth-meon.

24 And upon Kerioth, and upon Bozrah, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab, far or near g.

g God threatneth Vengeance to come upon all Moab, which had great Plains, Numb. 21. 13. and 33. 48. For the Names of these Cities, and those mentioned, Vers. 22, 23, 24. some of them we read of in other places of Holy Writ. Others we read not of, neither is it materiah for us to know their situation, they are not at this day to be known by their old Names, they are all long since razed at Christ at this time belonging to the Moabites, to whom this Vengeance is threatned, and not to them only, but to all other Cities of the Land of Moab where-ever situate.

25 The horn of Moab is cut off, and his arm is broken, saith the LORD.

h That is the beauty and the strength of Moab. So these two termes signifie in Holy Writ, the Horn being used for the Beauty of some Beasts, and that part of their Bodies, by which they use to do injury to others, and defend themselves from the assaults of others. God here declares that Moab should both lose its Glory and Beauty, and also all the power it formerly had to defend it self, or offend others.

26 Make ye him drunken i: for he magnified * himself against the LORD k: Moab also shall wallow in his vomit, and he also shall be in derision.
* Chap. 25. 27.

i Either make ye him to stagger like a Drunken Man (the cup being put for the effect) or fill him with the intoxicating Wine Cup of GOD's Vengeance, with the effects of God's Wrath. k Because of his Pride, and exalting himself against the Lord, and he had been stronger than he, and so out of the reach of God's Power.

27 For was not Israel a derision unto thee m? was he * found among thieves n? for since thou speakest of him, ‖ thou skippedst for joy o.
* Zeph. 2. 8.
‖ Or, thou movedst thy self.

l As drunken Men vomit, and stagger, and fall, and wallow in their Vomit, so let the Moabites fall by the Sword, wallow in their Blood, and like drunken Men be mock'd at, and laid in derision by all those who see what their Vaunts come to, and what Vengeance they have pulled upon themselves.

m While in all things to mock at the Miseries of others, especially such as we have some relation to, as the Moabites were descended from Lot who was nearly related to Abraham the Father of the Jews, and ought rather to have mourned at them, than to have jeered their Neighbours and Kindred; they either mocked at the Ten Tribes when they were carried into Captivity by Salmanasar or at Judah captivated by the King of Babylon. God threatneth the Ammonites, Ezek. 25. 6. and the Edomites by Obadiah for the same misdemeanour. n Who didst thou deal by Israel as Men deal by Thieves, when they are brought to shame. Ought not he to have been accounted in a better rank than that of Thieves? o Instead of compassionating the Jews in their Calamity, thou never speakest of them but with joy and triumph. Others make a quite other sence, viz. for those words against him, thou wilt be shaken, thou shalt wander. But the learned Author of the English Annotations observes well, that the word in the form here used will not so well bear it, though the Verb do bear its primary sence signifie to wander.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and dwell in the rock p, and be like the dove that maketh her nests in the sides of the holes mouth q.

p Still the Prophet speaks of the Moabites, as a People whose Armies were routed, and calls to them to leave their Houses in Cities, not promising them either any security, either to or from their Houses, or from the Walls of their Cities, but to get them to Rocks, which are naturally fortified, and from whence (if from any place) security might be promised. q And he commends to them the natural sagacity of a Dove, which being a feeble Creature, and not able to encounter an Hawk or Eagle, makes her self a Nest in the sides of some Rock where she may be at safety.

29 We have heard the pride of Moab, (he is exceeding proud) his loftiness and his arrogancy, and his Pride, and the haughtiness of his heart r.

r There is a Passage, Isa. 16. 6. &c. concerning Moab, very little differing from this; Isaiah lived some Years before this Prophet, who yet complaineth of them for the same sins, so as they were not at all reformed. God saith he had heard of their Pride and Arrogancy; a Vice which commonly attendeth ease and prosperity, and is exceeding odious in the sight of God, so as a wicked Man is often in Scripture set out under the notion of a proud Man.

30 I know his wrath, saith the LORD s; but it shall not be so t, ‖ his lies shall not so effect it u.
‖ Or, those on whom he stays. (Heb. his stays) do not right.

s I know his Rage, either against Israel, or other People, t but he shall never execute it, or bring to pass what he thinks to do. u There is no trusting to what he saith, his Boastings and his Confidence are but Lyes, and shall never effect his designs.

31 Therefore will I howl for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab, mine heart shall mourn for the men of Kir-heres w.

w Though wicked Men rejoyce, and triumph in the ruine of good Men, yet their Charity suffereth them not to do the like, but ingageth them to mourn for them in the day of their Affliction. Jeremy declareth his compassion toward these Moabites, tho they derided the Jews when they were carried into Captivity: Nay, he mourns upon the prospect of their Misery at some distance, when the sight of the Jews present Calamity would not affect the Moabites with any compassion at all. We find the like compassion in another another Prophet, Isaiah, Chap. 16. 11. Ver. 7. there it is called Kir-haraſeth, which was a City of Moab, as we read, 2 Kings 3. 25.

32 O vine of Sibmah x, I will weep for thee with the weeping of Jazer y; thy plants are gone over the ſea z, they reach even to the ſea of Jazer a, the ſpoiler is faln upon thy ſummer fruits, and upon thy vintage.

x We read of this Vine of Sibmah alſo, Iſa. 16. 8, 9. both Sibmah, and Jahaza were places in the portion of Reuben, Joſ. 13. 18, 19, Sibmah was doubtleſs a place famous in thoſe days for Vines, and Vineyards. y This Jahaza or Jazer was as it ſhould ſeem firſt taken, and carried into captivity, which cauſed a great Lamentation. The Prophet foretells ſuch a weeping for Sibmah, as was for Jazer. z By plants he means the Inhabitants of Sibmah, which he propheſieth ſhould be carried into Captivity over the dead Sea. a As an Aggravation of the Judgment that ſhould come upon them, God by his Prophets tells them that the ſpoiler ſhould come upon them in their Vintage and Harveſt time.

* Iſa. 16. 10. 33 And * joy and gladneſs, is taken from the plentiful field, and from the land of Moab, and I have cauſed wine to fail from the wine-preſſes, none ſhall tread with ſhouting, their ſhouting ſhall be no ſhouting b.

b The time of Harveſt and Vintage being times when the Husbandmen were wont to reap the fruit of all their labours the preceding Year, were times of great joy ordinarily, but the Prophet foretells them of a Year when there ſhould be no ſuch rejoycing, for they ſhould have no Wine from the Wine-preſſes, there ſhould be no ſhouting as uſed to be in the time of Harveſt and of Vintage.

34 From the cry of Heſhbon even unto Elealeh, and even unto Jahaz have they uttered their voice, * Iſa. 15. 4, 5, 6. † Heb. deſolations * from Zoar even unto Horonaim, as an heifer of three years old c: for the waters alſo of Nimrim ſhall be † deſolate d.

c Vid. Iſa. 13. 5. d Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Jahaz, and Zoar, and Horonaim; were all Cities of Moab who are here all threatned with ruine; with the Country about Nimrim, which Nimrim is mentioned no where in Scripture, but here, and in Iſa. 15. 6. nor are Interpreters well agreed, whether in this place it be the Name of a River, or a Lake, or a City. The ſence is, the whole Country of Moab ſhall be deſtroyed, the Cry ſhall reach from one part of the Country to another, either the Cry of the Inhabitants, or of their Enemies purſuing them with a great noiſe.

35 Moreover, I will cauſe to ceaſe in Moab, ſaith * Iſa. 15. 2. & 16. 12. the LORD, * him that offereth in the high places, and him that burneth incenſe to his gods e.

e That is every one, or ſome of all orders, for the Moabites generally were Idolaters) though the expreſſing it under this notion may hint to us alſo one great cauſe of this Judgments coming upon them, viz. their Idolatry.

* Iſa. 16. 11. 36 Therefore * mine heart ſhall ſound for Moab like pipes, and mine heart ſhall ſound like pipes for * Iſa. 15. 7. the men of Kir-heres: becauſe the * riches that he hath gotten are periſhed g.

g The Prophet means ſuch Pipes as they were wont to uſe at Funerals, and other ſad occaſions, to play doleful Leſſons upon. See Iſa. 15. 5. becauſe of the great change in the ſtate of this poor People, which had got together a great deal of Wealth which is all periſhed.

* Iſa. 15. 2, 3. Chap. 47. 5 † Heb. diminiſhed. 37 * For every head ſhall be bald, and every beard † clipt: upon all the hands ſhall be cuttings, and upon the loyns ſackcloth h.

h Theſe Phraſes are expounded in the beginning of the following Verſe, There ſhall be Lamentations generally upon all the houſe tops of Moab. Shaving of the Hair, and clipping the Beards, and cutting themſelves, were Rites and Ceremonies of Mourning uſed by theſe Heathens.

38 There ſhall be lamentation generally upon all the houſe-tops of Moab, and in the ſtreets thereof: for I have broken Moab like a veſſel, wherein is no pleaſure, ſaith the LORD i.

i We met with the ſame Phraſe applied to Coniah, Chap. 22. 27. The meaning is, I have broken Moab all pieces, as People uſe to do Veſſels they care not for, they never go about to mend ſuch a Veſſel, but daſh it in pieces againſt ſome Stones or Walls.

† Heb. neck. 39 They ſhall howl, ſaying, How is it broken down? how hath Moab turned the back † with ſhame k? ſo ſhall Moab be a deriſion, and a diſmaying to all them about him l.

k Thoſe that formerly lived in Moab, when it was in its Glory, ſhall lament to ſee how the caſe is altered with it, that all its Glory is broken down, and they that were wont to conquer their Enemies, turn their backs with ſhame upon their Enemies. l And Moab that was wont to be the praiſe and admiration of all People, * Deut. 28. 49. Chap. 49. 22. Dan. 7. 4. Hoſ. 8. 1. Hab. 1. 8. was become an aſtoniſhment, and an object of deriſion and ſcoffing to them.

40 For thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, * he m ſhall fly as an eagle, and ſhall ſpread his wings over Moab m.

m Nebuchadnezzar ſhall come upon Moab ſwiftly, and as an Eagle covereth the Prey which he hath taken with his Wings, ſo Nebuchadnezzar, ſhall ſpread himſelf over Moab.

41 ‖ Kerioth is taken, and the ſtrong holds are ſurpriſed n, and the * mighty mens hearts in Moab at that day ſhall be as the heart of a woman in her pangs o. ‖ Or, the cities. * Chap. 49. 22.

n Whether Kerioth here be the proper Name of a City, as it is Ver. 24. Or an appellative Noun ſignifying Cities, is doubtful. The latter ſeems beſt to agree to this place, The Cities and the ſtrong holds are all taken, and o though Moab hath in it many mighty and valiant Men, yet their Hearts will be full of fear, or ready to fail them, like a Womans who is in her Travail and hath great and ſore pains.

42 And Moab ſhall be deſtroyed from being a people p, becauſe he hath magnified himſelf againſt the LORD q.

p That is for a time; ſee Ver. 47. Or being ſuch a People as it hath been, ſo full of ſplendor and glory. q The reaſon given is the ſame with that Ver. 26.

43 * Fear, and the pit, and the ſnare r, ſhall be upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, ſaith the LORD. * Iſa. 24. 17, 18.

r Theſe three words, Fear, Pit, Snare, ſignifie no more than a variety of dangers that ſhould be on all ſides of them, ſo as if any eſcaped one danger, he ſhould preſently meet with another, for this was the time when the Lord was reſolved to puniſh all the Inhabitants of the Land of Moab.

44 He that fleeth from the fear, ſhall fall into the pit, and he that getteth up out of the pit, ſhall be taken in the ſnare: for I will bring upon it, even upon Moab, the year of their viſitation, ſaith the LORD.

45 They that fled ſtood under the ſhadow of Heſhbon, becauſe of the force s: but a fire ſhall come forth out of Heſhbon, and a flame from the midſt of Sihon, and ſhall devour the corner of Moab, and the crown of the head of the † tumultuous ones t. † Heb. children of noiſe.

s Heſhbon was a great City, and as it ſhould ſeem, a place of ſome force, the War being in the Country, they made Heſhbon the place of their Sanctuary. t But the Prophet applying to the Chaldeans what was ſaid in Moſes his time, Num 21. 28. propheſieth, That Heſhbon alſo ſhould be deſtroyed and the fire ſhould devour the crown of the head, that is the glory of the brave rebelling Gallants, called in the Hebrew the Children of Noiſe.

46 * Wo be unto thee, O Moab, the people of Chemoſh periſheth, for thy ſons are taken † captives; and thy daughters captives u. * Numb. 21. 29. † Heb. in capti-vity.

u The Prophet cloſing the threatning part of his Prophecy againſt Moab, repeateth the ſame thing, which he had often ſaid, that the Moabites ſhould be carried into Captivity by the King of Babylon, and denounceth a woe unto them upon that account.

47 ¶ Yet will I bring again the captivity of Moab in the latter days, ſaith the LORD w. Thus far is the judgment of Moab x.

w Some think this Prophecy was fulfilled upon the return of the Jews out of Babylon, when the Jews inhabited the Land of Moab, Zeph. 2. 9. but this doth not ſeem to be the bringing again the Captivity of Moab, but of Judah; beſides in that place it is ſaid that Moab ſhould be as Sodom, and the children of Ammon as Gomorrah, even the breeding of Nettles and Salt-pits, and a perpetual deſolation. It is therefore rather to be underſtood of a ſpiritual reduction of them, by calling ſome of them under the Kingdom of the Meſſiah as the Jewiſh Doctors themſelves interpret it. Some think this a promiſe rather reſpecting the Jews than the Moabites, it is ſaid Ver. 2. 9. That the remnant of the Lords People ſhould poſſeſs Moab, and Ver. 11. that all the Iſles of the heathen ſhould worſhip God. x Theſe laſt words are doubtleſs to be interpreted rather as a concluſion of this Prophecy againſt Moab, than (as ſome would have it) as a limitation of the time how long this Judgment on Moab ſhould indure, as if thus far, were as much as thus long.

CHAP. XLIX.

The Judgment of the Ammonites, 1,——5. Their Reſtauration, 6. The Judgment of Edom, 7,——22. Of Damaſcus, 23,——27. Of Kedar, and Hazor, 28,——33. Of Elam and its Reſtauration, 34——39.

1 ‖ Concerning the * Ammonites a, thus ſaith the LORD, Hath Iſrael no ſons? hath he no heir b? why then doth ‖ their king inherit * Gad c, and his people dwell in their cities d. ‖ Or, againſt. * Ezek. 21. 28. and 25. 2. Zeph. 2. 8, 9.

a The Ammonites were the Poſterity of Ben-Ammi, Lot's inceſtuous Child, by his younger Daughter, Gen. 19. 38. Their Country was near the Jews Country, the Jews in their Journey from Egypt to Canaan to poſſeſs it, paſſed by their Country, but were by God forbidden to meddle with it becauſe he had given it to the Children of Lot, Deut. 2. 19. but they proved bad Neighbours ‖ Or, Malcom.

to the Israelites when in Canaan. They assisted the King of Moab against them, Jud. 3. 13. and made War against them Judg. 10. 9. and 11. 4. Nahash their King made an inroad upon them, 1 Sam. 12. 12. David fought with them in his time, 2 Sam. 8. 12. and destroyed them, 2 Sam. 11. 1. Jehoshaphat also, and Jotham fought with them, 2 Chron. 20. 1. and 27. 5. During the long tract of time that there were Wars betwixt the Jews and Ammonites, the Land of Gad and Reuben which lay beyond Jordan, fell into the hands of the Syrians, Moabites and Ammonites (whence it is that in the former Chapter we read of many Cities of Moab, which were upon the division of Canaan, in the Lot of Gad and Reuben.) This Prophecy cannot be well understood without a previous understanding this. b Hence it is that the Prophet saith, Hath Israel no Sons? God had given that Country of Gilead to Manasses and Reuben and Gad, Num. 32. 39. Jos. 13. 29, 30. c and as Mens Estates ought to descend to their Heirs, so this Land should have continued and descended to the Posterity of these Tribes, but the Ammonites had by force taken away a part, and Melcom possessed it. Melcom is their King, or the Name of their Idol to whom they gave the Name of King, as other Heathens called their Idol Baal, that is Lord. d And the People of the King of the Ammonites, or of Melcom the Idol of the Ammonites, dwelt in the Cities belonging to Gad, which was one of the Tribes of Israel.

2 Therefore behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will cause an alarm of war to be heard in Rabbah e of the Ammonites, and it shall be a desolate heap, and her daughters shall be burnt with fire: then shall Israel be heirs unto them that were his heirs, saith the LORD f.

e Because the Ammonites had violently seized upon some part of the Jews Land, and (as we have it Amos 1. 13, 14.) cruelly rip up the women with child in Gilead, that they might enlarge their border. God threatens a War to Rabbah, Amos 1. 14. calls it a fire which should make Rabbah an heap. Of this Rabbah, as the head City of the Ammonites, we read, Deut. 3. 11. Jos. 13. 25. and 15. 60. It was there, where in David's time, Uriah was slain, 2 Sam. 11. 1, 17. Chap. 12. 26. It is threatned by Jeremiah in this Chapter, and Ezek. 25. 5. and Amos 1. 13, 14. we read not, how or when this Prophecy was fulfilled, whether by the Maccabees, 1 Mac. 5. 6. or rather after the coming of Christ, when most of these Nations were destroyed. f God threatens not only their metropolis which was Rabbah their Mother City, but all the other Cities belonging to the Ammonites which were as it were Daughters to Rabbah. But how the last clause of this Prophecy was ever fulfilled if it were not in the time of the Maccabees I cannot understand; for though they were swallowed up afterward by the Roman Empire, yet Israel being also subdued by them, and scattered into all parts, it is not likely that many of them were suffered to abide in any considerable numbers in a Country so near their own.

3 Howl, O Heshbon, for Ai is spoiled g, cry ye daughters of Rabbah h, * gird ye with sackcloth: lament, and run to and fro by the hedges i, for their ‖ king shall go into captivity, and * his priests and his princes together k.

‖ Isa. 32. 11. chap. 4. 8. and 6. 26.

‖ Or, Melcom.

* Chap. 48. 7. Amos 1. 15.

g Heshbon was formerly a City of the Amorites of whom Sihon was King who resided here (but it appears by Ver. 26. that it was taken from Moab) it is probable that was at this time a City of Moab; the Prophet calls to them to howl for Ai a City of the Ammonites, not the same mentioned, Jos. 7. 2. for that was on the other side of Jordan. h It is uncertain whether by the daughters of Rabbah be to be understood other lesser Cities, or the younger Women that inhabited Rabbah, he calls to them all to mourn. i And for all the indications or signs of mourning, such as girding with sackcloth, running up and down like Persons distracted, by the Hedges, where they might be hidden, and not so easily seen. k For they shall all go together in captivity, their Melcom which may signifie their Idol to whom they gave that Name or their King, or else their supream Magistrate, with their Priests and Nobles, all orders of Persons.

4 Wherefore glorieſt thou in the vallies, ‖ thy flowing valley l, O backſliding daughter m? that truſted in her treaſures, * ſaying, Who ſhall come unto me n?

‖ Or, thy valley floweth away.

* Chap. 21. 13.

l It should seem that this Countrey was full of very fruitful Valleys, which we know are always the most fertile places, lying lower and at a greater distance from the Sun than Mountains, and also receiving at second hand the moisture that falls upon the Hills, and being usually watered with Rivers, from whence they may be called flowing Vallies either as flowing with receptacles of Water, or plenty of Corn, and Grass, though some read it (and it seems rather more agreeable to the Hebrew) thy Valley floweth, either with the blood of Men slain, or floweth away, the fertility of it ceaseth or decayeth. Or, Floods of waters shall destroy the fruit of thy rich Vallies, &c. m Ammon having never been in Covenant with God, the word in the Heb. (though it comes from שוב which signifies to return) seemeth ill translated back sliding, thou that hast turned thy self away from God. n Thou that truſteſt in thy Riches, or in thy Valleys full of Riches, and promiſeſt thy ſelf ſecurity from the ſituation of thy rich Countrey thinking none could come at thee.

5 Behold, I will bring a fear upon thee, ſaith the Lord GOD of hoſts, from all thoſe that be about thee o, and ye ſhall be driven out every man right forth p, and none ſhall gather up him that wandereth q.

o As ſecure as you think your ſelves, I will cauſe you to be afraid, and your Enemies ſhall be all thoſe that are round about you. p And you ſhall be driven out every Man, either right forth into ſome Country oppoſite to you, or apart one from another, or ſo that you ſhall be glad to flee right forth, and never look back, but only forward, for any place of ſafety that appeareth next before you. q And when you are wandering, being driven by your Enemies you ſhall find none who will be willing to receive or entertain you.

6 And afterward * I will bring again the captivity of the children of Ammon, ſaith the LORD r.

* Chap. 49. 39.

r Such a promiſe we read of Chap. 48. 47. concerning Moab, but when this was fulfilled the Scripture ſaith not: Joſephus tells us ſomething, but it is rather thought to refer to the Converſion of ſome of the Ammonites as well as other Heathens unto Chriſt.

7 ¶ Concerning Edom, thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts a, Is wiſdom no more in Teman b? is counſel periſhed from the prudent? is their wiſdom vaniſhed c?

* Obad. V. 8.

a The Edomites were the Poſterity of Eſau the eldeſt Son of Iſaac, but diſinherited, the Bleſſing being given to his younger Brother Jacob who was the head of the twelve Tribes of the Iſraelites, Gen. 27. 29. God there Ver. 39. promiſed him that he ſhould have a fat, and plentiful Country, though his Brother ſhould be his Lord, and foretold, that he ſhould break his Brother's Yoke from off his Neck; the Land of Seir was his Countrey, Gen. 32. 3. The Edomites coaſted ſouthward upon Canaan, the Iſraelites paſſed by their Coaſts to go into Canaan, their way lay through Edom, but their King refuſing to ſuffer them to go through, God ordered them to go another way. Balaam prophecied their ruine, Numb. 24. 18. they were Enemies to the Iſraelites in Saul's time, 1 Sam. 14. 47. and in David's time, 2 Sam. 8. 14. and in Amaziah's time, 2 Kings 14. 7. who ſlew of them ten thouſand, and took Selah calling it Jokteel, many of the Prophets foretold their ruine, Jeremiah in this place, Ezek. 25. 12, 13, 14. Joel 3. 19. Amos 9. 12. Obadiah 1. 8. Mal. 1. 4. b Teman was a City of Edom mentioned alſo Ezek. 25. 13. Amos 1. 12. Obad. 9. Eliphaz, Job's Friend was of this place, Job 2. 11. It was a place famous for wiſe and prudent Men, of which Eliphaz was not the meaneſt. c The Prophet aſks what was become of all their Counſel and Wiſdom, for which the Arabians, the Temanites in particular, were ſo famous? Now they were at their wits end.

* Obad. Ver. 1.

8 Flee ye ‖, turn back, dwell deep, O inhabitants of Dedan, for I will bring the calamity of Eſau upon him, the time that I will viſit him e.

‖ Or, they are turned back.

d Dedan was the Son of Jokſhan, 1 Chron. 1. 32. from which it is probable that the City Dedan had its Name, it is reckoned Chapter 25. 23. with Tema and Buz, and is mentioned Ezekiel 27. 15, 20. and 38. 13. It was a City of Arabia joyning on Idumaea, Iſa. 21. 13. they being Neighbours to the Edomites are called to flee, and to get into Caves and holes of the Earth, where they might dwell deep in the Earth and be in ſome ſecurity, which they would not be in their own City ſo near to the Edomites Countrey, for God was reſolved to bring miſery upon the Edomites, a time of calamity in which he would viſit them with his Judgments. There are other critical readings of theſe words, but this ſeemeth to be the plain ſence of them.

9 If grape-gatherers come to thee, would they not leave ſome gleaning grapes? if thieves by night, they will deſtroy † till they have enough f.

f We have much the ſame Obadiah 5. the ſcope of the Prophet in this place is only to ſhew that Edom ſhould be totally deſtroyed, their deſtruction ſhould not be like the gleaning of Grapes, where the gatherers content themſelves with taking the principal Cluſters, but for ſingle Grapes, or ſome Cluſters they leave them ſmall: Nor yet like the robbings of Thieves, who take for their hunger, and when they have got enough leave the reſt.

10 But I have made Eſau bare g, I have uncovered his ſecret places h, and he ſhall not be able to hide himſelf i: his ſeed is ſpoiled k, and his brethren and his neighbours, and he is not l.

g But the Edomites ſhould be left bare. h And though they ſought to hide themſelves in ſecret places, yet God would there find them out. i And there ſhould be no places ſufficient to hide them. k All their Children ſhould be deſtroyed l and the Moabites their Kinſmen, and the Philiſtines their Neighbours ſhould be ruined as well as they.

11 Leave thy fatherleſs children, I will preſerve them alive; and let thy widows truſt in me m.

m The only queſtion upon this Verſe is whether in the whole of it, it be a promiſe, or a threatning; if it be a promiſe the ſence is that though this great deſtruction ſhould come upon the Body of the Edomites, yet God would take care of ſome of their fatherleſs Children, whoſe Parents being carried into captivity they had none to provide for them: if it be taken as an ironical threatning it ſoundeth ruine to thoſe as well as the reſt, and I will is as much as I will not; but others think that theſe are rather to be underſtood with the ſupply of ſome other words, There is not, or there ſhall be none to ſay, leave thy fatherleſs Children, &c. and whoſo conſidereth thoſe words in the tenth Verſe, his Seed ſhall be ſpoiled, will ſee reaſon to judge it rather a threatning (whether by way of Irony or no) than a promiſe.

* Chap. 25. 20. Obad. 16.

12 For thus ſaith the LORD, * Behold, they whoſe judgment was not to drink of the cup n, have aſſuredly drunken, and art thou he that ſhalt altogether go unpuniſhed, thou ſhalt not go unpuniſhed, but thou ſhalt ſurely drink of it.

n That by the Cup is meant the Wine Cup of the Lord's Wrath, and that by thoſe whoſe Judgment was not to drink of it, are meant the Jews is not to be doubted; but the Queſtion is how the Prophet ſaith, that it was not the Judgment of the Jews to drink of this Cup? The word here uſed is of ſo various ſignifications as makes the fixing the ſence of it here difficult, it cannot here ſignifie Juſtice, for in that ſence it was the Jews Judgment to drink of it, nor can it here (as it often doth) ſignifie the effect of Juſtice, God's judicial diſpenſation; for they had drank of it, ſo it was their judgment. It muſt be taken in the favourableſt ſence imaginable. Either they who in regard of their relation to God, and God's relation to them might have look'ed upon it as none of their portion, yet have drank of it: Or they who in compariſon with others did not deſerve to drink of the Cup, yet have drank of it, and can you think to eſcape, no thou ſhalt not eſcape, but muſt ſurely drink of it, 1 Pet. 4. 17. The time is come, that judgment is begun at the houſe of God, and if it firſt begin with that where ſhall the end of others be? When an Iſraelite hath not eſcaped the Juſtice of God, an Edomite muſt not expect it.

13 For I have ſworn by my ſelf, ſaith the LORD, that Bozrah ſhall become a deſolation, a reproach, a waſte, and a curſe, and all the cities thereof ſhall be perpetual waſtes o.

o As Men when they would confirm their promiſe or threatning to do any thing, add an Oath to it, ſo doth God, who, having no greater to ſwear by, ſwears by himſelf, Chap. 44. 26. that which God would here confirm was his threatning againſt Edom, expreſt under the notion of Bozrah, (a part for the whole) Bozrah being its principal City, Iſa. 63. 1. as well as a City of Moab, (as we found in the foregoing Chapter) and that which he threatens it with was not being a reproach, a waſte, and a Curſe for a time, but for ever.

14 * I have heard a rumour from the LORD p, and an Ambaſſador is ſent unto the heathen q, ſaying, Gather ye together, and come againſt her, and riſe to the battel r.

* Obad. Ver. 1.

p Obadiah beginneth his Prophecy much with ſuch words, God hath revealed his Will to me in a Viſion, or a Dream. q He ſpeaks after the manner of earthly Princes, who uſe to ſend their Ambaſſadors to other Princes to declare their minds to them. The meaning is, God hath made ſuch impreſſions upon other Nations, he hath inclined them, or ſet them on work, to get together in Armies to come againſt Edom in Battel.

15 For lo, I will make thee ſmall amongſt the heathen, and deſpiſed among men ſ.

ſ Obadiah in his Prophecy againſt Edom, Ver. 2. hath much the ſame words importing that God would bring the Edomites very low, and make them very contemptible.

16 Thy terribleneſs hath deceived thee, and the pride of thy heart t, O thou that dwelleſt in the cleſts of the rock u, that holdeſt the height of the hill; though thou ſhouldeſt make thy neſt as high as the eagle, I will bring thee down from thence, ſaith the LORD w.

t Obadiah in his Prophecy againſt Edom uſeth much the ſame expreſſions, Ver. 3, 4. The word that is here uſed being of the number of thoſe which are but once found in Scripture hath given Interpreters liberty to abound in their ſences of it; ſome tranſlating it Arrogance, ſome, thine Idol, but the beſt Interpreters underſtand by it their terribleneſs to others, their being ſo potent that others were all afraid of them, this deceived them, making them to conclude themſelves ſecure, and out of danger; to which is alſo added the pride of the heart. u The Countrey of Edom being mountainous they are ſaid to dwell in the cleſts of the Rocks, that is, in places impregnable, and inacceſſible as they thought in the heights of the Hill. w But the Lord lets them know no place was to his power inacceſſible or impregnable, for if they dwell as high as the Eagle, which the Scripture tells us, Job 39 27, 28. Maketh her neſt on high, and dwelleth and abideth upon the rock, upon the crag of the rock, yet he would bring them down.

17 Alſo Edom ſhall be a deſolation: every one that goeth by it, ſhall be aſtoniſhed, and ſhall hiſs at all the plagues thereof x.

x The like is ſaid of Babylon, Chap. 50. 13. it appears from 1 Kings 9. 8. that it was a kind of Proverbial expreſſion, when they would expreſs a great deſolation, or great Plagues, that thoſe who paſſed by ſuch a place, ſhould be aſtoniſhed, and hiſs at it.

* Gen. 19. 25. Deut. 29. 23. Amos 4. 11.

18 * As in the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and the neighbour cities thereof, ſaith the LORD: no man ſhall abide there, neither ſhall a ſon of man dwell in it y.

y Sodom and Gomorrah, and the Neighbour Cities were utterly deſtroyed, and therefore are ſet down both here and Chap. 50. 40. as patterns of an utter ruine and deſolation.

* Chap. 50. 44. * Chap. 12. 5.

19 * Behold, he ſhall come up like a lion from the ſwelling of Jordan, againſt the habitation of the ſtrong z: but I will ſuddenly make him run away from her a, and who is a choſen man that I may appoint over her b? for * who is like me c? and who will ‖ appoint me the time? and who is that ſhepherd that will ſtand before me d?

* Exod. 15. 11. Job 41. 10. ‖ Or, commune me in judgment.

z This Verſe is very variouſly interpreted, ſome by he underſtand the Jews, ſome underſtand Nebuchadnezzar, ſome underſtand the Edomites, I think the laſt is moſt probable to be here meant, becauſe of the next words. The Edomites ſhall come out againſt the Chaldeans, like a Lion, as Lions lurking about Jordan when it overfloweth, come out to take their prey. a Theſe words are variouſly underſtood, thoſe who by he in the former part of the Verſe underſtand Nebuchadnezzar, interpret the running here mentioned, of his running over the whole Country of Edom; to me it appeareth a much more probable ſence to interpret it of the Edomites running away from Nebuchadnezzar out of their own Country, which ſeems to be underſtood by her; all that makes a difficulty is the particle from, which yet makes the ſence good enough, if by her we underſtand the Edomites own Land. In the Hebrew it is, I will break them, or I will quiet them, and make them to run. b Whom ſhall I ſet over Edom? Into whoſe hands ſhall I give that Country that he may rule over it? c For I can do whatſoever I pleaſe. d And who will appoint me a time to plead with Men, ſo Job 9. 19 or a time to fight. d What is that King or Potentate of the Earth that will ſtand before me?

20 Therefore hear the counſel of the LORD, that he hath taken againſt Edom, and his purpoſes that he hath purpoſed againſt the inhabitants of Teman e: Surely the leaſt of the flock ſhall draw them out f, ſurely, he ſhall make their habitations deſolate with them g.

e Edom and Teman in this Verſe ſignifie both the ſame thing, God calls to men to hear the reſolutions he had taken up againſt the Edomites, Reſolutions as wiſe and ſteady as if they had been taken upon the wiſeſt counſels, and deliberation. f God is reſolved to drive out the Edomites, and the leaſt of Nebuchadnezzar's Forces ſhall drag them out of their lurking places, and God will make the place where they dwell a deſolation.

21 The earth is moved at the noiſe of their fall: at the cry, the noiſe thereof was heard in the Red-ſea h.

h That is, the ruine of the Edomites ſhall be ſo great, that all Nations round about it ſhall be affected at the noiſe of their fall, and though the Red Sea, or the weedy Sea be at a great diſtance from them, yet their noiſe ſhall reach thither.

22 Behold, * he ſhall come up and flie as the eagle, and ſpread his wings over Bozrah: and at that day ſhall the heart of the mighty men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in her pangs i:

* Chap. 4. 13.

i See the Notes on Chap. 48. 40, 41. where the very ſame thing, and under the ſame Phraſes, was ſpoken againſt Moab. That which is threatned is the Enemies coming ſwiftly upon the Edomites and preying upon them, and the fear that ſhould ſurprize them which ſhould make their hearts faint as the heart of a Woman that hath an hard labour.

23 ¶ * Concerning Damaſcus k. Hamath is confounded, and Arpad l: for they have heard evil tidings, they are † faint-hearted, there is ſorrow ‖ on the ſea, it cannot be quiet m.

* Zech. 9. 1, 2. † Heb. melted. ‖ Or, as on the Sea.

k The Prophet comes to denounce the Judgments of God againſt Syria, another Nation of the Gentiles, Damaſcus was the head City of Syria, Iſa. 7. 8. and 17. 3. or Aram (as in the Heb.) becauſe it was a Country inhabited by the poſterity of Aram one of the Sons of Sem, part of it lay betwixt Babylon and Arabia, and was called Meſopotamia, lying betwixt the two Rivers of Tigris and Euphrates. Laban and Naaman were of this Countrey. David had War with them, 2 Sam. 8. 5. and 10. 18. So had Aſa; 1 King. 20. 20. and Joram 2 Kings 8. 28. And Ahaz Iſa. 7. 2. after God's long patience with them he threatens them with ruine, as by Jeremiah in this place, ſo by Amos 1. 5. Damaſcus being the head of this Country, is ſometimes put (as here) for the whole Countrey. l Hamath and Arpad were two Cities alſo of Syria, 2 Kings 18. 34. m The Prophet foretels that they alſo ſhould hear of ill News, an Enemy that is coming againſt them, and that they ſhould be melted through fear, and their courage ſhould fail them, they ſhould be as troubled as the Sea is in a Storm, or their Inhabitants that lived near to the Sea ſhould be troubled.

24 n Damaſcus is waxed feeble, and turneth her ſelf to flee o, and fear hath ſeized on her p: * anguiſh and ſorrows have taken her, as a woman in travail q.

* Chap. 4. 31. and 30. 6.

n Syria whoſe head is Damaſcus, hath loſt her old courage and valour; it was wont to be a formidable Country to its Neighbours. o But now they flee before their Enemies. p They are ſeized, and overpowred by their own fears. q Great ſorrows are ordinarily in Scripture expreſſed by the ſimilitude of the pains of a Woman in Travail, we have met with it often in this Prophecy, Chap. 6. 24. and 22. 23. ſo Pſal. 48. 6. Micah 4. 9.

25 How is the city of praiſe not left, the city of my joy r?

r It is called the City of praiſe, becauſe it was a City ſo much praiſed, a City of great renown, which the Prophet ſeeing like to be deſtroyed, lamenteth either in the Perſon of the King of Syria, or of the Syrian Inhabitants, wondering that the Conqueroure should not spare so famous and renowned a City in which so many did rejoyce.

* Chap 50. 30. 25 * Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets, and all the men of war shall be cut off in that day, saith the LORD of hosts f.

f The Hebrew Particles are not always well rendred in our Translation, and our Learned English Annotator hath rightly observed this place, as one instance; for כי cannot be here an illative, but is much better translated surely as a note of assertion. God threateneth the Syrians with a certain ruine, and desolation.

27 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus t, and it shall consume the palaces of Benhadad u.

t I will bring a Judgment that shall burn in Damascus like a consuming Fire, u and it shall reach to the Royal Seat of Benhadad, either that which was the Royal Seat of Benhadad, 2 Kings 8. 7. or else Ben-hadad, (signifying the Son of Hadad) (which was their Idol) was the common Name of all the Kings of Syria, as Pharaoh was to the Kings of Egypt, Amos 1. 4.

28 ¶ Concerning Kedar w, and concerning the kingdoms of Hazor x, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon shall smite, thus saith the LORD y, Arise ye, go up to Kedar, and spoil the men of the east z.

w Kedar, Gen. 25. 13. was one of the Sons of Ishmael, whose Posterity inhabited part of Arabia Petræa. See Isa. 21. 13, 17. We read of it, Psal. 120. 5. Cant. 1. 5. Ezek. 27. 21. x We read of Hazor, Josh. 11. 1. Verse 10. it was the head City to several Kingdoms in Joshua's time, Jabin was King of it in the times of Deborah, Judg. 4. 2. y The Prophet foretels that Nebuchadnezzar should also conquer these Kingdoms. z And saith he heard the Lord call to Nebuchadnezzar to go up against them.

29 Their tents and their flocks shall they take away a, they shall take to themselves their curtains and all their vessels, and their camels b, and they shall cry unto them, Fear is an every side c.

a That is, the Chaldeans shall take away the Kedarens Tents, for they being a People whose Cattel were their livelyhood, had no fixed Houses but Tents, which were moveable Habitations, covered with Skins of Beasts. b And the Curtains which they used to draw before those Tents, and ferved them as sides, as gable ends of Houses serve us, and all the Furniture of their Tents or Tabernacles, and their Cattel, and either their Enemies should fright them with terrible noises and outcries, or they should themselves cry out that they were surrounded with objects of fear.

† Heb. fle greatly. 30 ¶ Flee, † get you far off, dwell deep, O ye inhabitants of Hazor, saith the LORD d; for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath taken counsel against you, and hath conceived a purpose against you e.

d The words seem to be the Prophet's words of advice to this People, to make all the haste they could away, and to secure themselves as well as they could, because the King of Babylon had certainly been taking counsel against them, and was resolved to disturb them. See Ver. 8. where the like counsel is given to the Edomites.

‖ Or, the nation that is at ease. 31 Arise, get you up to the ‖ wealthy nation that dwelleth without care, saith the LORD, which have neither gates nor bars, which dwell alone f.

f The supposed result of Nebuchadnezzar's Counsels, giving charge to his Armies to march against the Kedarens, which lived at ease and quiet, and took no care. That had no Cities, nor Gates, nor Bars to keep their Enemies out, nor were near any Neighbours that could assist them, nor very near to one another living in Tents, so might easily be over-run, and conquered, and made a prey to Enemies.

* Chap. 9 26. and 25. 23. 32 And their Camels shall be a booty, and the multitude of their cattel a spoil g, and I will scatter into all winds * them that are † in the utmost corners, and I will bring their calamity, from all sides thereof, saith the LORD h.

† Heb. cut off into corners, or, that have the corners of their hair polled.

g These words sound like a part of the King of Babylon's supposed Speech incouraging his Soldiers from the Booty they should get, which should be a great multitude of Camels and other Cattel. h The latter words are the words of the Prophet, in the Name of the Lord, threatning ruine to these Kedarens and Hazorites, tho they lived in corners, and might upon that account think themselves secure; God saith, he would fetch them out of their utmost corners, and bring calamity from all parts upon them.

* Chap 10. 22. 33 And Hazor * shall be a dwelling for dragons, and a desolation for ever; there shall no man abide there, nor any son of man dwell in it i.

i That is, the whole Countrey subject to the King of Hazor shall be desolate. See Isa. 34. 13. Chap. 9. 11.

* Chap. 25. 25. 34 ¶ The word of the LORD, that came to Jeremiah the prophet against * Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying, k.

k Elam was the Son of Sem, Gen. 10 22. his posterity were called Elamites, these were the Persians as is most probable, tho' some judge that the Persians were at too great a distance from the Jews to be the People meant here, but we read of no other Elam in Scripture but in Persia, Dan. 8. 2. and though they were indeed at a great distance, yet it is probable that Nebuchadnezzar having conquered the Assyrians, might also make some inroads into Persia, the Emperour of which afterward conquered Babylon. This Prophecy being in the first Year of Zedekiah must needs be long before the thing was done, for it was ten Years before the King of Babylon took Hierusalem.

35 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, the chief of their might b.

b All those Eastern People were famous for the use of the Bow, the Elamites in special, Isaiah 22. 6. those Bows were the chief of their offensive Armour, tho by the chief of their might may also be meant their most mighty and strong Warriours. This Prophecy is probably judged to be fulfilled when the Persians made a defection from the King of the Medes, who was Son-in-Law to Nebuchadnezzar. Others think that this Prophecy was accomplished by Alexander the Emperour of Greece, or rather by his Successors.

36 And upon Elam will I bring the four winds, from the four quarters of heaven, and will scatter them towards all those winds; and there shall be no nation whither the outcasts of Elam shall not come c.

c The Prophet threateneth the destruction of the Persians, by a Confederacy of Enemies, suppose Babylonians, Medes, &c. which should assault them on all sides, as when the Wind blows at the same time from all Quarters, which causeth a Whirlwind which driveth the Dust every way hither, and thither, so he saith the Persians should be scattered into all Nations.

37 For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies, and before them that seek their life: and I will bring evil upon them, even my fierce anger, saith the LORD, and I will send the sword after them, till I have consumed them d.

d We met with the like threatnings, Ver. 5, 24, 29. as to fear and as to their destruction we have often met with the like threatnings.

38 And I will set my throne in Elam e, and will destroy from thence the king and the princes, saith the LORD f.

e God here calls the Throne of Nebuchadnezzar, or Cyrus, or Alexander (whoever he was that conquered the Persians) his Throne. 1. Because God gave it the Conquerour. 2. Or, because God shewed himself the Lord of hosts, or the Lord of the whole Earth, by disposing the Kingdom of Persia at his pleasure. f He doth not threaten the destruction of the whole Nation, but the making of it all Tributary, so as it should have no Kings nor Princes of its own.

39 ¶ But it shall come to pass in the latter days, that I will bring again the captivity of Elam, saith the LORD g.

g We had the like promise as to Moab, Chap. 48. 47. and as to Ammon, Ver. 6. the same latter days either signifie after many days, or in the time of the Messias. In the former sence it may refer to Cyrus, who conquered Persia. In the latter sence it is referred to the spiritual liberty which some of these poor Heathens were brought into by the Gospel. We read Act. 2. 9. that some of these Elamites were at Hierusalem at Pentecost, and were some of those converted to Christ.

CHAP. L.

The Judgment of Babel, and the Land of Chaldea, for their Idolatry, Tyranny and Pride; with gracious Promises of the Redemption of Israel intermixed, Verse 4, 5, 19, 20, 34.

1 THE word that the LORD spake * against Babylon, and against the land of the Chaldeans † by Jeremiah the prophet a. * Isa 13 1. and 21 1. and 47. 1.

† Heb. by the hand of Jeremiah.

a The Prophet having from the 46th. Chapter been denouncing the Judgments of God against the other Gentiles, the Egyptians, Moabites, Philistines, Ammonites, Edomites, Syrians, Kedarens, Hazorites, Elamites, or Persians (the most of which had been Enemies to the Jews) in these two Chapters he denounceth God's Judgments against the Chaldeans and Babylonians. These were to execute God's Vengeance on all the rest, and therefore are themselves threatned in the last place to be destroyed by the Medes; the Prophecy against them, is mixed with many gracious promises to the Jews.

2 Declare ye among the nations, and publish, and † set up a standard, publish, and conceal not b: say, Babylon is taken, * Bel is confounded c, Merodach is broken in pieces, her idols are confounded, her images are broken in pieces d.

† Heb. lift up. * Chap. 51. 44.

b The Prophet calls to Men to publish it amongst other Nations, and to set up a Standard to make some signal, to gather all People together to hear what he had to say from God against Babylon, which had been an instrument of great mischief unto most People that lived about them, to whom it would therefore be glad and joyful News to hear that Babylon their common Enemy was ruined. c That by Bel and Merodach are meant two principal Idols of the Babylonians, most think; but what, is not so well agreed. Some think that Bel is Baal by contradiction, but they judge most probably, who think it was the image of one Belus, who was formerly a King of Babylon, and they judge the like of Merodach; we find in Scripture that Merodach was some of their Kings Names, Isa. 39 1. Chap. 52 31. those who desire to be further satisfied about these Idols, may read the English Annotations upon Isa. 46 1. and our Annotations upon that Verse. It was an ordinary practice amongst the Heathens when they had any Princes died, that had been famous in their Government, to pay a Divine Homage to their Images and Statues. These Idols are said to be confounded, d Esther because they should not be able at this pinch to help their Supplants, or because they should be destroyed together with the silly People that adored them.

3 For out of the north there cometh up a nation against her e, which shall make her land desolate, and none shall dwell therein: they shall remove, they shall depart both man and beast f.

e From Media which lay Northward to Babylon and Assyria through which Cyrus his way to Babylon lay. f This Prophecy seemeth not to relate only to Cyrus his first taking of Babylon, who dealt very gently with it, but to a second taking of it by Darius the King of the Medes, who upon their defection from the Persian Monarchy, came and made an horrible devastation amongst them, hanging up (as some tell us) four thousand of their Nobles and slaying multitudes of the common People; or of the mischief done them afterward by Seleucus Nicanor, who is said to have built a City, which he called Seleucia, within fourscore, and Ten Miles of Babylon, by which means he brought Babylon to an utter desolation.

4 ¶ In those days, and in that time, saith the LORD, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Judah together, going and weeping g: they shall go and seek the LORD their God h.

g In the days wherein God shall begin to execute judgment upon Babylon, (which was in the time of Cyrus Emperour of the Medes) the Children of Judah shall come out of Captivity, and some of the Children of Israel (viz. those of the Ten Tribes) hearing that their Brethren were gone out of the Captivity of Babylon, shall go up also from the several places into which they were disposed by the Assyrians: Weeping either for sorrow in the sence of their sins which had brought the miseries of Captivity upon them, or for joy that God ever should shew them such a Mercy as to bring them home again into their own Country. h And those that feared God, whether of the Ten Tribes, or of the Kingdom of Judah, worshipped God at Jerusalem, after their old accustomed manner.

5 They shall ask the way to Zion with their faces thitherward, saying i, Come and let us joyn our selves to the LORD in a perpetual covenant, that shall never be forgotten k.

i That is, those of Judah and Israel that fear the Lord shall seriously and steadily seek the true God, and the true way of his Worship. k And, being sensible that they had broken the Covenant which their Fathers had formerly made with God, with a desire to renew their Covenant, and that not for a time, but for ever. See Chap. 31. 31. The only question is, Whether this promise be yet accomplished or no, or when it was, or shall be fulfilled? Answ. it was without doubt in a great measure fulfilled upon the Jews coming out of the Captivity of Babylon, when those of the Kingdom of Judah returned to Jerusalem, and were very zealous for restoring the true Worship of God, and renewed their Covenant with God, (as we read in the Books of Ezra and Nehemiah) but Mr. Calvin thinks it was more eminently fulfilled under the Kingdom of the Messiah, when though many believed not, yet many others did believe, and were added to the Church, and whether a further fulfilling of it be not yet to come, time must shew.

6 My people hath been lost sheep l, their shepherds have caused them to go astray m, they have turned them away on the mountains n: they have gone from mountain to hill o, they have forgotten their † resting place p.

† Heb. place to lie down in.

l All Men are compared to Sheep that go astray, Isa. 53. 6. here it is applied to the Jews who are called the Lord's People by reason of the ancient Covenant God made with their Fathers: They are said to be lost, either with respect to their Captivity being cast out of the Land which God gave them for Pastures, or in respect of their Idolatry. m Their Civil and Ecclesiastical Governours have been a cause of it. The former by their wicked Commands forcing them to Idolatry and Superstition, or at least by their wicked Example setting them an Example, and by their ill government conniving at them in their Idolatrous Practices, for which they are gone into Captivity. Their Priests, and Ecclesiastical Governors, teaching them such practices and incouraging them by their own Examples, and promising them impunity, and security in them. n Either they have been a cause of their offering Sacrifices to Idols upon the Mountains, or of their being carried into Captivity over the Mountains. o Either wandring up and down in a strange Land, or in their way thither, or running from one species of Idolatry to another. p They have forgotten the Land of Canaan which I gave them for a resting place after their toilsom Travel in the Wilderness, or (as some would have it) they have forgotten we who am their rest.

7 All that found them have devoured them q, and their adversaries said, We offend not, because they have sinned against the LORD r, the habitation of justice s, even the LORD, the hope of their fathers t.

q As they be in the condition of lost Sheep, so they have been under the fate of lost Sheep, which every Dog, Fox, Wolf devours. r And those that are their Enemies have pretended that in destroying them they have done no ill, because they had sinned, to as the sins of the Jews did both expose them to the Wrath of God, and also emboldened their Enemies, and encouraged them to think that they did God Service in destroying them. s The habitation of Justice. Some think this is a Name here given to God, who indeed is the habitation of Justice, but whether the Chaldeans would call him so may be a question. Others therefore think the preposition in is understood, making this the aggravation of the Jews sins, that they were committed in a Land which ought to have been an habitation of Justice, as Isa. 26. 10. it is said that the wicked Man in a land of uprightness will deal unjustly. Mr. Calvin hath another notion, viz. That the Prophet here incourageth himself against what the Adversaries had promised themselves because the People had offended God: viz. that notwithstanding this, God was a righteous God, in whom Justice dwelt, and who would be faithful to his Promises. t And he was their hope, and had been he in whom their Fathers before them had hoped, and that not in vain.

8 Remove out of the midst of Babylon u, and go forth out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be as the he-goats before the flocks.

u These words immediately following the other, confirm Mr. Calvin's notion. God by his Prophet commanding his People to remove out of Babylon, and to go forth cheartully and skipping like the He-goats of the Flock leading the way, and setting an Example unto others. We find much such a Call, Isa. 48. 20. Chap. 51. 6. which is applied to Spiritual Babylon, Rev. 18. 4. where the coming out is to be understood of a separation from them as to any Religious Communion, which also was their Duty as to old Babylon, but that is not the coming out here spoken of.

9 ¶ For lo, I will raise and cause to come up against Babylon, an assembly of great nations from the north-country, and they shall set themselves in array against her w, from thence she shall be taken: their arrows shall be as of a mighty ‖ expert man: none shall return in vain.

w He means the Medes and Persians (as it is expounded afterward) x I will so direct their Arrows, that every Arrow they shoot shall pierce one or other. Or, (as some rather chuse to interpret it) no Soldier of that assembly of great Nations, that shall come up against Babylon shall return without some Booty or other. The reason of the different reading noted in the Margent, is the difference of a point in the Heb. which if set on the right side of the Letter, the word signifieth a destroyer: if on the left side, an expert man as we translate it.

10 And Chaldea shall be a spoil: all that spoil her shall be satisfied, saith the LORD x.

x Satisfied with spoil and plunder, for Babylon and Chaldea was at that time one of the richest places in those parts of the World. She was abundant in treasure, Chap. 51. 13.

11 Because ye were glad, because ye rejoyced x, O ye destroyers of mine heritage y, because ye are grown † fat, as the heifer at grass, and ‖ bellow as bulls z.

† Heb. big, or corpulent. ‖ Or. neigh as steeds.

x They rejoyced at the ruine of the Jews, the same thing is laid to the charge of the Edomites, Obadiah 12. The Chaldeans were God's Rod to scourge the Jews; but when Men are made use of by God, as his Rod and Scourge, they ought not to put off Humanity, but to behave themselves decently, and as Persons that are sensible of the miseries which their Brethren suffer. y God calls them his Heritage, because they formerly were a People whom he owned above all other People. z There is some difference amongst critical Interpreters, whether the Heifer here mentioned be to be understood of a Heifer at Grass (as we translate it) or an Heifer used to tread out the Corn; or whether the last words be to be understood of a Horse neighing, (as the words may be interpreted) or a Bull bellowing. But these are things of very small moment. The cause for which Babylon is threatned, was doubtless their Luxury of all sorts commonly attending great Wealth, and Prosperity meeting with hearts unsanctified.

12 Your mother shall be sore confounded, she that bare you shall be ashamed a: behold, the hindermost of the nations b shall be a wilderness, a dry land, and a desart.

a Your chief City Babylon, or your Country, which is the common Mother of all the Chaldeans shall be destroyed, or shall be ashamed of you, who are not able to defend her. b The fence here seems a little difficult, because it appears no such strange thing that the hindermost of the Nations should be a Wilderness. It is therefore probable that the words shall be, are to be understood before the hindermost of the Nations, our Translation supplieth them after, to the reading will be, it shall be the hindermost of the nations, a wilderness, &c. That is, Babylon, that hath been so famous, and accounted the head of the Nations, shall become the meanest of all Nations, a meer Wilderness, and a dry Land, and a Desart.

13 Because of the wrath of the LORD, it shall not be inhabited, but it shall be wholly desolate c: every one that goeth by Babylon, shall be astonished, and hiss at all her plagues d.

c The same thing was threatned against Babylon, Isa. 13. 20. It shall never be inhabited, neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation. d It seemeth to be a proverbial Speech made use of to expresse the miserable state of a place; we had it before, Chap. 49. 17. applyed to Edom. It is according to the threatning, Deut. 28. 37. See Chap. 25. 9, 11. and 29. 18. and 42. 18. Ezek. 5. 15.

14 Put your selves in array against Babylon round about e: all ye that bend the bow, shoot at her, spare no arrows f: for she hath sinned against the LORD g.

e The Prophet calls to the Medes and Persians, with those who should come with them to their assistance, to put themselves in Military order ready to come up against Babylon. f The Persians (as was noted before) were very famous for the Bow, therefore he speaketh unto them as an Army of Archers, to shoot at the Babylonians, and to spare no Arrows. g Because Babylon had sinned against the Lord exceedingly, as Gen. 13. 13. by their Idolatry, Luxury, and cruel usage of the Jews, &c.

15 Shout against her round about h: she hath given her hand i: her foundations are faln, her walls are thrown down k: * for it is the vengeance of the LORD l: take vengeance upon her; as she hath done, do unto her m.

* Chap. 51. 6, 11. Rev. 18. 6.

h Either as Soldiers use to shout when they fall upon their Enemy, or as they use to shout and triumph when they are entred a City, or when their Enemies fly. i Either acknowledging themselves overcome, and yielding themselves to the power of their Enemies, or as some think confederating with the Lydians, but the former is more probable. k That is, she is wholly subdued and conquered, as if her Walls were thrown down, for literally her Walls were not beaten down by Cyrus, for he took the City by surprize / God is he who brings this Vengeance upon Babylon, though it be by your hands. m It is very observable, that there is hardly any sins which the Lord so ordinarily punisheth in the like kind, as those which are offences against the Laws of Justice and Charity. The common fate of cruel and uncharitable Men, is to meet with others to do to them, as they have done to others, unmerciful Men find no mercy. See Psal. 137. 8, 9. Judg. 1. 6, 7. Adoni Bezek acknowledged God's Justice in it.

16 Cut off the sower from Babylon, and him that handleth the ‖ sickle in the time of harvest n: for fear of the oppressing sword, they shall turn every one to his people, and they shall flee every one to his own land o.

n We are told that Babylon was so large a City, that within the Walls of it there was much plowed ground: or else the threatning imports that God would deal more severely with Babylon, than Conquerors use to do with places which they Conquer, who use to spare and leave behind them, Plowmen, and such as use to Till the ground, but in the destruction of Babylon, it should not be so. o He speaks either of such Strangers as for Commerce had their Abodes in Babylon, or such Assistants as the Babylonians had gotten against their Enemies, who upon the coming in of the Enemies should make as much haste home as they could.

17 ¶ Israel is a scattered sheep p, the lions have driven him away q, first the king of Assyria hath devoured him r, and last this Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath broken his bones.

p By Israel is here meant the whole Twelve Tribes (tho sometimes it signifieth the Ten Tribes in opposition to Judah) they were all wander ng Sheep, they became penally scattered Sheep. q Enemies as fierce and cruel as Lions, had seized them, and carried them into Captivity. r First the King of Assyria devoured the Ten Tribes which were strictly call'd Israel, 2 Kings 17. 6. Then Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon took Jerusalem as we heard Chap. 39. and carried away the People, and burnt the Temple, which the Prophet here calls a breaking of his bones.

18 Therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will punish the king of Babylon, and his land r, as I have punished the king of Assyria s.

r God may justly punish those who do the things which he hath commanded them to do, if they do it not in that manner which he directeth, or, if what they do, be not done in obedience to his Command, but in satisfaction to their own Lusts, which was the case of the Assyrians, Isa. 10. 7. s Some refer this to the punishment of the Assyrians in the destruction of Senacherib and his Army in the time of Hezekiah, but the Prophet seemeth here to speak of a destruction of Assyria, which followed after his devouring of the Ten Tribes, from whence we may conclude, that Assyria was destroyed before the time of this Revelation.

19 And I will bring Israel again to his habitation t, and he shall feed on Carmel and Bashan, and his soul shall be satisfied upon mount Ephraim and Gilead u.

t This must be understood of Judah, which was part of that People who were called Israel, for to this day we have neither read nor heard of the Ten Tribes being brought back again to their habitation. u The only difficulty in how it is said that the Jews upon their return should feed upon Carmel and Bashan, and Mount Ephraim and Gilead, which were places that belong'd not to the Tribes of Judah and Benjamin; to which it is answered, that these places were granted to the Jews by Demetrius the Father and the Son, as we are told by Josephus, l. 13 c. 5. 8. These places were rich Grounds for feeding Cattel, therefore it is said they shall feed on Carmel and Bashan, &c.

20 In those days, and in that time, saith the LORD, the iniquity of Israel shall be sought for, and there shall be none: and the sins of Judah, and they shall not be found w, for I will pardon them whom I reserve x.

w Some here restrain the term iniquity to the idolatry of the Jews, which indeed was their great sin, which God did more especially punish them for, and after the Captivity of Babylon, we do not read of their offending in that kind, which was according to the Prophecy of Isaiah, Isa. 27. 9. that when God should make the Stones of the Altar as Chalk-stones that are beaten asunder, the Groves and the Images should not stand up. x But the last words seem to guide us to a larger fence of the term iniquity, and to point us to another fence of the whole former phrase, viz. That God would no longer punish the sins of the Jews, they should be sought for as to punishment, and not found. And those words and none must be understood as if none, they shall be punished no more than if they had none. x For as to those whom I save from the Captivity of Babylon, I will pardon them, not that they were all excused from the obligation their sins laid them under as to Eternal Death, but that their Temporal punishment was remitted to the whole Body of the Jews; and those that were truly penitent also, should be discharged from their obligation to Eternal Death. The obligation that sin layeth the sinner under to Eternal Death may be remitted, and yet the temporal punishment due to them may remain, 2 Sam. 12. 13, 14, &c. And on the other side the punishment in this Life, may be suspended or remitted, and the obligation, sin layeth the sinner under to Eternal death, may remain.

21 ¶ Go up against the land of ‖ Merathaim y, even against it, and against the inhabitants of ‖ Pekod y, waste and utterly destroy after them, saith the LORD, and do according to all that I have commanded thee z.

‖ Or, of the Rulers, or Rebels. ‖ Or, Visitation.

y There is some Disputes amongst Interpreters, Whether the words here Merathaim and Pekod be to be taken as common Nouns, the one signifying Rebels or Rulers, the other Visitation, because the Chaldeans were Rebels against the Lord, and were great Rulers over all the contiguous Nations: Or whether they be proper Names of some Places which Cyrus passed by, or, it may be, took in, and conquered in his way to Babylon. z The latter are God's Words by his Prophet, like the former commanding him with his Armies to go up, and destroy them flying away, or them that should succeed after them, their whole Posterity; intimating God's design utterly to destroy them, which destruction was gently begun by Cyrus, and perfected by Darius.

22 A sound of battel is in the land, and of great destruction a.

a That is in the Land of Chaldea.

23 How is the * hammer of the whole earth cut asunder and broken? how is Babylon become a desolation among the nations b?

* Chap. 51. 20.

b The latter part of the Verse expounds the former, God had made the Babylonians his Hammer, to break other Nations in pieces, now it was it self broken; the Particle how may be understood either as expressing triumph and rejoycing, or admiration, or as inquiring how such a thing could be in the last fence. The next Verse is an answer to this.

24 I have laid a snare for thee, and thou art also taken, O Babylon, and thou wast not aware, thou art found, and also caught c, because thou hast striven against the LORD d.

c We are told that Cyrus with his great Army diverted the River Euphrates, so as his Army passed over and surprized the City so suddenly that those in the midst of it, did not know it when part of the City was already taken. God directed Cyrus to this Stratagem for the taking of the City, which the Prophet calls a snare, wherein the Babylonians were taken. d The reason of this unexpected ruine to this great People was their sinning against the Lord, Verse 14. which is here call'd a striving against him, as indeed all sin is.

25 The LORD hath opened his armoury, and hath brought forth the weapons of his indignation: for this is the work of the LORD God of hosts, in the land of the Chaldeans e.

e Babylon was so rich, and potent a Nation, and had been so great a Conqueror, that People looking only with the eye of sense, and judging according to probabilities in the Eyes of Men, might well ask how these things could possibly be? To which the Prophet here answereth, That the hand of God was to be eyed in the case, this was the Lord's Work upon the Chaldeans; God had opened his Armoury, and the Medes were to make use of the Weapons of his indignation. He who threatned this destruction was able to carry it through, and it was no great matter what Weapons either the Babylonians had to defend themselves, or the Medes to offend them, God's power and strength was only to be regarded.

26 Come against her † from the utmost border f, open her store-houses g: ‖ cast her up as heaps h, and destroy her utterly: let nothing of her be left.

† Heb. from the end. ‖ Or, tread her.

f The Prophet in the Name of God calleth to the Enemies of Babylon, the Medes, to come up, from the furthest parts of their Dominions, or from all parts, to fight against Babylon. g To open the Granaries, or Store-houses, or Treasuries of the Babylonians. h And to cast up the Cities as heaps of Rubbish, and utterly to destroy the City, with such a total destruction that nothing of it should be left.

27 Slay all her bullocks: let them go down to the slaughter g: wo unto them, for their day is come, the time of their visitation.

g By Bullocks in this place Interpreters generally understand the great and rich Men of Babylon.

28 The voice of them that flee and escape out of the land of Babylon * to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, the vengeance of his temple h.

* Chap. 51. 10, 11.

h The Prophet here, brings in the poor Jews that had been Captives in Babylon going back upon Cyrus his Proclamation of Liberty, towards Zion there joyfully to declare the Revenge which their God had taken for them, and for his Holy Temple, which the Chaldeans had burnt and destroyed.

29 Call together the archers against Babylon: all ye that bend the bow, camp against it round about; let none thereof escape, recompense her according to her work; according to all that she hath done, do unto her: for she hath been proud against the LORD, against the holy One of Israel k.

i The word translated Archers, signifieth also many, and is by divers so translated, but the following words more justifie our Translation. k The cause of God's calling for Babylon's Enemies against her, is assigned to be her Pride against the Lord.

30 Therefore shall her young men fall in the streets, and all her men of war shall be cut off in that day l, saith the LORD.

l See Chap. 49. 26. where we met with the same words.

31 Behold, I am against thee, O thou † most proud, saith the LORD God of hosts, for thy day is come, the time that I will visit thee m.

m Babylon is particularly branded for Pride, which is the swelling of a Man's Heart in a self-opinion, caused from some thing wherein he excelleth, or thinks that he excelleth another. We have a large account of the Pride of Babylon, Isa. 14. 12, 13, 14. and particularly of one of their Kings, Dan. 5. 20, 21. The sinner exalteth himself against God, and either judgeth himself wiser, or more mighty than he.

32 And the † most proud shall stumble and fall, and none shall raise him up: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it shall devour all round about him n.

n Babylon before called the most Proud, here Pride in the abstract (which speaketh this People excessively faulty in this thing) shall fall, and so fall, as never more to be recovered and raised up.

33 ¶ Thus saith the LORD of hosts, The children of Israel and the children of Judah were oppressed together o, and all that took them captives held them fast, they refused to let them go p.

o Not together in respect of times, for there was 150 years difference betwixt the time of Israel's and Judah's Captivity; nor by the same Enemy, Israel was carried away Captive by the Assyrians, Judah, by the Chaldeans. Together in this place signifies no more than that they were both oppressed, or alike oppressed. p And some may think that my Prophecies are but Flatteries, and pain words, for those who have them in their hands are able to keep them, and will not be willing to let them go.

34 Their redeemer is strong, the LORD of hosts is his name q, he shall throughly plead their cause r, that he may give rest to the land, and disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon s.

q The Lord whose Name is the Lord of Hosts, is he that is their Avenger: (for so the word signifies) and he is as strong as any of those that hold them fast, and will not let them go. r He will plead their cause, not like a Lawyer, but actually, and really effect it, as pleading is often taken, as Chap. 25. 31. Ezek. 17. 20. Joel 3. 2. s These are the two ends which God aimeth at, to give his People rest, and to punish Babylon.

35 ¶ A sword is † upon the Chaldeans, saith the LORD, and upon the inhabitants of Babylon, and upon her princes, and upon her wise men.

† That is, there shall come a Sword, the Sword of the Medes, upon Babylon, and all the Land of the Chaldeans, and all Orders of Persons in it.

36 A sword is upon the ‖ † liars, and they shall dote u: a sword is upon her mighty men, and they shall be dismayed w.

u The word here translated Liars, is by some translated barrs, by some liars; and in the Hebrew it hath both significations; which makes some think it is to be understood of the chief Men who are the Props, Stays and Bars of a place whose Wisdom God threatens should fail them, so as they should do, and shew themselves Fools. Others Translating it liars as we do, understand it of their Southsayers and Wizzards whom he calls liars, because they divined false, and saith they should dote, not foreseeing what should be. w And though they were full of valiant mighty Men, yet their hearts should fail them when this day came, and all be destroyed amongst the rest.

37 A sword is upon their horses, and upon their chariots x, and upon all the mingled people that are in the midst of her y, and they shall become * as women y, a sword is upon her treasures, and they shall be robbed z.

* Na. 3. 13. Isa. 13 15. Chap. 46. 21.

x Though they be full of Chariots and Horses, the Enemy shall destroy them. y By the mingled People some understand those whom the Babylonians had hired to their Assistance from other Nations, others, such strangers as lived amongst them; others a People under the power of the Chaldeans, made up of People of several Countries. See Chap. 25. 20, 24. Ezek. 30. 5. they seem to signifie a People that were not Native Chaldeans, but under their Dominion. y That is, faint-hearted. z And though Babylon hath great Treasures, yet those shall not escape her, she shall be robbed of them.

38 * A drought is upon her waters, and they shall be dried up a, for it is the land of graven images, and they are mad upon their idols b.

* Chap. 51. 32, 36.

a Some think that this Phrase hath a special reference to Cyrus his Stratagem used in the surprize of Babylon; one part of it was fortified by the great River Euphrates, running out one side, which Cyrus diverted by cutting several Channels, till he had drained it so low, that it became passable for his Army to go over: Others think that a want of Rain is here threatned. b God gives the reason of this Judgment which was their Idolatry, and exceeding mad for it.

39 Therefore * the wild beasts of the desert with the wild beasts of the islands shall dwell there, and the owls shall dwell therein: and it shall be no more inhabited for ever: neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation.

* Isa. 13. 21, 22. & 34. 14. Chap. 50. 39. Rev. 18. 2.

40 * As God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and the neighbour cities thereof, saith the LORD: so shall no man abide there, neither shall any son of man dwell therein.

* Gen. 19. Isa. 13. 19. Chap. 49. 18.

c The substance of both these Verses is, that Babylon should be totally ruined, as Sodom and Gomorrah, so as there should be no Inhabitations for Men, but wild Beasts only of all sorts should inhabit and lodge in it. The fulfilling of this we have not in holy Writ, only the beginning of it accomplishment, it being taken by Cyrus who only made them Tributaries, and took away their Government. But they rebelling against the Emperour of the Medes, Darius Hystaspis a succeeding Emperour pulled down their Walls. And about 250 Years after Xerxes Nicanor, a Grecian Prince, the Medes being before conquered by Alexander the Great, utterly destroyed Babylon, so as in the time of Hadrian the Roman Emperour, there was nothing left standing of that great City but some pieces of Walls.

41 * Behold, a people shall come from the north, and a great nation, and many kings shall be raised up from the coasts of the earth d.

* Chap. 6. 22.

d The Medes and Persians with their Armies, who shall also have many other Kings, who from the several parts of the earth shall joyn with them and help them.

42 They shall hold the bow and the lance e: they are cruel and will not shew mercy f: * their voice shall roar like the seas, and they shall ride upon horses, every one put in array like a man to the battel, against thee, O daughter of Babylon g.

* Isa. 5. 30.

e These were the two usual weapons of Soldiers in those Countries, Chap. 6. 23. f The Persians were a cruel bloody People. g These Phrases signifie no more, than that the Enemies should come upon Babylon in a terrible manner, and prepared to destroy them.

43 The king of Babylon hath heard the report of them, and his hands waxed feeble: * anguish took hold on him, and pangs as of a woman in travail h.

h The Medes shall not be more prepared to destroy the Babylonians, than they shall be unprepared to make any resistance: as God will animate their Enemies, so he will dispirit them, so as they shall faint upon the Report of their coming, and be like a Woman upon whom strong pangs of Travail are.

44 Behold, he shall come up * like a lion from the swelling of Jordan, unto the habitation of the strong: but I will make them suddenly run away from her, and who is a chosen man that I may appoint over her? for who is like me? and who will ‖ appoint me the time? and who is that shepherd that will stand before me?

* Job 41. 10. ‖ Or, command me to plead.

45 Therefore hear ye the counsel of the LORD, that he hath taken against Babylon, and his purposes, that he hath purposed against the land of the Chaldeans: surely the least of the flock shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitation desolate with them i.

i See the Notes on Chap. 49. 19. where we have applied unto Edom all that is here spoken against Babylon.

46 At the noise of the taking of Babylon the earth is moved, and the cry is heard among the nations k.

k We have much the same spoken with reference to Edom, 49 20. The words are only expressive of the greatness of the destruction of Babylon, which should be such as should make all that part of the World shake, and the noise of it would ring throughout all the Nations in that part of the Earth.

CHAP. LI.

The severe Judgment of God against Voluptuous, Covetous, Tyrannical and Idolatrous Babel, in the Revenge, and for the Redemption of Israel. 1.—58. Jeremiah delivereth the Book of this Prophecy to Seraiah, to be cast into Euphrates, in token of the perpetual sinking of Babylon, 59.—64.

1 THus saith the LORD, Behold, I will raise up against Babylon, and against them that dwell in † the midst of them that rise up against me, a destroying wind a.

† Heb. in the heart.

a In this Chapter the Prophecy of the destruction of Babylon is continued under new Metaphors; he begins with that of a Wind, a destroying Wind, (as northerly Winds are ordinarily very pernicious,) but the Hebrew Idiom so ill suiteth that of other Languages, that it is no easie matter positively to assert the sense of the words used. In the Hebrew they are and to, or against those that inhabit the heart of, those that rise up. Some would have it those that are wise in their own opinion, and are therefore said to dwell in their heart. Others, those that are secure; but the best Interpreters judge our Translation to have best hit the sence, —them that dwell in the heart, i. e. that is in the midst of the Chaldeans who are here said to have risen up against God, to strive against God, Chap. 50. 24.

2 And will send unto Babylon * fanners, that shall fan her, and empty her land b: for in the day of trouble they shall be against her round about c.

* Chap. 15. 7.

b Wicked Men are compared to chaff, Psal. 2. 4. Such as execute judgment on them are called Fanners, Jer. 15. 7. So Matth. 3. 12. because as the Fanner keepeth what is in the Fan unquiet in a continual motion and agitation, by which (advantaged by the Wind) he emptieth it of the Chaff: so the Executioners of God's Vengeance, by a succession of Judgments keeps a People from quiet, till all their Chaff be winnowed out, and the Fan be emptied of all but the more solid Grain. c For (he saith) as the Fanner first ridleth what he hath in his Fan one way, then another, first throweth it up, then lets it fall into the Fan, so the Enemies should be round about Babylon, and God would be on every side and every way destroying them.

3 Against him that bendeth, let the archer bend his bow, and against him that lifteth up himself in his Brigandine d? and spare ye not her young men, destroy ye utterly all her host e.

d What ever Arms the Babylonians shall be armed with, they shall meet with their Matches, those that are Archers, shall meet with Archers to bend the Bow against them, and those who are otherwise armed shall meet with Persons prepared to incounter them at their own Weapons. e Their whole Host shall be destroyed both young and old Men.

4 Thus the slain shall fall in the land of the Chaldeans, and they that are thrust through * in her streets f.

* Chap. 47. 26.

f Thus all of them shall be destroyed, some in the Fields, some in the Streets of their Cities.

5 For Israel hath not been forsaken, nor Judah of his God, of the LORD of hosts g; though their land was filled with sin against the holy one of Israel h.

g That is, not utterly forsaken, for in a sence they were forsaken as to some gradual manifestations of God's Love to them, but Judah and Israel were not left as a Widow, or were not divorced from God. h The word translated sin, signifies a most heinous sinning, or desolation, and the best Interpreters judge that sin here signifieth the punishment of sin. God hath not forsaken the Jews utterly, though as they were formerly filled with grievous sins, so they be now filled with grievous Judgments because of their sins.

6 * Flee out of the midst of Babylon, and deliver every man his own soul: be not cut off in her iniquity i: for * this is the time of the LORD's vengeance, he will render unto her a recompence k.

* Rev. 18. 4.
* Chap. 50. 15, 28.

i It is a matter of no great moment whether we understand these words as spoken to the Jews in the Captivity of Babylon, as Chap. 50. 8. or to those whom the Chaldeans had hired to help them. Or to such strangers as for their secular advantages lived in Babylon. By Soul here seemeth to be meant Life, and by Iniquity the punishment of the Babylonians iniquity (as the Heb. word oft signifies) though in the New Testament these words be used as a monition to People to separate from the Idolatries of mystical Babylon, yet they seem here to be only a warning to others to remove out of the reach of Babylon's fall. k For the time is come when God hath determined to take vengeance on Babylon, and to recompence to her all her sin, and that cruelty which she shewed to the Jews in particular.

7 Babylon hath been * a golden cup in the LORD's hand, that made all the earth drunken l: the nations have drunken of her wine, therefore the nations are mad m.

* Rev. 14. 8. & 17. 4.

l A golden Cup, because of her great Riches and Plenty, God hitherto had made use of Babylon, as a Rod in his Hand, and had given her Riches and Power, and prosperity proportioned to the Service he hèd for her to do; what the did the did by commission from God, therefore this Golden Cup is said to have been in the Lord's Hand, she had made all the Nations about her drunken with the Lord's Fury. m Conquering them all, and making them mad through the misery and smart they felt from her. Babylon in Daniel is compared to an head of Gold, and Rev. 17. 4. She is said to have had a Golden Cup in her hand, but the meaning is no more than this. That God had raised up Babylon to great degrees of dignity and splendour intending to make use of her to execute his Vengeance upon many other People, and he did accordingly so use her, to give the Cup of his Fury to many Nations to the enraging of divers People, but now the course of his Providence toward her was altering, &c.

8 Babylon is suddenly * fallen and destroyed n: howl for her, * take balm for her pain, if so be she may be healed n.

* Isa. 21 9. Rev. 14 8. and 18. 2.
* Chap. 46. 11.

n That is, she shall suddenly fall and be destroyed, you may try all the probable ways for her Cure, but they will all be used to no purpose.

9 We would have healed Babylon, but she is not healed: ∴ forsake her, and let us go every one to his own Country o, for her judgment reacheth unto heaven, and is lifted up even to the sky p.

∴ The Prophet here seemeth to personate the mercenary Soldiers that should come to help the Chaldeans, as if they should say this, they would have helped Babylon, but there was no healing for her. o And therefore they call one to another to leave her to her self, and return each Man to his own Country. p For her punishment was very great, her case too sad for them to help. The reaching of things to the Heavens, and lifting them up to the Skies are Phrases used to signifie high and great measures, and degrees of things so expressed Gen. 11. 4. and 28. 12. Deut. 1. 28. 1 Sam. 5. 12. 2 Chron. 28. 9. Psal. 107. 26.

10 The LORD hath brought forth our righteousness, come and let * us declare in Zion the work of the LORD our God q.

* Chap. 50. 28.

q These words are spoken as in the person of the Jews owning the destruction of Babylon, 1. To be the mighty Work of God. 2. An act of Justice, and Judgment pleading the Cause and revenging the Wrongs of his People; and owning the Jewish Religion, and calling one to another to go to the Temple to declare what God had done for them, and to give thanks unto him for it.

11 * Make † bright the arrows r, gather the shields s, the LORD hath * raised up the spirit of the kings of the Medes t, for his device is against Babylon to destroy it, because it is the * vengeance of the LORD, the vengeance of his temple u.

* Chap. 46. 4. † Heb. pure. * Isa. 13. 17. * Chap. 50. 28.

r Prepare the Arrows for fighting, whether by feathering, sharpning, or polishing and cleaning of them, is not much material. s You that are Chaldeans gather all the Shields you have together, you will have need of them all: or you that are the Enemies of the Chaldeans, gather you together your Shields. t For God hath put a Spirit into Cyrus and Darius, &c. and his design is against Babylon to destroy it. u It is a day in which God is resolved to take vengeance on Babylon, to take vengeance for the indignities they have offered to, and the horrible profanation of his Temple.

12 Set up the standard upon the walls of Babylon, make the watch strong, set up the watchmen, prepare the † amoushes w: for the LORD hath both devised and done that which he spake against the inhabitants of Babylon.

w Some judge these words spoken to the Medes, declaring the Will of God, that they should use all probable means to conquer Babylon, or (as some would have it) display their Banners upon the Walls of it, as signs of its being already conquered: But certainly is is more reasonable to conclude them the Prophet's words to the Babylonians, either rousing them out of their security (for it appears they were strangely secure from Dan. 5. Historians tell us that the City was fortified by Walls fifty Cubits high, and two hundred Cubits broad, and by a very deep and large Ditch, besides that on one side it had the River Euphrates) or at least quickening them to make all the preparation they could, though all would be to very little purpose, for God had resolved upon what he would do upon Babylon, and it was already as good as done.

13 O thou that dwellest upon many waters x, abundant in treasures y, thine end is come, and the measure of thy covetousness z.

x Babylon is said to dwell upon many Waters, because upon the great River Euphrates, which they say did not only run by it, but almost incompass it, branching it self into many smaller Rivers, which made several parts of the City, Islands. y It is a City much noted in Scripture for Wealth, and made much more wealthy than it was by Traffick, by the Conquest of many Nations. z The Prophet tells them that now their gathering time was over, there was now a boundary set to their covetousness; in the Hebrew it is the Cubit of thy covetousness, which is by our Translators well translated a measure, because it was amongst the Jews the common measure of height and depth. The word by us translated covetousness, as Exod. 18. 21. may either signifie Riches the object of their covetousness, or prosperity, or that unlawful desire of having more, which is properly called Covetousness, either because they should be destroyed utterly, or because they should prosper no more, there was no end put to the Babylonians Lusts, but there was an end put to the satisfaction of their Lusts.

d We had these five Verses all in the tenth Chapter, Verse 12, 13, 14, 15, 16. See there the explication of the several passages in them, the scope of which is only to convince those to whom the Prophet spoke, that notwithstanding all the Power, and Riches, and Greatness, and Alliances of the Chaldeans, yet that God who had threatned this ruine to them was able to bring it upon them, and all their Idols were Vanities, things of nought that should not be able to protect them, and from whose power or impotency, they must not measure nor make up a judgment of what God was able to do, for Israel's God was that God who made the World, and the Lord of all the Armies of the Creatures whether in Heaven or Earth.

* Chap. 50. 23.
‖ Or, in thee, or by thee.

20 * Thou art my battle-axe and weapons of war: for ‖ with thee will I break in pieces the nations, and with thee will I destroy kingdoms e.

e Interpreters are here divided, whether by thou or thee in this and the following Verses to understand Cyrus, whom God made use of to destroy Babylon, and many other places, or Babylon. Our Translators understand it of Cyrus, and therefore speak of the future Tense, will I. The Hebrew Text will not resolve us; I rather incline to interpret it of Babylon, as indeed the most do, and so it should be, Thou hast been, and are, for that is the sence, Cyrus and Darius were not yet in being. God had made use of Babylon like an Hammer or Battle-Axe to break many Nations in pieces.

21 And with thee will I break in pieces the horse and his rider, and with thee will I break in pieces the chariot and his rider:

22 With thee also will I break in pieces man and woman, and with thee will I break in pieces old and young, and with thee will I break in pieces the young man, and the maid.

23 I will also break in pieces with thee the shepherd, and his flock, and with thee will I break in pieces the husbandman, and his yoke of oxen, and with thee will I break in pieces captains and rulers f.

f The sence of all these three Verses is the same, viz. That God had made use, and was still making use of the Babylonians to waste and to destroy many Nations, to spoil and impoverish much People, wasting their Goods, routing their Armies, killing all sorts of their Inhabitants.

24 And I will render unto Babylon, and to all the inhabitants of Chaldea, all their evil that they have done in Zion, in your sight, saith the LORD g.

g The Particle in the front of this Verse which our Translators (understanding the four former Verses of Cyrus) render and in a copulative sence, must be rendred now or but, if the four former Verses be understood of Babylon, and the sence is this. Though I have hitherto made use of Babylon, and shall yet for a time make use of the Chaldeans and Babylonians to destroy several other Nations, yet now the time is come, that I will punish them, and recompence to them all the mischief they have done to the Jews and some of the Jews shall live to see it.

25 Behold, I am against thee, O destroying mountain, saith the LORD, which destroyest all the earth h, and I will stretch out my hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the rocks i, and will make thee a burnt mountain k.

h Babylon is not here called a Mountain because it was situated upon any Hills or Mountains, for it appears from Genesis 11. 2. that it was situated in a Plain, and we read Verse 13. that it dwelt upon many Waters; but because it was very high for its Power, and Greatness, and had very high Walls and Towers, that it looked at a distance like an high rocky Mountain, and as some say (being a very large City) was full of Trees. They had destroyed many People of the Earth that lay near to them. i God threatens to destroy them notwithstanding their Towers, and great Fortifications, as many times they threw down Malefactors from high Rocks, Mountains, and Precipices. k And to make them like Ætna or Vesuvius, or like some other Mountains of Sulphur, or other bituminous matter fired, which are always burning, or else he threateneth that their Cities and Towers which appeared like a Mountain should be burnt.

26 And they shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations, but thou shalt be † desolate for ever saith the LORD l.

l God threatneth to Babylon an utter ruine and desolation, so as they should not have a stone left fit to lay a foundation, or to make a corner stone: or, as some others interpret it, that City should never be built again, there should never from the Rubbish of it be taken a stone to lay the foundation, nor to lay upon the corners of new Houses, new Walls, new Towers in that place. Foundation Stones, and Corner Stones, are principal Stones in Buildings. Nothing shall be left in Babylon of any worth, value or considerableness.

27 Set ye up a standard in the land, blow the trumpet amongst the nations m, prepare the nations against her, call together against her the kingdoms of Ararat n, Minni, and Ashchenaz o, appoint a captain against her p, cause the horses to come up as the rough caterpillars q.

m These former words of this Verse are expounded by those that follow, setting up of Standards and blowings of Trumpets, are preparatory to bring Armies together. The setting up of Standards, and blowing of Trumpets, are Military signs of the Will of those Princes or Captains General, whose those Standards are, and to whom those Trumpets belong, that those Soldiers who are under their Command should gather themselves together to the places where those Standards are set up, and those Trumpets blown. n What this Kingdom of Ararat was, p And those of Minni and Ashchenaz is very hard to determine, we read of a Mountain called Ararat, where the Ark rested after the Flood, Genesis 8. 4. Of Minni we read no where else; most Writers think these were two Kingdoms within Armenia. Ashchenaz descended from Noah by Japhat, Genesis 10. 3. certain it is that the Emperour of the Medes had the Dominion of these places, from whence it is very probable that either Cyrus or Darius, or both drew out Soldiers to help them to conquer the Chaldeans. p After People are gathered together for War, the first thing to be done is to put them into Military Order, constituting a Captain General. q Let the Horses come up like the rough Caterpillar. Others read it like the wasting Caterpillar, or like the horrible affrighting Caterpillar. Great Disputes there are amongst critical Interpreters what Caterpillars are here meant, the Caterpillars being generally smooth; but as we know not the complexion of Insects over all the World, so even amongst us we see some Caterpillars that look a little rough; that which alone we are here to attend is why the Medean Horses are compared to these Insects; undoubtedly it is either, 1. With respect to their Numbers, for Caterpillars in those Countries used to come in vast numbers. 2. Or in regard of the horror and trembling caused by them in People when they came, being a great Plague to the places which they infested.

28 Prepare against her the nations with the kings of the Medes, the captains thereof, and all the rulers thereof, and all the land of his dominion r.

r Here the Prophet declares those particular Princes, and Nations that should be God's Instruments to destroy Babylon, viz. Cyrus and Darius the Emperours of the Medes, with all the Forces under their Command, and People under their Dominion.

29 And the land shall tremble and sorrow f; for every purpose of the LORD shall be performed against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon a desolation without an inhabitant t.

f That is, Babylon, or the Land of Chaldea shall tremble and sorrow. t For God hath determined to destroy it, and to leave it wholly desolate, so as none should dwell in it.

30 The mighty men of Babylon have forborn to fight, they have remained in their holds, their might hath failed *, they became as women f: they have burnt her dwelling places, her barsare broken t.

* Isa. 19. 16. Chap. 50. 37.

f When God hath determined an end, he ordereth means proportionable to that end. Babylon had many valiant and mighty Men, and it is very probable the Babylonians trusted very much to them, but when it came to, God took off their courage, so as they had had no heart to fight, but kept themselves in their strong Holds, and, if at any time they came out, their courage failed them, and they behaved themselves more like Women than Men of War, so as their Enemies burnt their Cities, brake down their Fortifications, and made what havock they pleased.

31 One post shall run to meet another, and one messenger to meet another, to shew the king of Babylon that his city is taken at one end u.

u We have had occasion once and again to recite what we have in Civil Historians about the taking of Babylon by Cyrus, viz. That it was taken by surprize, by the Median Emperours unexpected diverting the River Euphrates by divers Channe's which he cut; as also that Babylon was a very vast City, the greatness of which might admit of Posts, and Messengers from one end of the City to another to acquaint the King what was done at the other end of the City in which himself was Resident, and it is said that the King of Babylon when his City was taken, did not know of his danger until the Enemy had entred the City.

* Chap. 50. 38. 32 And that the * passages are stopt w, and the reeds they have burnt with fire x, and the men of war are affrighted y.

w This was part of the message which the Prophet saith the Messenger should carry to the King of Babylon, that was in the other part of the City, that the passages over the River Euphrates, or any other passages by which the Babylonians might, upon the Enemies entrance, make their escape, were all stopped, and guarded with Soldiers, or otherwise so as there was no hope of any making an escape. x The word translated Reeds signifies also standing Pools of Water, and that some judge the fence, the Water is drained out of the Pits or Pools, so as it could not hinder the entrance of the Enemies; those that adhere to the Translation of it Reeds, say that upon the borders of the River Euphrates were vast quantities of great and tall Reeds, which with the Mud in which they stood, were as another Wall to the City, but the Medes had burnt up them so as the way was open to the Walls; and the Men of War, y seeing these Reeds burnt up, and the Water drained from them, were affrighted, so as their hearts through fear failed them.

33 For thus saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel. The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor z, ‖ it is time to thresh her: yet a little while, and the time of her harvest shall come a.

‖ Or, in the time that he threshe-eth her.

z Babylon had been a threshing instrument, by which, and a threshing floor in which God had threshed many other Nations, God now intended to make it as a Threshing-floor wherein he would thresh the Chaldeans. a Some think because of the next words that the words were better translated it is time to tread her, (so the word properly signifies) as Men use to prepare their Threshing-floors against the time of Harvest, for the time of this Harvest was near; her Harvest signifieth the Harvest which the Justice of God would have from the ruine of the Chaldeans.

34 Nebuchadrezzar the king of Babylon hath devoured me, he hath crushed me, he hath made me an empty vessel, he hath swallowed me up like a dragon, he hath filled his belly with my delicates, he hath cast me out b.

b The Prophet speaketh this in the Name of the Jews complaining of the King of Babylon as the Author of all the Miseries they had indured, which he expresseth by several Phrases signifying the same thing, viz. That it was the King of Babylon that had ruined them, and filled himself and his Soldiers with their delicate things, and cast them out of their Land, dealing with them as Wolves or other Beasts of Prey, that eat what they please of other Beasts they have preyed upon, and leave the rest in the Fields.

† Heb. my violence. 35 The † violence done to me, and to ‖ my flesh, be upon Babylon, shall the † inhabitant of Zion say; and my blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea, shall Jerusalem say c.

‖ Or, the remainder † Heb. inhabiter of it.

c The words are either a Prayer, or a prediction of God's Vengeance upon Babylon, so Psal. 137. Ver. 7, 8. God hath said Vengeance is his, and he will repay it. The Church of the Jews here commits its cause to God, and prayeth him to execute Vengeance for her. How far it is lawful for us to pray against our Enemies, we have heard once and again.

36 Therefore thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will plead thy cause, and take vengeance for thee d, and I will * dry up her sea, and make her springs dry e.

* Chap. 50. 38.

d Men had need take heed how they give cause of appeals to God against them, especially the appeals of such as are a People that have a Covenant relation to God. God in those cases ordinarily sheweth himself a swift witness and Judge; and gives a speedy Judgment in such causes. Behold saith God I will plead thy cause, not with words, but actually with my judicial dispensations, therefore it is expounded by taking vengeance. e The Vengeance which God threatneth is expressed metaphorically under the notion of drying up her Sea, and making her Springs dry, which signifies the depriving her of all Necessaries, not only of the abundance of her Men, Riches, Treasures, but of her Springs. Thus I had rather expound it, than as referring to the particular Stratagem by which Cyrus took Babylon, viz. By drying up in some measure the River Euphrates, that is, turning it into other Channels.

* Isa. 13. 22. 37 And Babylon shall become heaps d, a * dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment and an hissing without an inhabitant e.

d Heaps of Rubbish. e See the Notes on Chap. 50. 39, 40. where the same thing was before said.

38 They shall roar together like lions: they shall ‖ yell as lions whelps m.

m It is incertain whether this be to be understood of the Medes, making horrible roarings and noises when they took Babylon: Or, of the Babylonians, who upon the taking of their City (as is usual) made horrid Outcries, as being a People quite undone; some think it referreth to the drunken noises of the Babylonians at their Festival, during the celebration of which we are told their City was taken; but to this one would think the comparison of Lions Whelps (which ordinarily yell for want of Victuals, or for some mischief done them, not when their Bellies are full) should not so well agree.

39 In their heat I will make their feasts n, and * I will make them drunken, that they may rejoyce, and sleep a perpetual sleep, and not awake, saith the LORD o.

* Ver. 57.

n When they shall grow hot with Wine, I will put or give, or make them a Feast of another nature. Interpreters judge that the Prophet referreth to the Feast made by Belshazzar, Dan. 5. 1. To a thousand of his Lords, when he and his Wives, and Concubines drank Wine in the Vessels belonging to the Temple, during which Feast the City was taken. o So they were made drunk with the Wine Cup of God's Fury, because the Lord had designed them to utter ruine, and destruction, that as Men filled with Wine are merry, and shout, and then fall asleep; so the Chaldeans being drunk with the Wine of the Lord's Wrath, while they were merry with their Cups of Wine, might fall into such a Sleep as they should never awake out of.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams with he goats p.

p That is, they shall be destroyed before they are aware of it.

41 How is Sheshach q taken? and how is the praise of the whole earth surprized r? how is Babylon become an astonishment among the nations?

q We meet with this term Sheshach only here, and Chap. 25, 26. both places leave it doubtful whether it be to be taken for an Idol, which they called by the Name of Shach: Or a Name given to the City of Babylon, which worshipped that Idol, to the honour of which the Babylonians kept a yearly Festival for several days. In the time of which Festival they say it was that Cyrus took the City of Babylon. r Babylon that was so famous over all the World for her splendor. s And so it is interpreted in the next words, wherein Babylon for the punishment brought upon it is said to be an astonishment to all Nations, which makes it probable that Babylon is what was called Sheshach, by the doubling of a Letter, because she worshipped Shach.

42 The sea is come up upon Babylon: she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof t.

t A multitude of Enemies, that are like the Sea in which there is a multitude of Waters, or that will over-run them as the Sea overfloweth the shore, or any Land into which it once breaketh.

43 Her cities are a desolation, a dry land, and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth any son of man pass thereby u.

u See Chap. 2. 6. and 9. 12. the words are all of them descriptive of an utter desolation, that should not only be the fate of Babylon the head City, but of all the inferiour Cities that were as Daughters to that Mother City.

44 And I will punish Bel and Babylon w, and I will bring forth out of his mouth that which he hath swallowed up x, and the nations shall not flow together any more unto him y, yea the wall of Babylon shall fall z.

w Bel was the principal Babylonian Idol, of which see what is noted, Chap. 50. 2. x All the Vessels of the Temple, 2 Chron. 36. 7. and whatever Gifts the Babylonians had presented to him. y It was the custom of other Nations to send Presents to the Gods of those Nations whom they were in subjection to, or whom they would appease, whence it is that we read the Philistines when they had the Ark would not send it home without a present, 1 Sam. 6. 11. God by his Prophet foretelleth that the time should come when the Nations should come no more to Babylon, either to pay an homage to their chief Idol, nor yet to bring Offerings unto him. z And the City of Babylon should be also ruined.

45 * My people, go ye out of the midst of her, and deliver ye every man his soul from the fierce anger of the LORD a.

* Chap. 50. 8. & Rev. 18. 4.

a These words are an exhortation to the Jews to be willing upon the first proclamation of Liberty by Cyrus, to go out of Babylon, notwithstanding the pleasantness of the place, and that now their stakes had been pitched there many Years, because of the ruine which should most certainly come on that place.

46 And lest your hearts faint, and ye fear for the rumour that shall be heard in the land b: a rumour shall both come one year, and after that in another year shall come a rumour, and violence in the land, ruler against ruler c.

b And lest they should be affrighted by the Succession of Evils Year after Year that should come upon Babylon. Some think it were better translated, And let not your hearts faint, Though you should hear of Cyrus his coming Year after Year, yet faint not (for they say Cyrus was one Year preparing, and that he spent the second Year in passing through Assyria, so as he came not at Babylon till the third Year) nor yet though you should see or hear of successive troubles, and a great deal of violence in the Land by the opposition of great Princes one to another, for none of them shall do you any harm; but this Both not so well sute to the former Verse, where they are bidden to make haste out and to save their own Lives. I do therefore prefer the sence of our Interpreters and their Translation of it, as making another Argument to perswade them to make haste out, because they would by reason of the successive evils Year after Year coming upon the Babylonians live there very troublesome and uneasie Lives.

† Heb. I will visit upon. 47 Therefore behold, the days come, that † I will do judgment upon the graven images of Babylon, and her whole land shall be confounded c, and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her d.

c I will do, that is, I will execute judgment upon the Idols of Babylon, and the whole Land of Chaldea shall be confounded, when they shall see that their Idols will do them no more Service. d Some in stead of her slain, would have it read her dancers (for the City was taken while Belshazzar and his whole Court were Revelling) but the learned Author of the English Annotations tells us the word will not bear it.

* Isa. 44. 23 and 49. 13. Rev. 18. 20. 48 Then * the heaven, and the earth, and all that is therein shall sing for Babylon e, for the spoilers shall come unto her from the north, saith the LORD f.

e All the Creatures in Heaven and Earth shall rejoyce at the Vengeance which God shall take upon Babylon, which had been the destroyer of so many of their People. f The Median Soldiers are those here called Spoilers from the North.

‖ Or, both Babylon is to fall, O ye slain of Israel, and with Babylon, &c. 49 ‖ As Babylon hath caused the slain of Israel to fall, so at Babylon shall fall the slain of ‖ all the earth g.

g The words in the Hebrew have some difficulty, which is not so obvious to those not acquainted with that Language, but hath given occasion to Interpreters to vary in their particular Translations of it, but they mostly agree in the general sence, viz. That these words are given as a reason why the whole Earth should so much rejoyce in the ruine of Babylon, because Babylon had caused Israel to fall: The latter terms all the earth must be understood in a restrained sence, for that earth; the Chaldeans coming up from all parts of Chaldea, to help Babylon, should be slain there, as by the means of Babylon the Israelites were slain that came up from all parts of Judea to help Jerusalem.

50 Ye that have escaped the sword, go away, stand not still h: remember the LORD afar off i, and let Jerusalem come into your mind k.

h It is hard to resolve whether the Prophet here speaks to the Chaldeans, or the Medes, or the Jews, though most understand it of the Jews whom God would have leave Babylon as soon as they should have a Liberty proclaimed. i And to remember when they came into Judea the great things both of Justice toward the Chaldeans, and Mercy toward them, which God had done. k And keep Jerusalem in their mind, as the place where they were to worship God according to his direction, and for which God had to wrought.

51 We are confounded, because we have heard reproach l, shame hath covered our faces; for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the LORD's house m.

l The words of this Verse seem to prove that the Jews were the Persons intended in the former Verse whom God would have to go away, and not to stand still, for it is out of doubt, that it is of them the Prophet here speaketh, and whom the Prophet brings in here, saying, we are confounded, that is, ashamed (as it is expounded in the next words) to hear the Enemies reproaching us, for our God, or for our Religion, as Psal. 137. 3. And in because Pagans that were Strangers to the Commonwealth of Israel, who Numb. 1. 51. might not come near the Tabernacle of the Lord, were come, and that not to worship, but to plunder and rifle in the Sanctuaries of the Lord, even into the Court of the Priests and of the Israelites, and into the most Holy Place; those whose very presence in these places had been a pollution of them.

52 Wherefore behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will do judgment upon her graven images, and through all her land, the wounded shall groan n.

n For which complaints of my People, or rather for which profanation of my Holy Place, I will be revenged upon their Graven Images, and not only upon their Idols, but upon the Worshippers of them, and cause a groaning of wounded Men over all the Country of the Chaldeans; I will cause them to know that their Idols are not able to protect them from my Power and Justice.

* Obad. 4. 53 * Though Babylon should mount up to heaven, and though she should fortifie the height of her strength, yet from me shall spoilers come unto her, saith the LORD o.

o We are very prone to measure things by the measures of our own Reasons, and to judge of events which are to be the effects of Divine Power, by humane probabilities, therefore God is pat to use many words to the same purpose; he saw the Jews saying in their hearts, How can these things be? Babylon hath impregnable Walls two hundred foot high (so Historians report) and of a great breadth, and it hath very strong, and high Towers; God by his Prophet tells them, that if they could mount up as high as Heaven, if they could make their Towers much stronger than they were, yet the Spoilers were to come from him, and he could and would send Spoilers, who would pull down her Walls, and break down her Towers.

54 A sound of a cry cometh from Babylon, and great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans p.

p To assure them that what God threatned should certainly be, he calls to the Jews to listen, as if already there were a cry from Babylon, and a sound of a great destruction from the Land of the Chaldeans.

55 Because the Lord hath spoiled Babylon q, and destroyed out of her the great voice r, when her waves do roar, like great waters, a noise of their voice is uttered s.

q The Sword is not so much the Sword of the Medes, as the Sword of the Lord. It is he who is to be looked at, as the Spoiler of Babylon. r And hath made to cease in that great City the noises caused from Multitudes of People in it walking up and down, and trafficking together. s The noise of her Enemies that shall break in upon her shall be like the noise and roarings of the Sea, wherein daileth upon the shore or upon some Rocks. That shall be the only noise shall be heard in her, instead of the Noises wont there to be made from the multitude of People, or from Revellers.

56 Because the spoiler is come upon her, even upon Babylon, and her mighty men are taken, every one of their bows is broken t, for the LORD God of recompences, shall surely requite u.

t Little more is said here than was before, only the words hint the taking of Babylon by a surprize when the King, and the Inhabitants were not aware of it, which we had before also told us, Verse 39. 40. u In this the Prophet saith, that God would act but as a just God, a God of recompences. Where God's People suffer wrong, and either cannot revenge themselves, or may not do it, being private Persons (to whom God hath given no power of the Sword) if they can exercise Faith and Patience, they shall find God a God of Recompences, that can and will requite their Enemies, and plead their cause.

* Ver. 39. 57 And * I will make drunk her princes, and her wise men, her captains and her rulers, and her mighty men, and they shall sleep a perpetual sleep, and not wake, saith the king, whose name is the LORD of hosts w.

w Drunken Men use to fall asleep. The Prophet speaks here metaphorically. His meaning is, that the Lord would fill them with the wine of his fury mentioned Chap. 25. 15, 16. and upon the drinking of it they should sleep their last sleep, the effects of it should be their utter ruine and destruction. Yet there seemeth to be an allusion to the posture the King of Babylon and the Thousand of his Lords mentioned, Dan. 5. 1. was in, when their City was taken (which as was before said) was in the time of the Festival of their Idol Shach) when they were drinking Wine in the Bowls that were brought from the Temple at Jerusalem, Verse 3. Verse 30. it is said, In that very night was Belshazzar the King of the Chaldeans slain.

58 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, ‖ The broad walls of Babylon shall be utterly ‖ broken, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire x, and * the people shall labour in vain, and the folk in the fire, and they shall be weary y.

‖ Or, the broad Babylon. ‖ Or, made naked. * Heb. 2. 13.

x Incredible things are told us by Historians of this great City. They say the compass of it was threescore Miles about. That her Walls were in height two hundred foot, in breadth such as two Chariots might drive a breast upon the top of them, that it had an hundred great Gates, many of them of Brass. God threatens the breaking down of these Walls, and the burning of these high Gates and Towers. y And that though the People should labour to quench this fire, or to rebuild this City, yet it would be all lost labour, and they should give over their enterprise, as being weary.

59 ¶ The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah, the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah z, when he went ‖ with Zedekiah the king ‖ Or, on the behalf of. of Judah into Babylon a, in the fourth year of his reign b, and this Seraiah was a ‖ quiet prince m.

z Of this Seraiah we read no more than we have in this Verse, though Chap. 36. 26. there be mention made of another Seraiah. a We no where read of any Journey Zedekiah made into Babylon till he was carried a Prisoner thither, it is therefore probable that with should be translated from as the same Particle is in other places, Genesis 4. 1. and 44. 4. It being not usual with great Princes to make Visits one to another at such distances, though the Jews tell us a Story of some such thing. b The exactning of this Circumstance of time, lets us know that this Prophecy was many Years before Babylon was destroyed, for it was seven Years before Jerusalem was taken; so as it must be above sixty Years before it was fulfilled in the first degree. m The Hebrew word admits of various Interpretations, some think that Menucha was a place over which Seraiah had some Authority under Zedekiah, the same with Maaseiah, 1 Chron. 8. 6. Others think it was a Name of Office, and signified Lord Chamberlain; but the best Interpreters see no reason to vary from our Translation, the office of which is that he was a Man of a moderate quiet Temper, that perswaded to Peace.

60 So Jeremiah wrote in a book all the evil that should come upon Babylon, even all these words that are written against Babylon.

61 And Jeremiah said to Seraiah, When thou comest to Babylon, and shalt see, and shalt read all these words n.

n Not to the Chaldeans, nor possibly is it to be understood of a meer private reading of them to himself, but to the Jews, that were in Babylon, acquainting them with what God had spoken against Babylon by the Prophet.

62 Then shalt thou say, O LORD, thou hast spoken against this place to cut it off, that none shall remain in it, neither man nor beast, but that it shall be † desolate for ever o.

o Thou shalt testifie that thou believest what thou hast read to be what shall most certainly come to pass, by speaking words to this Sence.

63 And it shall be when thou hast made an end of reading this book, that thou shalt bind * a stone to it, and cast it into the midst of Euphrates.

* See Rev. 18. 21.

64 And thou shalt say, Thus shall Babylon sink, and shall not rise from the evil that I will bring upon her p: and they shall be weary q. Thus far are the words of Jeremiah r.

p It hath been often said that Euphrates was that great River which ran by the Walls of Babylon; into this Seraiah is commanded by Jeremiah to throw this Roll of Prophecy against Babylon, symbolically to teach the Jews, that according to the Tenor of his Prophecy the time should come after some Years, when Babylon should be destroyed never to rise again to any great view, or degree of splendor, no more than that Roll with the Stone tied to it should rise from the bottom of Euphrates. q Some read though they weary themselves, that is, do what they can, or (as it is here) and they shall be weary with that weight of Judgment which shall be upon them. r Either the words of Jeremy relating to Babylon reach thus far, or all the words of Jeremiah containing on Sacred Record (for it is thought that the next Chapter was rather penned by some other Holy Man) Or (which seemeth the best) the Prophetical words of Jeremiah, for the matter of the next Chapter is Historical, and the Book of Lamentations is not Prophetical; as to the main of it, though there be in it three or four Prophetical Passages, Lam. 4. 21, 22, &c.

*CHAP. LII.

A Repetition of the Reign of Zedekiah: Of the Siege, Taking, and Destruction of Jerusalem: With the Causes thereof; and what further befell there, 1,——30, Evil-merodach advanceth Jehoiachin, 31,——34.

1 ZEdekiah was one and twenty years old when he † began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; and his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

3 For through the anger of the LORD it came to pass in Jerusalem and Judah, till he had cast them out from his presence, that Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon a.

It is generally thought that what we have in this Chapter was not penned by the Prophet Jeremiah, who it is not probable would have so largely repeated what he had related before Chap. 39. and could not Historically relate what happened after his time as some things did which are mentioned towards the end of the Chapter, from Ver. 31. to the end. They therefore rather think it penned by some or other of those in Babylon, and put in here as a Preface to the Book of Lamentations. What we have in the three first Verses is intirely taken out of 2 Kings 24. 18, 19, 20. See the Notes there.

a Here the wicked actings of Zedekiah, and particularly his Rebellion against the King of Babylon who had made him King, as 2 Kings 24. 17. and to whom he had given an Oath of Fealty, is ascribed to the wrath of the Lord; God not putting any such wickedness into his heart, but suffering him so to miscarry, having a design to send Judah into Captivity. Princes are often by God suffered to miscarry, for the sins of their People, which should oblige us when we think we have cause to complain of the Errors of our Rulers, to consider whether we have not by some sinful course provoked God, which hath made him leave our Rulers so to miscarry in order to our Ruine and Punishment.

4 ¶ And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came, he and all his army against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, and built forts against it round about.

5 So the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

6 And in the fourth month, in the ninth day of the month, the famine was sore in the city, so that there was no bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled, and went forth out of the city by night, by the way of the gate, between the two walls, which was by the kings garden, (now the Chaldeans were by the city round about) and they went by the way of the plain.

8 ¶ But the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho, and all his army was scattered from him.

9 Then they took the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babylon to Riblah, in the land of Hamath; where he gave judgment upon him.

10 And the king of Babylon slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, he slew also all the princes of Judah in Riblah.

11 Then he † put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and the king of Babylon bound him in ‖ chains, and carried him to Babylon, and put him in † prison till the day of his death b.

† Heb. blinded. ‖ Or, fetters. † Heb. house of the Wards

b This History is found, 2 King. 25. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. much in the same words. See the Annotations on that Chapter. Jeremiah also hath the substance of it, Chap. 39. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. only neither of those places have the last words, from whence we learn that Zedekiah died in Babylon a Prisoner.

12 ¶ Now in the fifth month, in the tenth day of the month, (which was the nineteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon) came Nebuzar-adan ‖ † captain of the guard, which † served the king of Babylon, into Jerusalem.

‖ Or, chief Marshal. † Heb. chief of the executioners or slaughtermen.

13 And burnt the house of the LORD, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and all the houses of the great men burnt he with fire.

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, that were with the captain of the guard brake down all the walls of Jerusalem, round about.

And so Ver. 14. &c.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the city, and those that fell away, that fell to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the multitude.

c See the Notes on 2 Kings 25. from Ver. 8. to the 13. where all this is related, only with a small difference as to the Day of the Month when Nebuzar-adan came to Jerusalem and burnt the Temple. In the Kings it is said he came the seventh Day, here it is said he came the tenth Day. See the solution of it in the Annotations on 2 Kings 25. probably he might come into Jerusalem the seventh Day, and not burn the Temple till the tenth. Much of it also is related by Jeremiah, Chap. 39. The Provost-Marshal about a Month after the taking of the City, returned with a part of the Army, burnt the Temple, the great Mens Houses in the City, and many other Houses, and carried away divers Prisoners, but left some of the poorer sort of the People to dress the Vineyards, and Till the Grounds, which is a thing very usual with Conquerors, for their own advantage, that their Conquests may yield them some Revenue.

17 Also the * pillars of brass that were in the house of the LORD, and the bases, and the brasen sea that was in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans brake, and carried all the brass of them to Babylon c.

* Chap. 27. 19.

c The particular enumeration of the parts and Utensils of the Temple mentioned in this, and in the following Verses, may be conceived to have been to justifie the Prophecy of Jeremiah, Chap. 27. 19. where there is a particular mention made of the Pillars, the Bases, and the Sea, that they should all with the residue of the Vessels of the Temple be carried into Babylon. Of these Pillars we read 1 Kings 7. 15. they were of Brass eighteen Cubits high, they were in the Porch of the Temple, Ver. 21. of the Bases we read there also largely from Ver. 27. to Ver. 38. they also were all of Brass; and of the Sea from Ver. 23 to Ver. 27. These being all made of Brass were for conveniency of carriage broken by the Chaldeans.

* Exod. 27. 3.

18 * The Caldrons also d, and the ‖ shovels e, and the snuffers f, and the ‖ bowls g, and the spoons h, and all the vessels of brass wherewith they ministred, took they away.

‖ Or, Instruments to remove the ashes. ‖ Or, basons.

d These were called Pots, 2 Kings 25. 14. e Which were to remove the ashes from the Altar. f Some think that this word in this place were better translated Tongs, because he is speaking of Instruments of Brass, and that those Utensils are not here understood with which they snuffed the Lamps, because they were of Gold. g Or Basons; it is uncertain which is here intended, there being in the Temple, both Bowls to drink in, and also Basons to receive the Blood of the Sacrifices. h The word is such as may signifie Ladels, or Cups, or Dishes.

‖ Or, Censers.

19 And the basons, and the ‖ fire-pans, and the bowls, and the caldrons, and the candlesticks, and the spoons, and the cups: that which was of gold in gold, and that which was of silver in silver, took the captain of the guard away h.

h Some of these Utensils were only of Brass; others, were some of them Brass, some of Silver, some of Gold, the Captain of the guard carried away all, both those of Silver, and those of Gold, and those of Brass.

20 The two pillars, one sea, and twelve brazen bulls, that were under the bases which king Solomon had made in the house of the LORD: † the brass of all these vessels was without weight i.

i Solomon made two Pillars, 1 Kings 7. 15. which Ver. 21. he called Jachin and Boaz, Ver. 23. a molten Sea, ten Cubits broad, this Ver. 25. stood upon twelve Oxen, and had ten Bases, Ver. 25, 27. the making of all these took up a vast quantity of Brass, as any one will eatily judge, who 1 Kings 7. 27. readeth the dimentions of these things.

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and a † fillet of twelve cubits did compass it, and the thickness thereof was four fingers: it was hollow k.

k This agreeth with 1 Kings 7. 15. where what is called here a fillet, is called a thred, concerning the height of the Pillars we read the same 2 Kings 25. 17. 2 Chron. 3. 15.

22 And a chapiter of brass was upon it, and the height of one chapiter was five cubits with net-work, and pomegranates upon the chapiters round about, all of brass, the second pillar also and the pomegranates were like to these.

23 And there were ninety and six pomegranates on a side, and * all the pomegranates upon the network, were an hundred round about l.

* See 1 King. 7. 20.

l There are some differences as to the measure of these Chapiters betwixt 2 Kings 25. 17. and this Text; here the height of them is made to be five Cubits, there it is said to be three Cubits, that which is said to resolve this difficulty is, That there were three parts in the Chapiter, the Square, the Belly, and the Crown, and that this Text gives an account of the whole; but that Text 2 Kings 25. 17. gives an account only of the Belly and the Crown which were no more than three Cubits. The like difference there is betwixt this Text, and 2 Kings 7. 19. and 2 Chron. 4. 13. about the number of the Pomegranates. In the Book of Kings it is said the Pomegranates were in number two hundred, Chron. 4. 13 they are said to have been four hundred. The meaning is, There were an hundred in a row, in the two rows two hundred, in the four rows (two upon each Pillar) four hundred. Some other difference also there is about the particular number of Pomegranates on a side, which are here said to be but ninety six, which make on the two sides but one hundred ninety two, on the four sides but three hundred eighty four, and comes up neither to the two hundred mentioned in the Book of Kings, nor to the number of four hundred mentioned in the Book of Chronicles. Vide the English Annotations, where the learned Author hath observed that in the Hebrew, what we translate at a side, is word for word Wind-ward, that is, toward the four Winds, so as the Table was square, and there were twenty four on each side which made ninety six in all, to which four being added, one at each corner, this made an hundred. But these are niceties, a satisfaction in which is of no great concernment to us, unless to satistie such as would make use of these little things to question the authority of the Scriptures, be cause of these seeming contradictions of how little concernment so ever they be as to our Faith and Holiness.

24 ¶ And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the † door m.

m See the Notes on 2 Kings 25. 18. where we have the same words. This Seraiah was not he mentioned Chap. 51. 59. but the Son of Azariah, 1 Chron. 6. 14. By the second Priest, Interpreters understand him that supplied the place of the High Priest in case he were sick, &c. he that was sent by Zedekiah to the Prophet, Chap. 21. 1. and whom Shemiah chose by his Letters Chap. 29. 25. for not setting Jeremiah in the Stocks. It is probable there were more Keepers of the Door, but the Captain of the Guard took only three of the Principal.

† Heb. saw the face of the king.

25 He took also out of the city, an eunuch, which had the charge of the men of war, and seven men of them that † were near the kings person which were found in the city, and the ‖ principal scribe of the host, who mustered the people of the land, and three-score men of the people of the land, that were found in the midst of the city n.

‖ Or, the Scribe of the captain of the host.

n See 2 Kings 25. 19. only there is mention but of five men, here there is mention of seven, but probably two of them were of less note.

26 So Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Riblah.

27 And the king of Babylon smote them, and put them to death in Riblah, in the land of Hamah. Thus Judah was carried away captive out of his own land o.

o See 2 Kings 25. 20, 21.

28 This is the people whom Nebuchadrezzar carried away captive; in the seventh year, three thousand Jews and three and twenty p.

p That is in the time of Jehoiachim. 2 Kings 24. 12, 13, 14. here it is said to be in the seventh year, there in the eighth year, it might be in part of both. But there is a difference in the number of the captives which are here said to be 3023. and 2 Kings 24. 14, 16. seven thousand, or eight. It is thought by some that the number here mentioned were such as properly belonged to Judah, and the number mentioned 2 Kings 24. were the number of the Captives of Judah and Benjamin. See the English Annotat.

29 In the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar he carried away captive from Jerusalem eight hundred thirty and two † persons q.

q That was the Year when the City was broken up.

30 In the three and twentieth year of Nebuchadrezzar, Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carried away captive of the Jews seven hundred, forty and five persons: all the persons were four thousand and six hundred r.

r Of this we read nothing in Holy Writ, some judge it to have been upon occasion of Ismael's killing Gedaliah, but this was four Years after the taking of the City, and we are not certain what at this time brought again the Chaldean Forces.

31 ¶ And it came to pass in the seven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah s, in the twelfth month, in the five and twentieth day of the month s, that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, and brought him forth out of prison t.

s Jehoiachin began his Reign at eighteen Years of Age, 2 Kings 24. 8. and reigned but three Months, but that he yielded himself to the King of Babylon Besieging him, Ver. 12. in the eighth Year of the King of Babylon's Reign. He was a Prisoner in Babylon (as appeareth by this Text) in which circumstances he continued (as appears from this Text) about thirty Years; which was during the whole Reign of Nebuchadrezzar, sometimes called Nebuchadnezzar, sometimes Nebuchadonosor. Evil-Merodach was Son to this Nebuchadrezzar, who, in the twelfth Month of that Year, the 25th Day of the Month (saith this Text, but 2 Kings 25. 27. it is the twenty seventh day, but that difference may easily be reconciled, The Penman of this part of Holy Writ might count precisely from the Day of his Fathers Death, and the Penman of the Book of Kings from the time of the Coronation of Evil-Merodach, or when he openly shewed himself as King; or the one might reckon from the Day that Evil-Merodach decreed the thing, the other from the Day when he put it in Execution.) t Lifted up the head, which signifies in Scripture the altering of ones estate that is in Misery, Gen. 40. 20. which is all that is here meant, for his bringing him out of Prison is mentioned in the next words. The Reason of this favour is variously guessed at. The Reverend Author of our English Annotations tanbeth, that Evil-Merodach, might be much of the same Age with him, and that Jehoiachin got into the Acquaintance of this Evil-Merodach, during his Thirty Years Captivity, who considering his long Imprisonment, and that now there was no danger of his heading the Jews (whose City had now been destroyed Twenty five Years and upward) this Prince out of his Humanity might shew him this favour, nor are such things unusual in Nations upon their changes of Princes and Counsellors.

32 And spake † kindly unto him, and set his throne above the thrones of the kings that were with him in Babylon u.

† Heb. goodlinss with him.

u The King of Babylon might have other Kings his Prisoners, his Father having been so great a Conquerour, or he might have other Kings, his Subjects, that might reside at his Court; and either out of a particular kindness he had to Jehoiachin, or in regard of the Fame of David and Solomon, from whom Jehoiachin lineally descended, he might do him this Honour.

33 And changed his prison-garments: and he did continually eat bread before him all the days of his life.

34 And for his diet, there was a continual diet given him of the King of Babylon, † every day a portion, until the day of his death, all the days of his life w.

† Heb. the matter of the day in his w He day.

treated him like a Prince with a respect becoming his for- took care both for his Habit and Diet, for his Habit, that it should be decent, such as became a Person of his Quality, though a Captive: for his Diet, that he should have it in his Court, thereby learning others that Humanity which becometh all Men to treat others with that are fallen under their power; that Decency, which becometh them as Men, and as Men whose Circumstances have been better; doing to others, as we would they should do unto us. Thus Jehoiachin's Lot was different from that of his Father Jehoiachim, whose Body was cast out as we heard before: As also from that of his Uncle Zedekiah, who did not only die in Babylon, but died a Prisoner; his Nephew Jehoiachim died there, and a Captive, but not in durance. These four last Verses are found also 2 Kings 25. 27, 28, 29, 30. and being found here in a Narrative form, related as a piece of History relating a thing done: not in a prophetical stile, are an Argument (as was said before) that this whole Chapter, is no part of the Prophecy of Jeremiah, and probably not wrote by him; for he beginning his Prophecy in the thirteenth Year of Josiah, who reigned thirty one Years, and continuing it three Months during the Reign of Jehoahaz, and eleven Years during the Reign of Jehoiachim, and three Months during the Reign of Jehoiachin (or Jeconiah) and eleven. Years during the Reign of Zedekiah; and Jehoiachin, outliving the Reign of Zedekiah Twenty five Years, it must needs be sixty five Years and an half after the word of the Lord first came to Jeremiah before the Death of Jehoiachin; so as the Prophet if he lived to that time must be near an hundred Years old, which is not probable. Here now endeth the History of the Kingdom of Judah. I shall only note the severe Judgment of God upon this People, whose Kingdom was made up of the two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and half the Tribe of Manasseh. In the numbering of the Persons belonging to these two Tribes, Numb. 1. (counting half of the number of the Tribe of Manasseh) we find One hundred twenty six thousand one hundred, Numb. 26. we find of them One hundred forty eight thousand four hundred and fifty. Here Verse 30. we find no more of them carried into Captivity, than four thousand and six hundred. From whence we may judge what a multitude of them were slain by the Sword, or killed by the Famine and the Pestilence, though we make a great allowance for such as were left in the Land to dress Vineyards, and to till the Ground. It is a dreadful thing to fall into the hands of the living God, to mock his messengers, despise his words, and misuse his Prophets, till there be no remedy, as this People did, 2 Chron. 36. 16.

THE Lamentations of JEREMIAH.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Book in Greek, Latine, and English hath its name from the Subject matter of it, which is Lamentation. So also amongst the Hebrew Writers, but in the Hebrew it hath its Name from the first word of the Book, as also the five Books of Moses have.

That it was Wrote by Jeremiah none can reasonably question, because in the Hebrew it is stiled, The Book of Jeremiah.

There is little controversie about the Time, or Occasion of the Writing of it. That the Occasion was the miseries of the People, by reason of the Famine, Sword, and Captivity is evident to those that read any part of it; but whether they were those miseries which began with the Death of Josiah, and held on till the City was taken, which was two and twenty or three and twenty years after; Or those only which began with the Siege and followed on many Years, hath been doubted by some. That Jeremiah lamented for Josiah, and all the singing Men, and singing Women spake of Josiah in their Lamentations, is plain from 2 Chron. 35. 25. But that these were the forms they used, or that they were composed upon that sad account appeareth not, and the miseries, which the Prophet mentioneth befell not the People in the time of Josiah, but during the Siege, more than twenty Years after Josiah's Death. Nor is there any thing which looks like a Lamentation for Josiah through the whole Book, unless Chap. 4. 20. which (as we shall shew) may also be fairly interpreted of Zedekiah: Some think that Jeremiah began to write them upon the Death of Josiah, and continued his stile to the time of the Captivity, setting down all the miseries the People suffered all along that time.

The Scope of the writing as to those whom it immediately concerned, is plain and obvious, viz. to affect the People with those Judgments which came upon them for their sins: As to us (upon whom the ends of the World are come) to mind us to take heed of their Sins, lest we be sharers in their Plagues.

The Book is made up of Complaints of their lamentable condition; Petitions unto God for Mercy, and Prophecies both of their better estate, and the ruine of their Enemies.

In the four first Chapters are several Alphabets of Letters beginning the several Verses, each Verse beginning with a new Letter, only Chapter 3. every three Verses begin with a new Letter; the mystery of which we do not understand, nor possibly was there any mystery intended in it, only the Chapters were so composed for the advantage of our Memories.

The whole Book lets us see from what an height of dignity, to what a depth of misery sin may bring Nations, how much soever interested in God; and likewise directs us to our duty in such States of Affliction and Misery if we would obtain Mercy.

CHAP. I.

Jeremiah lamenteth the former Excellency and present Misery of Jerusalem for her sin, 1,——18. She complaineth of her Grief, 12,——17. Confesseth God's Judgments to be Righteous: And prayeth unto him, 18, —22.

1 HOW doth the city sit solitary, that was full of people a? how is she become as a widow b? she that was great among the nations, and princess among the provinces, how is she become tributary? c.

a The interrogative Particle how? Once expressed and twice more understood in this Verse, doth not so much inquire the cause or reason of the effect, as expresh admiration, or lamentation. The Prophet admires the miserable State of the City, which was full of People beyond the proportion of other Cities, and now was solitary, so thin of People that scarce any could be seen in her Streets. b She that had a King, or rather a God, that was an Husband to her, now was forsaken of God, her King taken from her, and she like a poor Widow. c She that was like a Princess amongst the Nations, that sometimes (as in David's time) had the Moabites, Ammonites, &c. Tributaries to her, was now a Tributary her self.

2 * She weepeth sore in * the night, and her tears are on her cheeks d: among all her lovers she hath none to comfort her, all her friends have dealt treacherously with her, they are become her enemies e.

* Jer. 13. 17.
* Job 7. 3. Psal. 6. 6.

d All her hours are hours of sadness, she doth not only mourn in the day time, but in the night also, when she should rest, her Cheeks are like the Grass in the Morning hanging full of drops, as if her Head were a Fountain of Water, and her Eyes Rivers of Tears. e In her Prosperity she had a great many Friends that sought, and courted her favour, with whom she made Leagues, and confederated (such were the Egyptians, Assyrians, &c.) but they were now so far from helping the Jews, that they helped their Enemies, and dealt treacherously with them becoming themselves Enemies instead of Assistants to them.

3 Judah is gone into captivity, because of affliction, and † because of great servitude f: she dwelleth among the heathen, she findeth no rest g: all her persecutors overtook her between the straits h.

† Heb. for the greatness of servitude.

f This is expounded as the cause why the Jews were carried into Captivity, because of the servitude, and oppression exercised amongst them, oppression by their Rulers, and servitude more generally; keeping their Servants beyond the Year of Jubilee, when they ought to have set them at liberty, and that this was one cause appeareth from Jer. 34. 17. or if because of affliction, &c. be joined to the next words, the sence is plain she dwelleth amongst the Heathen, by reason of her low condition, and the state of servitude she is in. g Where she (that is the Jews) have neither any satisfaction nor quiet in their own minds, nor are they by their Enemies suffered to be at quiet any where. h Those that pursued them with all violence to destroy them, overtook them in those places where they could not escape them, as Huntsmen and others take their Game by driving them into strait and narrow places.

4 The ways of Zion do mourn, because none cometh to the solemn feasts i: all her gates are desolate k: her priests sigh l, her virgins are afflicted, and she is in bitterness m.

i The ways that lead to the Temple, have as unlovely a Complexion as Mourners, being overgrown by reason that none goeth up as usually to the Feasts of the Passover, of Tabernacles, &c. Either all the Gates of Jerusalem, or the Temple, or all her Cities are very thin of People, the places that use to be so full. l Her Priests that were wont to be so fully imployed at Festivals receiving the Peoples Oblations, and offering Sacrifices, they mourn having now nothing to do. m The Virgins who in those Feasts were wont to play with Timbrels, Psal. 68. 25. they now mourn, and Persons of all Ages and Ranks are in bitterness.

5 Her adversaries are * the chief, her enemies prosper: for the LORD hath afflicted her n; for the multitude of her transgressions, her children are gone into captivity before the Enemy o.

* Jer. 52. 28.

n God hath fulfilled his threatning, Deut. 28. 43. The Enemy is got above us, and we are brought very low; for the multitude of our our sins, directly contrary to his promise in case of obedience, Ver. 13, o Not only our young and old Men, but the little Children, have been driven like Sheep before the Enemy into a miserable Captivity.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed p: her princes are become like harts that find no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the purſuer q.

p All the inhabitants of Zion have loſt their former Beauty, whatſoever ſplendor the City had, whether from the multitude or gantry of her Inhabitants, it is all gone, her Nobles are become , and ill-favoured like Beaſts almoſt ſtarved, their Enemies purthem to deſtroy them, and they have no ſtrength to oppoſe or it them.

7 Jeruſalem remembred in the days of her afflictiOr, diſ- ons, and of her miſeries, all her ‖ pleaſant things that trable. ſhe had in the days of old, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her r, the adverſaries ſaw her, and did mock at her ſabbaths ſ.

r The Inhabitants of Jeruſalem now, that they are in affliction and miſery, have time to remember their former Mercies, and with how many deſirable things God had once bleſſed them, and compare her former ſtate before ſhe fell into the Enemies hands, with her preſent ſtate now ſhe is in their power. ſ Now it is an affliction to them to hear her Enemies mock at her Sabbaths, which while they enjoyed they abuſed.

8 Jeruſalem hath grievouſly ſinned: therefore ſhe † Heb. be- † is removed: all that honoured her, deſpiſe her t, come a re- * becauſe they have ſeen her nakedneſs: yea ſhe ſigh- moving, or eth, and turneth backward. a wan- dring.

t She is carried out of her own Land into an Enemies Country, and made an hiſſing and ſcorn to thoſe who before reverenced  Jer. 13.* her, (in all this God is righteous; for all orders of Men have griev- 26. Ezek. ouſly ſinned) becauſe they have ſeen the Lord ſtripping her of all 16. 37. & her Bleſſings, and expoſing her to the ſcorn and reproach of all Men 23. 29. as Strumpets are expoſed.

* Deut. 9 Her filthineſs is in her skirts u, ſhe * remem- 32. 29. breth not her laſt end, therefore ſhe came down wonderfully: ſhe had no comforter x: O LORD behold my affliction: for the enemy hath magnified himſelf y.

u He perſiſteth in his compariſon of the Jewiſh People, either to a ſluttiſh naſty Woman, or to an impudent Woman that is not aſhamed to expoſe her naſtineſs or wickedneſs to the view of all. x That is, the Jews never conſidered, or would not believe what thoſe degrees of ſin would at laſt bring them to, and that hath been the cauſe of that prodigious Calamity into which God had brought them. y The Prophet turns himſelf to God, whom he deſires to behold the affliction of this People, that is, with a pitiful compaſſionate Eye. It is a very uſual thing in Holy Scripture, to ſignifie the acts of the Heart, by the acts of the inward and outward Senſes, thoſe eſpecially of the Memory, Eye and Ear, becauſe Objects muſt be firſt brought in by the Senſes before they can affect the Soul. Hence (the Scripture ſpeaking of God after the manner of Men) the Servants of God deſiring God to have compaſſion on them, ſhew them favour, &c. deſire him to behold and look upon their affliction.

10 The adverſary hath ſpread out his hand upon Or, deſ- all her ‖ pleaſant things z: for ſhe hath ſeen that the rable. heathen entred into her ſanctuary, whom thou didſt * Neh. command that they * ſhould not enter into thy con- 13. 1. gregation a.

z That is, hath got them into poſſeſſion. By pleaſant things are here to be underſtood the Ornaments of the Temple, upon which the Enemy had laid violent hands, ſo this Phraſe of ſpreading out the hand is taken Iſa. 25. 11. The things of the Sanctuary were always pleaſant things to thoſe that feared God. Poſſibly thoſe that little valued them before, now looked upon them in their tranſlation. We ſeldom know our mercies till we come to be deprived of them. a He means the Ammonites, and Moabites whom the Law concerned, Deut. 23. 3. Some of whom probably aſſiſted the Babylonians in the Conqueſt of Judea.

* Jer. 52. 6. 11 All her people ſigh *, they ſeek bread b, they ‖ Or, to have given their pleaſant things for meat to ‖ relieve make the the ſoul c: ſee, O LORD, and conſider, for I am be- ſoul to come vile d. come again.

b He ſpeaketh probably with reference to the Siege, after which the People had ſcarcely any pleaſant things to exchange for Bread. The whole Body of the People was in a ſad condition, and in a Land that ordinarily flowed with Milk and Honey, they were at loſs for Bread to eat. c And gave any thing for ſomething to ſatisfie their hunger. d The Prophet ſends up a ſudden Ejaculation to God much like that Ver. 6. The Argument he uſeth is drawn from the miſery the People were in, expreſſed under the notion of being become vile, that is miſerable or contemptible.

‖ Or, it is 12 ¶ ‖ Is it nothing to you, all ye that † paſs by? nothing. † Heb. behold, and ſee, * if there be any ſorrow like to my paſs by ſorrow: which is done unto me, wherewith the the way. LORD hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce an- * Dan. 9. ger e. 12.

e The Prophet ſpeaks in the Name of the Jewiſh Church, as a Woman in miſery ſitting by the way ſide, and calling to Paſſengers that came by to have compaſſion on her, ſuggeſting to them, that her affliction was no ordinary affliction, nor the effect of a common and ordinary Providence, but the effect of the Lord's fierce anger, a moſt ſevere puniſhment.

13 From above hath he ſent fire into my bones, and it prevaileth againſt them f; he hath ſpread a net for my feet g, he hath turned me back: he hath made me deſolate, and faint all the day.

f By Fire he means a Judgment as conſuming, and as afflictive as Fire in the Bones, which had conſumed the ſtrength of the Jews. g That is, God had brought them into a condition wherein they were entangled, and could not get out. The Holy Man owneth God as the firſt cauſe of all the evil they ſuffered, and entitles God to their various kinds of afflictions; both in Captivity, and during the Siege, looking beyond the Babylonians who were the proximate inſtrumental cauſe.

14 The yoke of my tranſgreſſions is bound by his hand h: they are wreathed, and come up upon my neck i: he hath made my ſtrength to fall; the LORD hath delivered me into their hands, from whom I am not able to riſe up k.

h Still the Prophet eyeth God in all, and acknowledgeth his Juſtice while he calls their afflictions the yoke of their tranſgreſſions, that is, which was put upon their Neck, upon the ſame account that Yokes are put about the Necks of Beaſts that uſe to break Hedges, &c. and bound to keep them faſt. i My puniſhments are twiſted as Cords, to make them more ſtrong; I have a compliCation of Judgments upon me, Sword, Famine, Peſtilence, Captivity, they are not only prepared for my Neck, but they are already put upon it. k All my valiant Men, the ſtrength of my Nation is broken, and I am ſo fallen, that I am not able to riſe again.

15 The LORD hath trodden under foot all my mighty men in the midſt of me l: he hath called an aſſembly againſt me, to cruſh my young men m: the LORD hath trodden ‖ the virgin, the daughter of ‖ Or, the Judah, as in a winepreſs n. winepreſs of the Vir- gin.

l In the midſt of me, may be interpreted either as pleonaſtical, or as denoting the place in which they loſt their valiant Men, viz. in the midſt of the City during the Siege, not in the Field. m Inſtead of thoſe ſolemn Aſſemblies that were wont to be called together within Hieruſalem by ſound of Trumpet for the ſolemn Worſhip of God; God had called an Aſſembly of Chaldeans as Adverſaries againſt the City, to cruſh the Inhabitants of it. n God had trodden upon the Jews as Men uſe to ſtamp Grapes in a Winepreſs, where they uſe to cruſh them to pieces to get out the Juice, and then they throw the huſks that are good for nothing upon the Dunghill. Theſe are but various expreſſions to ſet out the miſery which God had brought this People for their Sins into.

16 For theſe things I weep, * mine eye, mine eye * Jer. 13. runneth down with water o, becauſe the comforter 17. and that ſhould † relieve my ſoul, is far from me p, my 14. 17. children are deſolate, becauſe the enemy hath pre- Chap. 2. vailed q. 18. † Heb. bring back

o For theſe ſore afflictions, and for my ſins that have cauſed them, and for theſe impreſſions of Divine Wrath which I diſcern in them, Lord! I that am thy Prophet, and we that are Iſraelites indeed weep, and that plentifully; p having neither thee preſent with us as formerly to be our hope or comfort, nor any Friend that will deal by us as Friends ſometimes do by others in ſwooning fits to fetch back their Souls. q Either the other Cities of Judah (Jeruſalem was the Mother City) or, my People, my Inhabitants, are waſted deſtroyed, and made deſolate, becauſe the Enemy hath prevailed.

17 * Zion ſpreadeth forth her hands r, and there is * Jer. 4. 31. none to comfort her ſ; the LORD hath commanded concerning Jacob that his adverſaries ſhould be round about him t: Jeruſalem is as a menſtruous woman amongſt them u.

r The ſame in this Verſe is meant by Zion, Jacob and Jeruſalem, unleſs Zion more ſpecially ſignifieth the Jews conſidered as a Church, becauſe of the Temple built upon it. She ſpreadeth out her hands as in a poſture of mourning, and bewailing her ſelf. ſ But ſhe had none that could afford her any comfort. t God had commanded concerning the Jews who were deſcended from Jacob, (their twelve Tribes from his twelve Sons) that their Enemies ſhould incompaſs them. u They were become loathſome and filthy even in the Eyes of their Enemies like Women, which were ſeparated from the Congregation during their legal Uncleanneſs.

18 ¶ The LORD is * righteous, for I have * re- * Dan. 9. 7. belled againſt his † commandment w: hear, I pray * 1 Sam. you, all people, and behold my ſorrow: my virgins 12. 14, 15. and my young men are gone into captivity x. † Heb. mouth.

w The Prophet either directeth thoſe that feared God what they ſhould ſay, or expreſſeth what many of them did ſay in the Name of the reſt, acknowledging both the Lord's Juſtice and Faithfulneſs, becauſe they had been diſobedient to the Commandments of God. x In theſe words the Prophet only perſonates a paſſionate Woman begging pity of all becauſe her Children were taken from her.

19 I called for my lovers, but they * deceived me y; * Jer. 30. my prieſts and mine elders gave up the ghoſt in the 14. city, while they ſought their meat to relieve their ſouls z.

y I deſired help of my Allies and Confederates who courted my Friendſhip and Alliance in my Proſperity, but they failed mine expectation, none of them either would or could ſuccour me. z My miſery

Miſery was ſuch through the Famine, that not only my common People but thoſe of the beſt rank in the City, Magiſtrates and Prieſts fainted as they went along the Street ſeeking Bread to ſatisfie their hunger.

20 Behold, O LORD a, for I am in diſtreſs; my * Iſa. 16. * bowels are troubled: mine heart is turned within 11. Jer. 48. me, for I have grievouſly rebelled; * abroad the 36. Chap. ſword bereaveth, at home there is as death b. 2. 11. Hoſ. 11. 8.

a The Petition is of the ſame nature as before, a petition for * Deut. 32. mercy as the product of that pity and compaſſion which extream 25. Ezek. miſery begets in good Souls (and is aſcribed unto God though 7. 15. found in him in a much more perfect degree, Pſal. 78. 38. and 86. 15. and 111. 4.) through the eyes affecting the heart. b The argument the Prophet uſeth is drawn from the miſery this People was now in, which he expreſſeth metaphorically, telling us their Bowels were troubled, their Heart turned, ſignifying the more inward diſturbance of their mind; or more plainly, and that both generally ſaying they were in diſtreſs, and more particularly by the great Judgments of the Sword, and Famine, the Sword in the Field, the Famine in the City; unleſs the Sword alone be meant both without and within the Gates of the City. In all this the Church juſtifieth God, confeſſing this was but the righteous product of her ſin, by which, the having formerly ſubjected her ſelf to God, had grievouſly rebelled; for as all Men are born Subjects to God, ſo by their ſins they are become Rebels, ſo it is a great aggravation of Mens Rebellion againſt the Lord, when they have formerly taken an Oath of fealty to the Lord, and as Moſes ſaid, avouched the Lord as their God.

21 They have heard that I ſigh c, there is none to comfort me d: all mine enemies have heard of my trouble, they are glad that thou haſt done it e: thou * Iſa. 13, wilt * bring the day that thou haſt ‖ called, and they &c. Jer. ſhall be like unto me f. 46, &c. ‖ Or, pro- claimed.

c The Nations contiguous to me, Egypt, &c. thoſe that before courted me, as pretended Friends have been no ſtrangers to my bitter afflictions, that have brought forth ſighs from me. d But there is none of them can or will comfort me, but give me over as in a deſperate caſe. e The Edomites, Obad. 1. &c. and Moabites and other Heathen Nations, with whom I have had hoſtility, they are glad at the great miſery that hath befallen me. f But thou haſt declared thy pleaſure for their deſtruction alſo, and haſt by me proclaimed it, Jer. 49. and 50. and thou ſhalt in that day bring them into as ſad a condition as the Church of the Jews are now in. As they feldom in themſelves feel thoſe Miſeries, which they have felt and compaſſionated in others: So Men hardly eſcape their own ſhare at laſt in thoſe evils which they have rejoyced to ſee brought upon God's People.

22 Let all their wickedneſs come before thee: and do unto them, as thou haſt done unto me for all my tranſgreſſions: for my ſighs are many, and my heart is faint g.

g This Verſe is another Prophetical Curſe or Imprecation, ſeveral of which we meet with in Holy Writ, Pſal. 109. 6, 7, 8, 9. and 137. 8. Jer. 11. 20. and 18. 23. and in many other Texts, which would incline us to think that our Saviour's Precept, Matth. 5. 44. to pray for thoſe that perſecute us, back'd by his own Example, Luke 23. 34. and Stephen's, Acts 7. 60. is either to be interpreted of praying for the forgiveneſs of their ſins, (we ought to deſire the eternal Condemnation of none:) or to be reſtrained to ſuch as are our perſonal Enemies, not the common Enemies of the Church of God. Our Saviour's Precept moſt certainly is not to be ſo interpreted, but that we may lawfully pray for ſuch evils to the implacable Enemies of the Church, and People of God as may reſtrain and weaken their hands, and put them out of a capacity of waſting the Lord's Heritage; we are only obliged by it to wiſh well to their Souls, and to deſire no evil againſt them out of private revenge or malice, but only out of Love to God, and Zeal for his Glory; but for their outward Proſperity in their Courſes of Enmity we ought no more to pray, than againſt their eternal Salvation; for this were to beg of God to encourage his Enemies in their enmity againſt him. And though Jeremiah were a greater Prophet than any, of us can pretend to be, and had Revelations of particular future Contingencies which we have not; yet every one may propheſie a ruine to the Enemies of God's Church and People, and ſuch as rejoyce in their ruine; God never uſing a Rod againſt his People, which he doth not at laſt burn, nor ever countenancing Inhumanity in any, but much leſs when it is rooted in a malice againſt himſelf, and his intereſt in the World.

CHAP. II.

Jeremiah lamenteth the Miſery of Jeruſalem; and its Cauſes; and their Enemies deriſion, 1,——17. An Exhortation to true Sorrow and Repentance, a fervent Prayer, 18.——22.

1 HOW hath the LORD covered the daughter of Zion with a cloud in his anger a, and caſt down from heaven to the earth the daughter of Iſrael b, and remembred not his footſtool in the day of his anger c!

a It hath been formerly obſerved that great States and Kingdoms are often in Scripture expreſſed under the notion of daughters, Pſal. 137. 8. Iſa. 47. 1. 5. Lament. 4. 21, 22. Jer. 46. 11. Iſa. 10. 30. the meaning is, how hath God obſcured all the beauty and glory of the Church and State of the Jews. b That is, thrown them down from the higheſt pitch of Glory and Honour, to the greateſt degree of Baſeneſs and Servitude. c The Earth is called the Lord's Foot-ſtool, Iſa. 66. 1. Matth. 5. 35. Acts 7. 49. but here plainly the Temple is underſtood, called God's Foot-ſtool, 1 Chron. 28. 2. and the whole Temple ſeems rather to be underſtood, than the Ark, for we read of no indignity offered to the Ark by the Chaldeans, more than to any other part of the Temple; God had ſuffered the Chaldeans to burn the whole Temple, and it may juſtly be doubted whether thoſe other Texts that mention a worſhipping at God's Foot-ſtool, Pſal. 99. 5. and 132. 7. be not to be underſtood of worſhiping in the Temple, for it was not the privilege of all the Jews to come ſo near the Ark as to worſhip before that: The reaſon of the complaint is God's permiſſion of the Chaldeans to burn the Temple. See Jer. 52. 13.

2 The LORD hath ſwallowed up all the habitatiOns of Jacob, and hath not pityed d: he hath thrown down in his wrath the ſtrong holds of the daughter of Judah e: he hath † brought them down to the ground: † Heb. he hath polluted the kingdom and the princes there- made to of f. touch.

d As he hath had no reſpect to his own Houſe, ſo he hath had much leſs reſpect to the common Habitations of the Jews. e Their military Fortifications have been of no uſe to them, he hath made them to touch the ground, i. e. ſuffered the Enemies to batter them to the Earth. f That is, Either delivered them into the hands of Pagans whom to touch they judged a legal pollution, or elſe dealt with them as with a polluted thing, caſt them off, or brake them in pieces. All this is made the effect of God's Wrath, and his Work; for as a Man is ſaid to do that which he incourageth others to do, and aſſiſts them in doing; ſo God is ſaid to have done this, becauſe he did not only ſuffer the Chaldeans to do it, but uſed them as a Rod in his Hand, inclining them to do it, and aſſiſting them in the Execution of his Will.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce anger all the horn of Iſrael g: he hath drawn back his right hand from before the enemy h, and he burned againſt Jacob like a flaming fire, which devoureth round about i.

g That is, the beauty and ſtrength of Iſrael, ſo Horn ſignifieth by an uſual Metaphor in Scripture, Pſal. 75. 4. Jer. 48. 25, &c. the Horn being much the beauty of the Beaſt, as alſo that Member by which the Beaſt puts forth its ſtrength in aſſaulting its Adverſary. h Either God hath drawn back his Aſſiſtance which he was wont to give the Jews againſt their Enemies: Or Iſrael, through God's leaving of them, hath drawn back his right hand; but it ſeems rather to be underſtood of God's weakening the Iſraelites right hand, ſo as they were not able to hold them up (as before) againſt their Enemies. i God had conſumed them, not in this or that part, but round about, as a fire fiezing an houſe or heap of combuſtible matter at once, on all ſides.

4 He hath bent his bow like an enemy: he ſtood with his right hand as an adverſary k, and ſlew † all † Heb. that were pleaſant to the eye l, in the tabernacle of the deſire- the daughter of Zion: he poured out his fury like able of the fire m. eye.

k That is, God, (whom by their ſins they had provoked and made their Enemy) behaved himſelf as an Enemy, bending his Bow, and ſtretching out his right hand, l and ſlew their young Men, and Maideſs who were pleaſant to look upon. m And had brought Judgments upon them, like fire, which devours without any diſcrimination.

5 The LORD was an enemy; he hath ſwallowed up Iſrael, he hath ſwallowed up all her palaces; he hath deſtroyed his ſtrong holds, and hath increaſed in the daughter of Judah mourning and lamentation n.

n See Ver. 2. Several pathetical expreſſions ſignifying the ſame things, properly imitating the dialect of Mourners whoſe paſſion ſuffers them not to ſpeak according to Art, but frequently they ſay the ſame things over and over.

6 And he hath violently * taken away his‖ taber- * Iſa. 5 5. nacle, as if it were of a garden, he hath deſtroyed his ‖ Or, places of the aſſembly p: the LORD hath cauſed the hedge. ſolemn feaſts, and ſabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath deſpiſed in the indignation of his anger the king and the prieſt q.

o The word tranſlated Tabernacle (ſay ſome) ſignifies an hedge or fence, and they would have it here ſo tranſlated, and ſo the Phraſe ſhould denote God's withdrawing his Protection from the Jews, but it is no where ſo tranſlated. It is another word uſed, Pſal. 80. 12. and 89. 40. The moſt judicious Interpreters think that the word here ſignifieth the Temple, and the rather becauſe of what followeth. p By the places of the aſſembly may be underſtood the Synagogues. q By the King and the Prieſt are meant Perſons of greateſt Rank and Eminency, though it is thought here is a ſpecial reference to Zedekiah the King of Judah, and Seraiah who was the High-Prieſt, the former of which was miſerably handled, the latter ſlain.

7 The LORD hath caſt off his altar: he hath abhorred his ſanctuary r: he hath † given up into the † Heb. hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces s; * they ſhut up. have made a noiſe in the houſe of the LORD, as in a * Pſal. 74. day of the ſolemn feaſt t. 4.

r By Altar and Sanctuary ſeemeth not to be meant ſtrictly here the places or Buildings ſo called, which are ſaid to be the Lord's, becauſe he directed the making of them, and they were dedicated to his Service, and uſed for no other uſe; but the ſtated Worſhip and Communion of the Church of the Jews; as Altar is taken

1 Cor. 10. 18. Cast by his suffering the place to be destroyed where alone they might Sacrifice, seemed to have abhorred his own Institutions, as it is said, The prayers of the wicked are an abomination to the Lord. r He saith the Lord also had destroyed the most stately of their Civil Edifices. s And the Enemies with their Triumphs and Blasphemies, had made as great noise, to the reproach and dishonour of God, as before those that sang holy Songs, or plaid on Instruments were wont to make in the Temple to the Honour and Glory of God.

8 The LORD hath purposed to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion u; * he hath stretched out a line w, he hath not withdrawn his hand from † destroying x: therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament; they languished together y.

* 2 King. 21. 13. Is. 3. 11. † Heb. swallowing up.

u The term Wall in this Verse seemeth to be taken in a metaphorical sence, for the strength and security of the Jews (the strength and security of a place lying much in its Walls.) w Artificers use with Lines not only to mark out places for building, but also for destruction, to direct them what to cut off, such a Line is here meant. x God had gone on in destroying them. y And had made their Walls and Ramparts feeble, and to shake like a Man under some languishing Distemper, that had no strength left.

9 Her gates are sunk into the ground z, he hath destroyed and broken her bars a; * her king and her princes are among the Gentiles b; the law is no more c, her * prophets also find no vision from the LORD d.

* 2 Kings 24. 15. and 25. 6. 7. * Pfal 74. 9 Ezek. 7. 26.

z That is, the Gates of Jerusalem are destroyed, and covered over with Rubbish. a The Bolts of the Gates are broken. b Zedekiah and the Nobles of Judah that were not slain were in miserable Captivity. c The Law was no more read and opened, nor was there any more Sacrifices offered according to the prescript of it, nor any solemn Feasts kept according to the direction of it. d They had but very few Prophets amongst them from this time to the time of the Gospel, and very few of those at this time alive had any Revelations from God, we read only of this Prophet, Ezekiel, Daniel, and three after the Captivity, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachy.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion sit upon the ground, and keep silence e: they have * cast up dust upon their heads; they have girded themselves with sackcloth: the virgins of Jerusalem hang down their heads to the ground e.

* Job 2. 12.

e Sitting upon the ground, keeping silence, throwing Dust on their Heads, girding themselves with Sackcloth, hanging down the Head, were all of them Postures and Actions and Gestures of Mourners. The meaning of this whole Verse is, that the whole City of Hierusalem was in a very sad state and condition, and all Persons in it in a mournful posture. Not the common People only, but the gravest of their Magistracy and Ministery. Those who were wont to sit in the Chairs of Magistracy and of Teachers. Their young Women also which used to be most brisk and frolick, those whose condition was furthest off from sorrow, and who were least disposed to it, were now, all of them drowned in floods of it.

11 Mine eyes do fail with tears f, * my bowels are troubled g; my liver is poured upon the earth h, for the destruction of the daughter of my people i, because the children and the sucking ‖ swoon in the streets of the city k.

* Chap. 1. 20. ‖ Or, faint.

f This whole Verse is but expressive of the Prophet's great affliction for the Miseries come upon the Jews. He wept himself almost blind. g His passion had disturbed his bodily Humours, that his Bowels were troubled. h His gall lying under his Liver, upon this disturbance was vomited up, they are all no more than Expressions of very great affliction and sorrow. i For the miseries befallen the Jews, he had mourned for their sins before, and for their Plagues too which he had in prospect, Jer. 9. 1. he now mourns for them, as being come upon them; which mourning considered only as for their Miseries, spake no more than the Prophet's good Nature and Love to his Country: but considered as the Indication of God's Wrath and Displeasure was also a godly sorrow. k The Children and Sucklings fainted and swooned, either for want of Water, or Bread, or Milk in their Mothers or Nurses Breasts during the Famine, occasioned by the long Siege of the City. This appears in the next Verse.

12 They say to their mothers, Where is corn and wine? when they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the city, when their soul was poured out into their mothers bosom k.

k The little Children ignorant of the cause of the failure of their usual Food called to their Mothers for it as formerly, being ready to faint and die, as Men mortally wounded for want of Spirits and Blood use to faint, and died in their Mothers arms; for so I had rather interpret the Phrase poured out their souls, than (as some) understanding by Souls the desires of their Souls, for he is speaking of Sucklings as well as more grown Children, the Phrase is capable of both senses.

13 What thing shall I take to witness for thee? what thing shall I liken to thee, O daughter of Jerusalem? what shall I equal to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter of Zion? for thy breach is great like the sea; who can heal thee m?

m The Sum of this Verse is, That the miserable condition of the People was both incomparable and incurable. There was no People whose miserable condition was in any degree parallel to the misery of the Jews. It is some comfort to Persons in misery to consider, that others are, and have been as miserable as they, but the Prophet had not this Topick from whence to fetch an argument of comfort to the Jews; there were none to whom he could liken them, nor was there any present cure for them, their breach was like a Sea-breach where the Waters come in with such a Torrent, that while the Tide abates there is no making any bank or defence against them.

14 Thy * prophets have seen vain and foolish things for thee n, and they have not discovered thine iniquity, to turn away thy captivity o; but have seen for thee false burdens and causes of banishment p.

* Jer. 2. 8. & 5. 31. & 14. 14. & 23. 16. & 27. 14. & 29. 8. 9. Ezek. 13. 2.

n Not the Lords Prophets in thee, but those Prophets to whom you chose rather to hearken, and whom you believed rather than me, and others sent by God to reveal his Will unto you, came and told you idle and vain Stories, that those who were carried into Captivity, should after two Years return, &c. o And by telling you such smooth and pleasant things tickled your Humours instead of discovering your Sins, which were bringing these Judgments upon you; whereas they ought to have dealt freely, and faithfully with you, and have made you sensible of your sins, and this might have prevented your miserable Captivity. p But they rather spent their breath in telling you false Stories to incourage you in your sinful courses, and so proved to you the causes of your Banishment; or else they told you false Stories which they pretended to be the causes of the Captivity of your Brethren, in the mean time concealing the true causes, and suffering you to run on in the same Errors, till you came to be more miserable than those that went into Captivity before you.

15 All that † pass by, * clap their hands at thee; they hiss and wag their head at the daughter of Jerusalem q, saying, Is this the city that men call * the perfection of beauty, the joy of the whole earth q?

q This was according to God's Threatnings, 1 Kings 9. 8. Jer. 18. 16. and 19. 18. God had poured out all his Blessings upon this People, whatsoever might adorn them, or make them happy, so as all People blessed the Jewish Nation: But now the case was so altered, that all People scoffed at them, and hissed, and admired at the change which God had made.

16 * All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee: they hiss, and gnash the teeth: they say, We have swallowed her up: certainly this is the day that we looked for: we have found, we have seen it r.

* Chap. 3. 46.

r As Strangers that had no Quarrels with, nor Prejudices against the Jews, passing by their Country, and their great City Jerusalem, despised and scorned it, so their Enemies with whom they had former Quarrels, and who had taken up Prejudices against them, they reproached and abused them, and triumphed in their ruine, and in the success of their Arms against them, and blessed themselves as having now seen the day they had looked and wished for.

17 The LORD hath done that which he had devised: he hath fulfilled his word that he had commanded in the days of old: he hath thrown down and hath not pitied: and he hath caused thine enemy to rejoyce over thee, he hath set up the horn of thine adversaries s.

s God hath not surprized us by these Providences, he gave us notice what he would do, and hath done no more than what he threatned long since, Lev. 26. 16. &c. Deut. 28. 15, &c. It is true he hath severely punished us, so as in his Dispensation there appear no prints of pity, he hath set up our Enemies and hath made them to triumph over his People, but in all this he hath but justified his truth, and fulfilled his word.

18 Their heart cried to the Lord ‖, O wall of the daughter of Zion, * let tears run down like a river day and night; give thy self no rest, let not the apple of thine eyes cease u.

* Jer. 14. 17. Chap. 1. 16. ‖ Or, their heart cried unto the Lord.

t They cried unto God seriously, though not sincerely, from their heart, though not with their whole heart; either by the Wall, or upon the Wall, or (which is judged most probable) by occasion of the breaches made in the Wall. Upon this he turns his Discourse to the Wall it self, and calls to it, or to those that were upon it, or near it incessantly to mourn. In the Heb. it is let not the daughter of thine eye cease, we call it the Apple. The Latines, the Pupil, or Babe of the Eye.

19 Arise, cry out in the night: in the beginning of the watches pour out thine heart like water before the face of the LORD: lift up thine hands toward him, for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the top of every street w.

w The Prophet calls upon the Jews not to be slothful in this their very evil day, but to rise up from their Beds, and either at the beginning of the four Watches, or at the beginning of each Watch, at all times in the Night, to betake themselves to God by Prayer, and that not in a cold lazy manner, but so as to pour out their hearts with their words; and he moveth them so it, as for their own sake so for the sake of their young Children who every where, were starved to Death.

20 ¶ Behold, O LORD, and consider to whom thou hast done this x: * Shall the woman eat their fruit, and children ‖ of a span long y? shall the priest and the prophet be slain in the Sanctuary of the LORD?

* Lev. 26. 29. Deut. 28. 53. Jer. 19. 9. Chap. 4. 10. Ezek. 5. 10 ‖ Or, swadled with their hands.

x That is, not to Heathen who never owned thee, nor were called by thy Name, but to thine own People called thy Portion and thine Heritage; let thy former relation to us, and our former acknowledgments of thee, prevail with thee. y Wilt thou suffer, or should such a thing be, as for Women to satisfie their Hunger with the fruit of their own Bodies, and that when they are very young. z And shall thy Ministers be slain and that in thy Sanctuary? any humane Blood polluted it, shall not the blood of those that were the Ministers of God be judged a pollution, and profanation of it?

21 The young and the old lie on the ground in the streets, my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword: * thou hast slain them in the day of thine anger, thou hast killed, and not pitied a.

* Chap. 3. 43.

a None of what Sex or Age soever are spared; though the hands of the Chaldeans have done this, yet they have been set on and assisted by thee, and have been but the Executioners of thy wrath and displeasure.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemn day, my terrors round about b, so that in the day of the LORDS anger none escaped, nor remained: those that I have swadled and brought up, hath mine enemy consumed c.

b As my People were wont to be called together from all parts in a solemn day, when they were to meet at Jerusalem from all parts of Judea, so now by thy Providence my terrible Enemies, or terrible things are by thee called together against that Holy City, whither thy People were wont to be called to thy solemn Worship. c Thou hast made me as a great mother to bring up many inhabitants that were my Children, and now the Enemy hath consumed the far greater number of them.

CHAP. III.

The faithful bewail their Misery and Contempt. 1—21. They nourish their hope by Consideration of the Justice, Providence, and Mercies of God, 22—38. They stir up themselves to Repentance, Patience, Prayers and confidence of deliverance for themselves, and Divine vengeance on their Enemies, 39—66.

1 I Am the man a that hath seen affliction by the rod of his wrath b.

a Some understand this of the Prophet, some of the People, who were before set out under the Notion of a Woman, a Daughter, here of a man. b Affliction must here be taken Emphatically for eminent degrees of affliction, caused not meerly from the power and malice of the Enemy, but from the Wrath of God, who brought upon them by the Chaldeans who were to the two Tribes, the Rod of God's Wrath, as the Assyrians are called with reference to the ten Tribes, Isa. 10. 5.

2 He hath led me, and brought me into darkness, but not into light c.

c Darkness in Scripture (metaphorically taken) signifies Ignorance, Sin and Misery; and Light signifies Knowledge, a state of Grace, or a state of mirth and jollity, they are both here taken in the latter sense, as light is taken, Esther 8. 16. Micah 7. 8. Job 18. 5, Pfal. 97. 11. and also Darkness is used, Jer. 13. 16. & Sam. 22. 29. Prov. 20. 20. Joel 2. 2 Ezek. 32. 8. The sense is God hath not brought me into a joyful and prosperous, but into a sad and calamitous estate and condition.

3 Surely against me is he turned, he turneth his hand against me all the day d.

d The course of God's Providence toward me is quite altered, his hand, that is, his power which was wont to be with me, and for me against my Enemies, is now turned against me, nor is it for a moment, or for one stroke or two, but his hand is continually against me.

4 My flesh and my skin hath he made old, he hath broken my bones e.

e I was a Virgin, young and fair, but I am quite altered, and am now as an old Woman whose Flesh is decayed, and my Skin wrinkled; all my Beauty is gone, and all my Strength is gone, my Bones, those in whom my strength consisted, are slain and broken.

5 He hath builded against me f, and compassed me with gall and travail g.

f He hath not builded with me increasing my prosperity, and protecting my Houses, but he hath builded Forts and Batteries and Castles, (military Buildings) to batter down my Walls and Houses; Isa. 29. 2, 3. g Or with Poison, Venom and Misery (as some Translate it) and it seems more proper than gall and travail; which have no cognation one with another. We are not well acquainted with the ancient Dialect of other Countries, the sense is obvious, God had surrounded them with Misery and Calamities.

6 * He hath set me in dark places, as they that be dead of old h.

* Pfal. 88. 5, 6.

h The Prophet compareth their state in Babylon to the state of Bodies in the Graves, or in some Charnel House, which are places of darkness, full of rottenness and dead Mens Bones. Such was the state of the Jews in Jerusalem during the time of the Siege before the City was taken, when Jerusalem was a most miserable place by reason of the Multitudes slain by the Enemy, or by the Famine: Such was their estate in Babylon, where the company of Heathens made their state, as the state of the living amongst the dead.

7 * He hath hedged me about, that I cannot get out i: he hath made my chain heavy k.

* Job 3. 23 & 19. 8.

i The use of an Hedge about an inclosed Field, is twofold: To keep out other Beasts, which belong not to the Owner of the Ground; in this sense God set an Hedge sometimes about Canaan, Isa. 5. 5. 2. To keep in those Beasts that are within, thus God had now hedged them in, into a Barren place where they had no Pasture, but were continually pushed at by other Beasts with whom they were mixed, and who were stronger than they, and they could not get out. k God had dealt with them as with grievous Malefactors, who are loaded with heavy Chains. He had made their affliction heavy and insupportable.

8 Also when I cry and shout l, he shutteth out my prayer m.

l In the condition I am in, I cannot help my self, no Creatures can help me, I have no hope but in God, I take the ordinary course in that case, which is Prayer, I pray fervently and aloud as those that are serious and importunate for what they desire (for shouting here signifies no more than making a loud noise, not a loud noise of Joy and rejoycing, as it mostly signifies) but he deals with me as great Persons that have no mind to listen to Suitors, and shut their Gates against them, he shutteth out my Supplications, which made their case wholly desperate and remediless.

9 He hath inclosed my ways with hewen stones n, he hath made my paths crooked o.

n Ways in Scripture ordinarily signifies Mens Courses, and methods of Counsels, and Actions; if the term be taken in that sense here, it signifieth God's defeating all their Methods and Counsels taken for their own security, in the pursuit of which they met not with ordinary, but with insuperable difficulties like Walls of hewen Stone. o Nay God had not only defeated their Counsels, but had made them prove more fatal and pernicious to themselves, which seemeth to be intended, by making their ways crooked, which should have led right on to the end intended.

10 * He was unto me as a bear lying in wait, and as a lion in secret places p.

* Job 10. 16. Is. 38. 13. Hos. 5. 14.

p That is he hath taken all advantages against me to destroy me.

11 He hath turned aside my ways, and pulled me in pieces, he hath made me desolate q.

q The same thing is repeated in other Phrases, which was before said, viz. That God had pleased by his Providence to frustrate all the designs and counsels of the Jews, and miserably to destroy them, as a Lion, or a Bear (the wild Beasts mentioned before) tear in pieces the Beasts they prey upon.

12 He hath bent his bow, and * set me as a mark for the arrow r.

* Job 7. 20. & 16. 12.

r He hath prepared himself for acts of vindicative Justice, and he hath made me the object of it.

13 He hath caused the † arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins s.

s That is, he hath made his Judgments, to pierce the most inward parts of the Nation; or he hath mortally wounded me. In the Heb. it is the daughters of his quiver, a way of speaking very usual in Hebrew, to express any thing that comes from another as the effect either of a natural or moral cause, so Sparks are called the Sons of the quick coal, Job 5. 7. and corn the Son of the floor, &c.

14 I was * a derision to all my people, and * their song all the day t.

* Jer. 20. 7. * Job 30. 9. Pfal. 69. 12. Ver. 63.

t Though some think the Prophet speaks this of himself, yet, considering he hath all along spoken in the Name of the People, it is not probable, which makes a difficulty, how the People could be a derision to themselves? It seemeth therefore ill Translated, and that it should have been, I was a derision to all people, leaving out my, that is, to all Foreigners, to whom the Jews were made a derision and an hissing, there only wants the Iait Letter in כלי, and it is well observed by the learned Author of the Eighteen Annotations that the like defect is to be found as to the same word, 2 Sam. 22. 44. compared with Pfal. 18. 43. so that ' is not a Pronoun affix (upon which suppofal our Translators go) but one of the Letters that form the plural number, the other being left out, and כל put for כלם.

15 He hath filled me with † bitterness, he hath made me drunken with wormwood u.

u That is, he hath filled me with severe and bitter dispensations; Wormwood is a bitter Herb, but it is also a wholesome Herb, and therefore some think that the Hebrew word should rather be Translated Henbane, and that it signifies some Herb whose juice is intoxicating and poisonous.

16 He hath also broken my teeth with gravel-stones, he hath ‖ covered me with ashes w.

‖ Or, roll me in the ashes.

w These are but more metaphorical expressions signifying the unpleasant difficult condition into which God had brought this people. They were like Men that lived upon gritty bread, more fit to break their teeth than to nourish them; they were in the state of Mourners, and no ordinary Mourners, who were wont to throw ashes on their heads, they were all over covered with ashes.

17 And thou hast removed my soul far off from peace x: I forgat † prosperity y.

x Peace, here signifieth prosperity, rather than a freedom from war. Though during the Siege they were far from Peace in a strict sense, yet in their Captivity they had that peace, but both their minds were far off from quiet, and their Persons from Prosperity; the Prophet observeth God as the cause of this. y They had in Canaan lived prosperously, but now they thought of it no more, nor understood what such a thing meant.

18 And I said, My strength and my hope is perished from the LORD.

‖ Or, remember.

19 ‖ Remembring mine affliction and my misery, the wormwood and the gall z.

z If according to our Translation we read Remembring, or while I remember, these two Verses contain but one Sentence; in the former part the Prophet in the Name of this People expresseth their despairing Condition; in the latter he gives the reason of it, viz. The Peoples poring upon their great, and heavy afflictions, which he compares to wormwood and gall, two things exceedingly bitter, and often made use of to signifie great affliction, Psal. 69. 21. Jer 8. 14. and 9. 15. and 23. 15. Rev. 8. 11. But it may as well be read imperatively, Remember mine affliction, so the first of these two Verses expresseth the dejection of the Peoples Minds in their Captivity caused through their proneness to despair of any better condition that their angry God would bring them into. The 29th Verse is a Prayer directed to God, which shewed that though they were mightily perplexed, yet they were not in utter despair; and to this lence the following Verses seem to incline.

20 My soul hath them still in remembrance: and is † humbled within me a.

a That is, I cannot forget them, and the thoughts of them sink my spirits.

† Heb. I make to return to my heart.

21 This I † recall to my mind, therefore have I hope b.

b This, not what was already said, that made them despair, and their Souls to bow down; but this, that which followeth, concerning the Nature of God, and other good Providences. I see nothing in the circumstances of my condition to comfort me, but I see something in God's Nature, and in some other Dispensations of his Providence, which gives me ground to hope for better things than an utter ruine and destruction.

* Mal. 3. 6.

22 ¶ * It is of the LORD's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not c.

c Mercy is nothing else but Love flowing freely from any, to Persons in misery, and differs from compassion only in the freeness of the emanation. It is nor because God had not power enough utterly to have consumed us, nor because we had not guilt enough to have provoked his Justice to have put an end to our Lives, as well as to the Lives of many thousands of our Countreymen, but it is meerly from the Lords free Love and Pity to us in our Miseries. If God had not a Blessing in store for us, how is it that we are Captives, and not slain as many others were during the Siege?

23 They are new every morning, great is thy faithfulness d.

d These Compassions of God are renewed Day by Day, to declare the great faithfulness of God in fulfilling his many promises made for Mercy to his People.

* Psal. 16. 5. & 73. 26. & 119. 57. Jer. 10. 16.

24 The LORD is my * portion, saith my soul, therefore will I hope in him e.

e God is the portion of his People, and they have chosen him as their portion, he hath declared himself to them as such, and they have accepted him as such. This gives them ground both for Patience under his Providences, and also of expectation of good from him in their lowest and meanest state.

25 The LORD is good to them that wait for him, to the soul that seeketh him f.

f Good is a term of a very comprehensive notion. The nature of it lieth in a fitableness to the thing or person to whom it relateth. So it signifieth profit and pleasantness. There is in God an essential goodness, which is his absolute perfection; but this Text speaketh of a communicative goodness, which floweth from him to his Creatures, and is seen in his suting their various necessities and desires with satisfactory dispensations of Providence. Though God be in one degree or other good to all, yet he is more especially good to the true Worshippers of him; yet possibly not in their seasons or times when they expect or would have God shew himself so to them, in this or that way, but always to those who wait for him, patiently induring Trials and Afflictions until God please to send them deliverance.

26 It is good that a man should both hope, and quietly wait for the salvation of the LORD g.

g Good here either signifies honestum, what becomes Men, and is their Duty; or Utile, what is profitable, and will turn to good account to them. Hoping and waiting differ but as the mother and daughter. Hope being the Mother of Patience and Waiting, or as the Habit and Act. Hoping and Waiting being much the same, flowing a gracious power and habit given the Soul to wait. Quietness is necessary to waiting, for all turbulency and impatience of Spirit under bad Providences is opposed to waiting. The Salvation of the Lord refers to the outward Man, in preserving or delivering us from dangers. Or to the Soul and inward Man, in preserving us from, and delivering our Souls out of dangers they fear, or evils they are prested with. Now for a Man in the midst of all evils to hope in God, and without turbulence or disorder in himself, to wait for a preservation from, or a delivery out of any evils, is what becometh a Man (a Child of God especially) and will turn to a good account to them.

27 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth h.

h Good here must be expounded in the same sense as in the foregoing Verse. It is not pleasant, but it is profitable, it is honourable, what becomes us, and is our Duty, quietly and patiently to bear what afflictions God will please to lay upon us, to restrain our wild and wanton Spirits when they are most prone to be too brisk and lascivious. Some by Yoke understand the Law of God, called a yoke (because indeed it is so to flesh and blood) Matth. 11. 29. It is not so easie to bend a Neck stiffened with Age, or change an Heart made hard by Custom. Solomon bids us to train up one in their Youth in the way we would have them to walk; and whether God will tame us when young, by his Word or by his Rod, it is of advantage to a Man: It is also laudable, and what becomes a Man, early to bear the yoke of God's Law, or to bear afflictive Providences, to have his heart betimes humbled to the Will and feet of God.

28 He sitteth alone and keepeth silence, because he hath born it upon him b.

b Our English Annotations supplying That, makes the connexion clear. It is good for a Man, that he sit alone, Jer. 15. 17. not doing what he doth to be seen of Men, but sitting alone, and when he is alone, suppreding the mutines of his Spirit, and keeping his Soul in subjection to God, because God hath humbled him by his Rod, humbling himself to his Will.

29 He putteth his mouth in the dust, if so be there may be hope i.

i If that may be supplied, or when (as Pagnine translateth it), Ver. 28. the connexion of these words with the former, is very fair and easie, for then those words, Ver. 27. It is good that must be repeated in the beginning of Ver. 28. and 29. however both this and the former Verses let us know the Duty of Persons under Afflictions in order to their obtaining Mercy at the Hand of God, and admirably give us the Character of Persons under afflictions preparing for Mercy. They hope, and quietly wait for God's Salvation, Ver. 26. they bear Gods yoke, Ver. 27. because he hath laid it upon them. They sit alone and keep silence, Ver. 28. and here they put their mouths in the dust, that is, humble themselves to the feet of God, and to the Will of God; not being too confident of deliverances in this Life, but if peradventure there may be hope.

30 He giveth his cheek to him that smiteth him k: he is filled full with reproach.

k According to our Saviour's Precept, Matth. 5. 39. he doth not take any private Revenge, he is reproached and reviled, but when he is so he revileth not again, 1 Pet. 2. 23. he is filled with reproach from others, but his mouth is not filled with the reproachings of others.

31 For the LORD will not cast off for ever m.

m This is that which beareth up his spirits, that though the Lord may for a time estrange himself from his People, yet he will not always forsake them.

32 But though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies n.

n But though as a prudent Parent he may see reason to cause grief in, and to afflict his own People, yet as a tender good Father, that pitieth his Children in Misery he will have compassion upon them, having not only Mercies, but a multitude or abundance of Mercies.

* Ezek. 33. 11.

33 For * he doth not afflict † willingly, nor grieve the children of men o.

o In the Hebrew it is he doth not afflict from his heart, that is with pleasure and delight; or (which seemeth the best sense to me) not from his own meer motion without a cause given him from the Persons afflicted. Hence Judgment is called Gods strange work; shewing Mercy is his proper natural Work, which floweth from himself without any cause in the Creature. Judgment is his strange work to which he never proceedeth but when provoked, and as it were forced from the Creature, whence it followeth, that he cannot delight in it.

34 To crush under his feet all the prisoners of the earth p.

35 To turn away the right of a man before the face of ‖ the most High q.

36 To subvert a man in his cause, the LORD ‖ approveth not r.

p Here are three things mentioned, of all which it is said, that God approveth them not, neither all, nor any of them. The first is to crush the prisoners of the earth; he hath power to crush all Men in the World, they are his Prisoners, and cannot fly from him, but he delighteth not in it: Some think it spoken with special reference to the Jews who now were all Captives. q A second thing which it is said God approveth not, is turning away the right of a man before the face of the most high. Some, by the most High understand God, and make the sense to be in the sight of God. Others think that a Superiour Magistrate is understood, who Eccl. 5. 8. is called the Highest; and that seemeth the most probable sense. The turning away the right of a Man before them, signifieth the use of any Arts to deprive them of their just Right by misrepresenting their Cause, aspersing their Persons, &c. r The third thing mentioned is the subverting a man in his cause, either by Art, and Rhetorick, making it to appear bad when it is not so, or by meer Will and Power over-ruling it contrary to Right and Justice.

* Psal. 33. 9.

37 ¶ Who is he * that saith, and it cometh to pass, when the LORD commandeth it not s.

s The sence of these words is doubted by none. That nothing cometh to pass in the World, but by the disposal of Divine Providence, either effecting it by an immediate influence, or permitting it: But to what end these words are brought in this place, is not so generally agreed. Some think they are brought in to check the Blasphemy of some that spake of what had befallen the Jews as a thing which God had no hand in. Others think they are brought in as expounding that term that went before, The Lord seeth not. Though God doth not approve of sinful actions, nor incline any Man's Heart or Will to them, yet God hath an hand in the permission of the most cruel and unjust actions, which he could easily hinder. I should rather incline to interpret them as an Argument brought by the Prophet in the Name of the People of God, arguing themselves into a quiet submission to the afflictive Providences under which they laboured from the confideration of the Superior hand of God in them, as Christ told Pilate, Thou couldst not have had any power against me, if it had not been given thee from above: Shall there be evil in a City, and the Lord hath not done it, Amos 3. 6.

* Isa. 45. 7.

38 Out of the mouth of the most High proceedeth not * evil and good t?

t In the Heb. the form of these words is interrogatory, as much as if he should say, Doth not evil come out of God's Mouth from his Direction and Command, and from his Providence, as well as good? He speaks of evils of punishment, judicial afflictive Dispensations; so it agreeth with Job 2. 10. Amos 3. 6. It is no reproach unto God to make him the Author of his own Punishments, tho' we call them evil.

* Prov. 19. 3. ‖ Or, murmur.

39 * Wherefore doth a living man ‖ complain u? a man for the punishment of his sins w?

u This Verse admits of various Senses, caused from the various interpretation of the Hebrew word, which we Translate complain, which also signifies to mourn or grieve, so some render it; why doth a living Man grieve or vex himself? But the word is noted most generally to signifie complaining or murmuring. w The word also which we Translate Sin, sometimes signifieth that oblique act which we call Sin; and those who Interpret the former word grieve or vex, thus understand the word Translated Sin, supplying some such words as these, Let him mourn for his sin? Why doth he mourn for his Afflictions and Plagues, let him rather spend his Tears upon his Sins. But the word also signifies the guilt of sin, or obligation to Death, which it layeth Men under, sin lieth at the door, Gen. 4. 7. so also Gen. 20. 9. and also any punishment brought upon Men for sin. Gen. 4. 13. where we Translate it punishment. This sense our Translators follow. The Prophet then in the Person of the Jews, checks himself in his Complaints for their Punishments from the consideration, that nothing had befallen them, but what was the just reward of their sins.

40 Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the LORD x.

x Seeing God doth not grieve us willingly, nor delight to crush us though we be his Prisoners, and seeing the Hand of God is in these things upon us, and that justly to recompence our Iniquities into our Bosoms, instead of murmuring and fretting against God, which is not reasonable, nor will be of any profit to us, Let us examine our Thoughts, Words and Actions, and confider what they have been, and reform, and turn again to the Lord, by apostatizing from whom we have brought these evils upon us.

41 Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto God in the heavens y.

y Let us apply our selves unto God by Prayer, often expressed under this Notion in Scripture from that gesture ordinarily used in Prayer: and let us not do it in Hypocrisie, but joyning our Hearts with our Hands, praying seriously and fervently.

42 We have transgressed and have rebelled, thou hast not pardoned z.

z The Prophet doth not dictate words, but sense to them; teaching them the matter of their Prayer first by way of Confession. Sin is called a Transgression, because it is going aside from the way of God's Precepts; it is called Rebellion, because it is an act contrary to that Allegiance and Duty, which we owe unto God, and the Covenant we have made with him. By pardoning here is meant, the discharge of the guilty Persons from the temporal punishment due for sin (as it is often taken in Scripture) so it signifies, thou hast plagued us according to the just desert of our sins.

* Chap. 2. 21.

43 Thou hast covered with anger a, and persecuted us; * thou hast slain, thou hast not pitied b.

a Either thou hast covered thy self with anger, or covered thy own Face with anger, so as not to look upon us to move thy Pity, or (which is more probably the sense) thou hast covered, that is overwhelmed us with thy Wrath. b Thou hast pursued us to a fatal ruine, without shewing us any pity.

44 Thou hast covered thy self with a cloud, that our prayer should not pass through c.

c God had covered them with Wrath, overwhelming them with Afflictions, so as they had no way to escape; and whereas in this distress they had nothing else to do, but only to apply themselves to God, he had hid his Face from them, so as they could get no comfortable sight of him, he was as one covered with a Cloud that could not be discerned through that opacous Body. What is meant by this Cloud, whether, his fixed resolution to punish them, or his sixth remembrance of their sins, or his just Will to be revenged on them, seems too curiously inquired. The Phrase is a Metaphor, and signifies no more than that God would not hear their Prayers in their distress

* 1 Cor. 4. 13.

45 Thou hast made us as the * off-scouring and refuse in the midst of the people d.

d That is, thou hast made us to all Nations extreamly contemptible, so as they value us no more than the Sweepings of their Houses, or the most vile, refuse, and contemptible things imaginable.

* Chap. 2. 16.

46 * All our enemies have opened their mouths against us e.

e That is, to mock, scoff, and reproach us.

* Isa. 24. 17. Jer. 48. 43.

47 * Fear and a snare is come upon us, desolation and destruction f.

f All manner of misery was come upon them. They were seized first with fears and terrors, going to escape these they fell into a Snare, or (as it is in the Heb.) into a Pit, out of which they could not get, they were wasted, made desolate and destroyed.

* Jer. 4. 19. & 14. 17.

48 * Mine eye runneth down with rivers of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people.

49 Mine eye trickleth down, and ceaseth not, without any intermission g.

g The Prophet was deeply affected upon the prospect of this evil before it came, Jer. 9. 1. and was now much more affected when he saw the Judgment was come, he wept plentifully and constantly, as for their sins which had brought these Judgments upon them, so for the Judgments themselves, as Indications of God's Displeasure and Wrath against them for their Transgressions.

50 Till the LORD look down, and behold from heaven h.

h That is, until the Lord sheweth me some favour. See the Notes on Psal. 80. 1. Ver. 9.

† Heb. my soul. ‖ Or, more than all.

51 Mine eye affecteth † mine heart, ‖ because of all the daughters of my city k.

k The Eye and the Ear, are those Organs of the Body, by which the Soul exerciseth its Senses to bring in all Objects whether pleasant or sad to the understanding to judge of them, according to the judgment of which upon them it is affected, with Joy or Sorrow, Desire or Aversation, &c. and the Eye is the chiefest of these, because its Evidence is more certain, and less subject to deceit. The Prophet, and most of the Jews were Eye-witnesses to the Evils which had befallen the Jews, and which at present were upon them; so as their Hearts were the more affected. The word Translated affect, is by some noted to signifie to waste and consume, which are the effects of a deep affecting the Heart with sad and miserable Objects. k Our Margent tells us, that it may be also read more than all the Daughters of my City; according to which, the sense is, that he was more affected with the State of Jerusalem, than the tenderest Woman that had lived in it; but it is as well, if not better in this place rendred causally; shewing the reason of his deep affliction, viz. all those Miseries he had seen fall upon all the Jewish Nation, or upon all the Inhabitants of Jerusalem.

* Psal. 35. 19. & 69. 4. & 109 3. & 119. 161.

52 Mine enemies chased me fore like a bird, * without cause l.

l As Boys beat a Bird from Bush to Bush, suffering it to rest no where, so mine Enemies to whom I gave no cause pursued me.

53 They have cut off my life in the dungeon; and cast a stone upon me m.

m Dungeon seemeth not to be here taken literally for the lowest and nastiest place in Prisons, which probably was the portion but of a few of the Jews; but metaphorically for the lowest and saddest condition of Misery. Their Enemies had brought them into the deepest Miseries to the cutting off of their Lives, and as Men use to roll great Stones upon the Mouths of Dens and Pits, where they have shut up Persons to make them sure from escaping out, so their Enemies had dealt with them, doing what lay in them to make their Condition remediless and desperate.

* Psal. 69. 2. & 124. 4. 5.

54 * Waters flowed over mine head n, then * I said, I am cut off o.

n Afflictions often in Scripture are called Water. Isa. 28. 17, 18. and 59. 19. o That is, I am utterly undone, there is no hope for me.

* Psal. 31. 22. Isa. 38. 10, 11.

55 ¶ * I called upon thy name, O LORD, out of the low dungeon p.

* Psal. 130. 1.

p That is, out of my deepest affliction, as Jonah out of the belly of Hell, Jonah 2. 2. I cried unto God, and called upon him for mercy.

56 Thou hast heard my voice q, hide not thine ear at my breathing, at my cry r.

q I in former great Afflictions applied my self unto thee, and thou didst hear me. r Shew me now the same favour. Our former experiences of God's goodness to us in hearing our Prayers, ought to hold up our hands in Prayer, and beget a confidence in us that we persisting in our Duty, shall find God the same God, yesterday, this day, and for ever.

57 Thou drewest near in the day that I called upon thee s: thou saidst, Fear not t.

s There was a time when I was in distress, and called upon thee, and thou didst draw near unto me. God is never far off from any of us, as to his essential prefence; nor is it possible that he should, for he filleth all places. But he is said to be near us or far off from us, as he manifests, or doth not manifest his goodness to us by acts of gracious Providence; of that drawing near the Text speaketh. God being infinite in goodness and mercy, is spoken of as absent from those Persons and places, where he is not shewing mercy, and present only there where he sheweth forth his goodness, and to be drawing nigh to them to whom he beginneth to shew Mercy. t Thou didst incourage me formerly upon my Prayer.

58 O LORD, thou hast pleaded the causes of my soul u, thou hast redeemed my life w.

u Thou hast been wont to take my part against my Enemies, not like a Lawyer by word of mouth, but actually and really pleading my cause. w Thou hast saved me from many a danger which looked fatally upon me.

59 O LORD, thou hast seen my wrong x, judge thou my cause y.

x Thou hast a perfect knowledge of Mens perverse, and unrighteous dealings with me at this time. y Do thou judge betwixt me and mine Enemies, and deal with them according to what shall appear just to thee.

60 Thou hast seen all their vengeance z, and all their imaginations against me a.

z Thou hast been a witness to all their fury and rage. a And all their malicious and bloody contrivances against me.

61 Thou hast heard their reproach, O LORD! and all their imaginations against me b.

b What a Whatever knowledge Men get of things done from their Eye or Ear, thou hast from thy omniscience, thou knowest not only their malicious actions, but words and thoughts.

62 The lips of those that rose up against me and their device against me all the day c.

c That is, thou hast observed and noted the motions, or products of my Enemies lips, and their secret devices, before they came out of their lips.

* Ver. 14. 63 Behold their sitting down, and rising up, *.I am their musick d.

d That is at all times when they sit down, and rise up I am their song. Though probably the words have a special reference to their sitting down at Feasts, and at their merry meetings, I am all the subject of their discourse, they spend their time in mocking and scoffing at us, and at Jerusalem; we are they that make them sport.

* Psa. 28. 4. 64 ¶ * Render unto them a recompense, O LORD, according to the work of their hands e.

e These three last verses are all but the same general petition, though expressed in various phrases, the Prophet had prayed, ver. 59. that God would judge his peoples cause, here he prayeth that he would also judge his Enemies, he only desireth justice against them, a recompence of the work of their hands.

‖ Or, abstinacy of heart. 65 Give them ‖ sorrow of heart f, thy curse unto them.

f The word translated sorrow of heart is found no where else in Holy Writ, which makes a certain particular explication of it to be difficult, and hath given Interpreters a strange liberty in translating it, strife, sorrow, and grief, obstinacy or hardness of heart, perplexity, dejection or breaking of heart; the best guides we have to direct us in the sence of it are, 1. The other things joyned with it, persecution, destruction, a recompense according to their works, so that some afflictive evil of an heavy nature is certainly signified by it. 2. The Analogy of Faith which restraineth us from wishing or praying for spiritual or eternal evils against our worst Enemies; if therefore probably signifies, such perplexity, and breakings of mind as commonly attend a state of great affliction.

* Psal. 8. 3. 66 Persecute them and destroy them in anger from under * the heavens of the LORD g.

g Bring them to a temporal ruine and destruction. How far such Petitions are lawful we have before shewed, in our Notes on Psal. 69. 22, 23, 24, &c. and 109. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, &c. Jer. 11. 20. & 15. 15. See also Chap. 1. 22. It is hard to interpret all passages of this nature which we meet with as Prophecies, though some of them are so, and others may be both Prophecies and Prayers.

CHAP. IV.

Zion bewaileth her Misery: Confesseth her Sins, 1,——6. Miseries of the Chief ones: Women who killed and dressed their own Children, 7,——12. The Sin of the false Prophets and Priests: Their vain hope, 13, ——19. Their King taken Prisoner, 20. Edom is threatned: And Zion comforted, 21, ——22.

1 HOW is the gold become dim! how is the most fine gold changed a! the stones of the sanctuary are poured out in the top of every street b.

a Though some take Gold here metaphorically as signifying the most precious things, yet the most and best Interpreters take it in its native sense, for the Gold which adorned the Temple either in its cieling or in its vessels, the house of the Lord being burnt by Nebuzaradan, Jer. 52. 13. the Gold in and about the Temple must needs be discoloured, How! is here a note of admiration. b That is, are tumbled down and scattered in the head of every Street about the City.

2 The precious sons of Zion c, comparable to fine gold, how are they esteemed as earthen pitchers, the work of the hands of the potter d.

c Either the Nobles and Great Men, or the Priests, or the good Men amongst the Jews d, that for their intrinsick worth, and value may be compared to Gold, are lookt upon no better than earthen Vessels, the workmanship of an ordinary Potter. God carrying Jeremiah down to the Potters house, Jer. 18. 2. and 19. 1. had taught them that they were no more in his hand, he now proveth it by his providence, they were indeed made so, and as miserably and irreparably broken in pieces.

‖ Or. Sea-Calves. 3 Even the ‖ sea monsters draw out the breast, they give suck to their young ones: the daughter of my people is become cruel e, like the ostriches in the wilderness f.

e The learned Author of our English Annotations, well observeth that whatever Creature is here intended by the word Translated Sea-monsters, yet our Translation is not proper, the Text speaking of Creatures of God's making, Monsters, properly signifying such as have something beyond their natural bulk and proportion. What Creatures are signified by the Hebrew term, whether Sea Calves, or Dragons, or Serpents, or Whales, is very hard to say, the Hebrew word signifying some Creatures, occurring so rarely as it is not easie to determine the Species, from the word used to express it. He certainly speaks of some brute Beasts, and those that are most savage, he saith there are none such, but by a natural instinct feed and nourish their young ones. f But the Jewish Women were become cruel to their Children, either forced to appear so, having through the Famine no Milk to give them, nor any thing to relieve them, or were indeed so, killing them to make Food for themselves, as Chap. 2. 20. g Like Ostriches that lay their Eggs, and leave them in the Sand, and are hardned against their young ones, (as Job 39. 14, 15, 16.) some think a kind of Owls are intended, which for want of Meat eat up their Young ones as the Jewish Women now did. See Ver. 10.

4 The tongue of the sucking child cleaveth to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the young children ask bread, and no man breaketh it unto them h.

h As the fatness of the Mothers Milk makes it instead of Bread and Flesh to the sucking Child, so the moisture of it makes it to be as Drink to allay its heat, the Children wanting this moisture their Mouths were hot and dry; it was a time of Famine, the little Children understanding not the cause of the City, were importunate for something to eat, but none had enough for himself, much less for others See Chap. 2. 12, 13.

5 They that did feed delicately are desolate in the streets: they that were brought up in scarlet, embrace the dunghills i.

i This Judgment reached not only to the common People, but to Persons of the highest Rank and Order, whose misery was now so much the greater, because so contrary to their former splendid state and way of living. They were wont to fare deliciously now they wanted bread to eat, and were desolate in the Streets. They were wont to eat upon Scarlet Carpets, or to lodge upon Scarlet Beds, and Couches, now they search for their Meat upon, or were glad to lie upon Dunghills.

‖ Or, iniquity. 6 For the ‖ punishment of the iniquity of the daughter of my people, is greater than the punishment of the sin of Sodom, that was * overthrown as in a moment, no hands stayed on her k.

* Gen. 19. 25.

k The word Translated Punishment, signifies also Iniquity (as was said in the Notes on Chap. 3. Ver. 39.) the sins of the Jews are compared to the sins of Sodom, Isa. 3. 9. Ezek. 16. 46, 48, 49. Hence their Rulers are called Rulers of Sodom, Isa. 1. 10. either their sins were specifically the same (as they were) as to many sins, Ezek. 16. 49. or they were of an equal magnitude, and provocative nature. The Prophet here complains, That they were punished like Sodom, Amos 4. 11. yea and their punishment was greater, because more lingring, and gradual, whereas Sodom was overthrown in a moment, and that by no humane hands that abode upon her, causing her a continued torment, as there did upon the Jews. David said, It is better to fall into the immediate hand of God, than into the hands of Men.

7 Her Nazarites l were purer then snow, they were whiter than milk, they were more ruddy in body than rubies, their polishing was of sapphire m.

l By Nazarites in this place the most and best Interpreters do not understand Persons, who were of the Religious Order of Nazarites, the Laws of which Order are to be read, Numb. 6. 2. and of whom we read Amos 2. 11, 12. for here is a Beauty described (under several Metaphors) which could never agree to them; but Persons that were nobly and ingenuously bred. The word Nezer signifying a Crown, or Ensign of Honour, 2 Sam. 1. 10. 2 Kings 11. 12. The Name Nazarite was given to Persons splendid for their Breeding, and Education, or Honour and Dignity, it is given to Joseph, Gen. 49. 26 we Translate it separate from his Brethren, Deut. 33. 16. so Nahum 3. 17. Her Nazarites in this place signifieth her separated ones, who either in respect of Birth, Education, Estate, places of Magistracy or the like, were distinguished from the rest of the People. m He expresseth their former splendid Estate by the Metaphors of Snow, Milk, Rubies, and Sapphires.

8 Their visage is † blacker than a coal n: they † Heb. darker than black-ness. are not known in the streets o: their skin cleaveth to their bones: it is withered, it is become like a stick p.

n They that in the prosperity of the City were fair, plump and ruddy, look now black for want of fit nourishment, and through sorrow and grief. o Insomuch that those who before knew them by their Countenances, Garbs, and Habits, did not now know them. p And by reason of the Famine, (for he speaketh with relation to the Famine during the Siege) they are almost starved, their Skin is withered, and hard, and even sticketh to their Bones.

9 They that be slain with the sword, are better than they that are slain with hunger q: for these † pine away, stricken through for want of the fruits of the † Heb. flow out. field r.

q During the Siege many were killed by the Enemies sword: many more perished by Famine, the Prophet saith the condition of those who perished by the Sword was much better than the condition of those who perished by Famine, because they had a quicker Death, and were sooner dispatched and put out of their pain, whereas r they who perished by Hunger, dyed a miserable lingring Death, gradually pining away, because they wanted Corn and Herbs, the Fruits of the Field, to uphold their Souls in Life.

10 * The hands of the pitiful women have sodden * Chap. their own children, they were their meat in the de- 2. 20. struction of the daughter of my people s.

s This was according to what God had threatned in case of disobedience, Deut. 28. 57. and a thing which hath often happened in Sieges, 2 Kings 6. 29. such things did happen in the last destruction of Jerusalem, as we read in Josephus, and though we read of no such thing happening in the Siege of it by Nebuchadnezzar, yet that there were some such sad instances appears from this Text.

11 The LORD hath accomplished his fury, he hath poured out his fierce anger, and hath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof t.

t An unusual fire, which burns up not only the roof, and superstructure but the foundations, leaving no bottom for hope of being restored. See Deut. 32. 22.

12 The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed, that the adversary and the enemy should have entred into the gates of Jerusalem u.

u Jerusalem was so naturally and artificially fortified, and so favoured by God, and taken notice of as a place which the Lord cared for, and watched over, that it could not have entred into the thoughts of any of those that were Enemies to it, that they should ever have been able to make themselves Masters of it.

13 ¶ For the sins of her prophets, and the iniquities of her priests, that have shed the blood of the just in the midst of her w.

w Not for their sins alone who were the false Prophets, and Baal's Priests, but for their sins in an eminent degree, they were the Ringleaders, either incouraging the People to the wickednesses they committed, or not restraining them, and denouncing the Wrath of God against them. So though they were the corrupt Magistrates that had shed the innocent Blood, yet the Priests and Prophets became guilty of it, either incouraging the Magistrates to it, or soothing them up in their bloody courses, or by burning the Children that were burnt in the Valley of Hinnom. The Ecclesiastical Men were a great cause of the first and last destruction of Jerusalem, and so they are of most other places that come to ruine through their neglect of their Duty, or incouraging others in their wicked courses. which both sheweth us how great a Blessing to a People, a godly, conscientious Ministry is: And how great a Plague and Curse a Ministry is which is otherwise. See Jer. 5. 31. and 23. 11.

14 They have wandred as blind men in the streets, they have polluted themselves with blood, ‖ so that men could not touch their garments x.

x A variety of Interpreters hath made this Text much more difficult than it is. Certainly nothing can appear more reasonable than to interpret the Pronoun in the front of the Verse relatively, and to fetch the antecedent from the former Verse. They, that is, the Prophets and the Priests wandred up and down the Streets like blind Men, being (spiritually blind, polluting themselves with blood, either the blood of the Children which they slew, or the just men mentioned, Ver. 13. the slaughter of whom they either incouraged, or at least did not discourage; so as one could not touch a Prophet or a Priest, but he must be legally polluted, and there were so many of them, that Men could not walk in the Streets, but he must touch some of them. Some thinking the Discourse of the Priests done with, interpret They of the blind Men in the City who could not walk up and down the Streets without touching the Bodies of some that were slain. Others interpret the words of the common People: Who during the Siege, could no more avoid touching Bodies slain and so polluting themselves with blood, then blind men could, so as they abhorred to touch their own Garments. The first sense to me seemeth most natural and easie.

‖ Or, ye polluted. 15 They cried unto them, Depart ye ‖, it is unclean, depart, depart, touch not when they fled away and wandred y: they said amongst the heathen, They shall no more sojourn there.

y The various application of the Pronoun They by Interpreters makes them as much divided in the sense of this as of the former Verse. Either the Jews that made Conscience of keeping to the Law against touching dead Bodies, cried to the other Jews to leave the City as themselves did, the City being now so full of dead Bodies that they could not stay in it without polluting themselves. Or the Priests called to them to that purpose. Or their Enemies spake in that Language to them. z For their Enemies had resolved they should not stay in Jerusalem.

‖ Or, face. 16 The ‖ anger of the LORD hath divided them, he will no more regard them a: they respected not the persons of the priests, they favoured not the elders b.

a These words seem to be the Language of their Enemies triumphing over them, as discerning that their God was provoked against them, and would have no more regard or respect unto them; and that b they had misused his Prophets which agreeth with 2 Chron. 36. 16. But others rather think these latter words (if not the former also) are the Prophets words expressive of the cause of their miseries, viz. The Lords anger who had divided them, &c. and the effect of it. Their enemies having no regard to the most grave and venerable persons amongst them.

* Isa. 30. 6, 7. Ezek. 29. 16. 17 As for us, * our eyes as yet failed for our vain help: in our watching, we have watched for a nation that could not save us c.

c That is, in expectation of the Egyptians, whom they waited for to raise the siege, It was a long time before they came, and when they did come they could do them no service at all, Jer. 37. 5, 7, 8.

* 2 Kings 25. 4, 5. 18 * They hunt our steps that we cannot go in our streets: our end is near, our days are fulfilled, for our end is come d.

d The Chaldeans imployed in the siege are so close upon us, that we cannot stir a foot about our businesses, nor look out at our Doors, nor walk safely in the Streets; we are ruined, there is an end of our Civil state; our period is come, and the time of our prosperity is elapsed.

* Deut. 28. 49. 19 Our persecutors are * swifter than the eagles of the heaven, they pursued us upon the mountains, they laid wait for us in the wilderness e.

e Our Enemies who pursued us to destroy us were very swift in their pursuit of us, (as swift as an Eagle, was a proverbial Expression) we could no where be safe, if we sought refuge in the Mountains they followed us thither, if we fled from them into the Wilderness, they laid wait for us there.

20 The breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the LORD * was taken in their pits f, of whom we said, Under his shadow we shall live amongst the heathen g.

* Jer. 52. 8.

f That he calls some Prince here the breath of their nostrils, that is their Life, Gen. 2. 7. is out of doubt, and though some of the Jews would have it understood of Josiah, yet who so considereth that he was not taken but slain, and that not by the Chaldeans but by the Egyptians 23 years before the City was taken, will see reason to conclude that he meaneth Zedekiah, who though a bad man yet was a King, and of David's line, and afforded some protection to the Jews. g We promised our selves that though the Land of Judah was encompassed with Pagan Nations, yet through Zedekiah's valour and good conduct in Government we should live comfortably, he being a covering and refreshing to us, but faith the Prophet, he also is fallen into Enemies hands.

21 Rejoyce and be glad, O daughter of Edom, that dwellest in the land of Uz h, * the cup also shall pass through unto thee i: thou shalt be drunken and shalt make thy self naked k.

* Jer. 25. 15, 16, 21.

h The Edomites were descended from Esau the Elder Brother of Jacob, and dwelled in a part of Arabia, that obtained the Name of Uz, probably from Uz the Son of Dishan, who descended from Seir, Gen. 36. 20, 28. they out of their old hatred to the Jews rejoyced at their ruine, as we learn from the Prophecy of Obadiah, who upon this account was sent to Prophesie against them, the Prophet here ironically saith, Rejoyce in the same sense as Eccles. 11. 9. Solomon bids the young Man rejoyce, but their joy should be but for a little time. i For God was dealing out the Cup of his Fury to more than the Jewish Nation, and amongst others to the Edomites. k And they should be filled, and intoxicated with it, and make themselves naked as drunken Men sometimes do in their Debauches.

22 ¶ * ‖ The punishment of thine iniquity is accomplished, O daughter of Zion k, he will no more ‖ carry thee into captivity l: he will visit thine iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he will discover thy sins g.

* Isa. 40. 2. ‖ Or, thine iniquity. ‖ Or, carry thee captive for thy sins.

k O Judea thy punishment is past, but the punishment of Edom is yet to come. The Jews were to abide many Years in Captivity, but they were now suffering their last punishment from the Chaldeans, they were only for some Years to continue in that state of Captives. l After thy term of Captivity shall be expired, thou shalt not for thy old sins suffer any more punishment; not that their present Captivity should be all their punishment in case they went on in sinful courses, (as they did in rejecting Christ, and causing him to be Crucified) for those new wickednesses after many Years they were destroyed by the Romans. But the Prophet hints, that there should at present, or for their past sins no more wrath be poured out upon them, nor would God ever detain them in this Captivity. g But for the Edomites, their punishment was yet wholly to come, God was yet beginning to punish them, and would do it, discovering their sins. As the pardon of sin is in Scripture set out under the notion of covering it, Psal. 32. 1. so the punishment of sin may be expressed by discovering it, Job 20. 27. But the learned Author of the English Annotations, conceiveth the Hebrew may be better read, He will discover thee for thy sins, because of the Particle To set before thy sins (though our Translation taketh no notice of it). He will discover upon thy sins, and so it answereth, Jer. 49. 10. (as he conceiveth) I have made Esaus haste, I have uncovered his secret places, and he shall not be able to hide himself.

CHAP. V.

An Humble Prayer, presenting to the Lord their great Misery 1,——15. Confessing their Sins, 16,——18. Imploring Deliverance, 19,——22.

1 REmember, O LORD, what is come upon us: consider and behold our reproach a.

a It hath been before observed, that it is very frequent in Scripture to express those acts which are reasonably consequent to the exercise of our exterior or interior senses, by terms which signifie the exercise of those senses. That which the Prophet here prayeth for is God's freeing the Jews from those Calamities which oppressed them, this he prayeth for under the notion of God's remembring them, and beholding their reproach.

2 Our inheritance is turned to strangers, our houses to aliens b.

b What our Fathers inherited as given them by thee, and we as left to us by them, is come into the hands of the Chaldeans.

3 We are orphans and fatherless, c our mothers are as widows d.

c We are all of us without a King (who is the common Father of the Countrey) we are deprived of thy fatherly care and protection, many young Children amongst us are left without an earthly Parent. d Either our great Cities are like Widows wanting Magistrates. Or, our Women that were Married are left Widows.

4 We have drunken our water for money, our wood † is sold to us e.

e This seemeth to refer to the State of the Jews in Babylon, where it is probable their Adversaries made them buy both Water for drink and and Wood, which in the Land of Canaan they had plentifully still without any further charge to them, than fetching the one, and cutting down and bringing home the other.

† Heb. on our necks we are persecuted.

5 † Our necks are under perſecution, we labour and have no reſt f.

f As the generality of Priſoners of War, are made Slaves and put to hard and inceſſant labour, ſo in probability the moſt of the Jews were at firſt at leaſt.

6 We have given the hand to the Egyptians, and to the Aſſyrians, to be ſatisfied with bread g.

g The ten Tribes were all carried Captives into Aſſyria, many of the Kingdom of Judah, as we have heard, fled into Egypt after the taking of Jeruſalem. Giving the hand may either ſignifie working with their hands, and labouring for them: Or, yielding up themſelves to their power, or lifting up the hands as ſupplicants to them, or ſtriking hands and making Covenants with them, or lending them their hands to help them, and all to get any thing to live upon.

* Jer. 31. 29.

7 * Our fathers have ſinned and are not, and we have born their iniquities h.

h We muſt not underſtand this in the ſame ſenſe as Ezek. 18.2. where God reflecteth upon them for uſing a Proverb to this ſenſe. It is the Prophet who here ſpeaketh, and in the Name of the Godly Jews who would not excuſe themſelves, as if they ſuffered meerly for their forefathers ſins. But the Prophet confeſſeth and bewaileth that God had puniſhed their Iniquities and the Iniquities of their forefathers together, and it was better with their forefathers who had ſinned, and were dead and gone, than with them upon whom the puniſhment of their iniquity did abide, and was like to do a long time.

8 Servants have ruled over us i: there is none that doth deliver us out of their hands k.

i Either thoſe who ſometimes were our Servants, tributary to us, or the Poſterity of Cham, condemned of old to be Servants to their forefather Sem, Gen. 9. 26. Or the Servants of thoſe Maſters whom we ſerve in Babylon. k And none will help us and give us more liberty.

9 We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, becauſe of the ſword of the wilderneſs l.

l The Enemies lay incamped in all the Plains, ſo as they could ſtir out no way but the Sword of the Chaldeans was upon them, and what Victuals they gat they adventured their Lives for, during the time of the Siege.

* Job 30. 30. Pſal. 119. 83. ‖ Or, Terrors or ſtorms.

10 Our * ſkin was black like an oven, becauſe of the ‖ terrible famine m.

m The want of bread cauſed leanneſs, and paleneſs, and ill colours in their Faces.

11 They raviſhed the women in Zion, and the maids in the cities of Judah n.

n Uſual Outrages of barbarous Soldiers. The Heb. is, They humbled, a modeſt term to expreſs thoſe actions by.

* Iſa. 47. 6.

12 Princes are hanged up by their hand o: * the faces of elders were not honoured.

o Moſt probably by the Enemies hands, though ſome would have it by their hands intimating a more ſharp and lingring Death. Hanging was an ancient way in the Eaſtern Countries of putting Malefactors to death, Gen. 40. 19.

13 They took the young men to grind, and the children fell under the wood p.

p Their baſe ſervile condition is expreſſed by the labour they were put to, which was either grinding in the Mill (an ordinary employment of Slaves in thoſe Countries) or carrying Mill-ſtones, and the younger Children, in carrying great Burdens of Wood under which they fell, as being not able to ſtand under the Burdens laid upon them.

14 The elders have ceaſed from the gate, the young men from their muſick q.

q Our grave Men were wont to ſit and execute judgment in the Gates, but now there is no ſuch thing. Our young Men were wont to play on Muſick, and to have their merry Meetings, but they are alſo ceaſed.

15 The joy of our heart is ceaſed, our dance is turned into mourning r.

r Either our Rejoycing at our ſolemn Feſtivals, and Dancings there, which were uſual as appeareth from many Scriptures. Or all our Joy and Dancings as well at other times as in our Solemn Feſtivals.

† Heb. the crown of our head is fallen.

16 † The crown is fallen from our head a: wo unto us that we have ſinned b.

a Or, the crown of our head is fallen, by which is not only to be underſtood the ceſſation of their Kingdom, but all their Honour, Splendor and Dignity. (Crown being taken in a Metaphorical Notion.) b We muſt thank our ſelves for all this, this wo is come upon us becauſe of our ſins.

* Pſal. 6. 7.

17 For this our heart is faint, for * theſe things our eyes are dim c.

c Either for our ſins theſe Miſeries are befallen us: or for theſe Miſeries our Spirits fail us, and we are almoſt blinded with weeping.

18 Becauſe of the mountain of Zion which is deſolate, the foxes walk upon it d.

d Foxes and other wild Beaſts, which fly from places inhabited for fear of Men inhabiting, and are much in deſolate places. The Mountain of Zion, where the Temple once ſtood, and People met to worſhip God, was now a deſolate unfrequented place, ſo as wild Beaſts ran up and down there.

* Pſal. 9. 7. and 10. 16. and 29. 10. and 102. 12, 27. and 145. 13. Hab. 1. 12.

19 Thou, O LORD, * remaineſt for ever: thy throne from generation to generation e.

e That is, Lord though for our ſins thou ſuffereſt theſe things to be done unto us, and our Throne be through thy righteous Providence thrown down, and thy Throne in thy Sanctuary amongſt us be thrown down; yet thou art ſtill the ſame God, thy power is not diminiſhed, nor thy goodneſs abated. Thou rulеſt the World, and ſhalt rule it for ever and for ever.

† Heb. for length of days.

20 Wherefore doeſt thou forget us for ever, and forſake us † ſo long time f?

f Wherefore doeſt thou in the Diſpenſations of thy Providence, carry thy ſelf as if thou hadſt forgotten us, and forſaken us, and that for a long time.

* Pſal. 80. 3. 7. 19.

21 * Turn thou us unto thee, O LORD, and we ſhall be turned g: renew our days as of old h.

g See the like expreſſion Jer. 31. 18. Turn thou us unto thee by giving us Repentance, and then our condition will be altered, or receive us into thy favour, and then it ſhall be well with us. h Reſtore us to our former eſtate, that it may be with us as it hath formerly been.

‖ Or, For wilt thou utterly reject us.

22 ‖ But thou haſt utterly rejected us; thou art very wroth againſt us i.

i Our Tranſlators have here ſo rendered the Particle כי that the words ſeem to expreſs ſome diffidence in the Prophet of God's Mercy in reſtoring the People to their former ſtate, (any expreſſion of which nature we find ſtiling from the moſt eminent Servants of God in the hour of great Temptation: But whether ſuch a ſenſe is not neceſſary, it is hard to put it upon a Text, Some therefore expound כי in the place by But &c. Others tranſlate them, although thou haſt, &c. Mr. Calvin prefereth the Tranſlation of them by Niſi, unleſs thou haſt utterly rejected us, and thinks that by this expreſſion the Prophet confirmeth himſelf againſt Temptations of diffidence, becauſe it was impoſſible God ſhould utterly caſt off his People, Rom. 11. 2. Others read it Interrogatively, Haſt thou utterly rejected us? Which doth not ſuppoſe that the Prophet believed he had, though his preſent Providence ſhewed him very angry with them.
